Maj. Anderson, in command of Fort Sumpter, was called upon to surrender it by Gen. Beauregard, the confederate commander at Charleston, on April 11, 1861. He declined to accede to the request for surrender, but stated that the garrison would be starved out within a few days if assistance did not arrive. At 4:30 a. m., on April 12 the first shot was fired at Fort Sumpter by Capt. George S. James, of the confederate army, and broke immediately over the fort. At 7:30 a. m. Fort Sumpter responded. On the morning of the 13th the barracks at the fort were set on fire by hot shot from Fort Moultrie. It was this fire which virtually forced the garrison to surrender, which they did on April 13. By the terms of surrender the garrison was allowed to go aboard a United States fleet outside the harbor, after having run up and saluted their flag. The evacuation was completed on April 14, and the flag of the confederacy floated over Fort Sumpter until it was evacuated at the approach of Sherman, April 14, 1865, when the Stars and Stripes were again raised over it.

Answer to last week's puzzle—Right side down, in waves below ship.

The Proved Value of Historical Societies

By DR. J. F. SNYDER,

President of the Illinois State Historical Society.

Many intelligent persons who have given the study of history but little, if any, thought fail to detect in it anything of tangible or practical value. And, estimated by the standard of dollars and cents they are perhaps correct. To that class a State Historical Society appears but a mode of harmless diversion for fossilized scholars, who live in the past, and derive their greatest enjoyment in rummaging among the musty records of forgotten generations. Why, they ask, waste precious time in delving in the lifeless catacombs of departed years, when the stirring, all-important activities of the strenuous present have so many pressing demands upon every moment of our fleeting days?

To them the dead past has buried its dead, and they can discern no material benefit to be derived from their resurrection. But to those who permit their minds to transcend the exactions of necessary daily pursuits, and extend their vision beyond the imperative requirements of the hour, history has a peculiar charm. To them it is not merely a record of past events interspersed with dry statistics and necrological reports. It is much more than that.

It deals with the motives and deeds of men and communities that have been instrumental in shaping and guiding the destinies of states and empires. It investigates the ethical principles and philosophy underlying and governing society. It treats of the origin and structure of political institutions; of the evolution of domestic, economic and industrial arts; of the growth and development of public morals and individual conduct, and of the various other complex forces constituting our civilization. It probes and analyzes the actions and impulses of by-gone man—at once the creature and master of his environments—and traces in his progress and advancement in the past, the achievements of the present and possibilities of the future.

In this view of historical study, the value of state historical societies is at once apparent. As an illustration, consider for a moment the present greatness of the state of Illinois; its proud position as third in rank of all the states of this mighty republic; its millions upon millions of wealth; its vast system of interlacing railways; its grand educational institutions; its marvelous industries, and immense agricultural productions. Can any citizen of intelligence, gifted with the power of thought, contemplate the grandeur and glory of Illinois without experiencing the desire to know something of the causes and forces that produced such results? Can any thinking person be entirely insensible to the fascination of that study which discloses the incentives, the hopes, aspirations and heroic efforts of the early pioneers, who here vanquished the savages and subdued the asperities of nature; who toiled and suffered to reclaim the wilderness and make it fruitful; who developed the hidden wealth of the prairies and hills, and whose persistent, well directed labors wrought from its generous soil the evolution of this great state? To perpetuate the story of those people, and rescue from oblivion their trials and sacrifices when opening this region to the light of civilization; to trace and record the social, political and industrial progress of the state from its first inception; to collect, systematize and preserve that knowledge for future generations, and place at hand for the future historian the most trustworthy material for his work, is the function of the Illinois State Historical society. Can anyone doubt or discredit the value to humanity of that mission?

Gracelessness of the Tactless Sex

By KATHERINE POPE,

Author of "Letters of a Happy Poor Woman," Etc.

NOT so very long ago there appeared in a periodical that numbers many feminines among its readers, an article headed The Mannerless Sex. It piqued the curiosity at least to the extent of finding out which was meant. The writer, a man, made the accusation against women, and there were women not a few that agreed with him. Nevertheless, The Tactless Sex is a phrase (not accusation, for the tactlessness seems inborn) coined in reference to masculines.

From his sturdy babyhood to palsied age, man's woman-folk trembles for what next may fall from his mouth in the way of bluntness and unintended thrust. Sometimes this habit of his is held by him a part of his manly prerogative, humor; and, for that reason, not in favor with her, legendarily lacking in it. No sister, cousin, aunt, or wife herself, or mother, but wonders over and attempts to analyze that which by her is considered a failing: universal, deep-rooted, unreformable. No matter the kindness of heart, the keenness of intellect, the real underlying chivalry, for "the grace of his lips" not many a man is noted.

Lives there a man that can silence the joke in regard to the years of the middle-aged young ladies that cross his path? Does any girl with ruddy locks ever number among her acquaintances a man that has not once alluded to their unusual warmth of hue? Does any lady of undesirable avordupois escape the slings and arrows outrageous man is wont to hurl at unwieldiness? Is there a scrawny sister but has had to force the social grin at pleasantries from men friends in regard to her starved appearance? Is there a secret weakness or defect a frail woman artfully tries to conceal, discussion of which is also artfully avoided by her companions of the same sex, which unthinking man with one fell sentence will not suddenly bring to light, as ruthlessly as unconsciously?

He means no offense, but is lacking in that sixth sense, that wireless telegraphy that was in use by women thousands of years before Marconi was born.

He calls the opposite sex supersensitive, hard to get on with, difficult to understand, and says one is always walking on eggs when in their society. And, thus, like the first man, satisfactorily disposing of the blame, he settles down to unruffled, unassailable content with himself and his brothers, with whom he can jest and guffaw unrebuked.

And yet the blunderers are not thick-skinned themselves, in fact are quite sensitive to imputations, the lifting of an eyebrow, a tone of voice. They expect from their womenkind tactful speech and treatment. One would think, seeing they wear no invulnerable armor, that their words might return to them as boomerangs; but perhaps woman, as when throwing stones, can never equal man in this matter of hurling missiles with ease and sure aim.

Katherine Pope

T. L. BLOOD & CO.'S
READY-MIXED
HOUSE, BARN, FLOOR, CARRIAGE AND WAGON
PAINTS
WILL GIVE YOU SATISFACTION
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.
SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

GOOD SEEDS.

Farmers Are Paying Particular Attention to What They Plant.

We are glad to learn that the farmers of this section are paying especial attention this year to the matter of planting only reliable and tested seeds. A great many of them are sending for the catalogue of Northrup, King & Co., the reliable Minneapolis seedmen, which is sent free to all who send a postal card request. These seeds are sold on their own terms of satisfaction or money back. Northrup, King & Co. are the Northwest, but a catalogue is handy and will give much reliable information. The advertisement in this paper gives the address.

RETAIL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 10:30 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 11:15, a. m.
Outgoing mail for all other places closes at 5:30, p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 10:00 to 11:00 a. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on trains 15 and 19 only on Sundays.
E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

THE LATEST.
Wheeler & Wilson
HAS ADVANTAGES CONTAINED IN NO OTHER SEWING MACHINE.
It combines great speed with light running and silence, sewing three yards of goods with one winding of the bobbin.
It makes a stitch the same on both sides that is elastic and strong and will not pucker the lightest material.
It has a practical set of steel attachments which are interchangeable, and a full set always in stock. "Your goods" and "Its your guide in buying a sewing machine. Should be sustained without first getting the trial. If your dealer does not handle them send for catalogue.
"No. 9"
WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO.
72 and 74 Wabash Ave.
CHICAGO, ILL.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133, I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING.
VISITING ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
P. A. Whitney, H. Hemenway, Wm. Schmelen
N. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. Don't risk fake substitutes. Don't risk fact on each package. Price, 35 cents. Never sold in "bulk." Accept no substitute. Ask your druggist.

THIEF RIVER FALLS.

Miss Myrtle Brown spent several days this week with friends at Red Lake Falls.

Prof. J. A. Wilson was called to Red Lake Falls Friday to appear as a witness.

Frank Krathu was an over Sunday and Monday visitor with friends at Crookston.

Miss Olga Thomson is at Ada this week spending the spring vacation with friends and relatives.

Miss Lillian Mussey is spending the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Todd, at Wylie.

George Humphrey was called to Lower Falls on Monday to appear as a witness at the term of court.

Wayne Richardson came up from Crookston Saturday to remain at home during spring vacation days.

Miss Nell Curran has been at Red Lake Falls this week spending her vacation with friends at that place.

All the Thief River legal lights came up from attending court at Red Lake Falls for an over Sunday stay at home.

P. A. Lee returned Tuesday from Norman county where he went to secure a renter for his farm, lying 8 miles east of Gary.

O. B. Helgeson, of Lansing, Freeborn county, was in the city the first of the week visiting with his brother, A. Helgeson.

Mrs. C. C. Jackson and Misses McGrath and Phillips visited for several days during the past week with Miss Brown at Crookston.

County attorney Grady was in the city Saturday looking after some legal matters which came up in court the fore part of the week.

Chief of Police, Chas. Shirley, has been off duty several days this week owing to his being on the sick list. Frank Cernousek has made an able substitute during his absence.

C. M. Evenson was a business caller at the county seat Saturday, he being defendant in the case of Hitchcock & Keating vs. Evenson, which was decided in favor of the plaintiffs.

M. E. Todd, a former school teacher in this city, was visiting old friends over Saturday night. He returned to his home at Wylie Sunday morning, being driven overland by H. E. Mussey.

Miss Lora Gary has resigned her position as primary teacher in the public school owing to ill health and has gone to her home at Sauk Center. The school board did not know of her decision until Tuesday, and up to the present time no one has been secured to fill the place.

George Lipscomb left Tuesday for St. Hilaire where he will remain during April for the purpose of installing a new engine in the lumber mill at that place. The capacity of the St. Hilaire mill has been cut down. A big engine and two boilers were removed recently and they are being replaced by new machinery.

Good For Children.
The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of cough, croup and la grippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflamation, heals and soothe sore throat and lungs, and by sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. A. L. Richert.

England's Coal Industry.

Compared with England's mining industry, the anthracite business of Pennsylvania is a small affair to have made such a tremendous row. Our anthracite mines produce about fifty million tons a year. Last year England exported to Hamburg alone 1,- 139,000,000 tons of coal.—Philadelphia North American.

Fifty Years an Alderman.

Alderman Manton of Birmingham, England, who is now in his ninety-fourth year, has been a member of the city council for half a century.

The World's Largest Docks.

The Liverpool docks will hold 20,- 000 vessels of ordinary dimensions; those of London about 22,000.

Will Put Life Into Him.

John W. Gates says an auto is just the thing to put new life into a tired man. There is no doubt that a well-fully-guided machine will make many a weary pedestrian do some astonishing leaps to safety.—Denver Republican.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Want Chamberlain in Australia.

Mr. Barton, the premier of the Australian commonwealth, will invite Mr. Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, who is on his way to South Africa on a visit, to extend his tour to Australia.

For liver troubles and constipation There's nothing better in creation
Tipp Little Early Risers, the famous little pills
They always effect a cure and save doctor bills.
Little Early Risers are different from all other pills. They do not weaken the system, but act as a tonic to the tissues by arousing the secretions and restoring the liver to the full performance of its functions naturally. A. L. Richert.

Choked by Peanut Shell.

A Philadelphia baby was choked recently by a peanut shell given to it by its mother to keep it from crying.

Possibly you have not yet recovered from the grip. You have no appetite, you are easily exhausted and feel as though life wasn't worth living. What you need is Cole's Bludbilder. It is the pure, rare, natural health-giving remedy that will cure you, as it has thousands of others. It is a wonderful alterative and nerve-tonic, and is guaranteed to cure. Try it. $1.00 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Japan Takes Influenza Statistics.

Japan is taking a census of all people who have taken influenza since the beginning of the year.

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
COUNTY OF RED LAKE. }
In Probate Court.
Special Term, March 13, 1903.

In the Matter of the Estate of John J. Busse, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of John J. Busse, late, of the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, having been issued to Edward Busse.

It is Ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said County for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is Further Ordered, That the fifteenth day of September, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m., at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in Red Lake Falls, in said County, be and the same is hereby appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

It is Further Ordered, That notice of such hearing be given by publication and mailing as directed in said estate by fourteen preceding days order once in each week for three successive weeks in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed, published and circulated at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., this 13th day of March, 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.
m19-p3

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE conditions contained in a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Magnhild Strong and T. H. Strong, her husband, mortgagors, to E. E. Thompson, mortgagee, which mortgage bears date the 25th day of January, 1900, and was filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, on the 26th day of January, 1900, at 9:00 o'clock, p. m. in Book "R" of mortgages on page 253, and is duly recorded in said office, and which said mortgage was by said deed transferred to the County of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, in Book "R" of mortgages, on page 253, to-wit: East quarter (E½) of Northwest quarter (NE¼) and Lots one (1) and four (4), Section Thirty-one (31), Township One Hundred and Fifty-two (152), Range Forty-three (43) West, containing 153.65-100 acres, and was given to secure the payment of the sum of Five hundred and Fifty Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent, payable annually on the 25th day of December in each year, according to the conditions of one principal note and interest coupon therein mentioned, and by which deed of the said interest falling due on the 25th day of December, 1902, and remaining unpaid, and the whole principal sum of said mortgage that is now due, failure to pay any part of said interest when the same becomes due, the whole of said principal sum and interest thereon accrued shall thereupon become due and payable.

And whereas, there is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice on said principal indebtedness and interest thereon to date hereof the sum of Six Hundred and Thirty-five Dollars and 50-100.

And whereas, because of said default the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative and the said mortgage is subject to foreclosure by sale of the premises described in said mortgage.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in said mortgage and hereinafter described, which said sale will be made by the sheriff of said County of Red Lake, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County, on the 25th day of April, 1903, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said indebtedness, the Attorney's fees of $35.00, and the disbursements allowed by law, and the redemption period by law within one year thereafter, is provided for.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota, February 26th, 1903.

E. E. THOMPSON,
Mortgagee.
TRIPP, GLIDDEN,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Red Lake Falls, Minn
m26-p3

Notice.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT AT the opening of the March, A. D. 1903, General Term of the District Court of the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, to be held at the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls in said County, on the 25th day of March, A. D. 1903, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, I will apply to the Judge of said Court of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and the owner of all the lands and premises hereinafter described, will apply to the said District Court for the vacation and cancellation of the Plat of Lakeview Addition to the Village (now City) of Red Lake Falls, according to the Plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and that said location (is) blocks one, all the blocks in said Lakeview Addition to said Village.

And said application shall also be for the purpose of having all the streets, avenues and alleys, and all parts of all the streets, avenues and alleys, and all parts of all the streets, avenues and alleys running through said Lakeview Addition, including the said streets, avenues and alleys, declared and adjudged to be in the said Fred Bohn, and for such other and further relief as to the Court may seem just and equitable.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota, February 9th, 1903.

FRED BEHN.
F. A. GRADY,
Attorney for Petitioner.
Red Lake Falls, Minn. m12-p3

OUT THEY GO.
MORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has rich black loamy soil; an ideal for stockraising; heavy crops—where corn grows. Good water in wells 10 to 30 feet. Wheat, Coal in Free. Twelve schools six weeks in year. Creameries and barter for cream. Good markets. Low rates. Excursions Growing Settlers to N. D. Minnesota Free Homesteads adjoining. 9,000 people now in county. Healthful climate. Write for names and facts.
W. K. Brown & Co.
Hamden, N. Dak., or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.
Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....
BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:
That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."
That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.
And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.
We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.
Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. We will not ask you to part with your money until you have seen the land.
We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:
3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and well-attended. There will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit as to per cent. A five investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.
We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.
We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.
Sortedahl & Bjorneby,
BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

The Biggest Offer Yet...
Two Weekly Newspapers and a Handsome State Map for $1.50
THE COURIER has secured several hundred Rand-McNally maps of Minnesota, 4x5 feet in size, mounted on wooden rollers, and in every way equal to the regular $3 maps published by this house. On the reverse side is a map of the world and pictures and biographies of all the presidents from Washington to Roosevelt. We are offering for a limited time
ONE of these Maps and a copy of the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch for one year, together with THE COURIER for a year, at the low price of $1.50, cash in advance.....
Old Subscribers Can Take Advantage of this Offer by Paying Up All Arrearages and One Year in Advance.
THIS is the greatest subscription offer ever made to the people of Red Lake county. Remember the map is not a cheap affair, but is printed on the best quality of paper map paper, with cloth edges. They cannot be bought at retail anywhere for less than the published price of $3.
Now is the Time to Subscribe
CALL ON OR ADDRESS
Red Lake County Courier....
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

The house has commended Public Examiner Johnson, and it is wonder the Crookston Times doesn't demand that the entire body be impeached.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is reminded that the tariff is still an issue, and the Western people will expect to here something about it during his tour of the country.

THE Burdick inquest has shown Mr. Pennell to have been a very bad man. If mere fellows of his stripe would shuffle off the mortal coil via the automobile route the world would be better.

THE Pennsylvania blue laws have received another black eye in the decision of a Philadelphia judge that newspapers are a necessity, and are privileged to be issued on Sundays as well as week days.

A WISE man named Bennett who succeeded in getting elected to the legislature from Polk county has just discovered that the primary law is "a newspaper graft." Mr. Bennet is evidently a ward heeler who believes in the old-fashioned method of controlling conventions through the medium of two or three self-constituted local bosses.

WILLIAM E. CURTISS contributes to the "race suicide" question some real figures. Consulting the census statistics, Mr. Curtiss finds that the average number of persons in a family has fallen from 5.6 in 1830 to 4.7 in 1900. The decline has been steady. In 1890 the average number in a family was 5.6; in 1880, 5.3; in 1870, 5.1; in 1850, 5; in 1890, 4.9; in 1900, 4.7.

BRAIN LEAKS.

A soft answer often saves hard knocks.

A white lie soon loses its complexion.

Every home should be quarantined against a gossip.

True charity does not stop to hunt the small change.

Widow's weeds do not always take root in the heart.

The sky is never dark when the heart is full of hope.

Men who sow wild oats discover that the crop never fails.

A man is never able to look up after he has looked in.

Paying the preacher is not all of a church member's duty.

Fine feathers do not make fine birds, but they do make expensive ones.

The man who tries to please everybody does not even succeed in pleasing himself.

Selling nothing for something is no worse than trying to buy something for nothing.—Commoner.

Due Notice is Served.

Due notice is hereby served on the public generally that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the only salve on the market that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has cured thousands of cases of piles that would not yield to any other treatment, and this fact has brought out many worthless counterfeits. Those persons who get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are never disappointed, because it cures. A. L. Reichert.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

Send for free sample.
Scott & Bowne, Chemists, 409 Pearl St., New York
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

THINK INDIANS WOULD GAIN.

Thief River Citizens Give Major Scott Some Pointers.

A Thief River Falls special to last Saturday's St. Paul Dispatch says the Red Lake reservation opening seems to have run up against a snag in the opposition of Maj. Scott, the Indian agent at Walker. At first the news of the major's interference in this matter was received at this place with great indignation, and there is still some disposition to criticise his action in making statements and charges with regard to the land upon very inadequate information. However, people are beginning to see that the objections offered by the Indian agent were the results of a genuine desire to protect the red men under his charge, and that there is no ulterior motive back of his obstructionist behavior. Still it is extremely unfortunate at this time that a person in his official capacity should act so hastily in a matter of such importance.

As a matter of fact, the major has never in his life seen the land in question, and his statements as to its character are proof positive that he has been grossly misinformed as to its nature. The statement that three-quarters of the land is swampy and therefore unsalable, is the height of the ridiculous and could never have been made by a person who is at all familiar with the true situation. W. C. Smiley, county surveyor of Red Lake county, when questioned by a reporter said:

"The Indian agent may be honest enough in his intentions in this matter but he displays a surprising lack of information as to the lands under his control. I have been carefully over this part of the reservation, with a view of locating settlers when it is opened, and I can confidently state that over seventy-five per cent of it is good, high agricultural land, and that nearly all of the remainder is susceptible of drainage at but trifling expense. There can be no doubt but that the Indians will receive more from the auction sale than the million dollars that they agreed to sell the land for last year."

Mayor F. H. Kratha, who has been in Washington lobbying for the opening, said: "I have no doubt but that Maj. Scott, who seems to have the interest of the Indians at heart, will withdraw his objection to the present bill when he becomes better informed as to the situation. It is evident that he has been grossly misinformed as to the character of the land, and I feel surprised that he should have taken such a radical stand without having investigated the fact more thoroughly. The Indians are the only gainers by the present bill as compared with the treaty made last year. In the former agreement, they were to receive $1,000,000; under the present arrangement, they cannot fail to sell the land for twice that amount. Personally, I do not like the bill as well as the previous one, but any objection to it should certainly not come from the Indians or their friends."

Other citizens of this place have expressed themselves in a similar manner and one real estate man who is thoroughly familiar with the reservation and the demand for land in this vicinity has put up $100 with the First State bank, which he wishes to bet that the lands, if opened, will sell for $2,000,000.

There seems little doubt but that the Indians, when they understand the present bill, will be glad to give it their indorsement.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County—ss. Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co. doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that the said firm will pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall Catarrh Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON,
(Seal) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O.

Sold by all druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

LOCAL MARKET REPORT.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company give us the following market quotations for to-day:

No. 1 hard wheat, 65½c;
No. 1 Northern, 64½c;
No. 2 Northern, 62½c;
No. 3 Northern, 59½c;
No. 4 Northern, 56½c;
Flax, 99c;
Oats, 28c;
Patent flour, $2.35;
Second patents, $2.25;
Bran, $14.00;
Shorts, $16.00;
Barley, 30c to 40c.

STREET SCENE IN SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO.

They have sore need of more schools in Porto Rico. On the lovely island, which has recently become part of the United States, it is said that there are 200,000 children of school age. There are schools and teachers for only one-sixth of this number, and the rest will have to grow up in ignorance until the government makes provision for them. The camera of a recent visitor to San Juan tells the story. The street is the only school many of them have, or ever will have. The cut illustrating this discouraging fact is here reproduced from the Spirit of Missions.

METROPOLITAN Opera House

ANDERSON & HEALY, Managers.

A Scrap of Paper

By Senior Class of Red Lake Fall High School

Monday Evening

APRIL 13

S'MORE LOCAL.

Mrs. Joseph Patnode is reported to be very ill.

W. E. Knight returned Saturday from the lumber camps.

M. A. Hatten has sold his flour and feed store to Messrs. Tibbetts & Davidson.

Mrs. St. John, of Wisconsin, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Rufus Poirier.

Mrs. Anna Kohler arrived from Minneapolis yesterday to attend the funeral of her father, August Reichel Sr.

Mr. Watts, of Hennings, Minn., has been in the city this week. He is looking for a location for a blacksmith shop.

Mrs. J. B. O'Brien, of St. Hilaire, and Miss Helen Makenson, of St. Paul, visited at the home of James Brady yesterday.

Holy Week will be celebrated at St. Mary's church by special services. Rev. Father Ansgar will be assisted by several visiting priests.

Mrs. August Reichel sr. and children wish to express their thanks to the many kind friends who tendered aid during their recent bereavement.

Word comes from Crookston that W. S. Lycan has sold a one-half interest in the Hotel Crookston to his brother, Frank Lycan, of Grand Forks. Many changes will be made in the hotel and Frank Lycan will move to Crookston to actively assist in keeping the "Crookston" at the front of hostelries in the Northwest.

Prof. Dolbear's Career.

Prof. A. E. Dolbear of Tufts college has just celebrated his sixty-fifth birthday. For over twenty-eight years he has been a professor at Tufts. He was born in the same house in which Benedict Arnold was born.

Good Advice.

When you don't know what you're talking about, keep still. By wearing a wise look, trimmed with a barking smile, you may be able to bluff along without anybody finding out how little you do know.—Exchange.

Nothing to Gain.

Her Mother—May, why do you treat Jerrold so shabbily, while he treats you so good? May—Why, the dear boy couldn't treat me any better, no matter how I treated him.—Judge.

Pay Labor Representatives.

In England the labor unions provide appropriations for their representatives in the house of commons, the latter members paying their member $2,000 a year and providing a house, while John Burns gets from his union only $1,250.

Wise Legislation.

In Italy a will may not be sunk within 100 yards of a cemetery. In Austria and France double this distance is the law.

Predict Immense Gold Reserve.

Financial students in the treasury predict that there will be $1,000,000,000 in gold in the treasury within the next five years.

Saloons Are Plentiful.

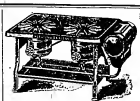
Lynn, Norfolk, England, has one saloon for every hundred inhabitants.

COL. A. O. BRODIE.

Col. Brodie, known throughout the arid west as the "veteran Rough Rider," has recently been appointed governor of Arizona by President Roosevelt. He was graduated from West Point in 1876, and promoted to a second lieutenancy in the same year. He served on the frontier up to 1877, when he resigned from the army. In 1898 he was especially mentioned for gallantry in action with the Apaches. When the first commission was sent out to organize the Arizona troops of the First United States Cavalry, better known as the Rough Riders, he was wounded at Las Guasimas, Cuba, June 24, 1898.

He Meant Well.

"This hell," said a well-meaning sexton when showing his belfry of an interesting village church to a party of visitors, "is only rung in case of a fire, a flood, a visit from the lord bishop of the diocese, or any such calamities."



THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN

Oil Stove,

Refrigerator or Ice Cream Freezer

You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of

Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages

Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils

FRANK E. HUNT

No trouble to show goods. HARDWARE DEALER.

EQUALITY.

Snow most gone.

George Walker left Monday for Grand Forks.

R. H. Green returned from Wabpoton Friday last.

Lewis Sall is laid up with one of "Job's comforters."

A. Rolandson has purchased an Empire cream separator.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. O'Neil were visiting the J. E. Buskirk family Sunday.

The old story and true: no mother who has once used Cole's Carbolsalve will never be without it. She knows from experience that it quickly stops the pain of burns, cuts and sores and effectually heals them without scars, and it is a favorite household remedy with her. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

L. J. O'Niel purchased nineteen head of steers from Mr. Gunderson last Monday.

There never was a remedy for coughs, croup and diseases of the throat and lungs quite equal to Cole's Cough Cure. It not only looks and tastes good, but it promptly relieves it and cures it in a way to stay cured. It is it's guaranteed. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

The auction at J. A. Walker's last Wednesday was well attended. About sixty head of stock were disposed of.

To Cure Constipation

Sick headache and indigestion take Cole's Laxative Liver Pills. Pleasant and sure. Guaranteed satisfactory. Sold by all druggists.

GARNES.

John Larson is still buying cattle.

Carl Sorenson left for Canada last week.

Meadow larks are singing and the joyful spring is coming.

Nels Haakenson returned from the lumber camps Saturday.

P. H. Green passed through here Friday on his way home from a trip to Wahpeton.

Open the door, let in the air,
The weeds are out the flowers are in,
Joy is abroad in the world for me,
Since taking Rocky Mountain Tea.
A. L. Reichert.

Remi and Adelard Ether sold their farm a few days ago for $2,800. The boys will go to Canada.

Now's the time to take Rocky Mountain Tea; it drives out the microbes of winter; it builds up the stomach, kidneys and liver. A wonderful spring tonic that makes sick people well. A. L. Reichert.

H. C. Manders returned home from Red Lake Falls Saturday evening, and the feed mill has been running full blast ever since.

For a clear skin, clear all the way through, transparent enough to let sunshine—rose cheeks show through—take Rocky Mountain Tea. This month, springtime. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Just Dividends.

Probably it isn't true that Pierpont Morgan wants the earth. It may be that he only craves the fullness thereof.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FREE FARM

OF 160 ACRES IN THE FAMOUS SASKATCHEWAN VALLEY OF WESTERN CANADA.

To the Renter, the Farmers' Sons, the Poor Man, this is a chance of a life time to secure a GOOD FARM ABSOLUTELY FREE in a country where WHEAT IS KING and crop failures are unknown. . . . . .

Stop Working For Some One Else! BE INDEPENDENT and OWN YOUR OWN FARM

DON'T WAIT! THESE FARMS WILL BE TAKEN UP FAST! WRITE NOW.

We furnish Free Liveries and Experienced Men to show the lands and locate you.

We have a colonization arrangement with the Canadian Government to locate a limited number of settlers on our lands, and as soon as this contract is completed This Offer will be Withdrawn. Remember, you have nothing to pay excepting a homestead fee of $10.00, which is paid to the Government of Canada. You do not pay us a penny.

Reduced Railway Rates any day. Write us for full information, Maps and Descriptive matter.

The Saskatchewan Valley Land Co. Ltd.

305 Jackson St., ST. PAUL, MINN.

Note.—This Company and its proposition has the hearty endorsement of this paper.—Ed.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature, E. W. Grove

Cures Grip in Two Days. on every box. 25c.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete line of Jewelry, Silver-ware, Watches & Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

Miss Nellie Curran came down Thief River Falls Saturday and remained as a guest of the Misses Buse until yesterday.

The Knights of Pythias will have work in the second rank Monday evening. Every member is requested to be present.

Attorneys H. W. Lee and James McIntyre came down from Thief River Falls again Monday to attend to district court matters.

The city schools will have their spring vacation next week, and the small boy looketh forward with much pleasure to the event.

We have just received from New York city a fine assortment of ladies' turnover collars. Very new and dainty styles.—Bangs & Co.

Preparatory service will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Presbyterian church. Communion takes place Sunday morning.

The Surprise Store makes some seasonable clothing announcements in a large advertisement on the first page of today's COURIER.

March proved the old adage of "the lion and the lamb" this year, coming in like the former and Tuesday being decidedly lambiike.

A dancing party was given at the K. of P. hall Saturday evening in honor of Miss Lydia Fletcher, who returned from Devils Lake that day.

Chas. T. Grace was shaking hands with old-time friends here the first of the week. He was on his way to the Twin cities on a business mission.

Attorney Martin O'Brien was over from Crookston on legal business Friday last. He was a guest of his brother, W. P., while in the city.

Miss Myrtle Brown was a guest of Miss Bessie Hunt from Saturday until yesterday. Miss Brown is a teacher in the Thief River Falls schools.

Rooms for rent—I have two good-sized front rooms, suitable for offices, located over Bangs & Co.'s store, for rent. Call on W. A. Riedel for particulars.

Judge Watts this week granted citizenship papers to Olaf M. Ous, Claus Strom, Olaf G. Helvigt, Martin Kolstoe and Ole Kolstoe, all natives of Norway.

Miss K. Ford calls the attention of the ladies to her elegant line of Easter hats and new novelties in spring millinery in her ad. in this issue. Read it now.

John Lavoie, Frank Lemay and Rufus Fortier will leave next Wednesday with their families for North Yakima, Washington, where they will reside in the future.

California Sweet Pea SEEDS FREE

We have just received our supply of Sweet Pea Seeds furnished for free distribution by Rieger, the California Perfumer, manufacturer of that famous perfume

PALO ALTO PINK
The Perfume That Lasts

Now is the time to plant Sweet Peas, so come and get them free, with complete instructions for planting, growth and care.

REICHERT'S DRUG STORE

The Big Store presents a list of new spring goods and prices in their new advertisement in this issue that cannot fail to attract hunters of bargains in their lines.

If you tried to pick up that pocket hook that wouldn't come, yesterday, or if you were fooled in several other ways just remember that there is only one April first in a year.

Wm. Schwalen was a St. Hilaire visitor Monday. Although he is supposed to be a "gentleman of leisure" these days, Bill can't keep idle and is at all times hunting for something to do.

Notice the list of new bargains offered this week at Fortier's. These goods are being sold "way below regular prices and the people should not be slow in availing themselves of this opportunity.

The family of Arthur Perras left last evening on the N. P. for North Yakima, Washington, where they will live in the future. Mr. Perras went to that country several weeks ago to prepare for the family.

The meeting of the Red Lake county Woodmen was held at St. Hilaire yesterday. Ira C. Richardson of Thief River was elected delegate to the state camp, and J. B. O'Brien of St. Hilaire alternate.

Encouraging reports come from Mrs. Robert Raney, who recently underwent a surgical operation at St. Vincent's hospital, Crookston. It is expected that she will be able to return home within a few days.

Bishop Morrison, of Duluth, will hold Episcopal services at the Presbyterian church next Tuesday evening, April 7. Bishop Morrison has a wide reputation as a preacher of ability and power, and doubtless will be accorded a large audience.

Reed Fortier will hold an auction on his farm on section 14, Gentilly, next Tuesday, April 7. A large list of live stock, farm machinery and household furniture is advertised. Mr. Fortier expects to go to Crookston, where he will operate a dray line.

George Hennings arrived home from St. Paul Monday and entered upon his new duties as book-keeper and stenographer at the First State Bank. George has a large circle of friends here who are glad to know that he will again become a resident of his home town.

The creamery was started up yesterday morning for the season's run with M. T. Whitmore, of Montevideo, as manager and buttermaker. The new manager comes well recommended as an experienced creamery man and the patrons can be assured of courteous treatment.

Mrs. McIntyre left Monday for Minot, N. D., where she will remain for an extended visit. Her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Druecker, accompanied her as far as Grand Forks and returned by way of Crookston Tuesday, where she met her husband on his way home from Milbank, South Dakota.

John C. Marshall, auditor of Pipestone county, was in Red Lake Falls Saturday, having been called as a witness in a district court case. Mr. Marshall is an old friend of Judge Tarnat, the two having been neighbors in Wisconsin twenty years ago. THE COURIER acknowledges a pleasant call.

E. H. Dreveskracht went to Crookston the latter part of last week to meet his wife, who came up from St. Paul, and the couple arrived here Saturday. They have commenced house-keeping in the B. Sivigny house on Third street and THE COURIER takes pleasure in welcoming them to Red Lake Falls circles.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $50 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

Word from Adelard Lemieux to his folks here conveys the pleasing news that the treatment for deafness he is receiving at the hands of a Grand Forks specialist is proving very beneficial, and that he will return the latter part of this or first of next week. The young man's many friends will be delighted to hear that he has found relief from the malady which has bothered him so long.

Olof Joberg arrived Monday from Jackson, this state, with his stock and machinery and will become a happy tiller of the productive Red River Valley soil. Mr. Joberg's family will follow shortly and they will occupy the Poullot farm southeast of the city, having rented the same for the season. Mr. Joberg owns a choice farm in this county but will not occupy it until another season.

A large number of relatives of the family of H. Gonigam arrived here yesterday and today to attend the funeral of Oliver Gonigam, held this afternoon. Those coming were L. E. Gonigam, Mrs. E. O. Mathis, Mrs. T. C. Meihsner and Clayton C. Meihsner, all of Walnut, Ill., J. F. Gonigam, of Ottawa, Ill., and Bert Thompson, of St. Paul, a classmate and warm personal friend of the deceased.

The local postoffice has received a consignment of the new stamped envelopes this week. The new stamp is strictly different than the old issue, and is much prettier. Instead of being round like the old ones the new stamp is square, and contains the picture of George Washington with the date of his birth and death underneath. The new stamp is pretty and will no doubt meet with general favor.

Anyone who has been pessimistic enough to contend that Red Lake county wasn't in the banana belt could have seen evidence to disprove this contention if they had stepped into Healy's land office Monday. Mr. Healy had a branch of a tree that day that was partly leafed out, and the leaves were quite large and well formed, proving that gentle spring-time gets here as soon as it does at any point in the state.

A party of four Red Lake Falls young men left on Monday evening's Northern Pacific for an absence of a year in the great West. The party consisted of David Laurent, Rudolph Ducharme, Wm. Demarais and Dosithe Robillard and their objective point was Darlington, Washington. In heeding the oft repeated advice of Horace Greeley, these young men will have the best wishes of our people for a successful career.

Messrs. Leo Knott and Louis Fernbek arrived from Lamberton Monday and have spent the week with their cousin, Wm. Schwalen. The gentlemen are looking over this section of the country thoroughly and will undoubtedly invest in some Red Lake county dirt. They say that a large number of prominent farmers of their section of the state have heard of the bank of Red Lake county and that a large number of them will come up this spring.

Easter day this year will be neither very late nor very early—April 12. The earliest date on which Easter can possibly fall is March 22, but this has not occurred since 1818 and will not occur again until the year 2000 has been left well behind. The latest date for Easter is April 25. This was the date in 1886, and will be again in 1943. April 12 is quite a favorable date for Easter. Besides occurring in 1903, it will also occur in 1908, 1914 and 1925—four times in one century. Good Friday falls on April 10 and Whit Sunday on May 31.

Tired Out

"I was very poorly and could hardly get about the house. I was tired out all the time. Then I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it only took two bottles to make me feel perfectly well."—Mrs. N. S. Swinney, Princeton, Mo.

Tired when you go to bed, tired when you get up, tired all the time. Why? Your blood is impure, that's the reason. You are living on the border line of nerve exhaustion. Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and be quickly cured. All druggists.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows it is without a peer. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied.

J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

Overflowing

Our store is overflowing with new goods coming in daily, and prices are being brought down so that we are prepared to give you better values than ever before : : : : : : : :

Lace Curtains

Just arrived, a large assortment, amongst them are the new Ecrn net, with raised design, worth $6.50, only $4.50

White Bobinet Curtains, raised designs, the swell thing in curtain creations, excellent values for . . . $3.50

Elegant quality White Curtains, 3½ yds. long, cheap at $3.50, our price only $2.50

Good Lace Curtains, worth $1.75, our price $1.25

Something new in Lace Bed Spreads with pillow shams, worth $3.00 per set, our price only $2.00

Ladies' Skirts

Ladies' Black Covert Broadcloth, fancy stitching on seams and flounce, special values at $5.50

Oxford Grey Skirts, with fancy stitching around bottom, $3.50 values for only $2.50

Summer Dress Goods

Summer Dress Goods in white, colors, plain, figured, striped or polka dots. Don't fail to see them. We have them for only about 10c

Muslins

Large line of bleached and unbleached Muslins. These were bought before the raise in cotton, so we are able to sell them at the old prices.

Men's Hats

The renowned "Lanpher" Hat in all the new styles.

The "Winner" in all the latest styles.

Notions

New assortment of Belts, Belt Buckles and Brooches.

Shoes

The guaranteed water-proof "Driver" Shoe comes in three styles. The best shoe in the market, made of best quality stock, worth $6.50, only $5.00

Men's heavy Working Shoes, all styles and quality, for and above $1.50

Rubbers

The "Defender," a new overshoe for men, women and children, with roll-edge soles, caped toes and spring heels; will out-wear two pair of common rubbers.

Hose

Children's heavy rubber hose, with double heel and toe for 25, 15 and 12½ cents 10c

Ladies' good hose in black or colors, for 35, 25, 15, 12½ and 10c

Men's hose, black, colored or fancy, ranging from 35c down to 7c

Bed Spreads

Good large-size spread, excellent quality, well worth $1.25, for... $1.00

Genuine Marseilles spread, heavy or light weight, $4, $3.50 and $3.00

Groceries

1 lb. Salmon, worth 12½c, for one week, 10c

Can Baking Powder with egg case, 60c; 2 lb. Olives, large size, only 35c;

1 gal. Pie Plant for 35c;

1 gal. Peaches, 50c;

2 Cromatry Bloaters, 5c;

Old reliable Perry Seeds.

GARCEAU & ZAISER.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Wyer and son left Tuesday afternoon for Excelsior, where they will again make their home. Mr. Wyer will remain at Excelsior for a week or so and will then proceed on a trip to the coast, where he will look over the western country considerably and visit a daughter who resides in Washington. He will be gone a month or two and will return by way of this city. The many friends of the family regret to see them leave Red Lake Falls, but are in hopes that they will return soon to become permanent residents of our city.

The Knights of Pythias entertained Grand Chancellor Robertson at their meeting Thursday evening, and the event was one long to be remembered in local Pythian annals. Mr. Robertson delivered an address that was exemplified the secret work for the benefit of the members. At the conclusion of the regular lodge work luncheon was served and brief addresses were made by some ten or twelve members of the order. The local lodge is in a flourishing condition. Three candidates are now on the way to Knighthood, and several more applications are in sight.

Wiley Tindolph writes from Thief River that he is just back from Minneapolis, where he met his daughter, Miss Mary, who will spend the summer in Red Lake county. Miss Tindolph's home is at Vincennes, Iad., and coming from nearly a thousand miles south of us where woods are beginning to turn green, the change to a land of snow and bobsleds is decidedly noticeable. Mr. Tindolph states also that he had a talk with the officials of the Soo road and was told that the proposed northern extension would surely be built, but they would hardly get around to it this year.

Wilfred Lemieux surprised his many friends by stealing quietly away from town last week and getting married. The bride's name was Miss Amelia Boshard, and the ceremony was performed last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents at Baagor, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Lemieux arrived in Red Lake Falls Monday morning, and in a few weeks will proceed to Minot, N. D., where they expect to remain during the summer and fall.

The couple anticipate returning ultimately to this city to make their permanent home. The many friends of his groom will extend congratulations and wish for the happy pair a long and prosperous life.

In changing the boundaries of the land office districts in this state the Crookston district loses about sixty-five townships in the eastern and southern part of Beltrami county. The new Crookston district will be bound as it is now, with the exception that the new county of Clearwater will be the eastern boundary until the line between townships 156 and 157 is reached, then the boundary will run east to the western boundary of Beltrami county. It will not materially affect the Crookston office. The territory taken from the Crookston district and slices from the St. Cloud and Duluth districts will be formed into one district with the land office at Cass Lake.

Exerle Chatel will hold an auction sale at his farm, 2 miles west of Red Lake Falls, on Thursday, April 9, at one o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the following property will be sold to the highest bidder; 1 three-year-old colt; 2 two-year-old colts; 1 full blood Shorthorn Durham bull, 6 years old; 12 milch cows, four fresh, rest coming soon; 7 milch cows, grade Shorthorn Durham; cream separator, 2 McCormick binder, 4-horse drag, 12-in. Flying Dutchman gang plow, 14-Cornish mower, hay rake; sulphie plow; breaking plow; narrow-tire wagon; wide-tire wagon; express wagon; set workine harness, single harness, pair bob sleds and numerous other articles. The usual terms will be given.

ready FORCE when you are

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:

A. F. TOUPIN, President. THEO. LAPOINTE, Vice-President. J. I. DUFFY, Cashier. T. F. FOLEY, Asst. Cashier. Directors—A. F. TOUPIN, JOS. GERLOT, C. H. BERRY, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LAMBOURAIS.

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL, $50,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

Grip

Brought On Sciatic Rheumatism.

Nervous Prostration Followed.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Gave Back Health.

"I was laid up during the winter of 94-95 with sciatic rheumatism and nervous prostration brought on by a severe attack of La-Grippe. The rheumatic pains were so severe at times that it was impossible for me to turn in bed. I was unable to sleep. I had two of our best physicians in attendance, took all the advertised remedies for troubles of that kind but gained no help whatever until I used Dr. Miles' Nervine. Nervine, the bottles restored me to health much faster than for years; in fact an entirely new man. I can say with a clear conscience that it was Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine that restored me to health. When the pains of sciatica and rheumatism were most severe I secured almost immediate relief by the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I have recommended Dr. Miles' Remedies to many people."—Fred Myers, Redfield, S. D.

"I was troubled with pain in my heart and under the left shoulder; with such heavy oppressed feeling in my chest that I could hardly breathe. Had palpitation so bad and my heart would throb so that it would shake my whole bed. I also had a weak, allgone feeling in the region of my heart. My doctor treated me for liver and stomach trouble but I failed to receive any benefit until a friend recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine. I used both and two bottles of the Anti-Pain Pills. I believe I am completely and permanently cured."—Mrs. J. W. Golding, Goldendale, Wash.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. WANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts, Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

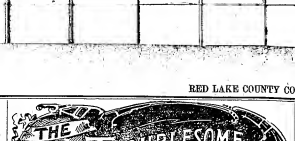
...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE. NO PAY. Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.



"Dear Craig," the letter ended, "I think I am getting senile, for I begin to doubt my best friend. Do you know where Mrs. Minny is, and have you known all the time? I believe positively I know to the contrary) an honorable man. I shall think you a scoundrel if my suspicions should be verified. At least make Mrs. Restaud write to that poor distracted aunt wandering about the world looking for her. It is like uprooting a plant to tear an old woman away from her home."

Oliver wrote a few lines in reply:

"You had better return before parents sets in; you will be kindly feted by here. Sobriety specialty. Am over the man you suggest, I ought to be the penitent one. I assure you I know nothing of Mrs. De Restaud; I have never heard from her; and the fact that I assisted in sending such an irresponsible young person adrift in the world will always be a worriment to me."

So there were many hearts to be lightened by Mrs. Minny's appearance; but of this she had no knowledge. Her lightest moments would have been eclipsed if she could have seen a gaunt old woman overcoming a shuddering horror in some great city and then venturing timidly to see a dead face in the morgue—ah unknown, young and beautiful, dead. Nor would Mrs. Minny have known herself as pictured by the trembling lips of that fast-going old woman—"The dearest, prettiest little thing, and as innocent as a child." Truly no thing pear in this world is to leave behind a trail of broken hearts and long days of worriment and pain. Sad enough in contrast is to be among the missing with no human being left to care, to ask, and to be buried in the potter's field—to have been a bright-eyed baby loved on its mother's breast, hoped for by her fond imagining, dreamed of in the great future, and to be the fulfilment, unclaimed clay.

CHAPTER VI.

When the train in which Dr. John was returning to Denver suddenly stopped at a place where there was only the small brown house of a switchman, the doctor looked out of the window with relief. He thought it very hard that on his first trip across the plains in so many years there should be only stupid people in the car, not a congenial soul to talk with and to compare the present time with the old. Dr. John had crossed the plains in an ox wagon, and he would so have liked to discuss that voyage with some pioneer or newcomer eager to hear about it. He supposed there was an accident: there had been two stops already since that hot box. A little crowd passed the window carrying something—he could not see what, for those standing around. "Dead man his neck, his professional instincts aroused.

A worried-looking woman in the door of the brown house seemed to be desaying the sufferer entrance with animated gestures and angry shakes of her frowzy head. Three white-haired little children hung to her skirts, and she pointed to them in proof of her assertions. Dr. John half rose as the conductor came in the car.

"Is there a doctor here?" the man said, eagerly. "There's a woman very sick; just taken from the day coach. The last call there wouldn't hardly give her shelter."

"What seems to be the matter?" asked Dr. John, briefly.

The conductor hesitated. "Well, sir, she's a young woman, but I think she's married."

The ladies in the car took up their books in disgust. An elderly, portly man in front of Dr. John buried himself behind his newspaper. Dr. John knew him to be a physician.

"I'm a doctor," said Dr. John, gathering up his belongings. "I shall be glad to see what I can do."

"You may be detained over a train," hesitated the official; "and she's evidently poor—hasn't any baggage."

"I am, fortunately, able to attend to the suffering without hoping my pay dangled before my eyes to spur me on," growled Dr. John, passing the lady rens' s with looks of disgust. "Got one of 'em offered even a shawl, and the sick creature I suppose is destitute."

He pushed through the crowd gathered about the house and dispersed them with very vigorous English. A pleasant-faced young man handed him a roll of bills.

"I collected that in our Pullman. We're not all so heartless as you say."

"So that's you, Jimmy Watson," smiled the doctor. "I ask your pardon; before this I thought you were just a dude. I shall tell your mother there is hope for you."

"Thanks," laughed the younger man. "There's twenty-five dollars. I suppose, though, your fees will gobble it all up."

"To the last cent, Jimmy; that's why I got off the car." He shut the door smartly in the face of the crowd, and, finding the switchman's wife in the small hall, said, severely: "I suppose you call yourself a Christian woman, ma'am."

"There hain't no meeting-house in this forsaken country not for forty miles, jest plains," she said, sourly, "and, having a family of my own, I ain't obliged, if my man do work on the railroad, to take into my house strangers with complaints as may be catching."

"Well, this is, I take it," grinned the doctor, "to your ace."

She smiled a little grimly, and took up her youngest child in a motherly sort of way that pleased the keen observer.

"You've got a kind heart; your tongue runs away with you, that's all. And now do your best for the sick woman. I have plenty of money to pay you."

"I—I put her in my bed," said the woman, shyly. "She's a pretty little thing, and is clean out of her head, but she hain't no wedding-ring on."

"Well, she is punished now, poor girl, for her share in the wrong-doing without you and me saying anything."

"All abroad!" sounded outside. As the train rattled away, Dr. John went softly to the little room where the enigmatic woman lay unconscious of his world, so nearly on the threshold of next.

In the chill gray of early dawn Dr. John came out in the kitchen, where Denise Mason, the switchman, sat over the fire; he had been forced to sleep in his chair the long night after a day's work. The hospitality of the poor often means personal deprivation.

"Is she going to live?" asked the man.

"I hope so. The baby is a fine boy."

"Both of 'em look dead, if it's what wife thinks of her is true," sighed the man. "As for the boy, if he must grow up and work as I've done, never gittin' no further, he won't thank you for a savin' of him."

"He may turn out a great man some day; and then," said Dr. John, half to himself—"she is not a common or uneducated woman, the mother—no more is the father for the story of his birth, if he tells it true to his sister Ce—"

"Likely not he won't. There 'sylum children don't amount to much in general. Takes a mighty smart man to come out of the mud."

"Your wife has done nobly by her," said the doctor. "She has the best heart."

"She is kind," muttered the man, "an' she have stood about everything a woman can stan'. I'll git my own breakfast. You tell her to turn in an' sleep with the kids awhile."

The doctor went back to his patient, and Mrs. Mason brought the little (dunnel bundle out by the stove. Later the children were wild about it. Did the train leave the baby? were they going to have it always? and could they see in the windows of the trains, as they passed, lots of baby faces looking? and mother to let 'em take them?

At night Mrs. Mason wolte the doctor, who was taking a nap in the chill dren's bed.

"I think, sir," she said, worriedly, "the little lady is worse out of her head. She's feeling round in the bedclothes for a ring, and calling one pitifully."

"I have been a blind fool!" cried the doctor. "I felt all the time I'd ought to know her." He ran to the sick-room, and, luckily, had some quieting medicines in his case. The sufferer, however, resisted long, as she slept aghast, and one tiny hand felt around nervously, while the other, clinched hard in the sheet, resisted all pressure to open it.

The next morning the white-haired children were very quiet; they played a long way from the house, and toward evening Dr. John kept them by him in the kitchen, telling stories. To this day the youngest one looks in vain for a baby to come by train that shall be his own property, an illusion created by the doctor's stories.

"She's asleep," said Mrs. Mason, coming out, "and here's a little paper I found in her pocket. I couldn't get it before, for, hoop as she's been all day, she watched me if I went near her things."

A shabby little purse, containing only a five-dollar bill and a card—Craig Oliver's, with his office address.

"I didn't need this to tell me," said the doctor. "She is a married woman all right, Mrs. Minny Oliver, who is Minny de Restaud, and her people are well-to-do. How she came here I haven't the faintest idea; she disappeared last fall and her aunt has searched all over the country for her."

In the morning when the doctor went to see his patient he found her conscious, looking with ineffable disdain on the red-faced bundle beside her.

"You're the kind doctor who stayed off the train on account of me," she said, faintly. "You were ever so good; but I'd much rather you had died. She" (with a weak glance at Mrs. Mason) "told me about you."

"Most women would be pleased with that nice little baby."

"Would they?" indifferently. "It has black eyes, and is so ugly. Maybe it has no sense. My dog knew everything."

"I'll tell" scolded the doctor; "that is not pretty talk."

"You act like my old maid aunt."

"Weren't your dog's eyes black, too, Mrs. Minny?"

"How did you find my name?" she cried, piteously. "And you can't call me that; for some one I love dearly had that name for me."

"You said it when out of your head," said Doctor John, calmly. "Now go to sleep."

"But I've got lots of things I must attend to about him," looking at the baby curiously. "You see, having him makes me different. I feel I must do things for him I don't want to tell."

"To-night will do."

"I might die."

"You are not in the slightest danger, nor is the boy and, though you have had your own way a long time—possibly too long—you must mind."

She obediently closed her eyes, and in the late afternoon when Dr. John returned greeted him with a radiant smile.

"I'm quite sure I am going to die," she said, happily, "and you don't know how glad I am. I feel so good and sensible, I know I can't live long. Now I want you to write out legally all about the child and me, how I came here. His name is to be Francis—French for Francis, you know—de Restaud, after his grandfather, who is a general in France. His father's name is Henri de Restaud. My name, which is funny, is Minerva Patten de Restaud, and my old aunt, Hannah Patten in Newcastle, Me., has my marriage certificate and all my other papers. She took them away when she visited me up in the valley of the Troublesome. She was afraid my husband might take them from me and say we were not married if he wanted to go back to his people in Paris. I never wanted to see any of them; one member of the family was enough" (with a ghost of a smile); "but the baby has made me see things differently. The family are very rich, and there is only one heir, Henri's older brother's son. Henri said he was sickly, his mother's family being consumptive. That little baby may grow up a man, and he would hate me because I had not looked after his interests. Of course I would not go back to France; I France that I was here without anybody, and that is why I want you and the Masons to witness a legal paper telling all about it."

"I have half a mind to send to Denver for a lawyer," said Dr. John. "If the baby is to claim all I could ever be disputed—and they might, you know—it would be safer to have everything right. Besides, the French people are great for documentary evidence, certificates of birth and such things."

"I suppose you had better," she sighed, "but I'm no lover of lawyers, that I hate any more people to know. I've had much a long confidential time, I am sorry to have to go back to quarreling."

"Mrs. Minny, before you go to sleep I will tell you something, but you must not ask a question, for you have talked enough. I know all about you. I was Craig Oliver's partner last fall, and I have seen and talked to your Aunt Hannah; so you need not think me a stranger, but an old friend eager to serve you."

She caught his hand with her frail little one and turned her face away without speaking. He sat by her until she slept, and he felt, as Oliver had done, that she was a woman child, not a woman, and doubly dear by that clinging helplessness.

A week had Mrs. Minny been sick at the Switchman's house when Dr. John telegraphed to Oliver to send a lawyer to the station. He also added: "If Hannah Patten is in Denver, send her along." He had telegraphed to Newcastle and found she was not there.

When by special order the train stopped by the switchman's house, Dr. John was on the watch. He went daily to the bank for papers, having established communication with different banks. He had answered so an swer to his message sent the day before, and he surmised that Oliver, with his usual attention to business, had sent a lawyer directly the message was received. But no train was only a night and a part of a day's ride from Denver. To his surprise and pleasure, Oliver himself stepped down from the train, turned and assisted a tall lady to descend, a lady much burdened with parcels and carrying a large basket.

There was no chance to speak until the train had gone; then Miss Patten said, calmly:

"Where is she?"

The doctor pointed to the house. "I must tell her first," he said in a whisper; "she is still very weak, and the surprise might upset her. Where did you come from?"

"Mr. Oliver has traced her, but went on to Denver instid, as' was in Mr. Oliver's office when the telegram come. Him being a lawyer, I persuaded him to come too."

Then she spoke the basket in her hand tilted up and down, and a mysterious whine came out of it. Mrs. Minny, wide awake, was being entertained by the white-headed trio; they were discussing whether they would rather have a baby or a dog to play with: they decided in favor of the latter, for they never had a canine friend, while they were now baby-rich—very rich or so; in fact, the oldest girl had a crewel-work on account of her duties as nurse. In the door of the house appeared a white-headed child, who called out, shrilly:

"Lady wants to know what's squeakin' in your basket here."

"Says she's going to get up and see, if Dr. A-sorta don't cause and tell her," shrieked a second white-head.

Miss Patten opened the basket, and a fluffy mass of disproportional bonnced out, spun around, and made a vicious dash at Miss Patten's ankles, while she stood a statua of patient endurance.

"I'm used to it. Bchates the basket," s'' said, slanking him off. "I can't blame him, for I've fetched him away from Hosting."

"Then she just knows it's her dorg," yelled the third white-head, and the doctor, with various unintelligible explanations, conzed the dog to the house. Lucily Mrs. Mason removed the infant, who, with a will hark, Skye leaped on the bed, kissed his mistress' wan face, and then, with simple joyful little bounds and then, remembering old days, curled himself in a little round heap at her feet, looking at her with affectionate eyes.

"Put the baby down and see if he'll growl," commanded Mrs. Minny.

"You famous things!" said Dr. John.

Mrs. Mason gingerly laid the baby on the bed. Skye sat up, all interest and amazement, then with depressed demeanor shuts to his feet and scuttled over the side of the bed out of the room. Miss Patten merely laughed Dr. Patten herod her.

"It's many long days since I could laugh," she said, grimly.

"She is only a child," said Oliver. He wished he had not come; he should have

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signatures of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of

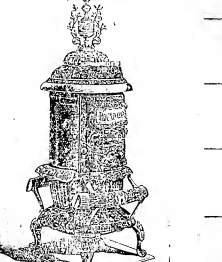
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Round Oak Heating Stoves.....



Have single-piece bottom, malleable iron legs all joints are air tight, burns, wood, hard or soft coal and will last longer than any heating stove made. I also have

Wilson Air-tight Heaters
Penninsular " "
Monitor " "

Radiant Home and Penninsular Hard Coal Base Burners.

All good goods and prices are right. Also a fine line of

Cook Stoves and Steel Ranges

Stove manufacturers have advanced prices 20 per cent. in the past two years. My prices have not changed. If you need a stove I can suit you.

FRANK E. HUNT

GENERAL HARDWARE

Clippings Galore!

20c and 35c per pound

Every package contains scraps of all the best grades of Imported and Domestic Tobaccos, making a more satisfactory smoke than can be found in any brand of smoking tobacco. Call and try a package.

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Props.

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.

RED LAKE FALLS.

WEST-BOUND. No. 135. Mixed. Runs Perfect to Grand Forks.	ARRIVE	DEPART
	5:45 P. M.	7:45 P. M.
EAST-BOUND. No. 136. Mixed. Runs Grand Forks to Perrine....	5:15 P. M.	6:45 P. M.

P. A. MILLER, Agent.

Constipation

Does your head ache? Pain back of your eyes? Bad taste in your mouth? It's your liver! Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation, headache, dyspepsia.

25c. All druggists.

Want your mustaches or beard a beautiful brown or rich black? Use only

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers

Sold by Druggists, or sent by R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N.H.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Capital Stock, $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.

WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

I. I. Wyer. A. E. Hiltz. Theo Garceau.
Chas. H. Bourdon. A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

W. G. BROWN.

Contractor and Builder...

Red Lake Falls. Minnesota

Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

WELL - DIGGING,

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

J. M. BRAY.

FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES.

Slickest Place in Town to Drop in and Get it!

Fine Cigars
Wines and Liquors.

BREVORT RYE. :: K. O. R. WHISKEY

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

WHY?

The reason One Minute Cough Cure relieves a cough in one minute, is because it kills the germ that causes it. It expels from the cough tubes—in the throat or deep-seated in the lungs, destroying the organisms or cough producing plagues.

One Minute Cough Cure not only destroys the disease germs, but heals and builds up the tissues. It is the only remedy that does both. It contains ingredients which protect the throat and lungs. Opens the air passages, prevents pneumonia, heals, soothes. Causes the blood to receive its natural supply of oxygen, which is health and life. Nothing else has such great strength and vigor that the large and beautiful tubes become labarate against the inception of disease. Assembly, La Crosse, Wis. Cold on the Lungs say all Repository druggists that are cautious are going to sell it. 25c. & 50c.

ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE

Prepared by E. O. DEWITT & CO., Chicago.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST NO.	STATIONS	EAST NO.
8:30 P. M.	St. Paul	At 7:00 AM
9:00 P. M.	Minneapolis	At 7:00 AM
6:30 P. M.	Crookston	At 9:15 AM
8:55 AM	Climax	At 3:15 PM
9:35 AM	Shelvin	At 2:30 PM
9:55 AM	Ogema	At 2:00 PM
10:05 AM	Wylie	At 1:45 PM
10:30 AM	St. Hilaire	At 1:25 PM
11:00 AM	RED LAKE FALLS	At 1:00 PM
12:05 PM	Red River Falls	At 12:00 M

O. THOMAS Agent.

W. O. SMILEY,

BUILDER AND DRAUGHTSMAN.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Four years experience as U. S. Hydrological surveyor and draughtsman. Do local supervising with a competent land surveyor in office of U. S. Reclamation Service, Washington. Plans and specifications. Maps and plats.

WANTED—A TRUSTWORTHY GENTLEMAN of fair to handle in each county to manage business for an old established house of solid financial standing. A straight, bona fide weekly cash salary of $18 paid by check each Wednesday direct from headquarters. Money advanced for expenses. Manager, 340 Caxton Bldg., Chicago.

sent his clerk.

"Is Aunt Hannah out there?" asked Minny, softly.

"Yes. She brought the dog."

"Is she very, very angry with me?" piteously. "I did not want to be caught and made to go home. I want to tell her, though, if she worried how sorry I am."

"She can come if you will be quiet and let her do the talking," cautioned Dr. John.

"I'll be good," she answered, eagerly. "You know I do everything you tell me to. What will she think of him?"—with a look of pride at the red-faced bundle. "After that she can never call me frivolous again. Why, she's quite a young thing, in experience beside me. Wasn't she good to bring my dog?"

Aunt Hannah meant to be severe and cold, perhaps to speak her mind a little; she had not forgiven the long, anxious months; but the sight of the girl lying there white and frail, the baby in her arms, softened the stern face, and with a sob she knelt down and gathered both to her breast.

CHAPTER VII.

"Craig," said Dr. John, sitting down on a null-keg, "why did you come here?"

"Because you sent for a lawyer and for Miss Patten. I guessed the mystery with the young lady I had assisted to run away, whose fate has been a good deal of trouble to me ever since. I wanted to help her, if need be. Is she very ill?"

"Getting better fast. It was mad folly to start on a journey sick as she was. I don't blame you, Craig, for that long ride and the ride you ran; she is very winning, this troublesome little lady, and brave too. It is a wonder when a woman can endure, a slight frail creature whose hand you could encircle in your fingers."

"But she had," said Oliver, uneasily, "plenty of money, had she not?"

"She was traveling in the day coach, and has, I think, about five dollars in a shabby little purse. Miss Patten was right when she said we should not see Mrs. Minny until the money you gave her was all gone. Where has she been all these long months? By her finding the dog, Miss Patten probably knows now."

"Yes, and it was as I thought—something entirely original. Rear Boston Mrs. de Restaud got acquainted with an elderly female who ran some sort of a retreat for sad pets, invalid dogs and cats. The idea was so novel Mrs. Minny decided to stop over and see the place. Finding Mrs. Blinn agreeable, and Sykc contented in the society of his kind at the retreat, she remained. She met a sailor from Newcastle in the street one day, and he told her Miss Patten had not been home for a long time. So she decided not to write anyone, but to remain hidden. One day a few weeks ago she came home from the village much upset, and acted oddly; she had either seen some one or read some thing in a newspaper, for the village storkeeper saw her poring over one, looking much upset. Two days later, leaving a note containing board for her dog, she disappeared. This Mrs. Blinn, who seems to be a good sort of a person, worried a great deal, looking for her everywhere, and in her search wrote to the postmaster at Newcastle, for she had heard Mrs. Minny speak of having been there. Through that letter Miss Patten found Skye, and then started for Denver."

"She may have seen De Restaud, or that servant of his," mused the doctor. "Well, now you are here—though I'd much rather a stranger had come—I want you to draw up a paper setting forth the facts in this case in proper legal phraseology."

"I fail to comprehend just what you mean."

"You see," explained the doctor, "the French people are particular about documents; and between the property of De Restaud's father and this child of Mrs. Minny's there is only a feeble child."

"Mrs. Minny's child?" repeated Oliver.

"Why, of course. Perhaps I had not mentioned it. A nice boy—healthier, I think, and bound to outlive his cousin across the sea. The little chap here in that poor place, that switchman's hovel, may be the heir of millions. So he seems to me there is his title to the record of his birth."

"A child, and she here friendless, almost alone." Oliver's face saddened. "Poor little thing!" he muttered, "what a hard world it has been for her!"

"She is sensible about it, too," went on Dr. John. "She wanted me to write for a lawyer and have everything straight."

"Did she suggest sending for me?" asked Oliver, oddly.

The doctor hesitated. "No she has forgotten you, old boy. Women are not particularly grateful. Then it has been a long time since she saw or heard of you. Your vanity may be hurt—but is it not better that she has forgotten?"

"Undoubtedly," Oliver said, coldly. He went toward the house hurriedly. "A freight train passes here in a half hour: I will go on that; so get your papers ready and have the people here sign their statements. Miss Patten should also get that Mrs. Blinn to give an account of Mrs. de Restaud's stay at her house."

Mrs. Mason cleared the kitchen table and brought pens and ink. Oliver wrote swiftly; comparing his notes with the doctor's remembrances and Mrs. Mason's assertions. Finally she and her husband signed their statements, the doctor his, and then Oliver looked at the clock. How hard that writing had been to him no one ever knew. From the closed door came the murmur of voices—one that thrilled every nerve and set his heart fast beating. A feeble cry now and then sounded strangely—the little life that had come to the end of a place and that might mean so much in the future. Outside, the white-headed children ringed in the sunshine. Skye, liberated from his hideous basket, which he always regarded with horror and plaintive whines, collicked with them, glad of his freedom. How infinitely painful to recore those facts before him, and to think of her as he had seen her first, that child woman in her clinging yellow gown petalled like a flower with its wide ruffle, her glorious big hair, her beautiful pathetic eyes! She had gone so far from those days in bitter experience and suffering. Was she changed, grown sad and old, care-worn with thought?—a calculating woman, forced to be for the child's sake? Odd, in his mental picture of her he could find no place for the child. He could not associate her with the little Siçge terrier and that childish manner, but as a woman, a mother, never.

Ill, friendless, homeless, no waif of the streets was ever more desolate than she when she stepped off the train at this barren spot, forced to accept the charity of strangers. Her dead father would have risen from his grave could he have known. His every thought, his sister said, had been for little Minny. Well it is the dead do not know.

"How fortunate you were on that train!" Oliver said, suddenly.

Dr. John started. "Yes" Yes, it was, and that I should have found our little runaway. I own up I looked for her all the time I was away."

The door opened and Miss Patten came softly in.

"She is asleep, poor dear," she said, gently. "I guess my eyes is red. I was upset, and she don't seem to think she has any harm in not letting me know where she was, the was so despirit and scared-like."

"When you return to Boston," said Oliver, "have Mrs. Blinn make a statement of Mrs. de Restaud's stay in her house. I must caution you also to be very careful of the marriage certificate and all other papers you may have concerning your niece."

"You can trust me," said Miss Patten, grimly, "and I'm not saying that that farm of theirs when I was a-visiting there, and I mean Minnie's baby shall have his rights, for he's part Patten, anyway, and would 'a been my brother Sam's grandson. Sorry I'm he ain't alive to see him. Minny says she saw a lasting paper that offered a reward for her whereabouts or any information concerning her, giving her name right out in the paper, and that was what made her go away from Mrs. Blinn's, who was a kind, good woman, if she is in a foolish business; but I don't know why dogs and cats shouldn't be took care of. And folks in Bossing is always running to some new freak. Minny evidently couldn't dare go to that wolf's den on the Troublesome and to be in that many sorrow. I always thought he was right in his mind. Minny oat'lated on account of the baby he'd be more kind, and for the baby's sake she ought to make up with him."

Oliver drummed idly on the window sill. Dr. John walked up and down the room, that had grown so still one could hear the tickigo of the clock.

"WOMEN DON'T GET SO CREDIT FOR BEING INTERESTED IN BABIES."

"Women," said the switchman, slowly, 'don't git no credit for bein' keen and genuine through. Always sount of what they thinks is their dooty. My wife thinks it's hern to live here 'count of me, 'cause she had a good home back east. That little woman in there is lamin' the woman nature' of endurin' for a man but where my wife 'ud live and make comfort outer it, she'd jest lie down an' die a-frettin'."

"You've read her right," said Miss Patten, solemnly. "I'm goin' to take her home with me. She ain't goin' no further west, nor to lose farms in mountain valleys, which was nearly the death of her afore."

Oliver glanced at the clock, then abruptly said good-by. He left no message for Mrs. de Restaud, nor did Miss Patten ask him for one. She was right in her ideas of what was proper, and he respected her for it.

"Pa'kes," she hesitated, "you'd like to see the baby. I could fetch him out without waking him."

"No," Oliver smiled: "a city bachelor, as you called me once, Miss Patten, has no interest in babies. I don't think I should be rather afraid of him."

He and the doctor walked up and down beside the track, waiting for the train. The latter had his big pipe but nint his flowered dressing-gown. His conversation was at the present time invalid pets. Skye had not observed it. Mrs. Minny escorted, for she meant to keep it forever, especially now, as he was such a dear man.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Thoughtful Man

M. M. Austin of Winchester, Ind. knew that to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. He thought of and tried Dr. King's New Life Pills and she got relief at once and was finally cured. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contracts for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Big Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter druggist. Trial bottles free.

Adjusting Glass Globes.

In fitting on globes it is a common error to screw them on to the gas fixture as tightly as possible. This is a great error, for the globe has not room to expand it will surely break when the gas is lighted and the glass becomes hot. Many mysterious breakages are due to too tight screws.

Wedding Gifts in Turkestan.

In Turkestan every wedding engagement begins with the payment of a substantial consideration to the girl's parents. If the girl jilts her lover the engagement gift has to be returned unless the parents have another daughter to give as a substitute.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver Hobbes. She says as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

Comfort Better Than Style.

A man went late a men's furnishing store in Grand Haven recently to buy a shirt, and the clerk inquired if he wanted one with or without a collar. "Give me the kind without a collar," the purchaser said. "The collar hurts my neck when I go to bed."—Grand Rapids Press.

Makes a Clean Sweep.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. Of all the salves you ever heard of, Bucklin's Arnica Salve is the best. It sweeps away and cures burns, sores, bruises, cuts, boils, ulcers, skin eruptions, and piles. It's only 25c and guaranteed to give satisfaction by W. A. Schreiter druggist.

Japan Exporting Chai.

The export of coal is becoming very important in Japan, amounting in value as it did in 1900 to $10,244,715. A large proportion of that has been sent to China, British India, Hongkong and the remainder to other countries in the eastern seas.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.

What it Means

to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.

Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

THE JEWETT

Jewett

Best in the World." It does the work with the least effort on the part of the operator and possesses more practical conveniences than are found on any other type writer. Write for our catalogue. Sent free on application.

JEWETT TYPEWRITER COMPANY,
Home Office and Factory, DES MOINES, IA.
LEWIS & HIGINBOTHAM, Local Agents, RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

Northrup, King & Co.'s Seeds

Your Dealer Probably Sells Them—But It will Help You to Get Our CATALOGUE FOR 1903 FREE
Send for it today on a postal and say you saw it in this paper. Address:
30-36-30-33 MINNEPIN AVENUE, MINNEAPOLIS.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Stearns guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and prices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. H. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN MARAIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls Minn.
Office and residence over Hildreth & Roth ert's drug store.
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month
OFFICE IN ATEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, probate matters, examination of titles.
Offices over Bangs and Co.'s store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. Civil Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants Store Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...

DRAY LINE

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are allowed to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican and independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerman's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper.

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the states of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

Look Around

Get the lowest prices obtainable, then come to us and you will find us 'way up in quality and 'way down in prices. We don't profess to sell goods without a profit but we do claim to give you more for your money than you can get anywhere else. Many years of experience and big purchases enable us to do that.

We Offer Great Values in All Departments

.. CLOTHING ..

The dependable kind; the kind that makes you feel dressed up. Kuppenheimer Suits

$10.00 to $25.00

Easter Suits for boys; a big new line. Well made suits in blue or brown Twills, only $1.50; fine "good enough" suits at $2.25

.. SKIRTS ..

An elegant new line has just been received. Good Melton Skirts, a great bargain..... 1.75

Black and blue Twill Skirt trimmed with satin..... 3

"Snow-flake" golf skirts side pleats; $4 and..... 5.00

MONARCH SHIRTS

Positively the best made today

$1.00 $1.25 $1.50

We guarantee our $1shirt equal to any $1.25 shirt in the city.

SHOES SHOES

We could tell you a long story about our stock if we had the room. Do your pocket-book the justice to look over our line before you buy. Our boys' "Little Giants" will save you money. Try them once and you will buy no other. Our "Goodman" line of ladies', misses' and children's shoes are cheap shoes but they are good shoes. Our $1.50 Goodman Shoe for women is a regular $2.00 value. Other stores would ask that is. A big line of "Easy" shoes for old ladies or others who have tender feet. Our "Odds and Ends" have all been culled out and you can buy them at great bargains.

SHIRT WAISTS

An elegant new line direct from the east.

SPECIAL—A lot of waists from last year, worth from 75c to $1.50. All right for every day Your choice for..... 39c

See our $1.75 waist; regular $2.50 value.

SUITINGS

A big line direct from the manufacturers

SPECIAL—38 in. goods, all wool 5 colors, worth 60c; this week..... 50c

All the latest goods.

SPECIALS THIS WEEK

3 pounds of Stuffed Dates for 50c

Smoked Herring, 18c size for 12c

Gallon of Apples only 25c

Good Salmon, per can 10c

Pumpkin, per can, only 9c

Canned Soups, worth 15c each, 4 cans for 25c

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

House for rent—apply to Francois LaBissoniere.

Fisher has raised the liquor license fee to $750.

Miss Rose Harren visited at Terrebonne over Sunday.

Joe Schusser returned Saturday from the lumber camps.

J. A. Duffy wants 25 or 30 cords of stone. Call at the bank

Ole Christensen went to St. Paul Tuesday on a business mission.

Joseph Sailey and wife visited friends at Thief River over Sunday.

All the latest novelties in tablets and papetries at THE COURIER office.

Miss Daisy Krahn, of Thief River, is visiting friends in the city today.

Bangs & Co. quote another list of attractive Saturday bargains in this paper.

Saturday's Specials at Bangs & Co.'s

Small family Whitefish (salt)	4c
Home Brand Tomatoes finest quality	14c
California Apricots (large can)	17c
Sugar Corn, per can	8c
Hunt's Baking Powder 1lb. can	15c
Baking Soda, 1 lb package	5c
New Oatmeal, (rolled oats)	3½c

To introduce our PRIMROSE PACKAGE TEAS we offer any variety at 1-4 off price; limit to one person, a lbs

ORANGES, ORANGES, ORANGES—See our grocery window Saturday for a great bargain in large Navels

GREEN ONIONS, LETTUCE, RADISHES and CELERY fresh Saturday morning.

Mrs. Fred Borchers is visiting relatives at Grand Forks this week.

Good girl wanted for general housework. Apply to Mrs. Theo. Gareeau.

Alma Robillard returned yesterday from a visit with Grand Forks friends.

M. Beausolilel and wife, of Little Canada, lost a child by diphtherin yesterday.

The year-old boy of Mrs. Mary Patnode died Monday evening of diphtheria.

Come in and see what we are offering you and ask the price.—Tibbetts & Davison.

Mesdames L. F. and A. C. Dougass were here from Thief River Falls Saturday.

J. R. and Remi Fortier made a business trip to Thief River the fore part of the week.

For sale as a bargain—the Robert Ramey residence on Third street. Inquire of W. A. McIntyre.

Get our prices before you buy another thing in the line of flour and feed.—Tibbetts & Davison.

Representative Sibson was up from St. Paul several days of this week on a business mission.

August Brunelle, one of Lake Pleasant's prominent farmers, was a county seat visitor Monday.

Joseph Hayton arrived bome Tuesday from a several months' absence in the woods of Beltrami county.

Miss Anna Cyr returned to her Grand Forks home Monday after a pleasant visit with friends here.

Arthur LaPlante and J. B. Armstrong are at St. Hilaire today talking cigars to the dealers of that city.

Orban Hamry left Tuesday for Duluth, where he has secured work and will remain during the summer.

Fleichmann's compressed yeast is the original and the standard of excellence. We are their sole agents in our city. Always fresh.—Bangs & Co.

The Crookston Press has been sold to John Gleason, who will assume the netive management of the paper.

R. M. Hayes and Albert Odett, prominent Crookston land agents, were doing business in the city Saturday.

F. E. Hunt tells of gasoline stoves, refrigerators and ice cream freezers in his new advertisement in this paper.'

Mrs. Joseph Cyr was called to Hammond, Wis., last Saturday by a message announcing the death of her mother.

Alex. Swenna, one of the rustling real estate men of the upper Falls, was a business caller at the county seat Tuesday.

J. A. Walker, Mrs. Conrad Short and Miss Minnie Short were in from Equality township Monday doing some shopping.

Matt Skala is expected home Saturday from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been taking treatment for rheumatism.

S. M. Sivertson was at Crookston the fore part of the week looking after the construction of the new mill at that place.

Attorneys McIntyre and Mabey and Banker Dobner are down from Thief River Falls today on business before the court.

Miss Mary Erb resumed her work at the Merchants State Bank Tuesday afternoon, after a week's illness with the measles.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sieff is seriously ill with pneumonia and fears for its recovery are entertained.

Thief River News: Bert Jorgenson, of Hatten, N. D., died suddenly in the Great Northern depot here at a little after four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Death was caused by heart disease. The man ran to the depot to catch the train and this exertion is thought to have been the cause of his death. At the time he expired he was seated in one of the chairs at the depot, and no one there noticed that he was suffering any and when discovered he was dead. He was a single man about 35 years of nge, and had but few acquaintances in this city. A brother is the only known relative he has in this country.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The solid geometry class will have a test next Friday.

The Senior class had a meeting after school Wednesday.

The base ball boys are continually grumbling about the weather.

Mrs. King and Miss Fletcher visited the school Tuesday afternoon.

We advise the high school pupils to keep their eyes peeled and watch for Easter bonnets.

Some of the Freshmen had a very agreeable session in algebra between four and six Wednesday.

Report cards were again handed around this week. Nearly all the pupils were satisfied with the showing.

The school boys have written to the surrounding schools with a view of having them join in a field meet to be held here May 16.

It was very evident in the high school room that Wednesday was the first of April. Some of the pupils went so far as to get their lessons in order to fool the teacher.

The chemistry class had some experiments with explosives this week, and times were real exciting in the laboratory, but often the sound of the explosion was drowned by the nervous impulses brought on by it.

The Senior class play, entitled "A Scrap of Paper," will be given Monday evening, April 13. It is a wonderful exhibition of the ability of the class. The play is a comic one and will be more than worth the money.

Next week is vacation and the pupils have not expressed many regrets over the fact. During the week the Senior class will be busy preparing for their play, and will not have much time to enjoy their vacation.

The boys have given up the idea of organizing a basket ball team. The time before the season is entirely too short for them to organize a team that could expect to win games against teams like Crookston and Ada, that have had years of experience in the game.

A Sweet Breath

is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky. writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach grow sweet. A. L. Richert.

makes a chef of a cook (better than flour)

Presto

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale by Advertisement.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE condition of a certain mortgage executed and delivered by Wm. B. Dickey and Ethel Dickey, his wife, mortgagors, to L. O. Haglit, mortgagee, dated the 15th day of May, 1901, and duly recorded on the 3rd day of June, 1901, in book 2 of mortgages in the office of the Register of Deeds of the County of Red Lake, in the State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1902, at 10 o'clock A. M., which said mortgage was duly assigned by said mortgagee to Ole Olson, which assignment is claimed to be due, and in due, at the date of this notice the amount of Seventy-five Dollars, and no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Notice is hereby given, that in virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the village of Red Lake Falls, in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, at public auction, by the Sheriff of said county, on Saturday, the twenty-5th day of May, A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, together with the interest thereon, and costs and expenses of sale, and Fifty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage, and to be sold are the se. qrter of section 6 and situated in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit:

The west one-half (½) of the northeast one-fourth (¼), and the northwest one-fourth (¼) of the northeast one-fourth (¼) of section sixteen (16) in township one hundred and fifty-four (154) range forty-five (45).

Dated March 24, 1903. O. HAGLER, Mortgagee.

ALBERT JOHNSON, Attorney for Mortgagee.

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE, ss.

In Probate Court.

Special Term, March 30, 1903.

In the Matter of the Estate of John Bushea, Deceased.

Letters of administration on the estate of John Bushea, deceased, late of the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, being granted to the undersigned.

It is Ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order for creditors of and holding claims or demands against the said deceased, are required to file the same in this court with proof and vouchers for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is Further Ordered, That the 3rd day of October, 1903, at ten o'clock A. M. a special term of said Probate Court be held at the Probate Office in said County, in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims.

And it is Further Ordered, That notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate, by forthwith publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the Red Lake County Courier, a newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls this 30th day of March A. D. 1903.

By the court, W. HARRANT, Judge of Probate.

(SEAL.)

84-18

Bankrupt Sale

... AT ...

FORTIER'S

WE HAVE PURCHASED the Shagnon stock of Dry Goods and Groceries, invoicing nearly $3,000, and the goods are offered to the people of Red Lake Falls and vicinity at lower prices than first-class merchandise was ever before offered in this section. This stock was purchased at a low figure and we are giving our customers the benefit by making discounts of from 20 to 50 per cent. Now is the time to get bargains. Note a few of our prices:

Dried Fruits..

Peaches, 3 pounds for 25c.

Prunes, per pound, 4c.

As long as they last:

"Swift" laundry soap, 7 bars for 25c.

"Cabinet," "Sioux" and "Cudahy" laundry soap, 9 bars for 25c.

GOOD 15c COFFEE going at	10c
BANNER PACKAGE OATS	25c
FULL CREAM CHEESE per lb	14c
15c grade SALMON only	10c
STANDARD BRAND TOMATOES	9c
HOME COMFORT TOMATOES	12½c
DELAND SODA, 4 packages for	25c
GOLD DUST, 25c package for	15c

For another week we will sell BAKING POWDERS at 20 per cent. discount.

Men's fleece-lined UNDERWEAR, as long at it lasts, per suit 70c

A lot of fancy QUEENSWARE and GLASSWARE at greatly reduced prices.

Come in and investigate our bargains. We can save you money on your purchases. Our spring line of Dry Goods will soon be in.

Fortier

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

A Carload of Horses.....

We will have a car of heavy work horses in

Red Lake Falls APRIL 8th

Direct from Illinois. They will be sold at low prices and on easy terms. Anyone needing horses will do well to wait until this carload arrives.

SIEFF & GREEN, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.

Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

☞ Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy papers in tablets and papetries. Call and look over the line.

Spelts for Sale.

I have a few bushels of seed emer, or spelts, for sale.—M. A. Haumgardner, 14 miles south of town.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 27. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 9, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 235.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY AT THE METROPOLITAN

Senior Class to Present the Comic Drama, "A Scrap of Paper" Monday Evening.

The comic drama, "A Scrap of Paper," will be presented Monday evening, April 13, at the Metropolitan opera house by the senior class of the high school. It is a high-class play, and will be well worth the price of admission. As the proceeds will be used to assist in defraying the expenses of the graduates, the cause is worthy of liberal support. The cast of characters is as follows:

Fresnet Gaspard	Abner Fletcher
Baron de la Glaciere	Fred Rickard
Brisemouche (Landed Proprietor and Naturalist)	Gilbert Westphal
Amable (His ward)	Miss Ethel Hughes
Babiole (Servant)	Jessie Schauer
Francois (Servant)	Ernest Fletcher
Louise de la Glaciere	Miss Della Cooper
Modiste, Suzanne de Kerouille (her friend)	Miss Grace Mercer
Madame Bellefeuille (Sister to Louise)	Miss Carmen
Mademoiselle Xenobie (Sister to Brisemouche)	Marcia Rodgers
Madame Dupont (Housekeeper)	Miss Bessie Rodgers
Pauline (Maid)	Maud Pinkelsen

Girl wanted for general housework. Inquire of Mrs. C. P. Johnson.

For sale at a bargain—the Robert Haney residence on Third street. Inquire of W. A. McIntyre.

PAY $95,910 BACK TAXES.

Auditor Shows How Railroads Were Compelled to Make Good Deficiency.

State Auditor Iversbu, in response to a request from Public Examiner Johnson, has made a statement of the amounts turned into the state treasury by the public examiner's department up to March 23, as back taxes from the railroad companies. This statement officially disproves the figures given out by the railroad and warehouse commission as to the amount of back taxes they have collected.

The state auditor's statement sums up $95,910. This does not include some $23,000 sent in by the Great Northern with the 1902 taxes, which were paid as a result of a long controversy with the public examiner. They were sent direct to the state auditor, and credit given the railroad and warehouse commission for an obvious reason. The detailed statements of collections are as follows:

Chicago, Burlington & Q.	$ 1,456 72
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul	26,350 46
Chicago Great Western	1,299 91
Chicago & Northwestern	13,799 39
Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha	19,345 75
Eastern Railway	112 5
Great Northern	15,501 50
Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie	1,979 11
Minneapolis & St. Louis	3,353 81
Wisconsin & Northern	1,276 15
Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific	402 42
Duluth, Nipigon & Northern	331 6
Northern Pacific, on account of St. Paul & Duluth railway	11,131 82
Wisconsin Central	1,599 13
Total	$95,910 10

City Dads Meet.

The city council met last Thursday evening at the town hall in regular monthly session. Several matters of public import were brought up, the discussing of the electric light franchise being the foremost. The Red Lake Falls Electric Light company's five-year franchise will expire in December and they have petitioned the council for a renewal for a longer period. As the service given the city is considered as good if not better than in the surrounding towns, an ordinance was introduced favorable to the granting of the franchise asked for. The matter will be thoroughly discussed and considered at future meetings, but there is little question but that the ordinance will pass.

The usual grist of bills was disposed of, and the members discussed plans for the cleanliness and healthfulness of the city.

All the latest novelties in tablets and papetries at THE COURIER office.

Come in and see what we are offering you and ask the price.—Tibbetts & Davisca.

THE SOO EXTENSION DECIDEDLY PROBABLE

Will be Pushed to a Connection With the Canadian Pacific at Emerson.

A recent dispatch from New York says that the extension of the Soo line will leave the main line at Glenwood, Minn., and will continue north at Alexandria, crossing the Northern Pacific east of Detroit City, Minn. It will run through the lands of the Red Lake reservation, which embrace some of the best farming lands in the state. The line is decidedly an invader of Northern Securities territory, no matter how strong are official denials of any intention to antagonize Jim Hill. It cuts across Northern Securities' lines and will certainly draw Twin City traffic from the northern Minnesota lines of that system.

It may be stated on authority that the ultimate purpose of the line is a connection with the line of the Canadian Pacific running south from Winnipeg to the Minnesota border at Emerson. It is in the nature of a direct reply to the intention of the Northern Securities company to force the issue in the Manitoba legislature and obtain again the charter rights that the Northern Pacific sacrificed by leasing of its Manitoba lines to that province in the bad year. It will deprive the Northern Securities lines of the hauling of grain in the southern part of Manitoba, hitherto handed over to them at the border of the Canadian Pacific. It is a reply also to the invasion of the Canadian Pacific territory by the Canadian Northern.

Hints are dropped by Soo officials in New York that the road is contemplating several other extensions in the same territory, which are designed with the same purpose. Work will be begun this month and will be pushed through as rapidly as possible.

Indians Form a Trust.

The Omaha and Winnebago Indians of Nebraska have become so familiar with the ways of the white man that they have formed a trust to control the output and prices of Indian relics. They propose to settle the prices that shall be paid for Indian goods, thus increasing the profits and decreasing the hours of labor. One thing there will never be a trust to control, namely good health. Anyone can obtain his or her supply by a regular use of golden grain belt beer. It doesn't cost much, but it adds greatly to the pleasures and comforts of life. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Hicks on April Weather.

Hicks takes rather a pessimistic view of April weather as he thinks it will eventuate. The 7th will witness very warm weather and storms of rain, hail, thunder and wind. About the 11th he says: "Look out for high temperature, low barometer, rain, thunder and hail followed by westerly gales, rising barometer with fitful squalls of snow and sleet northward and a very general and decided change to colder. After a few mornings of chill and frost, over all sections central and northward, change to warmer with falling barometer and more April storms will center about the 13th and 14th." He follows this up with the startling statement that "the transition state of the season through the most part of April brings, as a rule, scattering April showers at almost any time." From about Saturday the 18th to Monday the 27st, very decided storms are scheduled. The month, Mr. Hicks says, will go out warm and pleasant.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO
To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for the Free Homestead land and Free Coal. Low railroad rates. See our agent in your city. Write for facts. Wm. H. Brown & Co., Mandan, N. Dak.

J. A. Duffy wants 25 or 30 cords of stone. Call at the bank

Spelts for Sale.

I have a few bushels of seed emer, or spelts, for sale.—M. A. Baum gardner, 4½ miles south of town.

SHERIFF SAMPSON DYING.

It is announced at 5 o'clock this afternoon that Sheriff Charles Sampson is very low, and that he cannot live more than a few hours. The relatives have been summoned to his bedside.

THIEF RIVER FALLS.

Mrs. C. A. Fuller spent a few days with relatives at Crookston the fore part of the week.

C. L. Deboer left Monday afternoon for a short stay at the home of his parents in Lake City.

Wayne Richardson went back to his studies at Crookston Saturday after a week spent at home.

A. B. Blunt and family left on Monday for Olwein, Iowa, after a few days spent in this city at the home of Mr. Blunt's brother.

Misses Martin and Sharp, two of the teachers from the Lower Falls, were hotel callers in the city Friday while enroute to their respective homes to spend the spring vacation.

M. Bothun and family left Friday for a six weeks' trip to Wadena, Spring Creek, Fergus Falls, Minn. and Reynolds, N. D., before making their home in California where Mr. Bothun has purchased land.

Rev. J. D. Morrisen, D. D., Bishop of Duluth, held services in the M. E. church Monday evening. The small congregation present felt well repaid for attending as a very able sermon was delivered by the Bishop.

Rev. Geo. Hill, who occupied the Presbyterian pulpit both Sunday forenoon and evening, left for his home in Chicago Monday afternoon. No action has been taken as yet in regard to selecting a pastor for the coming year.

Card of Thanks.

We herewith wish to return our heartfelt thanks to the neighbors and friends who so kindly and with loving thoughtfulness assisted us during the illness and death of our son and brother. Henry Gosigun and family.

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in tablets and papetries. Call and look over the line.

HERE'S A CHANCE TO EXERCISE YOUR WITS

The Courier Offers Four Prizes for Correct Answers to a List of Name Puzzles.

Below are given sixteen definition of Red Lake Falls business or professional men and women. For the first correct answer received at this office after 8 a. m. Friday, April 10, THE COURIER will give a 25 map of Minnesota. For the next correct answer a 50-cent papetrie will be given, and for the next two correct answers a 25-cent papetrie will be given. The contest is open only to pupils of Red Lake county public or parochial schools. Answers should be handed in or mailed in sealed envelopes. The time of receipt will be marked on each envelope, and the list of prize winners will be announced in next week's COURIER:

1—One who looks at nothing darkly.
2—A shallow place where water is passed on foot.
3—To cease.
4—A civil officer.
5—A thread of metal.
9—To make a harsh noise.
7—A small score at a bowling alley.
8—To discuss.
9—A kind of swallow.
10—A great pedestrian.
11—A title of rank.
12—Necessary to a pugilist.
13—Used in rainy weather.
14—To burn the surface.
15—Needed in time of trouble.
16—Having a keen edge.

For Sale or Rent.

I offer my property on Main street for sale or rent on favorable terms. The building has 18 rooms and has been used for a hotel and boarding house. Apply at my residence.—H. O. Gjerberg. 4w

Rooms for rent—I have two good-sized front rooms, suitable for offices, located over Bangs & Co.'s store, for rent. Call on W. A. Riechel for particulars.

To Cure Constipation
Sick headache and indigestion take Cole's Laxative Liver Pills. Pleasant and sure. Guaranteed satisfactory. Sold by all druggists.

We are the Leaders
THE SURPRISE
Only Up-to-Date Clothing House in Red Lake County

We Are Showing the Largest Stock of Clothing Ever Shown in this Vicinity

"HIGH ART."

Why? Our growing business demands it. We have concentrated what we believe the world's best productions—made by the famous HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX. Our styles are undoubtedly superior, and our aim is to appeal to you by our saving prices. An immense display of suits of the best, beautiful and most fashionable hand tailored, in single or double breast garments, that are distinct, rich and elegant. They must be seen to be appreciated.

BOYS' CLOTHING
Our Boys' Clothing department is complete. Now is the time to select your EASTER clothes for boys
Base ball and bat or catcher's mitt given free with every boys' suit.

Copyrighted 1902.

WE HAVE THE SOLE AGENCY FOR Hawes
CELEBRATED
$3.00 HATS
ONE QUALITY
ONE PRICE
ONE PROFIT

Gents' Furnishings
Superb showing of Men's Easter Furnishings
Beautiful display of high class furnishings
Easter Neckwear made from imported silks in light, medium and dark colors in all the latest shapes—fore-in-hand, French fold and Ascot Imperial.

Berthon & Armstrong
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

SHOE VALUES AT
Garceau & Zaisers
Special Prices for One Week...

Women's Vici Kid Lace Shoe; modern, shapely good $2 value this week $1.50
Women's Vici Kid Lace shoe; kid or patent leather tip, regular $2.50 value, now ... $2
Men's Satin Calf Lace Shoes, standard screw soles, all solid good $2.50 value $1.75
Men's Vici Kid Lace Shoes, heavy sole and modern shape; good $3.50 value ... $3
Misses' and Children's Vici Kid Lace shoes, spring heel, kid or patent leather tip; regular $2 value ... $1.50
Ask to see our specials for men and women; nothing to compare with them in the city; this week; $3

We Give Trading Coupons .....
GARCEAU & ZAISER

Easter Millinery...
A MAGNIFICENT ARRAY of LADIES', MISSES' and CHILDREN'S HATS in newest Spring styles. Beautiful Veilings, Laces, Chiffons, &c. Prices always lowest.
FIRST DOOR NORTH OF POSTOFFICE
K. FORD

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The world owes every man a living, but some of us are mighty poor collectors.

The cigarette fiend usually gets consolation in the adage that only the good die young.

If all politicians were statesmen there would be less need for discussion of political questions.

The average woman adores tight shoes and tight corsets, but she draws the line at a tight husband.

A good many men need to be reminded that it is better to open a bank account than a jackpot any day.

Truth crushed to earth may rise again, but it often takes up a lot of valuable time in picking the sand out of its eyes.

The St. Peter Herald thinks that the sales of phonographs are noticeably affected by reason of the fact that so many men marry talking machines.

President Roosevelt says that he carefully avoids local references in his speeches. This probably accounts for his failure to say anything about the merger in Minnesota.

There is a peculiarity about politics and office-holding. When the qualifications necessary for a certain place are enumerated every candidate in the field says: "That's me."

"Golden Rule" Jones confesses allegiance to no political party but he "gets there just the same." He has just been elected mayor of Toledo for the fourth time as an independent.

Since his tirade on the newspapers Representative Bennett of Polk county seems to feel considerably like the man who lighted a match to see how much gasoline was left in the barrel.

The Wadena Pioneer-Journal philosopher rises to remark:

"A person who never has an opinion, or having one is afraid to express it, does not amount to very much. Still, such a person manages to keep out of a whole lot of trouble."

Four of the New York comic papers are to be consolidated, and the American Press is mean enough to say that it would take at least four of the average comic papers to make one really funny.

The Rhode Island boss states that the greatest evil of our political system is the failure of hirelings to "stay bought." If the voters are not more careful in "delivering the goods" the grafter will soon be given a mighty poor opinion of the American electorate.

Bob Dunn, of the Princeton Union, has discovered a new breakfast food, but if Bob expects to be elected governor next year he will do well to recall this testimonial:

"The latest breakfast food is made out of old newspapers. They are first shredded, then washed, then steamed, then malted, then rolled and then toasted, and it is pronounced really delicious."

We can all agree with the Duluth News-Tribune that if H. P. Hall is made commissioner of immigration the outside world will soon know something of the advantages of Minnesota:

"By all means let Minnesota take her light from under the bushel, get an immigrant board and appoint as commissioner the best man in America for the place, H. P. Hall. He has effectively labored for the glory and good of the Big Bread and Butter state ever since he settled within its wealth embracing boundaries."

A Yale professor has started out to prove that marriage is a failure, and that nine out of ten marriages result in unhappiness. If his object is to interfere with the sale of marriage licenses he might as well tell his troubles to the policeman, for that industry is too firmly established to be affected by anything any man may say, or by the experience of those who have gone before.

The following by the editorial writer of the St. Paul News is applicable to any city:

"If the origin of the greatest troubles, the most disagreeable episodes, the most deep-seated and long-continued animosities in every town, village or community were traced, it would be found, in perhaps the majority of cases, that light words, idle gossip, harsh wit and satirical speeches were the cause of more unhappiness and more hatred than all other causes put together. If it is considered how great is the injury done by evil speaking, malicious tattling and silly gossip, all but the hopelessly malignant would exercise the greatest care over their speech which relates to the good names of others."

Ralph Wheelock thinks the law would work differently in America:

"The operation of a law to tax bachelors in Argentina, which exempts young men who can furnish proof that they have tried to get married, but have been rejected, has developed a class of young women who are known as professional rejectors, and who help the bachelors out by refusing their offers of marriage, and then furnishing them a certificate of the fact as an offset to the tax levy. That may work all right in South America, but where is the self-respecting young woman, professional or otherwise, in this country who would allow a good offer of marriage to get past her?"

Jed Scarboro, an advertising expert, gives this advice:

The man who has never made mistakes in advertising has never advertised.

When a man's advertising shows that he is thoroughly interested in his business, his business is sure to become interesting to others.

Any man who wants to can tell the truth in advertising, but it takes the skilled advertising man to tell it so it will look enough like truth to sell goods.

When a man makes a statement in advertisement, which he would stamp as false if printed over another man's name, he can feel reasonably sure that his advertisement is overcharged with hot air.

"Gath" is never dull or uninteresting, and he has recently said something with regard to the Burdick case that will meet with general approval:

Stepping over in Western New York I took in the localities of the Burdick murder, which, in our happy country, is the only case found out among 80,000,000 of fools. It presents an easy occasion for everybody to kiss his wife and forgive himself.

Who would have thought Yale college so hysterical as to give Arthur Pennell, the ruiner of his friend's wife, a clean sheet of gratuitous exoneration, and have it developed three days afterward that Pennell started the seduction of Mrs. Burdick upon the Yale college lawn, at a commencement, full of loyalty to his class, full of university elaboration?

Shakespeare, with clairvoyance beyond Moses, creates Hamlet's mother in the same likeness with the unmentionable wife of Peronius Arbiter, who lies down in her dead husband's grave till a soldier is invited in, who so alters matters that they put the dead husband on the crucifix of the malefactor whose body was stolen during the soldier's diversion. This tale has been derided, but we see Hamlet's mother restored in Mrs. Burdick. When Hamlet, the son, says:

Let the canker'd incest
Not burn,
And scarce [illegible] all,

The case of Burdick is a useful one to produce amendment and reflection. We are ready to admit that Burdick was no foe and forgiving; he would have been alive and he proceeded against his wife at the first offense. In the court-martial of men condemnation of a wife's adultery is the greatest of shames. Butterworth, who dentioned Key till Sickles killed him, never spoke to Sickles again after he clandestinely took back his guilty wife.

It Begins to Look as If Canada Were Annexing U. S.

APPEARANCE DECEIVING.

"What's the fare, cabby?"

"Five dollars, sir."

"No, it isn't. Here's a dollar. I'm not a fool as I look."

"No, sir. I wish you were, sir."—Scraps.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

Landlady (severely)—Nora, I found three hairpins in the hash at breakfast. I hope—

Nora—Faith, now, an' who'd ivir drame us lookin' for 'em there! O've been missin' 'em all morale'. Thank you, ma'am, fur lettin' me know.—N. Y. Sun.

Subscribe for THE COURIER

HOW SHE FROZE HIM.

"Hear me, Miss Agnes," pleaded the sighing swain. "I am intoxicated with my love for you. I assure you—"

"How can you be intoxicated," asked Miss Agnes, in calm, doubting tones, "if you haven't got a skate on?"—Chicago Tribune.

A LIBERAL MINISTER.

Elsie—My, how tired I am! How much did mamma put in the plate? Tommy—A quarter. Why?

Elsie—Whew! What a lot the minister gives for a quarter—

Low Fares to Be Tried.

Universal penny fares are to be tried for six months on the Sheffield (Eng. land) municipal electric tramway system.

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE

ARTILLERY IN THE MOUNTAINS OF WEST VIRGINIA.
Find Gen. Rosecrans.

Both the National and Confederate governments were anxious to hold West Virginia. The majority of the people favored the Union cause. The Confederate forces began operations in the state on May 26, 1861, and the Union forces were ordered to oppose them the following day. Gen. McClellan was assigned to the command of the Union forces and continued in command until relieved by Gen. Rosecrans. While no severe battles occurred, the struggle for supremacy in West Virginia continued throughout the greater part of 1861, and was attended by many small encounters, the result of which generally brought rejoicing throughout the north.

Answer to last weeks puzzle—Left side down, on ground near corner in front of building.

The American Stage

By HEINRICH CONRIED,
Director of the Irving Place Theater, New York.

There are actors who go on the stage for the love of art and there are those who act merely to make a living. All of our American actors are not mercenaries, but a large proportion are playing simply because they are not clerks or carpenters or business men. A great enthusiasm, a truly artistic spirit and a high ideal of character are essential in the make up of one who desires to go on the stage.

GREAT PLAYS MAKE GREAT ACTORS! The naturalistic play which is so popular at present is killing true art. It embodies powerful transcripts of certain phases of life—phases which do not cast a holy light over motherhood, but force the whole sex under the shadow of the base and vicious. Not only does the modern naturalistic play lower our ideal of women, not only does it degrade the stage—IT KILLS OUR GREAT ACTORS. The players require the stimulus of noble thought and action to do their very best. From an Ibsen, a Sudermann or a Hauptmann play, I have seen the actors go home depressed and miserable as though their lives had been degraded and cast down in fact instead of before the footlights. Notice these same actors after a fine classical play or an inspiring modern drama. They are different people.

The problems which confront us are many and difficult to solve. This is a land of conventions and congresses. Why not have an actors' congress, to meet in the summer and discuss the things of vital importance to the profession? Another uplifting force would be a national theater. The scheme has received much consideration and has been favorably received, but people are waiting for some millionaire to step down from Heaven and endow it. The theater can be achieved without the millionaire. All that is necessary is the erection of the building. Its maintenance would be assured by subscriptions for seats. The success of one such theater would lead to the establishment of a dozen others throughout the country.

Football an Educator

By CAPT. P. E. PIERCE, U. S. A.,
Chairman Football Committee West Point Military Academy.

From a soldier's standpoint I will say that the game of football is one of the best of educators. The system of playing learns the boys to be quick thinkers and quick to take advantage of an opening. It also shows the weak spots in a man. Put a young fellow in a hard football game and if there is a yellow streak it will soon come to the surface.

I do not think the football game will ever reach perfection until the East and the West come together each year. The season of 1902 is history, yet the supremacy between the East and the West has not been settled.

What a game it would have made had Michigan and Yale but come together. I am from Iowa and have the pride of the West in my veins, but I should like to have seen Yale meet Michigan. We have played Yale for years and we know her strength. I have never seen Michigan play, but I have read all things about her speed and have seen her scores. Had it not been for meeting Wisconsin, Michigan would have gone down into the history of 1902 as the most remarkable team.

Her speed was bewildering up until the time she met Wisconsin and then her speed was checked. Michigan plays perhaps the fastest game known, but would she play it against old Yale? I fear not.

A fast play is a great thing when you work against a weaker team and when you can get away with it, but when against another fast team a fast play once set in motion, but blocked, is most disastrous to the side trying the play.

Municipal Beauty Pays

By FRANKLIN MacVEAGH,
President Chicago Municipal Art League.

Beauty pays. It seems almost cruel to make beauty a monetary consideration. When a great modern city like Chicago ceases to care for art it puts itself out of touch with its sisters and with humanity. New York is generally regarded as lacking in the public spirit so generously displayed in Chicago, yet it is so far beyond us in beauty that it draws to itself the wealth of the states of which Chicago is the entrepot and center.

Not content with that even, New York is drawing from Chicago its leisure class. The wealth of the leisure class goes with it. London is the greatest city on earth to-day because its beauty exacts tribute from all the world. Paris is made wealthy because its beauty is a talisman that attract humanity. It seems almost too harsh to measure beauty's advantages by so low a standard, but as a business proposition beauty pays.

The world expects nothing of beauty from us to-day because we are Chicagoans. Its judgment is too hasty. We know we are better than our streets, but the world wonders if this is true how can we walk without disgust over our nasty pavements and utterly filthy sidewalks. Chicago has a tremendous spiritual life, but because of our streets the world judges us as wholly material.

It is history that cities have held themselves responsible for attractiveness. No great city of ancient or modern times but has recognized the need of an alliance with beauty. Great ancient cities are remembered to-day chiefly for what they have done for art.

Development of Trusts

By BENJAMIN KIDD,
Author of "Principles of Western Civilization," "Social Evolution," Etc.

The trusts of to-day are the revival in industrial life of exactly the same spirit that created absolutism in states. FORMERLY MEN AIMED AT ADMINISTRATIVE ABSOLUTISM, NOW THE TRUST LEADERS' OBJECT IS THE ATTAINMENT OF FINANCIAL ABSOLUTISM.

It is as pernicious in its latter day as in its former aspect, and IT IS AS VITAL TO THE INTERESTS OF HUMANITY AND PROGRESS THAT FINANCIAL ABSOLUTISM SHOULD BE DESTROYED AS IT WAS THAT ABSOLUTISM AMONG RULERS SHOULD BE ABOLISHED.

The whole history of Anglo-Saxon civilization has been the history of a steady, tenacious fight against absolutism in the state, a fight which has been entirely successful. Financial absolutism must be fought, and, in my opinion, THE INFLUENCE THAT WILL FIGHT AND OVERCOME IT WILL BE THAT SAME ANGLO-SAXON CIVILIZATION WHICH HAS CRUSHED ABSOLUTISM IN OTHER FORMS.

T.L.BLOOD & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
DRIES WHILE YOU SLEEP
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL. MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

GOOD SEEDS.

Farmers Are Paying Particular Attention to What They Plant.

We are glad to learn that the farmers of this section are paying especial attention this year to the matter of planting only reliable and tested seeds. A great many of them are sending for the catalogue of Northrup, King & Co., the Minneapolis seedsmen, which is now out for the season, and are carefully investing it. These seeds are sold to the best stores nearly everywhere in the Northwest, but a catalogue is handy and will give much reliable information. The advertisement in this paper gives the address.

REVIVAL AND SPRATURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFICE

Mail arrives daily at 11:30 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Red River Falls closes at 11:35 p. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 6:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 11:00 a. and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 10:00 a. until 1:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train time only between Sundays.
E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNTIED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

THE LATEST
Wheeler & Wilson
HAS ADVANTAGES CONTAINED IN NO OTHER SEWING MACHINE.
It combines great speed with light running and silence, sewing three yards of ground while other machines sew two.
It makes a stitch on heavy goods that is absolutely strong and elastic and produces the highest finish.
It has a positive set of steel stitch-regulating cams, which are not affected by the tension, and which will not get out of order. Don't buy a machine without first getting the
"No. 9"
a trial. If your dealer does not handle them send for catalogue.
WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO.
72 and 74 Wabash Ave.
CHICAGO, ILL.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133, I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING. VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Whiteley, H. Hogencamp, Wm. Schwalen N. G. Sec'y. V. G.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. It never fails. Our trade mark on each package. 35 tablets, 35 cents. Sold in Red Lake Falls by Reichert. Ask your druggist.

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

Thos Poolin th Leon Laurent lost 14-15 blk 10 Champagne & Doe's add to R L F.....8 1060
Jno Gunderson to Andrew P Hagstrom ne qr 25-153-45..... 1200
Frank N Evans to Jos M Walker s hf ne qr and lots 1-2 6-152-45... 3600
Chas J Knox to Kittel Knudson lots 11-12-13 blk 2 orig T R F... 100
Louisa Nickstrom et al to Chris Moe ne qr 25-153-45..... 1
Netherlands-American Land Co to Ida Coe se qr 32-152-45..... 180
Mathew Bischoff to Jno Bischoff sw qr sw qr 23-152-45..... 100
James Meehan to Jno Morgan lots 1-2-3 blk 4 Meehan's ad T R F. 300
U S to Jno Forsberg sw qr 26-153-45 Pat
J K Hannay to Wm H Reker s hf 26-153-45..... 800
Wm Reker to Anna H Reker s hf 26-153-45..... 800
Christ Moe to W D Hannah s hf nw qr and s hf ne qr and nw qr ne qr 10-151-43..... 1700
U S to Gustaf A Fridrikson lots 1-2-3 7-153-41..... Pat
Jno Ljunberg to August F George lot 4 and sw qr qr 3-153-41.. 50
H Feancour to Julia Berg lots 14-15 blk 24 original St. Hilaire... 700
L C Simons to H Christenson se qr 25-152-45..... 3500
H Christenson to W H Reker se qr 25-152-45..... 1000
James J Meehan to Editer and Emil Eberbeach lots 1-2-3-4 blk 1 Meehan's ad T R F..... 450
Jas Meehan to Paul L Hagen lots 5-6-7-8 blk 3 Meehan's ad T R F. 915
Pat Meehan to M M Johnson lot 3 blk 9 P Meehan's ad T R F.... 150
Remi Eibert to L O Saltbarr w hf ne qr and lots 2-3 32-152-41..... 1800

Possibly you have not yet recovered from the grip. You have no appetite, you are easily exhausted and feel as though life wasn't worth living. What you need is Cole's Blutbilter. It is the pure, sure, natural health-giving remedy that will cure you, as it has thousands of others. It is a vegetable alterative and nerve-tonic, and is guaranteed to cure. Try it. $1.00 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

A Freakish Tree.

At Shilfrid, near Matlock, a holiday resort much patronized by the Wesleyans, there is a tree which has the most singular characteristic of growing horizontally over the ledge of a deep hollow. The tree is about ten years old and two years since, as the result of a landslip, it fell into its present position, with the branches upward and downward, and so has grown ever since, flowering and leafing just as if the position were natural.

For liver troubles and constipation Tiltre's nothing better in creation That Little Early Risers, the famous little pills.

They always effect a cure and save doctor bills.

Little Early Risers are different from all other pills. They do not weaken the system, but act as a tonic to the tissues by arousing the secretions and restoring the liver to the full performance of its functions naturally. A. L. Reichert.

Prize Wading.

A novel contest, promoted by followers of the Derion and Somerset staghounds, has been decided at Dulverton. For two money prizes the competitors had to wade the River Barle for nearly three miles. In places they were till hot carried off their feet by the swift current, and in others they had to go through deep water. Despite the many difficulties five finished.—London Tidbits.

Good For Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of cough, croup and in grippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure, life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. A. L. Reichert.

Prepared for Emergencies.

The German war department actually keeps in stock duplicates of all the bridges in the empire considered likely to be damaged or destroyed in case of war; and, what is more, it has duplicates of a good many French bridges and of other countries in which it is interested.

Makes a Clean Sweep.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. Of all the salves you ever heard of, Bucklin's Arnica Salve is the best. It sweep away and cures burns, sores, bruises, cuts, boils, ulcers, skin eruptions, and piles. It's only 25c and guaranteed to give satisfaction by W. A. Schreiter druggist.

Sturdy Australian Child.

The two and a half-year-old son of a resident of Kootinga, South Australia, strayed from his home one evening recently. Next morning he was found at a spot twelve miles away, and was still trotting steadily along.

The old story and true: no mother who has once used Cole's Carbolsalve will never be without it. She knows from experience that it quickly stops the pain of burns, cuts and sores and effectually heals them without scars, and it is a favorite household remedy with her. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Long Race on Stilts.

The longest race ever run on stilts took place from Bordeaux to Biarritz in 1893. The distance is 803 miles.

TWINE TAKEN EARLY.

Product of Prison Plant is Larger Than Ever And Sold Earlier.

The past records of the twine manufacturing industry at the Stillwater penitentiary have been swept out of sight by the business done this year. Up to this year the greatest amount ever turned out was five and one-half million pounds and the earliest it had been disposed of was May 15. The output will be more than seven million pounds this year, and it is already sold with the exception of a small amount which is being reserved for the benefit of those farmers that have not joined any of the clubs for the purchase of the twine and find it hard to get their orders in so early in the season.

The law provides that the twine shall be sold to customers only until May 1, and after that date the dealers may be supplied, with an understanding that the dealers shall not charge more than 1 cent a pound on commission. The dealers bought a million and a half pounds last year, and some of them disregarded the order in regard to commission and were arrested and fined.

Nothing of that kind will happen this year, however. The dealers will not get any of the twine, as it has all been boughs up by the farmers.

Many large orders from clubs have had to be cancelled to make matters fairer for the small farmers and to give them a chance to get in their orders in time to get the benefit of the low price. The price was considered low last year when the twine was sold for 8 3-4 cents a pound, but this year a reduction of a cent a pound was made, and the price is now 8 3-4 cents.

Now's the time to take Rocky Mountain Tea; it drives out the microbes of winter; it builds up the stomach, kidneys and liver. A wonderful spring tonic that makes sick people well. A. L. Reichert.

Their Deb.

An exchange says regarding trusts: "There are four things in the South with which we will slay the trusts and all the evil machinations of giant monopoly. They are brush water, persimmons, watermelons and chickens. —Headlight.

For a clear skin, clear all the way through, transparent enough to let sunshine—rosy cheeks show through—take Rocky Mountain Tea. This month, springtime. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Newfoundland's Bleak Coast.

The coast of Newfoundland is indented by deep and narrow bays, back of which rise steep and rugged hills.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

HERE'S HEALTH FOR YOU.

A. L. REICHERT, Red Lake Falls; W. A. SCHREITER, Red Lake Falls; IMPERAIL DRUG CO., St. Hilaire.

OUT THEY GO
NORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has two block from roll on clay foundation; measuring 100x200 feet, one story brick. Good size of lots and good location. Building will be sold at a bargain. Cash or part cash, weeking time. Corner lot 8 feet wide. Grazing lands 14 to 81, 160 acres Free Homestead adjoining. Will secure new survey. Health and climate. Write for more land sales.
Wm. H. Brown & Co.
Minot, N. Dak., or 164 La Salle St., Chicago.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not look in and see if we have that to your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great tracts to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this. Reference can be had at any time to suit at 6 per cent. A few investors can make a big thousand or this tract in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,

BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,

Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

The Biggest Offer Yet...

Two Weekly Newspapers and a Handsome State Map for $1.50

THE COURIER has secured several hundred Rand-McNally maps of Minnesota, 4x5 feet in size, mounted on wooden rollers, and in every way equal to the regular $3 maps published by this house. On the reverse side is a map of the world and pictures and biographies of all the presidents from Washington to Roosevelt. We are offering for a limited time

ONE of these Maps and a copy of the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch for one year, together with THE COURIER for a year, at the low price of $1.50, cash in advance.....

Old Subscribers Can Take Advantage of this Offer by Paying Up All Arrearages and One Year in Advance.

THIS is the greatest subscription offer ever made to the people of Red Lake county. Remember the map is not a cheap affair, but is printed on the best quality of paper map paper, with cloth edges. They cannot be bought at retail anywhere for less than the published price of $3.

Now is the Time to Subscribe

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

Red Lake County Courier....

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

DEMOCRATS are still enhancing in value, but the assessors and boards of equalization have hard work in preventing a decline—so far as taxation is concerned.

ACCORDING to the Princeton Union Admiral Dewey is a good man to sink the enemy's ships, but a poor one to keep his mouth shut on certain occasions. If this thing keeps up we will have to put our heroes in the national park.

IT is alleged that Frank Eddy is entertaining the buzz of a gubernatorial hee. One of the first questions naturally arising is whether, in event of election, Mr. Eddy would work for the state of Minnesota or the Clerque syndicate.

MUNICIPAL elections were held this week in a good many of the larger cities. Carter Harrison wins at Chicago, Tom Johnson at Cleveland and "Golden Rule" Jones at Toledo. The results generally do not show a landslide for either political party.

THE state of Missouri is now in the class of states that are free from debt. Missouri seems to have kept singularly aloof from corruption, notwithstanding the fact that public affairs have been in the uninterrupted control of a single political party for more that half a century.

THE Birmingham Ledger asserts that "no voting machine is needed in Alabama, for we have gone to great trouble and expense to get rid of a lot of votes, and we do not want any automatic machine to go right on voting until somebody comes in. We have all the votes we need and the men to cast them."

IT is given out that the federal court will render a decision in favor of the Northern Securities company in the action brought by the government against the corporation. It must be exceedingly distasteful to Governor Van Sant to allow a New Jersey corporation to trample upon the laws of Minnesota, but it would seem that the decision of the court settles the matter. The "merger" as a political issue will be heard no more.

MRS. MAYBRICK has again been assured of release from prison, the date this time being set for 1904. It is hard to understand the attitude of the British authorities with regard to this case. If Mrs. Maybrick, in the eyes of the officials, is innocent, she ought to have been released years ago. If guilty there should be a quietus to the promises of liberty. It is certain that she will be no more innocent a year from now.

IN its annual estimate of what it calls "the nation's drink bill" the American Grocer puts the total for 1902 at $1,369,098,576. This, however, includes an expenditure of $196,365,611 for coffee, tea and cocoa, leaving $1,172,865,235 for alcoholic beverages of all kinds and potencies. Since 1890, it says, the use of alcoholic beverages has nearly doubled, having increased from 10.80 gallons per capita to 19.36 gallons, a gain of over 93 per cent.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

THE publishers of over 200 of the Minnesota weekly papers have organized a mutual fire insurance company to be known as the Minnesota Publishers' Mutual Fire Insurance company. The officers of the company are as follows: President, C. C. Whitney; vice-president, Frank Meyst; secretary, H. S. Saylor; treasurer, David Ramaley. The executive committee will be the president and the secretary ex-officio, with S. A. Langum, H. C. Miller and A. J. Dare.

ALTHOUGH little is heard at present regarding the plague in India, it appears from the latest obtainable reports that during the two weeks ending January 31 and February 7 the number of deaths from the plague in India amounted to 24,500 and 25,780 respectively. From Poona a very virulent outbreak is reported, and the medical school has been closed; the latest statements, however, give a more hopeful account of the state of affairs, the increase in heat seemingly accounting for the diminution of the number of cases.

THE bill to place the examination of railway books for the purposes of taxation entirely in the hands of the railway and warehouse commission was indefinitely postponed by the house last Thursday. The bill was designed as a slap at Public Examiner Johnson, but the legislature did not dare to pass the measure in the face of such an adverse public sentiment. It is apparent that the railroad and warehouse commissioners have lost caste with the rank and file of their own party, and are conceded generally to be subservient tools of the railway companies.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County,—ss. Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co. doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that the said firm will pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall Catarrh Cure.

Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. Gleason,
(Seal) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O.
Sold by all druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fads in Suicide.

Motor cycles and the football game are removing some of the smartest Americans of the youthful set.—Buffalo News.

LOCAL MARKET REPORT.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company give us the following market quotations for to-day:

No. 1 hard wheat, 65¢;
No. 1 Northern, 64¢;
No. 2 Northern, 62½¢;
No. 3 Northern, 59¢;
No. 4 Northern, 56¢;
Flax, 99c;
Oats, 28c;
Patent flour, $2.35;
Second patents, $2.25;
Bran, $14.00;
Shorts, $16.00;
Barley, 36c to 40c.

Name Will Not Die Out.

Seven children, 51 grandchildren, 87 great-grandchildren and 3 great-great-grandchildren survive Johann Gundel, a widow who has died at Chemnitz, Saxony, aged 92.

Due Notice is Served.

Due notice is hereby served on the public generally that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the only salve on the market that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has cured thousands of cases of piles that could not yield to any other treatment, and this fact has brought on many worthless counterfeits. Those persons who get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are never disappointed, because it cures. A. L. Richert.

Notice.

All persons using or employing fish nets in the taking or catching of fish of any kind in the rivers in and around the city of Red Lake Falls are hereby notified that they are violating the laws of the state of Minnesota, and that each and every violation of our state fish laws as to the use of such dip nets will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law without fear or favor. Prosecutions will be begun as soon and those parties who persist in the use of dip nets will govern themselves accordingly.—By order of the Committee of the Red Lake Falls Fish and Gun Club. 2c

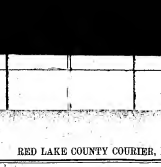
Unhappy Husband.

A New York woman wants a divorce because her husband has taught the family parrot to swear. Did she ever think that it was possible to get rid of the parrot and thus restore connubial bliss? It's a mighty mean husband who isn't worth more than a parrot.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Carbon papers for sale at THE COURIER.



BOFFIN'S EXPERIENCE WITH BEES—

MRS. BOFFIN was determined to move into the country. She told Mr. Boffin of a really nice place adjoining Mr. Spanger's, where it would be so nice to keep bees, just like Mr. Spanger, "and then, you know, my dear Benjamin, we could produce our own honey."

Mr. Boffin's ideas of bees and making honey were as vague as possible, but the first principle of his married life was to see Mrs. B——'s slightest wish fulfilled. So sooner were they installed in their new home than he bought seven dollars' worth of books on bees. "Bees and How to Cultivate," "Smith on Bees," "Higgins on Bees," and, in fact, anybody who had written anything about bees could be found in his collection.

Mrs. Boffin read, Mr. Boffin read, and their son Tom, also, read, and among the three they managed to find that they did not know about bees was not worth knowing. Boffin's next step was to procure a dozen hives made to order. These were placed at proper distances under a row of apple trees. And with what pleasure did Mrs. Boffin survey the management of the experienced hive-builder! She could already see, in her mind's eye, the winged workers darting to and fro and in and out of their homes, and vicions of delicious honey stored in bold relief before the eyes of Mr. Boffin.

So he posted his letter, with a 50¢ note inclosed, to a celebrated bee retailer, and by return mail the package came. The man who left it at the house remarked that he supposed it was a new kind of muzic box; he nearly thought so from the continued humming.

Mrs. Boffin smiled, and thought of delusions. The brown wrapping paper was carefully removed and a box two inches square stood exposed to view. Around the sides, upon the top and bottom, were small openings, covered with fine wire gauze. On board was written "Queen Hereford in this box."

"It does not say anything about Italian bees in the books, does it, dear?" asked Mr. Boffin, who was nervously scratching his head.

"Oh, never mind; they are to be handled just the same as other bees."

Boffin said, nothing, but took up the box and wended his way to the orchard, followed by Mrs. B——, Tom, and their black and tan terrier, Skip. Master Billy Boffin, aged three years, was left in the house on the kitchen floor, with a huge slice of bread and butter to quiet a noxious disposition, inherited, probably, from his father.

"I guess we will place a few in each hive."

Could they have seen the look of dismay on the countenance of Spanger, who was peeping through a crack in the fence nearby, they might have heard it. But Mr. Boffin proceeded to pull off the cover, very carefully and gently, while Tom held the hive tipped over so the bees could go in. Mr. Boffin placed the box by the edge of the hive, and lightly tapped the end. The bees gradually began to move; first one popped out, then another and another, but instead of going into the hive, they darted away, and were soon out of sight. Mrs. Boffin looked on in this manner, Mr. B—— paused for reflection.

"Tom, go and get 'Jones on Bees.'"

So Tom set down the hive, and started off for "Jones on Bees."

"Turn to page 67."

Tom did as directed, and after a few lines were read they ended that they were doing wrong; they had omitted to smear the sides of the hive with honey. So Mrs. Boffin went over to Mrs. Spanger's and procured a pint of strained honey. The work was soon accomplished.

Mrs. Boffin said she would hold the box this time. Mr. Boffin nervously placed it by her knees, and off came the cover. The first bee that came out struck Skip on the nose, and he skipped away, howling fearfully as he did so, darting between Boffin's legs and upsetting him upon the box. Skip then made for the house, the door of which was open, where he overturned Master Billy, who joined his voice to that of the dog. Mr. Boffin had fortunately sat right in the box, and his coat-tails crowding snugly in kept the inmates from getting out. Mrs. Boffin screamed:

"Don't get up, Benjamin; don't get up, or we shall lose them!"

Boffin had no idea of getting up then, but the piteous expression upon his face would have excited sympathy in anyone. Tom was gradually approaching the house, as he thought there might be a possible chance of getting stung. He was soon stopped, however, by his mother, who called him back to help his father.

Not liking to show the white feather, he returned. Mrs. B—— explained how the cover was to be slipped on while Boffin carefully arose from his sitting position. But, alas! the human expectations! One solitary bee had crawled up the leg of Boffin's pants.

He was so positive of this that he gave a yell, turned a handspring, and made for the house, followed by Mrs. Boffin, Tom, and about 600 bees. In a rushed Boffin and took refuge under the bed, where Skip was already busily employed rubbing his nose. Tom landed in the water-butt outside just as one big fellow took him by the ear. Mrs. Boffin with great presence of mind, covered her head and shudders with her dress, but, as she would not see, bumped her head against the door-frame, which nearly stunned her. But she managed to stumble in and close the door just as two of the enemy buzzed in, one taking Master Billy under the eye and the other hereford on the hand.

The swarm outside hovered around the door for some time, and then flew over to Spanger's hives, where they settled down, and at once commenced making honey for Mrs. Spanger.

Peace being declared in the house of Boffin, Mr. B—— came out and declared he knew he was wrong to have Italian bees that way. Tom owns in dripping wet, one ear as big as a dollar bill, swelling vengance against all bees, Italian or any other kind. Mrs. Boffin brought out liniment, the wounds were bathed, and, with the exception of Billy's eye, there was soon but little to show there had been a battle.

DARTING BETWEEN BOFFIN'S LEGS AND UPSETTING HIM.

Next morning Boffin called on Spanger for his bees.

"How many did you have?"

"Seven," replied Boffin.

"Pick 'em out," said Spanger.

"Pick the dozen out! How am I going to tell my bees from yours?"

Then, Spanger, with a smile, said:

"Yours were Italian bees, were they not?"

"Yes; but I can't tell an Italian bee from any other, and it's mighty hard to tell a hornet from a bee."

Then Spanger told Boffin to take 600 bees, and pick them out anywhere. Boffin remembered his log, and refused. In fact, he did not know how to pick them. Nothing was said about picking in his collection of books. So he consulted his wife, who told him the best way was to engage a bee-raiser. This was done, at an expense of ten dollars. Ten minutes after his arrival, the bees were nicely housed in Mr. Boffin's orchard.

"I would like to know how that was done," said Mr. Boffin to the man as he gave him the money.

"Oh, easy enough when you know how," said he pocketing the money and moving off.

But in a week, those confounded bees were back in Spanger's garden, making honey by the pound. Mrs. Spanger could not understand the matter by offering to sell Mrs. Boffin the honey she wanted at a discount. The kind offer was refused, and the six empty hives in Boffin's orchard often bring stinging recollections of his first and last attempt with bees.

And further, whenever the "Charge of the Light Brigade" is read in his hearing, and it comes to the ominous words: "On rode the 600!" a shudder thrills his whole frame, and, nervously clutching his coat-tails, he whispers to Mrs. Boffin:

"I should say so. 'On flew the 600!'"
—N. Y. Weekly.

THE SWEETEST MUSIC.

[The opinion of Uncle John, riding home from the meadow with Tommy.]

You may talk about your singing, and I may sing a thing or two,
But O, to hear the music that my mother used to sing!
The singing that was paid for, she never knew the cost,
But her voice rang out as freely as the singing of a bird.

When I was tired and sleepy, she'd wash me clean and sweet,
And hug me tight and wrap my gown around me with her feet,
And rock and rock. And with her voice
Till sleep, like balm, descended, while I heard my mother sing.

I believe the sweetest music we shall hear
Will come from just such humble souls,
That have always sung and always
They could sing a hymn in meeting and sing a child to sleep,
And all the saints music in their hearts
They had to keep.
They sang the songs the old folks loved, at evening shadow came down,
Sweeter than all the operas you adventists in town.

You may talk about your singers, and I won't dispute a word,
But my mother sang the sweetest songs I ever have ever heard,
And, I believe, when all we long for freely shall be given,
I'll hear my mother's songs again, she's singing now, in heaven.
—Mrs. McVeur-Adams, in Union Signal.

A Russian's Bird Study.

A certain large land owner in Russia is making a study of the migratory habits of birds. To all those he can capture he attaches a note in Russian, German, French and English, asking whoever may find or kill them to let him know the country to which they had flown.

GEN. BRUGERE, COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF FRENCH ARMY.

At the head of the French mission to attend the dedication of the Rochambeau monument in Washington, May 24, is the name of Gen. Brugere, commander in chief of the French army. He was president of the superior council of war. He was "dismissed" by Freedman Clemenceau two years ago and made secretary at the Elysee. He steadily advanced in position, and is now governor of Paris during the critical times following the return of Dreyfus from Devil's island, until he has become head of the French army. Politically he also is a power in FRANCE, especially in the capital.

Old London Bridge.

Old London bridge took the record time of thirty-three years to build. It was begun in 1176 and not completed until 1209. The present bridge was begun in 1824 and finished in 1831. It cost $2,500,000.

Earth Is Losing Speed.

The earth is gradually being eased owing to the friction of the tides. The days are now half a second longer than they were in 1802.

Beginning to Entertain Doubts.

"Sometimes," reflected the Rev. E. B. Streete, looking over his small but fashionable congregation, "I doubt whether I ever had a genuine call to preach. I am afraid it was only a temptation."

Extreme Thickness of Ice.

A few days ago Profs. Blumcke and Hess, from Bavaria, who are well known for their studies of glaciers, succeeded in boring through the Hintereis glacier in the Otzthal Alps, at a point where the ice was found to be 153 meters deep.

His Normal Condition.

He—You told your mother I was sorry for having made an idiot of myself at her dinner party last night? What did she say? She—O, she said she noticed nothing unusual.

Minnesota Doing Well.

The growth and prosperity of Minnesota are well indicated by the number of new banks organized this year.

Not All So Excitable.

The Maryland man who fell dead when somebody told him he had inherited $40,000 left when, it is to be hoped, are less excitable.

Curiosity for Dublin Museum.

Dublin museum now possesses large stuffed elephant, the first mounted specimen ever exhibited in Ireland.

Many Pieces in a Shoe.

There are over a hundred distinct pieces in the ordinary shoe, including 64 parts, the latting tacks, the heel nails, threads and laces.

Leaves the South for Yale.

Andrew Sledd, the young professor of Georgia, whose articles on the negro problem in a recent issue of the Atlantic raised such objection in the South that he was forced to resign his chair, has entered the Yale graduate school, taking a course in advanced classics.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ASTRONOMY.

Sunday School Teacher—Now, can anyone tell me who made the Milky-way?

Tommy—It was the cow that jumped over the moon.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

GARNES.

E. K. Gjernes has got his store building nearly finished.

L. K. Moen and John Lundblad drove to McIntosh Tuesday.

Deals in dirt are getting to be daily affairs in this neighborhood.

Knut Erickson, who two years ago bought a quarter section of land a half mile north of the Village farm for $1000, has sold his farm to J. Vig, of Bagley, Minn., for $2,000.

It didn't look much like spring Monday morning, by the way the snow was falling, but before night the warm breeze from the southeast caused the atmosphere considerably.

The temperance lecture by C. Lindgren, of Sweden at the ball last Saturday was largely attended. The Grit Good Templars held a meeting in the evening and twenty new members were enrolled. The next meeting will be held at Garnes Sunday, April 19.

Good in Artesian Wells.

The New South Wales government has sunk 82 artesian wells, 56 of which brought water quite to the surface. Only eight were total failures.

Has Copy of Important Treaty.

Durwood C. Caln of the United States army, son of Secretary of State Caln of Ohio, has the official copy of the treaty between China and Japan buried 800,000 left when, it is to be hoped, are less excitable.

Curiosity for Dublin Museum.

Dublin museum now possesses large stuffed elephant, the first mounted specimen ever exhibited in Ireland.

Not All So Excitable.

The Maryland man who fell dead when somebody told him he had inherited $40,000 left when, it is to be hoped, are less excitable.

Curiosity for Dublin Museum.

Dublin museum now possesses large stuffed elephant, the first mounted specimen ever exhibited in Ireland.

South Africa's Future.

Benjamin Kidd, the economist, who has just made a visit to the new British South Africa, says he believes the country to be richer than the United States west of the Mississippi and believes that its future is assured.

Irving's Fondness for Tea.

Sir Henry Irving has a weakness for tea. He likes to brew it himself and never travels any long distance without taking a full tea equipment with him. Sir Henry's favorite brand is an expensive China tea.

Weak?

"I suffered terribly and was extremely weak for 12 years. The doctors said my blood was all turning to water. At last I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was soon feeling all right again."
MRS. J. W. Fiala, Hadlyme, Ct.

No matter how long you have been ill, nor how poorly you may be today, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine you can take for purifying and enriching the blood.

Don't doubt it, put your whole trust in it, throw away everything else.
$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows—and what he knows he will tell you truthfully. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied.
J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.
Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete Line of Jewelry ware. Watches Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

Frank Jeffers is at St. Hilaire today interesting the denizens of that city in the merits of the New York Life.

Call and see the elegant display of Easter hats, laces and millinery goods of all kinds at Miss I. Lemieux millinery store. Prices guaranteed as low as the lowest.

M. T. O'Brien, a business man from Adrian, Minn., was a visitor to Red Lake Falls Monday. He was looking over several pieces of land with a view of buying.

Miss Lydia Fletcher returned to her school duties at Devils Lake Sunday, after having spent her Easter vacation with her parents and numerous friends here.

Bastan Synder, of Marshall, has purchased the northwest quarter of 31, Gervais, through the Gonigam agency. Mr. Snyder expects to move on the place next year.

The last indoor band concert of the season will be held the latter part of the month, and the boys are working hard to make it better than any of their previous efforts.

Grant Van Sant was up from St. Paul Saturday looking after his land business. Mr. Van Sant predicts a large immigration to Red Lake county this spring and summer.

Jos. Allard left Monday on a trip to the Big Fork country. Mr. Allard has a claim there and will probably move up in the spring to live on it a year before proving up.

R. H. Bourdon has been sick for the past week, and for some days typhoid fever was feared. He is getting along nicely at present, and will doubtless soon be around again.

The Evangelical Methodist people contemplate the organization of a church society in Red Lake Falls soon, and a meeting for that purpose will be held in the near future.

Grand Forks is getting its usual spring "docking," the Red river being out of the limits of peacefulness, while the Red Lake river and tributaries are yet to be heard from.

Rev. Father C. Dube, of the Terrebonne parish, was calling on the Rev. Father Paradis Tuesday. The COURIER was the recipient of a pleasant call from the two gentlemen.

There are indications of a dry spring, and if farmers are given plenty of good weather to put in their crops the Red River valley may look forward to a banner crop this year.

The following letters remain unclaimed in the postoffice at Red Lake Falls for the week ending April 4: A. G. Daley, John Durastrand, Christ. Thompson, E. B. Wells and W. Williams.

METROPOLITAN Opera House

ANDERSON & HEALY, Managers.

A Scrap of Paper

By Senior Class of Red Lake Falls High School

Monday Evening

APRIL 13

Traveling Auditor Sorenson, of the St. Hilaire Lumber company, was calling on Agent Tenney this week, and found that the new manager had fit into the place in just the proper manner.

E. E. Fletcher is building a substantial addition to his north side residence. The way early improvements are being started would indicate a prosperous building season for Red Lake Falls.

V. L. Knight came down from his Huson county claim Friday on a short business trip. The Red Lake Falls people are always glad to see Vic, and hope he and his family will soon come back to stay.

Don't forget that "A Scrap of Paper" occupies the boards next Monday evening and deserves your support, both because of the cause it is given for and also because it will be well worth attending.

The time of terms of court in the various counties of the judicial district will be re-arranged to better suit the convenience of Judges Watts and Grindeland. It is not likely that Red Lake county will be affected.

Matt Skala returned this week from an extended absence at Hot Springs, where he has been taking treatment for rheumatism. Mr. Skala was greatly benefited by the treatment and looks for permanent relief from his ailment.

J. P. Gonigam returned to Ottawa, Ill., Friday and Mrs. E. O. Mathies and Mrs. F. C. Meihsner returned Tuesday to Walnut, Ill. These people had been here to attend the last sad rites over the remains of the late Oliver Gonigam.

Keough Leroux came down from Grand Rapids Friday and made arrangements for the removal of his household goods to that place, where he is engaged in business. Mr. Leroux reports himself as well satisfied with his new home.

Bishop J. D. Morrison, of Duluth, held Episcopal services at the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening, and a large audience greeted the distinguished prelate. Rev. H. M. Green, pastor of the Crookston church, accompanied the Bishop.

Mayor Thorkelson, of St. Hilaire, was in the city Friday and paid his respects at THE COURIER office. Mr. Thorkelson is one of the managers of the Imperial Drug company, and one of the most prominent young business men in this part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lemieux left Monday afternoon for Minot, N. D., where both have property interests and will reside in the future. The young couple will have the best wishes of a host of Red Lake Falls friends for success in their journey through life.

The families of Eugene Robillard, Frank Lemay and John Levack left on the Northern Pacific Tuesday evening for North Yakima, Wash., where they will make their home in the future. A large crowd of their old neighbors and friends were at the depot to wish them a pleasant journey.

The Red Lake Falls Gun and Fish club intends to prosecute all offenders against the game and fish law, and several parties who have been using dip nets at the dam will probably be called upon to pay fines for their violations of the law. It is the purpose of the club members to insist upon a strict observance.

A grand Easter dance will be given after the play at the Metropolitan next Monday evening, which gives promise of being a pleasant event. The music will be furnished by that excellent organization, Freund's orchestra, which is assurance that it will be good. The price of the tickets will be fifty cents.

Rev. Father Fayolle announces that St. Joseph's parochial school will close this year at the end of the nine months' term on account of the late start, but that hereafter the school will be conducted ten months in the year. The plan will undoubtedly meet with favor with the parents of the children in attendance.

Seeding operations primise to be general throughout northern Minnesota and North Dakota this season some earlier than for several years past. If the present warm weather continues, the majority of the farmers will begin operations this week. While there has been but little warm weather thus far, the land is in excellent shape.

Adelard Lemieux arrived home Saturday from Grand Forks, where he has spent the past five weeks receiving treatment for deafness. This troublesome malady has bothered the young man for a number of years, and the fact that he returned home greatly benefited will be pleasing news to his large circle of Red Lake Falls friends.

To the members of the Red Lake Falls Fish and Gun club: A meeting of the above-named club will be held on Saturday, April 11, at 8 p. m., at the usual place, to take steps to bring about the prosecution and conviction of various parties who persist in the use of dip nets in catching fish in the vicinity of Red Lake Falls.—Committee.

Tom Green returned this morning from his trip to Illinois. While there he bought a carload of horses which he expected to bring to Red Lake Falls, but secured such a good offer at St. Paul that he sold the entire consignment in that city. Mr. Green expects to leave next week for Montana to buy several carloads of horses for the Red Lake county market.

C. F. Elvidge, who recently moved into a choice quarter of Louisville township land, is this week hauling the material and will soon commence the erection of a commodious residence and other buildings on the place. Settlers who locate and improve their places as rapidly as Mr. Elvidge has done will add much to the fame and future of banner Red Lake county.

Why pay two profits on your lumber? Why not buy from first hands? The officers and owners of the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company, and of the Crookston Lumber company are one and the same, so when you buy from the former you are buying from the manufacturers. That is why the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber Co. is in a position to save you money—which it guarantees it will do.

The funeral of Oliver E. Gonigam was held at the family residence last Thursday afternoon, a large concourse of friends attended. Presiding Elder Lafayette Dodds of Crookston and Rev. Andrew Walker conducted the services. The casket was fairly covered with flowers, many of the boquets and wreaths being sent from Illinois by former companions and friends of the deceased.

A meeting of the base ball "fans" was held at the town hall Tuesday evening and steps taken toward the organization of a base ball team for the coming season. Ernest Buse was again chosen captain and Arthur LaPlante manager, and the boys will at once prepare for active practice in order to sustain Red Lake Falls' earned reputation as the fastest baseball town in this section.

J. C. Engemann, formerly a traveling agent of Edwards, Wood & Co., has located here and opened an office in the room formerly occupied by M. A. Hatten as a feed store. Edwards, Wood & Co. are well known here, having had an office here last year, and will no doubt do a large business. Mr. Engemann will move his family here and become a permanent resident of our hustling city.

The ice in the Clearwater broke yesterday afternoon, but as the Red Lake was not prepared for the event a jam from the Healy dam to the Bridge street crossing resulted. The river raised several feet in consequence, but it is thought the banks are high enough to prevent overflow. The break-up is earlier than usual this year. It seldom occurs before the 12th and frequently as late as the 18th.

Ole Christianson and wife are moving to Rugby, N. D., where Mr. Christianson will form a partnership with Chas. T. Grace in the land business. Ole was for a year or more local manager for the Elwood company, and later has been employed by the Healy agency. There are few better salesmen than Ole, and he is also a mighty fine fellow. The Red Lake Falls people will be sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Christianson are to leave.

Gareeau & Zaiser have opened a drawing contest on the "Little Red School House" shoe, made by the Watson-Plummer Shoe company, whereby a pair of shoes will be given every month to the boy or girl sending in the best drawing. Last month they delivered a pair to Fredie P. Jubnke, of Red Lake Falls, for excellent work on their prize drawing contest. All boys and girls not over twelve years of age can have a chance. Ask them about it. 2w

Gareeau & Zaiser report a large sale on goldfish last Wednesday, April 1. Nearly everybody in town took a look at them, and they were "sold" at sight. The Crookston Times notes one of the largest purchases: "Chas. Lohn, while at Red Lake Falls on April 1, bought a pail of beautiful goldfish. They are beauties and any of his many friends desiring a couple of the shining beauties will be accommodated if they call at the Lohn residence."

In mentioning the band concert last week, THE COURIER neglected to make special note of the Junior band, but it is so generally known that the efforts of the boys were greatly appreciated and lauded by the people, that we thought we would be telling something that was well known when we spoke of their work. However, the young men are to be congratulated on their excellent showing and it speaks both for the ability of themselves and their excellent tutor, Prof. C. Smith.

The many building improvements that are commenced and have been planned is surprisingly large, and the coming season promises to be one of more benefit to Red Lake Falls. Numerous new residences, additions and alterations are arranged for, while rumors of more than one substantial brick block are heard. Red Lake Falls has the opportunity before her and a united effort on the part of the citizens will result in the making of the biggest and best city in the Red River valley.

A COURIER reporter dropped into the machinery emporium of Joseph Helm one day this week, but found the genial proprietor so busy expounding the merits of his many standard lines that he didn't have time to talk. However, it was apparent that his machine stock was more complete than before, which is saying a great deal, and that the farmers of Red Lake county are aware that it pays to travel a long ways to come where so complete an assortment can be found. Mr. Helm is a progressive business man and can always be depended on to be in the front ranks of enterprise and progressiveness.

An exchange tells a lot of truth in the following relative to the trials of an editor: "If we attend church regularly," he says, "they say we go for effect. If we stay away from church we are unreasonably heathenish. If we are seen upon the street too often they say we neglect our business. If we avoid going on the street they say we don't hustle around after the news. If we publish a man who has brought disgrace upon his family the friends of the family never forgive us. If we, out of goodness of heart, decline to say anything on the subject, the man's enemies are disappointed, and we are branded as white-livered cowards."

Clean Flax Seed for Sale.

I have a quantity of clean flax seed for sale. I also have several milch cows which I offer for sale. Inquire of Regis Huot, Dorothy P. O., Minn. 2w

FORCE Satisfies taste and appetite

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

DIRECTORY:

A. F. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT; THEO. LABISSONIERE, VICE-PRESIDENT; L. A. DUFFY, CASHIER; F. F. POULIOT, ASST. CASHIER. DIRECTORS—A. F. TOUPIN, SAM. GIREAU, CHAS. F. SCHERER, L. A. DUFFY, THEO. LABISSONIERE, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

New Goods for Saturday Morning at Bangs & Co.'s

Swift's Premium Hams, nothing finer cured;
Swift's Breakfast Bacon;
Fine Port Limon Bananas;
Naval Oranges—a special price Saturday for large, juicy fruit;
FRESH RIPE STRAWBERRIES
A full supply supply of green stuff;
Complete lines of Home Brand and Dinner Party Fruits and Vegetables;
Green peas, corn and aspargus in these brands have the flavor and freshness of the summer garden product;
All varieties of Heinz' preserves in bulk;
These are pure fruit and sugar goods.

The New Firm

Anderson & Healy

WE WISH TO ANNOUNCE to our friends, the trade, the extraordinary inducements that will be made to make our store THE LEADER, not only in name but in fact. . . Our business will be brought to the highest possible plane of up-to-date merchandising, and a policy even more liberal and progressive than that which has characterized the LEADER STORE in the past has been inaugurated by the new firm. With the arrival of our new Spring stock there will be many things to interest the up-to-date buyers. We have made a careful selection of goods that have not only high artistic merit but are low in price and will appeal to the careful buyer. Ever appreciative of the liberal patronage of our many customers, and hoping to meet the continued confidence of the trade, we are Respectfully,

ANDERSON & HEALY

Successors to Anderson & Schwalen.

Handsome Calendars Given Away

TO introduce our Papetries and Tablets for the next ten days we will give free with each purchase a fancy 1903 CALENDAR (choice of two designs) and a BEAUTIFUL COLORED BLOTTER. It doesn't matter whether you buy a high-priced Papetrie or a 5-cent School Tablet.

New line of Typewriter Papers, Carbons, Pencils, and Office Supplies of all kinds. Choice selection of high-grade Papetries.

COURIER STATIONERY STAND

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL, $25,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

Lost

The Use of Arm. Heart Trouble.

Could Not Eat, Sleep or Walk.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Entirely.

"I is hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Remedies I would not be here to write this letter. Two years ago last June I lost the use of my left arm, could not use it and could only move it with the help of my right hand. My heart was so weak I could not sleep nights for smothering spells. I was out of work all over and could eat nothing. I grew so weak that I could not walk without staggering like a drunken man and my body was covered with cold sweats most of the time. I was in such pain I was almost wild. I could not take morphine nor opium as they made me worse. So I got to thinking about Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and the more I thought about it the more I wanted to try them. I wrote to the Dr. Miles Medical Co. for advice which I followed to the letter. I can say today that I am glad I did so. I am a well woman, can work and eat well, take on three miles and not mind it, can sleep on my left side and my heart is never sore. You do not know how thankful I am for these grand medicines Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Nervine. I think Dr. Miles' Remedies are the best in the world, and if I should get sick again I should take the same course. The remedies also helped my daughter Vida so wonderfully that I should have written you before to thank you, but I wanted to be sure that you were permanently cured. You now know to be the case."—Mrs. Frank Lawver, Mexico, Mo.

All druggists sell first bottle on guarantee. Book on Heart and Nerves sent free. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. WANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes an' Vaults....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHIEF WIZARD OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES LIQUORS CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE. NO PAY. Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLE FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS.

RED LAKE FALLS.

		Arrive	Depart
WEST-BOUND No. 155.—Mixed for Fertile to Grand Forks.....		7:45 a m	7:45 a m
EAST-BOUND No. 156.—Mixed for Fertile....		5:45 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. MIZEN, Agent.

"She—she—bless the baby?" Oliver asked, awkwardly, as he lit a cigar.

"I am sorry to say she does not manifest any rapture at all. I think she was more delighted to see her dog. I always have the idea when I see her with young Francois that she is a little girl playing with her doll. She is afraid of him if he cries, and moans because he has black eyes and looks like the Frenchman."

"Well," said Oliver, smiling sadly, "the chapter is ended. I have turned a page in my life's story. She will be safe and sheltered now, and I delegate to you my position as adviser. In the next opponent Mrs. Minny makes you must be the assistant. There is my team; and good-by."

Oliver thought the whole affair would pass from his mind, especially as Dr. John on his return said they had gone to Maine and Mrs. Minny had never mentioned him; but one day a month from that time at the gentleman's house a letter came to Oliver. He looked at the newspaper superscription, the post-mark Newcastle, and he knew well Hannah Patten did not attempt an Italian hand. He smiled with pleasure. It was generously remembered after the long silence, and he had braved many dangers for that ungrateful young woman, the worst an encounter with her frenzied husband.

"DEAR SIR OLIVER: To think you were so near and I could not see you! I cried when they told me. I am not going to pay your money back, am I? I got my own by the death of Bestaud. We have put our claim in the hands of a lawyer, and expect to get a million; one of my dear aunt father, and he thinks I ought to get a divorce, and has written to Mr. de Restaud so. We work the baby closely, for fear Henri will try to steal him. I have never thanked you for helping me run away. But you need you were! I think of you often; but Aunt Hannah will never speak of you, and talks here think it is dreadful to be divorced. They say I am the first man in Newcastle. Sometimes I wish they think he is dead. Could a person bring a case for divorce if I got a separation from him for no fault of mine. I must be dispressed, Aunt Hannah admits I never ought to go back to him; it would not be safe.

"I had a nice time at that dogs' home: it was a funny place, with the nicest old dogs and cats. Sizes had a grand time. One dog was fifteen years old and lame, so he got a priest. Still, I think being old is a dreadful thing. I am getting very sad lately, and doctor says I must get good health. I expect some day they will build an old maids' home. You never saw so many old maids as there are there. Mrs. Bliss has seven sisters in one of those Newton wens—there's no other less chain of them—and not one of them—the sisters, not the wens—ever had a home.

"Please do not dislike me, or in the mention of my name pain your dear wife. I am going to be good as I can, and I shall offending your dear master. Mrs. Minny's conversation should be; and write me one little letter to say you are still my good friend. I shall never ask you to help my opinion; I do no need it; so you will be safe to continue one of your friends. Aunt Hannah does not know I have written you. I get too many moral lectures anyway from her, for she says I must consult her if or my new will have a high opinion of me. He does not notice about me, but divides his attention principally in training at her and the lamp, which is broken towards the light. That is all country, but no."

"Always your friend (as the doctor calls me), "HANNAH PATTEN THOUGHTSOME LADY."

The wound was not healed, Oliver thought bitterly. Why or all women must he care for this one and be so haunted by her memory? Every look of hers, her words, her gestures, the little yellow gown, were as plain to him after a year as if he had seen her but yesterday. He had striven hard to forget, to do his duty. Yet was there harm in writing just a few lines? The narrow path was fearfully lonely in life—not a path that had been his in the past; and yet—and yet she was a child. That her honest old woman believed in him and trusted to his honor.

While he mused, the shock-headed boy knocked and thrust in his freckled face. "Guess we are ready," he said, hoarser than usual for there had been a baseball match the day before, and he had been excused from duty, because his "throwin' arm was sick."

"Show him in," said Oliver, locking the letter in his desk. The last man he expected to see entered the room, and shut the door behind him, took a chair, then, with almost a threatening gesture, moved it close to the desk. Henri de Restaud!

CHAPTER VIII.

Oliver wondered if the Frenchman had come to kill him. There was no time to cry out or to move in self-defense. If De Restaud came to murder, he was prepared to do it quickly; up in the valley of the Troublesome he had been called a good shot. A vagrant ray of sunshine filtered in between the shutters of the closed blind, resting on a faded spot on the carpet. Oliver idly watched it, while thoughts of the past, the present, the woman who had just written him, went through his mind swifter than ever electricity carried a message.

A lamp lit and bright, a flash, a crash and darkness. Oliver's fingers tightened on the arm of his chair as the lips quivered. He seemed to be gazing down the unfathomable depths of eternity. The sins of his past came and hovered at him; the awful, unanswered question of the centuries, of all recorded time, haunted him. "And afterwards?"

He had heard that madmen qualified at bravery, were deterred from evil purpose by quiet common sense. So he looked steadily at his visitor. What a dreadful creature he had become! Nor was it liquor alone that had crazed his brain. There is a drug so easy of purchase, so pleasing of effect at first, that insensibly it steals away reason, caution, decency. On the hairy hand of the Frenchman were tiny red dots; and similar dots tattooed all his body. He had not learned to take morphine in the convenient capsules, and his dissipation was attended by a tiny pain like the prick of needles. He was terribly pale, with the glazed pallor of a corpse, his eyes weirdly bright, his hair, a few months ago untouched by time, streaked with gray. Of all and drift on the shores of time a human wreck like this is the most dreadful.

"You are surprised to see me," De Restaud said, calmly, but his long thin fingers trembled, showing the agitation he strove to repress.

"I should be glad to be of assist you in any way," Oliver answered, his voice strangely hoarse, the words coming with difficultly.

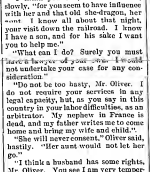
"I think you can," said the other, slowly, "for you seem to have influence with her and that old she-dragon, her aunt. I know all about your visit, your visit down the railroad. I know I have a son, and for his sake I want you to help me."

"What can I do? Surely you must have a lawyer of your own. I could not undertake your case for any consideration."

"Do not be too hasty, Mr. Oliver. I do not require your services in any legal capacity, but, as you say in this country in your labor difficulties, as an arbitrator. My nephew in France is dead, and my father writes me to come home and bring my wife and child."

"She will never consent," Oliver said, hastily. "Her aunt would not let her go."

"I think a husband has some rights, Mr. Oliver. You see I am very temper-



"YOU ARE SURPRISED TO SEE ME," DE RESTAUD SAID.

ate in the matter, though I have cause for anger. You may say I have a father; my father will take him his heir, for brother is rich, and, besides, none of us are long-lived. I shall not last long; you see I have already very bad a and to go back to my own country and live the few days left, and I do want you to help me." The Frenchman flown then in a wounaish way and took out his handkerief. Oliver had felt, could tempt before; it turned to pity now for the shambling creature so wrecked in his mental degradation. "I am willing to forgive her the disgrace she has brought upon me," he sobbed, "even that application for divorce. My father will overlook the fact that I married out of my station—beneath me, though never before would he bother my marriage. The child has made all the difference in the world, and I haven't even been allowed to see him. It is a crime to treat a father so. Even in American courts I have recognized rights."

"I have no confidence that you would treat your wife decently if she came back. It would be an unwise experiment," Oliver said, coolly.

"But I give you my word I will. She can have that awful aunt with love and keys. I will not say three words to either of them. We can have her own house in Paris, or live with my father; only I ask that my child shall be brought back to me and my father shall be his guardian. You can see yourself I am fair and generous in the matter. There is a great difference between the heir of the De Restaud millions, one of the finest names in France (I know I am not a worthy representative of the family, more misery), and the child of a divorced woman in that frightful Maine town, where they go to sewing societies for one pleasure and to prayer meetings all the week. You know my wife is not fit to bring up a child. How did she act with you? Was that right and proper sew in an American young lady, eh?

"I fail to see anything in the conduct of Mrs. de Restaud that would not stand the most searching investigation," said Oliver. "Your own case would not be so clear, and I warn you an American jury is always on the side of a woman if she is good and has been wronged."

"You are on a very high horse, Mr. Oliver. Perhaps I can assist you to dismount. My wife's lawyer writes me she will sue for a divorce. Very well, so shall I myself.

"Really, Mr. de Restaud, this is none of my affair," cried Oliver, impatiently. "I refuse to listen to you any longer."

"You will, monsieur, because it shall be your affair."

"How?"

"I shall name you the co-respondent. Deny your drive with my wife that night will have no romance for a jury of sober-minded citizens. Do not let too hasty. I have listened to conversation at a club political heresy, and I have heard you desire office some time, to be governor of the state. The scandal which you cannot silence will hurt your chances, eh? I find the world eager to hear such things—the newspapers of the opposition most anxious to publish ugly stories of an opponent.

"YOU ARE AN INFERNAL SCOUNDREL," SAID OLIVER.

You have made many enemies in your profession; this will be their opportunity."

"You are an infernal scoundrel!" said Oliver, white to the lips. "If you were anything but a morphine wreck I would thrash you out of my office."

"I do not desire to quarrel. I am a sickly man—much weaker than I thought." De Restaud paused and wiped his wet forehead, breathing heavily. "This has been a task. You know the consequences; you persuade my wife to come back to me, with the most if she desire, but my child, and to go to France, or I bring suit for divorce and the custody of my child and tell all the facts."

"It is utter folly," cried Oliver. "What can I do? I have no influence over your wife. I hardly know her, and the aunt will never permit her to return."

"The old lady is strict; she is proud, too, and a young woman who has been through a divorce trial seldom comes out with a good name—not without you. Consider it well, and write Miss Patten what I say. Truly I think my wife has a better fancy for you."

Oliver rose and opened the door. "Mr. de Restaud, I will write you my decision. I really must ask you not to prolong this interview. There is a limit to my forbearance."

De Restaud bowed, mockingly. "I shall look for your answer soon. Perhaps the doctor can exert influence Mrs. de Restaud. I esteem the doctor; he is an honest man, and has been good to my son."

With a polite bow the Frenchman disappeared and Oliver went back to his desk. What should he do? What could he do? De Restaud would carry out his threat, there was no doubt of that. And, after all, would it not be better for his wife to return? If the family in France would care for her and the child they would be safe, and most women would look forward to such a bright future. If she refused to come, a trial, the publicity of a courtroom, the newspapers, a lifelong something to be whispered about her by some one who had heard. How escape? Was there a way across country? Viewed in the cold light of reason it was a foolish thing; and he, Oliver Oliver, must go on the witness-stand and be questioned by a lawyer in a poor witness, and he would be. A man of his past could not expect to be still in action. Then that story to the conductor. The other side would find him, of course, and perhaps a passenger would send Minny's farewell. The whole thing was unexplainable. Then his own past—the life of a wireless man of the world—how could the jury of labor working men view that? They had families and no temptations, and he was rich and a criminal. It was a criminal and political death to him, and he wrote a severely formal letter to Mrs. de Restaud, advising her to return to her husband. Her answer was a piteous appeal. What did he mean? After all that had happened, did he think she would travel herself with a man who everyone said was crazy. Dr. John read and shook his head. "She won't come," he said; "but you can write, for the laws of Frenchman means what he says. I see him often as he comes to my office. She never can say three words to him, and her aunt can be with her always until she is safe at his father's."

This was duly written, but the answer from the old father and her niece were unsatisfactory until a few days before the time set by De Restaud. Oliver, maddened by her disregard of his warning, for he learned De Restaud had his lawyer engaged and the case would be presented, telegraphed her a letter—the only one he'd buy you will come at once. We cannot face the consequences." He felt like a coward, but what else could he do? Fight with a madman in a courtroom? It was horrible. The answer came promptly from Mrs. de Restaud; she would start at once.

Oliver took the telegram and went to find Dr. Leland. The sale for divorce must be stopped. He had done his part, and there was no need for further entanglement. He drove to Dr. John's office, but the doctor was up in the mountains attending a case, and would not be back for a day or two. He knew where De Restaud lived—a furnished house he had hired for a few months—and he drove there. A servant, dapper, French, and correct in her own way, opened the door in response to his ring. She seemed worried and disconsolate in her manner, and looked at him blankly as he asked her in English if monsieur was at home. Then Oliver remembered, and tried in imperfect French. She brightened up.

"No, monsieur," she said, eagerly; "he is seldom here; and Louis is all ways away. I like the farm better. I am alone always. Monsieur is so bad, too—oh, drendful even Louis is afraid of him."

Oliver hesitated. The poor soul was even friendly, she was so lonely. Perhaps she was not so hearted.

"Do you think it would be safe for

(to be continued.)

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS & CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed
Alx. Senna
Rochelle Salts
Anise Seed
Peppermint
Bi Carbonate Soda
Worm Seed
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor.

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES – 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

THE JEWETT

Best in the World." It does the work with the least effort on the part of the operator and possesses more practical conveniences than are found on any other type writer. Write for our catalogue. Sent free on application.

JEWETT TYPEWRITER COMPANY,
Home Office and Factory, DES MOINES, IA.
LEWIS & HIGINBOTHAM, Local Agents, RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Clippings Galore!

20c and 35c per pound

Every package contains scraps of all the best grades of Imported and Domestic Tobaccos, making a more satisfactory smoke than can be found in any brand of smoking tobacco. Call and try a package.

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Grochong & Blake, Props

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class in Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Northrup, King & Co.'s Seeds

Your Dealer Probably Sells Them—But if Will Help You to Get Our CATALOGUE FOR 1903 FREE.

Send for it today on a postal and say you saw it in this paper. Address: 26-28-30-32 HENNEPIN AVENUE, MINNEAPOLIS.

Your Tongue

If it's coated, your stomach is bad, your liver is out of order. Ayer's Pills will clean your tongue, cure your dyspepsia, make your liver right. Easy to take, easy to operate.

25c. All druggists.

Want your mustache or beard beautiful? Then use

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers

It is Rich, Brown or Black. Sold by all druggists, or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Capital Stock, - $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000

OFFICERS.

I. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

I. I. Wyer, F. E. Hunt, Theo Garceau,
Chas. M. Bourdon, A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...

Red Lake Falls, Minnesota

Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction in every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

J. M. BRAY.

FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES.

Slickest Place in Town to Dropin and Get ::

Fine Cigars
Wines and Liquors.

BREVORT RYE. :: K. O. R. WHISKEY

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

WHY?

The reason One Minute Cough Cure relieves a cough in one minute is because it acts first on the mucous membranes, loosening the phlegm and opening the air passages—then on the lungs, destroying the microbes or germs and healing the plague.

One Minute Cough Cure is the only remedy in the disease power, and clears out their poison, but it gives the patient the use of all the vital organs, through which passes the blood, purified. Quest the air passages and promotes unobstructed breathing. Causes the blood to receive its natural supply of oxygen, then enlivening the pulmonary organs with health-giving vitality. Is the only harmless remedy that builds up the system against the ravages of disease. Asthma, Bronchitis, La Grippe, Cold on the Lungs and all pulmonary troubles of the air cavities are quickly cured by this remedy.

ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE

Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO., Chicago.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPO-LIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BD.	STATIONS	EAST BD.
8:30 pm Lv	St. Paul	Ar 7:00 am
5:00 pm Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 10:30 am
4:40 pm Lv	Champlin	Ar 10:55 am
3:55 pm Lv	Coon Rapids	Ar 11:25 am
3:32 pm Lv	Shirley	Ar 11:50 am
2:54 pm Lv	Ulen	Ar 12:30 pm
12:00 m Lv	Hitterdal	Ar 1:30 pm
11:40 am Lv	Audubon	Ar 1:55 pm
11:20 am Ar	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 2:15 pm
10:40 am Lv	Thief River Falls	Ar 3:00 pm

G. THOMAS Agent.

W. C. SMILEY,

SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHSMAN.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Have over eighteen years U. S. Hydrological survey in Minnesota, 500 years experience in surveying and platting. Plats and maps of any county or section of Minnesota. Plats and check surveys. Mags and plats.

WANTED—A TRUSTWORTHY GENTLE man or lady in each county to manage business for an old established house of solid financial standing. $18 per week, $3 per day and expenses direct from headquarters. Money advanced for expenses. Manager, 325 Caxton Bldg., Chicago.

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale by Advertisement.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage, executed and delivered by Wm. B. Oakley and Ellen Oakley, his wife, mortgagors, to J. D. Hagley, mortgagee, dated the 1st day of March, A. D. 1902, and filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds of the County of Red Lake, in the State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1902, at two o'clock P. M., and recorded in Book of Mortgages, No. 2, page 180, which there is claimed to be due and is due, at the date of this notice, the amount of Seventy Dollars, and no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County of Red Lake, that being the place where said sale is to be held, by the Sheriff of said county, on Saturday, the sixteenth day of May, A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, with interest, and the costs and charges of sale, and fifty dollars attorney's fees, so stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage, and to be sold as aforesaid, are all that tract of land situated in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit:

The north east quarter (¼) of the northeast one fourth (¼), and the southwest one-fourth (¼) of the northeast one-fourth (¼) of section twenty-six (26) township one hundred and fifty-four (154) range forty-five (45).

Dated March 21, 1903.

J. D. HAGLER,
Mortgagee.

MERRY JOHNSON,
Attorney for Mortgagee. 12m14

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE, ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, March 30, 1903.

In the Matter of the Estate of John Bourdon, Deceased.

Letters of administration on the estate of John Bourdon, deceased, late of the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, being granted to the undersigned.

It is Ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to present the same to this Court for examination, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is Further Ordered, That the 2nd day of October, 1903, at ten o'clock a. m., at said term in the forenoon, be and the same is hereby fixed at the Probate Office in the court house in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said account.

And it is Further Ordered, That notice of said hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate, by publication of a copy of this order once a week for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the County Courier, a newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls this 30th day of March A. D. 1903.

By the court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

[SEAL.]

3x 18

Notice.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT AT the January of the March, A. D. 1903, General Term of the District Court, in and for the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, at the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County, on the 4th day of March, A. D. 1903, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, Fred Bohn, a resident of the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, will file his petition in writing, praying for the relief therein described, will apply to the said District Court for the vacation and cancellation of the Plat embracing all of those lots, pieces, parcels of Records of said County and being in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

All of Blocks numbered one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), six (6), seven (7), eight (8), nine (9), ten (10), eleven (11), twelve (12), thirteen (13), and fourteen (14), of LaBlonsierre Addition to the Village (now City), of Red Lake Falls, according to the Plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and that said fourteen (14) blocks of all the blocks in said LaBlonsierre Addition.

Said petition shall also be for the purpose of having said Plat, and the streets and alleys, and all points of all the streets, avenues and alleys embraced within said Addition vacated, and the title of thereto to all of said LaBlonsierre Addition, and the streets, avenues and alleys, and points of all the streets, avenues and alleys, be confirmed in the said Fred Bohn, and for such other and further relief as to the Court may seem just and proper.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota, February 24, 1903.

FRED BEHN.

F. A. GRADY,
Attorney for Petitioner,
Red Lake Falls, Minn. 12m9

Order to Examine Accounts.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE, ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 2, 1903.

In the matter of the Estate of Levi S. Kron, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charley Kron, administrator of the estate of Levi S. Kron, deceased, representing among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining, allowing the final account of his administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law:

It is Ordered, That said account be examined and petition heard by this Court, at the Probate Office in the City of Red Lake Falls, on the 21st day of April, A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m.

It is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested in said estate, by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls this 2nd day of April A. D. 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

3x23

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by Mrs. Oliver of Philadelphia as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; my gracious! after the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c; guaranteed at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

Peat Not a Commercial Success.

Experiments in the drying of peat for fuel from the inexhaustible bogs of the country have proved that it can be cost about $100,000, and met with only fair success. The product brings $4.25 a ton in Toronto.

Notice of Expiration or Redemption.

No. 1.

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Sub'd'n	Sec	Twp	Rge	Year of sale for taxes levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt req'd to redeem from sale	Amt req'd to redeem at date of application
J A Barricher	Kretzsch	3	27		1899	$ 28.53	May	29	1900	$ 1.70	$ 2.30
	map's and	4	27		1900	28.53	"	29	1901	1.62	2.30
	add to Red	6	27		1901	28.53	"	29	1902	1.53	2.30
	Lake Falls	25	27		1902	28.53	"	29	1903	1.45	2.30
		26	27		1899	28.53	"	29	1900	1.70	2.30
		27	27		1900	28.53	"	29	1901	1.62	2.30
		28	27		1901	28.53	"	29	1902	1.53	2.30
		29	27		1902	28.53	"	29	1903	1.45	2.30
TOTAL											$46.46

To J. A. BARRICHTER:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1903, the above described pieces or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State in entire the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described lots remain unredeemed from said sale; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount given above stated, interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 6th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

[SEAL.]

3x23

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 1

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Sub'd'n	Year of sale for taxes, 1898, for 10 years	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt req'd to redeem from sale	Amt req'd to redeem at date of application
Chas. McNamara	A strip of land 1296 feet east and west by 33 ft north and south, in the south, south of and adjoining Block 1000, 1000 and 1001 in said add. to Red Lake Falls.	1898	24.84	May	29	1902	30.75	30.97

To CHAS. MCNAMARA:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1903, the above described pieces or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described lots remain unredeemed from said sale; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount given above stated, interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 6th day of March, A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

[SEAL.]

3x23

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 1

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Sub'd'n	Sec	Twp	Rge	Year of sale for taxes levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt req'd to redeem from sale	Amt req'd to redeem at date of application
John M Boyle	Kretzsch	3	27		1899	$ 28.53	May	29	1900	$ 1.31	$ 2.30
	map's and	10	27		1900	28.53	"	29	1901	1.62	2.30
	ad to Red	11	27		1901	28.53	"	29	1902	1.53	2.30
	Lake Falls	12	27		1902	28.53	"	29	1903	1.45	2.30
		15	27		1899	28.53	"	29	1900	1.31	2.30
		16	27		1900	28.53	"	29	1901	1.62	2.30
		20	27		1901	28.53	"	29	1902	1.53	2.30
		21	27		1902	28.53	"	29	1903	1.45	2.30
		14	27		1899	28.53	"	29	1900	1.31	2.30
		18	27		1900	28.53	"	29	1901	1.62	2.30
		19	27		1901	28.53	"	29	1902	1.53	2.30
		22	27		1902	28.53	"	29	1903	1.45	2.30
		13	24		1899	28.53	"	29	1900	1.31	2.30
		17	24		1900	28.53	"	29	1901	1.62	2.30
		23	24		1901	28.53	"	29	1902	1.53	2.30
		24	24		1902	28.53	"	29	1903	1.45	2.30
TOTAL											$ 46.65

To JOHN M. BOYLE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1903, the above described pieces or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described lots remain unredeemed from said sale; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount given above stated, interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 6th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

[SEAL.]

3x23

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER JOB DEPARTMENT is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Thoughtful Man

M. M. Austin of Winchester, Ind. knew Dhat to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. He thought of and tried Dr. King's New Life Pills and they got relief at once and was finally cured. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

Charcoal Eph's Daily Thought.

"De rule on three is do hon'dis' house," said Charcoal Eph, in one of his ruminative moods, "an dat'sway: Fust, bit's tough meat, nex' bit's hash, an' las bit's soup, Mistah Jackson."—Baltimore News.

There never was a remedy for coughs, croup and diseases of the throat and lungs quite equal to Cole's Cough Cure. It not only looks and tastes good, but it promptly relieves it and cures it in a way to stay cured. Try it; it's guaranteed. 25 and 50c Sold by all druggists.

Suspicious.

Bank Director—How did you come to examine his books? His Associate —I heard him address his Sunday school class on "We are here to-day and gone to-morrow."—Puck.

A Pig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. His wrote: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter druggist. Trial bottles free.

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN

Oil Stove,

Refrigerator or Ice Cream freezer

You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of

Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages

Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils

FRANK E. HUNT

No trouble to show goods. HARDWARE DEALER.

We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.

What it Means

to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.

Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Stearns guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and prices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. M. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Hildgerkin & Reich ert's drug store.
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. MCINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, probating of estates and examining abstracts.
Office over Bangs' and Lee's store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper——

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no paints to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerome's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper.

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the states of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

Look Around

Get the lowest prices obtainable, then come to us and you will find us 'way up in quality and 'way down in prices. We don't profess to sell goods without a profit but we do claim to give you more for your money than you can get anywhere else. Many years of experience and big purchases enable us to do that.

We Offer Great Values in All Departments

.. CLOTHING ..

The dependable kind; the kind that makes you feel dressed up. Kuppenheimer Suits $0.00 to 25.00

Easter Suits for boys; a big new line. Well made suits in blue or brown Twills, only $1.50; fine "good enough" suits at $2.25

.. SKIRTS ..

An elegant new line has just been received. Good Mellon Skirts, a 1.75 great bargain

Black and blue Twill Skirt trimmed with satin..... 3

"Snow-flake" golf skirts side pleats; $4 and..... 5.00

MONARCH SHIRTS

Positively the best made today

$1.00 $1.25 $1.50

We guarantee our $1 shirt equal to any $1.25 shirt in the city.

SHOES SHOES

We could tell you a long story about our stock if we had the room. Do your pocket-book the justice to look over our line before you buy. Our boys' "Little Giants" will save you money. Try them once and you will buy no other. Our "Goodman" line of ladies', misses' and children's shoes are cheap shoes but they are good shoes. Our $1.50 Goodman Shoe for women is a regular $2.00 value. Other stores would not think it. A big line of "Easy" shoes for old ladies or others who have tender feet. Our "Odds and Ends" have all been culled out and you can buy them at great bargains.

SHIRT WAISTS

An elegant new line direct from the east.

SPECIAL—A lot of waists from last year, worth from 75c to $1.00. All right for every day Your choice for..... 39c

See our $1.75 waist; regular $2.50 value.

SUITINGS

A big line direct from the manufacturers SPECIAL—38 in. goods, all wool 5 colors, worth 60c, this week..... 50c

All the latest goods.

SPECIALS THIS WEEK

3 pounds of Stuffed Dates for 50c

Smoked Herring, 18c size for 12c

Gallon of Apples only 25c

Good Salmon, per can 10c

Pumpkin, per can, only 9c

Canned Soups, worth 15c each, 4 cans for 25c

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Maple syrup 60c per gallon at Lasouiere's.

House for rent—apply to Francois LaBissoniere.

Office supplies of all kinds at THE COURIER office.

Leo Erb has been the victim of the measles this week.

Ed L. Healy left last night on a business trip to St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raney are expected home tomorrow.

S. A. Swanson was a business visitor to Crookston Tuesday.

Norman Gervais has returned from a winter's work at the woods.

A girl baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Remick last Thursday.

For your spring millinery call at Mrs. I. Lemieux' millinery store.

Operator Hamilton, of the Great Northern, spent Sunday at Fargo.

Will Knight was a guest of friends at Thief River Falls over Sunday.

Landlord Druecker was a St. Hilaire business visitor last Friday.

George McConnell was at Crookston on business over Tuesday night.

A. E. Mosseau was a business visitor at Thief River Falls Monday.

Gerhard Didrichson has been confined to his bed by illness this week.

Mrs. H. J. Kaufer spent Sunday with her daughter at Thief River Falls.

Olaf Larson, Numedal's popular town clerk, was a county seat caller Tuesday.

Napoleon Poirier, Joseph Rohillard and Chas. Cyr and wife left Tuesday evening for North Yakima, Wash., where they will make their home in the future.

J. B. Armstrong spent last Friday in St. Hilaire on a business mission.

E. P. Johnson, the Grand Forks slot-machine man, was a caller here Saturday.

Louis Sieff purchased a forty-acre tract of land in Gervais township this week.

Miss Kate Martin is spending her week's vacation at her home in Crookston.

This is holy week, and special services are being held in the Catholic churches.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Sivertson left Tuesday on a several days' visit at the Twin cities.

Fred Borchers went to Grand Forks Saturday and returned with his wife Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Druecker went to St. Hilaire yesterday, returning home this morning.

Mrs. David Gauthier, of Rice Lake, Wis., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Rufus Poirier.

Eugene Godette is building a house on his lots in the southwestern part of the city.

Miss Della Gervais came over from Grand Forks Friday for a visit with her sisters here.

The teachers and scholars of the public schools have enjoyed an Easter vacation this week.

Misses Bessie Hunt and Margaret Kaus visited friends at Moorhead several days of this week.

The little Misses Jessie and Lois Johnson were guests of relatives at Grand Forks over Sunday.

Greenau & Zalser enumerate a number of excellent shoe values this week. Look up their advertisement.

Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Converse returned to Crookston Monday, after a visit at the home of their son, Milton.

The Misses Ethel and Hazel Bourdon are guests at the home of their uncle, George Ralph, at Crookston this week.

Horace Hetu went to Fisher Tuesday where he will be employed by Contractor Johnson in moving the Fisher mill.

Mentor is to have a newspaper. C. P. Hole, foreman of the McIntosh Times, is to be the publisher.

Attorney Chas. E. Boughton was a professional visitor at the Twin Cities the first part of the week.

Miss Julia A. Sharp, teacher of the first primary, is spending her vacation at her home in Moorhead.

C. A. Hitchcock was re-elected mayor of Crookston Tuesday by a plurality of 100 over Archie McKinnon.

August Westphal left for Wheaton, Minn., yesterday afternoon to look after his property interests in that locality.

Dr. J. E. Argue made his regular professional visit at St. Hilaire the latter part of last week, coming home Monday.

Napoleon Poirier left Tuesday evening for Seattle, Washington, and will make his future home in that country.

It is about time for the annual clean-up warning, and householders will do well in anticipating the mayor's orders.

Joseph MacaffreY, of St. Hilaire, is now employed as stenographer and bookkeeper at the Healy Land company's office.

Pat Rourke has sold his interest in his saloon business at Thief River Falls and returned to this city the first of the week.

The two little daughters of H. Gonigam were ill the first few days of the week, but are reported as better at this writing.

The Rice family, who occupy the Rue residence on Bottineau avenue, welcomed the advent of a boy baby Sunday morning.

C. H. Staples, a resident of Peterson, Iowa, was a visitor here Friday last, and completed a deal for a slice of Red Lake county land.

Mrs. Wm. Sampson returned to her Crookston home Monday, after a few days' stay at the home of Sheriff Sampson in this city.

Theo. LaFevanix, of Montreal, Canada, is the guest of his brother-in-law Eus Normandeau of this city. He may decide to locate here.

C. A. Akerlund, formerly an employee at the bank of Red Lake Falls, was up from Crookston yesterday on a visit to his friends.

Chas. Tollen, a Grand Forks telephone lineman for the Northwestern company, was looking over his company's property here Saturday.

J. F. Matthews, the Dorothy hustler, was here Saturday after some stock which he will fatten on his farm. He returned home Sunday.

Harry Ives, editor of the St. Hilaire Spectator, returned home Monday after an absence of several months in Florida and British Honduras.

L. E. Gonigam and Calyton Meiher returned to their home at Walnut, Ill., Saturday last after attending the funeral of the late O. E. Gonigam.

A dance will be held at Woodman hall, Terreboane, next Tuesday evening, April 14. A cordial invitation is extended to the Red Lake Falls people.

The Northern Pacific station at Buffington was destroyed by fire Monday. A car of oats was also burned, and the loss will amount to about $1,500.

Open the door, let in the air,
The winds are sweet the flowers are fair,
Joy is abroad in the world to-day,
Since taking Rocky Mountain Tea.
A. L. Reichert.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $50 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

A Sweet Breath

Is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach grow sweet. A. L. Richert.

Furniture at Private Sale

I am offering at private sale my household goods, consisting of the following articles, which will be sold cheap for cash:

1 3-piece Bedroom Suite; 1 Couch;
1 10-foot extension Dining Table;
1 Iron Bed, complete with mattress; 1 cot;
2 Parlor Lamps; 2 Hand Lamps;
2 Rockers; 4 Kitchen Chairs; 1 Cook Stove;
1 Hard Coal Stove, self feed;
2 Chamber Sets; 1 Buffet;
1 upholstered Chair; 50 yards of Body Brussells carpet; 45 yards of Ingrain carpet and other articles.

For prices, etc., call at office of F. A. Grady, over First State Bank.

JOHN GRADY.....

Bankrupt Sale
... AT ...
FORTIER'S

WE HAVE PURCHASED the Shagnon stock of Dry Goods and Groceries, invoicing nearly $3,000, and the goods are offered to the people of Red Lake Falls and vicinity at lower prices than first-class merchandise was ever before offered in this section. This stock was purchased at a low figure and we are giving our customers the benefit by making discounts of from 20 to 50 per cent. Now is the time to get bargains. Note a few of our prices:

Dried Fruits..

Peaches, 3 pounds for 25c.
Prunes, per pound, 4c.

As long as they last:

"Swift" laundry soap, 7 bars for 25c.
"Cabinet," "Sioux" and "Cudahy" laundry soap, 9 bars for 25c.

GOOD 15c COFFEE going at..... 10c
BANNER PACKAGE OATS..... 25c
FULL CREAM CHEESE per lb..... 14c
15c grade SALMON only..... 10c
STANDARD BRAND TOMATOES..... 9c
HOME COMFORT TOMATOES..... 12½c
DELAND SODA, 4 packages for..... 25c
GOLD DUST, 20c package for..... 15c

For another week we will sell BAKING POWDERS at 20 per cent. discount.
Men's fleece-lined UNDERWEAR, as long at it lasts, per suit..... 70c
A lot of fancy QUEENSWARE and GLASSWARE at greatly reduced prices.

Come in and investigate our bargains. We can save you money on your purchases. Our spring line of Dry Goods will soon be in.

Fortier

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

The Courier, $1 a year.

FREE FARM

OF 160 ACRES IN THE FAMOUS SASKATCHEWAN VALLEY OF WESTERN CANADA.

To the Renter, the Farmers' Sons, the Poor Man, this is a chance of a life time to secure a GOOD FARM ABSOLUTELY FREE in a country where WHEAT IS KING and crop failures are unknown.

Stop Working For Some One Else!

BE INDEPENDENT and OWN YOUR OWN FARM

DON'T WAIT! THESE FARMS WILL BE TAKEN UP FAST! WRITE NOW.

We furnish Free Liveries and Experienced Men to show the lands and locate you.

We have a colonization arrangement with the Canadian Government to locate a limited number of settlers on our lands, and as soon as this contract is completed This Offer will be Withdrawn. Remember, you have nothing to pay excepting a homesteader's fee of $10.00, which is paid to the Government of Canada. You do not pay us a penny.

Reduced Railway Rates any day. Write us for full information, Maps and Descriptive matter.

The Saskatchewan Valley Land Co. Ltd.

305 Jackson St., ST. PAUL, MINN.

NOTE.—This Company and its proposition has the hearty endorsement of this paper.—ED.

To Cure a Cold in One Day Cures Grip in Two Days.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. E. W. Grove on every box. 25c.
Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature,

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 28. | RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 16, 1903. | WHOLE NUMBER 236.

BRAN NEW LIST OF BRAIN EXERCISERS

Valuable Prizes Offered by the Courier for Correct Solutions of These Name Puzzles.

The name puzzles this week will probably be found a little more difficult to solve than those of last week. Answers will not be restricted to pupils of the schools, but will be received from anyone. The prizes will be as follows:

First—a 32 map of Minnesota;
Second—a 50-cent papetrie;
Third—a 25-cent papetrie;
Fourth—a 25-cent papetrie.

The prizes will be awarded in point of time correct answers are received, but in order to give out-of-town subscribers an opportunity to compete on an equal basis with the people of Red Lake Falls all answers handed in or mailed to reach us before 2 p. m. Saturday, April 18, will have an equal chance in point of time, and if two or more persons are entitled to any of the prizes the winner will be selected by lot. None of THE COURIER employees or members of their families will be allowed to participate in the distribution of prizes.

The puzzles this week again represent names of well-known residents of Red Lake Falls. Wherever two definitions are given, they apply to different syllables of the word, and consecutively form the whole:

1—A musical term.
2—Appertaining to the celestial.
3—A seed bud; an abbreviation for a state.
4—An important part of a ship's steering apparatus.
5—An exclamation; a preserving fluid.
6—Sold in a lumber yard; forward.
7—A fish; said to a cow.
8—A maker of clothing.
9—A consumptive.
10—To swear or vow; a male descendant.
11—An electrical term; a conspicuous heavenly body.
12—Sorrowful remembrance.
13—To waste; a narrow path.
14—To flog; a village.
15—A point of the compass; to depress.
16—Fresh; a measure of weight.

The winners of the prizes offered for the solution of last week's puzzles are as follows:

First—Walter Johnson, Red Lake Falls;
Second—Frances Stall, Red Lake Falls;
Third—Nora G. Johnson, St. Hilaire;
Fourth—Harold Erb, Red Lake Falls.

The winners are invited to call and receive their prizes.

The answers to last week's puzzles are as follows:

1—Whiteley;
2—Ford;
3—Hunt;
4—Marshall;
5—Wyer;
6—Tenney;
7—Toupin;
8—Argue;
9—Martin;
10—Walker;
11—Knight;
12—Armstrong;
13—McIntosh;
14—Cyr;
15—Freund;
16—Sharp.

New Wolf Bounty Law in Action.

County Auditor Ferd has received from the state auditor blanks and other necessary papers for use in connection with the new wolf bounty law which is now in effect in this state. The law is a "hummer" and to secure the bounty for the butchering of a hardless, half-starved prairie wolf requires nearly as much "red tape" as getting a civil service appointment or a back pension. The law provides for the payment of $7.50 for grown wolves, male or female, and $1 for young ones, and after the hunter has succeeded in sending Mr. wolf's spirit to its happy hunting ground the carcass must be taken before the town clerk where two witnesses are required to swear to the identity of the assassin, after which the wolf must be skinned in the presence of the clerk, whose constitution must be of necessary strength to withstand the ordeal. The body is required to be interred in a place designated by the clerk. The head, ears and hide are then brought to the county auditor who punches a hole in each ear to make sure it is the genuine article and pays the required bounty. The state pays the amount stated above and the commissioners have the privilege of raising the amount as much as they see fit. Clerks can procure the new blanks by applying to Auditor Ford.

WATERWORKS PLANT WILL BE SECURED

Mass Meeting of Citizens Shows Unanimous Sentiment for this Needed Improvement.

A mass meeting of the business men was held at the city hall Monday forenoon to discuss the waterworks proposition. For some years the urgent need of a water system has been felt, and of late the more enterprising citizens have been agitating the advisability of granting a franchise. As the city cannot at present issue bonds for the construction of a municipal plant, the only method by which a system can be secured is by granting a franchise to private parties, and it is stated that several companies are open for negotiations.

The mass meeting developed a unanimous sentiment for waterworks and sewerage, and the city council was instructed to use its best efforts to secure the needed improvements. It is likely that they will succeed shortly in obtaining an advantageous offer, as several inquiries have already been received by Clerk Toupin.

For Sale or Rent.

I offer my property on Main street for sale or rent on favorable terms. The building has 18 rooms and has been used for a hotel and boarding house. Apply at my residence.—H. O. Gjerberg. 4w

BAND BENEFIT BALL.

Dancers Will Help a Good Cause and Have an Enjoyable Time.

A grand band benefit ball will be given at the Metropolitan opera house Friday evening which promises to be an enjoyable event.

Freund's orchestra will furnish the music and that organization is becoming famed as an excellent body of musicians and the dancers thoroughly appreciate its work.

As this is practically an Easter ball, together with the fact that it is for the benefit of so worthy a cause, a large turnout should result.

Judge Grindeland's Chambers.

Warren Register: At their meeting last week the county commissioners decided to provide room for Judge Grindeland's chambers in the court house. The chambers will be located on the second floor, across the hall from the court room. The room in the southeast corner and the one adjoining it will also be made into one, for the use of the judge, while the third room will be fitted up for the use of his stenographer. A portion of the basement will be fixed up for use as jury rooms. In this providing Judge Grindeland with chambers in the court house the county board is simply following a custom that obtains generally throughout the state in counties whose capitals are the homes of district judges.

Clean Flax Seed for Sale.

I have a quantity of clean flax seed for sale. I also have several milch cows which I offer for sale. Inquire of Regis Huot, Dorothy P. O., Minn. 2w

COLUMBIA COUNTY GETS A SOLAR PLEXUS

Supreme Court Declares the Vote Illegal Because Petition Was Not Filed First.

St. Paul, April 16, 3.39 p. m.—Special to THE COURIER—Supreme court decision filed this afternoon. Columbia county is knocked out because petition was not filed first.

S. A. SWANSON.

The above telegram received just before going to press this afternoon, would indicate that Nelson county, of which Fosston is the county-seat, is created by virtue of the supreme court's decision. Nelson county embraces the same territory as Columbia, and the effect of the decision is that Fosston instead of McIntosh will be the county seat, and that the same of the new county will be Nelson instead of Columbia.

As McIntosh is more centrally located, it is likely that it can wrest the county-seat from its eastern neighbor at the next election.

Rooms for rent—I have two good-sized front rooms, suitable for office, located over Bangs & Co.'s store, for rent. Call on W. A. Riechel for particulars.

J. A. Duffy wants 25 or 30 cords of stone. Call at the bank

We are the Leaders!! The only up-to-date Clothing House in the County!!

THE SURPRISE STORE

We Maintain the Most Perfect Stocks of Correct, High-grade Men's and Boys' Clothing in Existence

A careful study of the exacting requirements of critical men is evident throughout our entire store. In HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX clothing we exemplify the highest attainment of tailors. The service, the satisfaction and the values characterize this more than ever the chief clothing emporium of Red Lake county and surrounding country.

We invite you to call and inspect our fine grades of high class suits at $15, $18, $20, $22, $25 and $28.

MEN'S SUITS in grey and dark mixtures, properly shaped, well made and trimmed at $4.50

MEN'S SUITS of a fancy dark mixture in stripes or checks, made very durable with new shoulder and lapel, at $5

MEN'S SUITS, famous for their strength of texture, in plain colors or stripes, with hand-made collars, hair cloth fronts and snug-fitting, at..... $6.50

MEN'S SUITS of a high-grade cassimere in fancy weaves and stripes, hand-made collars, stiff front, must be seen to be appreciated, at..... $7.50

MEN'S Peacedale Worsted Suits in blue and black, serge lined, excellently made, very durable, very dressy; hand-made collar and lapel, at..... $10

100 styles of Men's suits in stripes, plain or fancy colorings: hand-made collar, concave shoulders, stiff front, at..... $10

The York Spring Short Top Coat

Beautiful styles of swagger Spring Top Coats that are most fashionable this season

L'Aiglon Rain-Repelling Spring Overcoats

This distinctive waterproof garment—spring coat and rain coat in one. Every coat is guaranteed rain proof; they are swagger and up-to-date. The hit of the season; up from..... $18

YOUNG MEN'S SUITS...

PARTICULAR DEPARTMENT FOR YOUNG MEN

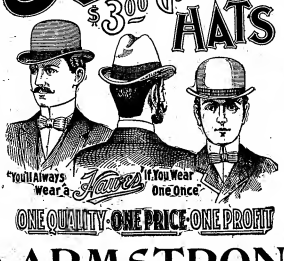
WE OFFER to you young men's suits that in quality of style and quality of material are all attempts, and the values are simply unsurpassed. We have them up from

$5.00

America's greatest hat showing. We have sole agency

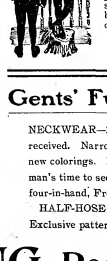
FROM THE FACTORY TO THE HEAD

Hawes $3.00 GUARANTEED HATS



ONE QUALITY-ONE PRICE-ONE PROFIT

BOYS' CLOTHING



Base ball and bat or catcher's mitt given free with every boys' suit.

We are showing a very large line of Boys' and Children's Suits in two-piece and three-piece suits. We are showing blouse suits in brown, maroon, blue and light colors. Also a fine line of Norfolks in light and dark colors.

The Prices are Right

Gents' Furnishings

HANDKERCHIEFS in Linen and Silkotien, in neat effects. Large assortment.

SUSPENDERS—Cross and Berlin backs, kid or seal ends, in the cotton, linen or silk web.

SILVER SHIRTS in plain and plaited bosoms; the newest ideas. Beautiful colorings in the new modes.

Gents' Furnishings

NECKWEAR—300 dozen; every one of them just received. Narrow and medium widths in entirely new colorings. Magnificent display. Worth any man's time to see them. In bows, strings, tecks, four-in-hand, French fold and Ascot Imperial.

HALF-HOSE in plain, fancy and embroidered. Exclusive patterns.

BERTHON & ARMSTRONG, Red Lake Falls

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Blood is thicker than water, except in Chicago.

Good morning! Have you got your congressional seeds?

Mrs. Burdick has one redeeming virtue. She has shown no inclination to go on the stage.

A federal judge has decided that betting on a horse race is not a lottery. It seems that in all lotteries there is a chance to win.

The Princeton Union preaches thus:

Weep not for the dead who are dead and buried, but rather weep for the dead who are living, and are not yet ready for the undertaker.

No town is big enough to afford a factional strife. One crowd can pull down as fast as the other builds up. Thief River Falls papers please copy.

The municipal ownership idea keeps growing. It is hard to defeat a candidate for mayor standing for that principle. If you don't believe it study the returns from Chicago, Cleveland and Toledo.

Our delightful neighbors at Thief River Falls are quarrelling over the place the Soo should cross the river. It seems the up-river people are in the habit of crossing bridges before the railroads get to them.

Twenty-three ounces—more than twice the normal—was the weight of the heart of a sleeping car porter on whose body an inquest was held recently at Washington. This is certainly abnormal—for a sleeping car porter.

The Mentor Herald is a new venture on the coy but uncertain ocean of journalism. The craft looks sprightly and rigid enough to weather the storms that cross the pathway of the sea. C. P. Hole, until recently foreman of the McIntosh Times, is the publisher of the Herald.

We can all say "amen to this from the Benson Monitor:

George Thompson, editor of the St. Paul Dispatch, had a prominent place in the reception given President Roosevelt at St. Paul. We hope he is now on sufficiently good terms with the president to induce the latter to read some of the very able tariff revision editorials that have been published in the Dispatch the last few months.

When the Crookstonite is confronted with a consuming desire to drop a nickel into the delusive slot machine he doesn't satisfy it because he can't. However, he is still privileged to throw his money into the river, and in that way he can get rid of a bothersome surplus with as much alacrity as in the olden days.

If Rockefeller is a consistent christian the Windom Citizen thinks he ought to be satisfied with smaller dividends:

John D. Rockefeller has just received from the Standard Oil company another quarterly dividend of $8,000,000. Thirty-two million a year! That's not so bad. But every dollar that adds to his riches diminishes by so much the eye of the needle through which he enters heaven, where there are no pipelines, and the game of freeze-out is unknown.

The cat is a useful part of the social organism after all, if the Litchville Bulletin philosopher is not amiss:

It is said an old cat is better than any thermometer or barometer. If he eats grass, it is a sign of rain; if he stands with his back to the stove, look out for cold weather; when he washes his face south years, for company is coming; if he is nervous at the time he is usually sleepy, look to your lightning rod, as an electric storm is brewing. Everything he does is a sign of something. If you haven't a measly old scratched-up, log-eared cat, better get one at once.

Here is Frank Day's summary of the Burdick incident:

In the matter of the Burdick murder the public has reached the conclusion that the lascivious Pennell either struck the fatal blow himself or else hired some one to do it for him. The woman in the case was the legitimate product of our economic conditions, which hold up a monied aristocracy whose votaries devote their entire time to pleasures which debauch the mind and debauch society. The Burdicks and Pennells are true types of the so-called Four Hundred who fix the standard of social life in our great centers of wealth.

Miss Mack declares:

The male contingent never can figure out why women wear dresses buttoned down the back, and how they get into them.

But the young old man of the Albert Lea Standard takes the wind out of this argument by replying:

Many of "the male contingent" know a whole lot more than some of the dear female contingent give them credit for.

The observer is in receipt of this communication:

Editor of Courier: I am keeping Co. with a nice young man which I met at a dance in Terrybon. He never calls me by my first name or tries to be nice to me. What shall I do? FLORA.

It's too deep for us, Flora. We have referred the inquiry to Beatrice Fairfax, but as a means of temporary relief we would advise our love-lorn contributor to hit him with an axe. He is evidently too dense for a less heroic remedy to be effective.

Bob Dunn, in his Princeton Union, hands us this one:

Mr. John E. King, editor of the Courier, is one of the best and brightest newspaper men in the state, and we are surprised to know that he has not stood up Samuel Thomas Johnson correctly. Bro. King, you do not know that man Johnson.

All right, Bob. You may not know much about "that man Johnson," but we do know a little something about recent political history in this neck o' the woods, and that Examiner Johnson's investigations have had a salutary effect. A number of old-fashioned "grafts" will no longer disturb the anxious tax-payer.

This is tambasting School master McCleary with a vengeance. The New Ulm Journal states:

McCleary will not be a candidate for re-nomination, says the Sherburn Advocate. Will it be possible for the district to find a man to fill the vacancy?

And right here is where Eb Huntington, of the Windom Reporter, as staunch a Republican as Minnesota can boast, lets loose a cutting bit of irony:

Vacancy? It has not been filled since John Lind's time.

The Preston Times makes a few observations with respect to a political bubble that by sheer audacity and impudence once gained a high place in the Republican councils. But the bubble has burst, and nothing is left save an unpalatable memory:

I might say, "How have the mighty fallen!" in speaking of Former Secretary of State Albert Berg, except that Albert was a mere political ad'd northern pomme and in no sense was "mighty." Going into the spavely-teeth- ere he proved tion of the state, he was two years ago sent to the legislature, ah- ummer. And such a failure that he was utterly repudiated at the primaries last s- tle town of now comes the news that he has been defeated for alderman in the li- will again Warroad. It will probably be some time before even his nationality case. cause him to be again suggested as gubernatorial timber, or way once the Hatching Trouble.

Oliver—Pa, what does bon-mot mean?

Pa—Oh, don't bother me! Get your Latin dictionary and find out for yourself—Ally Sloper.

Algy (trying to introduce himself)—May I have the pleasure of learning your name?

Miss Pert—Pearl.

Algy—Are you the pearl of great price?

Miss Pert—No; I'm the pearl before swine! Good-bye!—Scraps.

NOT PECULIAR TO CUBA.

Appleton—What do you raise in Cuba during the rainy season?

Bannerman—Oh, rain and umbrellas, principally.—N. Y. Sun.

AND THEY DO IT, TOO.

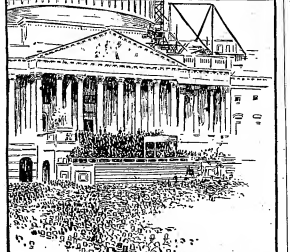
"But, you see, I only want the teapot and the sugar basin. Don't you break these sets?"

"Oh, madam, we generally leave that to the servants of our customers."—Punch.

Subscribe for THE COURIER

Bring your job work to THE COURIER

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE



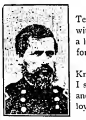
THE INAUGURATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.
Find Ex-President Buchanan.

For a number of days previous to the inauguration of President Lincoln, rumors were rife as to threatened attempts at assassination. Secret service men were stationed everywhere along the route he would have to travel in order to reach the capital. It is probable that he only escaped an untimely fate at Baltimore, where it was known a plot against his life was ready for execution, by passing through that city on an earlier train that he was expected to take. At the capital elaborate preparations were made for the inauguration, and every precaution that was possible was taken to prevent violence to the president-elect. President Lincoln was accompanied to the capital by President Buchanan. They rode together in the same carriage, which was closely guarded by District of Columbia and regular troops, and troops were also stationed on the tops of commanding houses and about the platform on the capital steps.

Answer to last weeks puzzle—Upper right corner, just above head of soldier at mouth of cannon.

Education Among the Mountains of East Tennessee

By GEN. O. O. HOWARD, U. S. A.



President Lincoln first called my attention to East Tennessee. In the course of an interview that I had with him during the Civil War he spread before us a large colored map and said, pointing with his lean forefinger to Cumberland Gap:

"Couldn't you break through there and seize Knoxville and relieve the people of those districts?" I shall never forget the expression of Lincoln's voice and the look in his face when he added: "They're loyal there, Gen. Howard; they're loyal there."

Later in the war, when by a different route I did march into East Tennessee, I saw that Lincoln was right; to the Union cause the mountaineers were devoted heart and soul. They gave us food, clothes, shelter and information. We found them an uneducated people but rich in the intelligence and independence that had come to them as a heritage from Scotch ancestors.

When the war was over I did not lose interest in that mountain section, though it was not until five years ago that I found myself again at Cumberland Gap, discussing with one or two friends of education the region's need of schools. Sitting on the veranda of an old sanitarium and looking out over the wonderful panorama spread before us, we knew that in 14 counties in that corner where Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia meet there was not a schoolhouse. In the little village of Cumberland Gap there were only 500 inhabitants, yet we believed it the best site for an institution. When Henry Clay used to come there to speak, 5,000 people flocked down the mountains to listen. It was the center of a scattered population.

That conference on the piazza was the beginning of Lincoln Memorial University. The sanitarium was our first school building. Today we have a sawmill, a planing mill, a shingle mill and a brickyard. Last year our students raised a hundred acres of good crops and cultivated ten acres of garden. We have a domestic science course and our newest building is a dormitory for girls. Good friends have helped us till we have an endowment of $200,000. When I am asked why I call such a group of industrial schools a university, I say that our departments for teaching practical things deserve the name.

Last summer I took a horseback trip through the mountains, and it did my heart good to see the work going forward. I saw schoolhouses of new logs and children coming to them from miles around, never less than two and sometimes five on the back of one horse. Those log schoolhouses are the feeders of our university.

The mountain people are not degenerate. They live hard, isolated lives, but they come of good stock, they have a magnificent climate and they are a healthy, sturdy race, rearing large families, living wholesomely out of doors. To efforts to help them they respond eagerly. They want the life we bring them. For young women who are looking for a chance to do missionary work there is not a grander chance in the country than to teach in the log schoolhouses of East Tennessee and carry forward the cause of education in the mountains.

The Secret of Animal Sculpture

By MISS MELVA B. WILSON,

One of the Four Women Sculptors Who Have Commissions to Execute for the St. Louis Exposition.

Success in animal sculpture is largely a matter of sympathy. Within a few minutes after I see a horse I know whether or not I can model it. An animal has individuality and just as a sculptor must feel and respond to the personality of a human subject, so in dealing with an animal good work is impossible unless artist and subject are en rapport.

Like a human being, each animal has characteristic poses. Mrs. James L. Kernochan's Inner Retribution stands habitually with one hind leg bent and the hoof curled. When I made a portrait statue of this horse I could no more fail to take account of its attitude than I could neglect the turn of a woman's head or the slope of her shoulders.

To catch an animal's expression is the subtle work than to copy external characteristics. Last winter, while staying at a military post, I wished to model a horse whose temper was said to be so bad that I was warned against entering its stable. I did enter, without fear, for I know a horse's way of getting acquainted. An animal judges you and your intentions toward it by the sense of smell. If you like a horse, be sure the horse will smell that out. I let this horse sniff me over and in ten minutes we were friends and I was at work. I never had a subject with whom I was more completely in touch or whose character caught more fully. My sitter had not only a will but a sense of humor, and when tired of my maneuvers would shoulder me good-naturedly towards the door.

An animal is a less satisfactory subject for sculpture than is a human being, because hair or fur obscures the anatomy more than does the human skin; yet in other respects animal sculpture is fascinating. It is interpreting to the world something that has no speech and that looks to you for expression. It is the fulfillment of a trust that no conscience could betray.

To Make a Happy Home

By MARIE CORELLI.

No woman who has a home need ever be idle. If she employs her time properly she will find no leisure for gossiping, scandal-mongering, moping, grumbling, "fadding," fortune-telling or crystal-gazing. Of course, if she "manages" her household merely through a paid housekeeper, she cannot be said to govern the establishment at all. The housekeeper is the real mistress, and very soon secures such a position of authority that the lady who employs and pays her scarcely dare give an order without her. No one knows the real character and disposition of the mistress of a home better than the servants she employs, and if she is honored and loved by her domestics the stands on surer ground than the praise or flattery of her fashionable friends. The charm of home depends, of course, entirely on the upbringing and character of the inmates. Stupid and illiterate people make a dull fireside. Morbid faddists, always talking and thinking about themselves, put the fire out altogether. If I were asked my opinion as to the chief talent or gift for making a happy home, I should without a moment's hesitation reply, "Cheerfulness." A cheerful spirit, always looking on the bright side, and determined to make the best of everything, is the choicest blessing.

T.L. BLOOD & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
DRIES WHILE YOU SLEEP
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
St. Paul Minn.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

REVISAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 12:30 p. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 4:30 p. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.

Mail leaves office Sundays at 7:00 p. m.
Mail from Lamont, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 1:00 p. m.

Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Supplies from 12:00 m until 1:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train day and by stage Sundays.

E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY

Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000

Fidelity Bonds.
Court Bonds..Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.

F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DON'T BE FOOLED

Advertisements having appeared in various publications wherein Sears, Roebuck & Co., offer Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines, we wish to warn the public that they are not our authorized agents and that we do not sell our machines to them nor any other catalogue house or department store.

Their advertisements are not for the purpose of promoting the sale of our machines. They are using our reputation as makers of the high grade machines only, in order to get the names of possible buyers and persuade them to purchase one of their cheap STENCILED MACHINES, the manufacturers of which they are, evidently, ashamed to make public.

If you want a genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, do not waste your time writing to anyone who is unable to furnish it. The genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, made by us and backed by our warranty, is sold only by our authorized dealers only. When you buy a Wheeler & Wilson, you get a machine that is a machine, backed by a reputation of 50 years' unparalleled success.

Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133, I. O. O. F.,
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING.
VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Whitney, H. Hemesoth, Wm. Schwiesow
N. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. Price, 35 cents. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitute. Ask your druggist.
INCORPORATED 1903

OUT THEY GO
Wm. A. Brown & Co.
NORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has still blank town sell on clay foundation, producing heavy crops—others can't grow. Good water at 70 ft. Write for name and terms.
Wm. A. Brown & Co.
Mandan, N. Dak., or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

Kentland's Devotion

By HENRY HUMISTON

TO Kentland's supreme disgust Mrs. Van Dolah's house party accepted with great enthusiasm Violet Harwood's proposal that they all go over to the park and skate on the lagoon.

Kentland looked around the snug little den on the second floor, with the open grate fire burning cheerily in one corner. He glanced through the half-drawn curtains into the billiard room beyond, which was foggy with smoke, and which resounded to the merry click of the billiard balls and the laughter of Mr. Van Dolah and Judge Stern, who were in the old people's class, and, therefore, exempt from going to skating parties when they didn't want to go. He looked ruefully at the dim flittle sleeve at the head of the stairs and thought of how he had planned, after he had skates all of the conceit out of Mr. Van Dolah and Judge Stern at billiards and smoked three pipefuls of tobacco, to sit in this sleeve and have a nice, long, quiet talk with Violet. Then he pulled aside the curtain and looked out into the dark winter night with the gaslights flaring in the wind and the snow sifting gently down. The winter spectacle was more than he could bear. Kentland groaned and dropped the curtain with a shudder.

"Tom Kentland," said a voice at the door. "I think you're an idiot."

Kentland looked up to where Kitty Clover was standing in the doorway.

"O, thanks," he said, in his slow drawl. "You're too kind."

"I don't care," went on Kitty; "somebody had to tell you."

"And just considered yourself the chosen instrument?"

"Well," said Kitty, as she came into the den and sat down by Tom, "I really believe I am. I have known you so long—O, ages and ages, and because I am such an old friend I use say things to you that others don't."

"So careless of the others," said Tom, as he gazed coldly at the sparkling fire.

"Tom," Kitty looked at him severely; "I know that you are much in love with Violet."

"Pussy," said Kentland.

"Yes, you are, and there's no use denying it. And I know she likes you very much."

"Does she?" said Tom. "So much that she looks at me about three times a day. Where is she now, sitting on the steps with that little Harvard boy or singing at the piano while that fellow Fowner, or whatever his name is, turns the music and looks like a cow whenever she happens to glance up at him?"

"It's your own fault," said Kitty. "A man is supposed to try and please the woman he loves. He should study what she likes and doesn't like and govern himself accordingly. While you, with all your supposed experience, act as though you didn't know the first principles of love making."

"No," admitted Kentland, "I suppose I am what they call a poor performer."

"It would be so easy," went on Kitty. "Violet adores devotion more than anything else. That is why she likes that Harvard boy, as you call him, and Mr. Fowner. They are devotion itself, while you—well, you don't know what devotion means."

"Devotion," said Kentland, "means the state of being devoted to any one thing, person or object. Strong attachment. Ardent love or affection. P. L., of Latin devovere, de-vovere, to—"

"O, nonsense," put in Kitty. "Why can't you be sensible? Other men are devoted to Violet. She has grown to expect it. If a man isn't devoted to her then she thinks he doesn't care. You are so exasperating. Now, just the other evening, when we were talking about the fires and the Harvard boy had told how he had rescued a dozen from the third floor of a blazing dormitory, and Violet had asked if anyone wanted revenge her in case the house burnt up, and all the men had eagerly volunteered, what did you say?"

"I don't know," said Kentland, shaking his head. "Something silly, I'll be bound."

"I should say it was," said Kitty. "You said you wouldn't rescue her unless she was in a tobacco warehouse, because you didn't like any smoke except tobacco smoke. Then, to make it worse, you said you didn't believe in rescuing people anyhow. That that was when firemen were paid for and that you belonged to a union and couldn't rescue people because you were forbidden by your rules to do the work of other union men, which included the Amalgamated Firemen and Rescuers' association, and that if this house burned you would be compelled to sit in a saloon across the street and watch a fireman in a gum coat and a black helmet carry Violet from out the devouring flames to the safety of the street below."

"Well, that's what fat firemen are paid for," gently interposed Kentland.

"And," went on Kitty, "it made Violet angry. You might have pretended, anyhow, as long as there isn't the faintest chance of your being put to the test. Now, there's the skating party to-night. It's Violet that proposed to go. Harry any of the men care about it, but because it's Violet's plan they have all taken it up. Everybody is making ready but you."

"It's so cold outside," said Kentland; "besides, I couldn't skate ten feet if I was paid a thousand dollars a foot."

"Suppose you can't skate! You could go along anyhow. Why, the sight of you sitting in the cold up on the bank of the lagoon would prove your devotion and do you more good than if you were actually skating and enjoying yourself."

"I don't take well to sitting on a snow bank in the dark," said Kentland. "I look nicer in front of a grate, with the ruddy firelight bringing my noble profile into strong relief against the dim background behind."

Kitty rose with great hauteur. "As I said in the beginning, Mr. Kentland," said Kitty, "I say again: You are an idiot. I wash my hands of you. I wanted to help you. I don't care any more. If I were Violet I don't think I would ever look at you again." Then she marched sternly out of the room, and Kentland heard her tell the rest of the house party gathered at the foot of the stairs that he was too lazy to go skating.

The front door slammed and Kentland, looking out of the window, saw the party tramping away to the park. "I suppose I ought to go," he said, giving another dismal glance at the grate. He thought about it for awhile and then sadly went downstairs, put on his overcoat and cap and the white woolen mittens that Violet had given him, and went out into the darkness.

"Wow!" said Kentland to himself. "Confound skating parties, anyhow."

"Please, mister," whined a voice at his side, "gimme a dime; I'm freezing to death."

Kentland looked at the tramp for awhile. Then a brilliant inspiration seized him. "You come with me," he said to the tramp. He led him back to Mrs. Van Dolah's kitchen and gave him two cups of hot coffee and a generous slice of steak. Then he deserted to him a certain party of ten people who would be skating in a creek in Lincoln park. He put his overcoat on the tramp, and the white mittens, and the cap.

"You go up to the park," he said, sternly, "and sit down near the bank in the snow somewhere so that you can be plainly seen from the lagoon. Don't sit near enough so that the skaters can come up and talk to you, but not too far away so that they can't take notice of this coat, and this hat, and these gloves. Sit somewhere near the electric light, but not too close. When this party sees you and waves at you, why, you wave back, and when you see them going to take their skates off you out for this place as fast as you can. Don't try to talk to this party or I'll have you sent to the penitentiary for life. And don't run away with this coat, for if you follow my instructions I'll give you one of my old suits and overcoats tomorrow that will be just as good, and a pair of shoes and a five-dollar bill into the bargain, and maybe you can blackmail me into doing something else for you. Now go on."

Kentland fairly pushed the tramp out of doors and then with a sigh of joy went back up the stairs four steps at a jump. He reached the den unobserved, and moving a screen so that he would not be seen from the billiard room he noiselessly secured a pack of cards and, lighting a cigar, sat down in front of the grate fire and gave himself up to the delicious abandon of solitaire. After he had beaten the 13 game twice he got down his favorite book and read it through. Then he sat in the window seat and smoked his pipe in silent comfort while he watched the falling snow outside.

Suddenly he heard a knocking at the side door. He hurried down and found the tramp outside. He hurriedly reeled back his overcoat, cap and gloves, while the tramp breathlessly told him that he had followed instructions to the letter. "They used me lots of times," said the tramp, "and waved their mitts at me, and I give 'em the glad han' ritz back again. Say, you're a good home sow." Kentland handed the tramp a five-dollar bill and gave him an address to call at the next day to get the promised old clothes. With a gurgle of joy the tramp turned away down the street and Kentland thoughtfully walked around in the snow on the top step and then rubbed his face with a handful of snow until his complexion was a good, ruddy color. He hauled on his coat and hat and walked around to front hall just as the house party returned.

"Why in the world didn't you come home with us?" asked Kitty. "We all went over to where you had been sitting, but you were gone."

"Yes," said the Harvard boy, "you ought to have helped carry all those skates home. I say, we're just about turned to ice. Really, that was about the coldest skating I ever did."

"Well," put in Kitty, "I suppose Mr. Kentland is even colder than the rest of us. We were moving about while he had to sit still up in that terrible snow bank. Poor boy, I suppose he's just about frozen to death."

"I am afraid I have misjudged you all along," said Miss Harwood, a half hour later, as she and Kentland sat in the cozy corner alone. "I thought you were rather—well—selfish, and that you wouldn't do anything but what suited your own pleasure, but when I saw you sitting away up there on the bank in the snow and saving back as to all you might feel you were with us in our sport I knew that we had made a mistake. You can be awfully nice when you want to be."

Kentland resolved to give the tramp two suits of clothes instead of the one that he had promised. Later on in the evening, after more low-toned conversation with Miss Harwood, he decided to make it three and throw in another pair of shoes.—Chicago Tribune.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES rotted in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this farm. Balance can be paid on time to suit and 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,

BANK F RED LAKE FALLS,

Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

The Biggest Offer Yet...

Two Weekly Newspapers and a Handsome State Map for $1.50

THE COURIER has secured several hundred Rand-McNally maps of Minnesota, 4x5 feet in size, mounted on wooden rollers, and in every way equal to the regular $3 maps published by this house. On the reverse side is a map of the world and pictures and biographies of all the presidents from Washington to Roosevelt. We are offering for a limited time

ONE of these Maps and a copy of the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch for one year, together with THE COURIER for a year, at the low price of $1.50, cash in advance.....

Old Subscribers Can Take Advantage of this Offer by Paying Up All Arrearages and One Year in Advance.

THIS is the greatest subscription offer ever made to the people of Red Lake county. Remember the map is not a cheap affair, but is printed on the best quality of paper map paper, with cloth edges. They cannot be bought at retail anywhere for less than the published price of $3.

Now is the Time to Subscribe

CALL ON OR ADDRESS

Red Lake County Courier....

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Evening at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

By the way, isn't Bro. Bryan's fault-finding becoming chronic?

The tornado is already getting in its deadly work, but so far has not ventured north of Indiana.

In the last four years Mr. Carnegie has given away $88,280,000 in gifts of $50,000 or more. And that doesn't include the small change, either.

New Jersey corporations have become quite quiet as numerous as New Jersey mosquitoes, and, judging by the statistics of capitalization, some of them are nearly as big.

True flies. It seems but a week since foot ball aroused the wildest enthusiasm, and here we are bumped up against the base ball and yachting season again.

Charles Stephens was secretary of the Minneapolis anti-vaccination league last Monday. On Tuesday the league was looking for a new secretary. Smallpox did it.

Judge Lyden has been on the bench again this week down South. Another negro outrage and another bonfire by the whites. In the meantime the race problem remains in status quo.

Why should men who want to establish farms on new land go to the Canadian Northwest or Oregon and Washington, while there are so many attractive opportunities in northern Minnesota.

Secretary Root has renewed the cry that "the tariff should be revised by its friends." Its friends are mainly the trusts. It would be better if the tariff was revised by the friends of the country."

If ever a person lost by investing in Red Lake county farm lands we have yet to hear of it. The advance in price has just commenced, and if the future is to be judged by the past—and why not?—prices will double again within five years.

The postoffice department seems to be reeling with corruption. The condition seems to be worse than in Grant's time, when the star route frauds startled the country. The old slogan, "Turn the rascals out," will probably be called into requisition again in the next campaign.

While Zionism is trying to carry the Jews back to Palestine, the St. Louis world's fair proposes to bring Palestine to this country. One of the most remarkable of all the plans for that exposition is a reproduction of the city of Jerusalem in a plot of ten acres, the walls, gates, churches, mosques, all to be reproduced, with the Garden of Olives.

Tax legislature is due to quit next week by operation of the statute of limitation. There have been good legislatures and bad, and again some that would no be placed in either category, but for downright incompetency the present session is entitled to the prize. It has been about as useful to the people of the state as the work of the railroad and warehouse commission.

Frank A. Day of Fairmont, president of the state editorial association; Secretary C. P. Stine and F. J. Meyer and Captain C. C. Whitney of the executive committee left St. Paul this week for Washington and other eastern points to arrange for the annual editorial excursion. The intention is to take the association to Washington the last week in May or the first week in June.

THE MERGER DEFEATED.

The unlawful acts in restraint of trade of which the Northern Securities company isadjudged guilty by the United States circuit court of appeals, in the decision handed down at St. Paul last Thursday are summarily stated in the language of the court as follows:

First it placed the control of the roads (the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern) in the hands of the securities company, by virtue of its ownership of a large majority of the stock of both companies, second, it destroyed every motive for competition between two roads engaged in interstate traffic which were natural competitors for business, by pooling the earnings of the two roads for the common benefit of the stockholders of both companies, and, according to the familiar rule that everyone is presumed to intend what is the necessary consequences of his own acts, when done willfully and deliberately, we must conclude that those who conceived and executed the plan aforesaid intended, among other things, to accomplish these objects.

The decision does not merely make it difficult for the Northern Securities company to pursue its course. It puts it out of business, forbidding it from acquiring and from stock, and prohibiting the underlying companies from paying over dividends to it and from suffering it to direct their policy or exercise any control whatever over their corporate acts.

On the other hand, the decision does not interfere with the property rights of persons interested in the railways affected. The properties are just where they were. All that is insisted upon is that their owners shall carry on their business according to law. Trusts are prohibited in the United States as combinations in restraint of trade. It does not make such a combination legal to call it by another name.

The case has been taken to the United States Supreme court, but there is no expectation that the decision of the full bench of the circuit court of appeals will be reversed.

Possibly you have not yet recovered from the grip. You have no appetite, you are easily exhausted and feel as though life wasn't worth living. What you need is Dr. King's Blackhawker. It is the pure, sure, natural health-giving remedy that will cure you, as it has thousands of others. It is a vegetable alterative and nerve-tonic and is guaranteed to cure. Try it. $1.00 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

For Better Farming.

The latest report of the Department of Agriculture shows that the demands of recent years have attracted a large number of young men to agricultural pursuits. The result has been that farming is getting to be a science and is run on a strict business basis. As the prosperity of a country depends on the success of its farmers, we have an added promise of future good times when we know that the best men in the country are behind the farms. One of the advantages of farm life today is that golden grain belt beer can be had as easily as in the city. This is a delicacy for the finest table and, besides, it's splendid for the blood. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

For liver troubles and constipation There's nothing better in creation That Little Early Risers, the famous li tle pills

They always effect a cure and save doctor bills.

Little Early Risers are different from all other pills. They do not weaken the system, but act as a tonic on the liver by arousing the secretions and restoring it to the full performance of its functions naturally. A. L. Richert.

Notice.

All persons using or employing dip nets in the taking or catching of fish of any kind in the rivers in and around the city of Red Lake Falls are hereby notified that they are violating the laws of the state of Minnesota, and that each and every violation of our state fish laws as to the use of such dip nets will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, without fear or favor. Prosecutions will be begun at once and those parties who persist in the use of dip nets will govern themselves accordingly.—By order of the Committee of the Red Lake Falls Fish and Game Club. 2w

Carbon papers for sale at The Courier.

THIEF RIVER FALLS.

C. J. Hendricks was up from Ulen for an over Sunday visit with his family.

C. L. Dobner was on business caller at the Polk county capitol over Monday night.

U. S. Commissioner Browning was a business caller at the county seat last Friday.

Rev. R. Horn came up from the cities Saturday to hold Presbyterian services on Sunday.

Mrs. J. S. O'Brien, returned to Stillwater Friday after spending a few days at the Staples home.

Judge Knight came up from the Lower Falls Tuesday evening for a brief visit with friends at this place.

Mrs. F. J. Lawrence returned Monday from an over Sunday visit with her husband at Grand Forks.

Wiley Tisdolph was called to Crookston Friday night to transact a profitable stroke of business with a party at that place.

N. S. Gordon, proprietor of the ever welcome Crookston Journal, was in the city Monday looking after the interests of his paper.

W. E. Heigley, a well known land man of Sheldon, Iowa, was in the city last Saturday calling on his old friends, Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Lanning.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wilson last Saturday, April 11th. The mother is doing well but it is feared the child may not live.

The public schools were closed on Good Friday owing to its being a legal holiday generally observed by the Catholics. Appropriate services were held in St. Bernard's Church at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. C. A. Fuller arrived in the city Friday for a visit at the homes of his sons, C. A. and John, before leaving for the coast where he will reside. Mrs. Fuller arrived here some days before.

Martin Mossedin, who during the winter has been in charge, for the greater portion of the time, of Himle's store, has accepted a position as manager of Fosnes & Angelin's clothing store at Crookston, and will leave for that place the first of next week.

Robert, the nine months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Oen, died on Wednesday morning of last week after a brief illness. The funeral was held in the Norwegian Lutheran Synod church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. I. T. Aastad conducting the services. The remains were interred in the family lot in Greenwood cemetery.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County.—ss. Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co. doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that the said firm will pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall Catarch Cure.

Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. Gleason,

(Seal) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarch Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O.

Sold by all druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Private Sale of Furniture.

As I am going out of the hotel business May 1, all of the furniture, bedding and fixtures of the Palace hotel are offered at private sale. Also a team, harness and bus. Call early if you want to get the best bargains, as, the goods must go at once. 2w E. J. Druecker.

The Courier has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in bibelots and papeteries. Call and look over the line.

Half-Sick

"I first used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the fall of 1846. Since then I have taken it every spring as a blood-purifying and nerve-strengthening medicine."

S. T. Jones, Wichita, Kans.

If you feel run down, are easily tired, if your nerves are weak and your blood is thin, then begin to take the good old standard family medicine, Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It's a regular nerve lifter, a perfect blood builder. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Follow his advice closely. Do exactly as he tells you. Then write us and we will be satisfied.

J. C. AYER Co., Lowell, Mass.

Bids for Construction of Church.

Sealed bids for the construction of the proposed basement and addition to the First Presbyterian Church building at Red Lake Falls will be received up to Friday May 1st, 1903 at 8 o'clock p. m. Bids should be marked "bids for construction of church" and addressed to the undersigned at whose office plans and specifications may be seen. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.—Frank E. Hunt, President of Board of Trustees. 2w

To Cure Constipation

Sick headache and indigestion take Cole's Laxative Liver Pills. Pleasant and sure. Guaranteed satisfactory. Sold by alldruggists.

White Plymouth Rocks.

I have 50 choice White Plymouth Rock chickens, which I brought from Illinois. Will sell eggs for hatching during the season. Henry Gonigam.

Now's the time to take Rocky Mountain Tea; it drives out the microbes of winter; it builds up the stomach, kidneys and liver. A wonderful spring tonic that makes sick people well. A. L. Reichert.

Leaves the South for Yale.

Andrew Sledd, the young professor of Latin, whose articles on the negro problem in a recent issue of the Atlantic raised such objection in the south that he was forced to resign his chair, has entered the Yale graduate school, taking a course in advanced classics.

For a clear skin, clear all the way through, transparent enough to let sunshine and rosy cheeks show through—take Rocky Mountain Tea. This month, spring-time. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

His Normal Condition.

He—You told your mother I was sorry for having made an idiot of myself at her dinner party last night? What did she say? She—O, she said she noticed nothing unusual.

Makes a Clean Sweep.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. If Bucklen's Arnica Salve is ever used, Boils, Carbuncles and Fever sores, bruises, cuts, boils, ulcers, skin eruptions, and piles. It's only 25c and guaranteed to give satisfaction by W. A. Schreiter druggist.

Unhappy Husband.

A New York woman wants a divorce because her husband has taught the family parrot to swear. Did she ever think that it was possible to get rid of the parrot and thus restore connubial bliss? It's a mighty mean husband who isn't worth more than a parrot.

The old story and true: no mother who has ever used Cascarets would ever be without it. She knows from experience that it quickly stops the pain of burns, cuts and sores and effectually heals deep-seated sores, and is a favorite household remedy with her. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Extreme Thickness of Ice.

A few days ago Profs. Blumcke and Hess, two scientists who are well known for their studies of glaciers, succeeded in boring through the Mittelos glacier in the Ortler Alps. At a point where the ice was found to be 153 meters deep.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Curiosity for Dublin Museum.

Dublin museum now possesses a large stuffed elephant, the first mounted specimen ever exhibited in Ireland.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $30 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

Old London Bridge.

Old London bridge took the record time of thirty-three years to build. It was begun in 1176 and not completed till 1209. The present bridge was begun in 1824 and finished in 1831. It cost $2,000,000.

Beginning to Entertain Doubts.

"Sometimes," reflected the Rev. E. Z. Streete, looking over his small but fashionable congregation, "I doubt whether I ever had a genuine call to preach. I am afraid it was only a temptation."

Not All So Excitable.

The Maryland man who fell dead when somebody told him he had inherited $60,000 left heirs who, it is to be hoped, are less excitable.

Minnesota Doing Well.

The growth and prosperity of Minnesota are well indicated by the number of new banks organized this year.

Fads in Suicide.

Motor cycles and the football game are removing some of the smartest Americans of the youthful set.—Buffalo News.

Spring Millinery . . .

A MAGNIFICENT ARRAY of LADIES', MISSES' and CHILDREN'S HATS in newest Spring styles. Beautiful Veilings, Laces, Chiffons, &c. Prices always lowest.

FIRST DOOR NORTH OF POSTOFFICE

K. FORD

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Senior class play was a successful financially.

The Chemistry class will be given laboratory experiments Thursday.

Lillian Nauman entered school last Monday and joined the Sophomore class.

The graduating exercise plans are taking shape and work on them will soon begin.

The Senior class play which was given last Monday has relieved them of a heavy burden.

One of the high school girls used the office window as a looking glass to make good eyes to see in and happened to be somebody in the office.

One of the Senior girls last Wednesday lovld utter only half a sentence at a time and between times she would smell of a large white rose she wore on her dress. She did this to call peoples attention to it.

Open the door, let in the air,
The winds are sweet the flowers are fair
Joy is abroad in the world for me,
Since taking Rocky Mountain Tea.
A. L. Reichert.

One of the Sophomore girls said she had toothache after conjuring a half day's session of talking. The reporter does not sign his name M. D. but he thinks that a little less talking would have been a sure cure for the ailment.

A Sweet Breath

Is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach grow sweet. A. L. Richert.

Light as Day

Are the tracks for hundreds of feet ahead of the famous North-Western Trains as the engines are equipped with powerful electric head-lights, thus rendering travel at night as safe as during the day.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for the Free Homestead land and Free Coal. Low railroad rates. See our agent in your city. Write for facts. Wm. H. Brown & Co., Mandan, N. Dak.

Order to Examine Accounts.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE. } ss.

In Probate Court, Special Term, April 9, 1903.

In the matter of the Estate of Lars A. Kroe, deceased:

On reading and filing the petition of Charley Kroe, administrator of said estate, praying for the allowance of the account rendered by him and things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the final account of said administrator, and for the assignment and distribution of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law:

It is Ordered, That said account be examined and petition heard by the court on Thursday, the 30th day of April, A. D. 1903, at the office of the Probate Judge in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County.

It is further ordered, that notice thereof be given by publication of this order once in each week for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County and state aforesaid.

Dated at Red Lake Falls this 4th day of April A. D. 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate

4w13

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss
COUNTY OF RED LAKE. }

In Probate Court
Special Term, April 6, 1903.

In the Matter of the Estate of Mary Jane Lustig, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of Mary Jane Lustig, deceased, late of the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, being granted to Andrew Lustig.

It is Ordered, That six months to and the same are hereby limited and allowed for creditors of and to all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to present the same to said Court at the said County, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is Further Ordered, That a hearing be had on the 4th day of July, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m., at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate Office in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County, when said matter is hereby appointed for examination and allowance, and when and where said Probate Court will examine said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, that notice of said hearing be given by publication of this order for six successive weeks previous to said hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County and State.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 13th day of April 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

4w16

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE. } ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 15, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. N. Hanover, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Lindskoog, claiming to be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate described in said petition, of said deceased, who died in the county in which said Court is established, on the said 10th day of April 1903, and praying that a time and place be fixed for the hearing of the said petition, and that the heirs at law of the said deceased may be cited and notified to appear at the time and place so fixed and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted:

It is Ordered, That said petition be heard before this Court on the 4th day of May, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m. at the Probate Office in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given by publication of this order for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County and State.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 15th day of April 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

4w16

Bank Statement.

Statement of the condition of Merchants State Bank at Red Lake Falls, at close of business on April 6, 1903. Date of last report to Superintendent, April 6, 1903. Date of report to Bank, April 9, 1903.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$56,462 01
Overdrafts	1,000 00
Other Bonds, Stocks and Securities	11,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and fixtures	4,079 24
Due from banks.....$4,626 06
Checks and cash items..... 548 50
Gold..... 600 00
Silver..... 60 00
Legal tender notes..... 1,000 00
Fractional..... 6 81	6,824 31
Total resources.....	$77,365 56

Total..... $77,365 56

LIABILITIES

Capital stock	$40,000 00
Surplus fund	2,000 00
Individual deposits subject to check..... 27,270 14
Demand certificates of deposit..... 2,400 00
Dividends unpaid..... 200 00
Time certificates of deposit..... 4,495 42
Total individual deposits liabilities.....	34,365 56
Time certificates.....	1,000 00
Total deposits.....	35,365 56
TOTAL.....	$77,365 56

State of Minnesota, County of Red Lake—ss.

I, A. L. Richert, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is correct to the best of my knowledge and belief. A. L. RICHERT, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of April, 1903.

F. F. FOUGHT Notary Public.

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
COUNTY OF RED LAKE. }

In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 15, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. N. Hanover, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Lindskoog, claiming to be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate described in said petition, of said deceased, who died in the county in which said Court is established, on the said 10th day of April 1903, and praying that a time and place be fixed for the hearing of the said petition, and that the heirs at law of the said deceased may be cited and notified to appear at the time and place so fixed and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted:

It is Ordered, That said petition be heard before this Court on the 4th day of May, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m. at the Probate Office in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given by publication of this order for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County and State.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 15th day of April 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

4w16

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

HAY STACK COVERS

Save the Hay and Grain.

Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas

AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.
Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing at Cowan's. Line of jewelry, silverware, Watches, Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

P. K. Olson is supplementing his work as local agent for the McCormick company by showing the Healy company's landseekers over the country.

The Adams presbytery meets next Tuesday at Hallock. Rev. Andrew Walker and Chas. N. Bourdon are the delegates from the Red Lake Falls society.

Rev. I. T. Austad, of Thief River Falls, will hold services at the city hall next Sunday morning, April 19, at 10:30. All Scandinavians are cordially invited.

Hon. Mårens Johnson was up from the cities several days the first of the week looking after his business interests and shaking hands with numerous friends.

Peter Matthies, living three miles north of town, has been hauling lumber from here this week and will make extensive improvements on his place the coming season.

S. C. Nauman will leave next week for Illinois to visit his parents. Mr. Nauman will stop at St. Paul and Chicago to buy goods for the store of Garceau & Zaiser.

The last of the ice went out of the Red Lake river Tuesday night, and the advent of the crow, the robin and the frog leave no room to doubt that spring is really here.

Miss Jessie Mullin has resumed her work at THE COURIER office. She has been caring for the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raney during the absence of the parents.

The Easter dance held in the Woodman hall at Terrebonne Tuesday evening attracted a goodly number of young people from here. An excellent time was reported.

Mrs. G. Diedrichsen and her mother, Mrs. Hayden, drove to Terrebonne Tuesday to spend the day with relatives and attend the Easter dance held there in the evening.

The Easter services at St. Mary's church were attended by large numbers both morning and evening. Several visiting priests assisted Father Aegger with the services.

Mrs. J. Nelson came down from St. Hilaire Monday afternoon to take in the high school play at the Metropolitan that evening. She was the guest of her cousins, the Misses Buse, while in the city.

The farmers have been at work all week putting in the crop. The soil is in excellent condition, and indications point to several weeks of dry weather—just what is needed to get the seed in the ground.

Representative and Mrs. Loman C. Simons will return to their home just west of town next week, after having spent the winter season in Minneapolis. They will be welcomed home by a large circle of admiring friends.

J. B. Cyr and Rosanna Benoit were married at the bride's home Sunday afternoon by Rev. Father E. Payolle. Both the contracting parties are well known residents and will receive the congratulations of their friends.

The report of the First State Bank is published in this issue, and shows this popular banking house to be in excellent condition. The total resources foot up $220,000. Few country banks make a better showing than the First State.

Cleophas Bombardier, of the town of Tilden, Polk county, and Miss Delma Breault of this city were married at St. Joseph's parsonage Monday afternoon, Rev. Father Payolle officiating. They will make their home on the groom's farm in Tilden.

Louis Matthew, a pioneer resident of Terrebonne, left last Saturday for Houghton, Mich., where he resided twenty years ago. This is his first trip back east since leaving in Red Lake county, and Mr. Matthew naturally expects to find a great many changes.

The Musical Hoyles company were registered at the New Palace last Thursday. They were intending to show here on that evening, but owing to the fact that they had failed to advertise, they concluded to pass us up. The company is said to be one of much merit.

Clerk of Court Perrault issued licenses to wed to a couple of happy couples this week, Cleophas Bombardier, of Polk county, and Delma Breault, of Red Lake Falls, and J. B. Cyr and Rosanna Benoit, both of this city, having embarked on the matrimonial sea.

Chas. Cress received his machinery and household goods from Washburn, Ill., this week, and is getting comfortably settled on the west half of section 19, Lake Pleasant. Mr. Cress has been here several weeks, but his goods have been delayed in transit.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raney returned home last Friday. Mrs. Raney is entirely recovered from the effects of the recent surgical operation and her health is almost restored. The family will remain in Red Lake Falls for several months at least, and their many friends will hope that will become permanent residents.

The ladies' aid society of the Presbyterian church will hold a tea at the residence of Mrs. F. B. Newton next Wednesday evening, April 22, from 5 to 8. A cordial invitation is extended to gentlemen as well as ladies. Refreshments, 15 cents.

A number of useful articles of fancy work will be offered for sale at reasonable prices.

Landlord Drucker's lease of the Palace hotel expires May 1, and he has decided to leave the city. As will be seen by a notice elsewhere he will sell all of his furniture, fixtures, etc., at private sale. Mr. and Mrs. Drucker have run good hotel, and wherever they go will carry with them the best wishes of the Red Lake Falls people.

Antonie Dion was in from Poplar River Monday and secured the hearse of Anderson & Healy for the funeral of his father, who died last Saturday at an advanced age. The funeral was held yesterday, the remains being interred in the Terrebonne cemetery. Deceased was an old and highly respected citizen of that section of the county.

The case of Albert Gray vs. the Red Lake Falls Lumber company was settled at Crookston last Thursday. It will be remembered that last year Gray secured a judgment of $3,000 against the lumber company for injuries received while in its employ. A settlement was effected by defendant paying $2,750, out of which plaintiff pays all costs of the action.

We are showing several new things in black dress goods direct from Priestly & Co., the sole manufacturers of the noted cravenette fabrics. The line embraces wool crispine, corona cloth, prunella cravenette, imperial cravenette and serges. Their black dress goods are known as the most reliable in fabric and dye.—Bangs & Co.

The ice jam in the Red Lake river broke the log boom at the saw mill Monday evening, and all of the logs started down the river at a decidedly rapid gait. The logs tore off the plank walk over the boom, but otherwise did no damage. Mr. Healy says his dam is worth considerably more money now, since it has stood the hardest test that is likely to come to it.

The members of the senior class of the high school acquitted themselves very creditably in the production of the drama, "A Scrap of Paper." They were greeted with a large audience, and over $50 was cleared. This money will be applied on the graduating expenses of the class. The young people taking part in the play are to be congratulated upon their excellent work.

Thomas Germo has moved his law offices to rooms in the Healy land agency building. Mr. Germo has been engaged by Mr. Healy to do the abstract and conveyance work for the company. Mr. Germo is well informed in real estate law, and the arrangement will doubtless be mutually satisfactory. His general practice will not be interfered with by the change of location.

The statement of the Merchants State Bank, printed in this issue, shows resources of $111,000, a gain of $15,000 since the last report less than two months ago. The condition of the local banks always reflects the general business trend of the community, and Red Lake Falls people certainly have reason for congratulation on the splendid showing of their financial institutions.

Mary, wife of Louis Lacoursiere, died Friday evening after a short illness from inflammation of the tonsils. The sickness was not considered of a serious nature. She was seized with a paroxysm of coughing, and before relief could be given she choked to death. The deceased leaves a husband and six young children. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from St. Joseph's and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery west of town.

Garceau & Zaiser have opened a drawing contest on the "Little Red School House" shoe, made by the Watson-Plummer Shoe company, whereby a pair of shoes will be given every month to the boy or girl sending in the best drawing. Last month they delivered a pair to Fredie F. Jahnke, of Red Lake Falls, for excellent work in their prize drawing contest. All boys and girls not over twelve years of age can have a chance. Ask them about it. 2w

The April concert by the band will be given at the Metropolitan on the evening of May 1. The program will be an elaborate one and besides band pieces will consist of a solo or two and several special features. A dance will probably be given at the conclusion of the concert. The fact that it is given on May 1 does not imply that this is the May concert, as the management states that another concert will be given during May, in the open air if the weather will permit and inside if conditions are unfavorable.

At a meeting of the school board held Tuesday evening nearly all of the old teachers were re-elected for next year, and their salaries advanced $25 each for the school year. Miss Laura Hollinshead, teacher of the first primary at the Washington school, declined a re-election. The corps of instructors elected is as follows: Frank A. Whiteley, superintendent; Lulu Lusby, principal high school; Mae L. Blasing, high school assistant; Olga Wetzel, grammar; Cora Nelson and Fred Morin, sixth and seventh; Ellen Brady and Elizabeth Collihon, fourth and fifth; Mrs. J. J. Doe and Frances Liedl, second and third; Lydia Fletcher and John Sharp, primary.

Messrs. Anderson & Healy announce that the two final numbers of the entertainment course will be given on the evenings of the 18th and 25th inst. respectively. Prof. R. Watson Cooper, who appears on the 18th, is considered one of the best public speakers in the Northwest, and the opportunity of a chance to hear him should be embraced by our citizens. On Saturday evening of next week, the 25th, W. I. Nolan, the jolly impersonator and humorist of Minneapolis, will give one of his characteristic entertainments, and the mension of his name and the date he appears are sufficient to draw a packed house in a great majority of the cities and towns in the state. Nolan is certainly good and the Metropolitan should be packed to the limit to hear him.

The Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor was organized last evening at a meeting held at the Presbyterian church, with fourteen active and two associate members. The officers of the society are as follows: Honorary president, Rev. Andrew Walker; president, Miss Tillie Mathies; vice president, Miss Maud Findeisen; secretary, Miss Effie Haney; treasurer, Miss Bessie Hennemuth; chairman lookout committee, Miss Clara Allison; chairman prayer meeting committee, Miss Gertrude Hennemuth; chairman music committee, Drew Marshall; chairman flower committee, Miss Guynor McConnell. The next meeting will be held next Wednesday evening, April 29, with the president, Miss Tillie Mathies, as leader. Papers will be read by Misses Henrietta Hennemuth, Julia Sharp, Laura Hollinshead and Dollie Mathes.

Harry B. Healy went out to Devils Lake, N. D., on business with regard to the securing of attractions for the fall and wiuter season, and completed arrangements which will mean much to the lovers of first-class entertainments. While there Mr. Healy closed a contract which places the Metropolitan opera house in the "Flax Belt circuit," which includes most of the leading cities in the Red River valley. The object of this association is to secure a number of the very best companies traveling and book them for dates in every house on the list, and when a company does not "make good" it is immediately dropped from the circuit. In this way the theatre-goers are assured of value received in all cases, and the business is all the more successful. The bookings for the coming season are not nearly completed but such celebrities as Sanford Dodge, William Owens and several of the best stock and concert companies will be included. In placing the Metropolitan in line for the best that can be had Messrs. Anderson & Healy show commendable enterprise and deserve the unanimous support of our citizens. The complete list of attractions will be announced in due season.

For the Next Thirty Days

Everything in our store goes at 25 PER CENT DISCOUNT.

We have a nice line of

Tinware, Graniteware, Dishes, Lace Curtains, Notions, Jewelry, Aluminum Goods, Etc.

Racket Store

ready FORCE when you are

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with a good banking.

Directors:

A. F. TOUPIN, President; THEO. LABISSONIERE, Vice President; T. A. DUFFY, Cashier; F. E. POELLOT, Asst. Cashier. Directors: A. TOUPIN, SAM. GIRARD, CHAS. N. BOURDON, J. A. HAFFNER, T. LABISSONIERE, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

Special Prices for Saturday

1 lb Can of Preserves..... 10c
1 lb glass jar Preserves, a bargain..... 11c
Large bottle Home Comfort Catsup..... 12c
5 lb can Coffee, usual price $1, for..... 85c
Large can California Apricots..... 16c
Large can California Green Gages..... 16c
15 lb oatmeal for..... 50c
4 lbs Ginger Snaps (fair quality)..... 25c

Strawberries, Oranges, Bananas; fresh green stuff

BANGS & CO.

The New Firm

Anderson & Healy

WE WISH TO ANNOUNCE to our friends, the trade, the extraordinary inducements that will be made to make our store THE LEADER, not only in name but in fact. . . Our business will be brought to the highest possible plane of up-to-date merchandising, and a policy even more liberal and progressive than that which has characterized the LEADER STORE in the past has been inaugurated by the new firm. With the arrival of our new Spring stock there will be many things to interest the up-to-date buyers. We have made a careful selection of goods that have not only high artistic merit but are low in price and will appeal to the careful buyer. Ever appreciative of the liberal patronage of our many customers, and hoping to meet the continued confidence of the trade, we are

Respectfully,

ANDERSON & HEALY

Successors to Anderson & Schwalen.

Handsome Calendars Given Away

TO introduce our Papetries and Tablets for the next ten days we will give free with each purchase a fancy 1903 CALENDAR (choice of two designs) and a BEAUTIFUL COLORED BLOTTER. It doesn't matter whether you buy a high-priced Papetrie or a 5-cent School Tablet.

New line of Typewriter Papers, Carbons, Pencils, and Office Supplies of all kinds. Choice selection of high-grade Papetries.

COURIER STATIONERY STAND

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL, $50,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

Head

Hurt So Badly Was Nearly Crazy.

Had no Sleep—Could Hardly Lie Down.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Permanently Cured Me.

"A year ago I suffered from extreme nervous stomach trouble. I was afraid of everything, could not bear to hear singing or music and reading or hearing of a death nearly brought on my own. I could not sleep or hardly lie down, the back of my head hurt me as badly I nearly went crazy. My stomach hurt and the least thing I did would bring on an attack of extreme nervousness. I tried two doctors and I could have a baby if any thing in my system would help me, but I could hardly stand. I was in despair until I began to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I have taken in all twelve bottles and consider myself permanently cured. My home sickness has since reported on my healthy appearance and said he wished he could try his medicine helped me. He knows it was Dr. Miles' Nervine. We are never without Dr. Miles' Pain Pills and Liver Pills in the house. I have recommended the nerving my enough for the Nervine, because in addition to my own case my daughter, who was out of school for a long time because of St. Vitus' dance, was completely cured by eight bottles. She is now feeling fine and going to school every day. We thank you for your kindness and will never stop singing the praises of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine."—Mrs. C. E. King, Lima, O.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT MINN.,
Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERA MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes an' Vaults....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, LaGrippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE, NO PAY.
Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

madame to return?" he asked, slowly, recalling each word from an imperfect memory. He repeated it, as she did not comprehend; then her manner changed.

"Oh, moosieur," she cried, in horror, "never, never! He has said he will kill her. He walks all night, sometimes, and raves about her, and looks so dreadful. Lenis said he did not like madame, but for the general's sake, she must keep away from moosieur. There would be a crime; and the De Restaud's are so proud. I think moosieur is quite mad now; and he is so thin; he eats nothing, and some nights there are his cries to hold him, he sees such things. I did not like madame, she was not a French lady, but I wish my worst enemy no such fate as to be here."

"You know," said Oliver, "there was a baby, a little boy?"

"Yes, monsieur, and I am thankful. Madame may have a good heart; she loved the little dog. I think she would do right to go to France—to the general; he is a grand man, and now there is no one of the names; little Alphonse in Paris is dead and his heartbroken mother is dying of grief, they write us."

Oliver slipped a dollar in the woman's fat hand. "You are a good soul," he said, kindly. "I trust some day you will be back in France and have a farm of your own."

"Thank moosieur—and the beautiful poultry I had such comfort with in the mountains; it was better there."

He heard the bolts rattle behind him as he went to the waiting carriage. The poor soul was almost a prisoner from her fears. What should he do? Mrs. Minny had started, and he could not reach her by telegraph. He told the driver to go to the different gambling houses, and at each one he got out and searched for the Frenchman. He was not gambling; the dealers told him, all following De Restaud only too well, for the man Frenchman had been a familiar figure in the night world of Deerver for years. At the police station Oliver could learn nothing; De Restaud had evidently bought immunity from arrest. Sick at heart, Oliver gave a description of the object of his search to a detective and went home. In the early morning the man came to his house. He had not found De Restaud, but had learned and told such a story of depravity and vice that Oliver's half-formed purpose became an instant decision.

"You see," the detective said, coolly, "when a great gits down he's apt to be a sight lower than just a horned tarpin', and, as I can learn, this pertickler one has set out to see jest how quick he kin fling away what little life he's got left in him, an' how low he kin git s-down in, an' then start back learned."

"It is enough," Oliver said, briefly, as he paid and dismissed him. Then he hastily ate breakfast, left directions for his clerks, and took the train for the east. He had written Mrs. de Restaud what reason to come to Chicago, for he might wish to telegraph her there, and he reckoned there was yet time to meet her before she took the train for Paris. He would tell Miss Patten the whole story and send her and her niece back. He would advise them to go east to Paris. Annette's advice was good. He was careless never to have thought of it before.

Oliver shuddered at the prospect of the case in court. He would have to endure it if De Restaud would not listen to reason. Perhaps he could keep it out of the papers. But he knew in his heart not; he was well hated. "All for the Troublesome little lady," he dirked. "A pretty mess I got myself into, assisting distressed damsels. And yet what man situated as I was that night would have done otherwise?"

In the depot in Chicago a pretty young woman was frantically searching for a particular baggagegman. She had on a near-blue gown, a seal-skin jacket, and a jaunty hat set over her curls. She was so sweetly pretty that several iron-hearted train-employes were moved to interest and sympathy.

"He was quite short and fat," she said, anxiously, "and Skye really seemed to like him, and he said he would take the very best care of him."

"What is the matter, Mrs. Minny?" said a voice just behind her.

"Oh, Mr. Oliver!" she cried, delightfully, giving him both her hands. "How glad I am to see you! I have been so worried! I have traveled all night! Did the man who has my dog. Oh, there he is!"

A fat baggageman came along the platform at that moment, dragging a fascinating mass of wool tied by a disproportionately large rope.

"Dash, you've grown ever so much!" Minny beamed on him, hugging the dog in her arms. "Isn't he nice? He knows everything."

"A sight," said the man, pleasantly, "and wasn't no particular trouble."

"Here is my trunk check," Minny said, giving it to Oliver. "And my satchel is somewhere; in that corner I set it down; it's a wonder I did not lose it. Oh, what a time I've had! Now where shall we go?"

"To find Miss Patten," smiled Oliver' taking the satchel and umbrella, while the fellow carried off the dog, and the small audience of train men looked after her in open approval.

"To find Miss Patten, of course."

"Oh, goodness! I wish we could!" giggled Mrs. Minny.

"What!" cried Oliver.

"It's her turn, Mr. Oliver. She has run away."

"Not with you? You are not alone? Why, of course. Who was there? I think it is mean of you to look cross, when I came to keep your mama out of my troubles, because the doctor wrote it would ruin all your political prospects. You helped me once, and I am coming back to a man I—I hate—yes, I do—and am afraid of, so come and say a word about you." She looked at him with triumphant virtue so satisfied and sweet he hung his head, the words of generosity dying on his lips.

"Well, there's the baby and nurse girl," he said, hopefully.

"Why, no," she laughed. "Didn't I tell you? Aunt Hannah stole the baby, She says she hasn't time for me. She will do nice one of these cunning cubs, and we'll go for a drive, and I'll tell you all about it."

"The hansoms would be too cold, Mrs. Minny. We will take this carriage," he said, calling one; and she, very well pleased to go with the dog while he deposited her luggage on the front seat.

"You see," she said, leaning back on the cushioned seat as the carriage left the noisy noise pavements and a talking was possible. "Aunt Hannah got it into her head that I did not love Francois — the baby — enough. He really did seem to be the moment I took him; and Aunt Hannah knows so many rules for bringing up children, that I was nowhere with my own child. Old maids do, you know. Then he got his name from Jim Hay—M. de Restaud —every day; and that was a trial. Aunt Hannah said he was just fooling, but I thought him de Restaudy. I suppose I am awfully cracked, but I was glad Aunt Hannah wanted him. Then there was—" Mrs. Minny hesitated and looked away in a faint blush whose pink round cheek—"a red-headed young man who took me riding—horseback riding. I am sure there is no harm in that. A young man," she added, seeing the shadow on Oliver's face, "not nice at all, but one must have some friends. And then one morning when she was making the bed Aunt Hannah found your letter under the pillow—your first one, not the ugly one telling me it was my duty to come back to my husband. Funny business letters those, not like yours or that lovely ride we had. I was desperate at having to come back; so maybe I was mean to Aunt Hannah. One day she and the baby and its clothes-display-stand, she left a note telling me what I was not to search for her, for she was going to get Francis—that's what she calls him—in safe keeping."

"I am sure there was no harm in that letter," he said, stiffly.

"Oh, she wouldn't read it; I couldn't see her so, and, as to me leaving me she said my behavior was scandalous, I kissed the letter and hid it away."

"Well, this is a nice affair," said Oliver, smiling a little because Mrs. Minny was so gayly happy. "I don't see what we are going to do. I thought your aunt would be with you, so I hurried on to prevent your coming. It would not be safe. You—Mr. de Restaud has grown worse—I think is losing his mind. I came to-day to go to France, to the old general, where probably Miss Patten has gone. Now you are alone. De Restaud has a spy following me, I am sure; he had in Denver and—" Oliver could not say his worst suspicions.

"It will be brought out in the court. this nice little ride and everything," chirped Mrs. Minny, "like the chops and tomato sauce in Dickens, and everybody will think me dreadful."

"You are very thoughtless," he said, coldly.

"Now, please don't be cross," her pretty mouth quivered and her eyes filled. "just as we were having such a lovely time! I can't help being jolly because I don't have to go back to him. You know I thought how sorry you'd be when I died of a broken heart and his mamma and you'd come to see me in my coffin. The Troublesome little lady would be troublesome no more, but still and quiet as you'd like her to be, and old and sorrowful, for one day of my old life with him would take all the youngness out of me. Perhaps your conscience would hurt you a little because you had driven me back, for I would not have come but for you. The thought that your kindness to me would injure your good name made me miserable. Dr. John wrote how your political prospects would be ruined—political aspects is right, is it not?—and you couldn't be governor or anything."

"Minny, say no more," cried Oliver, his voice trembling. "my dear little girl. It breaks my heart. Dr. John was cruel to write such nonsense; he was too eager to serve me. I don't want office; and I would face the slander of the world to spare you a moment's pain."

She trembled so at his words he stopped in the middle of a sentence, reproaching himself for his lack of self control. They were silent a few moments; then she said, with her old smile:

"Now we've made up—haven't we? —and you are just as nice as you were that night, so please may my dog run a little on the snow?"

"Of course," he said, and set free the small animal, who darted after birds, barking joyously. After the discomforts of having an erratic mistress were long gentlemen in cold dark cars and surreptitious journeys, to again her abasis and in baskets so in these latter days of sudden journeys and imprisonment Skye had grown to prize his hours of freedom. Perhaps in his heart, though he willingly endured nights in the baggage-car for the joy of losing rid of that red-faced, black-eyed something who slept so much and whom he must not waken with a happy bark or jump. How many times on account of that red-faced thing who cried had his darling's aunt scouted him out of doors with a broom, saying: "Scat, you dog! there you've waked the baby again." Now his dear mistress was like her old self, and he, Skye, though he never would tell, had seen Miss Hannah and that baby slinking away from the house in Maine like criminals, and he had never noticed their departure by one small bark, for fear they might return.

"I am very hungry," said Mrs. Minny as the carriage turned back to the city, "and, as my dog is hungry too, it would be a good idea for you to take us to a private room to some restaurant, where we can feed. Here on the carpet when the waiter is out—"

There was nothing to do, of course, but to accede to this demand; the very fact that she was hungry appealed to Oliver's generous heart. He thought, however, as they mounted the stairs to a cozy private supper-room, this would sound unpleasantly to a jury. He could even fancy the attorney for the prosecution's question: "Did you, Mr. Oliver, think the preceding a proper one? Does society consider it discreet for an unmarried man to take a young married lady to such a place in the absence of her husband?" etc. Still, Mrs. Minny enjoyed everything so much, Oliver forgot his fears, and was merry enough in his way. The dog, gorged with food, showed off his most unseemly tricks, which Mrs. Minny petted he never would do before when strangers were present.

"I think he is really getting fond of you," she said, tenderly.

Oliver, aware of the silliness of it, but pleased at that trustful glance, said he hoped so.

He left Mrs. Minny at a hotel, registering her name and ordering a good room for her, then with almost a sense of relief walked to another hotel, a long distance away. He hoped the spy might be following; once or twice he looked back, but saw no familiar one. At his hotel a telegram awaited him. It was from a clerk in his office:

"Dr Ashorn telegraphed from Paris to you in Denver. Heard of Restaud died this morning at the insane asylum. Funeral in Denver. I telegraphed him you were in Chicago."

A second telegram was brought Oliver just as he was going to bed; it was from Dr. John:

"Tell Mrs de Restaud. They need no sons to inherit. Will write. Have had a dream with this message. Glad you are with them.

"JOHN ACHESON."

Death had released the suit for divorce; it would never be brought, and the vengeance of a crazed brain was over. With a relieved heart of his heart Oliver realized Mrs. Minny was free at last. Perhaps she would learn to care for him some day—with a swift repulsion as he thought of the dead far across the plains. Yet for once death had been kind to the living, and who was there to mourn Henri de Restaud? His mother died in his boyhood, his father and wife before France, his wife hated and feared him, his child would never see his face, and his servants were only kept by lavish payments. So men may make a mockery of living, a shame of days, and he bless on this fair earth useless in a useful world. Oliver was sorry but sad and sadness, and go into eternity more friendless, more wretched in their self-inflicted degradation, than the outcast dog slinking through the alleys of a city.

CHAPTER IX.

Mrs. Minny was oddly pale and quiet when Oliver met her in the New York parlor. She looked as if she had not slept; and his heart would have a little wait before he had caused her. Of course she had worried about her strange position and the trouble in Denver on account of it. He could tell her at least the fear of the "troublesome lady" death had settled the case. Yet it was hard to tell the news of death. She hesitated, and talked of the weather.

"It is awfully hot in Chicago," she said, mournfully. "I shall hate this hotel, too; they would not let me have Dash in my room; he is now in the cellar, and he was not like him-self when I went to see a little walk before you came."

Oliver had a bunch of roses he had bought for her on his way, but it seemed even heartless to offer them to her. "Troublesome" being sorry he sat down beside her on the sofa and laid the flowers on her lap.

"Thank you," she said, mournfully. "I don't think I could eat now them. The chambermaid asked me if I was a skirt-dancer."

The gloom settled on Oliver now.

"She was impudent," he said, crossly. "You see how impossible it is for a young lady to go to hotels alone."

"Well, you didn't offer to come with me," she sighed; "you even went to another hotel. Oh, I know! I looked for you in the register."

"You were down in the office?"

"I had to go and get Dash for my dog and to tell them how mean they were," Mrs. Minny said, wearily. "And you don't know what an awful great ghostly room they gave me, full of closets and wardrobes and places for people to hide. I burned the gas all night and had dreadful dreams." She bowed her head over the flowers and sighed again. "Roses make me think of funerals; do they not?"

"I am sorry I troubled you with them," Oliver said, coldly.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Due Notice is Served.

Due notice is hereby served on the public generally that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the only salve on the market that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel? DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has never been equaled for all piles that would not yield to any other treatment, and this fact has brought out many worthless counterfeits. Those persons who get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are never disappointed, because it cures. A. L. Richert.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its Infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE JEWETT

Best in the World." It does the work with the least effort on the part of the operator and possesses more practical conveniences than are found on any other typewriter. Write for our catalogue. Sent free on application.

JEWETT TYPEWRITER COMPANY,
Home Office and Factory, DES MOINES, IA.
LEWIS & HIGINBOTHAM, Local Agents, RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes. New Tobaccos. New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshoog & Blake, Pros

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First Class to Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Northrup, King & Co.'s Seeds

Your Dealer Probably Sells Them—But it will Help You to Get Our CATALOGUE FOR 1903 FREE
Send for it today on a postal and say you saw it in this paper. Address:
26-36-50-53 HENNEPIN AVENUE, MINNEAPOLIS.

Dizzy?

Then your liver isn't acting well. You suffer from billousness, constipation. Ayer's Pills act directly on the liver. For 60 years they have been the Standard Family Pill. Small doses cure. 25c. All druggists.

Want your complexion as beautiful as a bouquet of roses? Then use BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Complexion. 50c. All druggists or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Capital Stock, $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.

I. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

I. WYER, F. E. Hunt, Theo Garceau,
Chas M. Bowden, A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...

Red Lake Falls, Minnesota

Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction in every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

J. M. BRAY.

FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES.

Slickest Place in Town to Drop In and Get : :

Fine Cigars
Wines and Liquors.

BREYORY RYE. : K. O. R. WHISKEY

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

WHY?

The reason Our Home Coath Cure relieves a cough in one minute, is because it acts first on the mucous membranes right where the cough originates — the throat or deep-seated on the lungs, destroying the infectious germs and expelling the poison.

Our Cure is pleasant to take, contains no opium nor chloroform and cleans out their poison, but it gives strength and elasticity to the delicate membranes which protect the throat and lungs. Open the air passages, stop the irritation and inflammation, and Cannot fail to receive a large supply of oxygen, thus establishing the pulmonary organs with rich strength and vigor that the lungs and bronchial tubes become infinitely stronger against the incursion of disease-germs than before the cough appeared. Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung troubles, Consumption that are curable are quickly cured by the use of

ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE

Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO., Chicago.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS, LAKES AND ST. PAUL.

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BD	STATIONS	EAST BD
8:00 am Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 5:50 pm
8:00 pm Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 7:50 am
6:35 am Ar	Crookston	Lv 9:00 pm
9:05 pm Lv	Crookston	Ar 6:45 am
9:52 am Ar	Shirley	Ar 6:05 pm
9:55 am Lv	Shirley	Ar 6:02 pm
10:28 am Ar	Wylie	Ar 5:29 pm
10:30 am Ar	St. Hilaire	Lv 5:25 pm
11:10 am Ar	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 4:50 pm
12:05 pm Ar	Thief River Falls	Lv 4:00 pm

O. THOMAS Agent.

W. C. SMILEY,

SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHTMAN.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Four years experience up U. S. Hydrological survey in Minnesota. Also county surveying. Will go anywhere in the state. Refer to either state engineer or governor of Minnesota. Terms and satisfaction guaranteed. Maps and plats.

WANTED—A TRUSTWORTHY GENTLE man or lady in each county to manage business for an old reliable house in the country. Salary $18 per week, payable by check each Wednesday with all expenses direct from headquarters. Money advanced for expenses. Manager, 340 Caxton Bldg., Chicago.

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA. COUNTY OF RED LAKE. } ss.
In Probate Court.
Special Term, March 3d, 1902.

In the Matter of the Estate of John Bourdeau, Deceased.

Letters of administration on the estate of John Bourdeau, deceased, late of the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, being granted to Joseph Bourdeau.

It is Ordered, That the meeting be held for examining and allowing said claims and that the time within which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said county, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is Further Ordered, That the said day of December, 1902, at the Court House in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims.

And it is Further Ordered, That notice of said hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by publication of this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls this 30th day of March A. D. 1902.

By the court,
E. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

(SEAL.)

3x-15

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale by Advertisement.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage, executed and delivered by Wm. B. Dickey and Ellen Dickey, his wife, mortgagors, to L. D. Hagler, mortgagee, dated the 3rd day of April, A. D. Nineteen hundred and two, and recorded on 3 April, 1902, at 10 o'clock a. m. in Book 17 of Mortgages, on page 63, in the office of the Register of Deeds of said County and State of Minnesota, to which mortgage reference is hereby made for a description of the premises thereby conveyed, and no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

And whereas, by reason of such default, the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, has become operative, and is exercised by me, as the mortgagee thereunder, and whereas the amount due and claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, is the sum of Two hundred fifty-four and 50-100 dollars, and no action or proceeding has been instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises described in said mortgage, viz: The south half (½) of the northeast quarter (¼) of section thirty-one (31), in township one hundred and fifty-four (154) range forty-four (44), at the northeast door of the Court House, in the City of Red Lake Falls, in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, that being the place where the District Court in said County is held, on the 19th day of May, 1902, at ten O'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, with the interest thereon, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, which premises are to be sold to the highest bidder for cash to pay the mortgage debt, interest and costs and disbursements of foreclosure.

Dated the premises described in said mortgage, and this 1st day of April, 1902.

L. D. HAGLER,
Mortgagee.

ALBERT JOHNSON,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 1.

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or sub-division	Sec. or lot	Twp	Range	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER State	Mo	Day	Yr	Amt paid by purchaser	Amt req'd to redeem at date of this notice
Frederick Buse	Kratzsch-mar's and to Red Lake Falls	1	21	44	$ 45	May	20	1902		$ 1.35	$ 2.30
		2	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		3	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		10	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		11	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		12	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		13	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		14	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		15	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		16	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		23	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		24	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		25	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		26	21	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		5	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		6	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		7	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		17	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		18	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		19	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		20	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		29	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		30	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		31	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		32	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		33	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		34	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		35	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
		36	22	44	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.32
TOTAL											$ 69.61

To FREDERICK BUSE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR,
Red Lake County, Minnesota, }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 19th day of March A. D. 1900, the above described parcels or parcels of land sold to Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interest and costs, and the above described amount then became and ever since has been and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

And on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 20 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 26th day of March A. D. 1902.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL.)

3x-30

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 2.

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or sub-division	Sec. or lot	Twp	Range	Year of taxes sold for	Amt sold for	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER State	Mo	Day	Yr	Amt paid by purchaser	Amt req'd to redeem at date of this notice
J A Barricher	Kratzsch-mar's and add to Red Lake Falls	3	22	44	1899	$ 45	May	20	1902		$ 1.30	$ 2.30
		4	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.30	2.30
		1	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.30	2.30
		2	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.30	2.30
		27	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.30	2.30
		28	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.30	2.30
		21	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.30	2.30
		22	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.30	2.30
TOTAL												$ 18.40

To J. A. BARRICHTER:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR,
Red Lake County, Minnesota, }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 19th day of March, A. D. 1900, the above described parcels or parcels of land sold to Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interest and costs, and the above described amount then became and ever since has been and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

And on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 20 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 26th day of March A. D. 1902.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL.)

3x-23

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 3.

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Subdivision	Sec. or lot	Twp	Range	Year of taxes sold for	Amt sold for	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER State	Mo	Day	Yr	Amt paid by purchaser	Amt req'd to redeem at date of this notice
Chas. McNamara	A strip of land 1200 feet east and west 33 ft north and south, being a strip 33 ft wide off the south side of the 160 acres sold for taxes of 1898 and 1900 in Red Lake Falls		22	44	1898 1900	$2 84	May	20	1902		$1075	$19 97

To CHAS. MCNAMARA:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR,
Red Lake County, Minnesota, }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes, pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 19th day of March A. D. 1900, the above described parcels or parcels of land sold to Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interest and costs, and the above described amount then became and ever since has been and now is the Absolute Property of the state.

And on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake county, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 20 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated; that the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice; and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 26th day of March A. D. 1902.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL.)

3x-23

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or sub-division	Sec. or lot	Twp	Range	Year of taxes sold for	Amt sold for	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER State	Mo	Day	Yr	Amt paid by purchaser	Amt req'd to redeem at date of this notice
John M Boyle	Kratzsch-mar's and add to Red Lake Falls	9	21	44	1899	$ 45	May	20	1902		$ 1.35	$ 2.30
		8	21	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		11	21	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		12	21	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		13	21	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		28	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		33	22	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		10	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		15	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		16	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		21	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		22	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		27	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		28	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		33	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		34	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		35	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
		36	23	44	1899	45	"	20	1902		1.35	2.30
TOTAL												$ 46.35

To JOHN M. BOYLE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR,
Red Lake County, Minnesota, }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 19th day of March A. D. 1900, the above described parcels or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the state to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interest and costs, and the above described amount that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the state.

And on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 20 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 26th day of March A.D. 1902.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL.)

3x-23

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Thoughtful Man

M. M. Austin of Winchester, Ind., knew that to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. He thought of and tried Dr. King's New Life Pills and she got relief at once and was finally cured. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiber's drug store.

Charcoal Eph's Daily Thought.

"De rule ob three to de bo'dinbouse," said Charcoal Eph, to one of his ruminative moods, "am diserway: Furst, hire tough meat, nex' hit's hash, and doo hit's soup, Mistah Jackson."—Baltimore News.

There never was a remedy for coughs, croup and diseases of the throat and lungs quite equal to Cole's Cough Cure. It not only looks and tastes good, but it promptly relieves it and cures it in a way to stay cured. Try it; it's guaranteed. 25 and 50c Sold by all druggists.

Suspicious.

Book Director—How did you come to examine his books? His Associate —I heard him address his Sunday school class on "We are here to-day and gone to-morrow."—Puck.

A Fig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottles free.

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN

Oil Stove,

Refrigerator or Ice Cream freezer

You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of

Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages

Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils

FRANK E. HUNT

No trouble to show goods. HARDWARE DEALER.

We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.

What it Means

to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The works is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.

Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Stearns guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and prices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. M. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Hodgerson & Reich drug store.
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. MCINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, probating of estates and examination of titles.
Offices over Bingo and Co.'s store

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper——

One that excels in Northwest news;
One that spares no points to get the news of the world, and prints it first;
One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;
One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;
One that contains Hart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children about their cousins—Jerimiah Daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of stories and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,
There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

Spring's Advent

Brings many new seasonable goods to our store. Every new fabric—every fad soon finds its way here. We are ever on the alert for the new.

We have opened up this week "MELANGE," a new cotton etamine mixture, very pretty, a practical cloth at only 25c per yard, looks like a high-priced fabric. DANISH CLOTH, in several shades, very pretty, at 20c per yard. MOUSSELINE DE SOIE, in plain or dots, Eton cloth, just the thing for children's dresses, at only 12½c per yard.

LACE CURTAINS

Nottingham Curtains, 50c per pair, cheap at 65c, and up to $7 per pair for fine Irish point. Door pieces to match.

CARPETS

A full line of new samples. Our new SULTANA Carpets are creating a sensation. They will revolutionize the carpet business. They are reversible, ingrain pattern on one side, border or straw matting pattern on the other; sweep easily, as they have a smooth finish, price only 20c.

.. SKIRTS ..

An immense new line of Walking Skirts at $1.75; not trashy, either.
"Snowflake" or "Knickerbocker" goods at $4.50 and $5.00.
Taffeta and Peau de Soie Monte Carlo Coats in stock.
In Shirt Waists we show a line directly from New York, and at prices that will astonish you. We close out our 1902 waists at 39c, worth up to $1.50.

STRAW GOODS

A big line of Ladies' and Misses' goods. Misses' Hats, 19c, worth 25c.
Ladies' Sailors, 39c, worth 50c.
Better at 75c, worth $1.25.
A bunch of Violets thrown in with each hat.

SHOES SHOES

We are headquarters for Shoes. Our $1.50 Ladies' Fine Shoe is a match for any $2 shoe in the city. But for Fine Footwear our Utz & Dunn surpasses anything else.
Many have been waiting for our Budd Children's Shoes. We expect them this week. These shoes are too well known to need any description.

.. CLOTHING ..

We never carried a nobbler line than we do this spring. All of our Spring Suits bear the Koppenheimer label; a label that guarantees the wearer complete satisfaction, or money refunded.
Young men, see our line of black, unfinished Cheviot suits for a swell dress suit, at $12.50, worth fully $16.
Children's 3-piece suits at $1.50 up.

Grass Seeds of all Kinds.

GROCERY SPECIALS THIS WEEK

MAPLE SYRUP, 50c per gal.
FORCE, 12½c.
PETTIJOHN'S BREAKFAST FOOD, 10c
SHREDDED WHEAT, 10c.
Bbl of GINGER SNAPS, 18c.

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Office supplies of all kinds at THE COURIER office.

J. W. McGinty was down from Thief River Falls yesterday.

Felix Fourney, of Crookston, was a business caller here Tuesday.

A. O. Letvig, of Wylie, was a business visitor to the city Monday.

For your spring millinery call at Mrs. I. Lemieux' millinery store.

Merchant H. H. Zaiser will go to Crookston on business tomorrow.

S. A. Swanson has been at St. Paul all of this week on land business.

Wm. Schwalen left today for Waseca and Park Rapids on a business trip.

Little Miss Marva Duffy has been dangerously ill with croup the past week.

Miss Clara Zaiser is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lewis Adams, at St. Hilaire.

METROPOLITAN Opera House

ANDERSON & HEALY, Managers.

Final Numbers of Entertainment Course

PROF. R. WATSON COOPER

Saturday Evening,

April 18

HON. W. I. NOLAN

Saturday Evening,

April 25

Dr. N. M. Watson and Robert Raney were visitors to Crookston Tuesday.

P. B. Gauss was a business visitor at Grand Forks between trains Tuesday.

Mrs. Wm. Lemay was down from St. Hilaire Saturday on a shopping expedition.

Surveyor Smiley was down from Thief River Falls several days of this week.

Don't fail to take in the band benefit ball at the Metropolitan tomorrow evening.

Don't forget to attend the band benefit ball at the Metropolitan Friday evening.

We've got just the pipe you are looking. All prices and sizes.—T. B. Cram Co.

Come in and see what we are offering you and ask the price.—Tibbetts & Davison.

Four in one—the new thing in swell hats. Buy the Lanpher, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Gentlemen will be interested in the new styles of Douglass shoes at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Mrs. W. V. Whitcomb, of Perley, Minn., is a guest at the home of her brother, M. A. Hatten.

Edwin and Miss Mathilda Walsvik, of Iowa, have recently moved to a farm west of town.

Remi Fortier, of Gentilly, was in town several days of this week, the guest of his son, J. R.

Mrs. Nick Helm is still critically ill, and it is reported that there is slight hope of her recovery.

Miss Rosana Dubuque, of Crookston, is visiting friends and relatives in the city this week.

Wm. Tysselling, one of Polk Center's prominent citizens, was a caller at the county seat Tuesday.

Judges Tarrant and Knight were visitors at the upper Falls over Tuesday night on business.

Get our prices before you buy another thing in the line of flour and feed.—Tibbetts & Davison.

For sale at a bargain—the Robert Basey residence on Third street. Inquire of W. A. McIntyre.

Mrs. F. A. Mixes returned yesterday from an extended visit with her parents at Joliette, N. D.

The new silk albatross waistings, fast colors, 33 inches wide, for 38 cents per yard, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

The J. B. Cigar company has a pipe advertisement in today's paper that isn't a "pipe dream." Read it and see.

Under the provisions of a new law high schools will hereafter receive state aid to the amount of $1,500 annually.

Ole Mikkelson left Tuesday evening on a trip to Murray county, where he has business interests to look after.

Laurence Benson left yesterday for Edmore, N. D., where he will make an extended visit with friends and relatives.

The ladies' aid society of the Presbyterian church was entertained by Mrs. P. B. Gauss yesterday afternoon.

Frank Martin has been up from Crookston several days of the week, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Theo. LaBissoniere.

Mrs. B. E. Burkee came down from St. Hilaire Tuesday and visited with several days with the family of J. L. Johnson.

The following letters remain unclaimed at the postoffice for the week ending April 11, 1903: Mrs. Marie La Page.

Rev. C. Nauman is building a large barn on his farm westof town. A. Vaage and Paul Rogge are doing the carpenter work.

Ladies are able to buy a pair of fine hose for 9 cents—three pairs for 25 cents—while they last, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Miss Minnie Shannon, who has been visiting relatives at this place for several weeks, returned to her home at Joliet Monday.

Now, this week: A line of medium price black dress skirts at $4.00 to $6.00. Up to date in design and of good value.—Bangs & Co.

Services will be held next Sunday at St. Mary's church at the usual time. Father Eloi will hold services at St. Hilaire Sunday.

Cashier Theo. Garceau has been the victim of a serious attack of neuralgia this week which incapacitated him for business several days.

The Misses Cook and Miss Ora Kunkel came up from Fertile Friday and remained until Tuesday, the guests of t Misses Hanamuth.

Levi Lambert came back from the woods Tuesday, and left ia theafternoon for Cass Lake, where he will visit friends for a month or two.

Theo. Deforge was taken to the Crookston hospital last Saturday. An operation for appendicitus was successfully performed Monday.

It's a safe bet that you'll never run across a more elegant line of pipes than we are now showing. Call and see for yourself.—T. B. Cram Co.

Louis Lacoursiero and children desire to thank the neighbors and friends who rendered assistance during their recent bereavement.

Wm. Shaner, living southwest of town, has been having a tussel with a serious attack erysipelas the past week but is reported as improving.

County Surveyor Smiley was down from Thief River Falls several days the week doing some surveying and drawing for Red Lake Falls parties.

H. P. Benson, of Gervais, was quite severely kicked on the left leg by a horse last night, and is temporarily taking a rest in consequence.

Frank Jeffers was at Thief River Falls several days the early part of the week, expounding the merits of the New York Life Insurance company.

The Evangelical Methodists expect to hold their first service a week from Sunday. The society is negotiating for the use of the K. of P. hall.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Mr. and Mrs. L. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. H. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Little, A. F. Ittner and Walter and Oscar Johnson formed a party on Sunday and went to Red Lake Falls for a visit with friends.

F. X. Callier has purchased the Picha meat market, and took possession Monday. John Keffelaain has charge of the shop. Mr. Callier expects to keep a full line of fresh and cured meats and invites the people to give his place a call.

Fortier's "ad" this week calls attention to a new list of grocery bargains. While the bankrupt stock lasts the people will be given the benefit of liberal discounts. Now is the time to buy, while you can save money on many staple articles.

Major McLaughlin, the Indian inspector, is at Thief River Falls, and will engage at once upon the working of making a treaty with the Indians in conformity with the act of congress opening to settlement the eleven towns of the ceded Red Lake reservation. Unless the Indians show hostility to the terms of the treaty it is thought the opening will be accomplished this fall.

Did you ever wonder why lumber was purchased from the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company gives such good satisfaction? Perhaps it is because the same company that owns the yard furnishes the lumber. The Crookston Lumber company has retail yards in about twenty towns, operated for convenience under the name St. Hilaire Retail Lumber Company, and it very naturally holds up to the top notch the grades of all lumber shipped to its own yards.

County Superintendent Jeffers has received notice from J. W. Olson, secretary of the state high school board, that after July 31, 1903, no teacher will be accepted by the board as qualified to teach in the grades of any schools drawing special state aid, aid as a state graded school or as a high school who has not at least a second grade certificate. No teacher shall be deemed qualified to teach above the sixth grade in such schools, who has not at least a first grade certificate. The rule will not be enforced against teachers who have been employed heretofore in grade work under the supervision of the board. They may continue grade work in the school district in which they have been employed if they hold second grade certificates or equivalents or the recommendation of the city superintendent or graded school inspector and the state inspector.

Bankrupt Sale

... AT ...

FORTIER'S

Reduced prices prevail at our store for a little while longer. The bankrupt stock is being rapidly closed out, and this opportunity to get staple goods at such a large discount may never come your way again. Come now while you can save money.

TEAS of all grades now..... 25 per ct off

HIGH GRADE Brooms..... 25 per cent off

CLOTHES PINS per dozen..... 1c

CALIFORNIA Naval Oranges per doz.... 30c

GOLD DUST, 25c package for..... 15c

ROCKWOOD Bakers' Chocolate, regular price 40c; our price..... 30c

FORCE—2 packages for..... 25c

WHEATINE, per package..... 11c

RRINCE'S GLOSS Starch, per lb..... 6c

SYRUP, worth 40c, our price..... 25c

New Line of Fancy Cookies just in—all the latest flavors and makes.

New invoices of staple Dry Goods will be in this week. Prices will be put down to the lowest notch.

Men's and Ladies' Spring Underwear—good values for little money—will be here this week.

Fortier

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

Ed L Healy to Wm Schwalen, ne qr 13-152-44 and se qr 9-151-43.. Albert Chabot to Louis Perrault, w hf nw qr and w hf sw qr 10-152-42..... 1000
United States to Maria L. Buse, se qr 8-150-44..... Patent
Ethel M Sanples to Peter Eberhart, lt 18 blk 58 orig T R F..... 1000
Chas Sampson to Wm Sampson, ne qr se qr 26 and sw qr, s hf se qr 25-151-43..... 3500
Anna Kretzschmar to Lorena R Padden, lots 17-18 & blk 63 and other lands, orig T R F..... 500
H E Ives to Daniel Holmberg, lot 17, blk 3, Ives' rearrang., lots 1 and 4, lives add St Hilaire..... 100
Geo M Knox to C J Knox, lots 20-21 Knox add Red Lake Rapids. 60
U S to J J Jungberg, sw qr nw qr lot 1, 3-151-44..... Patent
Thos Milsom to Chas W. Davies, lots 14 and 15, blk 8 Knox add Red Lake Rapids..... 1500
John Peterson to Rasmus H Foss, lot 8 blk 3, Ives add St Hilaire.. 85
Andro Forstad to Henry J Enderle se qr nw qr lot 3, 3-151-43..... 500
Mary Goulet to Anna Goulet, lt 18 blk 4, Centrax add R L F..... 50
I C Simons to John Miller, sw qr se qr 27-152-43..... 1
John Miller to Louis Sieff, se qr se qr 27-152-43..... 400
Adelard Ethier to Petra Tande, s hf ne qr and lots 1-2, 2-151-41.. 3500
John N Miller to Claus Hagge, ne qr 34-154-45 and ne qr 10-153-45 3200
John Borgen to Thos Hilsom, lts 3 and 4, blk 25 Knox add R L R.. 110
Chas J Knox to J J Vorschek, lots 21-22, blk 11 Knox add R L R.. 120
W E McKenzie to Am R E & Mtg Co. e hf sw qr lots 3-4, 31-154-43 1
Am R E & Mtg Co. to O L Bakken same..... 5000
U S to Andrew O Sanden, w hf ne qr se qr ne qr 13-152-44 ..... Patent
Anton Knuhlauch to Marcus Johnson, se qr, s hf ne qr 29-152-44, with exceptions..... 3500
Marcus Johnson to Minnie H Lang same..... 4320

LOCAL MARKET REPORT.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company give us the following market quotations for to-day:

No. 1 hard wheat, 69½c
No. 1 Northern, 64½c
No. 2 Northern, 62½c
No. 3 Northern, 58½c
No. 4 Northern, 56½c
Flax, 80c
Oats, 28c
Patent flour, $2.35;
Second patents, $2.25;
Bran, $14.00.
Shorts, $16.00;
Barley, 30c to 40c.

Good For Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of cough, croup and la grippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflamation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure, life-giving and life-sustaining air to the blood and tissues. A. L. Richert.

House for rent—apply to Francois LaBissoniere.

Bank Statement.

Statement of the condition of First State Bank at Red Lake Falls at close of business on 15 th day of April 1903. Date of call by Superintendent, April 14, 1903. Date of report by Bank, April 14, 1903.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts.....	$ 163,153.73
Overdrafts.....	1,661.24
Other Bonds, Stocks and Securities	29,412 91
Banking House, furniture and fixtures	8,000.00
Due from Banks..... $ 32,277 35
Due from Reserve Agents..... 7,138.32
Checks.....
Gold..... 3,700.00
Silver..... 750.85
Fractional..... 158.00
	10,023 85
Total available assets.....	$ 312,252 73
	36,016 35
TOTAL.....	$ 312,252 73

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock.....	$ 75,000 00
Surplus Fund.....	5,000.00
Undivided Profits Net.....	1,131 33
Dividends unpaid.....	1,150 00
Deposits subject to check.....	179,977 55
Demand certificates.....	12,184.33
Total immediate liabilities	74,313 61
Time certificates.....	107,370 72
Total deposits.....	181,544 33
	312,252 73
TOTAL.....	$ 312,252 73

State of Minnesota, } ss
County of Red Lake. }

H. Theo. Garceau, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.
THEO. GARCEAU, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 14th day of April 1903. RALPH C. WARE,
Notary Public.

To Cure a Cold in One Day Cures Grip in Two Days.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. on every box. 25c.

Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature, E. W. Grove

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 29. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 23, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 237.

SHERIFF SAMPSON CALLED FROM EARTH

After Heroic Struggle With Consumption Finally Succumbs to the Inevitable.

Sheriff Charles Sampson died Tuesday night, after an illness with consumption extending over a period of nearly two years. For the last two months he has been very low and the end was expected at any time. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock a. m. tomorrow (Friday) from St. Joseph's church and the remains interred in the Catholic cemetery.

Mr. Sampson was born at Osseo, Hennepin county, Minnesota, forty-four years ago, and came to Red Lake county in 1880, settling on a farm in Gervais township. In 1898 he was nominated for sheriff by the Republicans, and was elected by a margin of one vote over Henry Norland. In that year John Lind had nearly 1200 plurality for governor, and all the other Republican candidates were defeated by large majorities. Mr. Sampson was re-elected in 1900 and 1902, each time by a handsom plurality.

The deceased leaves a wife and seven children. His father and mother are still living at Osseo. Among the relatives from a distance here to attend the funeral are Mrs. Agnes Barber, of Washington, a sister, and William Sampson, of Crookston, a brother, accompanied by his daughters, Misses Jessie and Emma.

It's a safe bet that you never run across a more elegant line of pipes than we are now showing. Call and see for yourself.—J. B. CHAR Co.

SAW MILL SOLD TO THOS. SHEVLIN

Largest Lumber Manufacturing Concern in Minnesota Becomes Identified With Red Lake Falls.

Negotiations for the sale of the mill owned by the Red Lake Falls Lumber company were consummated this week, and ownership passes to the Shevlin-Carpenter company, of Minneapolis, which owns the mills at Bemidji, Crookston and St. Hilaire.

No definite information as to the purposes of the company has been given out, except that the mill will be under control of the Crookston Lumber company. It is considered altogether probable that the mill will be started in a few weeks.

BAND CONCERT ON EVENING OF MAY 6

Excellent Entertainment and a Brilliant Musical Event Assured on That Occasion.

The date for the April concert by the Red Lake Falls band has been changed to Wednesday evening, May 6, and will be by far the best that has been presented by this organization. Prof. Smith has exerted extraordinary efforts to make the program one of unusual merit and those who attend can be assured of a rare treat. The program will consist of two parts and is as follows:

PART I.

1—March.....E. Sorrentino
"Willow Grove"
2—Overture—comic.....Dalbey
"Symphony" No. 1
3—Characteristic March..M. H. Hall
"On the Levee"
4—Flute Solo, Grand Fantasia.....
Maritana.....H. Round
"Scenes that are Brightest"
Monsieur L. P. Bertion, Paris
Full Band Accompaniment
5—American Patrol..F. W. Meacham
PART II.
6—March.....O. R. Farrar
"Montgomery Clum"
7—Grand Selection.....W. Morse
From Comic Opera "Waxo"
8—Waltz.....G. F. Daniels
"Senola"
9—African Episode.....Barnhouse
"Geo'ge Washington's Birthday Party"

COURT'S FINDINGS IN COLUMBIA COUNTY CASE

Law Permits Submission of Only One Proposition at a Time in Same Territory.

In the Columbia county case the supreme court holds, in a lengthy decision, that the county division law does not permit of the submission of more than one proposition covering the same territory. That the propositions submitted differed only as to incidentals and that the real question before the voters was the setting apart of the particular territory and this only was the real concern of the electors of Polk county at large. That by submitting the three propositions covering the same territory, the rights of the electors were interfered with and eliminated to the extent of the number of propositions submitted, as the law permitted a vote for or against one proposition only. The court distinguishing the Columbia county case from the Red Lake county case, holds that the territory in the propositions submitted must be totally and substantially different and that after a proposition is filed no other proposition covering the same territory can be presented for submission at the election. The court says that the placing of the three propositions covering the same territory on the ballot was calculated and likely to mislead and deceive the electors and deprive them of rights to vote on the setting apart of a particular territory given by the statutes.

They hold that on account of the above facts, the entire election as to all three of the propositions, Nelson, Columbia and Star, is a nullity and that a writ of ouster might issue as Columbia county has no standing in law.

BANKS OF THE COUNTY.

Recapitulation of Statements Issued Last Week.

The reports of the five incorporated banks of Red Lake county were published last week, and make an excellent showing. The total deposits are $642,808.65, an average of $49 per inhabitant. The resources of the various banks is shown in the following table:

First National, Thief River	$165,953.09
First State, Thief River	97,598.26
First State, St. Hilaire	84,939.80
First State, Red Lake Falls	222,655.56
Merchants State, Red Lake Falls	131,661.23
Total	$703,808.09

SPECIAL BOARD MEETING

Called to Elect Successor to Sheriff Sampson.

By the death of Sheriff Sampson, Coroner Grundy, by virtue of his office, becomes acting sheriff until the board of county commissioners elects a successor. The election will take place at a special meeting of the board, which has been called for next Monday. Quite a number of prospective candidates are mentioned, among them Dan Linnehan, Fred Cyr, Oliver Caron, Adam Zeh and Arthur Lizee, of Red Lake Falls, and K. M. Hansen, W. J. Kelly and John Kivel, of Thief River Falls.

Sues his Stenographer.

Action for slander has been commenced by Martin Bothun against Miss Thea Rendson. The principals are prominent in commercial circles at Thief River Falls. The complaint avers that the defendant has at various times uttered language which has been detrimental to his business in the sum of $7,100, in that she said that he (Bothun) had been engaged to the defendant and to other girls; that he had visited places of ill repute and that his wife had been married before and that her husband had deserted her for good and sufficient reasons. The defendant is said to be a dashing blonde, and has been for some time identified with the upper crust of Thief River Falls' "400" society. For a number of months the past year she was in the employ of Mr. Bothun as stenographer.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

MAKE TREATY WITH RED LAKE INDIANS

Maj. McLaughlin to Secure Signatures for the Cession of Eleven Towns.

A dispatch from Crookston to the city dailies says that Major James McLaughlin, the man who negotiates the Indian treaties of the United States came to Crookston Monday on his way to Red Lake, where he will explain to the Indians on that reservation the provisions of the act of congress to which he hopes to get their signatures, so that the eleven townships on the west end of the reservation may be opened to settlement. Major McLaughlin proceeded later to Solway, where he will leave the rails and drive across the country to the agency.

The work before him will occupy three weeks. As soon as hoarriving there he will send out Indians as runners to all parts of the reservation to call the members of the band together in council. The Indians at present are widely scattered. The work of rounding them up will be considerable, and will require at least a week. It was the intention to set the date of the first council for Friday of next week, but there is little likelihood of making progress before the following Monday.

As soon as the band is assembled the work of placing the matter before the Indians in council will be taken up, and the provisions of the bill fully explained to them. This will require several days, as the redskins are very deliberate in making treaties, and the present negotiations will be more than usually difficult to conduct owing to the action of Major Scott, acting Indian agent, who has advised the Indians against signing the treaty.

It will likely take three weeks to conclude the negotiations, and during that time the Indians will be provided for at government expense. The supplies for them will be furnished by Major McLaughlin, and as they will live well it is not likely that they will shorten the time of the deliberations. It is possible that Congressman Steenerson may decide to go to the agency, as he has considerable influence with the Indians, and they have an abiding faith in him.

Maj. McLaughlin expresses some doubt as to the result of his mission. There have been attempts made by various interested parties to induce the Red Lakers to refuse to sign the agreement, and the terms being fixed by congress there is no way in which the major can deviate from them. In nearly all instances where he has treated with the various bands before he has been vested with discretionary powers, but in this case he must follow the strict terms of the bill. It will require at least two weeks to determine if the Indians are inclined to cede the lands or whether they will reject the treaty.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The meanest trick that a railroad can play on a girl is to turn on a light just before the train goes through a tunnel.

Women smoke the way boys swear—without appreciating how much fun they could get out of it if they only knew how to do it.

A woman can win a man by making fine strawberry shortcake; to hold him she has got to know how to broil steak and bake bread.

It is an indescribable instinct that leads a girl to put on her best pair of stockings in the morning when her skirt is going to get caught on a barb wire fence in the afternoon.

When a woman makes an unexpected call on another it is a sign that she has heard something disagreeable about her and would like a chance to tell it to her as a friend.

One of the Best.

Crookston Times: Hon. L. C. Simons of Red Lake Falls, passed through the city last evening en route to the state capitol after a short visit to his home. Mr. Simons is the representative from Red Lake county in the state legislature and enjoys the distinction of being one of the best men in that body.

ARE YOUR WITS IN GOOD WORKING ORDER?

If They Are, you Have a Chance to Win a Prize by Solving These Puzzles.

This week THE COURIER presents the last of the series of name puzzles. Answers handed in before Saturday, April 25, at 2 p. m., will have an equal chance in point of time. Anyone except those connected with THE COURIER, can enter the contest. The prizes will be as follows:

First—$2 map of Minnesota.
Second—a 50-cent paperie.
Third—a 25-cent paperie.

The puzzles again represent names of Red Lake Falls people.

1—A president of the United States, with two letters decapitated.
2—A cereal, crusty or short.
3—To become insipid.
4—A common article of food, indigestible.
5—To violently separate, to rave.
6—A salty; a playthings.
7—To interchange thoughts.
8—Humid; to exchange.
9—A fruit; a disturbance.
10—An article of wearing apparel, a decade.
11—A conjunction; to fortify, clamber.
12—To the left; to bend.
13—Beginning; in continuance.
14—Emitting flame.
15—A moth.
16—To surmise; a beverage.

About twenty answers to last week's puzzles were handed in, but only one was correct. Another had but one error, and has been given second price. The others were so far from being correct that we are not justified in awarding prizes.

The winners are as follows:

First—Miss Jessie Johnson, Red Lake Falls.

Second—Miss Melvina Altstadt, Red Lake Falls.

The prizes can be secured at THE COURIER office.

The correct answers are:

1—Doe;
2—Dandelis;
3—Go'mo;
4—Helm;
5—O'Brien;
6—Bourdon;
7—Gaircon;
8—Taylor;
9—Rnafer;
10—Symson,
11—Watson;
12—Ron;
13—Spillane;
14—Tandberg;
15—Westerlund;
16—Newton.

SALE OF DITCHING JOBS.

E. A. Moran, of this City, Will Build the New Lambert Ditch.

Auditor Ford opened the bids for the construction of the new ditch in Lambert township last Saturday and the contract for the work was awarded to E. A. Moran, of this city. The price paid for this work, seven and seventy-four hundredths cents per yard, will be the lowest ever paid in the Valley, and will mean a saving of a neat sum to the county. The following were the bids:

Thos. Anderson	9 47
Jos. Pigeon	9 95
Erwin Chabot	9 95
A. Paquin	9 99
Nesseman & Sloan	9 97
E. Perrie	9 81
J. B. Hebert	9 75
E. A. Moran	7 74

A Land of Thirst.

The air of Death Valley in the deserts of the Great Basin is drier than that of the African Sahara, and the heat is so great that a person requires two gallons of water a day. The lack of water even for a few hours will cause death. If you eat still and did nothing but drink water all day you would still be thirsty, but golden grain belt beer will quench the thirst. When one is very thirsty the stomach needs a little nourishment to overcome the feeling. This nourishment is supplied by the beer and the thirst is quenched. Besides the whole body is put in perfect condition and the person made strong and healthy. Better use it in your home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

"By Our Loving Friends"

Are we advertised," can be truthfully said of the finely equipped trains of the North-Western Line, for every experienced globe-trotter you meet will unite with the people of the Northwest generally in commendation of the service afforded by this line, especially as to the North-Western Limited between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago.

We are the Leaders. The Only Up-to-Date Clothing House in Red Lake County.

THE SURPRISE

THERE are merchants who are very particular about their friends, who are not so very careful as to the clothes company they keep. They can be in the best company if they choose and yet they take something less. It's a mistake, of course. The strange thing is they don't see what a mistake it is. Our illustration is of a HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX SUIT—a style which is clothes-company for more particular dressers than any styles ever produced. If you are not associated with it, and would like to be, call and inspect our immense stock.

Boys' Clothing..

Base ball and bat or catcher's mitt given free with every boys' suit.

OUR HAT DEPARTMENT

We are Sole Agents. From the Factory to the Head.

Gents' Furnishings

Our line of MEN'S FURNISHINGS is now complete, including all the latest novelties. Magnificent display of Neckwear, Hosiery, Underwear, Soft and Stiff Bosom Shirts, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs and the Latest Novelties in Belts.....

Hawes $3.00 HATS You can pay five dollars for a hat, But you will be no better satisfied than with a Hawes for three.

Berthon & Armstrong.....
RED LAKE FALLS.

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Lots of men would keep out of trouble if their minds were geared to work faster than their tongues.

The Lake Shetek Courier wants to know how a man is going to live within his income when he hasn't any.

President Roosevelt is released from Yellowstone this week and the press correspondent will get busy again.

A bright lady paragrapher has discovered that after a woman has been married ten years she doesn't believe in heroes.

The McIntosh papers should put their files in a safety vault. About 1923 they can run some interesting "twenty years ago" items.

Since Abbott Blunt has been in charge the "sub-caliber" spirit seems to spread over the entire editorial page of the Minneapolis Times.

Counterfeit 25 bills are alleged to be in circulation. As long as there are no bad quarters and dimes floating around the average newspaper man will not be alarmed.

Sid Bagley, of the Thief River Press, is evidently in love:

> The melancholy days have come,
> The saddest of the year—
> When for ice cream man must spend the sum
> That he'd like to spend for beer.

The Commoner says this in defense of a Chicago girl:

> The lady cashier of a Chicago hotel refused to cash a check for Secretary Shaw the other day because she was not convinced of his identity. Probably she had overheard him discussing the money question and thought that one who knew so little about the subject could not possibly be at the head of the treasury department.

Frank Day is at a loss for a punishment to fit the case:

> The robin redbreast is busily building his nest in the old apple tree these days and the naughty boy who despoils the nest or steals the eggs deserves to be promptly and properly spanked—but what shall we say of the boy's mamma who covets the dead body of the little songster himself for adornment of a "love of a bonnet!"

Mary McFadden notes the fall of luck that has recently come to one of the oldest and best-loved members of the Minnesota press:

> Affluence is coming to "Granny" Pease, and every mother's son and daughter will be rejoiced because of it. It all comes of so interest he had to his brother's great discovery for manufacturing plate glass.

The "Nonpareil" man of the Minneapolis Journal gets off this one on the automobile:

> A "lightning calculator" has just died at Trenton, N. J., at the age of 30. Lightning calculators are more common than they used to be. It takes a "phenom" of this character to get across the street when the cha-cha-hoya are out exercising their automobiles.

This, from the Windom Citizen, is true as preachin':

> A town can get along without a fire engine, a street sprinkler, an opera house, electric lights and waterworks better than it can get along without public spirit. Give us a town made up of citizens with no public spirit whatsoever and we would trade off a graveyard for it and ask nothing to boot. Public spirit is to a town just what blood is to the human body. Without it you have paralysis and atrophy of trade.

A Mankato paper publishes the following which sets one to wondering about this thing called fate:

> Thomas Lawrence, a Scottish cavalry man, was knocked twenty feet on a year ago and received injury. Last August he was struck by lightning several. Five months ago he fell twenty feet from a barn roof and was not hurt. Last week he stumbled over a two-months'-old pup and in falling broke his

The New York Press tells a new story on Horace Greeley:

> Horace Greeley was one of the most profane men that ever lived. Cursing was a second nature to him. He even called himself names that would cause a duel in the South if applied to a friend or enemy. When he realized that he was dying he said aloud: "Well, the devil's got you at last, you damned old——" A week after the funeral his daughter wrote to Whitelaw Reid to know what were the last words of her father. Reid wrote back: "Your dear father's last words were, 'I know that my Redeemer liveth.'"

Mark Hanna once gave a banquet to fifty Ohio farmers. The dessert was to be twenty-five watermelons. So the day before the dinner Mr. Hanna had them plugged and poured a pint of wine into each melon, then placed them on ice. After the dinner each farmer was given a half of a melon. They all began tasting them, winked at each other, looked wise, and before the affair was over every farmer was slipping the seeds into his vest pocket.

Bro. Greeley, of the Big Fork Compass, has already had premonitions of spring fever, and tells of his troubles in verse:

> There's a lazy time a-coming,
> You can smell it in the air;
> Loafers in each shady corner
> With an air of 'do not care!'
> When the sun gets out in earnest,
> Comes a whooping o'er the trees,
>
> Thawing out the hears and turtles,
> Waking up the sleeping bees—
> Lazy flies will catch the foremost,
> Easy jobs will suit us best;
> We will rook our souls in sunshine,
> Steep our weary bones in rest.

Here's a bunch of timely "thats" from the St. Peter Herald:

> That flattery is a very bad way in which to show approval.
> That when a man ceases to look up he soon begins to go down.
> That friends are really need have a penalty of being absent when we need them most.
> That the man who starts out to do something and doesn't quit usually accomplishes what he sets out to do.
> That self-denial comes easy in the spring when we see ball-ripe strawberries selling for a dollar or two per quart.
> That a lot of people feel easier now that Lent is over, not that it will make any difference except in keeping up the appearance.

A pathetic story coming from over in Wisconsin is told by Ralph Wheelock:

> A few days ago Mabel Colgrove's little brother was accidentally shot and was taken to the hospital.
> Little Mabel, but five years old, made daily trips to carry fruit to the little sufferer and to cheer him up.
> The other day she was hurrying across the car tracks with two big oranges in her hands and did not see the trolley car which bore down upon her.
> When her mangled body was picked up the tender, loving soul had gone on.
> And her agonized parents and brother wonder, with the rest of us, why this fair sacrifice.

The editor of the Perry (Okla.) Republican has the most intricate family relations. According to his own account he married a widow, who had a daughter. His father married the daughter, thus becoming his stepson and making his daughter his stepmother. The stepdaughter had a son, who became the editor's brother and "stepgrandchild." The editor's wife is his step-grandmother, because she is the mother of his stepmother. He remarks plaintively that he is his wife's husband's grandchild and his own grandfather, because as the husband of a person's grandmother he is naturally that person's grandfather.

Another American Peril That Is Worrying John Bull.

APPEARANCE DECEIVING.

"What's the fare, cabby?"

"Five dollars, sir."

"No, it isn't. Here's a dollar. I'm not such a fool as I look."

"No, sir. I wish you were, sir."—Scraps.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

Landlady (severely)—Nora, I found three hairpins in the hash at breakfast. I hope—

Nora—Faith, now, an' who'd ivir drame ur lookin' fur 'em there! Or'e been missin' 'em all mornin'. Thank you, ma'om, fur lettin' me know.—N. Y. Sun.

Suspicious.

Bank Director—How did you come to examine his books? His Associate—I heard him address his Sunday school class on "We are here to-day and gone to-morrow."—Puck.

ALMOST AN INSINUATION.

He—Ah, good morning, Miss Brightly, will you go skating with me?

She—No, thank you, I've been sitting down all the morning.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A CLAIM IN A COLD SPOT.

Miss Frost—He said he had hold claim to my heart.

Miss Thaw—What did you say?

Miss Frost—I told him it was a good deal like staking out a claim in the Klondike.—N. Y. Times.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County,—ss. Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co. doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that the said firm will pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall Catarrh Cure.

Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. Gleason,

(Seal) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O.

Sold by all druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE

THE ENGINE HOUSE AT HARPER'S FERRY—JOHN BROWN'S FORT. Fitted Answer.

John Brown first achieved public notice in the civil war in Kansas, where the free and slave factions were fighting for the mastery. It was there, probably, that he conceived the idea of establishing a station, capable of defense by a small body of men, where runaway slaves might find refuge in their flight into Canada. That was undoubtedly Brown's intention when he seized Harper's Ferry. This occurred during the night of October 16, 1859. Brown took possession of the armory practically without opposition. On the following day Col. Robert E. Lee arrived from Washington with a company of marines to capture Brown, who, with his six remaining men, barricaded themselves in the engine-house. Two of Brown's sons were killed and he was captured, tried as a felon and executed at Charleston, Va., December 2, 1859.

Answer to last week's puzzle—Upside down is steps at left of stand.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Subdivision	Sec	Twp	Rge	Year of taxes for which land was sold	Amt. sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt. paid by purchaser	Amt. paid for subsequent taxes	Amt. required to redeem
Frederick Buse	Kretzsch. mar's 2nd add to Red Lake Falls	5	31	45	1899	$ 3.35	May 29 1902	$ 3.35	$ 1.00	$ 4.80
		8	31	45	1900	3.35	" 29 1902	3.35	1.00	4.80
		9	31	45	1901	3.35	" 29 1902	3.35	1.00	4.80
		10	31	45	1902	3.35	" 29 1902	3.35	1.00	4.80
		11	31	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		11	31	45	1900	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		11	31	45	1901	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		11	31	45	1902	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		12	31	45	1899	2.54	" 29 1902	2.54	.50	3.54
		12	31	45	1900	2.54	" 29 1902	2.54	.50	3.54
		12	31	45	1901	2.54	" 29 1902	2.54	.50	3.54
		12	31	45	1902	2.54	" 29 1902	2.54	.50	3.54
		16	22	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		2	23	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		3	23	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		4	23	45	1899	2.54	" 29 1902	2.54	.50	3.54
		5	23	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		15	23	45	1899	6.84	" 29 1902	6.84	.50	7.84
		15	23	45	1902	3.35	" 29 1902	3.35	.50	4.30
		16	23	45	1899	3.35	" 29 1902	3.35	.50	4.30
		16	23	45	1902	3.35	" 29 1902	3.35	.50	4.30
		7	23	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		7	23	45	1902	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		8	23	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		8	23	45	1902	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		10	23	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		11	23	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		11	23	45	1902	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
TOTAL										$ 69.14

To FREDERICK BUSE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1902, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of March, A. D. 1899, in favor of the above described plaintiff, and against the above described parcels of land in Red Lake county, State of Minnesota, were sold into the State to satisfy the amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs which were adjudged liable in said judgment, amounting, for the whole lands and town lots in the above described real estate then and now in the aforesaid proportion of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sum above stated, that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sum above stated, that the amount required to redeem the above described real estate from said sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice on this notice is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 6th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

apr23

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Subdivision	Sec	Twp	Rge	Year of taxes for which land was sold	Amt. sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt. paid by purchaser	Amt. paid for subsequent taxes	Amt. required to redeem
J A Barrichter	Kretzsch. mar's 2nd add to Red Lake Falls	3	30	45	1899	$ 1.25	May 29 1902	$ 1.25	$ .50	$ 2.10
		4	30	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		5	30	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		6	30	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		25	22	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		26	22	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
		34	22	45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
TOTAL										$ 14.70

To J. A. BARRICHTER:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1902, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of March, A. D. 1899, in favor of the above described plaintiff, and against the above described parcels of land in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were sold into the State to satisfy the amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs which were adjudged liable in said judgment, amounting, for the whole lands and town lots in the above described real estate then and now in the aforesaid proportion of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sum above stated, that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sum above stated, that the amount required to redeem the above described real estate from said sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice on this notice is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 6th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

apr23

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Subdivision	Sec	Twp	Rge	Year of taxes for which land was sold	Amt. sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt. paid by purchaser	Amt. paid for subsequent taxes	Amt. required to redeem
Chas. McNamara	A strip of land 132½ feet east and west by 330 feet north and south, it being a part of tract adjoining Ogle's 2nd add. to Red Lake Falls.	24	30	45	1900	$4.74	May 29 1902	$4.74	$1.25	$7.10

To CHAS. MCNAMARA:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1902, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of March, A. D. 1899, in favor of the above described plaintiff, and against the above described parcels of land in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were sold into the State to satisfy the amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs which were adjudged liable in said judgment, amounting, for the whole lands and town lots in the above described real estate then and now in the aforesaid proportion of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sum above stated, that the amount required to redeem the above described real estate from said sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice on this notice is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 6th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

apr23

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or Sec Twp Rge subdivision of lot	Year of taxes for which land was sold	Amt. sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt. paid by purchaser	Amt. paid for subsequent taxes	Amt. required to redeem
John M Boyle	Kretzsch. mar's 2nd add to Red Lake Falls 15 31 45	1899	$ 1.25	May 29 1902	$ 1.25	$ .50	$ 2.10
	16 31 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	17 31 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	18 31 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	19 31 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	20 31 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	21 31 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	17 23 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	18 23 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	19 23 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	20 23 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	21 23 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	13 24 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	14 24 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	15 24 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	22 24 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	23 24 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
	24 24 45	1899	1.25	" 29 1902	1.25	.50	2.10
TOTAL							$ 47.50

To JOHN M. BOYLE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1902, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of March, A. D. 1899, in favor of the above described plaintiff, and against the above described parcels of land in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were sold into the State to satisfy the amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs which were adjudged liable in said judgment, amounting, for the whole lands and town lots in the above described real estate then and now in the aforesaid proportion of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sum above stated, that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sum above stated, that the amount required to redeem the above described real estate from said sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice on this notice is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 6th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

apr23

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale by Advertisement.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage, executed and delivered by Albert Johnson, of Red Lake County, Minnesota, to Albert Hagler, mortgagee, dated the 22d day of April, A. D. 1901, and filed for record on the 3rd day of December, 1902, at 10 o'clock A. M., in Book 19 of Mortgages, on page 526, on which there is claimed to be due and is due, at the date of this notice the amount of $1,000.00 principal and interest and no proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, and hereinafter described, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, at public auction, by the Sheriff of said county, on Saturday, the 16th day of May, A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, and taxes and assessments, if any, and fifty dollars attorney's fee stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and disbursements.

The premises described in said mortgage, and so to be sold, are the following piece or parcel of land situated in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit:

The north one-half (½) of the northeast one-fourth (¼), and the southwest one-fourth (¼) of the northeast one-fourth (¼) of section sixteen (16) township one hundred and fifty-four (154) range forty-five (45).

Dated March 24, 1903.

L. D. HAGLER, Mortgagee.

ALBERT JOHNSON, Attorney for Mortgagee.

mar24

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Red Lake, ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 6, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. H. Hammer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Lindquist, praying that he be licensed to sell at private or public sale all the interest of said estate, setting forth that the said C. H. Hammer, deceased, was seized in his lifetime of or entitled to the following described real estate in the said William Lindquist's petition mentioned, to-wit: [illegible] and praying that the same may be conveyed and the lands upon which such claim is filed may be duly platted, surveyed, and praying that the Probate Court may make an order authorizing and directing the said administrator to convey and deliver the said premises according to such platting and survey.

It is Ordered, That all persons interested in said estate, may appear before the Probate Court, at a special term thereof to be held on Saturday, the 25th day of April, A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Office in the Court House in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said County, and oppose said petition.

And it is Further Ordered, that this Order shall be published in the Red Lake County Courier, a newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County, for three weeks successively prior to the hearing.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 13th day of April 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

apr16-30

Subscribe for THE COURIER.

Bring your job work to THE COURIER

T.L. BLOOD & CO.'S
READY-MIXED
HOUSE, BARN, FLOOR, CARRIAGE AND WAGON
PAINTS
WILL GIVE YOU SATISFACTION
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.
SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 12:30 p. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 12:15 p. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 2:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 1:30 p. m.
Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 12:00 to noon and 2:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train fly and by stage Sundays.
E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer,
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds.
Court Bonds..Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DON'T BE FOOLED
Advertisements having appeared in various publications wherein Sears, Roebuck & Co., offer Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines, we wish to warn the public that they are not our authorized agents and that we do not sell our machines to them nor any other catalogue house or department store.
Their advertisements are not for the purpose of promoting the sale of our machines. They are using our reputation as makers of the highest grade machines only, in order to get the names of possible buyers and persons that to purchase one of their cheap STENCILED MACHINES, the manufacturers of which they are, evidently, ashamed to make public.
If you want a genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, do not waste your time writing to anyone who is unable to furnish it. The genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, made by us and backed by our warranty, is for sale by our authorized dealers only. When you buy a Wheeler & Wilson, you get a machine that is a machine, backed by a reputation of 50 years' unparalleled success.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133. I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING. VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Whiteley, H. Hegnestad, Wm. Schwalen N. G. V. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. It's the only reliable remedy that gives quick cure for headache, biliousness, constipation, malaria, etc. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitutes. Ask your druggist.
OUT THEY GO
MORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has rich farming land. Will be opened for settlement by lottery soon—will be a rush for claims. Good water in wells, 10 to 20 feet. Where Coal is Free. Building material cheap to use. Transportation still better on Electric prices. Farm lands $7 to $15 per acre. Write for free pamphlet, maps and full information, 8,000 people now in county. Don't be late—time limited. Write for maps and facts.
Wm. F. Brown & Co.
Mandan, N. Dak., or 151 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

SUMMER WORK FOR TEACHERS.

Supt. Olsen is Planning for Vacation Schools.

J. W. Olsen, state superintendent of public instruction, is making arrangements for summer schools and has issued a circular letter to the county superintendents.

The plan this year is to arrange for a number of six-week summer training schools. Each county superintendent is asked to elect between these two terms and the requests will be granted so far as the funds will permit. Where a training school is not desired or cannot be assigned a one week institute will be offered.

The teacher's examinations will be held Aug. 3, 4 and 5, and all summer schools must be closed before that date. A six-week term must, therefore, be commenced not later than June 22, and a four-week term not later than July 6.

The state maintained thirty-eight schools last year and twelve institutes. The appropriation for this purpose is $20,000 for summer schools and $4,500 for institutes. The department tries as far as possible to divide the opportunity as equally as possible among the counties and where a long term has been given preceding year to substitute a short term the following year.

A Sweet Breath

Is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and assists the stomach grow sweet. A. L. Reichert.

Park Rapids, Tournament.

Judging from the number of inquiries received and the demand for information regarding the firemen's tournament which will be held at Park Rapids during the last week of June, that event will be the most largely attended and the best tournament ever pulled off by the association. A number of teams that have never before taken part in the contests will be on hand ready to win or lose in the most exciting race on the records. For there are persons no more spirited and thrilling races than those made by the firemen.

The prizes have been increased from 25 to 40 per cent. for all the principal contests as an inducement for all the teams to enter. A rate of one and one third on railroad and free transportation for fire apparatus have been secured.

In addition the Northern Minnesota Woodmen will hold their picnic at Park Rapids at the same time. The committee having the program in hand assure us that the teams is in the hands of printers and will be out in a few days. In the meantime firemen teams all over the northern part of the state are going in for training.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker each day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim. No one should fail to try them. Only 50c; guaranteed at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

Economy Is Needed.

Mapleton Enterprise: The expenses of running a great state like Minnesota are immense and the need of a few Jacobsons in the legislature is certainly apparent by the way expenses are increasing each year. The appropriations for the next two years call for $3,107,373.33. Minnesota is a very wealthy state, but that is no reason why some show of economy should not be shown. The Jacobsons seem to be the only man in the individual, where money comes easy it goes easy.

Makes a Clean Sweep.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. Of all the salves you ever heard of, Bucklin's Arnica Salve is the best. It sweep away and cures burns, scalds, bruises, cuts, boils, ulcers, skin eruptions, and piles. It's only 25c and guaranteed to give satisfaction by W. A. Schreiter druggist.

Vast Extent of Siberia.

Siberia extends through 120 degrees of longitude and covers one-ninth of the land surface of the globe.

Open the door, let in the air.
The winds are sweet the flowers are fair
Joy is abroad in the world for me.
Since taking Rocky Mountain Tea.
A. L. Reichert.

PAINT 'EM RED.

Your Gasoline and Kerosene Cans Must Be of Cardinal Hue.

The following bill has passed both houses of the legislature and will become a law, taking effect July 1:

"Any manufacturer, vender or dealer who shall sell, cause to be sold, fill or cause to be filled for the purpose of sale, or other use, any can or other container with gasoline or benzine, in quantities of more than one pint or less than six gallons without such can or other container being of bright red color and plainly tagged, labeled, or branded in large plain letters, with the name of the contents; or any manufacturer, vender, or dealer who shall sell or cause to be sold, fill or cause to be filled for the purpose of sale or other use, with kerosene or other illuminating oils, in quantities of more than one pint and less than six gallons, any can or other container not of a red color, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars and not less than ten dollars.

For liver troubles and constipation

There's nothing better in creation
That Little Early Risers, the famous little pills
They always effect a cure and save doctor bills.
Little Early Risers are different from all other pills. They do not weaken the system, but act as a tonic to the tissues by arousing the secretions and restoring the liver to the full performance of its functions naturally. A. L. Reichert.

Water Resources of Minnesota.

Among the statesin which hydrologic work has recently been begun by the United States Geological Survey is Minnesota. The water resources of this state, and especially the artesian and other underground supplies, have been subject of investigation for some time by Prof. C. W. Hall, of the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, whose services have been procured by the government for the same line of work. Professor Hall is now engaged in preparing a report which, when completed, will be published by the Geological Survey and distributed free of cost to those interested in the water resources of Minnesota.

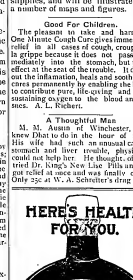
The report will describe the water resources of the state, including lakes, streams, springs, shallow and deep wells, artesian wells, etc. Besides describing the wells, the report will consider the chemical and sanitary properties of the water, its present and prospective uses, the amounts and stability of its flow, and the future prospects, both in developed and in untried areas. The report will also be accompanied by a brief description of the geology of the state so far as it affects artesian supplies, and will be illustrated by a number of maps and figures.

Good For Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of cough, croup and la grippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflamation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure, life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. A. L. Reichert.

A Thoughtful Man

M. M. Adams of Winchester, Ind., knew Dhat to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. He thought of and tried Dr. King's New Life Pills and she got relief at once and was finally cured. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.



A. L. REICHERT, Red Lake Falls.
W. A. SCHREITER, Red Lake Falls.
IMPERIAL DRUG CO., St. Hilaire.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold at a "snap" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit of purchaser. If any investor can make a 50 per thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,
BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss
COUNTY OF RED LAKE, }
In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 11, 1903.
In the Matter of the Estate of Mary Jane Letsinger, deceased.
Letters testamentary on the estate of Mary Jane Letsinger, deceased, late of the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, having granted to Andrew Letsinger.
It is Ordered, That the twenty-fifth day of May next, and after the same of this hereby appointed for the examination and allowance of the account of said executor and for the hearing of the petition for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the persons entitled thereto by law.
It is Further Ordered, That the eighteenth day of July, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m., at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate Office in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County, be and the same is hereby appointed for the hearing upon the objections, if any, to the petition of Andrew Letsinger, executor of said estate, and upon the account of said executor and the petition for assignment of residue of said estate, and that notice of said hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.
Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., this 11th day of April, 1903.
By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.
4/23/07

Order to Examine Accounts.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Red Lake, ss.
In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 4, 1903.
In the matter of the Estate of Sara N. Knox, deceased.
Reading and filing the petition of Charley Knox, administrator of the estate of Sara N. Knox, deceased representing among other things, that he fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the final account of said administrator, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the persons entitled thereto by law.
It is Ordered, That said account be examined and petition heard on the 29th day of April, A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, before this Court at the Probate Office in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County.
It is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested in said estate, by publication of this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.
Dated at Red Lake Falls the 4th day of April A. D. 1903.
By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate
4/9/03

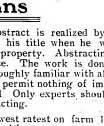
Order for Hearing Proof of Will.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE, } ss.
In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 20, 1903.
In the Matter of the Estate of Andrew Anderson, deceased.
Whereas, An instrument in writing, purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of Andrew Anderson, deceased, late of said County, has been delivered to this Court.
It is Ordered, That Mary Larson has filed directed his petition, representing among other things that said deceased died in said County, on the 19th day of April A. D. 1903, testate, and that said instrument should be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be issued thereon to the executor may be admitted to probate, and that Mary Larson be appointed executrix thereof.
It is Further Ordered, That the proofs of said instrument be heard before this Court at the Probate Office, in the Probate Office in said County, on the 20th day of May A. D. 1903, at one o'clock in the afternoon, when all persons interested may appear for, or contest the probate of said instrument.
And it is Further Ordered, That notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.
Dated at Red Lake Falls this 20th day of April A. D. 1903.
By the court,
[SEAL] N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.
4/23/07

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN
Oil Stove,
Refrigerator or Ice Cream Freezer
You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of
Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages
Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils
FRANK E. HUNT
No trouble to show goods. HARDWARE DEALER.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.
What it Means
to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.
Best terms and lowest rates on farm loans. List your farms with us.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.



HAY STACK COVERS
Less Outlay and Grain
Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

THE Minneapolis Journal thinks the Northern Securities company might put its property in its wife's name.

THE ranks of the home-print papers are augmented by the addition of the Bemidji Pioneer. We are glad to note this additional evidence of prosperity on the part of Bro. Kaiser's excellent paper.

THE St. Paul papers speak of a visit from William R. Merriam, "the great financier." And it has not been many years since Merriam was asked to resign the presidency of the leading bank of that city.

DURING a speech in the Nebraska legislature, Senator O'Neill, of Lancaster county, said: "Every man should be proud of the land of his nativity, whether he was born there or not." In spite of his name Senator O'Neill must be an Irishman.—Kansas City Star.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN has just celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday, but he is still chipper enough to clip coupons and carry deposits to the bank. If Mr. Morgan has any fears of the bibliacal needle's eye it is about time he imitated Carnegie's plan for getting rid of the surplus.

THE interesting story is published by the newspapers that President Roosvelt wants to become president of Harvard university when he gets through with his present job. At any rate Teddy's strenuous life would indicate that the people need not worry about what to do with our ex-presidents.

GOVERNOR VAN SANT has issued his annual Arbor day proclamation. It fixes Friday, May 1, as Arbor day and Bird day for Minnesota, and urges the public in Minnesota to plant trees and assist in the encouragement of public improvements and the adornment of school yards and homes.

SINCE March 23 the public examiner has found many items on the books of the railroad companies on which the companies have failed to pay taxes. The amounts are as follows: Wisconsin Central, $1,309.16; Minneapolis & St. Louis, $8,298.92; Northern Pacific, $11,420.95; Burlington, $823.24 and Soo, $7,304.50.

CHICAGO still holds the championships the divorce city of the United States. It is the home of 4,354 persons who have dissolved the bonds of marriage by the process of law and who are still single. New York York ranks next to the windy city, but it can boast of only 3,146 residents who have passed through the divorce mill and have not married again.

REPUBLICAN discussion on the tariff issue will end in a party triumph for the protectionists and the "gargling" of the low tariff dupes which has served as a rope tariff reform upon the Republican organization. This increases the Democratic chances of victory in next year's elections. Voters who recognize the necessity for a revision of the tariff can not

Men of Oak

Timbers of oak keep the old homestead standing through the years. It pays to use the right stuff.

"Men of oak" are men in rugged health, men whose bodies are made of the soundest materials.

Childhood is the time to lay the foundation for a sturdy constitution that will last for years.

Scott's Emulsion is the right stuff.

Scott's Emulsion stimulates the growing powers of children, helps them build a firm foundation for a sturdy constitution.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

but realize that they must look to the Democratic party alone for such action.

BOB DUNN is highly praised by the legislative committee on public accounts and expenditures for his services as state auditor. And those in any measure acquainted with Mr. Dunn's work in securing an equitable tax on iron ore, and his services on the state board of equalization will heartily endorse the report of the committee. Bob Dunn accomplished more substantial results during his eight years' incumbency of the auditor's office than all of his predecessors.

WITH the object of discovering a cure for typhoid fever a remarkable experiment is being conducted at Ann Arbor university, Michigan. Six big tanks have been constructed with a layer of gelatine, and on these 144 square feet of the fever germs are scraped off, killed and bottled up. Two ounces of them would kill 70,000 guinea pigs. The object is if possible to extract the poison from the germ bodies, feed the serum with it and try to discover an antidote.

RED LAKE county people who have been through a county division fight will have less sympathies with the promoters of the erstwile Columbia. For fifteen years they westward the disappointments and rebuffs incident to a fight for dismemberment from Polk county. Though just now, in view of the recent court ruling, Columbia's hopes are dashed to earth, there are future years and other elections, and perhaps sometime and somehow their coveted ambition may be realized.

Brain Leaks.

Salvation is free but it costs money to keep it.

A happy home is an earthly annex to heaven.

A sun-faded front room carpet is a whole lot better than a boyless house.

The man who never makes mistakes never has anything by which he may profit.

The heart that never aches is the heart that is always cold and unsympathetic.

Solomon was a wise man, but he foolishly neglected to take advantage of his opportunities.

The absence of a little baby can make a small house as gloomy as an empty cathedral.

The tactful husband always notices it if his wife patsons a new dress or combs her hair in a new way.

The man who owes money is to be congratulated, but the man who is owned by money is to a bad fix.

There is no one quite so unpleasant as the country woman who has just moved into the heart of a big city.

Some people are so interested in trying to better what is that they overlook the duty of trying to find heaven.

The world existed for several thousand years without flats, but it did not get fairly started until the babies began to make appearance.

More people have been relieved and cured of piles by Cascarets than by any other remedy. There is nothing equal to it for burns, wounds and sores of all kinds. Try it and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Private Sale of Furniture.

As I am going out of the hotel business July 1, all of the furniture, bedding and fixtures of the Palace hotel are offered at private sale. Also a team, harness and bus. Call early if you want to get the best bargains, as the goods must go at once. 2w E. J. DRUECKER.

The Nickel Plate Road

is the short line to the east and the service equal to the best. You will save time and money by traveling over this line. It has three through daily express trains, with through vestibuled sleeping-cars, and American club meals, ranging in price from 35c. to $1.00, are served in Nickel Plate dining-cars; also a la carte service. Try a trip over the Nickel Plate road and you will find the service equal to any between Chicago and the east.

Chicago depot: Harrison St. and Fifth Ave., city ticket office 111 Adams St. and Auditorium Annex. John Y. Calahan, general agent, 111 Adams St. Room 298, Chicago. Phone Central 7057. m30

Take a Trip

Over the Nickel Plate road and be convinced of its superior train service. Solid through daily express trains between Chicago, Ft. Wayne Findlay, Fostoria, Erie, Buffalo, New York City and Boston. American club meals, ranging in price from 35c. to $1.00, served in Nickel Plate dining-cars; also service a la carte. Rates always the lowest. No excess fare charged on any train on the Nickel Plate road. Chicago depot: Harrison St. and Fifth Ave., city ticket office 111 Adams St. room 298, Chicago. Phone Central 7057. m30

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in tablets and papetries. Call and look over the line.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The botany classbegan laboratory work this week.

The Seniors have arranged a program for class night.

The Senior class had several "orderly" (?) meetings the past week.

There was no school in Miss Nelson's room Wednesday afternoon owing to her illness.

The hope for field meet is nearly abandoned. It seems impossible to get the schools together this year.

The chemistry class had an experiment with the bleaching power of SO2 this week which was very interesting.

Three of the high school boys kidsapped two of the high school girls Tuesday evening and may get into serious trouble over it.

The high school base ball team's last year record is against them. They are having a hard time to secure games. Their last year record was a clem one and other schools are afraid of them.

The high school club are wearing their "sewing" club colors. So the boys out of mockery all put on colors of orange yellow, and when asked what they were wearing the colors for they said "we belong to the 'Sawjug' club."

The basket ball club are now preparing for a hard and hard practice. They are only awaiting the discovery of the whereabouts of their basket ball. The whole school joins with them in thinking the person or persons who retains "possession of the ball shows poor school spirit by not giving the chance of success of the team for this year, only to accomplish their own selfish ends. They ask that person to consider the matter and be generous and give up the ball to its owners.

I hereby raise this whole paragraph to the 8th power.

To Cure a Cold in One Day
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for the Free Homestead land and Free Coal. Low Railroad rates. See our agent in your city. Write for facts. Wm. H. Brown & Co., Mandan, N. Dak.

Bids for Construction of Church.

Sealed bids for the construction of the proposed basement and addition to the First Presbyterian Church building at Red Lake Falls will be received up to Friday May 1st, 1903 at 8 o'clock p. m. and should be marked "bids for construction of church" and addressed to the undersigned at whose office plans and specifications may be seen. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.—Frank E. Hunt, President of Board of Trustees.

White Plymouth Rocks.

I have 50 choice White Plymouth Rock chickens, which I brought from Illinois. Will sell eggs for hatching during the season. Henry Gregan.

$19.00 to Boston and Return, $19.00 with membership fee of $2.00 added, account of annual meeting of National Educational association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 3rd to 9th inclusive, good returning from July 8th to 11th inclusive, without being deposited with joint agent. Additional limit to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing certificate of ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c. for execution. Superior train service and excellent dining-car meals, on American plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 111 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. m30

Poorly?

"For two years I suffered terribly from dyspepsia, with great depression, and was always feeling poorly. I then tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and in one week I was a new man."—John McDonald, Philadelphia, Pa.

Don't forget that it's "Ayer's" Sarsaparilla that will make you strong and hopeful. Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind. Use the old, tested, tried, and true Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your doctor refuses to inform of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, write us, stating his name and post-office address. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied with the result.
J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

DINE ON HORSEBACK.

Unique Banquet Given by C. K. G. Billings at New York.

Thirty-Three Guests Sit on the Backs of Thoroughbreds in Sherry's Grand Ballroom While They Eat Course Dinner.

Thirty-three thoroughbred horses paved the floor of the grand ballroom of Sherry's, New York, the other night, and mixed in horseshoe formation in the splendid room 32 guests of C. K. G. Billings enjoyed a unique dinner given by the Chicagoan in celebration of his election as president of the Equestrian club. By this event the millionaire horse owner won the social laurels reserved for those who give society a new sensation.

This horseback dinner is a second story to the Sherry ballroom is regarded as the most unusual affair of the season, eating into the shades all the "monkey dinners" and other efforts at novelty in the way of entertainment with which society has tried to amuse itself. Among the guests were Richard Halsted, ex-Mayor Hugh J. Grant and Fred Gerken.

At midnight the news that the dinner was taking place at Sherry's became known. It had been expected that the guests would be at Mr. Billings's new stables. Every effort had been made to keep it a secret. It was the ambition of Mr. Billings to give his clubmates the most memorable dinner that had ever been eaten.

In the evening the 33 horses were taken into Sherry's in such a manner as to attract the least attention. Brought two at a time from a fashionable riding academy, they were placed upon the passenger elevator on the Forty-fourth street side, hoisted to the second story and tethered in the ballroom. Each horse was equipped with a white-quilted saddle and bridle of gold and white. In the center of the horseshoe formed by the animals was a mound of green, surmounted by a mass of flowers. The grassy aisles sloped off into a lawn, which spread to the horses' forefeet.

Beside each horse was a satin upholstered mounting box, from which the diner in the saddle was served. A board fastened athwart the pommel of the saddle served as a table, and like the animals the guests were either of grenee or shy and so spill gravy or build a livelier groom, dressed in hunting costume, stood at each horse's head.

The equestrian guests entered fully into the spirit of the affair, and soon the whole banquet in the saddle was in full swing. While the guests ate, so did the horses. While the courses were being served from the mounting blocks to dishes which were secured in holders on the saddle tables, the horses munched oats from individual satin-covered mangers.

Twelve courses were served, then the tables were removed from the pommels and the guests lounged over their cigars in the padded saddles. Speeches followed, mostly laudatory of Mr. Billings. At midnight the diners were still in the saddle.

BODIES ARE WELL PRESERVED

Removal of Criminal's Remains from Newgate Discloses Official Carelessness.

The removal and reinterment of the bodies of criminals executed at Newgate prison, London, has been done some $1,500. This is despite the fact that the coffins containing the remains of such criminals were always supposed to be filled with quicklime to insure rapid and complete decomposition.

It has been found that the lining operation was carried out with extreme carelessness. About a dozen murderers' bodies in the new cemetery were in such an extraordinary condition of preservation that the medical authorities were astonished. The lime must have been laid with scandalous ineffectiveness to have made such things possible.

The victims were struek all of a heap by the horrible sights. They had to be given hurriedly frequently to keep them from the ground. The bodies interred even so recently as those of the last three years were in an almost perfect condition. Twenty-eight feet below the surface the bodies of the Cato street conspirators, executed in 1820, were discovered. It is scarcely credible that these bodies should have been found comparatively intact. If they of all persons had been properly limed they ought to have vanished almost completely.

ARCTIC IN AUTOMOBILE.

Mr. Charles J. Glidden Plans to Reach Troadjhem on a Trip with His Family.

Charles J. Glidden, the Boston millionaire director of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, who holds the record of 5,300 miles for long-distance touring in a motor car, is planning to spend the coming summer in a trip northward to a point within the arctic circle. He will take his family in a motor car up through the Scandinavian peninsula to Trondhjem, within two degrees of the arctic circle. He is now corresponding with government officials in Norway to obtain information of a practical route northward from that point.

After penetrating to out-of-the-way spots in northern Europe he will make a return trip through Sweden, Holland, Germany, Belgium, Switzerland and France back to his starting point at London, covering a total of 4,500 miles.

Spring Millinery . . .

A MAGNIFICENT ARRAY of LADIES', MISSES' and CHILDREN'S HATS in newest Spring styles. Beautiful Veilings, Laces, Chiffons, &c. Prices always lowest.

FIRST DOOR NORTH OF POSTOFFICE

K. FORD

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.
No. 12

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for tax	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt paid, incl tax to be redeemed	Amt paid for redemption
	Addition or subdivision / sec / twp / range			Mo Day Yr
First National Bank of Crookston, Minnesota	Crocker, Condy & Nelson's 1st add to St. Hilaire	99	$ 6.66	Feb 16 1903	$ 7.01	$ 7.01
		99	10.49	Feb 16 1903	11.04	11.04
		99	.53	Feb 16 1903	.55	.55
	TOTAL					$ 18.60

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR.
COUNTY OF POLK, } ss. Crookston, Minn., March 4th, 1903.

To FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CROOKSTON, MINN.:

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, in proceedings instituted in the district court of said county and state, in that certain real estate foreclosure suit entitled "In the matter of the application of Crocker, Condy & Nelson, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Ole Hanson, et al., defendants," in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, in the year 1900, the above described piece or parcel of land was sold by the Clerk of District Court of Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $18.60, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of said county to the State of Minnesota, for the taxes for the year 1899, as provided by Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $18.60, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor of Red Lake County, Minn.

By C. F. BRADLEY, Deputy.

(SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.
No. 22

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for tax	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt paid, incl tax to be redeemed	Amt paid for redemption
	Addition or subdivision / sec / twp / range			Mo Day Yr
Hans O Bygd	Crocker, Condy & Nelson's 1st add to St. Hilaire	99	$ 22.75	Feb 16 1903	$ 24.00	$ 24.00

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR.
COUNTY OF POLK, } ss. Crookston, Minn., March 4th, 1903.

To HANS O. BYGD:

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, in proceedings instituted in the district court of said county and state, in that certain real estate foreclosure suit entitled "In the matter of the application of Crocker, Condy & Nelson, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Ole Hanson, et al., defendants," in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, in the year 1900, the above described piece or parcel of land was sold by the Clerk of District Court of Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $24.00, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of said county to the State of Minnesota, for the taxes for the year 1899, as provided by Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $24.00, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
(SEAL) County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota

By C. F. BRADLEY, Deputy.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.
No. 3

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for tax	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt paid, incl tax to be redeemed	Amt paid for redemption
	Addition or subdivision / sec / twp / range			Mo Day Yr
A. A. Ekeberg	Crocker, Condy & Nelson's 1st add to Red Lake Falls	99	$ 23.15	May 29 1902	$ 24.25	$ 24.25

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR.
COUNTY OF POLK, } ss. Crookston, Minn., March 4th, 1903.

To A. A. EKEBERG:

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, in proceedings instituted in the district court of said county and state, in that certain real estate foreclosure suit entitled "In the matter of the application of Crocker, Condy & Nelson, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Ole Hanson, et al., defendants," in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, in the year 1900, the above described piece or parcel of land was sold by the Clerk of District Court of Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $24.25, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of said county to the State of Minnesota, for the taxes for the year 1899, as provided by Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $24.25, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
(SEAL) County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota

By C. F. BRADLEY, Deputy.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.
No. 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for tax	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt paid, incl tax to be redeemed	Amt paid for redemption
	Addition or Sec / Twp / Range subdivision or lot			Mo Day Yr
Louis Zeh	Kostrzeb's 2nd add to Red Lake Falls	99	$ 7.23	May 29 1902	$ 7.58	$ 7.58
		99	7.23	May 29 1902	7.58	7.58
	TOTAL					$ 15.16

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR.
COUNTY OF POLK, } ss. Crookston, Minn., March 4th, 1903.

To LOUIS ZEH:

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, in proceedings instituted in the district court of said county and state, in that certain real estate foreclosure suit entitled "In the matter of the application of Crocker, Condy & Nelson, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Ole Hanson, et al., defendants," in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, in the year 1900, the above described piece or parcel of land was sold by the Clerk of District Court of Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $15.16, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of said county to the State of Minnesota, for the taxes for the year 1899, as provided by Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $15.16, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
(SEAL) County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota

By C. F. BRADLEY, Deputy.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.
No. 5

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for tax	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt paid, incl tax to be redeemed	Amt paid for redemption
	Addition or Subdivision / sec / twp / range			Mo Day Yr
E. G. Holmes	Kostrzeb's 2nd add to Red Lake Falls	1	22	May 29 1902	$ 23.25	$ 23.25
		12	22	Sept 4 1900	24.00	24.00
		25	22	" 29 "	1.70	1.70
		36	22	" 29 "	1.70	1.70
		24	22	" 29 "	1.70	1.70
		13	22	" 29 "	1.70	1.70
	TOTAL					$ 54.54

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR.
COUNTY OF POLK, } ss. Crookston, Minnesota.

To E. G. HOLMES:

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1900, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes, pursuant to a certain real estate judgment, which was rendered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 8th day of March A. D. 1900, the above described piece or parcel of land was sold by the Clerk of said District Court of Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $54.54, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from such sale on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of said county to the State of Minnesota, for the taxes for the year 1899, as provided by Section 1197 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the special acts amendatory thereto, for the sum of $54.54, that being the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1900, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
(SEAL) County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota

By C. F. BRADLEY, Deputy.

Try Courier Job Work.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All Kinds of watch repairing & Cyclone Line of jewelry, Silverware, Watches, Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church served tea at the residence of F. B. Newton Wednesday evening, and about $30 was realized.

T. E. Packard and Miss Richardson drove over from Crookston Saturday evening and returned to that city with Prof. R. W. Cooper the next morning. Prof. Cooper preached at the Methodist church in Crookston Sunday morning.

M. O. Sortedahl has been at Fosston on business several days of the week. He will leave tomorrow or Saturday for an extended trip to the southern part of the state and town points where he will spend somefor weeks talking Red Lake county land.

I. D. Converse came up from Mcintosh Tuesday and spent a couple of days at the home of his son, Milton. Mr. Converse has been employed by the clerk of courts of Columbia county but hasn't any job since the decision of the supreme court was handed in.

Fritz Kortke, a farmer residing between Red Lake Falls and Wylie, died Tuesday of peritonitis at the Crookston hospital, where he was taken last week for treatment. He was 44 years old, and leaves a wife and two children. The funeral will be held at Wylie today.

There is another reason why the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company can afford to sell lumber at lower prices than any other yard in Red Lake Falls. Practically the entire stock was sawed at the mill in this city, so the company was saved the big expense of shipping it in.

The first of the entertainments furnished by the Flax Belt circuit will appear at the Metropolitan on Monday evening, May 4. The play will be entitled "A Thoroughbred Tramp" and the company presenting it is a standard one. Further particulars will be given next week.

Why couldn't a building and loan association be organized in Red Lake Falls? It would provide a safe method of investing small savings, and at the same time enable poor people to build their homes. Local building and loan associations have been leading factors in the upbuilding of many towns.

Adrian Democrat: N. T. O'Brien returned home Thursday evening of last week from Red Lake Falls, Minn., where he has been looking after business interests. Although the weather while there was disagreeable for much looking around, he is confident that Red Lake Falls is booked for a boom in the near future.

Max Koening was down from the upper Falls Tuesday, bringing with him a couple of mounted moose heads which now adorn the real estate office of S. A. Swanson. Mr. Koening has a state-wide reputation as a bowler, having held the highest score ever made in the state for a year or more.

The Union Land & Investment company this week sold the southeast quarter of section 35, Louisville, to Wm. Kruse, who recently moved here from Iowa. The Kruse brothers are successful farmers and are firm believers in the future of the Valley, as this is the second Red Lake county farm they have purchased in the past year.

Dan Welch moved his family here from Redwood county the latter part of last week and are occupying the northeast quarter of section 15, Lake Pleasant township, which he rented from the Union Land & Investment company. Mr. Welch bought a choice piece of land in this county last fall and will make improvements on it during the season.

I. D. Converse, who is visiting his son Milton, for a few days, had nearly completed the copying of the judgment docket from the records of Polk for Columbia county. Now that Columbia is defunct the book will not be used for the purpose for which it was designed, but he will complete it nevertheless, in the hope that it prove of value to some one.

R. S. Hamilton resigned his position as operator at the Great Northern depot the latter part of last week and left Tuesday for his old home at Morristown, Indiana. Mr. Hamilton made a large number of friends during his residence here, and it is to be regretted that his health would not permit him to remain at this point.

At Thief River Falls yesterday afternoon occurred the marriage of W. K. Knight, of this city, to Miss Bessie Scribner, of Thief River Falls. The happy participants in this pleasing affair are both known and admired by a large circle of Red Lake Falls friends who will wish them an abundance of joy in their married life.

About fifteen or twenty of the young men held a meeting Tuesday evening and organized a lawn tennis club. They intend to put a double court in a central part of the city, and as Red Lake Falls boasts of a number of "cracks" players it is not improbable that some of the neighboring towns will be invited to play match games during the summer.

Messrs. Lewis & Higinbotham have rented the two rooms adjoining their office, which were formerly occupied by Attorney Gerrno, and are fitting them up for use. The securing of this additional room will enable that enterprising land firm to better handle their increasing business, and gives themone of the most elegant suites of rooms in the city.

A lodge of Knights of Pythias will be instituted at Thief River Falls in in the near future. S. A. Swanson of this place was commissioned a special deputy to secure a charter list, and in one day obtained forty-six applications for membership. It is expected that the Red Lake Falls lodge will be invited to do the degree work at the time of instituting.

Messrs. Nels, Hans and Ole Bjergo arrived from Redwood county over the N. P. last Saturday morning with their families and five carloads of stock and machinery. They have moved onto farms in sections 31 in Red Lake Falls and 6 in Lake Pleasant townships, and will make valuable additions to the agricultural interests of the county. The sales were made through the Healy agency.

S. C. Nauman left Tuesday evening for Meeker, Illinois, where he will spend a couple of weeks with his parents and old-time friends in that and adjoining cities. It is told on the quiet that the genial Sam will not return to us in the state of single blessedness, but a knowing look was all the satisfaction the curious reporter could get and further details will be missing until he comes home again.

Prof. R. Watson Cooper, professor of literature at Hamline University, delivered his lecture on "The Intellectual Man" at the Metropolitan last Saturday evening. The only disappointing feature was the small audience. Prof. Cooper has a well-deserved reputation as a master of literature and his knowledge of mental philosophy, together with an unusual oratorical power, made his lecture a rare treat.

The marriage of Wm. Gervais, of Two Harbors, this state, to Miss Delia Perrault, of this city, occurred at St. Joseph's church Tuesday afternoon in the presence of the immediate relatives, Rev. Father Payolle officiating. The happy couple left on the evening train for Two Harbors where they will reside. The contracting parties are both well known residents and will receive the congratulations of their friends.

The many friends of E. S. Bryant, formerly operator at the Great Northern depot here, will be pleased to learn of his marriage at Hillsboro, North Dakota, last week to one of that city's fair daughters. The happy couple are at present on a wedding trip to southern and eastern points, but will make their home at Hillsboro. The Courier takes pleasure in extending to the young couple the best wishes of our people.

According to a new law there will hereafter be boiler inspectors in each of the senatorial districts of the state. Heretofore the state has been divided according to congressional lines, and the work was done by deputies, the inspectors receiving half of the fees. Under the new law the districts will not be so large but that each inspector can do all the work in his own district, and consequently the man who does the work will get the fees.

Did you ever wonder why lumber purchased from the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company gives such good satisfaction? Perhaps it is because the same company that owns the yard furnishes the lumber. The Crookston Lumber company has retail yards in about twenty towns, operated for convenience under the name St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company, and it very naturally holds up to the top notch the grades of all lumber shipped to its own yards.

Marva Mabelle, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Duffy, died last Friday forenoon, after a several days' illness with croup. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from St. Joseph's and the remains interred in the Catholic cemetery east of town. Marva was three years old last September, and previous to her fatal illness had been a remarkably healthy child. She was unusually bright and precocious and gave promise of a beautiful girlhood. The little white casket containing all that was earthly of little Marva was fairly covered with floral tributes. The hearts of all go out in sympathy to the family in this great bereavement.

Several of the papers in this vicinity have copied an item from the Crookston Times to the effect the Judicial ditch running through Columbia and Red Lake counties was knocked out by reason of the auditor of Red Lake county failing to make proper advertisement and post notices. Under the judicial ditch law all advertising must be done by the clerk of the county wherein the ditch originates, so these papers are wholly in the wrong in laying any part of the blame to Auditor Ford.

McIntosh Times: The McIntosh creamery will be started the 1st Monday of this month. Ralph Rogers, who has so successfully operated the Lambert cheese factory for several years back, has sold the Lambert factory to a Canadian cheese maker by the name of Robidoux, who recently arrived from Canada, and will take possession at once, leaving Mr. Rogers free to give his entire attention to the McIntosh butter factory. Mr. Rogers has the reputation of never having made a failure of any of the numerous similar enterprises which he has undertaken, and if push and business ability and integrity count for anything we are confident that he will not make a failure of this.

W. I. Nolan, the Minneapolis humorist and impersonator, will appear at the Metropolitan Saturday evening in one of his characteristic recitals. The editor of THE COURIER has had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Nolan on several occasions and can give personal testimony of his ability as an entertainer. He has been received everywhere with hearty enthusiasm. The Adrian Democrat says: "Mr. Nolan is great as an impersonator, and his inimitable stories and high class humor delighted an appreciative audience." The Alexandria Post News pays him this tribute: "His faculty and skill in dialect is remarkable and it is seldom you hear his equal, while in reciting Kipling he has real power." Don't fail to hear him.

Street Commissioner Buse has had a crew of men at work cleaning up the streets, gutters and alleys this week. This is certainly a move in the right direction and every resident of the city should make it a point to see how much can be done along this line before the warm weather sets in. It is in the interest of the health of the community, if for no other reason, that this move is necessary and if no other means can be made effective the proper officers should take the matter in hand. Other cities have learned to their sorrow the result of allowing the accumulation of filth and rubbish, and the fact that Red Lake Falls has thus far escaped a disease epidemic does not necessarily indicate that such will always be the case. The time is at hand when the sanitary condition of the city needs close attention.

A very common form of swindle is to be found in small advertisements offering women and girls work at home by which they can earn a good salary with little effort. Applicants will perhaps find that they are expected to copy letters, a certain kind of pen and ink being required to do the work, while a material is taken on receipt of a sum, which in itself is a good profit, and after the victim supplies the promoter with a sample of his or her handwriting the matter ends. Or perhaps some enterprising fellow wants girls and boys to address envelopes or wrappers, by which a comfortable salary can be made at home. Applicants will receive in reply a circular letter asking five or six personal references who can be written to regarding their responsibility in handling or returning the envelopes or paper. The swindle is the request for postage to pay the expense of writing to the persons given as reference. This means 4 cents in stamps for each person, or 20 or more cents for all. That ends the transaction.

"MAKES PROPER DIET" PLEASING FORCE

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

DIRECTORS:
A. F. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT; THEO. LABISSONIERE, VICE-PRESIDENT; L. A. DUFFY, CASHIER; F. A. TOUPIN, ASST. CASHIER.
DIRECTORS—A. F. TOUPIN, SAM. GERAUD, CHAS. N. BOURDON, L. A. CARPER, L. A. DUFFY, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

For the Next Thirty Days

Everything in our store goes at 25 PER CENT DISCOUNT.

We have a nice line of

Tinware, Graniteware, Dishes, Lace Curtains, Notions, Jewelry, Aluminum Goods, Etc.

Racket Store

Special Prices for Saturday

LARGE CAN California Peaches	15c	LARGE package Rolled Oats, Pass of this in cash	20c
LARGE CAN fancy Bengal Apricots	19c	WHOLE cod fish 1st quality	5c
LARGE CAN Bartlett Pears	19c	WHOLE cod fish 2nd quality	3c
HEINZ' Baked Beans in tomato sauce	14c	SMALL family white fish	4c
FANCY mugs prepared Mustard	9c	To introduce the best 25c blended Coffee, today	20c
FULL 5-gal keg table syrup	$1.65

Finest Navel Oranges, Bananas; fresh green stuff

BANGS & CO.

The New Firm

Anderson & Healy

WE WISH TO ANNOUNCE to our friends, the trade, the extraordinary inducements that will be made to make our store THE LEADER, not only in name but in fact. . . Our business will be brought to the highest possible plane of up-to-date merchandising, and a policy even more liberal and progressive than that which has characterized the LEADER STORE in the past has been inaugurated by the new firm. With the arrival of our new Spring stock there will be many things to interest the up-to-date buyers. We have made a careful selection of goods that have not only high artistic merit but are low in price and will appeal to the careful buyer. Ever appreciative of the liberal patronage of our many customers, and hoping to meet the continued confidence of the trade, we are

Respectfully,

ANDERSON & HEALY

Successors to Anderson & Schwalen.

Handsome Calendars Given Away

TO introduce our Papetries and Tablets for the next ten days we will give free with each purchase a fancy 1903 CALENDAR (choice of two designs) and a BEAUTIFUL COLORED BLOTTER. It doesn't matter whether you buy a high-priced Papetrie or a 5-cent School Tablet.

New line of Typewriter Papers, Carbons, Pencils, and Office Supplies of all kinds. Choice selection of high-grade Papetries.

COURIER STATIONERY STAND

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL $25,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

Fits.

Baby Had Two to Six Every Day.

Suffered Terribly—Doctors Failed.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Him.

Weak, nervous, fretful, puny children receive a treatment such as only Dr. Miles' Nervine affords. When neglected these symptoms lead to epileptic fits or spasms. Every mother should strengthen her own and babies' nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine, a true specific in all nervous disorders. Read the following:

"When my little boy was 18 months old he had cramps in his feet and hands. They would be drawn out of shape for two or three days. At first liniment seemed to help but in about two weeks nothing did any good whatever. He had fits. We had a physician and doctor but no medicine did us good or we changed. The summer we called it spinal disease, by this time the child's body was drawn out of shape; his backbone was curved to one side and his hands and feet out of shape. His sufferings were terrible, and he was not having fits to one day. I was taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for nervous trouble and five bottles of it worked for the, so I thought I would try it would help the child. Before I finished he got from him. The child's body stopped the fits and his limbs straightened, and another bottle cured him. He is now a strong, healthy boy going to school. I have waited to see if the old trouble returned, but it has not. Spinal fits never last. I cannot praise Dr. Miles' Nervine enough, as I know it saved my boy's life."—Mrs. Ustah Nelson, Lansing, Iowa.

All druggists sell 1st guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,
Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults...

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, LaGrippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

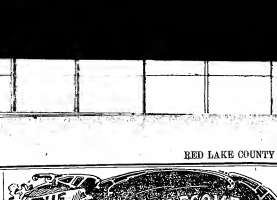
NO CURE. NO PAY.
Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.
RED LAKE FALLS.

	ARRIVE	DEPART
WEST BOUND. No. 155—Mixed, From Fertile to Grand Forks	7:25 P M	7:45 P M
EAST BOUND. No. 156—Mixed, From Grand Forks to Fertile	8:45 P M	8:55 P M

F. A. MILLER, Agent.



"When you are smiling I think you are the kindest friend in the world. I guess I am soggy myself. Do you know, I dreamed Henri came into that room last night. The bathroom had a little window looking into the room, and I dreamed he looked through this at me and made dreadful faces. He used to frighten me that way once"—she blushed and hung her head then, and was silent a moment—"when we were first married, you know. He'd wake me up by staring at me—testing the power of the spell he called it. I was afraid, anyway, because my mother had just died, and I had never seen a dead person before. I can see her yet, in her coffin, so dreadfully waxen and strange. Henri swore once over the Bible that if he died first he would never trouble me. I was sure I had a dream I couldn't sleep, but lay shivering with fear until daylight. I must go away from here to-day. Another night in that room would be frightful—as to death."

She trembled so at the thought, Oliver felt his task doubly difficult.

"Don't you think," he asked, gently, "that those fears are very childish?"

"Of course," she said, briefly, "I know I am not sensible; you, Aunt Hannah and Dr. John call me frivolous; yet I have tried to do right. I came here on my way to save your good name, and I get scolded. I tried to phone once, the time I was so sick, and even Aunt Hannah said I was brave then. When my horse ran away in Maine I did not, and that rat-headed young man said I was game."

She looked at him wickedly out of the corner of her eye. A little smile carved her pretty mouth as she saw the wrinkle on his forehead.

"I wish that you could be serious for a little while," Oliver muttered. "I want to talk to you about something that concerns your future—something that has happened."

Olive hesitated now; how could he tell her? She listened with her eyes on the carpet, a doleful expression on her face. He went off on a new tack. In an easy conversational tone he asked:

"Would you not like to live in France?"

"No," she said, promptly; "I should hate it."

"Why?"

"Because—because," answered Mrs. Minny, picking viciously at one of her roses, scattering the petals on the floor: "from Henri's descriptions his relations must be horrid. Then he or they think American queer and not nice; everything is Frenee. I should be mad a hundred times a day. The English up in the park used to say: 'This blurated country, you know'; until I felt like saying: 'Why don't you go back to England and stay there?' As the De Restauds I should be the unpleasant foreigner our poor son married; in my own country I am myself, an American. I think it is very mean of you to talk about my going to France; and if that is the serious thing you wouldn't talk any more. If you are going to be horrid I think I shall go out and take my dog for a walk."

How sweet she was in her willfulness! Oliver forgot his errand, looking at the lovely childish face with its pouting mouth and rebellious eyes.

"I think you are cruel to my poor rose," he said, softly.

"You are cruel to me."

"Minny," he drew nearer and took in his firm warm clasp her little hand, "I must tell you something—something that will shock and grieve you. Try and be brave."

"Not the little baby?" she cried, piteously. "He is not dead?"

"No, no; but you are dead—one that you feared, almost hated, and now must forgive and try to think kindly of—the man whose name you bear—"

She gave a frightened cry and hid her face against his sleeve. He could feel her trouble and spare, but she made no sound. What must he do? Would she faint? How did women act, anyway? He put his arm around the cowering figure and tried to look into her face. She was ghastly pale, in her eyes a curious frightened look.

"My dream, Mr. Oliver!" she cried, shuddering. "Oh, he will keep his word; he will haunt me always. I will go mad from fear. Last night that was him. He looked just as he used to when he woke me up making faces. I am all alone. What shall I do? Oh, if Aunt Hannah were only here! I could creep up to her in the night. She is so brave; she said she would not be afraid of him, living or dead."

"Minny, you are talking foolishly," said Oliver, sternly. "No dead person comes back. I am ashamed of you. And to be so silly, so heartless, when that poor soul is lying dead!"

"You don't know anything about the dead; no one does," she gasped. "My grandfather was drowned at sea, and that night he came and knocked at grandmother's door—his old knock—three times. Even Aunt Hannah says that story's true. I can't be sorry—truly, I can't. I was afraid all the time; and he was so dreadful. I gave him all mamma's money, and he took her jewels, everything of value. I am not a hypocrite, Mr. Oliver; I can't make up sorrow just to please you."

"I don't want you to," he whispered, close to her ear. They were alone in a corner of the big room, and no one could see. "I spoke hastily because I hated to think of that dream and how you would make yourself believe he came back."

She drew away from him indignantly.

"I am not a child, Mr. Oliver, and you must not treat me as one. In some things, in suffering and worry, I am older than you are; and few women could assess out unscathed from the horrors of that ranch. I did. I kept my senses because I was frivolous and let my little dog to love, and a bright sunshiny day would chase all my night terrors away. I say, Oliver, to say, it's good just to be alive." But always I have been afraid of the dark; when I was a child queer faces used to peer at me, faces circled in yellow light. As I grew older, I was more afraid of them, and slept in a lighted room. At the ranch I was afraid to go out up the porch and peer in the window until a maid accused me of one night; then it was not so funny. It caused him to torture me. I won't tell you any more, because you can't understand, but I shall not go to Denver. It would be a mockery."

"Dr. John telegraphed you need not hurry, was not sorry. Shall I tell you any more?"

"No." She rose and scattered the petals of one of her flowers on the carpet, brushing her dress with a nervous hand. "Yes, I will. I put on black. I shall go home. What is my home, Mr. Oliver?" she cried, piteously. "You have brought me here; I was doing your bidding. My aunt has left me; she has taken my baby. The man I married is dead, he has no interest in me but to haunt me. Everybody is gone. I who have made all the trouble am left to bear it alone. If she comes back she will know of this—my being here; she will disbelieve even Dr. John will. I seem to have grown old and wise, and, oh! so tired of the world!"

"Come here, Minny," he said, in a strange tone. She started and looked into his face. It had a different expression somehow, yet the gray eyes were very kind, and there was a tender smile about his mouth. She hesitated, then she returned to the sofa, sitting gingerly at the extreme end. He turned so as to face her, but sat no nearer.

"Minny, we are both culprits—innocent ones. We have been punished long enough. If I thought—but I am twice your age, you have not been happy in bondage, and it would be madness still, though a loving one. No red-haired young men in it, no wild journeys alone, no strange hands when ones entered in. If I dared to dream, I would hope that you cared for me. I would say, Minny, I love you; let us go away from our troubles and have a long vacation. It is dreadful to talk this way in the shadow of death, but I cannot let you go back to Maine alone, or to the terrors there in that lonely house. I do not know where your aunt is, or when she will return; and if people should talk of this thing, I could silence them if you were my wife."

She was strangely quiet, but he saw the roses tremble on her breast.

"You talk, Craig," she said, sadly, "as if this were part of your sacrifice for helping me once, for being a kind friend."

"How cruel women can be—even the sweetest of them! How can I be different, when I must remember the dead in Denver? Yet, Minny, I could talk love to you; other women have said I did that thing well, and I did not care for them; your little finger is more precious to me than all the women on I have ever known."

She shirked and moved a little nearer, a blush on her fair cheek.

"Even to touch you, to take your hand, seems dreadful," he cried, hastily. "What a coward custom makes of us all! If I were a man, not accused of a day. Let the worst come." He took her cold little hand in his and drew her to his side. "Minny, I set forth on our holiday, Minny, leaving no address, forgetting the past, and be as if the world were new and we but just created."

"You talk nicely now," she said, slowly, holding herself erect and stately in spite of his restraining hand, "but you said bondage, and that has frightened me. I have been sealed so much and driven about; I want to be loved and made a friend of. If you would be as sweet as on that ride, if you—"

He drew her close and pressed his lips against that soft round cheek, blushing so prettily now.

"Try me, Minny. I swear to you those dear eyes shall never shed tears from any word or act of mine. I have loved you since you came out in the light that dismal night and I found you a little girl."

"And I love you," she whispered, lifting her tousled head from his arm, "when you looked so disgustedly amazed at things in that ranch that I told you, and all of a sudden smiled at me as you are smiling now. Craig, I mean to try and be grown-up and good always."

"No, no; just be yourself. And, now, dear, go smooth your hair and get your things on. We will be married in the quietest way. I know a couple of fellows I can get for witnesses; we can pick them up on the road."

She jumped up, all rosy and smiling. At the door she looked back. "May I take the dog, Craig?" she said, hesitatingly.

He smiled. "Of course," he said, resignedly. "You don't have to ask 'may I?' we are comrades, you know. By the way, tell the chambermaid to pack your trunk. I say her. We will go away in the early afternoon. I want to be free from all memories."

She loved her hand as she run away, and he, somewhat dazed at the turn matters had taken, looked out on the street with unseeing eyes. In his heart, though, he was happy, deliriously so. He had loved her from the first, and there had been few holidays in his busy life. He would forget that ghastly speetre lying at the morgue in Denver, and for months live for love. The world lay all before them; they would put the past by.

"I will steal my happiness from life," he cried. "Let the world condemn me. I can fight her battles; and no man knows my story and cares, seeing her frightened, tortured by that maniac's memory, would do otherwise than I do now."

Mrs. Minny appeared in her jaunty traveling-suit, her sealskin jacket, a dainty dotted veil over her hat, and her dog under her arm.

"I never get married like other people," she said, cheerfully. "Looks at me in these clothes; and the other time I had on an old dress, too."

Oliver winced. "Perhaps at the third you'll have better luck, my pet."

"I have said something awful, I suppose," she laughed. "But I am so happy I don't care, and I said good-by to that ghost room. Oh, I'm so glad I've got you forever and ever with!"

"I believe you are going to marry me out of fear," he said, as they drove along in the carriage.

"You don't think that, sweetness," she said, contentedly; "and you have got your lovely tools. You always were a man and a novel to me. A city bachelor, Aunt Hannah says. Won't she be surprised? but, do you know, she said I had leanings towards you all the time?"

Mrs. Minny was very reserved when the two strange gentlemen joined them, and when the mercenes service was being read trembled a little, until Steve's cheering dolefully—he had not slept well, poor dog, in the hotel cellar—made her smile, and she was patient when the solemn ceremony was over. They were married in a shabby parsonage of an out-of-the way church, by an underfed parson in threadbare clothes, and Minny's generous heart rejoiced when she caught a glimpse of a fifty-dollar bill Oliver paid for the few moments' talk that meant so much—the ceremony that is, after all, the strongest link in the chain of human happiness.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Due Notice is Served.

Due notice is hereby served on the public generally that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the only salve on the market that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has cured thousands of cases of piles that would not yield to any other treatment, and this fact has brought out many worthless counterfeits. Those desiring to get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are never disappointed, because it cures. A. L. Richert.

EMARDVILLE.

Gustaf Hanson had a runaway and got badly hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. McAulel are the proud parents of a baby girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson have been visiting with their brother, Hans Pederson.

Gust Syenby was at Thief River Falls this week.

Paul Ostby has two-bired men now and is going at wood hard. He's cutting his six cords per day.

Anton Rouse has gone to Marshall county where he will make his future home.

Miss Regna Thompson left for North Dakota April 8.

Elmer Pederson went to Red Lake Falls and reports the roads in bad condition.

Abram Steen and Alfred Valdal have gone to Grand Forks.

JACK PEW.

Now's the time to take Rocky Mountain Tea; it drives out the microbes of winter, and gives you the stomach, liver and kidneys in perfect order. A wonderful spring tonic that makes sick people well. A. L. Richert.

Leaves the south for Yale.

Andrew Stedil, the young professor of Georgia, whose attention on the negro problem in a recent issue of the Atlantic raised such objection in the South that he was forced to resign his chair, has entered the Yale graduate school, taking a course in advanced classics.

For a clear skin, clear all the way through, complexion, eyes, hair, and sunshine—rosy cheeks show through—take Rocky Mountain Tea; 35c. A. L. Richert.

His Normal Condition.

He—You told your mother I was sorry for having made an idiot of myself at her dinner party last night? What did she say? She—O, she said she noticed nothing unusual.

This is the time of the year when you need a tonic. Nothing else purify your blood and put your system in perfect order. For this purpose there is nothing like Cole's Cascara Bitters, the true vegetable blood purifier and alterative nerve tonic. It is not a temporary stimulant, but it makes new blood and restores health and tone to the whole system. Try it, it's guaranteed. $1.00 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Judge's Philosophy.

"Few men are as good as they pretend to be." "Well, what of it? Few men want to be."—Judge.

Coughs, colds and all throat and lung diseases yield quickly to the wonderfully incredible effects of Cole's Cough Cure. It quickly relieves and cures in a way to gain a friend. Children like it. Guaranteed to satisfy. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Yoo Doo's
CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS & CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion Cheerfulness and Rest Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Yoo Doo's CASTORIA
Pumpkin Seed
Alx. Senna
Rochelle Salts
Anise Seed
Peppermint
Bicarbonate of Soda
Worm Seed
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
NEW YORK

At 6 months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes ✍ New Tobaccos ✍ New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Props

Fresh and Salt Meats.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order in Number 19.

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Stearns guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and prices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. M. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARAHIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS. MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Helgerson & Roch ert's drug store.
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention to collections, probating of estates and examination of titles.
Offices over Bunge and Clark's store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at Law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls. Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—
One that excels in Northwest news;
One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;
One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;
One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;
One that contains Hart's cartoons, the Journal junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Brisbane's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,
There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

Women the Coming Playwrights

By HENRIETTA CROSMAN,
One of the Most Popular Actresses on the American Stage.

WILL women be the playwrights of the near future? Will they capture this field and leave only a man here and there as now there is only an occasional woman?

Several women of my acquaintance predict this, and I am sure that if women fail of achievement it will not be for lack of effort. They are trying their hand at playmaking in large and increasing numbers.

Of the manuscripts I am asked to read a greater number is submitted by women than by men. Why, since so many are entered in the lists, have they not scored more heavily in the totals?

Women are cleverer writers in certain lines than men. In dialogue they are brighter, in conversations wittier. But in this strength lies weakness, for they are prone to halt the action of the play to let their characters bandy fine phrases. And there are times on the stage when action not only speaks louder but far more effectively than words.

Women excel in one respect. They know how to portray gentility. Their well-bred men and women have the manner of the polite world. I do not mean to say that men have not an equal knowledge of the conventionalities, but rather that they perhaps give less attention to this detail, although it is very essential. By their nature women lay more stress on this aspect of life, and therefore make it a greater factor in their writing.

Again, women are keener in the little by-plays. They give deft touches here and there which lend color and round out the whole fabric. From this it might be argued that they are more fertile in invention. I cannot concede this point. Women lack the great, big quality of originality. They fall short of novelty in situation, they are less forceful, less dramatic; they lack terseness and directness.

Still another weakness is woman's difficulty in getting away from the commonplace in characterization. She may not have man's opportunities for character study; she may not search out types in regions which men can enter; her observation is of necessity more restricted. But she does not seem to study life at all. Her ideas of humanity are based either on what she reads or what her fancy has pictured. Her good men are far better than are most good men in this world. To her bad women she leaves not a single redeeming quality. Her men are so very noble that had such ever lived they would have been cut off early, while her villains revel in wickedness for wickedness' sake and prefer to be bad even though it would serve them better to be good. Now everybody knows that these types are neither true to life nor especially novel or interesting.

I believe that popular plays are to come from women, but I am not ready to say they will have things all to themselves. Why not guard against a monopoly by either sex? Why should not men and women collaborate? This would keep both in the field with the best results from all points of view.

Henrietta Crosman

It isn't so much the deed a man does that makes a hero of him as it is the parades he is willing not to ride in after he has done it.

Why the Easter Skirt Must Flare

By MRS. ELIZABETH A. C. WHITE,
President of the Dressmakers' Association of America.

Fashions do not come and go without reason. For every feature of the new lily skirt which forms so important a part of spring wardrobes there is an explanation. One and all, they are traceable to the grace, activity and love of freedom characteristic of the modern woman.

It is within a comparatively short period that women have begun to attach importance to the poise of the body. Havingly learned to hold themselves healthfully and gracefully—head erect and chest up, —having learned to demand corsets that give them breathing room, they have learned to flove walking and to walk correctly, with the knee stiff and the body so inclined forward that its weight comes on the ball of the foot and not on the heel.

This new walk is directly connected iwth the new fashion in skirts. The clinging skirt cannot be displaced; it is beautiful and women set beauty above other considerations. But a skirt that really clings is fatal to good walking; it winds itself around the feet and makes the knees bend, if it does not check motion.

To make a skirt that shall seem to cling without clinging is the problem solved by the new skirt put forward for Easter. It is called a lily skirt because it maintains the sheathlike form familiar for the last few seasons; but at the bottom it has a carefully measured flare, and to assist it in standing out from the body it has a drop skirt whose triple circular flounce is stiffened with haircloth. This drop skirt has a seam in front but in its general aspect of close adjustment to the figure it differs little from its predecessors. The newness and the importance of the new skirt lie in its provisions for walking—in the care taken to hold it away from the limbs.

American Women Lead the World

By MRS. CAROLINE F. WALLACE,
Lecturer on the Women of India.

THE American girl is the most beautiful on earth. Her fullness of health and vigor and spirit command the admiration of both sexes all over the world, while Indian girls are shrivled, wrinkled, and ready to die at 18.

These splendid girls are the mothers of the nation, and their influence on affairs is immeasurable.

Now think of this beautiful American girl having been a wife for ten years at 18, just as she is on the threshold of young womanhood. Think of this and you will have a picture of the Indian woman at 18. But many of the Indian child wives do not live to be even 18. Many more are wrinkled old grandmothers at 20. At 25 those who have survived their long years of agonized wifehood have not even a remnant of beauty or symmetry of figure left.

The Indian widow is a social outcast. She is blamed for the death of her husband. She is everybody's slave. To marry her would be to lose your caste. They think mothers-in-law are bad enough over here, but in India the child wife is the servant, the slave of the mother-in-law. The Indian wife is her husband's slave; the American wife is her husband's peer in most things, his superior in other things. The Indian husband is worshiped by his wife as her god; the American wife is often called "divine" by her devoted husband.

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

Swedish Luth Tarrna church, to Chas Fellman, lot 11 blk 1 Swed Luth Tarrna cemetery..... 8
St Hilaire Townsite Co to St Hilaire Creamery Co-op ass'n, lots 13, 14, 15, 16 blk 48 orig St. Hilaire..... 1
Jas Meehan jr tc Jas N Pratt, lot 1, 2 Meehan's ad Thief River Falls.. 136
Jas Borli to Merchants State Bank Red Lake Falls lots 1, 2 sec 2-151-42..... 750
Merchants State Bank to J C Wilkinson, same..... 523
Lewis Neck to Ida Swanson, lts 1, 2 and s hf ne qr 1-151-40..... 1600
Nathius Evenson to Ever M Evenson, lots 3-10 blk 2 Buse & Canty's ad..... 5
H H Zaiser et al to Rachael Brunelle et al lot 2 Riverside ad Red Lake Falls..... 50
Burt I Weld to Lucius I Graves,land in sec 20-21-51-41..... 1800
U S to Henry Ethier s hf nw qr and ne qr 3-151-41..... Pat
Joron Gorac to Aslak Thompson, w hf sw qr and se qr sw qr 26-152-40 1600
U S to Benj Anderson, ne qr nw qr 12-151-43..... Pat
U S to Siever Knudson w hf se qr, e hf sw qr 12-151-43..... 1200
U S to Andrew E Fosnd, lot 3, se qr nw qr 3-151-43..... Pat
Mary F Cody to Lauv. Dana, nw qr ne qr, e hf nw qr, and lot 1 sec 18-152-43..... 250
Lucius Dennis to Henry J Enderle same 2400
Henry J Enderle to Washington Adams same description..... 3500
Ed L Healy to Mrs. Hattie D N Brown, lot 5 blk 82 Kretz ad Red Lake Falls..... 35
Halvor T Asmot to Geo M Eastman, same des..... 450
Edward J Prillner to Scand Ev Luth Cong Thief River Falls..... 125
U S to Olof R Tande, ne qr 11-151-41 Pat
U S to Erick Iverson, lots 6 and nw qr se qr 11-151-41..... Pat
Astre K E Running to Erick Iverson lot 6 and nw qr se qr 11-151-41..... 2000
Cass Mercantile Co et al to Ole T Omnes, lot 4 sec 8-152-42..... 800
Barnabard Reanson to Jno Pearson lts 18, 19 blk 2 Porter's ad Thief River Falls..... 150
Fred Emard to John A Duffy, lots 5 7 and e hf sw qr 4-151-43..... 1
Erick Iverson to Astre K E Running lot 6 and nw qr se qr 11-151-41..... 1005
Peter Beauvrow to Eldags, lots 9, 10, 12, blk 8 C & D's ad..... 3300
H J Enderle to Daniel Patterson, nw qr 24-152-41..... 2400
H J Enderle to Daniel Patterson lot 1 sec 8-152-43..... 1200
H J Enderle to W H Matthews, lot 2 sec 3-152-42 and lot 1 sec 20-153-42 1000
Alice B Kratka to trustees of the 2nd Century Presby church of Thief River Falls s hf of lot 18 except e 10 ft bk 30 orig..... 250
U S to Ollie Methram, se qr ne qr and lot 1, ne qr se qr, nw qr se qr 3-151-42..... Pat
U S to Frank Vaillancour, n hf sw qr ne qr se qr 4 and ne qr ne qr 5-151-42..... Pat
Maill L Weeks to Jos Johnson, lot 3 blk 63 orig Thief River Falls..... 700

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at San Francisco, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $80 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired can be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

J. M. BRAY.
FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES.
Slickest Place in Town to Drop in and Get : :
Fine Cigars and Wines and Liquors.
BREVORT RYE. :: K. O. R. WHISKEY

WHY?
The reason Ono Minute Cough Cure relieves so much in one minute, is because it acts first on the muscles membranes right where the cough troubles—in the throat or deep-seated in the lungs, loosening the mucous or cough germs and causing expectoration. Then it heals and cures. Ono Minute Cough Cure is pleasant and clean to take, prompt in its effect, gives strength and elasticity to the delicate membranes which line the throat and lungs. It is the only cough cure authorized to use the Government testimonial, because it helps the blood to receive its natural supply of oxygen, thus enlivening the pulmonary organs with such strength and vigor that the lungs and bronchial tubes recover healthy vigor. Do not be deceived by cheap substitutes. Ono Minute Cough Cure is the best for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Pulmonary Complaints that are curable and guaranteed to do the same.
ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE
Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & Co., Chicago.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:
Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.
Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Pig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter druggist. Trial bottles free.

WELL - DIGGING.
I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.
Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.
A. O. LETYIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

O. K. SALOON
Is the Place to Go for Choice
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.
J. E. BRAY

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"
MODERN ELOQUENCE

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Reminiscences, Humorous and Memorable Stories, on Ten Handsome Volumes, Illustrated with Fine Photogravures and other Plates

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief
ASSOCIATE EDITORS:
Hon. Austin McCarthy
Member of the British Parliament
Rossiter Johnson
Author and Litterateur
Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Collaborator
Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man Without a Country"
Jonathan P. Dolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa
John B. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Georgia
Nathan Haskell Dole
Associate Editor "International Library of Famous Literature"
James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureau, Author of "Eccentricities of Genius"
George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University
Lorenzo Sears
Professor of English Literature, Boston University
Edwin M. Bacon
Former Editor "Boston Advertiser"
P. Cunliffe Owen
Member Editorial Staff "New York Tribune"
J. Walker McSpadden
Managing Editor "Edition Nouvelle" of Balzac's Works
Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Museum, Washington, D. C.
Truman A. DeWeese
Member Editorial Staff Chicago "Times-Herald"
William W. Matos
Member Editorial Staff "Philadelphia Evening Telegraph"
Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri
Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds when from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment —for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi color.

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

CASTELLAR—Anthony Jos. Keim, Manager of Sunday Advertising, has been manager of Sunday Advertising for the Red Lake Courier since September 1, 1902.

Red Lake Courier
Circulation is verified to over 1,000 copies.

Name .....
Address .....
Street .....
City and State .....

Liver Pills

That's what you need; something to cure your biliousness and give you a good digestion. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation and biliousness. Gently laxative.
25c. ALL DRUGGISTS.
Want free opinion of your disease and directions for home treatment? Write our Chief Consulting Physician.
BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the whiskers. Colors a natural brown or black. 50c.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

Capital Stock, $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.
I. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
I. A. Wyer, F. E. Hunt, Theo Garceau,
Chas. M. Bradley, A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BOUND		EAST BOUND
8.50 pm Lv	St. Paul	Ar 7.15 am
8.50 pm Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 7.00 am
9.15 pm Lv	Crookston	Ar 5.55 am
9.45 pm Lv	Crookston	Ar 5.25 am
10.15 pm Lv	Fisher	Ar 4.55 am
11.34 pm Lv	Mayo	Ar 3.35 am
12.00 am Lv	Wylie	Ar 3.00 am
12.30 am Ar	St. Hilaire	Lv 2.30 am
12.35 am Ar	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 2.25 am
12.40 am Ar	Thief River Falls	Lv 2.20 am
12.55 pm Ar	Grand Forks	Lv 2.00 pm

O. THOMAS Agent.

Spring's Advent

Brings many new seasonable goods to our store. Every new fabric—every fad soon finds its way here. We are ever on the alert for the new.

We have opened up this week "MELANGE," a new cotton etamine mixture, very pretty, a practical cloth at only 25c per yard, looks like a high-priced fabric. DANISH CLOTH, in several shades, very pretty, at 20c per yard. MOUSSELINE DE SOIE, in plain or dots, Eton cloth, just the thing for children's dresses, at only 12½c per yard.

LACE CURTAINS

Nottingham Curtains, 50c per pair, cheap at 65c, and up to $7 per pair for fine Irish point. Door pieces to match.

CARPETS

A full line of new samples. Our new SULTANA Carpets are creating a sensation. They will revolutionize the carpet business. They are reversible, ingaain pattern on one side, border or straw matting pattern on the other; sweep easily, as they have a smooth finish, price only 20c.

.. SKIRTS ..

An immense new line of Walking Skirts at $1.75; not trashy, either.
"Snowflake" or "Knickerbocker" goods at $4.50 and $5.00.
Taffeta and Peau de Soie Monte Carlo Coats in stock.
In Shirt Waists we show a line directly from New York, and at prices that will astonish you. We close out our 1902 waists at 39c, worth up to $1.50.

STRAW GOODS

A big line of Ladies' and Misses' goods. Misses' Hats, 15c, worth 25c.
Ladies' Sailors, 39c, worth 50c.
Better at 75c, worth $1.25.
A bunch of Violets thrown in with each hat.

SHOES SHOES

We are headquarters for Shoes. Our $1.50 Ladies' Fine Shoe is a match for any $2 shoe in the city. But for Fine Footwear our Utz & Dunn surpasses anything else.
Many have been waiting for our Budd Children's Shoes. We expect them this week. These shoes are too well known to need any description.

.. CLOTHING ..

We never carried a nobbler line than we do this spring. All of our Spring Suits bear the Kuppenheimer label, a label that guarantees the wearer complete satisfaction, or money refunded.
Young men, see our line of black, unfinished Cheviot suits for a swell dress suit, at $12.50, worth fully $16.
Children's 3-piece suits at $1.50 up.

Grass Seeds of all Kinds.

GROCERY SPECIALS THIS WEEK

MAPLE SYRUP. 50c per gal.
FORCE, 12½c.
PETTIJOHN'S BREAKFAST FOOD, 10c.
SHREDDED WHEAT, 10c.
Bbl of GINGER SNAPS, 18c.

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Office supplies of all kinds at THE COURIER office.

Rev. Father Rial was a guest of Rev. Ansgar Monday.

J. W. McCinty was down from the up-river Falls on Monday.

J. A. Duffy wants 25 or 30 cords of stone. Call at the bank.

Ed. L. Healy made a business trip to Crookston Saturday.

Matt Barzen is down from Thief River Falls on business today.

J. M. Allard returned Friday from a trip to his claim in Itasca county.

Deputy Sheriff Cyr visited at up-river points several days the first of the week.

For rent—a five room house. Inquire of N. J. St. Aubin, at O'Brien's hardware. tf

Mrs. R. P. Marshall is the guest of Mrs. James Meehan at St. Paul this week.

We've got just the pipe you are looking. All prices and sizes.—J. B. CHAIN CO.

METROPOLITAN Opera House

ANDERSON & HEALY, Managers.

Final Numbers of Entertainment Course

HON. W. I. NOLAN

Saturday Evening,

April 25

Remi Fortier and family were guests at the home of Joseph Fortier over Sunday.

Miss Clara Zaiser spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Lewis Adams, at St. Hilaire.

The young ladies' sewing society meets with Miss Albina Lemieux this afternoon.

Come in and see what we are offering you and ask the price.—Pibetts & Davison.

Cashier J. A. Duffy went to the cities last evening for a business trip of a day or two.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Groshong was quite sick several days the past week.

Four in one—the new thing in swell hats. Buy the Laugher, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Customers will be interested in the new styles of Douglass shoes at Garceau & Zaiser's.

"When Nolan comes to town." Well, there will be a hot time. Secure your seats early.

Wiley Tindolph, the Thief River real estate hustler, was a county-seat visitor yesterday.

Mayor Frank H. Kratka, of Thief River Falls, was a business visitor at the county seat today.

Fred Martin, employed on the Hall place north of town, was quite badly hurt in a runaway Monday.

Get our prices before you buy another thing in the line of flour and feed.—Tibbetts & Davison.

Mrs. S. M. Siverston returned the latter part of the week from a visit with friends at St. Paul.

Mrs. H. C. Stahr, of Argyle, is the guest of her sisters, Mesdames Mead and Lemieux, this week.

The Surprise store invites the reader's attention to another array of clothing bargains this week.

Notice that Allard's ice cream parlor is now open for the season. Assorted flavors to suit the taste.

J. McIntosh, a Bemidji photographer, was taking views in and about our city the first of the week.

Attorney W. A. McIntyre transacted a stroke of legal business and visited friends at Warren Saturday.

All grocers sell coffee. We sell the Famous King line, it leads them all. Prices 15c to 40c.—Bangs & Co.

The new silk albatross waistings, fast colors, 33 inches wide, for 38 cents per yard, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Frank Violette and wife, of Centilly, are the parents of a boy baby, which arrived at their home Tuesday.

Mrs. George Cheadle, of Cleveland, Minn., arrived yesterday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. R. Jaeger.

Joe Smith, one of the most eloquent insurance expounders in the Northwest, spent Tuesday talking to our citizens.

Mayor Watson's "clean up" notice published in this issue, ought to be heeded by all the property owners of the city.

The omnibus road and bridge bill, appropriating $61,000, has passed the legislature. Red Lake county gets $800.

Miss Alice Buse will go to Thief River Falls tomorrow for an over-Sunday visitor with her friend, Miss Nellie Curran.

Krueger & Hayton have fitted up the rear part of their confectionery for use as an ice cream parlor the coming season.

Miss Eleanor Findeisen returned yesterday from Oliver, Mich., where she has been attending college during the past year.

Ladies are able to buy a pair of fine hose for 3 cents—three pairs for 25 cents—while they last, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Wm. Schwalen returned Sunday from Wadena and Park Rapids, where he has been looking after his real estate interests.

C. P. Winslow, shipping clerk in the wholesale house of Finch, Smith & Co., Crookston, was a business caller here Tuesday.

We make a special feature of selling the best possible five cent hemstitched handkerchiefs for ladies or gentlemen.—Bangs & Co.

More good things have been added this week to our black dress goods stock. Prices range from 25c to $2.25 per yard.—Bangs & Co.

J. P. Utley expects to leave in a few days for Turtle River where he will accept a situation as head sawyer in a large mill at that place.

We have the agency for the Corliss-Coon collars, conceded the best of makes; popular shapes, popular price; two for 25c.—Bangs & Co.

Walter Quesnelle arrived home Tuesday noon from Collegeville, where he has been taking a business course at St. John's college.

H. Gonigam was absent several days the latter part of last and first of this week in the southern part of the state, looking up landseekers.

F. J. Parker, J. W. Pike, E. C. Patterson, Rood Welsh and R. H. Finch, of Marshall, are looking at Red Lake county lands this week.

Full weight, air-tight, all the rich fragrance of the first May pickings, you get it all in Primrose package teas. We sell them.—Bangs & Co.

A good spring tonic puts you in good humor with the world. Take Nolan—it will take away the blues. At the Metropolitan, April 25.

The assessors of Red Lake county will meet at the auditor's office Saturday to agree upon a schedule of valuations for this year's assessments.

Laugh last, laugh best. You simply can't resist. You will laugh first, last and all the time at the Metropolitan Saturday evening, April 25.

O. P. Johnson, formerly a Thief River Falls merchant, and now traveling for a St. Paul commission house was doing business in the city yesterday.

N. J. St. Aubin and family will soon move to Crookston, where Mr. St. Aubin has been offered a position in a hardware store at an increased salary.

Louis Dreveskracht, of Morris, accompanied by Miss Kate Vetter, of Crookston, arrived Tuesday and are guests at the home of E. H. Dreveskracht.

Miss Cora Nelson has been confined to her room this week with a serious attack of the grippe. Miss Almeda Conigam has had charge of her school work.

Cole at Thief River this week S. A. Swanson secured from S. F. Staples two excellent specimens of moose heads, which now ornament his real estate office.

The Healy agency reports the sale of the northwest of 30, River Falls, to Henry Bjornson, of Janesville, Minn. Mr. Bjornson expects to move on the place this fall.

Saturday evening, Nolan, the mirth producer. Be sure your buttons are secure. A few sallies of the Nolan brand will put your wearing apparel to the supreme test.

Fears are entertained lest someone should forget the date. If you remember the date you will never be able to forget you were there. At the Metropolitan, April 25.

George J. Sill, representing the bindery and blank book department of the Crookston Times, was a business caller here Tuesday and found time to call on THE COURIER.

The following unclaimed letters remain in the post office for the week ending April 18: Marie Anderson, Mrs. Xavier Clement, Francis Desjoreins, Pit O. Koidahl, E. T. Wolfe.

Acting Sheriff Grundy was down from Thief River Falls today and appointed Fred Cyr as deputy until the board of county commissioners selects a successor to Sheriff Sampson.

Rev. Andrew Walker went to Crookston Monday evening and Tuesday proceeded to Hallock to attend the meeting of the Adams presbytery held in that city Tuesday afternoon.

Bromide portraits 16x20 $2.00 by W. A. Riechel, the photographer, made from original negative and as true a likeness as the small photo. Also button photos in all sizes and at all prices. 4w

F. B. Newton expects to leave for Washington state, where he has timber interests, in a few weeks. The Newton family will be greatly missed from the business and social circles of Red Lake Falls.

Marriage licenses were issued by Clerk Pernault this week to Wm. Knight, of this city, and Miss Bessie Scribner, of Thief River Falls; Wm. Cervais, of Two Harbors, and Miss Delia Pernault, of this city.

Ed Cranger returned last Thursday from western Canada, where he has been for several months. Mr. Cranger reports a very late spring in that section, and when he left the ground was still covered with snow.

S. D. Codoux was in from Terrebonne Tuesday and informed THE COURIER that the drive for the Clearwater Logging company has been started, and will probably reach Red Lake Falls the last week in May.

"Arctic Missions" will be the topic at the meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E., with Miss Julia Sharp as leader. Papers will be read by Misses Stella Hennemuth, Vida Carver, Ella Krueger and Jessie Mullin.

C. V. Faus has succeeded R. S. Hamilton as operator at the Great Northern depot here. Mr. Faus comes from Shelly, where he has been agent for some time, and is an experienced and successful railroad man.

At a meeting of the lawn tennis club held Tuesday evening S. L. Lewis was elected president and Samuel E. Hunt treasurer. Anyone desirous of joining the organization should make the fact known to one of the officers.

Mayor Watson is in receipt of a communication from W. D. Lovell, a water works contractor at Des Moines, Iowa, relative to the prospect for putting in a plant at Red Lake Falls. It is probable that Mr. Lovell will be here shortly to investigate the matter.

E. J. Druecker has leased the Hotel Markham at St. Hilaire, and expects to take charge in the near future. The lease of the Brink Bros., the present managers, expires July 1, but Mr. Druecker hopes to make arrangements for assuming control at once.

Ladies' morning wrappers: we have on hand a few light weight fleece-lined garments which we will close out at 87½c each. Also a few better ones at $1.00 each. Former prices 1.00, 1.50 and 1.75, none too heavy for present wear and all bargains.—Bangs & Co.

The old Kaufer building next to the Metropolitan, which was partially destroyed by fire during the winter, has been sold and is being torn down and removed. As the lots it stands on are within the fire limits it is not likely that they will be occupied by another frame structure.

LOCAL MARKET REPORT.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company give us the following market quotations for today:

No. 1 hard wheat, 65½c;
No. 1 Northern, 64½c;
No. 2 Northern, 62½c;
No. 3 Northern, 59½c;
No. 4 Northern, 56½c;
Flax, 99c;
Oats, 29c;
Patent flour, $2.35;
Second patents, $2.25;
Bran, $14.00;
Shorts, $16.00;
Barley, 30c to 40c.

For Sale or Rent.

I offer my property on Main street for sale or rent on favorable terms. The building has 18 rooms and has been used for a hotel and boarding house. Apply at my residence.—H. O. Gjerberg. 4w

Notice to Clean Up.

All property owners are expected to clean up their back yards and alleys before April 30, under a penalty of a fine. Garbage and refuse of all kinds must be cleaned up and hauled to the city dumping ground.—N. M. WATSON, Mayor.

"One of my horses was badly kicked on the hip," writes F. P. Lane, Minneapolis, Minn. "and the flesh torn away from the bone, but Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve soon healed it as sound as ever without a scar." Guaranteed to cure without scars. 50c and $1.00. Sold by all druggists.

GARNES.

News are scarce nowadays.

Elvind Gunstensen left for Canada last week.

Erick Erickson made a flying trip to St. Hilaire Monday.

Swan E. Walhaug returned last Sunday from a few days stay at McIntosh. what is up Swan?

Spring work is going on with full speed as the weather seems to suit everybody and they think they are having it their own way.

A few days ago there was quite an excitement amongst the people around here about the railroad. but so far we here not seen the surveyors. They will likely be up to Garnes by next week.

LAMBERT.

Mrs. Rivard, of Crookston, has been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Desnoli all the past week.

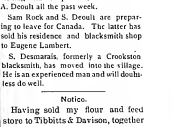
Sam Rock and S. Desnoli are preparing to leave for Canada. The latter has sold his residence and blacksmith shop to Eugene Lambert.

S. Desmarais, formerly a Crookston blacksmith, has moved into the village. He is an experienced man and will doubtless do well.

Notice.

Having sold my flour and feed store to Tibbitts & Davison, together with book accounts, I desire to notify parties owing me to pay the accounts to Tibbitts & Davison, instead. All these accounts draw interest after 30 days. M. A. Hatten, Red Lake Falls, Apr. 16, 1903.

THE REAL THING PROTESTS.



The Real Duck—Well say, wouldn't that ruffle your feathers?—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Out To-day

Five handsomely appointed trains from the Twin Cities to Chicago via the

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway

The route preferred by the United States Government.

Electric Lighted Trains.

No. 6—DAY EXPRESS—Leaves St. Paul 8.30 a. m., arrives Chicago 9.25 p. m.
No. 2—FAST MAIL—Leaves St. Paul 3.00 p. m., arrives Milwaukee 12.20 a. m.
No. 56—FAST MAIL—Leaves St. Paul 7.30 p. m., arrives Chicago 7.00 a. m.
No. 4—PIONEER LIMITED—Leaves St. Paul 8.35 p. m., arrives Chicago 9.30 a. m.
No. 2—NIGHT EXPRESS—Leaves St. Paul 11.00 p. m., arrives Chicago 11.55 a. m.

Insist that your tickets and baggage checks read via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. A postal card will bring complete information.

W. B. DIXON,
Northwestern Passenger Agent,
ST. PAUL, MINN.

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.
Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

☞ Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Cures Grip in Two Days.
Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature, E. W. Grove on every box. 25c.

SOCIETY.

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 30. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 30, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 238.

BAND CONCERT WILL BE A RARE TREAT

Selections for the Event of Next Wednesday Evening Will Eclipse All Previous Attempts.

That the band concert at the Metropolitan next Wednesday evening will be an unusually brilliant musical event there can no longer be any doubt, as both Prof. Smith and the band management are emphatic in their statements that it will easily eclipse any former efforts of this organization. The time taken in the preparation of the program has been longer than usual and the members have practiced diligently to obtain a degree of proficiency seldom found in a band of itsage. As usual, honorary members will be admitted free and they can have their seats reserved at Anderson & Healy's. To others the general admission price will be 35c; reserved seats, 50c, and everyone should make it a point to be present. The program will consist of the following numbers;

PART I.

1—March.....E. Sorrentino
"WILLOW GROVE"
2—Overture—some.....Dalbey
"SYMPHONY" No. 1
3—Characteristic March...H. H. Hall
"ON THE LEVEE"
4—Flute Solo, Grand Fantasia.....
MARTIAN.....H. Round
"SCENES THAT ARE BRIGHTEST"
MORNER L. J. BRUNELLE, Piere
Full Band Accompaniment
5—American Patrol...F. W. Meacham

PART II.

6—March.....O. E. Farrar
"MONTGOMERY GUARD"
7—Grand Selection.....W. Morse
From Comic Opera "WANG"
8—Waltz.....G. F. Daniels
"SYRACUSA"
9—African Episode.....Barnhouse
"GEO'GE WASHIN'TON'S BIRTHDAY PARTY"

The Study of Man.

It is a notable fact that many of the most prominent writers and novelists have found it necessary to withdraw into the country to get their best ideas of men and city life. The socialist generally lives in the country, where he studies men and their ways from a distance. In short, men in the center of things have too little time to think and so really know little of the very men with whom they associate. A man who understands man knows that they need some tonic like golden grain belt beer, that they wear out with constant work and find recreation and inspiration in this delicious health food. It rests and builds up both mind and body. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Notice that Allard's ice cream parlor is now open for the season. Assorted flavors to suit the taste.

The Good Ship Minnesota.

Besson Monitor: The people of Minnesota feel proud of the fact that through the enterprise of J. J. Hill, the largest cargo carrying vessel in the world is to be named after this state. The steamship, Minnesota, which has just been launched, has a carrying capacity of about 28,000 tons. She is intended for oriental trade and will be the connecting link between the Great Northern railroad and Japan. A sister ship, the North Dakota, will follow the Minnesota. The public does not always endorse what Mr. Hill does, but in putting these gigantic ships on the Pacific to carry the products of Minnesota to the orient, he has done a work that will be heartily commended by the people of this state.

A Story of Success.

The most successful and popular railroad in the Northwest is the famous North-Western Line. The secret of their success lies in the fact that they have always been pioneers in introducing improvements for the comfort and convenience of their patrons. They were the first to operate dining cars, then vestibuled cars, then fully equipped Limited trains between the Twin Cities and Chicago, and today finds the North-Western Limited the only perfect train in the world.

Office supplies of all kinds at THE COURIER office.

DANIEL LINNEHAN IS THE NEW SHERIFF

Chosen by County Commissioners to Fill the Unexpired Term of the Late Charles Sampson.

A special meeting of the board of county commissioners was held Monday afternoon for the purpose of electing a successor to the late Sheriff Sampson. About ten candidates were in the field, but only four were voted for on the formal ballots. These were Daniel Linnehan and Adam Zeh of Red Lake Falls, A. R. Jones of St. Hilaire, and O. Tessier of Terrebonne. Daniel Linnehan was elected on the fourth formal ballot, receiving three out of the five votes. Jones and Tessier each received a vote.

The first informal ballot was as follows: Linnehan 1, Zeh 1, W. J. Kelly 2, Tessier 1. Fourteen informal ballots were taken and on none of them did any candidate receive more than two votes. The informal ballots were as follows:

First—Linnehan 1, Jones 2, Tessier 1, Zeh 1.

Second—Linnehan 1, Jones 2, Tessier 2, Zeh 1.

Third—Linnehan 2, Jones 2, Tessier 1.

Fourth—Linnehan 3, Jones 1, Tessier 1.

Daniel Linnehan, the new sheriff, is an old resident of Red Lake county, and it is generally conceded that the commissioners made an excellent choice. He is an uncompromising Democrat, and in 1900 was the candidate of that party for the office to which he has just been elected.

THIEF RIVER FALLS.

H. G. Dobner left on Monday for a stay of a few days at the home of his parents at Lake City.

Capt. W. A. Krahn came home Saturday forenoon from a business trip to various points in North Dakota.

Rev. Father Ansgar came up from Red Lake Falls Tuesday evening for an over night stay with Rev. Father Charles.

H. L. Dudley has been confined to his bed since Sunday with an attack of German measles, or something of a very similar nature.

A. P. Lee, who for the past few months has been attending business college at Minneapolis, returned home Saturday and will remain here for the present.

Fred Dennis, the Crookston stenographer, left on Sunday for the Red Lake agency where he will join Major McLaughlin in the eleriral work of getting the bill ratified by the Indians.

Rev. Andrew Walker, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Red Lake Falls, occupied the Presbyterian pulpit at this place last Sunday both morning and evening, giving a very able and scholarly address on each occasion.

Rev. L. Dodds, presiding elder of the M. E. church for this district, was in the city Monday to hold quarterly conference. It was not the intention to hold the meeting until about the 9th of May, but as Mr. Dodds was in St. Hilaire Sunday he decided to come here the following day and clear up his work on this line.

For Sale or Rent.

I offer my property on Main street for sale or rent on favorable terms. The building has 18 rooms and has been used for a hotel and boarding house. Apply at my residence.—H. O. Gjerberg. 4w

Notice to Clean Up.

All property owners are expected to clean up their back yards and alleys before April 30, under a penalty of a fine. Garbage and refuse of all kinds must be cleaned up and hauled to the city dumping ground.—N. M. WATSON, Mayor.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in tablets and papetries.- Call and look over the line.

THE COURIER PUZZLES.

Answers to the List Published in Last Week's Paper.

The correct answers to the list of name puzzles printed in last week's COURIER are as follows:

1—Jeffers;
2—Reichert;
3—Paul;
4—Pirath;
5—Tarrant;
6—Sortodahl;
7—Converse;
8—Wetzel;
9—Permuit;
10—Hatton;
11—Normandin;
12—Gilman;
13—Berthon;
14—Hissing;
15—Miller;
16—Gesswein.

But one answer received was near enough to be entitled to a prize and if Master Graham Kindseth will call at this office he will be given his choice of a state map or a box of high-grade stationery.

JOINED IN WEDLOCK.

Popular Young Couple Married at St. Joseph's Monday.

At 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, at St. Joseph's church, occurred the marriage of Albert Brunelle to Miss Laura Gervais, both well-known and popular Red Lake Falls young people, the Rev. Father Fayolle performing the pleasing ceremony. Isadore Fortier acted as best man and Miss Lillian Belair as bridesmaid. The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate members of the family, after which the bridal party repaired to the home of the groom's parents where a bounteous wedding feast was partaken of. In the evening a large number of friends assembled to wish them health and happiness, and numerous beautiful and useful presents were left as tokens of esteem. The newly wedded couple will at once go to housekeeping in the LaBissoniere cottage on Champagne avenue, which has been fitted up and nicely furnished by the groom, and if the earnest wishes of a host of admiring friends count for anything their journey down life's pathway will be entwined with an abundance of sunshine and happiness.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: All is not stay that squeezes.

It is in the dark that a guilty conscience is all lighted up.

A woman can always keep a secret if all her friends will lend a hand.

When a woman starts to break into society her husband is due to break through his bank account.

A woman can be happier without money to spend in the shops than with it but no shops to spend it in.

Serious Side of a Joke.

Baltimore American: Since the president's advocacy of large families the wife of a New York wheelwright has given birth to triplets. Some people can't take a joke at all.

ASSESSORS MEET TO FIX VALUATIONS

Getting Ready to Make the Annual Raid on the Poor and Defenseless Taxpayer.

The assessors of Red Lake county met in the office of the county auditor Saturday to fix the schedule of valuations for this year's assessments. James Hance, of Lake Pleasant, was chairman of the meeting, and A. D. Dufault, of Red Lake Falls, secretary. The result of the meeting is summarized as follows:

Horses, 1 year old—$8;
Horses, 2 years old—$15;
Horses, 3 years old and over—$25;
Cattle, 1 year old—$3,
Cattle, 2 years old—$7;
Cows—$10;
Working oxen—$18;
Sheep of all ages—$1;
Hogs of all ages—$2;
Wagons, carriages, etc.—40 per cent.;
Sewing machines—40 per cent.;
Watches and clocks—$1 to $25;
Organs—40 per cent.;
Pianos—$20 to $125;
Household and office furniture—40 per cent.;
Agricultural tools and implements —40 per cent.;
Gold and silver plate—40 per cent.;
Diamonds and jewelry—50 per cent.;
Franchises and annuities—40 per cent.;
Goods and merchandise—40 per cent.;
Manufactured materials and manufactured articles—10 per cent.;
Manufacturers' tools, implements and machinery—40 per cent.;
Moneys of banks—50 per cent.;
Credits of banks—50 per cent.;
Moneys, other than banks, etc.—50 per cent.;
Credits, other than banks, etc.—50 per cent.;
Bonds and stocks—50 per cent.;
Shares of bank stock—50 per cent.;
Shares of stock of companies not incorporated in the state—50 per cent.;
Elevators, warehouses and improvements on railroad right-of-way —40 per cent.;
Improvements on United States lands—40 per cent.;
Dogs—$3 to $25.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for Free Homesteads and and Free Coal lands. Low railroad rates. See our agent in your city and write for facts and maps. Wm. H. Brown & Co., 141 LaSalle St., Chicago, or Mandan, N. D.

Come in and see what we are offering you and ask the price.—Tibbetts & Davison.

Carbon papers for sale at THE COURIER.

WITH THE "ROOTERS."

FOOTBALL AS IT WILL BE PLAYED AT SECRETARY ROOT'S NEW WAR COLLEGE.

Sixs. Boom. Ah! War is h—l!

We're in the game! Shot and shell! —Minneapolis Journal.

We are the Leaders. The Only Up-to-Date Clothing House in Red Lake County.

THE SURPRISE

Imperial and magnificent showing of 1903 fashions of HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX hand-custom tailored Men's and Young Men's Suits, Medium and Light Weight Overcoats, Box Coats and Cravenette Rain-proof Coats. Most decidedly smart array of fashionable woolens and fancy weaves; individuality that bears the mark of master hands; princely garments that manifestly proclaim the SURPRISE STORE'S superiority in their exclusive specialty. We should be pleased to show you these smart garments and explain to you the high grade character of the HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX Clothes. . . . . .

MEN'S PANTS.....

We are showing 500 styles of MEN'S PANTS in all the latest patterns in dark and light colors, ranging in price from $1.25 to $6.00, made up in the very latest style and cut.

BOYS' CLOTHING.....

Base ball and bat or catcher's mitt given free with every boys' suit. . . . . .

GENTS' FURNISHINGS

This week we are showing some new effects in Neckwear and Hosiery, also a complete line of Spring and Summer Underwear in natural Wool, Mercerized Silk, Balbriggan and Gauze. The finest display ever shown in these parts at 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50

A full line of BELTS in all the latest designs.

Our line of MEN'S FURNISHINGS is now complete, including all the latest novelties.

EXHIBIT OF SPRING HATS.....

We are sole agents for the celebrated..
HAWES HATS.....

Masterful showing of distinctly novel Headwear; all the latest HAWES productions in all shapes and shades.

From the Factory to the Head

Berthon & Armstrong.....

RED LAKE FALLS.

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The desire to be sheriff of Red Lake county is not nearly so general this week.

It is about time for some enterprising publisher to compile the Pennell love letters.

Diamonds are still advancing in price, the anthracite competition to the contrary notwithstanding.

President Roosevelt and William J. Bryan seem to reached an understanding on the "race suicide" question.

Sir Thomas Lipton is again telling how the cup is going across the ocean. Here is an instance where hope springs eternal.

Frank Day quotes an eminent medical authority thus:

If your baby has the grippe, don't kiss it: if your stenographer has it—send her home till she gets well.

Here is Mary McFadden's comment on a recent political incident:

D. M. Parry's schoolboy choice of becoming president of the United States may be regarded as lost.

It will cost $400,000 to open the St. Louis world's fair, but that is only a patchin' to what it may cost to close it. Ask Buffalo about it.

The coal trust is next to be investigated, and it is hoped the report will show whether Baer or the Almighty has a controlling interest.

The Thief River News has got its second wind and is finding such a grist of news nowadays that nonpareil type isn't any too large to give the complete resume.

The St. Peter Herald remarks that there is this difference between Missouri and Minnesota. In the former state the members of the legislature have to show where they got it.

The Windom Reporter thinks there is room for satisfaction to both sides of the controversy. Governor Van Sant is endorsed and the merger is still doing business at the old stand.

The boodling business in Pennsylvania has not been materially affected, and we are at a loss to understand why the politicians should object so strenuously to newspaper publicity.

Brother Horace Greeley Day's compliment in his Albert Lea Standard is highly appreciated:

John E. King's "casual observations" in his Red Lake Falls Courier are the best grist on the carpet.

The Brainerd Arena figures out that while "brethren" is a synonym for "brothers," "sistern" can never become a synonym for "sisters," for the reason that a cistern will dry up once in a while.

According to the Minneapolis Times the counterfeit five-dollar bills in circulation are not causing half as much distress as the genuine $1,000 notes that floated around in the Missouri legislature.

The Wadena Pioneer-Journal is twenty-six years old, but there are none of the evidences of lethargy and conservatism usually associated with old age, but on the contrary is livelier and better than ever.

Bishop Fallows condemns the church social as a matrimonial agency. But this will not banish the institution. Young people will meet and love and marry, and the church social is performing a good office.

Life gives the following definition of the modern politician:

"Now that ye are one of thim, tell me what a politician is."

"A politician is a feller that promises something that he can't do to get elected and does something he promised not to do to hold his job."

Attorney General Douglas is interested in another merger problem. This time it is a hybrid plant which at the roots is putting forth potatoes and above the ground several well-developed tomatoes. It was produced at the state experiment station by grafting a tomato vine to a potato plant.

The Kasson Republican reports a miraculous escape from instant death:

A newspaper man in Duluth had a narrow escape from death recently. His life was barely saved by a dollar which, curious to relate, was in his pocket at the time and turned the bullet of the would-be assassin. It is sad to reflect, in connection with this, how many members of the craft are wholly unprotected.

This domestic tragedy is reported from Indiana:

There is a small boy who has given occasion for all kinds of domestic furores, and there are strained relations in the household where he exists, with haunting visions of divorce courts, alimony and grass widows in the background. He was being prepared for bed, and was distributing kisses among those present. "Aren't you going to kiss me?" asked the new hired girl, who has far more than a suspicion of prettiness. "Well, I guess not," responded the youthful cherub, "not after the way I saw you step on this morning." And that speech has put a coldness in the home that will take the place of a refrigerator all summer.

The Fairmont Sentinel's Lake Breezes whisper:

Love is a monopoly but not always a trust.

Exercise is hard work that you enjoy, while work is exercise you don't like.

The truly good woman is the one who can hold a hot lamp chimney and repeat the Lord's prayer at the same time.

It does not take long or much of an effort for a man to get into a peck of trouble with a woman, but it may take a long time and a bushel of money for him to get out.

There is joy in the fellow who is slow pay after all. One goes without his stuff so long he gets used to it, then when the man does pay it is just like finding money in the road.

A Mississippi man sent the following letter in answer to a matrimonial advertisement:

I notice my photograf with My Full Description. It shows the features as nachel as can hee only it is to Dark; I am very lite Complexion, Gray eyes, Orbon hair, 6 foot high, weight 190 Lbs. inclined to be hungy-shouldered; A Mustcher Man and a widower 28 years old, with A Common School Equastions, but hav Got Anof to Attee to Enny Business. I am Strictly Morrel. Don't use Tobacco Nor Whiskey.

He is anxious to have her understand that her

Age, Complexchions, wait, and All Suits me to atee, Kind Loving Girl, I have Only One Thing to Offer. And it is Neither Lands Nar Gold, But a Strong Arm and True Hart and will Lay Down My Life for the Rite Girl and Be happy, for I am tired of living Alone. The Girl that Steels my Hart and takes my Name for the Remainder of My Life I will make Happy, for i am Hunting a Girl that I can Idelize and Make a Angle of. !

THE LADY AND THE OCTOPUS.

HOW SHE FROZE HIM.

"Hear me, Miss Agnes," pleaded the sighing swain. "I am intoxicated with my love for you. I assure you—"

"How can you be intoxicated," asked Miss Agnes, in calm, doubting tones, "if you haven't got a skate on?"—Chicago Tribune.

NO DANGER.

Doctor—You afraid I made a mistake in that last prescription I sent over.

Druggist—That's all right, Doc. I couldn't read it, anyhow, so I gave the man a mixture of my own.—Chicago Tribune.

A Profitable Monopoly.

Nearly all the shoes sold in Russia are manufactured by a St. Petersburg firm, which is one of the most prosperous stock companies in the world.

TIP FOR HIM TO GO HOME.

Edith Hints—You must not play with Mr. Doren's new hat, Willie.

Willie—Why not?

Edith Hints—You might hurt it or lose it, and he'll want it in a few minutes.—Chicago Journal.

DIDN'T WANT VARIETY.

Johnson—Will you have another drink?

Johnstein—No; I'll take the same.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County—ss. Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co. doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that the said firm will pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall Catarrh Cure.

Frank J. Cheney.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December A. D. 1886. A. W. Gleason,

(Seal) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O.

Sold by all druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE

THE KANE EXPEDITION IN SEARCH OF FRANKLIN. Find Dr. Elisha Kent Kane.

Sir John Franklin left England in 1845 with an expedition in search of the north pole. For a number of years the expedition was unheard of and its fate unknown. Two expeditions sailed from the United States in search of the explorers, the second of these being the Grinnell expedition, under the direction of Dr. Elisha Kent Kane, which sailed on May 31, 1853. After it had been absent two winters fear was entertained for its safety, and a relief expedition was sent after it. The explorers were found at Lisbon settlement on the coast of Greenland, which they had reached after traveling in open boats for over 1,300 miles, after their ship and her crew had become frozen in by the ice. No news was brought back by them of the fate of Franklin and his party.

Answer to last week's puzzle—Right side down, small head above large door

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 22

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	twp. or blk	Year of which tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No Day	Yr	Amt sold for to perch's assn	Amt paid for to redeem at date of Auditor's certf.	Amt required to redeem at this office
First National Bank of Crookston, Minnesota	Crocker, Cutler & Nelson's add to the Village of Hilaire	9	152	1900	$ .06	Feb	16 1903	$ .25	$ .73	$ 1.04

TOTAL ..... $ 3.22

To FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CROOKSTON, MINN:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minn. }

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amounts for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 30th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

323-327

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 27

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
Hans O Bygd	Crocker, Cutler & Nelson's add to the Village of Hilaire	5	152	1900	$ .07	Feb	16	1903	$ .51	$ 1.71

To HANS O. BYGD:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minn. }

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcel or parcel of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 30th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

823-827 (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	Twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
A. A. Lidebore	Kretzchmar's add to Red Lake Falls	17	153	1900	$ .55	May	22	1902	$1.30	$1.52

To A. A. LIDEBORE

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 3rd day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

323-327 (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 1

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	Twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
Louis Zeh	Kretzchmar's add to Red Lake Falls	7	153	1900	$ .55	May	22	1902	$ 1.30	$ 1.52

TOTAL ..... $ 2.82

To LOUIS ZEH:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcel or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 3rd day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

323-327 (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 2

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	Twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
Frederick Buse	Kretzchmar's add to Red Lake Falls	3	21	1900	$ .55	May	22	1902	$ 1.30	$ 1.52
		4	21		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		5	21		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		6	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		7	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		12	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		13	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		14	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		15	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		16	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		1	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		2	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		3	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		4	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		5	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		6	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		7	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		8	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		9	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		10	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		11	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		12	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		3	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		4	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		9	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		10	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		11	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		12	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52

TOTAL ..... $ 69.54

To FREDERICK BUSE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota. }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 3rd day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

323-327

Order for Hearing Petition for Conservator.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE. } ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 13, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of L. M. Hammer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Lidebore praying that he be appointed conservator of the estate of said deceased and that he be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate from the said deceased to Lisbeth settlement on the coast of Greenland, which they had reached Lisbeth settlement on the coast of Greenland, which they had reached after traveling in open boats for over 1,300 miles, after their ship and her crew had become frozen in by the ice. No news was brought back by them of the fate of Franklin and his party.

Answer to last week's puzzle—Right side down, small head above large door

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 22

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
First National Bank of Crookston, Minnesota	Crocker, Cutler & Nelson's add to the Village of Hilaire	9	152	1900	$ .06	Feb	16	1903	$ .25	$ 1.04

TOTAL ..... $ 3.22

To FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CROOKSTON, MINN:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minn. }

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amounts for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 30th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

323-327 (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 27

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
Hans O Bygd	Crocker, Cutler & Nelson's add to the Village of Hilaire	5	152	1900	$ .07	Feb	16	1903	$ .51	$ 1.71

To HANS O. BYGD:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minn. }

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcel or parcel of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 30th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

823-827 (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	Twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
A. A. Lidebore	Kretzchmar's add to Red Lake Falls	17	153	1900	$ .55	May	22	1902	$1.30	$1.52

To A. A. LIDEBORE

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 3rd day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

323-327 (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 1

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	Twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
Louis Zeh	Kretzchmar's add to Red Lake Falls	7	153	1900	$ .55	May	22	1902	$ 1.30	$ 1.52

TOTAL ..... $ 2.82

To LOUIS ZEH:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcel or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 3rd day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

323-327 (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 2

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec or lot	Twp. or blk	Year of which taxes tax levied	Amt sold for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER No	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purch'r.	Amt paid for to redeem at date of this notice
Frederick Buse	Kretzchmar's add to Red Lake Falls	3	21	1900	$ .55	May	22	1902	$ 1.30	$ 1.52
		4	21		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		5	21		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		6	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		7	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		12	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		13	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		14	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		15	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		16	22		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		1	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		2	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		3	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		4	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		5	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		6	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		7	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		8	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		9	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		10	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		11	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		12	23		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		3	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		4	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		9	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		10	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		11	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52
		12	24		.55		22	1902	1.30	1.52

TOTAL ..... $ 69.54

To FREDERICK BUSE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota. }

You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums, that the above described real estate has become and now is the Absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 102 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale is as above stated, that the time for redemption from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 3rd day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

323-327

Order for Hearing Petition for Conservator.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE. } ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, April 13, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of L. M. Hammer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Lidebore praying that he be appointed conservator of the estate of said deceased and that he be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate from the said deceased to Lisbeth settlement on the coast of Greenland, which they had reached after traveling in open boats for over 1,300 miles, after their ship and her crew had become frozen in by the ice. No news was brought back by them of the fate of Franklin and his party.

make a decree authorizing and directing the said administrator, to convey such real estate to said petitioner as the parties entitled thereto.

It is Ordered, That the hearing thereof in said estate, may appear before this Court, at a special term thereof to be held on the 13th day of May, A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock forenoon at the Probate Office in the Court House in the village of Red Lake Falls, in said County, and show cause why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is Further Ordered, that this Order shall be published once in each week, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., on the 13th day of April 1903.

By the Court,
K. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

818-30

T. L. BLOOD & CO.'S
READY-MIXED
HOUSE, BARN, FLOOR, CARRIAGE AND WAGON
PAINTS
WILL GIVE YOU SATISFACTION
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
St. Paul, Minn.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER

RIVAL AND EPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 11:30 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 11:05 a. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 7:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 12:00 m until 1:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train day and by stage Sundays
E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me.

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds.
Court Bonds. Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DON'T BE FOOLED
Advertisments having appeared in various publications wherein Sears, Roebuck & Co., offer Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines, we wish to warn the public that they are not our authorized agents and that we do not sell our machines to them nor any other catalogue house or department store.
These advertisements are not for the purpose of promoting the sale of our machines. They are using our reputation as makers of the highest grade machines only, in order to get the names of possible buyers and persuade them to purchase one of their cheap STENCILED MACHINES, the manufacturers of which they are, evidently, ashamed to make public.
If you want a genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, do not waste your time writing to anyone who is unable to furnish it. The genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, made by us and backed by our warranty, is for sale by our authorized dealers only. When you buy a Wheeler & Wilson, you get a machine that is a machine, backed by a reputation of 50 years' unparalleled success.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133. I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING. VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
P. A. Whitelaw, H. Hogarth, Wm. Schneider, N. G. Sec'y.
V. G.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. It is a Nerve, Liver and Kidney Tonic. Sold on each package. Price, 35 cents. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitute. Ask your druggist.
INCORPORATED 1898

OUT THEY GO
NORTH COUNTY, North Dakota, 320 well timbered loam soil 10 obey foreclosure, 30 choice relinquishments, 160 acres, 3 miles from town, 2 miles to R. R. town, $1,000. Terms to suit. Deeds free. Profits about six months in time. Circumstances will better an Elgin priest. Farms from $7 to $12 per acre. Growing land 40 to 60, 160 acres Free Homesteads in Montana. Write for descriptive circulars. Mailed free of charge. We have no agents or fees.
Wm. F. Brown & Co.
Mandan, N. Dak., or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

TOT.

There she is, in angel guise,
Heavenly beauty in her eyes;
Hair a-gilin like burnished gold,
And lips rare in hue and mould;
Tiny hands, we white and fair,
Nought with them can we compare—
That's Tot!

Three above, and two below,
O what teeth can baby show!
When she gives that gurgling cry
All must kiss her, passing by.
Though her little form will sway,
Swift she runs in eager play—
That's Tot!

Tangling spool and skein and ball,
Meeting paper from the mail;
Nothing pass'th with name she;
Venturesome as she can be;
Tilting, rising in her chair,
Elf of mischief everywhere—
That's Tot!

Still of home the light and joy,
However'er she may annoy.
Ah! we're willing, guessed we yet,
Any scrimping, pinched yet,
All delights to own her away,
Love her better every day—
Our Tot.
—George Bancroft Griffith, in N. Y. Observer.

A Good Deal of a Bear Hunt

The Man From the Knob Country Tells What Happened.

"I was considerable of a bear hunt," I said the man from the Knob country, "but I've an idea that Uncle Si didn't judge Pete so consarned hasty, after all.

"We hadn't gone two miles up the creek when Joe met Pete comin' down along it like a hurricane. He hadn't no hat on, and he was lookin' wild. We had all we could do to head him off and stop him, so as we could find out what was the matter.

"The woods is full and runnin' over with em,' Pete hollers, as soon as he could git some wind. 'I stood and counted 11 old sockers possin' a given p'int, and then natur' give way. I couldn't stand it no longer. I broke and run. How many more than 11 there was I couldn't stop to git the figgers on!' he hollers.

"Pete was a feller that tarried consid'rable at the applejack, and he had been sayin' consid'rber than usual at it' late, and Uncle Si knowed it. So when Pete got through hollerin' about the sight he had seen in the woods Uncle Si fishes his pint bottle out o' his pocket and hands it over to Pete, and Pete takes a swig that was amazin'.

"'Now, Peter,' says Uncle Si, 'do you see 'em now?' 'Cause Uncle Si had his idee about the state o' Pete's nerves.

"'See 'em now?' says Pete, and there was water runnin' out o' his eyes as from the bite o' Uncle Si's receperator. 'No,' he says. 'It was a mile up the creek, yonder, that I see 'em,' he says.

"'Did they seem like they was nateliers,' says Uncle Si, 'or did they look like only per ordinary every-day sarpents?' says he.

"'Sarpents,' says Pete. 'Great Hickory Jackson,' he says. 'I hain't been seein' sarpents. It's bear I been seein'! Eleven old seckers possin' a given p'int, and I don't know how many more fellers' 'em,' he says.

"'Worse and worse!' says Uncle Si. 'When a feller gits to seein' bears enemies' in droves, Peter, it's gettin' along to'rd time that he took an all-pervadin' sweat-off, and—'

"Uncle Si didn't say no more, 'cause jest then there come a snort from up the bank on one side o' the creek, and a snort from up the bank on t'other side o' the creek, and the snorts came from two slammin' big bears that was stickin' their heads through the bar'ers, where they had been listenin' to the boll comfab between Uncle Si and Pete.

"Pete he give one yell and tore on down the creek jest like he was tearin' when we headed him off, and before one or Uncle Si or any of us could whimp'ary at either o' the bears they was gone. I looked at Uncle Si, and Uncle Si looked at me.

"'Bears, like as if I mowt 'a' been jedgin' Peter a leetle hasty,' says he.

"'Yes,' I says. 'It looked that-a-way. I guess he seen 'em,' I says.

"Then Simon's Abe got relaxed that his army was goin' to give him a spell, and he started back to'ber his fast, so as to git there before the spell catched him. That left only me and Uncle Si and Joe and Sam and Ebi and young Mose and Evander and Patsy's Bob, and we marched on.

"Uncle Si sent young Mose and Ebi up in the barrels, one on one side o' the creek and one on t'other, while the rest of us loitered along below. We hadn't marched far before young Mose heerd a rustlin' in the thick brush, and he whangs away at it. Kerthump-ty-thump down the bank out o' the brush rolls Ebi's bear dog Socky, that Ebi thinks he's took no fifty dollars for, and he lands in the creek, deader than if he'd been plowed a week.

"'Mose,' says Ebi, most a-cryin', 'there'll be mournin' to my house to-night, worse'n when the daughters o' Bob'lon hung their harps on the willers!' says he.

"'Cause the dog Socky was as good at runnin' the chariun' machine as he was at runnin' bear, and Ebi's old woman was always peppery when Ebi took him huntin'.

"I don't know what young Mose was goin' to answer back, for before he had a chance to answer anything, two bears came tearin' out o' the brush jest to'rend Ebi and pitched and rolled down the bank. Ebi banged away after 'em, but the bears got away in the laurels at the bottom. A bunch o' fur and a few spatterin's o' blood showed that Ebi had hit one of 'em.

"Then Sam he remembered that he was goin' to have company for dinner, and he had to hurry back home. We all sot in to sort o' console Ebi for the loss o' his dog Socky, and while we was doin' of it Uncle Si suddenly hauled up and banged away up the creek at somethin'.

"We heard a howl, and then somethin' went smashin' and dashin' on up the creek, though we couldn't see what it was for the thick laurels. Uncle Si had just begun to tell us that it was a bear, and that he only see one of its eyes as the bear was peepin' out o' the brush, when some one from up that way hollered:

"'Ill, down there! What in Sam Hill you doin'? That was my bear, and I've been followin' it more'n ten miles! What you jumpin' in and skeerin' it away for?'

"Close onto that holerin' the man that made it came breakin' out o' the laurels. It was Old Jake, and he was madder than wildcats. I guess mebbe there'd a been quite some hot squabblin' betwixt him and Uncle Si if just then we hadn't heerd two shots beyond the laurels, and we all hurried on to see what was up; all but Joe, who didn't heed that he had gone home, and so he had to turn and go back home.

"Beyond the laurels who should we come out on to but Gabe and Josh, holdin' their guns in their hands and lookin' skeert.

"'Thurz come a-tumblin' out o' them laurels like bees out of a hive!' says Gabe. 'They went over the hill and down into the ligley pasture a-shitin'. I don't know how many me and Josh filled with lead, but I seen one o' 'em humpy himself and sort o' fall behind the rest and look tired.'

"Then Evander spoke up and said that he'd be durned if he was goin' to tote on behind a lot of bears without gittin' a chance to have a shot at 'em, and so he'd go back home.

"'Mose's likely thunk he's a good idea for you, Evander,' says Uncle Si, 'for the chances is that the bears have circled round and gone back to the creek agin,' he says, 'and you can't help but run agin two or three of 'em on your way in,' he says.

"So Evander said he didn't want to take no setch advantage as that of a party like our'n, and he stayed with us.

"We went down to the holler and s'arched and scouted and s'arched, but we couldn't git track o' that drove o' bears, nowhow. By and by we heerd some one holleriri and yellin' for help, off in a little swamp. He wanted help 'cause he was treed by a bear, he hollered, and all of us but Patsy's Bob hurried over there to help him.

"Patsy's Bob said he'd be consarned if he hadn't lost his pocketbook comin' down to the holler, and he must go back and look for it. I guess he mistad a had a hard time a findin' of it, 'cause he hadn't got back yet when we left.

"The feller in the tree was young Ike. A big bear was at the foot of the tree, sure enough, but I see to once that he was deader'n a milestone.

"'Him and another one come tearin' in here,' says young Ike, comin' down on to' the tree, lookin' sheepish, 'and I skinned up this tree. Tother bear went on, but this un squatted right at the foot o' the tree, and I thought he was treenin' me, and waitin' fer me to tumble out,' says young Ike.

"Old Jake come up and down that the dead bear was the one he had chased too soon. Uncle Si declared it didn't make no difference whether Jake had chased the bear ten mile or twenty, it was the bear he'd sent his rifle bullet into up in the laurels along the creek, or it wouldn't be laying there dead like it was.

"Ebi reckoned that the bear was one that would be alive and well yet if he hadn't sent that charge of lead into it just after young Mose had shot the bear dog Socky, and Gabe and Josh wanted to bet all they was worth that the bear was one that had humped itself and got tired after Gabe and Josh had banged away into the drove of bears up on the hill.

"So that's what must a' happened by and by if Big Jim, from Bull Hill, hadn't come along with a gun on his shoulder.

"'You'll find a load o' buckshot in that bear's flank,' says he, 'and not any other cause o' head,' he says. 'The buckshot slid out o' this here gun o' mine about half an hour ago, over yander in the swamp,' he says.

"Then that bear was shot in the bear —a big load o' buckshot in its liver, and nothin' else. Big Jim took the bear, and we came home. It was consider'ble o' a bear hunt, but I've got an idea that Uncle Si don't judge Pete consarned hasty that mornin' after all."—N. Y. Sun.

SYSTEM OF TIP SIGNALS.

Chalk Marks Used by London Hotel Servants to Reveal Liberality of Guests.

Notwithstanding all denials from hotel managers on the continent regarding reprehensible trade by the tourists of systematic signaling by means of chalk marks on luggage passed between servants between hotel and hotel as to the value of tips, the charge holds good, for a few days ago a spondent writes to Mr. Labouchere of Truth that he has seen inquiries that there is no doubt such a system is in existence. "The moral of which is," says Mr. Labouchere, "if you have not been overgenerous to the servants keep off the chalk marks and you may go on your luggage, after leaving any hotel."

Unique Explanation.

A legislator of Charlton county, Mo., makes the following unique explanation of his presence in the legislature: "I was born under a tobacco leaf. I grew up between the corn rows, and I've got my share of hard, tack and pork. Now, by gingers! I've a thousand acres of the best land in Charlton county, and I thought I would like to get out among the boys some. I guessed I could be elected, and I was!"

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VA LLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID BUILDING AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering them at a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and sell more farms to suit the purchaser than any other real estate dealer in the Red River Valley. INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. We make it easier for you to have that in your own pocket

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley, and will at this time call your attention to the following your scrip to acquire land at less than its actual worth and on long time. Such lands are in improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are close at hand. This will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 will handle this proposition. It can be paid for in scrip, or cash, as you may desire. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,
BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.
STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
COUNTY OF RED LAKE. }
In Probate Court
Special Term, April 16, 1903.
In the Matter of the Estate of Mary Jane Lovig, deceased.
Letters testamentary on the estate of Mary Jane Lovig, late of said county, having been issued to Andrew Lovig and Thomas Lovig, being named in said letters as executors.
It is Ordered, That three months be and the same are hereby allowed for creditors of said deceased to present their claims for examination and allowance, and that said executors shall report to this court the claims presented for examination and allowance, or so much thereof as may be proved and allowed, within said time.
It is Further Ordered, That the 16th day of July, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m., at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate Office in the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said county, be and the same is hereby appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine, hear and adjust said claims and demands.
And it is further ordered, that notice of said hearing be given by publication of this order in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., this 16th day of April, 1903.
By the Court.
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.
(SEAL)
April 23-3t

Order for Hearing Proof of Will.
STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE. } ss.
In Probate Court
Special Term, April 21, 1903.
In the Matter of the Estate of Silvia Anderson, deceased.
On reading and filing the petition of Ole Anderson, praying for the probate of a certain instrument, and for the issuance of letters testamentary thereon to Frederick W. Ingalls, as executor, as in said petition is more fully set forth.
And Whereas, It appears to the Court that the said instrument should be proved, and that letters testamentary thereon should be issued to said executor.
It is Ordered, That the proofs of said instrument, and of said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate Office in said County, on the 16th day of May, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m. in the forenoon, when all persons interested may appear for, or contest the probate of said instrument.
It is Further Ordered, That notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, Pennington county.
Dated at Red Lake Falls this 21st day of April A. D. 1903.
By the court.
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.
(SEAL)
April 23-3t

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale by Advertisement.
DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE payment of certain mortgages executed and delivered by Ole Nelson, Jr., and Ida Nelson, his wife, mortgagors, to E. D. Hagler, mortgagee, dated the 2nd day of April, A. D. 1902, and filed April 2nd, 1902, and recorded as a mortgage in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Red Lake, in the State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of April, A. D. 1902, at 10 o'clock A. M., in Book U of Mortgages, on page 140, on the west half of the south east quarter and the east half of the south west quarter of section 1, in township 151 north of range 44 west, with the interest thereon, and costs and expenses of sale, and Fifty dollars attorney's fee provided for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.
The premises described in said mortgage, and

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN
Oil Stove,
Refrigerator or Ice Cream
freezer
You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of
Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages
Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils
FRANK E. HUNT
HARDWARE DEALER.
No trouble to show goods.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.
What it Means
to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.
Best terms and lowest rates on farm loans. List your farms with us.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

are to be sold, are the lot, piece or parcel of land situate in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit:
The south east qtr (SE) of the northeast quarter (NE) of section (1), and the southwest one-fourth (1) of the northeast quarter (NE) of section (1) and the west one-half (1/2) of the southeast quarter (SE) of section (1) and the west one-half (1/2) of the southwest quarter (SW) of section (1), all in township one hundred and fifty-four (154) north of range forty-five (45).
Dated March 24, 1903.
E. D. HAGLER,
Mortgagee.
ALBERT JOHNSON,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
4-23-5t

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Evening at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

For several days this week Spring showed a decided disinclination to leave Winter's lap.

N. S. GORDEN, of the Crookston Journal, has been re-appointed as a member of the state board of equalization.

MR. WARE has learned that one good way to become unpopular in a hurry is to get appointed pension commissioner.

IT it is really true that man and wife are one it doesn't always take two to make a quarrel. Thus another familiar axiom is proved to have its exceptions.

PEOPLE like to patronize a store that has a reputation for enterprise. Merchants should not overlook the fact that advertising has a power beyond its direct results.

WITHIN a month the telegraph system of Alaska will be complete and by fall the cable connecting Seattle with Juneau and the far north will be in operation.

THE country will not be satisfied with the investigation of the postal scandal unless President Roosevelt says, like Grant in a similar crisis, "Let no guilty man escape."

PRESIDENT LOUBET'S fatigue after a round of banquets and receptions is natural for a man of his age, but what does he think of the tour that the American president is making?

THE trial of ex-Mayor Ames commenced Monday morning at Minneapolis and it is expect that at least two weeks' time will be consumed in hearing the evidence and arguments.

THE spectacle of Mark Hanna posing as the friend of the laboring man is calculated to incite the suspicion that the old boy wouldn't try to dodge the presidential lightning after all.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR LEE of Missouri having resigned in the face of a charge of boodling, his statement to the public has the air of a confession. His fall is a warning to boodlers everywhere.

AS YOUNG Rockefeller has been over in Mexico and throwing gold at the Greasers we may expect another advance in the price of oil. The people are always expected to pay for Rockefeller beneficence.

THE general laws passed by the state legislature at its late session are circulated in supplement form with this week's issue. It is a good idea to lay this supplement away for future reference. It is not unlikely that you may have occasion to refer to it.

THE rush of homeseekers to North western Minnesota is unabated. There is general satisfaction, too, in the fact that prudentially all of them are actual farmers who are buying homes. The census of 1905 will show a tremendous growth in this section of the state.

EDITOR LAMBERT, of Preston, gives his reputation for horse sense a severe jolt in proposing Ray Jones for governor. It is incredible that the people of Minnesota want the lumber trust in the saddle, and if they did there are a scoreof more desirable representatives than Mr. Jones.

CHARLES A. TOWNE thinks it is about time for the warring factions in the Democratic party to bury the hatchet and labor for the principles at stake today. This is sensible advice. The Democratic party needs recruits and it ought not be necessary for any man to be subjected to an inquisition to prove his right to support the ticket.

THE COURIER'S esteemed contemporary has left only one point of superiority—even at its own estimate. THE COURIER does not belong to the newspaper trust, and hence does not print the official proceedings of the county board. However, THE COURIER prints the news, and if the county board does anything of interest to the taxpayers it is always published—often three or four weeks in advance of the official proceedings.

THAT is a princely offer which Andrew Carnegie has made to Holland—the offer of a million and a half to construct a permanent building for the international court of arbitration at The Hague. It is to be excepted that the offer will be accepted. It should be refused if Holland certainly has much to gain and nothing to lose. The whole world will be benefited by this latest exhibition of Carnegie generosity.

THE explosion in the storage room of the Northwestern Star Oil works at Minneapolis last week, in which three men were burned to death and in the twinkling of an eye, is one of the most frightful catastrophes of the year. However it should be a lesson to state and municipal governments, and laws should be enacted prohibiting the housing of people in buildings wherein vast quantities of explosive oils are stored. It would seem that somebody was at fault in this case, for the danger must have been apparent long ago.

GENERAL MILES has made public a part of his report relating to the conduct of the war in the Philippines. Gross cruelty in the treatment of reconcentrados by American soldiers is charged. In numerous instances Filipinos have been tortured and burned to death, and it is related that more than a thousand of our "wards" have died from the results of cruel and inhuman treatment. How well we remember that the war against Spain was commenced in the cause of humanity and as a protest against the inhuman treatment of Cuban soldiers by the Spaniards.

ALEXANDER RAMSEY, first governor of Minnesota territory, afterwards governor of the state, secretary of war and United States senator, died at his home in St. Paul last Thursday. Governor Ramsey was born in Pennsylvania in 1815, and came to Minnesota in 1849 as territorial governor, and by treaties with the Sioux opened 40,000,000 acres of land to settlement. When the state government was organized Governor Ramsey took a prominent part in the deliberations of the constitutional convention and was elected governor in 1860. He was active in organizing the state's military forces for service during the period of civil strife and in 1863 was elected United States senator, being re-elected in 1869.

"One of my horses was badly kicked on the hip," writes F. F. Lane, Minneapolis, Minn., "and the flesh sore away from the bone, but Coke's Veterinary Carbolisalve soon healed it as sound as ever without a scar." Guaranteed to cure wihout scars. 50c and $1.00. Sold by all druggists.

Notice.

Having sold my flour and feed store to Tibbitts & Davison, together with book accounts, I desire to notify parties owing me to pay the accounts to Tibbitts & Davison, instead. All these accounts draw interest after 30 days. M. A. Hatten, Red Lake Falls, April 16, 1903.

The Nickel Plate Road

is the short line to the east and the service equal to the best. You will save time and money by traveling over this line. It has three through daily express trains, with through vestibuled sleeping cars, and American club meals, ranging in price from 35c. to $1.00, are served in Nickel Plate dining cars; also a la carte service. Try a trip over the Nickel Plate road and you will find the service equal to any between Chicago and the east.

Chicago depot: Harrison St. and Fifth Ave. city ticket offices 111 Adams St. and Auditorium Annex. John Y. Calahan, General agent, 113 Adams St. Room 298, Chicago. Phone Central 2057. 1036

8 Cents

Eight cents a pound is what a young woman paid for twelve pounds of flesh.

She was thin and weak and paid one dollar for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, and by taking regular doses had gained twelve pounds in weight before the bottle was finished.

Eight cents a pound is cheap for such valuable material. Some pay more, some less, some get nothing for their money. You get your money's worth when you buy Scott's Emulsion.

We will send you a little free.

SCOTT & BOWNE, CHEMISTS,
409 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

TAMED KING'S LIONS.

The Beasts of Menelek of Abyssinia Trained by Julius Seeth.

In the Presence of the Ruler, the Animal-Trainer Enters Cage of Ferocious Beasts and Makes Them Docile as Kittens.

Julius Seeth, whose remarkable performance in a cage with 31 lions is attracting much attention, has had many remarkable experiences, but what he regards as the most extraordinary was his appearance before King Menelek at the latter's court in Abyssinia. In talking of his experiences Seeth said:

"After my presentation to the emperor, he said to the prime minister: 'Show me the lions.' So we went round to a little house where the lions were, and the prime minister said to the doorkeeper: 'Open the door; this gentleman wants to see the lions.' The doorkeeper said: 'I can't open the door, they are too ferocious.'

"I opened the door and looked in and saw all the lions lying down. When they saw me they got up and shook off into one corner.

"I noticed that, but I did not notice that the emperor had followed us and was standing behind me. I opened the lower part of the door and walked in among the lions. I stayed there about five minutes and then came out. The emperor was astonished.

"Then his majesty shook hands with me and invited me into the palace to have breakfast with him. Later the prime minister came and said the king had asked if I would train a lion to do some little thing—not much. I chose three lions, and in 11 days had trained them to do the, see-saw, to lie down, to stand on a pedestal and to jump over my leg.

"Then I went and told the prime minister that I had got a little thing ready, and next morning the king came, and the lions do their tricks, and was so astonished that he gave me the best decoration ever given to a European, a large cuff made of gold and covered with precious stones.

"The value of an untrained lion is from $250 to $1,250. When they are trained they are worth more. If you were to put $10,000 down on that table I would not sell you my pet, Menelek—he is so intelligent and good natured and understands every word I say.

"I find it best to feed the lions myself and do most things for them. In the morning immediately after breakfast I go in to see how they are and brush them down. They are very jealous creatures, and if I pet Menelek too much the others become unhappy, so that I have to go and pat them, too, to show them it is all right. Altogether I have trained 300."

THROWN TO THE WOLVES.

Mob, Seeking to Save Self, Is Removed While Wife and Child Escape in a Miraculous Way.

A strange story comes from the village of Zerovanka, Russia. Wolves have been particularly abundant there this year. A father, mother, and child were driving in a sleigh when they were overtaken by wolves. The father, seeing that situation was desperate, suggested to the mother that they throw the child out, and that while the wolves were satisfying themselves with its body they might escape.

This the mother resolutely refused to do. The father, becoming desperate as the wolves were closing in, seized the woman and child and threw them out of the sleigh. By a miracle they tumbled into a ditch hidden by the snow. The wolves swept past where the woman and child lay, and a moment later had torn the horse and man to pieces. The woman, after awhile, emerged from her place of refuge. The wolves had gone and she and her child reached their village to tell the tale of their strange escape.

FINE AUTOMOBILE RUN.

Party of Frenchmen Go from Madrid to Biarritz in Fifteen Hours.

A fine automobile run from Madrid to Biarritz was made at the end of last week by Duque Arlon and Marquis de Vinas, who accomplished the distance in 15 hours. They gave very good reasons for the condition of the roads.

Comte de Planel, who recently drove from Madrid to Paris in an automobile purchased a new 16 horse power Mors Tonneau, with which he returned to the Spanish capital in 36½ days. The journey was made without a single hitch, despite the wretched weather during the last 48 hours.

A recent Sunday on the Place Pereire a dog was seen taking the air on an automobile with a pair of chauffeur's goggles to protect his eyes from the dust. With all the solemnity of a spectacled sage, the intelligent brute appeared to appreciate the attention of which he was the object.

New Cause for Appendicitis.

A startling theory has been advanced that appendicitis may be caused by drinking medicine or water that has stood some time in a glass vessel. This theory is a sequel to the recent discovery that glass is not insoluble, as has been believed. An English medical journal has proved by observation and experiment that pure water left in a glass bottle for some time will be found to contain a small percentage of alkali and a slight deposit of silica.

Might Have Offered More.

When Mr. Rockefeller draws $8,000,000 in a single dividend, says the Kansas City Journal, it looks as if his offer of a million for a new stomach was a trifle parsimonious.

FIND GENUINE NEW STAR.

The Recent Discovery of Prof. Turner Proves to Be More Important Than First Supposed.

A telegram announcing the discovery of a new star of the eighth magnitude by Prof. Turner, of Oxford, was received in the Yerkes observatory the other day. A spectroscope examination of the star with the 40-inch Yerkes telescope was made by Director Hale and Mr. Ellerman. With a direct vision spectroscope several strong bright lines, of which the red hydrogen line was most conspicuous, were seen on the rather faint continuous spectrum. From the character of the spectrum there can be little doubt that the object is a genuine "new star" and not a "variable," as was suggested in the telegram announcing the discovery. Special apparatus is being prepared in the hope of photographing the spectrum.

Prof. Barnard's observation with the 40-inch telescope shows that the focus for the nova, which is very red in color, is the same as for an ordinary star. His micrometrical measure of the nova gives the following position: Right ascension, 5 hours 37 minutes 49.07 seconds; declination, north 30 degrees 2 minutes 37.6 seconds for 1900. This shows the star to lie a short distance from the milky way, almost on the boundary line between the constellations Gemini and Auriga.

Mr. Pohlkotter measured the brightness of the nova with the 12-inch telescope and found the magnitude to be eight and five-tenths. The new star is therefore much too faint to be seen with the naked eye.

A photographic plate with the two foot reflector by Mr. Pease showed no nebulosity near the nova, but the exposure was necessarily too short to decide the question.

FORTUNE LEFT A STRANGER.

Eccentric Bequest Made by a Wealthy Toper Near the City of Paris.

The family of Jean Durand, an eccentric old inhabitant of Colombes, near Paris, who died at the age of 60, are contesting his will, which disinherits all his relatives and leaves over $100,000, including a fortune of over $100,000, to a resident of Nanterre, named Mme. Mendelle Blin.

The old man had amassed this sum partly by the sale of vegetables and partly by judicious loans and speculations. After his death a number of bonds were discovered under the straw in his stable. They consisted gold pieces to the value of $80,000. The fond of rubbing gold coins between his hands.

Far from being a miser, "Pere" Durand, as he was called, was generous in treating his friends, and loved to treat them drink at his expense. One comrade he sheltered for fifteen days, during which time the pair consumed a barrel of wine—55 gallons. When in liquor he was joyous company. On one occasion he and his companions to carry him through the streets on a table. He was also invested with the insignia of a mock mayor, and on the same day laid the foundation stone of a house at the end of his garden with solemn ceremonies.

Counsel for his heirs allege that he did not realize how he was doing when he made his strange will.

ATHEISM OF AARON BURR.

Rev. E. S. Holloway Charges Dr. Witherspoon with Having Been Responsible for It.

The atheism of Aaron Burr was charged to the famous Dr. Witherspoon, once president of Princeton university, by the Rev. E. S. Holloway in the Baptist ministers' conference in the Madison Avenue church, New York city, the other day.

"Dr. Witherspoon did a great deal of good in his life," he said, "but he did one thing that perhaps caused more harm than could be balanced by all the good he did. While he was president at Princeton there was a notable revival, and one of the most intelligent students, whose heart had been touched, went to Dr. Witherspoon for advice. The doctor told him that the revival was mere fanaticism. That student took a period to consider the matter and become a follower of Voltaire. With his ability he might have stood next to the father of his country in our history, but as he lived his life his name is detested as no other name in our annals save only that of Benedict Arnold. His name is Aaron Burr."

The Rev. George C. Lorimer, in his opening remarks, said:

"There are some learned and distinguished men in the pulpit to-day, men with several tails to their names, who hesitate to come out squarely and indorse evangelistic work. I say such men have no place in a Baptist pulpit."

Venice for Winter Residence.

In a certain coterie of English society there has been considerable talk about Venice becoming a favorite winter residence. Vanity Fair says a number of musical and artistic folk, among whom are Lady De Grey, Lady Leo Stuart, Baron and Baroness De Meyer, Lady Cole-Brook, Lord Ilchester, and others have taken the method of buying palaces and establishing a little colony in the City of the Doges.

Spring Millinery . . .

A MAGNIFICENT ARRAY of LADIES', MISSES' and CHILDREN'S HATS in newest Spring styles. Beautiful Veilings, Laces, Chiffons, &c. Prices always lowest.

FIRST DOOR NORTH OF POSTOFFICE

K. FORD

LOCAL MARKET REPORT.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company give us the following market quotations for to-day.

No. 1 hard wheat, 65½c.
No. 1 Northern, 64½c.
No. 2 Northern, 62½c.
No. 3 Northern, 60½c.
No. 4 Northern, 56½c.
Flax, 99c.
Oats, 28c.
Patent flour, $2.35.
Second patents, $2.25.
Bran, $14.00.
Shorts, $16.00.
Barley, 30c to 40c.

For Sale.

My house and lot, household furniture and numerous other articles. For particulars call on Mrs. A. Sleff.

$16.00 to Boston and Return, $10.00 with membership fee of $2.00 added, account of annual meeting of National Educational association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 2nd to 4th, inclusive, good returning from July 8th to 12th inclusive, without being deposited with joint agent. Additional limit to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c for extension. Superior train service and excellent dining car meals. American club plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. 1035

"By Our Loving Friends

Are we advertised," can be truthfully said of the finely equipped trains of the North Western Line, for every experienced globe-trotter you meet will unite with the people of the Northwest generally in commendation of the service afforded by this line, especially as to the North Western Limited between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago.

Clerks Want More Money.

The directors of a bank in Chicago think that no man should marry on a salary less than $1,000 a year. They have, therefore, informed their single clerks who get less than that sum that they must not marry. The clerks have requested higher pay.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Confusing.

The lecturers are always telling about the early bird getting the worm, as if it were a moral lesson. But they have nothing to say about the early worm, and how's a fellow to know whether he will be the early worm or the early bird? Philosophy is a shy game.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Subdivision of Section	Section	Township	Range	Amount of Tax	Amount of Interest	Amount of Penalty	Amount of Costs	Total Amount Required to Redeem
E. G. Holmes	Govt. lot 4	1	151	46	$ 58	$ 2	$ 2	$ 1	$ 63
	S½ of NE¼	23	152	46	58	2	2	1	63
	SE¼ of SW¼	23	152	46	58	2	2	1	63
	Lake Park	22	151	46	58	2	2	1	63
		24	151	46	58	2	2	1	63
Total					$ 290	$ 10	$ 10	$ 5	$ 315

TO E. G. HOLMES:

You are hereby notified that on the 3d day of May, A. D. 1900, in pursuance of a decree of the District Court of Ramsey county, in the State of Minnesota, in the 3d Judicial District, made and entered on the 2d day of March A. D. 1903, in an action wherein Peter Berkey was plaintiff and you were defendant, which decree was duly docketed in the office of the Clerk of said District Court of Ramsey county, in said State of Minnesota, on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1903, in Judgment Book 1 of said county, at page 1, the undersigned, Peter Berkey, of Minneapolis, in said county and State of Minnesota, was duly appointed referee in said action, and authorized to sell the premises described in said decree and in the Notice of Pendency of Action filed in said action, to satisfy the amount found due plaintiff by said decree, and in pursuance of said decree and authority I will sell the premises described in said decree and in said Notice of Pendency of Action, to-wit: All of Government Lot 4 in Section 1, Township 151, Range 46, and the SE¼ of the SW¼ of Section 23, Township 152, Range 46, and Lake Park, Section 22, Township 151, Range 46, and Section 24, Township 151, Range 46, all in Red Lake County, Minnesota, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, on the 15th day of May, A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the front door of the Court House in Red Lake Falls, in said Red Lake County, Minnesota, that being the place where the Court of said County is held, and the premises will be sold to satisfy the amount found due plaintiff by said decree, with interest thereon from the date of said decree, and costs, and the amount of taxes, interest, penalty and costs paid by plaintiff on said premises, with interest thereon from the date of payment, and costs of sale. The time allowed by law for redemption from said sale is one year from the date thereof, and the last day for redemption will expire one year from the day of said sale. Dated this 16th day of March, A. D. 1903.

PETER BERKEY, Referee.

(SEAL.) JAMES E. ROBB,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Take a Trip

Over the Nickel Plate road and be convinced of its superior train service. Solid through daily express trains between Chicago, Ft. Wayne, Fostoria, Fremont, Erie, Buffalo, New York City and Boston. American club meals, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00, served in Nickel Plate dining cars, also service a la carte. Rates always the lowest, excess fare charged on any train in the Nickel Plate road. Chicago depot Harrison St. and Fifth Ave. city ticket offices 111 Adams St. room 298, Chicago. Phone Central 2057. 1039

White Plymouth Rocks.

I have 50 choice White Plymouth Rock chickens, which I brought from Illinois. Will sell either for hatching during the season. Henry Gonigam.

Coughs, colds and all throat and lung diseases will quickly be cured under the counting effects of Coke's Cough Cure. It quickly relieves and cures in a day. Is also a great remedy for children. Guaranteed to satisfy. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Out To-day

Five Bandsomely appointed trains from the Twin Cities to Chicago via the

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway

The route preferred by the United States Government.

Electric Lighted Trains.

No. 6—DAY EXPRESS—Leaves St. Paul 8.30 a. m., arrives Chicago 9.25 p. m.

No. 58—FAST MAIL—Leaves St. Paul 9.20 a. m., arrives Milwaukee 12.20 a. m.

No. 56—FAST MAIL—Leaves St. Paul 7.45 p. m., arrives Chicago 8.40 a. m.

No. 4—PIONEER LIMITED—Leaves St. Paul 8.35 p. m., arrives Chicago 9.30 a. m.

No. 2—NIGHT EXPRESS—Leaves St. Paul 11.00 p. m., arrives Chicago 11.55 a. m.

Through Sleeping Cars Daily between St. Paul and Chicago. Additional sleeping car service between Minneapolis and Chicago.

For tickets, time cards and full information apply to

W. B. DIXON,
Northwestern Passenger Agent,
ST. PAUL, MINN.

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.
Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

☞ Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Cures Grip in Two Days.

Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature, E. W. Grove on every box. 25c.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete Line of Jewelry, Silverware, Watches Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

The Big Store has a new advertisement today in which are enumerated a tempting array of bargains in spring and summer goods.

H. G. Curran came up from Reynolds, North Dakota, with Prof. Smith Tuesday to spend a day or two looking over our city. Mr. Curran is proprietor of the Rockaway hotel at Reynolds.

Prospects are bright for organizing a Red River valley baseball league, to include Hallock, St. Vincent, Stephen, Argyle and Warren. Red Lake Falls ought to get busy and join this aggregation.

W. H. Fisher, of Forest City, Iowa, a nephew of V. M. Higinbotham, visited here last Friday on his way to Hoople, N. D., where he went to take charge of the Robertson Lumber company's branch yard.

Dr. Morley, the Crookston specialist, wishes to keep abreast of the progress in eye and ear diseases and to do so will attend the meeting of the American Medical association in New Orleans beginning May 5.

L. C. Simons and wife returned to Red Lake Falls Monday after a four months' absence, during which time they resided in Minneapolis while Mr. Simons was serving as a member of the Minnesota legislature.

The ladies society of St. Mary's church meet at the home of Mrs. Wm. Zaiser this afternoon. The drawing of the old organ of the church will take place at this meeting, the chances all having been disposed of.

For sale—I am offering my boarding house property for sale at a bargain; ground is 60x140; house has seventeen rooms, large kitchen, dining room and parlors. Write or apply to L. A. Dautremont, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

William Sampson, of Crookston, a brother of the deceased, will be appointed administrator of the estate of Sheriff Sampson, and all parties having accounts against the estate are requested to present them to him for adjustment.

Superintendent Newberry, of the Ely, Minn., public schools was a caller at this city Monday. Mr. Newberry's visit was to ascertain the quality of the work of several of the grade teachers with a view to offering them situations.

The Fergus Falls high school team won the state debating championship at St. Paul last week in a contest with the St. Paul Central high school. The Fergus debaters were Hans A. Hanson, Charles S Bayley and Caleb C. Hogan.

H. S. Williams of Emmettsburg, Iowa, was purchased the northwest quarter of 28, Red Lake Falls township, of L. A. Dautremont, the consideration being $4,100. Mr. Williams expects to move his family on the place during the summer.

Jens Saxum, a farmer living south of Fertile, was killed Monday by a bolt of lightning. He was passing through a field during a slight thunder storm. He was a wheat buyer at Twin Valley until recently and was twenty-nine years of age.

The Evangelical Methodists have leased the K. of P. hall in which to hold services, and meetings will hereafter be held at the usual hours each Sunday morning and evening. It is expected that an organization will be perfected in the near future.

A. R. Johnson will arrive from Chatfield next week to again take the position as yard man in the local yard of the Robertson Lumber company. Albert spent the summer here last year and made many friends who will be pleased to see him return.

The quarterly meeting of the Red River Valley Medical association was held at Crookston Tuesday evening. Dr. Lemieux of this city was on the program to lead the discussion on the paper, "Nursing and Medical Treatment of Typhoid Fever."

Rev. Andrew Walker returned Monday from Hallock, where he went last week to attend the meeting of the Adams presbytery. He reports that the gathering was a large and enthusiastic one, products of much good to those who attended.

Ole Mikkelson returned Friday from a ten days' trip to points in southern Minnesota. Mr. Mikkelson says that the weather has been very unfavorable throughout that section this spring and that the season is practically as far advanced here as there.

Ed Bray, the draryman, has recently purchased a complete outfit of appliances for moving pianos, and can now guarantee all work without scratch or mar to the instrument. Anyone wanting a piano moved should be sure to call on Mr. Bray. Call up 'phone 37. 2w

The new flouring mill at Crookston will start July 1. A meeting of the directors was held Monday and the following officers elected: Marcus Johnson, president; W. E. McKenzie, vice president, S. M. Sivertson, secretary, and A. D. Stephens, treasurer.

The Crookston Lumber company has on hand at its different mills a much larger stock of short lumber than it wants to carry. If you will call at its yard here, the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company, you will learn of some special bargains that are just now being offered.

The members of the local lodge of Knights of Pythias gave a "smoke social" at Savard's restaurant Saturday evening in honor of Hon. W. I. Nolan. After the luncheon Mr. Nolan entertained the Knights for an hour or more with his inimitable stories and character sketches.

Miss Elizabeth Collton, who has taught the third and fourth grades at the Washington school in this city for the past three years, has accepted a like position in the schools at Virginia City, and will take up her work there in the fall. She will take with her the best wishes of the Red Lake Falls people.

Weather permitting and no other unforseen complications arising, the base ball team will go from here to Thief River Saturday to open the season there by crossing bats with the ball tossers of that city. As neither team has been practicing a great deal an interesting contest may be looked forward to.

Seeding is about finished in Red Lake county. Although the spring was late, the excellent weather with which this section has been favored during the past few weeks has enabled the farmers to prosecute their work without interruption. The farmers of northern Minnesota feel hopeful over the crop outlook.

Misses Bertha and Laura Quesnelle gave a party Monday evening in honor of their brother, Walter, who returned from college a few days ago. About eighteen couples were present and music was furnished by George and Willie Quesnelle of Mentor. At 12 o'clock supper was served. All report a good time.

E. J. Druecker closed the doors of the Chance hotel yesterday, and in the afternoon left for St. Hilaire, where he assumes the management of Hotel Markham May 1. Mrs. Druecker expects to leave today for that place. The Drueckers are pleasant and worthy people, and we are pleased to commend them to the St. Hilaire folks.

Miss Jessie Mullin, who has been working at THE COURIER office during the past year, left Tuesday for Crookston, where she has accepted a position in the general offices of the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company. Miss Mullin is a capable lady and her many friends in Red Lake Falls will hope that she finds her new work agreeable.

George Harris of Warren, who was recently appointed court reporter by Judge Grindeland, had his left arm amputated Monday in the hospital at Crookston. Some time ago a cancerous growth appeared on the wrist and it was found that amputation was necessary. He expects to retain his position by getting someone to do the typewriting for him.

Harry Darlington, advance man for the "Thoroughbred Tramp" company, was here Monday and Tuesday doing the advertising for his company, who appear at the Metropolitan Monday evening. Mr. Darlington was greatly surprised to find such an elegant opera house here and said that in size and arrangement it is ahead of anything to be found in the smaller cities.

Mrs. Nick Helm has been steadily improving during the past two weeks, and is now considered out of danger. Dr. Dunlop of Crookston and a physician from Grand Forks assisted Dr. Watson in performing another operation Monday. Mrs. Helm has undergone a long siege of illness and the friends of the family will be pleased to learn that she is now on the road to recovery.

Crookston Journal: Banker Hannay was in the city over night, coming from St. Hilaire to transact some legal business. He bantered home this morning to celebrate the thirty-second anniversary of his marriage. None of his friends here tonight him oft enough to claim the honor, but he assured them that he and Mrs. Hannay were married young and had always been glad of it.

Joseph A. B. Lemieux writes to have his address changed from Crookston to Sauk Centre, where he is to be manager of a dry goods store in which he has acquired a proprietary interest. Mr. Lemieux says that Sauk Centre is a beautiful town and that the people are very pleasant and sociable. The Red Lake Falls people will hope that prosperity will attend Mr. and Mrs. Lemieux.

The funeral over the remains of the late Sheriff Sampson was held from St. Joseph's church last Friday morning at ten o'clock, high requiem mass being said by the pastor. The funeral was very a large one, the county officers attending in a body and the people generally turning out to pay their last respects to an honored citizen. The remains were laid at rest in the cemetery east of town.

S. Cunningham, of St. Charles, Minn., has purchased the Racket Store of Keezer & Boyd, and will take possession at once. He will put in a much larger stock of goods and make a strong bid for trade. Mr. Cunningham is a merchant of large experience, and thinks Red Lake Falls offers larger opportunities for growth than any other town he has visited. His family will move here within a few weeks.

An alleged base ball club from Crookston drove over Sunday to open the season, and incidentally give the locals a good start in the race. At the conclusion of nine long and strenuous innings the visitors succeeded in accumulating four scores, while the home team was accorded a total of thirty. If Crookston has any real good ball players they should be sent over to redeem the city's reputation.

Robert Raney went to Crookston yesterday to consult with the manager of the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company. Mr. Raney expects to be sent to North Dakota as a relief agent for the present, and will be given the permanent agency of a yard as soon as a vacancy occurs. This means probably that the family will leave Red Lake Falls in the near future, which their many friends will regret very much.

Messrs. R. H. Finch, of Milroy, Redwood county, and Rob Welsh, of Ghent, were so favorably impressed with Red Lake county during their visit last week that they will both take up the work of bringing settlers to this section. They are bright, energetic young fellows and will undoubtedly do their share in the development of the valley. They both enrolled their names with THE COURIER'S multitude of readers.

Hon. W. I. Nolan, the well-known Minneapolis elocutionist and impersonator, gave one of his characteristic entertainments at the opera house Saturday evening and delighted a large audience. Mr. Nolan never fails to interest his hearers, and judging from the enthusiasm manifest he will have no trouble in getting a crowded house should he conclude to put Red Lake Falls on his list on some future occasion.

Our attention has been called to the fact that some of our citizens do not appear to realize that the city authorities are making an effort to clean the streets of their winter's accumulation of rubbish, but are still dumping ashes, paper and other rubbish on the streets that the street crew have been working hard to get into presentable shape. This is no doubt due to thoughtlessness and will not be repeated after attention has been called to the matter.

I. D. Converse, who has been completing transcript of the judgment docket for Polk county, takes charge of the work of completing the abstract records for S. A. Swanson, the official abstracter for Red Lake county. Mr. Converse has completed several sets of abstract books, and Mr. Swanson's records will shortly be brought down to date. They are gotten out on the most approved plan and when completed will be the best in the Northwest.

Nels and Hans Bjergo, who recently moved from the southern part of the state to farms in Lake Pleasant and Red Lake Falls townships, are hauling building material this week and will shortly commence the erection of a set of buildings on each of the places. This spring will see a great amount of building done in the farming community of this section, and the day is near at hand when southern Red Lake county will equal any part of Minnesota in point of agricultural improvement.

The Metropolitan will offer for its spring opening attraction May 4, "A Thoroughbred Tramp," a crisp, new sensational comedy, redolent with the slang and adventures of the typical hobo. T. Rush Thompson is the personage around whom the entire action of the play revolves. True to his name Thompson is a very rapid individual and causes the action to revolve at a pace that leaves no room for a dull moment during the entire two hours and a half consumed in the performance. Many sensational scenic effects are introduced.

Few traveling attractions carry such a complete scenery equipment as the "A Thoroughbred Tramp" company. Everything used in the play is carried, including a realistic street scene in the city of Ouray, Colorado, a baggage room, two moving trains, a mountain canon and a cave in the Rockies. The play itself is one of the strongest in this class of drama, the tramp character being without question the greatest ever written, and while the comedy element predominates there is enough of the dramatic to more than satisfy theatre goers whose tastes run to the stronger dramatic. At the Metropolitan, May 4.

Grand Forks suffered the worst fire in her history Monday morning when the big saw mill of the Grand Forks Lumber company was totally destroyed, together with 300 cords of wood and 500,000 feet of sawed lumber. The Monarch elevator, located over half a mile from the mill was set on fire by flying cinders and burned and it was only by the hardest kind of work on the part of the fire companies and citizens that the lumber yards, Great Northern depot, planing mill and elevators were saved. The loss is estimated at about $90,000 with $50,000 insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown. It is the intention of the company to immediately rebuild, but the throwing of 300 men out of work for only a few months will mean a big loss to East Grand Forks.

"seasonable reasonable force

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:

A. P. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT; THEO. LABISSONIERE, VICE-PRESIDENT; J. A. DUFFY, CASHIER; P. F. TOUILLOT, ASST. CASHIER; ALEX. BOUCHER, JOSEPH BAPTISTE, ALEX. BOUCHER, SR., GEORGE A. DUFFY, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

Special Prices for Saturday

Home Brand Tomatoes, largeean..14c
Maryland Pie Peaches.....12c
Large glass jar prepared mustard..12c
California Prunes usual 10c grade.....7c
Large can Southern Bartlett Pears, quantity limited..13c
Grandma's Wonder Soap, 7 bars..25c
Magic Washer, a white soap worth trying, 7 bars for..25c

FRESH GREEN STUFF on morning train.

A special price on FINE NAVEL ORANGES

BANGS & CO.

Elmer Walters' Tremendous .... Success ....

A..... THOROUGHBRED TRAMP.....

A Forever Favorite

"The play, company and scenery guaranteed to please every theatre-goer partial to sensational comedy drama."—E. WALTERS

Metropolitan Opera House

MONDAY EVENING... MAY 4

Handsome Calendars Given Away

TO introduce our Papetries and Tablets for the next few days we will give free with each purchase a fancy 1903 CALENDAR (choice of two designs) and a BEAUTIFUL COLORED BLOTTER. It doesn't matter whether you buy a high-priced Papetrie or a 5-cent School Tablet.

New line of Typewriter Papers, Carbons, Pencils, and Office Supplies of all kinds. Choice selection of high-grade Papetries.

COURIER STATIONERY STAND

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL, $50,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

Sun

Stroke Shattered My Nerves.

Gave Up Preaching For Two Years.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Put Me On Active List.

Are you well? Do you sleep well? Do you eat up rested, fresh and vigorous? Is your mind clear and active? If not read the following. See what another has suffered and how he recovered.

"Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left me with a shattered nervous system and exceedingly poor health. I suffered terribly with pain in the head, on the top of my head would feel hot. I could not study, and after striving for two years to wear the trouble off, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and retire to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to recuperate. It was all of no avail. Physicians' treatment and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was exceedingly nervous, irritable, sleepless and generally discouraged. I could not bear any noise. At the least excitement the blood would rush to my face and head. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in my head or nervous spells. My appetite is good and I sleep well and am entirely free from trouble with our lungs. I consider Dr. Miles' Nervine the most wonderful medicine ever discovered." Rev. D. Alex Hastings, Pastor U. B. Church, Marion, Ind.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes an' Faults....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE, NO PAY. Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS.

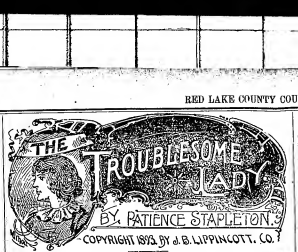
FED LAKE FALLS.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

WEST BOUND.

No.	Name	Arrive	Depart
No. 155	Mixed, Dep. Fertile to Grand Forks.....	7:05 a m	7:45 a m
No. 156	Mixed, Dep. Grand Forks to Fertile.....	5:45 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. HILTZEN, Agent.



Oliver had told his two friends something of the events preceding this strange marriage, so they were careful enough to say the right things at the little dinner the four had in the very private room where Minny had eaten the day before. Skye behaved pretty well, and the only cloud on his mistresses' brow was when one of the strangers stupidly asked if the dog was going on the wedding trip.

"Of course," she said, decidedly.

"Of course," echoed Oliver, meekly, and the two guests smiled the old, old smile of the married man who knows.

"It was a little like Hamlet," Minny whispered when she and her husband, and of course the dog, drove to the depot—"the wedding-feast."

He laid his finger lightly on her lips. "Sweet, there are things best unsaid."

"You will find me so full of faults," she sighed, in remarkable meekness.

"Skye, give me your paw; this is your new papa, and if he gets cross, why, I can pet you. It will be no more nonsense to you, unhappy dog."

Then Oliver laughed and hugged her. "What a child you are!" he said.

At the depot he sent a telegram to Dr. John:

"I have married Mrs. de Rutland. We are off on a trip, and want to hear nothing from Denver. Tell my clerks I won't be home for four months. Have sent word to Jessie S. Bailey to take my cases. I am happy, and she is divine. We have the dog along. OLIVER."

When, after two months' absence, Oliver telegraphed Dr. John to forward his mail to St. Augustine, the first letter he opened was one addressed to himself from Newcastle, Me. Mrs. Minny leaned on his shoulder as he read:

"DEAR MR. OLIVER: The first thing I saw on my arriving home from Paris, Peasie, was a letter in my sister Minny's unreadable handwriting, which she says is Italian, but is so hard to read as a picket fence. I would have sent right away, but the inside was in such a mess from stubbing people—I left some Baileys in charge of—that I had to wait to see if my housekeeper before I could live in the house. I made out that Minny is married to you, and most likely on the very day her first letter to me was written. I am sorry, for you won't have all of her now that she's given the things more to talk about than they ever had before, and they are daughter use over the seats now. Most of 'em knows I've been to Peasie, and they never go to death hugging enough.

"I guess you about feel obliged to marry Minny to take care of her, and I reckon she ain't a bad story by you to see her first husband died. I was right sorry, but questioning you about it. Well, he's dead, and I'm glad of it, for I always thought he was a mean cuss, and when you read Minny's letter you'll find you won't see that I never should have taken another one.

"Oliver looked back into the rosy face leaning over his chair. "Well, Minny?"

"You dear thing," cooed Mrs. Minny, with a soft little sigh, "she don't dream how lovely you are! Read on. I don't care. Aunt Hannah's letters are like old silver bodies—they send chills all over you and little stings, but make you feel good after reading."

"I am sure Minny will do well on to your property, for Minny's constant, and he cares with her, too. Mrs. Peasie is mighty bitter towards Minny for her going-on with Sam and says he's taking to smoking cigars and playing billiards since she rode with him and acted so flirtatiously. But Minny didn't do much."

("Aunt Hannah's relenting," laughed Mrs. Minny.)

"And that Poole boy ain't half baked, anyways, none of the Peasie ever were. I was sorry to hear that Minny wrote his relishes when I'm sure, and taken care of herself, for her mother's folks is weakly, and her mother died of consumption."

Oliver drew his wife to his knee, and, dropping the letter, looked at her anxiously.

"The Paisleys are awfully long-lived," she said, merrily. "Don't be a goose. She don't think I would have that, you know."

"I shall take you to Dr. John," he said, seriously, "when we get home."

"I'll go to Dr. Denver," she murmured. "In my mind I have his smooth face, I'll wear a black, sure I have. I hope it to remember me other by."

("You see she puts you on the back now," chuckled Mrs. Minny.)

"Before I close my letter I must tell you about my visit to Paris, Peasie' and, though it was a disappointment to me, I'm glad I went, for it lowered about what I had still left was I think right. I was mortal afraid Henry would send him, if not, as to be a empty child he would get his death, so I just took him myself across acres to Henry's folks. I was very much sorry as the voyage, for the baby, but was bothered most by Peasie on account of folks not understanding me. Housegoers, there was some Philadelphia people alone that I met accidental with, and they set me right, for they could talk of nothing but Peasie, Peasie, Peasie. At my friend's house, coming in a cab that shrieked a mortal bill for waiting, on account of me being interesting, I found I had the entire of a face of a man, too, and he could talk English reasonable well. I up and told him everything, hooping Franklin on my lap. 'Now,' says I, 'if you don't want that poor baby calling him a man as your own, I take him to my home, for I'm well-to-do, and the little creeter's parted into my affections.' Goodness me, he showed me his face, and I never did see such a change formed. He sat right up and talked friendly as possible, said Minny ought to have come to him, he would treat her as his daughter this time, eyes filled with tears, and to took little Franklin in his arms, and told me your Alphonse was dead, and his eldest son's wife was a helpless invalid who wept night and day. I took my things and went upstairs with him to her room—such a great house!—and there she was a pale little creeter, that could only jabber in French, but baby smiled at her—knows says language—and she shook hands with me, and I left them to settle of the matter when I had time to come to their house, till Paulina got acquainted with me. I'm going to tell you I never thought of this out till I was eating dinner three hours afterwards, and I jumped right up and was running out, but Henry's brother, a respectable, solid-looking man, went one of the help out, and a bill there must have been, but he wouldn't let me settle. Then I left, terms of Henry's debt's came to and spent them all, and then Lowis Napoleon's wife's brother's wife's sister's aunt was so darn nice—especially one—I must speak. They sent a cordial invite for Minny to come, but I told them I guessed she'd like America best, so a co. where you can tell what folks are when they are talking.

"The general give me to understand they would legally adopt Franklin and I told 'em you would sign any documents—as I know you would—for the boy's sake. He will have a fine property some day. I was awful homesome going home. My old nurse was cranky and I cried myself to sleep lots of nights.

"I will now close, and good to Minny, Mr. Oliver, and come down and see us and stay all summer. Yours to command,

"HANNAH PAYNE."

Sometimes, as the years glide by,

MRS. MINNY LEANED ON HIS SHOULDER

Mrs. Minny's arms are empty, too, and her heart yearns for the little baby over the sea. No other child can come to her, and her husband frowns at the mention of a journey to France. He is jealous of even the little habit the lost baby has of her affections; so there is a thorn in her bed of roses. Skye, too, is old and sleepy; or is it herself who has no desire to play? Is she becoming grown-up and different? Will he love her just the same, perhaps more? He must tire of her childishness. At times he does love her, and so fondly.

Oliver, on his part, saw the decay of his political prospects with calmness. He passed one day at the club somewhat a thorn in her bed of roses. Skye, too, is old and sleepy; or is it herself who has no desire to play? Is she becoming grown-up and different? Will he love her just the same, perhaps more? He must tire of her childishness. At times he does love her, and so fondly.

Oliver, on his part, saw the decay of his political prospects with calmness. He passed one day at the club somewhat thing they did not wish him to hear. A knot of men were discussing the possibility of his securing the nomination for governor in the coming election.

"Never in the world," said one of his friends. "There is some story about his wife; she does not go in society at all—a pretty little thing, I wonder, though, how a man can throw away his future for a pretty face."

"What was wrong?" asked another.

"I'm not sure," answered the first. "I do know he married her the day

BUT HE DOES LOVE HER, AND SO FONDLY

after her husband—that crazy French fellow De Restaud—died. And that he ran away with her from some disagreement home up in the North pole. Oliver had a collegiate boy friend who couldn't make him governor; regular combine of our crowd to the end, but never would call on her."

The words struck home a little; but that evening, when his wife went to meet him at the door, wearing a little yellow gown, so, in that night in the past, with Skye at her heels, he smiled in content. How infinitely small were all honors men might give man beside the real heart-happiness of love! He thought he would rather be married than be president; and he blessed the kindly fate that led him to the valley of the Troublesome and the little Troublesome baby there.

THE END.

Due Notice is Served.

Due notice is hereby served on the public generally that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the only salve on the market that is made from pure, unadulterated witch hazel. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has cured thousands of cases of piles that would not yield to any other treatment, and this fact has brought out many worthless counterfeits. Those persons who get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are never disappointed, because it cures. A. L. Reichert.

Unhappy Husband.

A New York woman wants a divorce because her husband has taught the family parrot to swear. Did she ever think that it was possible to get rid of the parrot and thus restore connubial bliss? It's a mighty mean husband who isn't worth more than a parrot.

For a clear skin, clear all the way through, transparent enough to let sunshine—rosy cheeks shown through—get Rocky Mountain Tea. This month, springtime. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Suggestive!

Chesty, the baker, and Jimmie, the dago, had a hot argument a few days ago. It was nip and tuck for a long time, but finally Jimmie exclaimed, with infinite scorn and that lofty mien which he assumes on occasions: "Me no here for steala da chicks! Me here for lilla da tweep peep." That settled Chesty.—Sing Sing Star of Hope.

A Sweet Breath

Is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, sour stomach, and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach grow sweet. A. L. Reichert.

More Arbitration.

The world's arbitrators tribunal, which has just settled a dispute between the United States and Mexico, has another question to arbitrate, this time between Japan and England, Germany and Russia, over the rights of foreigners to hold property in Japan. It's arbitration day world over.

Good For Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of cough, croup and in grippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure, life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. A. L. Reichert.

Irving's Fondness for Tea.

Sir Henry Irving was a weakness for tea. He likes to brew it himself, and never invests any long distances without taking a tea-pot to supplement with him. Sir Henry's favorite brand is an expensive one.

Now's the time to take Rocky Mountain Tea; it drives out the microbes of la grippe, it strengthens the stomach, kidneys and liver. A wonderful spring tonic that makes sick people well. A. L. Reichert.

Much Campaign Literature.

Postmaster Halstead of Boston furnishes good evidence that the recent political campaign aroused considerable interest in Democratic circles. Nearly twice as much campaign literature was handed out in the whole year known in his office.

This is the time of the year when you need a reliable medicine to purify your blood and strengthen your system in perfect order. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The true vegetable blood purifier and alterative nerve tonic. It is a temperate stimulant, but it makes new blood and restores health and vigor to the whole system. Try it, it's guaranteed. $1.00 a bottle. Sold by druggists.

Work of English Painter.

C. Ricketts is an English painter who is following the lead of Beckiln and Frank Stark in painting centaurs. He indulges in Biblical as well as classical subjects.

Earth Is Losing Speed.

The earth is gradually losing speed owing to the friction of the tides. The days are now half a second longer than they were in 1820.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for seven weeks and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c; guaranteed by A. L. Reichert.

Extreme Thickness of Ice.

A few days ago Profs. Blumeke and Hess, found in the Ortal Alps, are well known for their studies of glaciers, succeeded in boring through the Hintereries glacier in the Ortnal Alps, at a point where the ice was found to be 153 meters deep.

Makes a Clean Sweep.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. All the salves you ever heard of, Bucklin's Arnica Salve is the best. It sweeps and cures burns, scars, sores, bruises, cuts, boils, ulcers, skin eruptions, and piles. It's only 25c and guaranteed to give satisfaction by W. A. Schreiter druggist.

South Africa's Future.

Benjamin Kidd, the noted economist, who has just made a tour of the new British colonies in Africa, says he believes the country to be richer than the United States west of the Mississippi and believes that its future is assured.

A Thoughtful Man

M. M. Austin of Winchester, Ind., knew Okay to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. He thought of and tried Dr. King's New Life Pills and she got relief at once and was finally cured. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

Fads in Suicide.

Motor cycles and the football game are removing some of the smartest Americans of the youthful set.—Buffalo News.

Open the door, let in the air,
The winds are sweet the flowers are fair
For it is spring and I'm glad to be here
Since taking Rocky Mountain Tea.
A. L. Reichert.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes. New Tobaccos. New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

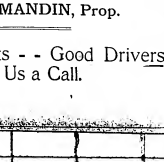
We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Brand View Hotel. - - Groshong & Blake, Props

Fresh and Salt Meats.



RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Stearns guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and prices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. D. D.
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. M. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Hedgerkin & Resch ert's drug store.

Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attension given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention to collections, probating of estates and examination of titles. Offices over Bangs and Co's store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at Law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls. - Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

All Kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Barr's estimable Ohio Journal humor—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerman's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,

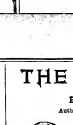
There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

THE LOGIC OF WORK

By CHAS. EUGENE BANKS,
Author of "A Child of the Sun," "In Hampton Roads," Etc.



It is noble to labor, but low to slave;
We should cleave our task as the ship the wave,
Not falter and flounder as through a wood
Grown rank with briars; half understood
The thing appalls us; well learned it seems
As truly delightful as childhood's dreams.
We joy in the progress each day we make,
And labor is sweet for its own dear sake.

Ernest Hussman, of Fremont, Nebraska, has been declared insane because he prefers to work as a farm laborer rather than live on the profits of $50,000 which he has in bank. He disappeared and after a long search his friends found him engaged in feeding cattle in a barnyard. Unlike the prodigal of old this man had no wish to return to the comforts he had known. He said:

"I have no need for money and cannot see why I should be forced to trouble myself with the care of it. There is nothing I wish for that money can buy me. I am a simple man, well fitted for manual labor, and prefer to serve out my life in the employment for which I was intended. For a man of my desires it is difficult to use the amount of money which I work on a Nebraska farm will bring an able-bodied man. I am contented and happy. I can have my newspaper, magazine, tobacco, and A GOOD DAY'S WORK. What more could I wish for? My money has been a CARE and a WORRY to me ever since I got it,and I finally felt that I must get away from it."

Who does not know that in one way or another money is the direct cause of most of the cares and worries that make happiness such a rare and priceless treasure? Money promises everything and performs nothing. Those who desire to be rich oppress their brothers in a heartless struggle for gold. Those who have money in abundance, like Carnegie and Rockefeller, are overtaxed with the responsibility that haunts them like Banquo's ghost. Those who have not money and see no way of getting it through skill of trade, or shrewdness of merchandising, risk the law's punishments to take it by force. Those who are ambitious for office corrupt their own natures and shame that of their neighbors, by buying that which should only be won by worth. No one of all these can say with the Nebraskan. "I am contented and happy. In a good day's labor I find complete satisfaction!" And for acting on this belief Mr. Hussman is to be confined in an asylum. Because he has discovered a way to secure that which everyone else is fruitlessly seeking he is not a safe man to be abroad.

Is Mr. Hussman really insane or are those who hold to the old beliefs that money is really a blessing the demented ones?

The answer would seem to lie in the declaration "IN A GOOD DAY'S LABOR I FIND CONTENTMENT AND HAPPINESS." Work for the sake of work's self; that would seem to be the solution to all our present difficulties. Work enough is being done, but it is work for profit, for reward, and is therefore drudgery. The world is enslaved to the idea of money getting. We smirk and cringe, lie to others and deceive ourselves for one object, only—money. We deny our friends and clasp hands with our enemies to gain place and power that we may use them to get money. We prostitute our talents that the picturers we paint may find readier sale and bring higher prices. We write our novels with an eye to the bookstalls. We suceeed in getting money. We cannot avoid it, because that is our one thought, one desire, and we sacrifice every other thing for the possession of that one Thing.

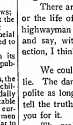
Thus far success. But what have we gained? Is the reward happiness? Far from it. The only result of all this turmoil and strife, all this cruelty and degradation, is the knowledge that the bird in the bush is worth far more than the bird in the hand. That has given rise to the fallacy that there is more pleasure in anticipation than in realization. The reason this appears to be true is that the thing we pursue is not worthy in itself. It has no worth other than that with which we have endowed it.

But in creative work, work for work's sake there is no such disappointment. To forget self in the pure delight of seeing things change through the manipulation of your fingers to some other definite one Thing—that is sublime joy. In creating worlds and systems the Deity must still find supreme happiness.

When we have realized that happiness is to be found only through the evolution of ideas wrought into substantial things we shall begin to be wise. Then we shall enter upon our tasks with the fullness of self, and revel in the joy of creation, not for so much a day, or so much an hour, but for the pure love of the work itself. Man may thus put aside the mortal and become for the time immortal.

Justifiable Lies and Others

By REV. C. T. KLOSS,
Pastor First Congregational Church, Webster Grove, Missouri.



MEN'S half truths are often the devil's whole lies. It is the man who can tell the truth so it will appear as a lie, that can mislead by implication, that is the past master of lying. It is a mistake to think you can always tell the liar. He does not always hang his head in shame. The biggest liar I ever knew was a fellow whose blue eyes mirrored, it seemed, the very light of heaven.

The commercial lie is one of the greatest faults of our country. The man that adulterates milk or sells shoddy goods for the genuine is deserving of contempt. This liar is only preparing that in the end he may have a finer shroud than his neighbor. The business conducted on honest lines succeeds.

There are times when I would tell a lie, however. To save my life or the life of a friend I would willingly falsify. If I had $100 and a highwayman demanded all I had, I would hand him a dime, if possible, and say, with the clearest conscience, that it was all I had. Such action, I think, would not be held against a man.

We could get along a great deal better without the so-called polite lie. The danger is that the polite liar is liable to become chronic. Be polite as long as you can, and then, when you are pressed to the wall, tell the truth, even if you make an enemy. He will afterwards respect you for it.

The real solution of the question is the getting right on fundamental relations. Have a right feeling for your fellow-man and for God, and then you need not worry about white lies or any other kind.

A return to the old days, when a man's word was his honor, is what I pray for. Truth is back of all honor, and if you have a scrupulous respect for your honor, not your reputation, you will manage to always tell the truth without effort.

TO RENAME AMERICAN INDIANS

Commissioner Jones Says Cognomens of Aborigines Are Entirely Too Elaborate.

The Indian bureau has decided upon a policy which means trouble for the noble red man. It contemplates a redistricting of all the Indians in the United States, and the high-flown appellations of the warriors will be changed to commonplace names. The wishes of the Indians will not be consulted in the matter.

The change is expected to make us much trouble as did Commissioner Jones' famous bute-cutting order, but he says it will make the work of his department much easier, as the names of many of the Indians are absolutely unpronounceable. Mr. Jones thinks that the greatest objections will come from the high chieftains, who glory in their names, but that the rest of the Indians will not object so long as the government furnishes them rations with liberality and regularity.

UNITES A SEVERED ARTERY.

A Most Marvelous Operation Is Performed by a French Surgeon with Aid of New Local Anaesthetic.

Six months ago the fashionable Hotel du Rhin, Paris, was the scene of an attempted murder, one of the evil-larmen cutting another's carotid artery. The case has resulted in a marvelous cure, the surgeon of the hospital having succeeded in uniting the severed artery. The victim appeared in court last week and gave evidence against his assailant, who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment. Throat surgery is likely to be greatly assisted by the new local anaesthetic just discovered by Dr. Fournier, namely, para amido benzine ether. It is barely soluble in water, but easily soluble in glycerin or fatty matters. It is not a toxic, this giving it a great advantage over cocaine.

Brokers in Pedestrian Race.

Every stock exchange man who thinks he can walk will soon have an opportunity. May 1 is the stock exchange holiday, and that day will see 107 stock exchange aspirants to pedestrian fame plodding their weary way on the Brighton road. At six o'clock in the morning they will leave the city. Anxious brokers in the forties, who have been testing on weighing machines were ruefully comparing the results with the figures of their athletic youth. Dinner has been arranged at Brighton for the success of the race.

Cuba as a Winter Resort.

With its new $4,000,000 Havana hotel Cuba may grow into a winter resort to surpass Florida, southern California, Bermuda, Egypt, Algiers or any of the other refuges from winter and its rigors which now hold out their tropical allurements. The island has walked Spanish for 400 years, making time and making no progress, says the New York Tribune, but will now try a modern quickstep and cake walk, promising a swing and freedom heretofore unknown to it.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $50 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

J. M. BRAY.
FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES
Slickest Place in Town to Drop in and Get ···
Fine Cigars
Wines and Liquors.
BREVORT RYE. :. K. O. R. WHISKEY

WHY?
The reason One Minute Cough Cure relieves so much is one minute, because it acts first on the mucous membranes, loosens the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, kills the germs, destroying the microbes or cough germs and clearing the phlegm. One Minute Cough Cure not only destroys the disease germs, and clears out their poison, but it gives strength to the throat, so that the inflammation cannot return. It heals, it cures. Coughs, colds, bronchitis, La Grippe, Croup on the Lungs and Pulmonary Complications that are curable are quickly cured by the use of

ONE MINUTE
COUGH CURE
Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO., Chicago.

HAY STACK
COVERS
Save the Hay and Grain
Write for prices on all sizes of Canvas goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Legal Blanks.

The COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Fig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Scheiter druggist. Trial bottles free.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE. MINN.

9. K. SALOON
Is the Place to Go for Choice
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.
J. E. BRAY

Sick Headache?

Food doesn't digest well? Appetite poor? Bowels constipated? Tongue coated? It's your liver! Ayer's Pills are liver pills; they cure dyspepsia, biliousness.

25c. All druggists.

Don't trust to the service of hens or a beautiful complexion. Use Dr. Hunt's
BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers
Black or Brown. 50c. a Box. All Druggists, or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

FIRST STATE BANK
OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

Capital Stock, $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.
WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
I. I. Wyer. F. E. Hunt. Theo Garceau.
Chas. M. Bowden. A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway
SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BY	STATIONS	EAST BY
8:30 pm Lv	St. Paul	Ar 7 30 am
6:00 pm Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 7 20 am
6:55 pm Ar	Crookston	Lv 6 15 pm
6:55 pm Lv	Fisher	Ar 6 15 pm
7:40 pm Ar	Winger	Lv 5 25 pm
7:45 pm Lv	Dent	Ar 5 20 pm
8:00 pm Ar	Erskine	Lv 5 00 pm
8:05 pm Lv	Mc Hugh	Ar 4 55 pm
10:30 pm Ar	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 2 30 pm
10:40 pm Lv		Ar 2 20 pm
12:25 pm Ar	Third River Falls	Lv 4 30 pm

O. THOMAS AGENT.

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Reminiscences, Repartee and Story, in ten handsome volumes, illustrated with fine Photogravures and color plates

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS,
Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of English Parliament

Roseiter Johnson
Author and Litterateur

Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Collaborator

Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man Without a Country"

Jonathan P. Oolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa

John G. Carlisle
Former U. S. Senator from Kentucky

Nathan Haskell Dole
Author of "Famous Women of Fiction"

"International Library of Famous Literature."

James B. Pond
Manager of Lecture Bureau, Author of "Celebrities of Century"

George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University

Lorenzo Sears
Professor of English Literature, Brown University

Edwin M. Bacon
Former Editor "Boston Advertiser"

P. Cunliffe Owen
Member Editorial Staff "New York Tribune"

J. Walker McSpadden
Managing Editor "Edinburgh Review" of Science Works

Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Museum, Washington, D. C.

Truman A. DeWeese
Member Editorial Staff "Chicago Times-Herald"

William W. Matos
Member Editorial Staff "Philadelphia Evening Telegraph"

Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri

Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE ultimate perfection of MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived to see those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

THOMAS B. REED

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment —for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain color frontispieces in multicolor.

A FINE PRIVILEGE JUST HERE

Jan'y. Num ber 1 H. Dent hunt Philadelphia

A CONVENIENCE—Relieving you your acquaintance of Hon. Thos. B. Reed's Library of Modern Eloquence of the necessity of writing for catalogues, prices, etc., of sample pages, photogravure and colorotic plates, also full particulars regarding bindings, prices, etc.

Name.....
Business.....
Street.....
City and State.....

To-day

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

Many are the Bargains

At the BIG STORE
..THIS WEEK..

Special Sale of Japanese Matting..

36 in. Matting, worth 22c now at, per yard..... 12c

Regular 30c kind 22c; rag carpet 25c.

.. Sun Bonnets ..

A good one for 10c, should bring 15c;

A better one with ruffles, fast colors, assorted, 20c.

.. Carpets ..

Don't pass us by when you want a carpet. A pile of samples on hand. Carpets all sewed up delivered inside of a week. For a cheap bed room or dining room carpet our Cottage carpet is a wonder; fast color, reversible, smooth surface, so it sweeps easily, hard textured, so the dust does not go through; beautiful and ingrain patterns, price only... 30c

We are closing out our Spring Jackets

Get a jacket at your own price; fine covert jackets, tan and blue, worth $6 for $3.75; others worth $4 for $2.20. Misses' mackintoshes worth $2.50 for $1.69. Just the thing for school.

Special in Curtains

Regular size, with fringe, best rollers, only..... 25c

See our big new line of Lace Curtains, the best line ever shown in the city. We show a good standard size at 49c, and on up to $7 per pair.

White Shirt Waists

Our line cannot be beaten. Bought in the East, where styles originate, you are sure to get the latest from us.

Skirts

All kinds—a good one for $1.75, made full and will fit well. We show you no old truck as we were sold out before the arrival of our stock.

GROCERY SPECIALS THIS WEEK

Oat Meal, 30 lbs for $1;
Anchovies, 5c lb;
Uncle Sam Smoking, same as True Smoke, 30c lb.
3 bars Tar Soap for 5c;
Labrador Herring, 3c lb;
Cottolene, 25 and 50c pails, cheaper than lard and a third less needed;
Chase & Sanborn's Coffees fresh every week.

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Tomorrow is Arbor day.

Clean up. If you have not already done so, clean up.

S. A. Swanson has 200 bushels of fine seed flax for sale.

Douglass shoes in twelve styles at Garceau & Zaiser's.

E. H. Dravesiracht was at Crookston over Monday night.

F. B. Newton was a business visitor at Crookston Monday.

J. A. Duffy wants 25 or 30 cords of stove wood. Call at the bank.

Miss Lillian Rose is clerking at the store of Garceau & Zaiser.

Good farm horse for sale or trade for a light team. See S. A. Swanson.

The creamery managers report a healthy growth in the business this spring.

METROPOLITAN Opera House

ANDERSON & HEALY, Managers.

The Funniest of All Comedy .. Dramas ..

"A Thoroughbred Tramp"

A Guaranteed Attraction.....

Monday Evening

MAY 4

Gentleman's Patent Oxfords, Douglass make, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

W. P. O'Brien made a brief business trip to Crookston over Monday night.

Attorney James McIntyre is down from Thief River Falls on a legal mission today.

Presiding Elder Dodds of Crookston was a visitor to Red Lake Falls last Saturday.

Bangs & Co. advertise another list of Saturday bargains in groceries this week.

Napoleon Dhuliot, of Cass Lake, spent a few days here the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Adams were here from St. Hilaire Sunday to see the ball game.

The press dispatches announce the appointment of L. K. Moen as postmaster at Garnes.

Miss Albina Lemieux is a guest of friends at Euclid this week, going to that place Monday.

Full line of ledgers, journals and blank books of all kinds at THE COURIER stationery stand.

Messrs. and Mesdames L. A. Dautremont and S. S. Haislet drove to Thief River Falls Monday.

Mrs. E. F. Marshall returned Friday from a pleasant visit with Mrs. James Meehan at St. Paul.

John Morgan, K. M. Hanson and William J. Kelly were down from Thief River Falls Monday.

Get our prices before you buy another thing in the line of flour and feed.—Tibbetts & Davison.

Miss Alice Buse visited from Friday until Monday with Miss Nellie Curran at Thief River Falls.

A big bargain—combination book case and writing desk, sale price only $11.75.—Anderson & Healy.

J. P. Easton of Warren has succeeded Hans Johnson as deputy revenue collector for this district.

Mrs. I. D. Converse, of McIntosh, arrived in town Monday and is visiting at the home of her son, Milton.

Manager Johnson has had a new desk 'phone placed in his cozy office at the Robertson lumber yard.

J. H. Glass left Monday for a business trip of several days to the southern and central part of the state.

Arthur Ittner, the athletic foreman of the St. Hilaire Spectator, was here Sunday to play ball with the local team.

Mrs. Roud and Miss Hoff, of St. Hilaire, were guests of Red Lake Falls friends between trains last Saturday.

Letter copying books, carbons, typewriter papers and office supplies of all kinds at THE COURIER stationery stand.

H. C. Koerner, representing the Miller-Davis Printing company, of St. Paul, was calling on the county officers yesterday.

The Surprise store has another sermon this week expounding the merits of their line of clothing and furnishing goods.

Rev. G. Nauman will preach in the K. of P. hall next Sunday, May 3, at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. All are very cordially invited.

Druggist Nelson and wife drove down from St. Hilaire Sunday to witness the ball game and visit a few hours with relatives.

Miss Mildred Anderson will leave this week for St. Paul where she will remain the guest of her grandparents during the summer.

S. M. Siverston has been at Crookston several days of this week on business connected with the new milling company at that place.

The following letters are advertised at the postoffice: Christina Klemenhagen, J. C. Marshall, Martin Grant and Carl O. Burman.

N. J. St. Aubin and family have decided to remain in Red Lake Falls and Mr. St. Aubin will retain his position at O'Brien's hardware.

Dr. C. O. Smith will be up from Reynolds next Wednesday to lend his imposing presence and able assistance at the band concert on that evening.

Rev. Father Dube, of Terrebonne, and Fathers Fayolle and Ansgaar, of this city, were guests of Father Charles at Thief River Falls over Monday night.

Samuel Allard has been dangerously ill this week with an abscess just above the eye. An operation will be performed today by Drs. Dunlop and Watson.

Don't forget the band concert on Wednesday evening of next week. It will be the "best ever" and the cause is worthy of the unanimous support of the citizens.

The Knights of Pythias will hold their regular meeting on Tuesday instead of Monday evening next week. There will be work in either the second or third rank.

The offices of Clerk Perrault and Register Gibeau, at the court house, have been made more serviceable and beautiful this week by the addition of new hard pine floors.

Chas. Brainerd, of New York, western representative of the Hawes car company, was calling on the agents at this point, Messrs. Berthon & Armstrong, Tuesday.

Theo. LaBissoniere's little girl, who has been ill for some weeks with pneumonia, had a slight relapse this week and is not improving as rapidly as could be wished.

Twenty-five new harness were made by the state board last week at an examination held in Crookston. Joseph and Napoleon Miller, of Red Lake Falls, were among the number.

Olous Omoth was in from Wyandotte Monday to have his paper changed to Milestone, Assiniboi, near which place he has taken a claim and expects to move in a few days.

A. L. Reichert and S. L. Lewis have received a new steel rod and reel this week, which fully equips them for the exciting sport of landing the finny inhabitants of our rivers.

For rent—An eight-room house, with good well, barn, wood-shed, buggy shed and chicken coop; large garden spot; centrally located. For particulars call at Allard's confectionery.

Clerk of Court Perrault issued marriage licenses to Joseph Le Brunelle and Laura Gervais, of Red Lake Falls, and Alvid Olson and Hulda Melvina Erickson, of the town of Norden.

Bromide portraits 16x20 $2.00 by W. A. Riechel, the photographer, made from original negative and as true a likeness as the small photo. Also button photos in all sizes and at all prices. 4w

F. B. Newton and F. A. Grady were at Crookston Saturday to complete arrangements for the transfer of the Red Lake Falls Lumber company's mill to the Shevlin-Carpenter company.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Merchants State Bank held yesterday an additional $1,000 was placed in the surplus fund. This makes a total of $3,000 to the credit of that fund.

Rev. Horn, of Thief River Falls, conducted services in the Presbyterian church here Sunday, in the absence of the regular pastor. Rev. Horn is a fluent speaker and greatly pleased his hearers.

The junior class of the high school will give a social dance at the K. of P. hall tomorrow (Friday) evening. The hall has been newly frescoed and will make the same evening at the city hall from 6 to 10 p. m.

More people have been relieved and cured of piles by Cole's Carbolisalve than by any other remedy. There is nothing equal to it for burns, wounds and sores of all kinds. Try it and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Moses Belair takes no stock in the president's fears of "race suicide," for Tuesday evening his wife gave birth to a pair of sprightly girls. Mother and children are reported as doing nicely.

Health

"For 25 years I have never missed taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla every spring. It cleanses my blood, makes me feel strong, and does me good in every way."—John F. McInerney, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Pure and rich blood carries new life to every part of the body. You are invigorated, refreshed. You feel anxious to be active. You become strong, steady, courageous. That's what Ayer's Sarsaparilla will do for you.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows it almost by heart and will tell you nothing. Follow his advice and do as he says.

J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

AUTOS GAIN VOTES.

Machines Used in Great Britain as Rounders at the Polls.

Amazing Cases Where Artisans Waited on Town and Back Again to Secure Ride in the Horseless Carriages.

Automobiles played an extremely important part in the Chertsey election, which took place the other day. Some sixty machines were employed in bringing voters to the polls.

The motorists' headquarters had 20 working, while 20 cars exerted out the orders of the liberal agents. In addition a number of owners of machines were working independently of the central organization. It is calculated that each of the 60 politic-al automobiles during the day traveled an average of 100 miles, making a total of 6,000.

It was amusing to note that the voters, particularly those of the laboring classes, turned up their noses at comfortable broughams or luxuriously appointed landaus and insisted upon having an automobile ride. At Eghan an elector, on being invited to drive to the polling place in a governess' cart, and he regarded the governess' cart as an amusing form of bribery, and if there was not an automobile handy he would prefer to walk and would "jolly well take care" that he pleased himself in voting.

Along Ripley road, where they are accustomed to automobiles as to be able to distinguish a Panhard from a locomobile, electors were very particular to inquire what make of machine was pleased at their disposal before they consented to go to the polls.

Before 4 o'clock in the morning a voter residing some distance outside Chertsey walked all the way to the committee room to inquire when he could have an automobile to convey him to the polls. It was pointed out that the polling station was only a stone's throw from where he was, and that as a broughan was disengaged he might enjoy the satisfaction of being one of the very first electors to record his vote.

"That was not what I came to ask you," he replied with dignity. "I came to ask you a plain question, man to man, when it would be convenient to send one of those automobiles to fetch me to the poll. If it isn't convenient to you, I'll just step around to the other people; perhaps they are not quite so busy."

It was arranged that an automobile be sent to his cottage at 11:30, and he tramped contentedly home to wait for it.

IRISH GOLD ORNAMENTS.

Legal Controversy Over Rare Pieces of Ancient Jewelry Floored Up in Northwest of Ireland.

The remarkable case of the Irish gold ornaments will soon come on for a hearing in the law courts, according to a dispatch from London to the New York Tribune. These relics were ploughed up on some land in the northwest of Ireland in 1896 by a farm laborer, and, after passing through several hands, were sold to the British museum for £500. All efforts to reclaim them for Ireland have proved unavailing, the authorities at Bloomsbury being precluded by statute from parting with any object once acquired. The government law officers say the articles are treasure trove, and therefore belong to the crown, but the trustees of the museum reply that while living the crown has no interest over England upon which the objects were found, and probably at the date to which they belonged the sea extended much further inland. The relics include a collar with an ornament of celtic character in relief; a twisted collar of solid wire, two neck chains, a bowl and a model of a boat, with oars.

TO WEAR DELHI HALL DRESSES

Mrs. Adair, American Hostess, Will Emulate Darker Function in London.

Among American hostesses in London now no one is more energetic than Mrs. Adair, who has only just returned from India. She was so impressed by the beauty of the great fancy dress ball that took place at Delhi that she intends giving a ball of this kind on May 8 at her home in Grosvenor street in honor of her pretty American niece, Miss Post, daughter of Lady Barrymore by her first husband. Many of the dresses that were worn at the Delhi ball will be once more seen on this occasion.

Inspired by a Metrovialet.

The czar was inspired to take his recent reform proclamation by Denitchinsky, a meteorologist, who attracted the czar's attention by the accuracy of his weather predictions in the Novoe Vremya. The czar summoned Denitchinsky and talked about political matters in the interview. So impressed was he with Denitchinsky's views that he directed him to embody them in a confidential memorandum. That was made the basis of the rescript.

Not Strong Enough in Death.

The owner of the big elephant "Jingo," says the Chicago Tribune, probably relieved his feelings with a much stronger word than that when the animal died.

Field for Dialect Poet.

Seven hundred different dialects are spoken by the natives of Africa, says the Chicago Record-Herald. That will be a great place for the dialect poet some day.

ANCIENT TITLES INVOLVED.

Romance in Peerage Claims Made by Two Sisters, Countess of Yarborough and Countess of Powis.

The romantic claim of the sister peeresses, the countess of Yarborough (Baroness Conyers) and the countess of Powis, to the ancient baronies of Fauconberg, Darcy of De Knayth, Darcy of Darcy, Darcy of Aston, Darcy of Gilmichael, and Meinill of Meinill has come before the committee of privileges of the house of lords.

Both ladies are already rich in titles. The elder sister is Baroness Conyers in her own right, and also the Baroness Yarborough of Lincoln and the Baroness Worsley. The younger is coheiress in the barony of Conyers, and also Viscountess Clive of Ludlow, Baroness Herbert of Cherbury, Baroness Powis, Baroness Clive of Walcot and Baroness Clive of Plassey. But the barony of Fauconberg, if established, would be the oldest in existence. There is no rival claimant to the titles; the only question raised by the crown is whether the baronies can descend to any but heirs male.

The circumstances upon which that question turns are these: The baronies, created during the Scotch wars of Edward I. and II., existed in the male line until the fifteenth century, and then were carried by the daughters into the families of Darcy and Conyers, only to become extinct in 1635. But then a cousin, Sir Conyers Darcy, fourth Lord Conyers, petitioned King Charles I., to restore to him as heir male the original barony of Darcy.

ART MUSEUM TO NATION.

J. Pierpont Morgan May Give His Splendid Collection to London to United States.

There is excellent authority for stating that J. Pierpont Morgan is planning to build a splendid art museum and present it to the American nation. Mr. Morgan's private art collections are by far the rarest and most extensive owned by any individual in the world. A friend of Mr. Morgan said to-day: "Mr. Morgan has spent more money for art objects probably than the dozen other most lavish collectors in the world combined. It is his desire that they shall be made available for the American people. He is planning to house all his collections in some one place, and it is very likely that the great museum of art which he will establish will be offered as a gift to the American nation, or he made the foundation for a great national art gallery."

In the last seven years Mr. Morgan is believed to have purchased fully $7,000,000 worth of art treasures in Europe. The most valuable of them are scattered over continental Europe and England, the American tariff having stopped him from transporting them to this country. If he were to give his treasures to a public institution they could be brought in free of duty.

CANADA ATTRACTS BRITISHERS

The Dominion and Not South Africa Absorbing the Surplus Population of the United Kingdom.

Canada rather than South Africa is absorbing the surplus population of Great Britain, eables the New York Tribune's London correspondent. The reports just issued from South Africa by the British army of 230,000 men during the war, unfavorable and the immigration movement from England to South Africa has not set in. The resources of Canada, meanwhile, have been advertised systematically and full use has been made of the American invasion, both as an incentive and a warning. The second contingent of Mr. Hart's force of British emigrants leaving Liverpool number 1,500, and before winter at least 10,000 will be transplanted from the midland and northern counties, to the Saskatchewan valley. Canadian officials assert that the settlers are a picked body of engineers, representing the arts and crafts as well as agriculture, and taking with them a large mass of capital.

NEVER SET FOOT IN VIRGINIA.

Sir Walter Raleigh Did Not Tread the Soil of North America and Interesting Story Is Spoiled.

"Walter Raleigh never set foot in North America. Yet so pernicious is the legend connecting him with Virginia the truth that planted, the persistence that carried out, the courage that would never relinquish the design, and the promised land, Virginia is in history, although he only gazed at it from the fringes of the colony."

Passion Play for Austria.

The Austrian ecclesiastical authorities have determined to bring out a passion play to rival that at Oberammergau, at Erlsberg, a beautiful secquestered valley in the Tyrol, easily reached by railway. The preparations for this year's ecclesiastical promise to be on a magnificent scale. More than 200 persons have been employed. The local Tyrol government has contributed $100,000 to the undertaking, and the entire ecclesiastical establishment in the Tyrol will attend the first representation, on June 1.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Red Lake County Courier.

Illustrationless Edition

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 31. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 7, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 239.

RED LAKE INDIANS REFUSE TO RATIFY

Efforts of Major McLaughlin to Get Them to Sign the Treaty Prove of No Effect.

The Red Lake Indians refuse to agree to the cession of the eleven townships on the west end of the reservation under the terms of the recent act of congress. This became apparent to Major McLaughlin after the second conference with the assembled members of the band on Thursday, and Fred Dennis, who went up to take the signatures to the agreement in case they accepted the terms of the bill, writes that the party will be in Crookston tonight if the trip out is made via Solway, and if by Thief River Falls they will reach there tomorrow night.

Major McLaughlin asked the Indians to meet in council again on Saturday, but the object of the last conference was not stated. It is surmised that it was for the purpose of ascertaining what measure would be acceptable to the Indians, in order that the major might embody their views in his report in order to form a basis for a bill that would be acceptable to them, and that might be passed at the next session of congress. This belief is strengthened by the fact that Major McLaughlin has asked Congressman Steenerson to meet him on his arrival here for the purpose of discussing the matter.

The failure to negotiate successfully is a disappointment to many, and particularly to the people of Thief River Falls, that city being the nearest to the land in question, and one that would likely be benefited in the greatest degree. It withholds from settlement the lands that would otherwise become homes for thousands, and that would become productive in the near future, thus adding to the taxable property of the state. The point of difference between the Indians and Major McLaughlin was the school sections, which under the law proposed would not have been passed to the credit of the Indians, but would have reverted to the state.

Men and Teams Wanted.

I want about fifty teams and drivers for ditch work. Will pay $3.50 a day for men and teams who will stick to the job until haying time. Work will begin sometime next week. Pay every 30 days. I will also want a good cook. For particulars apply to Exerie Chatel, Red Lake Falls. 1w

Notice.

Having sold my flour and feed store to Tibbitts & Davison, together with book accounts, I desire to notify parties owing me to pay the accounts to Tibbitts & Davison, instead. All these accounts draw interest after 20 days. M. A. Hatten, Red Lake Falls, Apl. 16, 1903.

CAPITOL READY NEXT YEAR.

Commission Will Lose No Time in Completing the Work.

"Finish the capitol. You have the money, now complete the job," said Governor Van Sant to the state capitol commission recently. He appeared before the commission, of which he is ex-officio president, to urge the members to lose no time.

Vice President Seabury stated that the commissioners proposed to have the building completed just as soon as possible, and propose to keep within the appropriation. In order to do this it will be necessary to make some changes in the plans. It is found that a cheaper marble can be used in the grand staircase without impairing the artistic effect and at the same time save $6,000. The basement floors will be of Minnesota limestone instead of Tennessee marble, which will save time and money.

These changes in specifications are made for the purpose of accumulating a reserve fund. It is impossible to foresee contingencies which result in unexpected expenditure. By saving a little on present contracts a reserve fund will be created from which money will be available to provide against emergencies.

The commissioners made an inspection of the building to note the progress of the work and to examine changes which have been suggested by the different state officials.

Many changes have already been asked for. The commissioners desire to complete the building substantially as laid out by the plans, and there must be real merit in the requests for changes. The building is to be completed by the summer of 1904.

The Village Theatre.

A unique form of education is the recent method in Russia of establishing theaters for the peasants. These are built and owned frequently by the peasants themselves. Admission is sometimes free and sometimes half a cent. The cost of lighting and now and then a fee for a professional actor is about $3 a night. The results have been surprising in an educational way, besides giving enjoyment to a large number of people who lack the barest pleasures of life. Think what golden grain belt beer would mean to such people. This beer is refreshing and healthful. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Screen Doors and Windows.

See the Robertson Lumber Co. before buying your screen doors and windows. All sizes always on hand.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

CLEARWATER'S FIGHT.

Point Raised Against Legality of New County's Creation.

Clearwater county's title to existence will be settled by the supreme court next month. The new county was set off from Beltrami, with Bagley for its county seat, but the validity of the election is being contested on several grounds. One point that will be made involves the validity of the old county division law, or, rather, the construction placed on it. Attorneys for the petitioners will claim that as construed the law was invalid, because it disfranchised part of the votes Clearwater county carried, getting more votes than were cast against it, and more than were cast for any of the other propositions, but the votes cast against the other propositions were not counted as against Clearwater. The contention is that voters had the right to vote either for or against every proposition, and if their votes were not cast for Clearwater they should be counted against it. Such a construction would defeat Clearwater. It is the rule made in the new county division law, which requires a proposition to get a majority of all the votes cast in order to carry. This point was not raised in the famous Red Lake county case, nor in the recent case involving Columbia county.

THE OUSTER SERVED.

Final Action is Taken in the Columbia County Matter.

The final action in the dissolution of Columbia county was probably taken yesterday by the serving upon the officers of that county of a writ of ouster from the supreme court, says the Crookston Journal.

The motion for there-hearing that was argued by A. Holston last week has been denied, Mr. Holston receiving notice this morning. Two points were urged in the argument, the first being that the last legislature passed a bill relating to notaries public that took cognisance of the legality. The court decided that chapter 177, General Laws 1903, relating to notaries public in newly created and organized counties did not amount to a recognition of Columbia county by the legislature, and did not legalize the county.

The other point was that the proclamation of the governor was only prima facie evidence of the legality of the county, which might be overruled by proof in quo warranto proceedings brought by the state to test the legality of the existence of the county. In a word, the proclamation of the governor is not final and conclusive.

New Game Laws.

The legislature made a good many changes in the game and fish law.

The big game license for residents of the state is raised to $1. With it go five coupons, three for deer, one for moose and one for caribou. The holder of the license can ship the animals with the coupons attached to his own county, but nowhere else. Non-residents still pay $25 for a big game license, which entitles them to ship two deer, twenty-five birds and fifty pounds of fish out of the state. They can get a small game license for $10, which entitles the holder to ship the birds and the fish.

The Audubon society classification of game birds is introduced, in a list, which prohibits the killing of song birds entirely. Harmful birds, which are enumerated, may be killed at any time, game birds under restrictions, and some other birds may not be killed at all.

Another important change limits the number of birds a hunter may have in his possession at one time. He is limited to 100 ducks and 50 birds of other kinds.

The open season for quail is made fifteen days later, running from Oct. 15 to Dec. 15. The open season for bass begins May 29, to permit fishing on May 30. Spearing of pickerel, suckers, red horse and bull heads is permitted from March 15 to April 15.

Guns and dogs may not be confiscated by the wardens hereafter. As the bill was amended in the house the only things that may be seized are game, fish held illegally and fish nets.

For Sale.

My house and lot, household furniture and numerous other articles. For particulars call on Mrs. A. Sief.

AMES JURY WILL PROBABLY DISAGREE

The "Good Men and True" Still Out at Four O'clock This Afternoon.

Minneapolis, May 7, 4 p. m.—The case of Mayor Ames went to the jury last evening, and as yet no verdict has been returned. It is generally understood that the jury stands ten for conviction and two for acquittal. It seems altogether improbable that an agreement will be reached.

EMARDVILLE.

H. J. Pederson drove to the county seat on business Tuesday.

The spring work is practically completed, and everything looks favorable for a big crop.

Julius Hanson, who was assaulted and stabbed in the head a couple of weeks ago, is on the road to recovery.

Sam Ostby left last Friday for his home at Hatton, N. D., after spending a couple of weeks with his brother Paul. He is station agent at Hatton.

John Sorensen, a prominent Garnes farmer, was quite badly injured last Wednesday by being kicked in the jaw by a horse. His jaw bone was broken, and although the patient is doing nicely, it will be some time before he is fully recovered.

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

St Hilaire Townsite Co, to Mike Anderson, lots 16 17 18, blk 21, orig St Hilaire 304

Louis Hanson to Matt Barzen, lot 8, blk 12, Peters add T R F 150

James Meehan to Walter R Cornell, lot 4, blk 3, Meehan's add to T R F 125

Olaus Omoth to Henry J Enderle, se qr 15-152-42 2200

Torgus G Sandjan to O G Lundan, sw qr 35-152-40 590

J A Duffy to Leo Knott, e hf sw qr and lots 3 and 7, 1-151-43 2800

Albert Odet to W O Dems, ne qr 15-152-43 2240

Dumas Dion to John Carlson, nw qr 33-150-42 3000

George Sich to Aron Carlson, ne qr 33-150-42 3200

James Meehan to Leon DeMers, lot 4, blk 10, Meehan's add T R F... 700

Simon Best to Louis Blair, lot 16, blk 1 Meehan's add T R F 800

Auditor of Polk Co. to Francis M Anderson, se qr 28-152-41 2800

Chas H Staples to Chas L Lubbert, n hf se qr 22-152-44 1200

L J Duffy et al to Ami Ohlen, sw qr sw qr 32 and w hf se qr, se qr se qr 31-152-42 2700

N M Watson et al to Melma Yelle, lot 14, blk 2 Riverside add R L F 30

L A Dautremont to Henry S Williams, nw qr 28-152-44 1100

U S to Sylvin Bergevin, e hf se qr se qr ne qr lot 1 4-150-41 ..... Patent

Lars Hacke to Alfred Carlson, lot 9 blk 17, orig T R F 75

J M Bishop to Henry H Land, lot 3, blk 1, Hem. add T R F 60

Thos Milsom to P O Bergh, lots 23-24 and 1 hf 25, blk 6, Knox add T R F 107

Joseph Panek to August Panek, lots 32-33, blk 66, orig T R F 500

Catherine Durand to James Meehan, lot 6, blk 10, Meehan's add T R F 150

Johnson & Sivertson Mercantile Co. to S M Sivertson, s hf ne qr and lots 1 and 2 6-151-44 1

N M Watson et al to Genevieve Emard, lots 4-5, blk 4, Central add R L F 100

W A Kraska to Jos Panek, lot 3, blk 66, orig. T R F 75

LOCAL MARKET REPORT.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company give us the following market quotations for to-day:

No. 1 hard wheat, 67¢;
No. 1 Northern, 66¢;
No. 2 Northern, 64¢;
No. 3 Northern, 61¢;
No. 4 Northern, 56¢;
Flax, 99c;
Oats, 28c;
Patent flour, $2.35;
Second patents, $2.25;
Bran, $14.00;
Shorts, $16.00;
Barley, 30c to 40c.

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in tablets and papetries. Call and look over the line.

THE SURPRISE STORE

We are the Leaders. The Only Up-to-date Clothing House in the County

The difference between ready-made and tailor-made nowadays is largely a matter of fuss and fitting. The rest of it is tedious waiting and guess-work as to whether you will like the fabric as well after it is made into a suit as you liked it in the piece goods on the roll. Fine tailoring can be done on a ready-made suit just as well as one made to order. The policy of improving clothing to the utmost has impelled the most expert tailoring for the making of the finer Clothing.....

Hart, Schaffner & Marx

Copyright 1903 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

The matter of fit is provided for by the enormous variety of size proportions carried in stock. The little details necessary to make a suit conform to a peculiarity of figure are arranged by an expert tailor just the same as if you were trying on your suit that had been made to order. Thus in.....

H. S. & M. CLOTHING

you get the utmost style, the very highest character of fabrics that are made at home or abroad. Strictly all wool and thoroughly sponged before cutting, you get the most expert tailoring..... Every garment is hand made. You also get a perfect fit for immediate wear.....

Hats Our Specialty

We are Sole Agents for HAWES HATS

From the Factory to Your Head

We carry them in all the soft and stiff shapes, also in all the very latest shades in black, pearl, nutria, beaver and mode. Get busy and wear a HAWES.

BOYS' CLOTHING.....

Base ball and bat or catcher's mitt given free with every Boys' suit....

We are now showing our complete line of Boys' Clothing in Norfolks and Blouse Suits. We are showing several styles. Just received twenty styles in two and three-piece suits, in prices ranging from $1.75 and up.

Gents' Furnishings

This week we are showing a few more specials in neckwear, also a full line of the latest designs in Negligee Shirts. They are without doubt very handsome and must be seen to be appreciated. If you were thinking about a white vest or a fancy vest, or perhaps a silk vest, you will find here a large assortment.

Berthon & Armstrong, Red Lake Falls, Minn

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The Republican tariff reformers never believe in doing anything until after election.

If all politicians were statesmen there would be less need for discussion of political questions.

This is the season of the year when the schoolboy's excuses are scrutinized more closely than usual.

When a town can't get a railroad it invariably discovers that a second railroad does more harm than good anyway.

Chief among the weighty objections to Grover's nomination is the evident satisfaction apparent in the Republican camp.

Some people are still foolish enough to waste time in trying to convince Kentuckyians that they ought not to drink whisky.

It is always the fish we failed to land that is the biggest. Likewise it is the opportunity we missed that seemed the most alluring.

Here is a bit of wisdom from the St. Peter Herald:

Many a man has ruined his business by going into politics, but few have injured their politics by going into business and staying there.

The manager for the coal barons in the East lifted his finger the other day and his agents all over the country put up the price of anthracite to cents a ton. Combination is the cinch of trade.

The Hardman, Tenn., Free Press liquor advocate takes advantage of the floods in Texas to say: "Water has done more damage to life and property in the last week than licker will do in a thousand years."

A farmer in Mille Lacs county who was using dynamite in blasting stumps placed several sticks of the explosive near the stove to warm up. A large concourse of friends gathered at the good wife's funeral.

An exchange very truthfully says: The great trouble with so many people in this town is that instead of letting what they hear go in one ear and out the other they let it go in both ears and out through the mouth.

From this distance it looks as though Mrs. Growler ought to hurry home. Just listen to this:

Mary McFadden says: "Minnesota brides are more plentiful and beautiful than ever." Great Scott! how that does make us wish we were a boy again. By way, the Mrs. is in Georgia. Won't that do as well?

The Minneapolis Tribune is asking the legislators to explain the voting of geccrous bounties to the daily newspaper representatives and the pretty stenographers about the capitol, and insinuates that some people would not be so anxious to pay hush money if it came out of their own pockets.

The Adrian Democrat funny man diagnoses the complaint of most people this kind of weather:

If you're feeling sort o' restless and you don't know what it is; if your energy is failing and you just can't tend to biz; if your blood seems kind o' sluggish, you have got it sure as fate; you better quit a workin' and begin a diggin' hole. If you find yourself a feelin' that you'd like to pick a fight; if you find you've not a sleepin' and you hardly eat a bite; if your head just keeps a throbbin' at a mile a minute rate, you've got it—quit your workin' and begin a digging bait.

Unless present signs the fight in Kilkenny is to be relegated to second place in the record of historic scraps by the Minnesota Republicans next year. The anti-administration forces are led by some of the ablest and most political generals in the state, and if Bob Dunn takes off his coat he will prove a host in himself. There are lively times ahead and somebody is going to get hurt.

Hetty Green says she made her money "buying when everybody wanted to sell, and selling when everybody wanted to buy." But there is a kind of an endless chain factor entering into the proposition, and Hetty should tell us how and where she got the money to buy when everybody wanted to sell, or if she started at the other end how and where she got a corner on the product when everybody wanted to buy.

The St. Peter Herald says it's a fact that

If time is money there is no need for anyone to be poor.
The widow is a good provider, for she sees chicks her weeds.
A man can play second fiddle to his wife and still not be a musician.
A man who is scrupulously honest does not believe that all other people are dishonest.
No one should blame a man for not taking his own advice. He knows that it doesn't mean much.

The sweet girl graduate will soon take the center of the stage, and we're all kind o' glad to see her there.

From the following story we can easily believe that Kansas is beginning to advertise her corn crop:

A Topeka buyer told a salesman that he must cut short his stay in New York and hurry home. He had, he said, just received a wire from his wife telling him to hurry back to Kansas and raise their only son, who had foolishly climbed a stalk of corn in the garden. The corn had grown upward more rapidly than the boy could slide downward, and axes and saws were of no avail, since the stalk grew so fast that it was impossible to chop twice in the same place. The last wire received by the Topeka buyer, stated that the boy was out of sight, but presumably alive and living on raw corn, as they had picked up four bushels of cobs at the base of the stalk.

Nature stored up coal for fuel, and gas and oil for light, fuel and power. Is it natural and right that these storehouses of Nature should be controlled by and in the interest of a few men, and the great mass of people be compelled to pay tribute to them for these necessities? Let every man and woman take this example proposition under honest consideration and see if the conclusion arrived at is not that these things should be controlled in the interest of the whole people, even if partial confiscation is necessary.

There is a sermon in the following from Walter Williams, of the Columbia, Mo., Herald:

The age, with its swiftness and perplexity, is growing away from the old ideas of parental control. A man attains his majority in every way but legally long before he is 21. The old folks are no longer father and mother, but the "old man" and the "old woman." This is the sign of decaying family life. It is a diseased spot on the body politic worse than the small-pox or leprosy. The first commandment with promise needs re-emphasis—sometimes by derision and sometimes by cowhide. The boy who does not make a sweetheart of his mother will never make one of his wife. The girl who does not give aid to the duties of home will not make a good housekeeper when she has one of her own. Reverence and honor to one's parents, their commands, their wishes and their memory, stamp the difference between the gentleman and the brute.

WHY DISCRIMINATE?

DEAD BROKE
HAVE YOU ANY MONEY?
NOT ONE CENT
HAVE YOU ANY MONEY?
NOT ONE CENT
LOANS
LOANS
LOANS

T. L. BLOOD & CO.'S
READY-MIXED
HOUSE, BARN, FLOOR, CARRIAGE AND WAGON
PAINTS
(WILL GIVE YOU SATISFACTION
(OLD) BY DEALERS).
Superior, Minn.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 12:10 p. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 12:25 p. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:10 p. m. and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 12:00 m. until 1:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on Saturday and by stage Sundays.

E. P. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DON'T BE FOOLED
Advertisments having appeared in various publications wherein Sears, Roebuck & Co., offer Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines, we wish to warn the public that these are not our authorized agents and that we do not sell our machines to them nor any other catalogue house or department store.
Their advertisements are not for the purpose of promoting the sale of our machines. They are using our reputation as makers of the highest grade machines only, in order to get the names of possible buyers and persuade them to purchase one of their cheap STENCILED MACHINES, the manufacturers of which they are evidently ashamed to make public.
If you want a genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, do not waste your time writing to anyone who is unable to furnish it. The genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, may be sold and backed by our warranty, is for sale by our authorized dealers only. When you buy a Wheeler & Wilson, you get a machine that is a machine, backed by a reputation of 60 years' unequaled success.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 139, I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING.
VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. WHITMORE, H. Hogseth, Wm. Schwalm
N. G. V. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. It keeps you well. Our trade mark on each package. Price, 35 cents. Never sold in bulk or except in sealed packages. Ask your druggist.
MICROPHOTO 1210

OUT THEY GO
Most anything you want, such as Stoves, Heaters, Ranges, Incubators, Brooders, Wagons, Buggies, Harness, Implements, Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pianos, Organs, Etc., Etc., Etc. Write for name and terms.
W. H. Brown & Co.
Madison, N. Dak., or 191 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

LOT'S STRATEGY

By SUSAN BROWN ROBBINS

Copyright, 1901, by the A. S. Barnes Company

"I don't know what it is," said Lot sheepishly.

"Imagination," returned his sister shortly.

Lot turned on her. "Look here, Maria Benin," he said almost fiercely. "You pride yourself on your faculty for seeing things. You've been here three days, and haven't you seen that there was something come between us since you were here before and that she has stopped caring anything about me?" His voice broke at the last words, and he turned away from her.

Maria looked at his back, and there was an expression on her face of mingled pity, contempt and amusement.

"I've been here three days, Lot," she said quietly, "and I've seen that you are a pair of foolish children. But before I go on I want to ask you if you have got over caring for her."

Lot looked at her with indignation too strong for words.

"I didn't think you had," said his sister in a tone of relief. "If you had, it would be a serious state of affairs; but, as you haven't, I don't see any difficulties."

"You must admit that she isn't happy," he said at length.

"Yes."

"But, don't you see, it must be me, because she doesn't see anybody else, hardly."

She settled herself more comfortably on the grain chest and began to speak deliberately. "Don't you know that when two people, I don't care who they are, live on a lonely farm and don't see anybody but each other for weeks at a time—don't you know that they are bound to get morbid and imagine all sorts of things about themselves and each other? That is why so many farmers' wives go insane."

"But what can I do?" Lot asked, a look of terror in his face. "I've tried to get her to go to places with me, but I can't."

"I'll tell you," said Maria decisively. "The first nice day her out over the farm and spend the day. I'll see to things while you are gone, and I'll put up a lunch for you. Show her all you are doing and plan to do. Take her in the pretty places and, most of all, make love to her as though your life depended on it."

"I don't believe she'd go. I couldn't persuade her. You've no idea how set she is."

Maria looked at her brother scornfully. "Perhaps you never heard of such a thing as strategy."

She turned away and walked out of the barn.

For a long time he stood looking at his Grandfather Stetson's old covered wagon. It had been considered an elegant affair in its day, but now it was seldom taken out except when some of the children came home at Thanksgiving or for short visits.

He took out his jackknife and opened it, felt of the edge, then got into the wagon and knelt down on the seat. Very carefully, and following the thread in the cloth, he cut a slit two inches long in the back of the seat. He picked at the cotton batting stuffing with the point of his knife. Then he let the flap go back in place, the cotton batting showing a little all along the cut. "That looks very natural," he muttered.

The next morning Lot spoke to his sister when Eunice was in another room. "Just as soon as the dew gets off some," he said, and she nodded after breakfast she carried to the barn a large covered basket, a demijohn of milk and a look of comprehension. Soon cold tea, a shawl and her sister-in-law's sunbonnet. These Lot helped her stow away under the back seat.

At 9 o'clock Lot came into the house. "I'm going to start off with the old covered wagon in a little while," he said, "and I find there's a loose o-eat in the back of the seat. Do you suppose you could mend it?"

Eunice went to get her workbasket. She found a piece of green cloth and pulled some envelops from it; these she went out and got into the covered wagon and set quietly and patiently to work.

Lot watched her furtively from the barn. When he thought she was nearly half through he began harnessing with feverish haste. What if she should get through too soon? She looked around as he backed the horse into the shafts. "I'm not quite through yet, Lot," she said mildly.

"That's hurry," he answered. He waited with the reins in his hand until she had taken the last stitch; then he jumped in, sat down beside her and spoke to the horse. Eunice half started to her feet, but he laid his hand gently on her arm, and she sank back again.

"We are going to ride over the farm," he said quietly.

He drove on, talking rapidly about his plans, recalling incidents of the haymaking and speaking of the getting in of the sealings.

Eunice was silent, and in spite of his lively chatter Lot was anxious.

In the middle of the pasture Lot stopped the horse and glanced about. Some of the cows were feeding near, and they lifted their heads to look with big, inquiring eyes.

"Pretty good looking cattle, I call them," he said proudly. His pause was quiet, white and agitated, and he did not dare look at his wife.

"I always thought an awful lot of Butternup," said Eunice in her sweet, gentle voice. "I liked her looks so well that I learned her to drink and took all the care of her myself."

"Yes," he said. "I remember, and it was a good thing that you did take charge of her. She's quite a fine cow."

His voice grew curiously husky, and he spoke almost sharply to the horse. "Get up, Nell."

As they went slowly through the pasture the cows one by one dropped their noses to their feeding again. Maria gazed about her eagerly, a new light in her face. "Oh," she sighed contentedly, "it is a lovely day."

The cart path was very rough, and the wagon bounced and pitched along, the overhanging bushes and young trees brushing against its top and sides. Eunice laughed like a child and now and then gave an involuntary little scream.

Lot laughed too. "I guess I'll have to put my arm around you," he said. And he drew her close, driving with his free hand.

"Isn't this fun?" she laughed. "And it won't hurt the wagon, either. How did you happen to think of such a nice idea?"

"Why didn't I think of it years ago?" he returned promptly. "I ought to have, with the poor little wife kept at home with a weak ankle."

"I have wanted to see the farm awfully," she said, nestling up to him as his arm went around her waist again, "but I didn't see how I could, and I never expected to."

Suddenly she impulsively threw her arms about his neck and buried her face on his shoulder with a little sob.

"It's awful silly," she murmured. "Her folks are old as we are to act so spoony, but I—thought—I'd got a notion that you'd got all over caring anything about me, and I'm so glad to find it isn't so."

As for Lot, he hold his wife close, and in his heart was a great joy.

Obstinacy.

"One of the most remarkable cases in my experience," said a country doctor, "was an old woman in a fisherman's hut on the Carolina shore. It was a long, dreary drive of ten miles, and when I reached the place I found that the only occupant besides the sick woman was a skit of a girl, who was utterly worn out by weeks of care and nursing. I examined the patient and found every sign of early dissolution. Her pulse was growing feebler, and it was only a question of a few hours, in my mind, before the end would come. The idea of the girl being left alone in that hut touched me, and I decided to remain with her, even though the unexpected happened and the old lady lived through the night. The men of the hut were fishermen, and they would probably be back the next day. So I sat with the girl in the corner of the room and told her what I intended to do.

"'Don't she get well?' asked the girl after I had explained as mercifully as I could.

"'No,' I replied, 'she will not get well. She will die tonight.'

"Just then there was a feeble movement on the bed, and a thin, angry voice drawled out: 'It ain't so. I won't die. I expect to eat the goose that eats the grass off of your graves.'

"Oh, yes. She's quite well now, and she does not hesitate to tell me how much she likes goose."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dickens and His Work.

Light is thrown upon the unfinished condition of Dickens' "Mystery of Edwin Drood" by the following story, told by a surviving friend:

"I remember to ask him what method he pursued in the composition of works and if they were all completed before coming to press. 'By no means,' he replied. 'They are not written beyond the part that is to be published at a given time. But the plot, the motive of the book, is always perfected in my brain for a long time before I take up my pen. I add a great deal to the original idea as I work on, but am always know the end of the beginning I can safely commit my work in parts to the press.'"

"But suppose," I stammered, with just a little awe and veneration in my voice (only the temerity of youth could have induced me to say such a thing), 'suppose you died before all your work was written?'

"'Ah!' he said, and paused, then added, 'That has occurred to me at times,' and again the long, future pleading look seemed to be penetrating the golden haze. Then he turned his kindly glance on me and said quietly, 'One can only work on, you know—work while it is day.'"

They Agreed.

To his valet he was a hero. Even his caddie is apt to hold the highest in very low estimation. The latter discovery was made the other day by a certain legal luminary who already had quite a modest opinion of his own abilities, though he has been for many years an enthusiast of the beach and is himself the son of a judge. During his off days he usually divides his energies between golf and dairy farming. On the occasion in question it happened to be golf, and not being in his usual form he made a very bad foozle.

His good-humoredness at the ground looked inquiringly at his club and having apparently solved the difficult problem faced his caddie, and exclaimed with emphasis, "Well, I am an ass!"

The caddie, started out of a dream of hliss, was too well trained to contradict his employer, so he solemnly replied, "Yes, sir!" The man of law had overlooked the other's existence, but this candid opinion recalled him to earth. He looked at the caddie and the caddie looked at him for a brief second. Then both burst into a shout of laughter. The humor of the situation had struck them simultaneously.—London Tatler.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLER WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment of an land anywhere else in the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great tracts to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

300 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located to a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance made to suit purchaser. Will guarantee 10 per cent. on the investment and make a $10 thousand in this bunch in a short time, if interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,
BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Order for Hearing on Claims, Etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss
COUNTY OF RED LAKE, }
In Probate Court
Special Term, April 15, 1903

In the Matter of the Estate of Mary Jane Levitz, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of Mary Jane Levitz, deceased, late of the County of Red Lake, and State of Minnesota, having been granted to Sadden Levitz.

It is Ordered, That three months be and the same are hereby allowed and given to the creditors of and for all claims and demands against the said deceased to appear before me, the undersigned, Judge of the Probate Court of said County, at the Probate Office in said County, on the 15th day of July, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, for the examination, adjustment and allowance of her claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, That notice of said hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by publishing the order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., this 15th day of April A. D. 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

Order for Hearing Proof of Will.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss
COUNTY OF RED LAKE, }
In Probate Court.
Special Term, April 15, 1903.

In the Matter of the Estate of Anders Anderson, deceased.

Whereas, An instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Anders Anderson, late of the County of Red Lake, deceased, has been presented to this Court.

Now, Therefore, It is Ordered, That said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that Ole Anderson, the executor named in said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate Office in said County, on the 11th day of May A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day.

And it is Further Ordered, That notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested by publishing the order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., this 15th day of April A. D. 1903.

By the court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

[SEAL] 4-23-07

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale
By Advertisement.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage, executed and delivered by Wm. H. Hickey and Ellen Hickey, his wife, mortgagors, to W. H. Brown & Co., mortgagee, dated April 7, 1902, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in and for the County of Red Lake, in the State of Minnesota, on the 8th day of April, 1902, at 9 o'clock A. M., in Book 31 of Mortgages, on page 53, on which there is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice the amount of Seventy Dollars, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, Therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Red Lake Falls, in said County of Red Lake, by the Sheriff of said county, on Saturday, the seventeenth day of May, A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, with interest thereon, and taxes, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, and $50 attorney fees, as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage, and sought to be sold, are the lot, piece or parcel of land situated in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit:

The south one-half (S½) of the northeast one-fourth (¼), and the southeast one-fourth (¼) of the northwest one-fourth (¼) of section eleven (11) township one hundred and fifty-four (154) range forty-two (42).

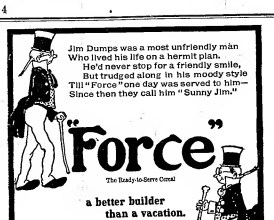
Dated March 24, 1903.

L. D. HAGLER,
ALBERT JOHNSON, Mortgagee.
4-30-14 Attorney for Mortgagee.

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN
Oil Stove,
Refrigerator or Ice Cream Freezer
You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of
Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages
Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils
FRANK E. HUNT
HARDWARE DEALER.
No trouble to show goods.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.
What it Means
to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.
Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.



Jim Dumps was a most unfriendly man
Who lived his life on a hermit plan.
He'd never stop for a friendly smile,
But trudged along in his moody style
Till "Force" one day was served to him—
Since then they call him "Sunny Jim."

"Force"

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal

a better builder than a vacation.

Never Tires of It.

"I am constantly servant tornado eighty years of age. I have at last been almost rejuvenated by the use of your very excellent preparation, which you have rightly designated as 'Force.' Never tire of it. "E. CASTENHOLZ."

W—1

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

THE Southern papers are just now using sore heads in reporting the recent lynchings in southern Illinois.

MINNEAPOLIS has a prospect of getting rid of her exposition building. White elephants are a luxury which not every town can afford.

IF Henry Watterson should discover that Grover Cleveland agrees with him on the negro question there is no danger of more trouble.

JUST now the people of the country would consider it an especial favor if Mr. Knox would get his sharp stick after the meat trust.

COMING events cast their shadows before. Possibly this is why Governor Van Sant gets frightened whenever he happens to see Bob Bunn's photograph.

MONEY makes the mare go but down in Missouri the average man is chary about having a $1,000 check cashed, and a legislator simply would not think of such a thing.

IF sounds queer nowadays to hear the Republican newspapers condemn Wall street. Heretofore the Democrats and anarchists have had a monopoly on this sort of thing.

THE Columbia county people feel that they have another guess coming and have asked the supreme court to re-open the case. However, their chances do not look exactly promising.

SINCE there was quite a gathering of governors at St. Louis last week it is altogether likely that they settled the mooted question as to just what the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina.

A WRITER in the Cosmopolitan contends that there is no such thing as Platonic friendship. Many persons who have tried it long ago came to the same conclusion. Then a man and a woman can maintain that free and indifferent friendship toward each other which they would hold for one of their own sex, there is something radically wrong with their make-up.

THE trouble between the Great Northern and the trainmen has not yet been settled, and there is grave danger that a strike may ensue. As a matter of abstract right the trainmen seem to have but little argument to their side of the question. The railroad has acquiesed in all the demands for increased wages, and the only questional issue is the matter of double headers. The trainmen insist that wherever two engines are used to haul a single train two crews of trainmen should be sent with it. This would seem so manifestly unfair that the railroad is entirely justified in refusing to accede to the demand.

THE St. Louis exposition commemorates an event hardly less important than the declaration of independence and the discovery of this continent, in commemoration of which the Chicago and Philadelphia expositions were held. The Louisiana purchase, for which we paid $15,000,000 in 1803, now contains a population of 15,000,000 and in it lies the greater part of twelve states, with an area of 875,000 square miles. This territory in 1900 produced in farm products alone $750,000,000; its farm animals were valued in 1895 at 100,000,000; over two billion dollars has been taken from the mines of Colorado and Montana, and when this material wealth is added to the inestimable value which this territory has had in the development of the country, it is made plain that its acquirement is an event worthy of commemoration on the most impressive possible scale.

THE INDIANS REFUSE TO RATIFY.

The disinclination of the Red Lake Indians to ratify the treaty opening to settlement that part of the Red Lake reservation located in Red Lake county will be grevious disappointment to the people of Thief River Falls, and while in a measure the growth and development of that end of the county will undoubtedly be retarded, there can be no permanent check in consequence. The rest of the county is developing rapidly, farm land values are increasing anace, and there is a general feeling of confidence in the future of this section.

The reservation is not near enough to Red Lake Falls to affect in any way the development of this city. And while our northern neighbors may experience a temporary lull in the boom that has manifest there during the past year or two by reason of the prospective opening, a little postponement of this kind will not seriously affect the business interests. In due time the opening will be an accomplished fact.

In this connection it might be well to say that the advocates for the treaty should profit by the experience of the past, and if Mayor Erntkin or any other person again goes to Washington to urge Congress to pass an opening bill he ought to be prevailed upon to cut out the dinner parties and the high hats, and keep closer guard on his tongue. During the past year the Thief River Falls representative has delivered himself of a number of interviews that were calculated to antagonize the Indians and delay the accomplishment of his mission. In future it ought to be remembered that the land belongs to the Indians and that no man or set of men can take it away from them without their consent.

Lime! Lime! Lime! Carload just received.—The Robertson Lumber Co.

THIEF RIVER FALLS.

Louis Hanson made a business trip to the county seat Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred Case, of St. Hilaire, visited at the Massey home Saturday.

John Cyr was in the city over Monday night renewing old acquaintances.

Oliver Peterson was down to Red Lake Falls last Saturday looking after his cigar trade at that place.

James Hinnson, a former Red Lake county boy, is now longshoreman on this branch of the Great Northern.

John Forder arrived in the city Monday from California and is visiting here with his sister, Mrs. E. E. Zeh.

Miss Laura Nelson arrived in the city last Friday and will visit her parents who live four miles west of town.

Mrs. N. W. Tarrant was up from Red Lake Falls over Tuesday night for a brief visit with old acquaintances.

The street west of the high school building has been graded and put in condition for travel during the past week.

Oscar Larson left on Monday for Madison this state for a few days visit with his parents and other relatives and friends.

Postmaster Ira C. Richardson left Tuesday for St. Paul where he went as county delegate to the state convention of Modern Woodmen which was held Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. John Moylan and two children formed a party who visited Monday from a stay of several weeks spent at the Hot Springs. While their stay was a pleasant one they experienced some cold disagreeable weather at the southern resort.

Allen Benzie quit work at St. Hilaire Saturday and came up home before proceeding to Warren where he has accepted a position with Powell, Wood & Co., the machine men. Allen will also strengthen the ball team which has been organized at the Marshall county capitol.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Lime! Lime! Lime! Plaster! Plaster! Plaster! Carload of each just received.—The Robertson Lumber Co.

The Nickel Plate Road

is the short line to the east and the service equal to the best. Saves time, money and money by traveling over this line. It has three through daily express trains, with through vestibuled sleeping-cars, and American club meals, ranging in price from 35c. to $1.00, are served in Nickel Plate dining-cars; also service a la carte. Rates always the lowest. No excess fare charged on any train on the Nickel Plate road. Chicago depot: Harrison St. and Fifth Ave., city ticket office, 111 Adams St. room 298, Chicago. 'Phone Central 2057. m30

Take a Trip

Over the Nickel Plate road and be convinced of its superior train service. Solid through daily express trains between Chicago, Ft. Wayne, Findlay, Fostoria, Erie, Buffalo, New York City and Boston. American club meals, ranging in price from 35c. to $1.00, served in Nickel Plate dining-cars; also service a la carte. Rates always the lowest. No excess fare charged on any train on the Nickel Plate road. Chicago depot: Harrison St. and Fifth Ave., city ticket office, 111 Adams St. room 298, Chicago. 'Phone Central 2057. m30

Clerks Want More Money.

The directors of a bank in Chicago think that no man should marry on a salary less than $1,000 a year. They have, therefore, informed their single clerks who get less than this sum that they must not marry. The clerks have requested higher pay.

A Little Early Riser

now and then at bedtime will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the famous little pills that cure by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach and liver that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the complaint. Sold by A. E. Reichert.

Famous Imperial Wall Plaster. Carload just received.—The Robertson Lumber Co.

Strange Experience Of an Emerald Miner

This strange tale comes from that land of mystery—Egypt:

An emerald miner was seeking in the face of a hill for some evidence of old workings. For long his search proved in vain, and he was about to give it up as a bad job when his eye was suddenly attracted by a figure close at hand stooping over some sand and stone and striking with what appeared to be a piece of rock.

For a moment he imagined it to be a fellow worker, but closer inspection proved it to be no more palpable than a shadow, and it appeared to the miner that the shadow was the shadow of a skeleton. The phantom arm rose and fell, but sound of blows there was none. The miner advanced hesitatingly toward this weird figure. He passed a rock that hid it from view for a moment. When he reached the other side, the sand and stone over which the figure had been working were still there, but the figure had vanished. Wonderful to relate, he had seen was nothing but a hallucination. The miner reached the spot where the shadowy skeleton had been at work. A little beyond he found a hollow which led to a shaft, and a glance convinced him that he had unconsciously hit upon the disused workings for which he had been seeking so long.

He struck a light and entered the shaft, which seemed to run deep into the heart of the hill, and there, some forty yards from the opening, he suddenly came upon a skeleton lying stretched out at his feet.

Shuddering, he bent over it, and his eyes caught in the feeble light the green glitter of emeralds clutched in its fleshless hands. He mustered an overpowering desire to flee from the gruesome spot, took the stones from their horrible resting place and hurriedly regained his camp. He declares that as he turned he saw a glint of emerald in the hollow sockets of the eyes. But this must have been fancy.

In his hands, however, were the glorious proofs of the vision he had seen. He took the stones to London, and today they form the centerpieces of a beautiful necklace.

In later days when he visited the spot he found the tunnel had fallen in.

A weird and beautiful story, is it not? And, what is more, it is true in every word.

Good In Artesian Wells.

The New South Wales government has sunk 82 artesian wells, 64 of which brought water quite to the surface. Only eight were total failures.

Runs Through Natural Tunnel.

The railway from Bristol, Tenn., to Big Stone Gap, Va., is the only one which runs through a natural tunnel. This tunnel is 939 feet long, and has been formed by a river known as Stock Creek.

Large Consignment of Apples.

The Cunard steamship Saxonia, which sailed from Boston Monday, an enormous quantity of apples were shipped, the total being 25,000 barrels, which is said to be the largest number ever sent over left this country on any one ship.

The Shortest Line

to Chicago is the North-Western line. The finest trains is the celebrated North-Western Limited.

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Red Lake, ss.

In Probate Court.
Special Term, May 1, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. H. Hammer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Hammer, praying that a certain deed of conveyance of the interest real estate from the said deceased, of said estate, setting forth that C. W. Hammer deceased, was bound by a contract in writing to convey said real estate to the said William Hammer and praying that the executor of said estate be authorized and directed to be conveyed and the said deed which such claim to conveyance is specified, and praying that the Probate Court make a decree authorizing and directing the said executor to convey said real estate to the said petitioner on the payment of said claim.

It is Ordered, That all persons interested in said estate may appear before said Court, at a special term thereof to be held at the Probate Office in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said County, and appear and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, and that notice of the time and place of hearing be given by publication of this Order for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 4th day of May, 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

J. W. Swanson,
Attorney for Petitioner.
Given, Minnesota.

Spring Millinery . . .

A MAGNIFICENT ARRAY of LADIES', MISSES' and CHILDREN'S HATS in newest Spring styles. Beautiful Veilings, Laces, Chiffons, &c. Prices always lowest.

FIRST DOOR NORTH OF POSTOFFICE

K. FORD

Old London Bridge.

Old London bridge took the record time of thirty-three years to build. It was begun in 1176 and not completed till 1209. The present bridge was begun in 1824 and finished in 1831. It cost $2,600,000.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt of New Meksoupani, Pa., made a startling test, resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes "a patient was attacked with violent stomachaches, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 12 months." Electric Bitters are a positive guarantee for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and kidney troubles. Try them; only 50c at Schreiter's drug store.

Minnesota Doing Well.

The growth and prosperity of Minnesota are well indicated by the number of new banks organized this year.

Quick Arrest.

J. A. Gallegde of Verlena, Ala., was taken to the hospital from a severe case of piles causing 24 tumors. After doctors and all remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and ills such as no other salve. 25c at Schreiter's drug store.

Refraction of Precious Stones.

The refractive power of the diamond is 2.47; that of rock crystal only 1.6.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Wanted It, Anyway.

Gerald—As it is to be a secret engagement, it would not be wise for me to give you a ring at present, Geraldine—Oh, but I could wear it on the wrong hand.—Judge.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of worthless tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions the strength fails down, health gives way and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and repairs the waste and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by A. E. Reichert.

Confusing.

The lecturers are always telling about the early bird getting the worm, as if it were a special lesson. But they have nothing to say about the early worm, and how's a fellow to know whether he will be the early worm or the early bird? Philosophy is a slim game.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Made Young Again.

"One of Dr. King's New Life Pills each night for six weeks has put me on my 'teens again," writes D. H. Turner of Despeyouna, Pa. They're the best in the world for liver, stomach and bowels. Purely vegetable. Never gripe. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

FREE FARM

OF 160 ACRES IN THE FAMOUS SASKATCHEWAN VALLEY OF WESTERN CANADA.

To the Renter, the Farmers' Sons, the Poor Man, this is a chance of a life time to secure a GOOD FARM ABSOLUTELY FREE in a country where WHEAT IS KING and crop failures are unknown. . . . . .

Stop Working For Some One Else!

BE INDEPENDENT and OWN YOUR OWN FARM

DON'T WAIT! THESE FARMS WILL BE TAKEN UP FAST! WRITE NOW.

We furnish Free Livuriee and Exuriuoned Men to show the lands and locate you.

We have a colonization arrangement with the Canadian Government to locate a limited number of settlers on our lands, and as soon as this contract is completed This offer will be Withdrawn. Remember, you have nothing to pay excepting a homeseeker's fee of $10.00, which is paid to the Government of Canada. You do not pay us a penny.

Reduced Railway Rates any day. Write us for full information, Maps and Descriptive matter.

The Saskatchewan Valley Land Co. Ltd.

305 Jackson St., ST. PAUL, MINN.

NOTE.—This Company and its proposition has the hearty endorsement of this paper.—Ed.

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.
Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

☞ Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

8 Cents

Eight cents a pound is what a young woman paid for twelve pounds of flesh.

She was thin and weak and paid one dollar for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, and by taking regular doses had gained twelve pounds in weight before the bottle was finished.

Eight cents a pound is cheap for such valuable material. Some pay more, some less, some get nothing for their money. You get your money's worth when you buy Scott's Emulsion.

We will send you a little free.

SCOTT & BOWNE, CHEMISTS.
409 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

To Cure a Cold in One Day Cures Grip in Two Days.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. E. W. Grove on every box. 25c.

Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature,

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE.

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete Line of Jewelry, Silverware, Watches Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

For rent—An eight-room house, with good well, barn, wood-shed, buggy shed and chicken coop; large garden spot; centrally located. For particulars call at Allard's confectionery.

Miss Mamie Erickson returned this morning from a several months stay at points in North Dakota. She has a large circle of friends here who will be glad to welcome her home again.

Bromide portraits 16x20 $2.00 by W. A. Hechel, the photographer; made from original negative and as true a likeness as the small photo. Also button photos in all sizes and at all prices. 4w

The ladies' aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. J. W. Bourdon next Wednesday afternoon, May 13. All ladies interested in church work are cordially invited to attend.

Evangelical services will be held at the K. P. hall at the usual hours Sunday morning and evening, and will be conducted by Rev. C. Nauman. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to all.

Notice the new advertisement of the Surprise store this week. It tells how to get perfect-fitting and handsomely-tailored clothing at the same prices ordinary hand-me-downs are usually sold at.

Joseph Hayton and family left Monday for Bemidji where Joe has secured a good position in the large lumber mill at that point. Their many friends here will wish them success in their new.

Mayor Kratka of Thief River Falls was in the city Tuesday on his way home from the Red Lake reservation, where he has been assisting Maj. McLaughlin in explaining the terms of the proposed treaty.

Time-tried, hail-tested, safe and reliable, yet low in cost. Protect your growing crops by a policy in the State Farmers' Mutual Hail Insurance company, of Wausea, Lewis & Higinbotham, agents.

Arrangements at White Earth are being perfected for "the grand celebration of the reservation" on June 15 and 16, commemorative of the settlement by the Chippewas of White Earth reservation.

The dance and ice cream social given by the Junior class of the high school Friday evening was successfully attended and generally enjoyed, the class adding a neat sum to its fund as a result.

Dr. O. W. Tessier, Albert Perusse and Rock Lafaive, of Terrebonne township, left Monday for Washington, where they will look up the prospect of getting timber claims. They expect to be absent about a month.

M. O. Sortedahl is in Goodhue county this week interesting some of the people of that locality in Red Lake county farm lands. It is quite likely that Mr. Sortedahl will spend several days in Iowa before returning home.

For sale—I am offering my boarding house property for sale at a bargain; ground is 60x140; house has seventeen rooms, large kitchen, dining room and parlors. Write or apply to L. A. Dautremont, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Dr. C. O. Smith came in from Reynolds, N. D., yesterday and last evening played clarinet with the local band at the concert. The band has assisted the band on two former occasions and has made many friends among our people.

S. C. Nauman returned today from his two weeks' visit with the home folks at Mendota, Illinois. He looks refreshed by his vacation and contrary to the expectations of his friends he returned in the state of single blessedness.

Crookston Journal: The new sheriff up in Red Lake county has a name that can be spelled in a dozen ways and the papers up there have run the entire gamut and have hit it only once or twice. Dan is Irish, though, he can take a joke.

O. H. Brink was down from St. Hilaire between trains Friday. It is understood that Brink Bros. are negotiating for the lease of Bemidji's leading hostlery, the Markham, and their reputation as successful hotelmen will be of much benefit in their new field.

Ferd M. de Lignasy writes his friends that he was married to Miss Lizzie Pullman, at Louisville, Ky., May 5, and that they left at once for the groom's home at North Yakima, Wash. The many friends of the groom will extend their congratulations.

The Presbyterian people expect a big this week for the construction work on the addition and repairs to their church. The estimated expense of the improvements is about $1,700, and when it is completed they will have a property worth at least $4,000.

Investigate the magazine library at Reichert's. For 20 cents a month you have the privilege of reading twelve standard magazines. You can have one magazine at a time and change as often as desired. This is an exceptional opportunity for magazine readers.

It is expected that the new K. of P. lodge at Thief River Falls will be instituted on Friday evening May 22. The Red Lake Falls lodge will perform the rank work, and it is quite likely that at least twenty-five members of the local lodge will go up on that occasion.

EdBray, the drayman, has recently purchased a complete outfit of appliances for moving pianos, and can now guarantee all work without scratch or mar to the instrument. Anyone wanting a piano moved should be sure to call on Mr. Bray. Call up 'phone 37. 2w

It is a big claim to make, but we can truthfully say that we believe there is not a retail yard in the state with a bigger stock of dry lumber and a better assortment of good grades than we have in our yard here in Red Lake Falls.—St. Hilaire Retail Lumber Co.

The front rooms of the Scheldrup block are being fitted and re arranged this week and Dentist F. F. Fletcher will hereafter occupy the entire front part of the second floor. He will furnish the rooms newly and make his dental parlors completely modern and up-to-date.

The warm rains of Sunday and Monday did a large amount of good to this section, and within a very short time the fields will be green with the growing grain. The season has been very favorable thus far and indications point to a bounteous year for the Red River valley.

D. H. Martin came over from Crookston Saturday and spent Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Theo. LaBissoniere. Mr. Martin recently disposed of his property interests in the Queen city and it is not unlikely that he will decide to make Red Lake Falls his future home.

Red Lake county lands will be more widely advertised than ever now that the E. L. Healy company has opened an office at St. Paul, just across from the Merchants hotel, and a big gold sign tells about the advantages of this section as a place for actual settlers to buy cheap lands and raise big crops.

The Great Northern section crew have been engaged in raising the trucks in the cut back of Main street and train loads of sand are being hauled in for ballasting. This branch is receiving considerable attention at the hands of the company, which would indicate that some important move is contemplated.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Hon. G. G. Rapp returned home this morning from California, where he has spent the winter. Charlie was warmly welcomed by his host of friends here, who were pleased to greet him after his long absence and glad to see that his health is as good or better than when he left us last fall.

E. J. Druecker assumed control of Hotel Markham at St. Hilaire Friday, and gave a reception and dance in the evening to commemorate the event, the orchestra from this place furnishing the music. The Markham has an excellent reputation as a first-class hostlery and Mr. Druecker intends to sustain its well-earned name.

John Moorhead, a young business man known to a good many Red Lake Falls people, has leased the Palace hotel at Crookston of Dan McKinnon and took possession the first of the month. John will make a hospitable landlord, and Red Lake county people will be assured of good treatment when they put up at his hostelry.

Superintendent Jeffers moved his office furniture from the Scheldrup block to the court house this week and now offices with Judge of Probate Tarrant. Four of the county officials now have desk room in that office, the judge of probate, superintendent of schools, county surveyor and court commissioner all being officially at home there.

Horace Hetu, a Red Lake Falls boy employed on the construction work of the new mill at Crookston, had a miraculous escape from death Tuesday, falling forty feet to the ground. He was picked up unconscious, and it was feared that he was badly hurt, but to the contrary he is ready to go to work again. Mr. Hetu came home yesterday for a few days' rest.

Zatique A. Cadieux has received returns from the civil service examination which he took at Grand Forks March 10, and is informed that his percentage is 75.20. As 70 is the required percentage to pass the examination, Mr. Cadieux is to be congratulated upon his success. He is now in line for appointment as railway mail clerk as soon as a vacancy exists.

In retaliation for the suit brought against her by Merchant Bothun for defamation of character, Miss Knudson of Thief River Falls threatens to institute proceedings for breach of promise with damages in the sum of $10,000, or $2,000 more than Bothun asks for. Miss Knudson's attorney has entered a general denial of all of the plaintiff's complaint. Miss Knudson was a clerk in Bothun's store.

A. P. Toupin and William Schwalen have formed a partnership in the land and loan business, under the name of the Toupin & Schwalen Land company. Both members of the firm are well known to Red Lake Falls people and will undoubtedly secure a share of the business in that line. The firm has already a nice list of choice well and improved lands and prospective buyers will make no mistake in investigating their bargains.

The high school base ball team drove up to Thief River Falls last Saturday and met the representatives of that school in a fierce battle on the diamond. Although this was our boys' first game this season they showed up in fine shape and not a Thief River player succeeded in reaching the coveted home plate, while Red Lake Falls piled up a total of fourteen runs. The "kid" band accompanied the ball team and furnished music for the occasion.

Peter Walker, George Walker, Solomon Greeley and E. G. Froelich, all of Marshall, are guests of the Healy company this week, and it is not unlikely that each of them will return home with a deed to a Red Lake county farm in his pocket. The Healy people say that land sales are easier to make this spring than at any previous time in the history of the county. This section has always raised good crops and has an excellent reputation with the people from other parts of the country.

Mr. McCoy of the East Grand Forks Lumber company gives it out that the mill recently destroyed by fire will be rebuilt at East Grand Forks at once, and it is expected that log sawing will be resumed some time in July. The capacity of the mill will be about the same as the old one, and instead of two band saws as before, there will be one band and one gang saw. A big force of men will be put to work at once and the work of construction pushed as rapidly as possible.

The Metropolitan opera house was crowed Monday night to witness the production of "A Thoroughbread Trump." This is one of the best companies that has ever visited the city, and is deserving of all the complimentary things said of it by the press and people naighboring towns. The opera house managers are endeavoring to give the people the best that can be secured in the way of repertoire companies, and the generous patronage of the public must be a source of gratification to them.

A large representation of our people gathered at the Metropolitan last evening to listen to the final indoor concert by the local band organization, and it is safe to say that the program came up to the fullest expectations of the large audience. Every number was rendered in a creditable way, and great praise is due Mr. L. P. Berthon for the manner in which he handled his flute solo, "Scenes that are Brightest," from Maritana. Here it can be said that the continued advancement of the band is very evident, and the work of the leader, Prof. C. O. Smith, is proof positive of his superiority among the bandmasters of the Northwest. The next concert will probably be given sometime this month and will ha the first of the open air series.

NATIONAL
Magazine Library

1 Munsey
2 Argosy
3 Cosmopolitan
4 Pearson's
5 McClure
6 Strand
7 Ainslee
8 Recreation
9 Everybody
10 Designer
11 Ladies Home Journal
12 Frank Leslie's Monthly
13 Review of Reviews
14 Smart Set
15 Scribner's
16 St. Nicholas
17 Metropolitan
18 Outing
19 World's Work
20 Lippincott's
21 Century
22 Harper's
23 Atlantic

TERMS—Membership is free. You may read the first twelve magazines for 20 cents per month, the first twenty magazines for 30 cents per month, and the entire list for 40 cents per month.

RULES—You can have one magazine at a time, changeas often as desired, or can keep magazine seven days.

Our special magazine cover ensures each person getting a clean magazine at all times.

A. L. Reichert's Drug Store

Special Prices for Saturday

Fancy Evaporated Pears (halves) worth 15c	10c	Gallon can Winter Apples, Dinner Party brand, 40c	29c
Fancy large California prunes, worth 12½	9c	Large can California Green Gages, cheap at 20c	16c
Large can Southern Peaches, well filled good flavor, 20c	15c	2lb cans green peas, light weigh, very ordinary, cheap at	6c
Large can Bartlett pears, nice fruit, worth 25c	19c	Mince meat, the best Heinz makes	12c

Several boxes fine Navel Oranges, Special prices for Saturday

FRESH GREEN STUFF on morning train.

BANGS & CO.

Watch This Space Next Week

It May Mean Dollars to You

Anderson & Healy

Handsome Calendars Given Away

TO introduce our Papetries and Tablets for the next ten days we will give free with each purchase a fancy 1903 CALENDAR (choice of two designs) and a BEAUTIFUL COLORED BLOTTER. It doesn't matter whether you buy a high-priced Papetrie or a 5-cent School Tablet.

New line of Typewriter Papers, Carbons, Pencils, and Office Supplies of all kinds. Choice selection of high-grade Papetries.

COURIER STATIONERY STAND

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

DIRECTORS:
A. P. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT; THEO. LABISSONIERE, VICE PRESIDENT; J. A. DUFFY, CASHIER; F. F. FLETCHER, ASST. CASHIER.
DIRECTORS—A. P. TOUPIN, SAM. GIBEAU, THEO. LABISSONIERE, J. A. DUFFY, CHAS. BOURDON, E. M. PETERSON, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL, $50,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

Deadly

LaGrippe Caused Heart Trouble, Nervous Prostration and Dyspepsia.

My Friends Knew Heart Cure Cured Me.

Mrs. C. O. Hurd, 118 W. Third St., Muscatine, Ia., is well known throughout her section of Iowa as an ardent worker in the M. E. Church. She says: "LaGrippe left me with a severe case of nervous prostration and heart trouble. I suffered from dizziness, headache, extreme nervousness and twitching of the muscles. The slightest exertion would cause shortness of breath, a weakness of my body and hot flashes with pain. I will tell you what I am constantly telling my friends —that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure cured me so that all these disagreeable symptoms left me. I may add that for severe pain I have never found anything to equal Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and think the Nerve and Liver Pills are a wonderful stomach remedy.

"Our son was stricken down with heart trouble, like myself. For two months he did not leave my side at night, so we commenced to use Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine, with the Nerve and Liver Pills and today he is sound and well. In fact he passed a physical examination since his sickness and is with the Army in the Philippines. I desire to add that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have certainly been a boon to me. I am frequently troubled with sick headache and after taking one I seem to be found anything that would relieve me so quickly and thoroughly. Am thankful to state that I am well there."—Mrs. Alice Hurd, Buffalo, Mo.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Get free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON.

LAMBERT, MINN.

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERA MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, LaGrippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE. NO PAY.

Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS.

RED LAKE FALLS.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

WEST-BOUND		ARRIVE	DEPART
No. 155. Mixed. Fosston to Grand Forks		7:45 a m	7:45 a m
EAST-BOUND
No. 156. Mixed. Grand Forks to Fosston		5:05 p m	5:05 p m

F. A. MIZEN, Agent.

DESTINY OF THE NEGRO

By Senator MORGAN of Alabama

I HAVE some opinions as to the capacity of the negro race for mental, moral and physical growth which do them no discredit. They are the result of observations of a long life that has been spent in their midst. Such opportunities have convinced me that THE NEGRO RACE HAS NOT A FAIR CHANCE FOR FULL DEVELOPMENT IN ANY COUNTRY WHERE THE WHITE RACE IS IN THE MAJORITY.

Not that the white man has any fear or jealousy of the power of the black man or any wish to keep him in a state of restraint or repression, but it is true, through all past history, that the negro race has never governed in a country where the white race is in the majority or even where it is found in considerable numbers.

In all ages of which we have historical records the negro race has occupied central and southern Africa, and they have made no real effort to exercise authority over races or nations that have occupied northern Africa or western Asia or southern Europe. They have been at all times free to migrate to southern Europe and have been protected by the laws while residing in those countries.

* * *

YET IN ALL THAT VAST AND ATTRACTIVE REGION THERE ARE PROBABLY FEWER NEGROES THAN CAN BE FOUND IN A SINGLE COUNTY IN ALABAMA, WHILE ALL SOUTHERN AFRICA IS NOW PRACTICALLY RULED BY WHITE MEN.

We may have different theories on which we account for these facts, but the facts remain, and they show the practical impossibility of the real advancement of the negro in a country where they are in competition with the white race.

The rule of obedience to law is the only rule that can secure to both races the blessings of domestic peace, and it is not a favorable condition for the peace and prosperity of either race that there is no stronger bond of union between them than the letter of the law.

As no different or stronger bond is possible between the white and black races in the United States I look to the ultimate separation, in peace and with good will, as the only solution of this difficult problem.

* * *

THIS WILL COME WITHOUT THE AID OF AGITATION FROM THE QUIET BUT IRRESISTIBLE FORCE OF PUBLIC NECESSITY, AND I HOPE MOST SINCERELY THAT IT WILL NOT BRING WITH IT ANY ILL FEELING ON THE PART OF EITHER RACE TOWARD THE OTHER.

The Indians who were once the occupants of all our present domain have been separated from the white race and located west of the Mississippi river.

It has required compulsion to accomplish this result, and the lesson has been a hard one to all concerned. I do not wish to see it repeated, and I don't believe that it will or can be repeated, but the separation will come at some future time.

AN EDUCATIONAL MISTAKE OF THE TIME

By President ARTHUR T. HADLEY of Yale University

THERE IS IN THESE DAYS A TENDENCY TO EXALT PHILOSOPHICAL INVESTIGATION AT THE EXPENSE OF TEACHING. Far be it from me to say one word which might seem to depreciate the value of research.

It is a thing of great importance to the community and those who are engaged therein often show themselves better teachers on that account. But we make a mistake if we fix our eyes too exclusively on research at the expense of teaching and estimate the value of a university solely on the former basis.

* * *

IT MAY BE TRUE THAT ONE REAL JURIST IS WORTH A HUNDRED ORDINARY LAWYERS, THAT ONE MEDICAL DISCOVERER DOES MORE GOOD THAN A THOUSAND PHYSICIANS, THAT ONE PROPHET IS WORTH 10,000 PREACHERS OF THE CONVENTIONAL TYPE. NEVERTHELESS THE INSTITUTION WHICH TRIES ONLY TO MAKE JURISTS OR DISCOVERERS OR PROPHETS WILL FAIL OF GIVING THE COUNTRY THE LAWYERS AND DOCTORS AND MINISTERS WHICH IT WANTS.

NATURE ABHORS EQUALITY

By Professor ISAAC FRANKLIN RUSSELL of the New York University Law School

EQUALITY CAN NEVER BE SECURED BY HUMAN LAW. NATURE ABHORS EQUALITY IN THE STARS OF THE HEAVENS, THE SANDS OF THE SEASHORE AND THE LEAVES OF THE FOREST.

Even in court the rich man with his learned counsel and his expert witnesses, with his debtors and pensioners in the jury box, on the witness stand or even on the judicial bench, is more than a match for his opponent who is a man of poverty in simple ignorance pleading his own cause.

* * *

The manhood wage involves the same erroneous assumption. This means, in substance, that a laboring man, a man of family, representing, as nearly as may be, the unit of toil, is entitled to a recompense which will provide a good living for himself and his dependents. Conditions of competition in production are to be ignored, and the needs of the toiler alone are to be considered.

"EQUAL WAGES FOR UNEQUAL SERVICES IS A GROSS OFFENSE AGAINST THE DICTATES OF EQUALITY AND JUSTICE.

EXCURSION RATES

Via Northern Pacific to Los Angeles and San Francisco.

On account of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, May 21 to June 2, and the convention of the national association of Master Plumbers at San Francisco, May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific railway will sell, from May 9 and May 12 to May 18 inclusive, first-class round trip tickets from all points except east of Superior.

To San Francisco, going and returning via Portland, $90.

To Los Angeles, going and returning via Portland, $60.

To Los Angeles or San Francisco, going and returning via St. Paul and direct southern routes, via Missouri river points, $60.

Tickets limited to July 10. Same rates apply on regular nine-months' California tourist tickets. For further information address Chas. S. Fee, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., or F. I. Miner, Agent, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

A Sure Thing.

It is said nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMeter of Shepardstown, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grippe, tonsilitis and consumption. Try it; it's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Trial bottles free. Reg. sizes 50c and $1.

Suggestive!

Chesty, the baker, and Jimmie, the dago, had a bet argument a few days ago. It was nip and tuck for a long time, but finally Jimmie exclaimed, with infinite scorn and that lofty union which he assumes on occasions: "Me no here for stealin da chick! Me here for killin on twoa peop." That settled Chesty.—Sing Sing Star of Hope.

The X-Rays.

Recent experiments, by practical tests and examination with the aid of the X-Rays, establish it as a fact that catarrh of the stomach is not a disease of itself, but that it results from repeated attacks of indigestion. "How can I cure my indigestion?" Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is curing thousands. It will cure you of indigestion and dyspepsia, and prevent or cure catarrh of the stomach. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Wanted for College President.

A determined effort is being made to secure the Rev. Dr. Rob Roy MacGregor Converse of Rochester, N. Y., as president of Hobart College, which has been without a head for two years.

From a Cat Scratch

on the arm, to the worst sort of a burn, sore or boil, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a quick cure. In buying Witch Hazel Salve, be particular to get DeWitt's—this is the salve that heals without leaving a scar. A specific for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles. Sold by A. Reichert.

Should Say No.

By the way, wouldn't it be a good plan for those lamentable young girls who are invited out to have a drink and then get knockout drops not to accept the invitation to go out and have a drink?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured if Coke's Cough Cure is taken in time. It is wonderfully soothing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Children like it and its guaranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

Wealthy Men Win Prize.

Twenty-five thousand pounds, the first prize in a Prussian state lottery, has been won by four members of a wealthy banking firm at Halle.

To Assist Chinese Government.

Alfred Jessop of Brooklyn, has been selected to assist the Chinese government in the work of currency system reorganization.

HERE'S HEALTH FOR YOU.

A. L. REICHERT, Red Lake Falls; W. A. SCHREITER, Red Lake Falls
IMPERIAL DRUG CO., St. Hilaire.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes New Tobaccos New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Props

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class in Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Steams guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and prices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. M. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Hedgecorn & Roth ort's drug store.
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, probating of estates and examination of titles.
Offices over Bangs and Co.'s store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerrimane's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the states of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

The Mysterious Nature of Money

By ROBERT DE MONTESQUIOU-FEZENSAC,
The French Count Now Lecturing in This Country.

In a striking passage of his moral works Leopardi tells us that money is essentially mysterious, and they alone have treated it worthily who have approached it under its psychic aspects.

Consider the organic nature of offers of loans. Though the friend who volunteers a favor may specify with details of time and place circumstances under which he will hold us bound to apply to him, let the foreseen event arise and, if we are naive enough to recall to him his promise, almost before we open our lips he is in flight. Yet our pseudo lender may be equally sincere in promise and retreat, for it is precisely the fulfillment of the law of money which blocks his performance.

Another manifestation of its mystery is the mortification which attaches to every solicitation of money. Outside of a few vulgar souls, ignorant of the noble beauty of desire simply expressed, people do not hesitate to show appreciation of an object of art, even of a jewel, the acceptance of which would please giver as much as recipient. But if it be a question of that medium which serves for the acquisition of everything else, and whose value resides, no doubt, in the variety of employments one can imagine one's self making of it, its price appears so great that one dares not speak of it except as a loan, even when both parties to the transaction are amused at the euphemism.

Sensitive persons often deprive themselves of the most innocent pleasure rather than ask of an avaricious relative an increase of a modest allowance.

"I'd rather die!" is the usual and scarcely hyperbolic formula of this reluctance. One would say that money questions were scandalous parts of conversation. When we mention them we lower our voices. If the narrator persists we blush, as for an indecency.

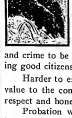
Another subtle reason for pecuniary shame lies in what I shall call the inverse ingratitude of those who do us favors. The ingratitude of those who receive, which is, perhaps, only a physiological phenomenon—a repulsion, a revulsion—or a religious phenomenon, obliging the giver to await his reward from On High, is a thing understood; but it is not rare to see the giver himself look coldly, because of the pain of his gifts, upon a protege who is full of sincerest gratitude.

Who knows if the curse and the mystery of money be not involved in the history of the thirty pieces with which, after Judas had cast them away, was bought the field of blood, the Aceldama?

Comte Robert de Montesquiou

The Economy of Probation Work

By MISS ANNIE ROOME,
Court Probation Officer, Brooklyn, N. Y.



The immediate saving to the community when an offender is paroled in charge of a probation officer is obvious: The boy who is watched in his own home instead of being committed to an institution, the man or woman who is left at liberty to continue daily work instead of being confined in reformatory or jail is not a burden on the taxpayer.

An equally direct advantage is scarcely more remote: The most practical way of lessening the burdens of the citizen imposed through ravages of the criminal class lies in the prevention of pauperism and crime to be effected through taking hold of the young and making good citizens out of material that promises bad ones.

Harder to estimate but of incalculable importance is the positive value to the community of men and women saved for lives of self-respect and honesty.

Probation work teaches faith in human nature. I have never had a delinquent committed to my charge attempt to break from supervision. When a boy is impressed with the fact that he is under control of the State and is left at liberty only while he obeys, when he is watched and advised, not as a criminal but as a headstrong lad for whom something must be done, the case is rare in which he does not respond to the efforts made to form him for good citizenship.

Work for girls is hopeful because so often they go wrong through ignorance, and it needs but patience, tact and instruction, with perhaps the finding of work remote from the influences that have led them astray, to set them again on the right road.

The perfection of charity is not to help the whimming ones who demand at the hands of public bounty a crust of bread and a roof to cover their mendicant heads. The purest charity lies in looking into conditions before the cry for help becomes necessary, and placing the prospective beggar or criminal in such environments that there shall be no necessity for a cry for aid from their fellow men.

THE REPUBLIC OF MAN

By PROF. NATHANIEL SCHMIDT,
Of Cornell University.

THE great national questions which are at present causing so much consternation in this and other countries will be settled by the International Republic of Man. This republic will be the salvation of civilization.

Perhaps the greatest creation of the world to-day are the trusts, because they are internationally organized. Such will be the case of the republic of man. The men of the world should be cemented together to vote as one nation and be represented so. The Hague international conference of peace, brought about by the czar of Russia, was the first step toward the great empire of man. Now that they have paved the way it is only a matter of a short time before a duly elected and organized legislative body will sit for the purpose of representing every man in the world.

A republic is the people's concern. There are a lot of things, internationally, especially, where the people are concerned.

We want better conditions. For this reason the nations should get together on an equality as do the states of this country.

After everything has failed to stop war arbitration should be tried. The Hague arbitration is becoming more and more permanent and necessary as there will be other things to settle besides war. A regular legislature will necessarily have to be formed. A legislative assembly is the present wish of all nations of the earth.

Money and coinage are other questions which can be settled only before the parliament of the republic of man.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN.

Arrivals of Immigrant Children at New York Exceed Those of All Previous Times.

The arrivals of immigrant children on two days recently broke all previous records at Ellis island, N. Y. Never in the history of New York harbor, or any other American port, have so many small passengers been taken out of the steerage quarters. More than one-half of the 4,500 immigrants who arrived on Sunday were family parties, and of the 2,000 who reached port Monday there was an equal percentage of mothers with large broods. Few families contained fewer than five children, and many of them counted ten or 12. The average was seven. It was no uncommon sight to see a mother 25 years old with from six to eight, and one placid eyed Slovenian woman acknowledged the maternity of 16 boys and girls who gathered about her while they awaited the appearance of the husband and father. This mother was 42 years old and carried a nursing child in her arms. Her eldest daughter, aged 27, had seven children of her own, and of the two younger married daughters one had a family of five and the other of four. Each of the families contained at least one pair of twins, the 16 in the original family having been increased by two sets of double births and one of triplets.

MARCONI SYSTEM FOR VESSELS

Wireless Telegraphy to Be Used at New York Harbor to Enable Ships to Communicate with Shore.

In order that vessels held outside the harbor in time of fog may communicate with New York city as once, the International Mercantile Marine company, known as the steamship trust, has arranged for the installation here of a Marconi system in every detail. It is not infrequent that vessels are fog-bound for as long as two days and as they are not seen by marine observers, their delay is a cause of annoyance and apprehension. All steamers equipped with Marconi apparatus will have equal privileges, and the station will be for the use of the general public.

A contract has been entered into between the International company and Reuter's News Agency of England by which the agency is to furnish each of the International's vessels with a resume of the world's news as soon as the ship comes into communicating distance with the station at the Lizard. The Reuter's news service will be inaugurated at once.

Poison Made Body Luminous.

At the inquest of a man who died at the London Hospital recently from swallowing rat poison it developed that the whole of his body was luminous in the dark. The rat poison contained phosphorus.

Must Be Healthy Town.

Two men and one woman living in Worcestershire, England, state that they are centenarians.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 23, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $50 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

J. M. BRAY.
FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES
Slickest Place in Town to Drop in and Get ::

Fine Cigars
Wines and Liquors.
BREYONY RYE. :: K. O. R. WHISKEY

WHY?
The reason One Minute Cough Cure relieves coughs, colds, croup, etc., because it will first get the mucous membrane right where the cough troubles—in the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs—and destroy the germs or cough germs and clearing the passages.
One Minute Cough Cure not only destroys the disease germs, and cures our fair patient, but it gives nature's own remedy to the delicate membranes of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, so that they are not left in a raw and inflamed condition, causing a cough, but are healed and soothed. Nothing else causes the blood to receive its natural supply of oxygen, thus building up the system, as One Minute Cough Cure. It is the only remedy that acts quickly; it moves directly upon the membranes and relieves instantly. It is the best remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Grippe, Cold on the Lungs and all Pulmonary Complaints that are curable are quickly cured by its use of

ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE
Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO., Chicago.

HAY STACK COVERS
Save Hay and Grain
Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
Mention this paper. 1 to 5 EXPOSITION BLDG.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Big Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter druggist. Trial bottles free.

WELL - DIGGING.
I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.
Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention in this work. Leave orders at Courier office.
A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

O. K. SALOON
Is the Place to Go for Choice
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.
J. E. BRAY

A Bad Breath

A bad breath means a bad stomach, a bad digestion, a bad liver. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache.
25c. All druggists.

Want your mustache a beautiful brown or rich black? Then use
BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers
It Dyes It Brown or Black. Sold by all Druggists, or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Capital Stock, $35,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.
I. WYER, President.
P. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GANCEAU, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
I. I. Wyer. P. E. Hunt. Theo Ganceau.
Chas. W. Bowden. A. F. Engen.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE. FAST TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL.

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South.

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BOUND		EAST BOUND
Lv 8 30 a.m.	St. Paul	Ar 7 15 p.m.
9 00 p.m.	Minneapolis	Ar 7 00 p.m.
8 05 a.m.	Crookston	Ar 8 10 p.m.
9 15 a.m.	Fisher	Ar 6 55 p.m.
9 45 a.m.	Grand Forks	Ar 6 25 p.m.
10 05 a.m.	Larimore	Ar 6 05 p.m.
10 50 a.m.	Wyle	Ar 5 20 p.m.
10 50 a.m.	Ar	Lv 5 15 p.m.
11 00 a.m.	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 5 05 p.m.
12 25 p.m.	Thief River Falls	Lv 3 45 p.m.

O. THOMAS Agent.

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Choicest and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Remarkable Readings, etc., in ten handsome volumes, illustrated with fine photogravures and color plates

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS.
Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of English Parliament
Rossiter Johnson
Author and Litterateur
Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Collaborator
Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man Without a Country"
Jonathan P. Dolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa
John B. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Georgia
Nathan Haskell Dole
Associate Editor "International Library of Famous Literature"
James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureau, Author and Litterateur
George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University
Lorenzo Sears
Professor of English Literature, Boston University
Edwin M. Bacon
Former Editor "Boston Herald"
Dr. Geoffrey Cowan
Medical Editorial Staff "New York Tribune"
J. Walker McSpadden
Managing Editor "Editor and Publisher"
Marcus Benjamin
Editor, Washington Department, "Washington Star"
Truman A. DeWeese
Member Editorial Staff "Chicago Times-Herald"
William W. Matos
Member Editorial Staff "Philadelphia Evening Telegraph"
Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri
Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist. We see the speaker; we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

THOMAS B. REED

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in ten volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7½ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravures portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi color.

THE LIBRARY is published in ten volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7½ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravures portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi color.

1 VOL now ready
1 VOL Oct. 1903
2 VOL Nov. 1903
3 VOL Dec. 1903
4 VOL Jan. 1904
5 VOL Feb. 1904
6 VOL March 1904
7 VOL April 1904
8 VOL May 1904
9 VOL June 1904
10 VOL July 1904

CONVENIENCE—Delivery of volumes as issued. Payments as convenient. Send for illustrated prospectus, containing specimen pages, photogravures and complete plans; also full particulars regarding terms, prices, etc.

Name .....
Business .....
Street .....
City and State .....

Mail to John D. Morris & Company, Publishers, Philadelphia, Penna.

[Co-op]

Many are the Bargains

At the BIG STORE

.. THIS WEEK ..

Special Sale of Japanese Matting..

36 in. Matting, worth 22c now at, per yard..... 12c

Regular 30c kind 22c; rag carpet 25c.

.. Sun Bonnets ..

A good one for 10c, should bring 15c; A better one with ruffles, fast colors, assorted, 20c.

.. Carpets ..

Don't pass us by when you want a carpet. A pile of samples on hand. Carpets all sewed up delivered inside of a week. For a cheap bed room or dining room carpet our Cottage carpet is a wonder; fast color, reversible, smooth surface, so it sweeps easily, hard textured, so the dust does not go through; beautiful ingrain patterns, price only... 30c

We are closing out our Spring Jackets

Get a jacket at your own price; fine covert jackets, tan and blue, worth $6 for $3.75; others worth $4 for $2.20. Misses' mackinaws worth $2.50 for $1.69. Just the thing for school.

Special in Curtains

Regular size, with fringe, best rollers, only 25c

See our big new line of Lace Curtains, the best line ever shown in the city. We show a good standard size at 45c, and on up to $7 per pair.

White Shirt Waists

Our line cannot be beaten. Bought in the East, where style originates, you are sure to get the latest from us.

Skirts

All kinds—a good one for $1.75, made full and will fit well. We show you no old truck as we were sold out before the arrival of our stock.

GROCERY SPECIALS THIS WEEK

Oat Meal, 30 lbs for $1;
Anchovies, 5c lb;
Uncle Sam Smoking, same as
True Smoke, 30c lb.
3 bars Tar Soap for 5c;
Labrador Herring, 3c lb;
Cottolene, 25 and 50c pails, cheaper than lard and a third less needed;
Chase & Sanborn's Coffees fresh every week.

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Four rooms for rent.—Inquire of Mrs. J. J. Doe.

Little Maurice Sieff has been seriously ill this week.

Douglass shoes in twelve styles at Garesau & Zaiser's.

S. A. Swanson has 200 bushels of fine seed flax for sale.

William Eiselhoff was down from St. Hilaire yesterday.

Ralph Healy is the proud possessor of a fine new cornet.

Paul Reich's girl was reported dangerously ill this week.

C. L. Hanson, of Crookston, was here the first of the week.

See Lewis & Higinbotham before writing your hail insurance.

METROPOLITAN Opera House

ANDERSON & HEALY, Managers.

Grand Ball

Under Auspices of Red Lake Falls Orchestra.....

Friday Evening,

May 15

Everyone Come

J. K. Ranney, the St. Hilaire banker, was at the county seat Monday.

Good farm horse for sale or trade for a light team. See S. A. Swanson.

Joe Morrisette was an over-night business visitor at Crookston Friday.

A letter remains unclaimed in the Red Lake Falls postoffice for Frank Bailey.

Gentleman's Patent Oxfords, Douglass make, at Garesau & Zaiser's.

Walter Burrill and C. E. Camp, of Morris, were visitors to the city Tuesday.

E. Chatel was at Crookston several days of this week on a business mission.

C. W. Richards, of Bristow, Iowa, was in the city Wednesday on land business.

S. J. Small, a Devils Lake real estate man, was here the forepart of the week.

E. M. English returned home yesterday from a trip to his old home at Marshall.

Sheriff Linnehan and Banker Duffy drove to Crookston Monday on business.

Attorney Germo and Miss Eleanor Pladeisen drove to St. Hilaire last Saturday.

Miss Sophie Belair returned today from an extended stay at Thief River Falls.

E. Chatel went to Crookston Saturday for a visit of several days with friends.

Rev. Father Charles is down from Thief River Falls today, a guest of Father Ansgar.

Mrs. N. W. Tarrant visited with friends at Thief River Falls over Tuesday night.

Robert Raney returned today from a week's business visit at Grafton, North Dakota.

Frank Martin returned to Crookston Tuesday after a two weeks visit with his sister.

Helmuth Zaiser has been confined to the house this week with an attack of the grip.

George Jarman, a prominent Thief Riverite, was down Monday on a business mission.

A dance was held at the home of D. Bray Friday evening and an enjoyable time was had.

Don't fail to investigate the merits of the magazine library at A. L. Reichert's drug store.

Miss Brown, a teacher in the Thief River public schools, called on friends here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Kaufer expect to leave next week on an extended trip to the Pacific coast.

The family of Joseph Wagner left Monday for Washington where they will reside in the future.

Full line of ledgers, journals and blank books of all kinds at The Courier stationery stand.

Frank Cyr has commenced the erection of a substantial residence on his lots on Third street.

Attorney James McIntyre was down from the upper Falls on professional business Monday.

August Westphal returned Saturday from a business trip through the southern part of the state.

A big bargain—combination book case and writing desk, sale price only $11.75.—Anderson & Healy.

Miss Etta Zaiser returned Monday from Merrium Park, where she has spent the winter with her sister.

W. A. McIntyre spent Sunday at Thief River Falls a guest at the home of his friend, Peri W. Mahey.

Theo. LaBissoniere's little daughter is much improved, and is now thought to be entirely out of danger.

The high school base ball team will meet the Crookston high school team on the local diamond Saturday.

The Leader Store is this week offering a combination book case and writing desk, large size, for $11.75.

Protest your crops against hail in a company that has always paid its losses in full—Lewis & Higinbotham.

Commissioner Hanson was down from Thief River Falls Tuesday in the interest of his milling company.

Bernard F. Tenney, of Oberlin, Ohio, was the guest of his brother, T. E., a couple of days of this week.

Mrs. J. C. Engerman went to Crookston Saturday for a visit of a week or ten days at the home of her sister.

Mrs. H. J. Kaufer was at Thief River several days of this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Murphy.

Jos. McCaffrey and Ned Taylor took in the opening ball at Hotel Markham in St. Hilaire last Friday evening.

John P. Carlson's daughter has been sick with pneumonia during the past week, but is now somewhat improved.

Mrs. J. D. Kuns, of Thompson, Iowa, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. John Conner, in Terrebonne township.

Ed. Gildersleeve, connected with the Merchants Bank at Crookston, was looking after business affairs here Monday.

Building improvements about the city are numerous this spring and promises of a healthy building boom are apparent.

H. W. Ollig, of Arlington, Minn., was the guest of his wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Altnow, the fore part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Allard and Miss Helen Brady drove to St. Hilaire Sunday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. O'Brien.

A. Picha held an auction sale of his household effects yesterday. The family intends leaving for Washington in the near future.

A special meeting of the board of county commissioners will be held May 22 to hear the engineer's report on the Rocksbury ditch.

H. L. Dudley, one of the energetic hustlers of the Thief River Press, was a county seat business caller between trains Saturday.

C. F. Johnson left yesterday for St. Vincent, where he is looking after the Red Lake Falls Milling company's elevator interests.

Miss Della Gervais returned to her Grand Forks home Saturday after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Albert Brunelle.

The Union Land and Investment company is showing the lands in this vicinity to a party of farmers from southern Minnesota this week.

The contract for 25,000 yards of excavating on the Garues and the Garues and Lambert ditches will be let by Auditor Ford next week.

J. F. Mathews and wife, of Dorothy, are entertaining a new girl at their house. The new arrival put in her appearance Sunday morning.

Dr. J. E. Argue made his regular monthly professional visit at St. Hilaire this week, going on Saturday and remaining until Tuesday.

C. J. Rose, manager of the woolen mill at Fergus Falls, was in the city this visiting old friends and doing a stroke of business for his factory.

John J. Soll drove down from St. Hilaire today on a business visit. He was accompanied by his cousin, Miss Minnie Soll, of Park River, N. D.

The Red Lake Falls orchestra will give a grand ball at the Metropolitan on Friday evening, May 15. An enjoyable time is looked forward to.

Crookston streets will resemble the result of a cyclone for the rest of the summer as the work of paving the streets was commenced last week.

For galls, wounds, sores and diseases of the skin or feet of horses and cattle there is no remedy equal to Cole's Veterinary Carbolsalve. Flies will not bother a sore on which it is used and it positively heals without scars. Guaranteed satisfactory 50c and $1.00 by all druggists.

Frank Jeffers has a few uncalled-for orders of fruit and ornamental trees for sale at a bargain. Be sure to see him quick if you want any of them.

Health is a strong body nourished by pure blood. This will result from taking a few bottles of Cole's Bluddbiter, the pure vegetable blood purifier and nerve tonic. It is all its name implies and it's guranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

Thos. Deforge, who went to Crookston some weeks ago to undergoan operation for appendicitus, returned home yesterday entirely recovered.

Mand—Last night Jack told me that he wouldn't marry the best girl living unless —what—unless she took Rocky Mountain Tea. Sensible fellow. 350. A. L. Reichert.

The lawn tennis season is now on in full blast. The club courts on Third street were completed yesterday, and the first games played that evening.

Give the children Rocky Mountain Tea this month, makes them strong, makes them eat, sleep and grow. Good for the whole family. A spring tonic that makes sick people well. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

The Red Lake Falls and Thief River ball teams meet on the diamond at the latter city on the 17th inst. It is expected that the contest will be an exciting one.

Spring laziness, legs ache, back aches, feel tired, no ambition, no appetite, all run down feeling. Rocky Mountain Tea puts new life into your body; you feel good all over. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

O. R. Pederson, the Thief River cigarmaker, was a business caller here Friday and Saturday. Mr. Pederson reports himself as enjoying a flattering patronage.

Walter Burrill, the Morris agent of the Johnson-Van Sant Land company, was a guest of local agent Dravesen each several days of this week, looking over this part of the Valley.

A. C. Wanderlich, auditor of the Robertson Lumber company, was over from Grand Forks Saturday to "check up" agent Johnson and found everything in the usual "ship shape."

More people have been relieved and cured of piles by Cole's Carbolsalve than by any other remedy. There is nothing equals it for burns, wounds and sores of all kinds. Try it and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

White Plymouth Rocks.

I have 80 choice White Plymouth Rock chickens, which I brought from Illinois. Will sell eggs for hatching during the season. Henry Gonigam.

Tired Out

"I was very poorly and could hardly get about the house. I was tired out all the time. Then I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it only took two bottles to make me feel perfectly well."—Mrs. N. S. Swiney, Princeton, Mo.

Tired when you go to bed, tired when you get up, tired all the time. Why? Your blood is impure, that's the reason. You are living on the border line of nerve exhaustion. Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and be quickly cured. It's a tonic. All druggists.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows with whom to prescribe his family medicine. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied.

J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 31.

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or sub'division	Sec	Twp	Range	Amt sold for taxes	Year of forfeiture	Amt add'l for taxes	Date sold to purchaser	Amt paid for redemption
								Mo Day Yr
John C. Rube	Original Town of Thief River Falls	4	7	45 W	$ 6.68	1902	.62	Mar 21 1903	7.70

To JOHN C. RUBE:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 4th day of May, A. D. 1903, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1903, for the sum of Six Dollars and Sixty-eight Cents (6.68) and costs and disbursements of said action, I, the undersigned, the duly elected, qualified and acting County Auditor in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums, the following described real estate in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums, the following described real estate in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums, the following described real estate

Historical Society
HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 32. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 14, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 240.

GREAT NORTHERN'S NEW LINE TO ROSEAU

Crossing at McIntosh—Road to Touch Red Lake County Three Miles East of Lambert Postoffice.

It is evident that the Great Northern has abandoned its plan of extending the Thief River line and intends to reach the Roseau country by an extension of the Pelican Rapids branch. Regarding the new survey the Crookston Times says:

The Great Northern surveyors, who have been working on the north end of the Pelican Rapids extension, have completed their work south of McIntosh, and moved north. Just what or where they are headed for is a secret which is being carefully guarded, but looks like Roseau, with a possible extension to Warroad.

"Their course so far as outlined is a trifle east and north and takes them about three miles east of Lambert and from sixteen to twenty miles east of Thief River Falls.

"Following this course and assuming that Roseau is their destination, they would run into that village by way of the old trail a little to the west of the south fork of the Roseau river. This would give them an excellent location and the cream of the territory east of their present lines.

"South from here, the line as located runs a little to the west of due south. Leaving the Duluth line at the switch, it curves to the south east and follows down the west side of the bog a little west of the forty line through the center of the east half of sections 21, 28 and 33, town of King, thence running a little west of south and through the White Earth reservation, cutting the forty on which the Sletten store stands.

"The crossing at McIntosh is made by entering the yard from the south at the east switch and leaving the yard for the north by the west switch. Through the reservation the line is said to be very nearly parallel to the Soo's survey, and it looks as though the intention was to follow out the same policy regarding their projected line north."

GRIM REAPER'S HARVEST.

Death of Mrs. John B. Connor, of Terrebonne Township.

Mrs. Della Kuns Connor, wife of John B. Connor, of Terrebonne township, died Monday forenoon from a complication of diseases after a protracted illness. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the Presbyterian church in Red Lake Falls, Rev. Andrew Walker conducting the service. The deceased leaves a husband and three children (two boys and a girl), to mourn her untimely death.

Mrs. Connor was born in 1872 in Livingston county, Ill., and moved to Iowa in 1890. In January of this year the family moved to the Laurent farm in Terrebonne, which Mr. Connor purchased last fall. Mrs. J. D. Kuns, of Thompson, Iowa, mother of the deceased, was with her daughter during the last week of her sickness. Mr. Kuns arrived Tuesday morning to attend the funeral.

The Conner family has certainly had more than their share of misfortune since their brief residence in Red Lake county. Less than two months ago two of the children died of diphtheria. To the husband and motherless little ones will go out a generous measure of sympathy.

Four rooms for rent.—Inquire of Mrs. J. J. Doe.

SENATOR CLAPP WILL TRY TO FIX MATTERS

Author of the Reservation Bill Will Lay the Case Before the Interior Department Officials.

Mayor Frank Kratka, of Thief River Falls, was in St. Paul Saturday in conference with Senator Moses E. Clapp, regarding the matter of the negotiations with the Red Lake Indians, about which Indian Agent James McLaughlin recently visited the reservation.

It seems that the treaty which provided this reservation for the Indians mentioned the Red Lake Indians only, and in concise terms, which could not be mistaken, but now that the ratification of the treaty passed by the last congress is laid before the Indians and their agents, the Pembina and Mandan Indians lay claim to recognition in the deal. This treaty referred to provides for the turning over of certain lands of the reservation to the government, made possible by the great falling off in the red population. The Pembinas and Mandans are upheld by the Indian department, and thus all the plans and work of weary months are gone for nothing.

Mr. Kratka was very much wrought up over the matter and stated that he would never stand to see such a deal go through, saying:

"If the White Earth Indians, of whom the Pembinas and Mandans are members, are included in this treaty, why were they not in the other deals and transactions? I've seen Senator Clapp, and he is soon going to Washington and will lay the matter before the department and explain it as I have done to him in detail.

"Everyone said, when Maj. McLaughlin came up to treat with the Pembinas that we could never do anything with them; but we had the matter all settled, with the exception of a few minor details, when this message from the secretary of the interior came and put an end to all our plans and work. No one will ever know what a time we had to get those Pembina chiefs to settle with us and to agree to the ratification of the matter—oh, it's disgusting!"

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

Billy Bennett's..... Big Show

Bigger and Better Than Ever

25 -- PEOPLE -- 25

Band and Orchestra

One grand continuous performance. New plays. Specialties between acts. Drama Vaudeville, Music.

Admission, Adults only 25c. Children only 10c.

At the big tent two nights only, commencing,

Monday Evening, May 18

WHY THE INDIANS REJECTED TREATY

Proposal to Open the Eleven Townships Failed Because of Neglect to Provide Cash Payment.

The six day council of the Red Lake band of Chippewa Indians, which closed last week, refused to ratify the act of congress of March 3, 1903, proposing to open to settlement eleven townships of land in Red Lake county, at the west end of their reservation.

This, of course will disappoint the people of the city of Thief River Falls who had a host of new settlers in fair prospect. It also will disappoint the people who have been watching proceedings, expecting to settle on the lands. But the imperturbable aborigine could not be persuaded to accommodate any of theso good people, however deserving or needy.

The general public may be surprised at this decision of the red man. It has come to understand that the Indian is always willing to part with anything for ready cash. The understanding has been that there was a big pile of spending money soon to be realized from the sale of this fair slice of their domain. But the proposed treaty did not made provision either for cash or security for deferred payments.

The Indians could not see it to their interest to sell this, their best and last agricultural land on the promise of the government to pay for it in sixteen annual dribs if settlers happened ever to pay in enough to start the ball rolling. The provision that they should not receive any money until $200,000 should be collected in such sums as poor settlers might be able to pay, did not appeal to them as satisfying their need of ready cash. There was no probability that the fund would reach that amount until after the settlers' second deferred payment. This would make it two or three years before they would receive a dollar.

The failure to provide for a cash down payment of some amount is virtually what defeated the treaty. The author of the bill doubtless thought he had provided liberally for an early payment. He probably assumed that one-fifth the purchase price, paid with the settler's bid, would produce the $300,000 first payment to the Indians, as well as the $20,000 for abandoned improvements and that all this could be put into their hands early next winter. But when the Indian began to figure out his chances of smoking cash tobacco next Christmas he threaded the labyrinth by a strip of red tape miles in length. Uncle Sam was to handle around and sell enough raw prairie at not less than $4 an acre, with a five-year residence stipulation that a 20 per cent cash installment added to one or two or three 16 per cent annual installments, might raise a fund of $320,000 before making any settlement or even allowing his worthy red-skinned nephew any spending money.

Friends of the proposed treaty tried to make the Indians believe that some of the lands close to the city would sell so high that the first payment, one-fifth of the price bid, would bring the sum required for first distribution, but that would show the tract to be worth $1,000,000. This is one-half more than they asked for the land in last year's treaty. Congress refused to ratify that at a price of $1,000,000. The Chippewas were a little chary of the proposal now to give them a million and a half. They thought there must be a white man's trap in this somewhere.

One of the tribal spokesmen said in the council that he had been nipped so often that he was a little "leary" of the white man's traps. He enumerated several historical instances upon his reservation which elicited quite a general grunt of approval from his constituency. He said the Indian set traps for some small animals, but it took the white man to set traps for uneducated Indians. The little fur animals learned to know a trap but did not learn to keep out of it. He was trying to stay out of things that might be traps, for it did him no good to find out after he was in a trap.

In order that a 20 per cent installment should raise $320,000 every acre must bring $6.25. One-fourth of the land will not sell at all at the $4 minimum price. There are 14,000 acres proposed to be deducted for school lands, leaving 181,500 acres salable upon which to realize a sale price of $1,600,000. This requires an average of $8.80 per acre and five years' residence. It will hardly bring it twenty-five years hence. The Indian knows very little about the acre value of lands, and cares less, but he takes an interest in figuring out discrepancies in the white man's figures when looking for traps.

One provision to which the Indians offer strenuous objection is that setting apart sections 16 and 36 in each congressional township for school purposes. They say that the state of Minnesota never has done anything for them, and never will, and they can see no reason why they should give the commonwealth $36,000 for nothing. They pay for their own schools and are too poor to pay for educating the rich white men's children or even to help out the poor whites coming into this country by selling lands on the installment plan.

The rich white men must help the poor ones and not call on the Indian who is poorer than any of them, to give anything. He has some lands to sell, but none to give away. He knows that white men and their government have the power to take the lands, but should not all the Indians to sign a law saying it is right. It is wrong. We are too poor to do it.

Another feature objectionable to the Red Lake band is that the Pembina band shall share in the proceeds of the sales. They have been given full allotments on the White Earth reservation. They insist that the Pembinas do not belong on this reservation and that they have no rightful interest in the land under negotiation. What few Rainy Lake and Pembina Chippewas live on the reservation are enrolled as Red Lake Indians, but the Pembina band, as such, never lived here and at the suggestion of the white man took allotments down at White Earth long ago.

The Indians say they wish to be friendly to white people, but think it is imposing on good nature to ask them to sell their most desirable lands on fifteen years' credit without any security, waiting for two or three years for the first payment, just to accommodate a lot of poor, ignorant immigrants, who want to buy homes on the installment plan.

The act specially provides that the government does not guarantee the payment of anything. The tribe fear that a free homes bill may be passed next session of congress that will leave the settlers on the land without their having paid enough into the treasury to make the required amount for first distribution to the Indians, and that nothing ever will be received for the land.

The speakers have not objected in so many words to the lack of any cash payment, but it is easily seen that their minds are fixed upon that point. The giving away the school sections, the sharing with the Pembinas, the fear of some trick, and the ceaseless talk of the old fellows who claim to have been trapped so often are the causes of defeat for the treaty.

Major McLaughlin has labored patiently in the council. He has explained fully and repeatedly every clause and provision of the act and has tried to convince them that the treaty would be beneficial to them. They consider him fair and assure him of their friendship, but they do not sign the treaty. One speaker hoped the major would continue to be their friend, and one of the boys, without requiring the Red Lake Chippewa to give up to him all his goodies and playthings just to keep him in good humor.

TIME TO PAY TAXES.

June 1 Penalty Is added to Real Estate Taxes.

May 31 is the last day for the payment of real estate taxes for the first half of 1902. On the first day of June a penalty of 10 per cent will be added. As a result of the near approach of the time limit the treasurer's office is a busy place these days.

THE SURPRISE STORE

We are the Leaders. The Only Up-to-date Clothing House in the County

Our perfect stocks of HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX correct, high-grade Men's and Young Men's Clothes are without doubt the best in America. The correct and confined styles, the perfection of designing and tailoring and the extraordinary values always to be found here, visibly demonstrates the cause of the enormous increase of our sales. The best values ever shown in this country, smart suits of noted fit and durability, permanent hair cloth fronts, hand-made collars and lapels, sturdy materials in hundreds of patterns as well as black and blues

Copyright 1903 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

We Guarantee Every Suit Being Practically as Good and in Most Cases Better Than Tailor-Made.

BOYS' CLOTHING

Base ball and bat or catcher's mitt given free with every boys' suit....

Our line of Boys' Clothes in Blouses, Norfolks, two and three-piece suits is now complete; made of rich fabrics in plain worsteds and serges, thibets and fancy cheviots.

Red Lake Falls' Greatest Hat Store

We are Sole Agents for the Celebrated HAWES HATS

We carry them in all shades, in soft and stiff. That we carry the best $3 Hats in the Northwest is conclusive by our enormous increase in sales.

GENT'S FURNISHINGS

Extraordinary sale of Men's Negligee Shirts, plaited or plain fronts, in figures, stripes and dark effects. The very latest designs. Don't fail to see our swell line of Neckwear in bows, tecks, four-in-hands and imperial ascots. Nothing more complete or dressy to a gentleman's wardrobe than a fancy vest. By far the largest rassortment in these parts. Twenty-five styles of plain, stripes and figures to select from. Beautiful designs and confined patterns with all the latest improvements.

Berthon & Armstrong, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Mayor Ames was elected to save the city, but he now faces a term at Stillwater for robbing it.

The Big Fork Compass editor celebrated Arbor day by transplanting a few trees into his wood pile.

General Miles and the Sultan of Sulu appear to be agreed on the proposition that too many things follow the flag.

An exchange thinks Missouri ought either to send her slate senators to the penitentiary or her convicts to the senate.

It seems that the Fairmont member of the state game and fish commission has become thoroughly disgusted with politics.

A good many young men calculate that the safest plan to be early enough to catch the worm is to stay up all night to do it.

If the Kaiser is really casting covetous glances at Brazil there is danger of him getting the frozen smile from the Monroe doctrine.

The New York World issued an edition of 136 pages last week There seems to be no limit to the endurance of the patient reader.

The poor country postmaster who hasn't the opportunity to steal more than a couple of thousand has a right to complain of favoritism.

Monday was the forty-fifth anniversary of Minnesota's admission to the Union. We hope Governor Van Sant did not forget to run up the flag.

If Carnegie could be induced to give a temple of peace to the Republican party of Minnesota he might accomplish some practical results nearer home.

The Saturday Evening Post warns the gardener: "That which people sow they shall also reap does not always apply to the pictures on the seed packages."

The coal trust gives it out that anthracite will not be sold at less than $10 per ton this year. Evidently Attorney General Knox' threat was not taken seriously.

Here is a bit of sage advice from the Windom Reporter:

When you want to take the bull by the horns be sure you are equal to the job before undertaking the task. Some people have tried and got the worst of the trade.

We hope they will get the postoffice department cleaned up before the editors get down to Washington. It would be a shame to fire such a large bunch of unsophisticated personified into the midst of corruption.

James J. Hill is an ardent champion of good roads and has promised to make a speech on the subject at Crookston during the summer. And in the meantime we might as well get busy and build a few of them.

Secretary Shaw has been criticized because his "official" portrait shows him with his hands in his pockets. This may not be strictly in conformity with Washington etiquette, but it is a whole lot better than having his hands in some one else's pockets.

Since the newspapers have this week received notice of another raise in the price of paper and type, we shall expect to read some thrilling editorial comment on the beauties of protection, and on the magnanimity of the trust barons in allowing us to live.

Mary McFadden evidently wants us to believe that she has had a few offers herself, and it is not hard to do so, either:

A university of Michigan professor is instructing the students of Ann Arbor in the gentle art of proposing marriage. No man who doesn't know just how, if not when, to propose, was ever matriculated at the university of Minnesota.

When the king of England met the king of Italy at Rome the two monarchs kissed each other four times. Since the practice seems to be quite general with royalty, there was evidently reason for Queen Lil's osculatory demonstration when she first called on Grover.

An Iowa Democrat, who is undoubtedly prejudiced by partisanship, objects to President Roosevelt kissing the babies along his route on the ground that he has enough to kiss at home. The same argument might apply to other men who are in the habit of kissing the babies after they are grown up.

Under the appropriate heading of "Don't Fly Too High," Bro. Greeley of the Big Fork Compass turns loose the muse in this fashion:

The man who planns in springtime — Don't bank much on the future,
Won't hunger in the fall; — Or live up in the skies,
Who clings to earth the closest — But grasp the living present—
Escapes the dizzy fall. — Right in your hand it lies.
The eagle, soaring skyward, — Contentment sweetens pancakes;
Don't beat the hen at all— — Ambition sours pies;
Let others tackle mighty things — Let others rule creation
While you tend to the small. — While you run things your size.

Ralph Wheelock has just experienced a change of heart:

We confess to having cherished that sour grapes feeling towards the automobile, but it's all gone now. A kind friend picked us up on the corner, two miles out the other morning, and almost before we realized it we were in front of this great white building, fifteen minutes and a nickel ahead of the street car. It is a delightful experience, this sitting autocratically behind the levers and tiller and stop cocks and things, and whirling along, conscious of your superiority over the plodding and biking mortals on either hand, and serene in your confidence that you don't have to run over anybody if they sidestep fast enough. We are going to have an auto when they put them into the installment stores where our credit is good, if it takes a hundred years to pay for it.

Here are a few of Will Maupin's "Brain Leaks:"

All skies are bright when the heart is full of hope.
A man is not poor if he has the love of the little folk.
Some people doubt because it is easier than investigation.
The devil never worries about the man who gives nothing but advice.
If love could be bought with money this would be a cheerless world.
Doubt stands dumb in presence of the mother who weeps for her babe.
Too many people take their troubles to God and keep their joys to themselves.
Men who never heed the loud call of conscience never miss the faint whisper of temptation.
Never fear of a man claiming that he was misquoted if the words attributed to him met with the approbation of the public?
Some men who claim to be too wise to believe the story of Jonah and the whale are so foolish that they believe their party can do no wrong.

THE SULTAN AGAIN PROMISES TO BE GOOD.

—Chicago Record-Herald.

A LIGHTWEIGHT.

Willie—She said that she loved me more than I knew.
Wilhelmina—That's nothing.—Chicago Tribune.

MAKING ALLOWANCE.

Curate—And how did you like my harvest sermon, Mr. Wurzel?
Mr. W.—Not bad, sir!—not bad at all, considerin' yer total ignorance of the subjeet.—King.

IN A QUANDARY.

Teacher (after the first lesson)—Now, I don't know, shall I kiss my pupil, or if that's only done in the comic papers.—Fliegende Blatter.

A LIBERAL MINISTER.

Elsie—My, how tired I am! How much did mamma put in the plate?
Tommy—A quarter. Why?
Elsie—Whew! What a lot the minister gives for a quarter.—Philadelphia Press.

SO POLITE.

He—Won't you sit in this chair, Miss Spooner?
Miss Spooner—After you.—Punch.

NOT A WHOLE ONE.

She—Ain't your little sister very small for her age?
He—She's just or half sister—Detroit Free Press.

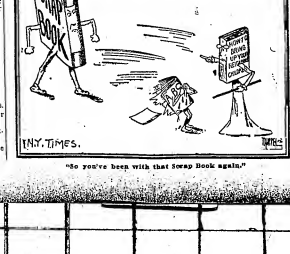
White Plymouth Rocks.

I have 50 choice White Plymouth Rock chickens, which I brought from Illinois. Will sell eggs for hatching during the season. Henry Gonigam.

Office supplies of all kinds at THE COURIER office.

There is no remedy so generally useful as Cole's Carbolisalve, and thousands of mothers know it. It instantly stops the pain of burns and cuts and heals without scars. Insect bites, plant poisoning, catarrh, inflamed eyes, boils, ulcers and all itching and torturing diseases are quickly relieved and permanently cured by it. Your money back if it fails to satisfy. 25 and 50c by all druggists.

BOOK TALK.



"So you've been with that Scrap Book again."

WOMEN THE CAUSE OF WAR

By DR. ADOLF G. VOGELER,
Editor of the Western Druggist and Student of Anthropology.

Old Adam was right—it is the woman. The rape of the Sabine women is not an isolated historical fact; the "brut" man of to-day is but the dim memory of the days when men, or tribes, went forth to woo by force their "helpmeets." Or to procure sustenance, or help, or ornamentation for their mates, the men were, and are, willing to do battle for them. Practically all that man does beyond keeping himself alive, or for play, is for woman. Hence, allowing some unimportant exceptions, woman is at the bottom of all warfare.

Next, woman is dependent upon man for protection for self and offspring. But the man who has proven his prowess in combat is the one chosen as a life partner. Knowing that the victorious warrior will have his choice among the maidens of his tribe, will not men face bloodshed and death in order to win the coveted prize? That women do prefer fighting men there is evidence in abundance, if one will but keep his eyes open.

But further, woman's heart is fond of tinsel and gew-gaws: What plain-dressed civilian stands any show in the presence of the epauletted and gold-braided son of Mars, who, in addition, is bedecked with the symbols of physical force, and, perchance, by the tailor's art made to look more imposing and stronger?

If woman—collective woman—is looking for a mission—here you have it; and it will keep her busy for generations to come. With this to engage their attention, women need not bother their dear little heads about equal rights and other frills. Let women educate the rising generations in the true spirit, and endeavor to regenerate mankind, including themselves. Let them DETERMINE that there shall be no more wars.

Women ALONE can make wars impossible; and that not through any patent process, such as woman's suffrage, or economic revolution, or some other quack remedy offered as a cure-all but by their will and determination. To this end women must realize that wars are destructive and set back the constructive processes of civilization, and that we cannot inflict injury upon others without harming ourselves. The race must be made conscious of this truism, and we must begin with the rising generation, our school children.

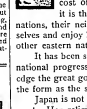
It is impossible to change abruptly human nature, but under civilization reason supplants the impulses born of instinct and passion, the latter being kept in a latent, undeveloped state. My premises being assumed to be true, then we must banish from our schools and homes all reminders of war and glorification of warriors; we must cease to make histories of nations a record of bloodshed and destruction, but in its stead let us learn what has been accomplished in the field of human progress in the arts of peace; we must cease to erect monuments to war heroes, but instead remember those who by their labors have benefited their fellow men; we must cease to teach FALSE reverence for the flag, and no longer drum into our children's ears: "My country—right or WRONG—my country." And withal, we must open our eyes to the fact that the recent and thoroughly surprising recrudescence of the war spirit in this country would not have been but for the wars of "patriotic" drills in our schools and churches and in the forum; and also open our eyes to the further fact in this promulgation of the war spirit that the women teachers seem the most enthusiastic—a phenomenon not strange, however, in the light of the foregoing argument and the fact of woman's more emotional nature.

Woman must try to suppress her natural emotions and see things in the new light. She must learn to abhor war and to despise the warrior. Man, the weaker vessel, is as wax in the hand of woman and unable to resist, even as Samson was shorn of his power by Delilah. When collective woman folds her soft arm around collective man's rugged neck, and softly whispers into his ear: "You must not go out, my love, and kill, and maim, and destroy, for I shall grieve if you do; yea, I shall surely frown upon you if you do!" Then will he press a kiss upon her rosy lips and meekly return to his plowshare—and then there will be peace on earth; and gradually, in the course of eons, the human heart may grow better and better, and then, perhaps, wars will beeome impossible.

Adolf G. Vogeler.

THE PROGRESS OF JAPAN

By K. TAKAHIRA,
Japanese Minister to the United States.



ALTHOUGH Japan had been shut off from the world, knowledge from abroad had crept in by various channels and had permeated and influenced intelligent public opinion. And so, when Perry knocked at Japan's door, he found, as has been said by a distinguished Japanese, "a man on the inside to help him open it."

Japanese progress has really been a plant of slow growth. It has been tended and nourished at no small cost of labor and sacrifice. Now that it has borne fruit it is the earnest desire of the Japanese people that kindred nations, their neighbors, should undertake the same labor for themselves and enjoy like benefits. That sums up Japan's attitude toward other eastern nations.

It has been said that Christianity must be the basis of all genuine national progress. I admire and respect Christianity and acknowledge the great good it has accomplished, but I think it is not so much the form as the spirit that matters in this regard.

Japan is not a Christian nation in the sense in which the term is used. Her religion consists of what Dr. Griffis calls an "amalgam" of three systems of morality and religion—Shintoism, Confucianism and Buddhism. The moral lessons learned from these three have been combined into a system of ethics peculiar to Japan.

Perhaps the most important result has been the inculcation of a spirit of loyalty and devotion to duty which has been taught for centuries, an adherence to which has enabled the Japanese people to adapt themselves to new circumstances with cheerfulness and to surmount difficulties that might otherwise have barred the way to all national progress.

It is her desire that peace and orderly development shall prevail. The maintenance of peace and of mutual interdependence among the eastern nations she regards as the only means by which prosperity can be assured to them. This does not mean that there should be a coalition, either offensive or defensive, among the eastern nations against the rest of the world.

A country to be truly prosperous must have prosperous and contented neighbors. Japan desires that her neighbors shall be prosperous and contented both for their own sakes and for hers.

T.L. BLOOD & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINTS
DRIES WHILE YOU SLEEP
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

RIVAL AND SPANTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 12:30 p. m.

Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 12:45, p. m.

Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:00 p. m.

Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:00 p. m.

Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sundays at 12:30 m and departs at 1:00 p. m.

Office hours from 7:00 a. m. until 7:30 p. m.

Sundays from 12:30 to until 1:00 p. m.

Mail will be received and directions on mails do and by stage Sundays.

E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

If you contemplate building a public call come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive
Scientific American,
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DON'T BE FOOLED
Advertisments having appeared in various publications wherein Sears, Roebuck & Co., offer Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines, we desire to warn the public that they are not our authorized agents and that we do not sell our machines to them nor any other catalogue house or department store.
Their advertisments are not for the purpose of promoting the sale of our machines. They are using our reputation as makers of the highest grade machines and are trying to get the names of possible buyers and persuade them to purchase one of their cheap STENCILED MACHINES, the manufacturers of which they are, evidently, ashamed to make public.
If you want a genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, do not waste your time writing to anyone who is unable to furnish it. The genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, made by us and backed by our warranty, is for sale by our authorized dealers only. When you buy a Wheeler & Wilson, you get a machine that is a machine, backed by a reputation of 50 years' unparalleled success.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133. I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING.
VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Wheeler, H. Hogenson, Wm. Schwabe
N. G. V. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Get the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madam Moffat. Price, 50 cents. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitute. Ask your druggists.
Send for booklet.
MORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has rich soil, pure water, fine climate, and produces barley, oats, corn, potatoes, timothy and alfalfa, with 10 to 20 bus. Wheat. Coal is Free. Fuel for others six weeks in year. Organized, well settled in 1898 by prairie. Prairie fires. 80 Miles west of Bismarck, the capital. Write for information, subscribing. 8,000 readers now in county. Healthiest climate. Write for maps and facts.
Wm. C. Brown & Co.
Mandan, N. Dak., or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

MALABAR

By Frank H. Sweet

Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company

"Do you think Malahar will run?"

The girl did not reply; but her lips began to tremble. The face of the man bending toward her grew dark, but it was the darkness of despair, not of purpose.

"Perhaps if he know what you have told me." He hesitated. "Malahar is brave and strong and noble. He would not stoop to a small deed."

"I promised him with the new year that he should run for me at the green corn dance. I—I did not know then." looking piteously into the gloomy, deliberate face above her. "Malahar would not stoop to a small deed—no. But this is not small. He has let it be known that he will run for me. He would not turn from his purpose a hair's breadth—not if he saw something in front that would crush him. And—and it is right for a great warrior. Ankona, hut it is hard."

We will fly. Wife Ezret, into the deepest fastnesses of the Everglades!" he cried hoarsely. "There are places where even Malahar's relentless arms would be powerless."

But White Egret only looked at him with sorrowful eyes.

"We are Seminoles, Ankona," she rebuked gently. "You know our laws. You would be the last one to break them."

His arm fell back impotent. Yes; he would be the last one to break them.

"Perhaps Malahar will not be proof against the black drink this time," he suggested. "He has killed, and it will be made strong. Unless love died. But, no, no! Malahar is a great chief and a better man for the tribe than I. He has tasted the black drink before and will not die."

"You say well, Ankona," broke in a stern, powerful voice, and a figure, dark, towering and implacable, stepped from the gathering shadows. "I shall not fall before the black draft. It would not be it ending for a warrior."

White Egret threw back her head and regarded him steadily. Ankona bowed his head.

"You heard all?" he questioned in a strained voice.

"All," calmly. "It was childish pretext. I shall run for the White Egret, for have I not said it, and has she not made her promise? It is only when we forget our promises that we become weak and childish. Ankona is young yet and should be humored. I will let him run the race with me and will give him one-third the distance start on due to his weakness. Now go!"

They went, with a single despairing glance toward each other, Ankona's face, was bloodless and set—bloodless with pride crushed, set with foreknowledge of utter inability to cope with this man of iron will and strength. Better he crushed than allowed to exist by sufferance.

Other forms were appearing from the forest—warriors in full headdress and leggings, carrying the guns they had purchased from white traders; squaws with cump equipage, medicine men stalking solemnly and mysteriously, with eyes bent upon the ground; children and dogs, some from the camp on White River bay, some from Okeechobee, some from the shifting camp among the keys—all coming for the great annual green corn dance, where tribal laws were to be made, and annually celebrated and criminals punished.

Three criminals were now moving unwatched, unnoticed, in many cases prisoners even, among the others. Just ever crime they had committed during the year had gone unpunished at the time, but now tribal honor brought them here to expiate their misdeeds. On the morrow they would be plentied in closely shut tents and almost suffocated with steam made by pouring water upon hot stones. After that they would drink of the black draft. If they died, they were gone. On the other hand, if they were strong enough to survive, their innocence would be clearly established. Later the reckoning for wives would take place.

Malahar was known to every one—revered, feared, honored. All knew that he was to race for a wife and that before the race he was to drink the dreaded black draft. Ordinarily they would be scoffed at such absurdity. If a man drank and lived, it would be a notable proof of strength, but to drink and live and then race for a wife! As to his crime, it was only what any of them would have done if brave enough. He had killed a man! True, but he had been provoked. He must be punished, for that was the law, but they did not wish him harm.

And they all knew Ankona, the gentle one, the dreamer and story maker, and, though some of them reverred or feared him, they all had a tender place for him in their hearts. If he should race with White Egret and win her, they would be glad. But Malahar came first, for White Egret herself had made it so.

Malahar was the first who presentes himself for punishment. While he was in the closed tent the tribe stood about silent, with eyes furtively watching the point whence the condemned would rush forth innocent or be caught forth guilty.

At length the last flap was raised, and he staggered out. For a moment he stood there in the sunlight, his hand to his head, swaying blindly. Then they saw him throw his shoulders back with a mighty effort, as one whose will was strong enough to cast off the weight of all things. Slowly he turned away from them and strode into the forest to be by himself. That, too, was Malahar's way.

Not until the maidens were brought forth did Malahar reappear.

"I will race for my squaw at once," he called in a voice that all could hear, "before the White Egret grows weak through waiting, and I shall give her one-half the distance start because she is a woman. Ankona will also enter the race with me, and I will give him one-third the distance because he is but half a man. Let them be placed."

The spectators stared and gasped. Ankona, his rival, to enter the race and to be given one-third the distance, and White Egret, the fleet footed, to be given one-half! No one could win a race thus handicapped. And yet was it not Malahar?

He swept them with his glance.

"I shall win," he said confidently. "Because I will have it so."

Ankona had been watching him with baleful eyes. For an instant he drew back as though to spurn the concession. Then, as he saw White Egret being led forward to her place, he hurried to his own position.

And for a brief space after the signal was given and they were speeding on with streaking muscles he had a wild, insane belief that he would win.

But only for a brief space. Then came that steady, accelerating, implacable rush behind, drawing nearer and nearer, then speeding, then passing. When three-fourths of the distance had been covered, Malahar was four marsh paces ahead. Suddenly he turned. White Egret was almost within his reach.

"Stop, Ankona!" Malahar called. "Have I not won?"

Ankona did not answer.

"Have I not won?" sternly.

"Yes, Malahar, you have won," Ankona answered, and his voice was full of a great despair.

"It is well. Now you may go on and catch the girl. Malahar will have no more to do. He will come to him willingly."

And he turned proudly from the race and strode back into the forest.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average sizes loses two pounds of worthless tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions the strength lies down, health gives way and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Carbon papers for sale at THE COURIER.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD. Has justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLER WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not invest as well have that profit as another?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and well graded. There will be sold in "Bunch" at a figure that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at lumberkers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,
BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 22

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND (Addition or subdivision or lot or block)	Sec.	Twp.	Range	Year of Sale	Amt paid for land	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER Mo.	Day	Yr.	Amt sold for to satisfy taxes	Amt paid for redemption at date of sale
C. A. Mihlman	Cowley Addition to Red Lake Falls, as platted and recorded in Polk Co.	33	1	45	1899	$ 29	Feb	28	1903	$ 48	$ 1.49

To C. A. MIHLMAN:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, } Red Lake County, Minnesota. }

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May, 1903, the undersigned will purchase the parcel of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain tax sale judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March A. D. 1899, the above described piece or parcel of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, for the amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs, for the above named years, as were adjudged liable in said judgment, interest and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate will be sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1st of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum from date of this notice until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and the publication of the same, as provided by law.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A.D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 23

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND (Addition or subdivision or lot or block)	Sec.	Twp.	Range	Year of Sale	Amt paid for land	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER Mo.	Day	Yr.	Amt sold for to satisfy taxes
John C. Wahl	Original Townsite of Red Lake Falls	4	7	45	1899	.92	Mar	28	1903	$ 2.89

TO JOHN C. WAHL:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, } Red Lake County, Minnesota. }

You are hereby notified that on the 4th day of May, A. D. 1903, the undersigned will purchase the parcel of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1899, the above described piece or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, for the amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs, for the above named years, as were adjudged liable in said judgment, interest and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate will be sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1st of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum from date of this notice until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and the publication of the same, as provided by law.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A.D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	Sec.	Twp.	Range	Year of Sale	Amt paid for land	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER Mo.	Day	Yr.	Amt sold for to satisfy taxes	Amt paid for redemption at date of sale
H. A. McClatchie	Block 2, Kenneth-ey's and Wright's Add to Red Lake Falls	10	21	45	1899	$ .75	May	30	1903	$ 1.35	$ 2.25
		20	21	45	1899	.75	"	30	1903	1.35	2.25
		21	21	45	1899	.75	"	30	1903	1.35	2.25
		3	22	45	1899	.75	"	30	1903	1.35	2.25
		21	22	45	1899	.75	"	30	1903	1.35	2.25
TOTAL										$ 16.20

To H. A. McCLATCHIE:

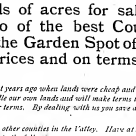
OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, } Red Lake County, Minnesota. }

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May A. D. 1903, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to that certain real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March A. D. 1899, the above described piece or parcels of land situated in Red Lake county, State of Minnesota, were sold into the state to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute property of the State.

That on the above stated date and once in each year thereafter said real estate will be sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 1st of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said piece or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum from date of this notice until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and the publication of the same, as provided by law.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A.D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor and Ex-Officio Clerk of District Court, Red Lake County, Minnesota.



THE SEASON IS NEA R AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN

Oil Stove,

Refrigerator or Ice Cream freezer

You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of

Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages

Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils

FRANK E. HUNT

No trouble to show goods.

HARDWARE DEALER.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.

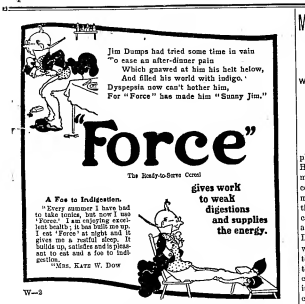
What it Means

to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.

Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

Possibilities in Advertising.
The man who thinks satisfactory ads can be dashed off in a few minutes at any time thereby proves that he has no comprehension of the immense possibilities of good advertising.—Advertising Experience.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.



The Courier.

By JOHN E. KING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

A MAN in Louisiana had four wives go off and leave him. The fifth he swapped for an old shotgun, and now he has got something that won't run off.

AN Ada boy got a dollar for finding a pocket-book containing $4,000. That boy ought to be thankful because the man didn't charge him interest for the time he had it.

A TENNESSEE man can so perfectly imitate the sounds made by two dogs engaged in fighting that he can call a Memphis congregation out of church in three minutes.

THE late edition of Britannica locates the capital of Minnesota at Minneapolis. This is inexcusable but it might be worse if Dr. Ames' postoffice address should be given as St. Paul.

A BROOKLYN woman wants a divorce because she found another woman's false teeth in her husband's pocket. A female must love a man dearly when she will lean him her false teeth to crack nuts with.

A GERMAN writer compares the different stages in the life of women to milk; butter and cheese. "A girl," he says, "is like milk, a woman like butter and an old maid like cheese. All three may be very excellent in their kind."

THE conviction of Mayor Ames of Minneapolis on the charge of accepting a bribe from the abandoned women of the city is a source of gratification to all who believe in a higher tone of municipal government. His release would have been a miscarriage of justice, if for no other reason than that his subordinates were found guilty of the same offense. The principal could not be presumed innocent and his satellites guilty.

GROVER CLEVELAND has at last put an effective quietus to the use of his name as a presidential candidate. It is not reasonable to believe that Mr. Cleveland would consent to become a nominee for the fourth time. In doing so he would be obliged to combat the unwritten law that no man is good enough or great enough to be president more than eight years. He certainly knows, too, that his nomination would alienate a large and powerful faction of his own party, and that the chance of election in the face of these two powerful arguments would be decidedly unfavorable. Mr. Cleveland is not a political novice, and he is not the man to plunge headlong into a political grave.

Forgotten Fact of History.

Philadelphia Ledger: Mr. Cleveland in his speech at St. Louis touched upon a curious but almost forgotten fact of history; we owe the possession of the vast tract acquired as the Louisiana Purchase to the circumstance that France was at war with Santo Domingo, which it was finding it difficult, and eventually found it impossible to conquer. It is an amazing reflection that 100 years ago Napoleon deemed what is now the despised island of Hayti of more value than the territory of fifteen of our common wealths.

The State Press.

Owantonna Journal: A glass has been invented that will not crack, but up to the present time it has failed to find favor with manufacturers of lamp chimneys.

Little Falls Transcript: McClure's Magazine should now admit that County Attorney Boardman did some real work to punish Minneapolis boodlers.

Brainerd Dispatch: The latest vision of the anti-Van Sant press is that of seeing him a third term candidate. This is merely nervousness, for the governor will not again come before the people of Minnesota in that capacity.

Perham Enterprise: The governor will find it difficult to convince the friends of Dunn, Beatty, Smith et al. that he had not better return to his Indian village on the Mississippi and break up the merger of steam boat lines for a couple of years.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Women don't mind church services as much as men because their knees are so much softer.

Where the devil is so smart is that he always lets the one he wants to convince do the arguing.

The first time a girl bears a man speak with admiration of her figure she blushes with mortification, the next time she tosses her head.

When a woman says a man is a good husband she means one who will let his wife make an idiot of herself rather than be disagreeable about it.

If a man will write his wife's name all over a sheet of paper and carelessly leave it where she can find it, it will take a good many gro slips to convince her that he doesn't love her.—New York Press.

A Little Early Riser

now and then at bedtime will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the famous little pills that cure by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach and liver that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the complaint. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for Free Homesteads and and Free Coal lands. Low railroad rates. See our agent in your city and write for facts and maps. Wm. H. Brown & Co., 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, or Mandan, N.D.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Scott's Emulsion is the means of life and of the enjoyment of life of thousands of men, women and children.

To the men Scott's Emulsion gives the flesh and strength so necessary for the cure of consumption, and the repairing of body losses from any wasting disease.

For women Scott's Emulsion does this and more. It is a most sustaining food and tonic for the special trials that women have to bear.

To children Scott's Emulsion gives food and strength for growth of flesh and bone and blood. For pale girls, for thin and sickly boys Scott's Emulsion is a great help.

Send for free sample.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

MOST POPULAR LADY OF RED LAKE COUNTY.

Will be Sent to Minneapolis Carnival in June—People Will Decide who the Favorite One is Through the Medium of The Crookston Times by a Popular Vote.

The Crookston Times has completed arrangements with Theo. L. Hays of the Minneapolis June Fair management to inaugurate voting contests in five counties to select maids of honor to attend the coronation ceremony of the queen of the carnival. The counties designated are Polk, Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake and Norman. Each contest will be separate and distinct. Although the voting will be conducted through the Crookston Times office, each county will vote for its favorite and have a representative at the coronation.

The coupons which will appear in both the daily and weekly Times will entitle the bearer to one vote as per directions.

One month's subscription will entitle the subscriber to twenty-six votes. One year's subscription to 312 and to the weekly to fifty-two votes. All votes must be sent or brought to the Times office. Each county will vote for its candidate and such vote will be published from time to time in the issues of the Times. The contest will close the day evening, May 29, and all votes must be in the Times office before 9 o'clock of said day.

This honor is one to be desired. The winning ladies will have free transportation to the fair, all expenses paid while there and a good deal of social distinction and pleasure will be accorded them. Beautiful costumes will be furnished for the coronation ceremony by the fair directors, and everything done to make the occasion of their visit a memorable one. The time is short and the voting should begin at once.

Every county in the state will be represented, and here is an excellent opportunity for a Red Lake Falls young lady to carry off an honor of which anyone can well feel proud. Let us be up and doing.

George J. Sill, representing the Times, is now in the city, and will be here until tomorrow afternoon. All persons interested in seeing that Red Lake county is represented at the carnival should make it a point to see him.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists. Price 75c per bottle.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fact Outruns Nimble Fancy.

Philadelphia Record: The Postal Telegraph company, when its cable shall have been laid across the Pacific to Manilla, proposes to send a message on connected wires around the earth in forty seconds. This feat will outdo imagination. The boastful Puck when sent on a quick hoist by the king of faires in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," declared:

"I'll put a girdle round about the earth in forty minutes."

But the Postal proposes to do the job in two-thirds of a minute. So far does fact outrun the simplest fancy in these marvelous latter days!

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

The Nickel Plate Road

is the short line to the east and the service equal to the best. You will save time and money by traveling over this line. It has three through daily express trains, with through vestibuled sleeping cars, and American club meals, ranging in price from 35c. to $1.00, are served in Nickel Plate dining-cars; also a la carte service. Try a trip over the Nickel Plate road and you will find the service equal to any between Chicago and the east.

Chicago depot: Harrison St. and Fifth Ave. city ticket offices 111 Adams St. and Auditorium Annex. John Y. Calahan, General agent, 113 Adams St. Room 298, Chicago. Phone Central 2057. m30

The Shortest Line

to Chicago is the North-Western Line. The finest train is the celebrated North-Western Limited.

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papetries
Tablets
better Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Gailing Cards
Card Racks
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office . . . . . Supplies . . . . . .

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be Satisfactory

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

Jas. McKeegan to Nels Christenson, e ½ of ne qr sw qr nw qr and ne qr sw qr 25-150-43 ..... $2,097
Mattie L. Weeks to Henry Olson, lot 19 and 20, block 6, Knox addition, Red Lake Rapids,..... 125
Patrick Neelson to Eric Olson, lot 1, block 8, P. Meeham's addition, Thief River Falls,..... 160
H. H. Zaiser et al. to Wm. Faunds, lot 7, block 4, Central addition, Red Lake Falls,..... 17
United States to Gunnar H. Halsnes, sw qr 23-157-40 ..... Patent
Jas. L. Neeham to Anna L. Olson, lots 1 and 2, block 3, Feeham's addition..... 180
W. O. Campbell to First State Bank of St. Hilaire, lots 11 and 12, block 10, original St. Hilaire 1,000
Hubert Cardinal to Zatique Bray, lots 9, 10, 11 and 12, block 20, C. & D's addition,..... 1,509
Julia Nelson to Agnes M. Nelson, lot 10 and 2 hl lot 11, block 63, original Thief River Falls,..... 300
Matilda Paulsen to Emma Nelson, lot 25 and part of out lot C, block 1, Meeham's addition, Thief River Falls,..... 100
Hannah Aweson to Charley Kron, lots 1, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, Buttineau's addition, Red Lake Falls,..... 2
United States to Wm. Barnaby, sw qr 25-150-43 ..... Patent
W. V. Benson to Ed C. Dahl, lots 7, 8, 9, block 26, original Red Rapids 1,000

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt of No. Montgomery, Pa., made a startling test, resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes "A patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters successful for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 11 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and kidney troubles. Try them; only 50c at Schreiber's.

One of the Best.

Crookston Times: John E. King, the hustling publisher of the Red Lake Falls Courier, was here last night to secure some printers with which to keep up his work in publishing one one of the best country weeklies in the northern part of the state.

The King Bee

Of railway trains in the North west and without a superior in the world is the famous North-Western Limited every night between Minneapolis St. Paul and Chicago. Luxurious Library Buffet Cars, Pullman Sloopers, Private Compartment Cars, Free Reclining Chair Cars and Modern Day Coaches make this the finest as well as most popular train in the Northwest.

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Red Lake, ss.
In Probate Court,
Special Term, May 4, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. H. Hammer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Lindekugel Chaining to be entitled to a conveyance certain real estate from the administrator of said estate, bearing date the 4th day of May, 1903, and praying that a contract in writing in said petition mentioned, be held and Saturday, the 6th day of June A. D. 1903, at 2 o'clock p. m. of said day, be appointed by this Court for hearing in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said County, and opposite said petition.

And it is Further Ordered, that this Order shall be published once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 4th day of May 1903.

By the Court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

(First pub. May 7.)
J. M. FREEMAN,
Attorney for Petitioner.
Ulen, Minnesota.

Spring Millinery . . .

A MAGNIFICENT ARRAY of LADIES', MISSES' and CHILDREN'S HATS in newest Spring styles. Beautiful Veilings, Laces, Chiffons, &c. Prices always lowest.

FIRST DOOR NORTH OF POSTOFFICE

K. FORD

FREE FARM

OF 160 ACRES IN THE FAMOUS SASKATCHEWAN VALLEY OF WESTERN CANADA.

To the Renter, the Farmers' Sons, the Poor Man, this is a chance of a life time to secure a COOD FARM ABSOLUTELY FREE in a country where WHEAT IS KING and crop failures are unknown. . . . . .

Stop Working For Some One Else!

BE INDEPENDENT and OWN YOUR OWN FARM

DON'T WAIT! THESE FARMS WILL BE TAKEN UP FAST! WRITE NOW.

We furnish Free, Livorice and Experienced Men to show the lands and locate you.

We have a colonization arrangement with the Canadian Government to locate a limited number of settlers on our lands. [illegible] contract is completed This offer will be Withdrawn. Remember, [illegible] to pay excepting a homeseeker's fee of $10.00, which is paid to the Government of Canada. You do not pay us a penny.

Reduced Railway Rates any day. Write us for full information, Maps and Descriptive matter.

The Saskatchewan Valley Land Co. Ltd.

305 Jackson St., ST. PAUL, MINN.

Note.—This Company and its proposition has the hearty endorsement of this paper.—Ed.

Courier for Fine Jobs.

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.
Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

☞ Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. E. W. Grove on every box. 25c.
Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature, Cures Grip in Two Days.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Cut Glass. Line of Jewelry, Silverware, Watches Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

Geo. J. Sill, traveling representative of the Crookston Times, is in the city today looking after business for his paper.

Cooper Wiener, the Thief River Falls cigar manufacturer, was a business visitor to the county seat Saturday.

The outlook for wheat throughout the country is very favorable, and indicates one of the largest crops in our history.

Roadmaster E. J. Regan, of this division of the Great Northern, was looking after the company's business here Monday.

The Norwegian Fourth of July—May 17—falls on Sunday this year. As a result the celebration will take place on Saturday.

J. L. Spears has succeeded Will Renshardt as conductor on the branch. Mr. Renshardt is again in charge of the local freight.

We have some common boards which we are selling at $10 per thousand—any length you want.—St. Hilaire Retail Lumber Co.

Auditor Ford will sell ditches 19 and 20, town of Garnes, Saturday of this week. It is likely that a large number of bids will be received.

J. D. Kuns arrived from Thompson, Iowa, Tuesday, being called here by the death of his daughter, Mrs. John B. Connor, of Terrebonne township.

Alvin Robertson, general manager of the lumber company which bears his name, was over from Grand Forks Tuesday to confer with Agen Johnson.

The Redmen will meet at Odd Fellows' hall next Wednesday evening, the 20th. A full attendance is earnestly requested, as important business will come up.

A party of Red Lake Falls business and professional men are figuring on going to Turtle Lake, Itasca county, on a fishing excursion the latter part of the month.

The orchestra dance scheduled for tomorrow night has been postponed, So much has been going on of late that it was deemed wise to wait a week or so for the dance.

The board of county commissioners will meet in special session next week from tomorrow, the 22nd. Considerable important business will come before the meeting.

Fishing in the rivers is reported good this week. Quite a number of large strings of good-sized pike and pickerel have been brought up Main street during the past two days.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve supper at the home of Mrs. Frank E. Hunt next Wednesday evening, May 20, from 5 to 8. Everyone is cordially invited.

Rev. J. T. Aastad of Thief River Falls will hold Scandinavian Lutheran services at the city hall Sunday morning at 10:30. A cordial invitation to all Scandinavians is extended.

For rent—An eight-room house, with good well, barn, wood-shed, buggy shed and chicken coop; large garden spot; centrally located. For particulars call at Allard's confectionery.

Mrs. Andrew Krough moved her household goods to Crookston Monday and will make that city her future home. Her son, Arthur, will remain here and keep his position at LaBissoniere's.

Time-tried, ball-tested, safe and reliable, yet low in cost. Protect your growing crops by a policy in the State Farmers' Mutual Hail Insurance company, of Wascca, Lewis & Higinbotham, agents.

The annual tax sale was on at the auditor's office Monday and Tuesday. The list of property for sale on account of delinquent taxes is much smaller than for years, showing a condition of prosperity.

G. Anderson came up from St. Paul Saturday to spend a week or two with his sons, A. M. and H. W. Mr. Anderson expresses himself as much pleased with the appearance of our progressive city.

J. J. Donahue, Lewis Salf, Ben Walker, Thos. Johnson and John O. Bommersal, all of Garnes, are in the city today looking after business matters. The COURIER is indebted for calls from several of the gentlemen.

E. Drvecker, formerly a Red Lake Falls'te, who is now managing the Markham hotel at St. Hilaire, was down yesterday to look after business affairs. He reports that he is enjoying a good business and likes his new location.

Exerie Chatel was at Crookston several days of last week to secure men for ditch work. He has been awarded the job of excavating on a ditch four miles long in Farley township, Polk county, and expects to begin work at once.

Investigate the magazine library at Reichert's. For 20 cents a month you have the privilege of reading twelve standard magazines. You can have one magazine at at a time and change as often as desired. This is an exceptional opportunity for magazine readers.

Erick Iverson, one of the prominent and well-to-do farmers of Equality township, was in the city yesterday arranging for big sale of live stock, which will be held at his place in the course of a month or six weeks. Further announcement will be made in due time.

Carpenters are at work tearing out the partitions and rearranging the second floor of the Kaus block this week. Dr. Williamson will continue to occupy the front room as offices while the remainder has been leased to the Masons and will be fitted up for use as a lodge room.

Mrs. S. Cunningham and little boy arrived Monday from St. Charles, and the family will keep house in the rear rooms of the Hanlet store. Mr. Cunningham has already made large additions to the stock and expects to handle a complete line of goods usually carried in a racket store.

Treasurer O. T. Tandberg went to St. Paul Friday nights to attend the meeting of the state drainage commission. Mr. Tandberg put in a claim on behalf of Red Lake county for a portion of the $80,000 fund appropriated by the legislature, and that prospects are good for the county to obtain about $5,000.

Robert Raney and family are this week moving to Grand Forks, where Mr. Raney will be hook-keeper for the local yard of the St. Hilaire Lumber company. The many friends of the family will be sorry to learn of their departure from Red Lake Falls, but glad to know that Mr. Raney has secured such a splendid position.

Special Mail Agent Flint, who has been engaged in weighing the mails on the T line for the past several weeks, completed his work Tuesday and returned to headquarters. Every six years the government has the mail weighed for a certain length of time and in this manner fixes the rate of compensation to the railroads for hauling the same.

Attorney Frank A. Grady was at St. Paul a couple of days last week. While there he looked up prices on street sprinklers for the city council, and found that a modern sprinkler could be secured for about $75, and it is likely that the city officials will order the purchase of one at the next meeting. Certainly the need for a sprinkler exists.

Drayton Echo: Robert Raney, who is in the employ of the St. Hilaire Lumber company, and located at Red Lake Falls, passed through the city Friday on his way to Bowesmont to look after some business interests of the company. Drayton people are always glad to see Robert, even if he only gives us a chance to shake his hand at the train.

August Walters, one of the oldest residents of Red Lake Falls, died last nights, after a brief illness. Mr. Walters was 83 years of age, and has lived in this city for twenty-two years. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Mrs. H. M. Kaus and Mrs. Matt Ekhin. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's tomorrow.

Crookston Journal: Marcus Johnson came up from St. Paul this morning and was met here by Geo. McConnell, of Red Lake Falls, who has had charge of the practical part of the milling business for his company at that point. Together they have spent the day planning for the placing of the machinery in the new mill that is being erected in this city.

The Palace hotel has been leased to B. G. Wattles of Graceville, Minn., and the new landlord is expected here in a few days to take possession. Mr. Wattles is an experienced hotel man, and expects to run a strictly first-class house in every respect. It is likely the Palace will be open for business within ten days.

The Thief River Falls base ball team will be down Sunday to try conclusions with the local team, and it is likely that a large crowd of "rooters" will come along to encourage the up-river boys. It is safe to say that they will need all the encouragement they can get, as Red Lake Falls has an exceptionally able team this season.

City Clerk Toupin has had communications from several parties during the past week or ten days relative to putting in a waterworks system at Red Lake Falls, and it seems altogether probable that a plant will be secured in the near future. A representative of a Chicago construction company is expected here next week to make further investigation.

R. L. Healy's St. Paul office, located just across the street from the Merchants hotel, is in charge of Messrs. W. R. Drew and John L. Watson, and already these agents have been sending business this way. Red Lake county land agents are doing a good business this spring, and Mr. Healy reports the sale of twenty-five quarters by his house since the first of February.

A thrifty merchant would rather work off his surplus stock at a bargain than let it lay on the shelves indefinitely. When you want one of those bargains look in our advertising columns before making your purchases. You don't want to throw away good money any more than the live merchant wants to let his goods lay on the shelves forever and fall to pieces.

Elsewhere will be found an article relative to the Crookston Times voting contest. A Red Lake county young lady will be selected as a maid of honor at the June carnival in Minneapolis. This is an excellent opportunity for some young lady to carry off a distinguished honor. The successful contestant will have all expenses paid. As the time is short it is important that no time should be lost in taking advantage of the exceptional offer of the Times.

The firm of Bourdon & Co., composed of Chas N. Bourdon and L. C. Simons, is a new real estate firm recently opened for business in Red Lake Falls. They have a large list of lands, the members of the firm being among the largest individual holders in the county. An auxiliary business in farm loans is conducted under the name of Simons & Co. THE COURIER is pleased to welcome these valuable additions to the business interests of the city.

The Minnesota editors start next week on a ten days' trip to Washington city, and it the expectation of the editor of THE COURIER and Mrs. King to join the party. It is thought that at least 250 will go on this excursion, and the itinerary includes side trips to many of the points of historic interest in the vicinity of the capital city. The editor will endeavor to tell his readers something about the trip when he gets home.

It is stated that the Bank of Red Lake Falls will soon commence the erection of a two-story brick building on the corner lot just south of Fred Boerbere's' saloon. The city council has been asked by Mr. Sortedahl for a triangular strip of the street alongside the lot, and this will enable the bank to put up a building of regulation width. The improvement of this corner will add materially to the handsome appearance of Main street.

Sheriff Linnihan arrested Fred Mathews and Maguire Pepin yesterday on the charge of stealing money from the cash drawer of J. F. Mathews' store at Dorothy. It is alleged that during the past six months the boys have pilfered in the neighborhood of $150. The boys are about 14 years of age, one of them being the son of the proprietor of the store. The trial is being held before Justice Swanson this afternoon.

Some people never know which side of the bread is buttered. They borrow their neighbor's paper, look at the local news and then allow their neighbor to send for his paper. Saturday comes along and the usual trip to town is made, with the accompanying purchases. A shrewd merchant knows a man who never reads a paper as soon as he sees him and that man seldom hears of a "bargain." He gets the first thing he sees and pays the regular price. Then the thrifty man who reads his own paper comes along and calls for that bargain the merchant offered as a leader. The amount saved in one purchase would pay the cost of the paper for a year.

NATIONAL
Magazine Library

Munsey	13 Review of Reviews
2 Argosy	14 Smart Set
3 Cosmopolitan	15 Scribner's
4 Pearson's	16 St. Nicholas
5 McClure	17 Metropolitan
6 Strand	18 Outing
7 Ainslee	19 World's Work
8 Recreation	20 Lippincott's
9 Everybody
10 Designer	21 Century
11 Ladies Home Journal	22 Harper's
12 Frank Leslie's Monthly	23 Atlantic

TERMS—Membership is free. You may read the first twelve magazines for 20 cents per month, the first twenty magazines for 30 cents per month, and the entire list for 40 cents per month.

RULES—You can have one magazine at a time, changes often as desired, or can keep magazine seven days.

Our special magazine cover ensures each person getting a clean magazine at all times.

A. L. Reichert's Drug Store

Special Prices for Saturday

California Raisins, the 12c kind for 9c	Tomatoes, the shilling kind for 10c
Rice, 6 lbs. for 25c	Salmon, nice variety, for 13c
Strawberries, per can the 15c kind 12c	Toilet soap, large cake, 4c
Pineapple, chunks, worth 25c, a bargain at 19c	Brown laundry soap, 10 bars for 25c

The usual special prices on fine Navel Oranges. Fresh green stuff: Asparagrus, Lettuce, Onions, Radishes, Fresh Strawberries. Hereafter creamery butter will be always on hand.

BANGS & CO.

Watch This Space Next Week

It May Mean Dollars to You

Anderson & Healy

Handsome Calendars Given Away

TO introduce our Papetries and Tablets for the next ten days we will give free with each purchase a fancy 1903 CALENDAR (choice of two designs) and a BEAUTIFUL COLORED BLOTTER. It doesn't matter whether you buy a high-priced Papetrie or a 5-cent School Tablet.

New line of Typewriter Papers, Carbons, Pencils, and Office Supplies of all kinds. Choice selection of high-grade Papetries.

COURIER STATIONERY STAND

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.
CAPITAL, $25,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:
A. F. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT; THEO. LABISSONIERE, VICE-PRESIDENT; T. A. DUFFY, CASHIER; P. F. POUDRIER, ASST. CASHIER.
DIRECTORS—O. TOUPIN, SAM. DEER, T. LABISSONIERE, ROBERT PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

Blind

During Attacks Of Heart Failure.

Would Appear To Be Dead.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Relieved and Cured. It

"I have no heritation in saying that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is all that one can wish it to be. I was troubled with heart disease for fifteen years. I have tried many different remedies but until I tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I could find no relief. I was subject to headaches and terrible heart attacks. Once I was in bed for three days. Other times my weight help me. I would have attacks at times so severe that I would be since blind for the time being. During these spells I would be in all appearances dead. I took the medicine strictly as directed and I can truthfully say that I am completely cured. I advise all that are troubled with heart disease to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure at once. I write this and give my name to my fellow sufferers."—S. F. Purdy, Atkinson, Nebraska.

"It first felt the effects of a really heart in the spring. I saw an advertisement in the Sioux City paper in which a man stated his symptoms which seemed to me to indicate a trouble similar to mine. I had a soreness in the chest at times, and my shoulder, an opposite aching sensation in my throat and inherited from weak and hungry spells. I was truly frightened at my condition and procured a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Since taking my first bottle I have never had a return of any of the old heart trouble symptoms and now am well and consider my cure permanent."—Lewis Anderson, Salix, S. D.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERA MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES LIQUORS CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE, NO PAY. Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS.

RED LAKE FALLS.

	Arrive	Depart
No. 712 Mixed, from Fertile to Grand Forks.....	7:45 a m	7:45 a m
EAST-BOUND.
No. 711 Mixed, from Grand Forks to Fertile.....	5:10 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. MILLER, Agent.

Amazing Courage Displayed by a Boy

"The nerviest kid I ever know," said an old ex-deputy marshal of southern Kansas in a reminiscent mood the other day, "was an eighteen-year-old consumptive modest student of the name of Finch, who came into the Panhandle in the spring of 1877 and worked as a general utility boy in one of the cattle camps of Driscoll Bros., then the cattle kings of northern Texas and Indian territory.

"One day Finch was out with two of the Driscoll camp boys with a herd near Red Clark's ranch on the Clinch ree, when they were set upon by half a dozen of Dutch Henry's gang of cattle thieves, who tried to cut out and run off a bunch of cows. A running fire took place, and one of Finch's companions was killed outright and the other wounded in the pistol arm, not, however, until one of the thieves had bitten the alkali and another been rendered helpless with a bullet in the thigh.

FINCH DEMANDED JACK'S PISTOLS.

"The remaining four, seeing no one to oppose them but a 'kid,' started to round up the entire herd. Here they reckoned without good Judgment Finch, who had been trying to stanch the blood of his wounded companion, rubed his revolver when two of the men were within twenty feet of him, and as two quick reports rang out over the prairie both men dropped in their tracks, one shot through the heart, the other 'plum center' in the forehead.

"The firing had attracted the attention of the herders of another Driscoll camp some two miles away, who hurried up to the scene of action, and the two lawless thieves died, taking their wounded companion with them. The next day the kid was promoted to be a full fledged cowboy.

"Along in the fall Finch, feeling that his health had been much benefited by his session on the range and fearing the effects of a winter on the prairie, decided to obtain employment in Dodge City, Kan., until spring and then return to college.

"The Masterson brothers, Bat and Jim, were holding up the law and order end of Dodge City and Ford county —one as city marshal, the other as county sheriff. There never have been any servier men on the frontier, or anywhere else for that matter, than these same Mastersons, and their reputation for being quick and straight shooters kept the lawless element fairly in hand. Years afterward when Dodge City had churches and Sunday schools Bat Masterson was city marshal of Tombstone, holding in check the tongues of the Arizona miners.

"The Mastersons offered young Finch a place as office deputy. Not thinking he would have to perform any duty other than perchance to do books and records of the office, he gladly accepted it at $80 a month. One day Marshall Masterson came into the office and said in a joking manner, 'Kid, go down to Hank Bell's saloon and arrest Texas Jack and lock him up until he gets sober.' Now 'Texas' was a half breed Mexican and one of the toughest characters known in and about Dodge and there cities and had a reputation as a 'killer' and when on a drunk always tried to decorate the town a bright beautiful vermilion hue by shooting out the street lights and lights in the saloons and dance halls. The marshal's order was given in a spirit of jest, for he had already warned Jack to behave himself or leave town and knew an order would be obeyed unless Jack got a drunken skin vessel. But the Kid accepted the command as genuine and prepared to make the arrest. In the meanwhile Jack had been told that the 'kid deputy' was coming to arrest him, and he declared his intention of giving the said kid such a spanking as he had never received from his mother.

"Half an hour later Finch walked into Hank Bell's saloon and stepping up to Texas Jack demanded the surrender of his shooting irons. Jack failed to understand the look in the said gray eye of the boy, but reached out his hands as though to execute the promised spanking, when a quick, sharp report of a six shooter and Texas Jack had crossed the divide. For this Finch was at once arraigned before the local judge and promptly acquitted without further ceremony."

Easy Rising Not Always a Virtue.

Thousands of people have no choice whatever about their hour of rising in the morning. Later or earlier, their hour is fixed for them by the requirements of the office, the shop or the classroom, by the time-table of the railroad, by the arbitration of their employers or the necessities of their employees. But in the cases manifold where personal liberty is enjoyed it should not be thoughtlessly restricted simply because of the domestic tradition that early rising deserves praise and late rising blame.

Breakfast may often be a movable feast without materially disturbing the routine of an orderly housekeeping day. Invalids, mothers whose rest has been broken by teething babies and, above all, rapidly growing children, should have their sleep out. Nature demands this, and violence is done to her when sleepy people are rudely aroused from their beds. Early to bed is the single safe prescription to insure early to rise.

We need to repeat it over and over to our hurrying, anxious, toiling American men and women: Rest, rest and again rest. Do not think time ill spent that is spent in repairing the ravages of our own ill management.

The First Pantomime.

Most pantomime characters were originally borrowed from the Italians. The first real English pantomime was produced at a theater in Lincoln's Inn Fields in 1720. It was called "Harlequin Executed," and its subtitle was "A New Italian Comic Entertainment in a Scaramouche, a Harlequin, a Country Farmer, His Wife and Clown." The performance was very successful. About the middle of the eighteenth century the character of pantomimic performances was completely altered, chiefly because of the genius of the famous Grimaldi, who made the clown the first figure of the pantomime. Grimaldi first appeared at Sadler's Wells theater, where he played the part of a monkey. He was actively engaged on the stage for forty-nine years, and at the close of his stage career he took a benefit at Drury Lane theater, which realized nearly £600. He also received £100 from the Drury Lane fund. This was in June, 1828. He died in 1837 and was buried in the churchyard in St. Pancras' chapel, Pentonville hill.—London Standard.

Animals and Poisons.

Certain substances which are deadly in their effects upon men can be taken by the brute creation with impunity. Horses can take large doses of antimony, dogs of mercury, goats of tobacco, mice of hemlock and rabbits of belladonna without injury. On the other hand, dogs and cats are much more susceptible to the influence of chloroform than man and are much sooner killed by it. If this terrible anæsthetic had been first tried upon animals, we should probably have never enjoyed its blessings, as it would have been found to be so fatal that its discoverer would have been afraid to test its effects upon human beings. It is evident, then, that an experiment upon an animal can never be the means of any certain deductions so far as man is concerned.—Family Doctor.

Skyrockets Before Gunpowder.

It matters very little in the long run to the small boy when, how or where fireworks were first made and of what they are made now. But the fact remains that the despised heathen Chinese first made them and used them and that civilized communities do not know of them until the fourteenth century. The skyrocket was first invented toward the close of the ninth century and at that time was used, as it is said, in India and China in war. That was long before the invention of gunpowder.

Ornamental Jade.

The Chinese have set jade for ages, but never ornamented it except by sculpture. When it was introduced into India, the native jewelers, with their quick eye for color, at once saw what a perfect ground it afforded for enameling precious stones, and they were the first to inserted them on jade. The Delhi museum in London possesses the choicest specimens of this work known of the best mogul period.

Knew What He Wanted.

"Can I show you anything?" asked the young man behind the counter of the hat store.

"I guess so," said the young man who had dropped in. "I want one of those disappearing hats you wear when you go to the opera. Got any?"—Chicago Tribune.

His Hair Not Gray.

"Young man," said the Rev. Goodman, "some day you'll bring your father's gray hairs in sorrow to the grave."

"No danger," replied young Rakeby. "He hasn't any. Worrying about me's made him bald."—Catholic Standard and Times.

What She Didn't Say.

Mamma (to Flossie, who has been lunching with a little friend)—I hope you were very polite, Flossie, at the table and said "Yes, please," and "No, thank you."

Flossie—Well, I didn't say "No, thank you."

Mistress Seeks a Cook.

"How many ways can you serve meat?"

"Three, mum."

"What are they?"

"Well done, rare and raw."—Chicago Chronicle.

Painful Exposure.

Richard—Uncultivated people often have a lot of insight.

Robert—That is so. Our new maid knows that she is a better cook than we're been used to.—Detroit Free Press.

EXCURSION RATES

Via Northern Pacific to Los Angeles and San Francisco.

On account of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, May 21 to June 2, and the convention of the national association of Master Plumbers at San Francisco, May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific railway will sell, from May 3 and May 12 to May 18 inclusive, Pullman round trip tickets from all points except east of Saperior.

To San Francisco, going and returning via Portland, $60.

To Los Angeles, going and returning via Portland, $60.

To Los Angeles or San Francisco, going and returning via St. Paul and direct southern routes, via Missouri river points, $60.

Tickets limited to July 10. Same rates apply on regular nine-months' California tourist tickets. For further information address Chas. S. Fee, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., or F. A. Miller, Agent, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

A Sure Thing.

It is said nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all long and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to this. Mrs. C. B. VanDetre of Sheperdstown, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of but got no relief. Two bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grip, pneumonia and consumption. Try it! It's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiner's druggist. Trial bottles free. Reg. sizes 50c and $1.

Queen Exhibits Bantams.

Eight varieties of bantams are being exhibited by the Queen of England at a show at Bernsdale.

The X-Rays.

Recent experiments, by practical tests and examination with the aid of the X-Rays, establish it as a fact that catarrh of the stomach is not a disease of itself, but that it result from repeated attacks of indigestion. "How can I cure my indigestion?" Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Growth of Co-operation.

The turnover of 2,000 co-operative societies in Europe last year was $400,000,000. In 1899 it amounted to only $250,000,000. Co-operative stores are in successful operation in thirty-eight cities in California.

From a Cat Scratch

on the arm, in the worst sort of a burn, sore or boil, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a quick cure. In buying Witch Hazel Salve, be sure that what you get DeWitt's—this is the salve that heals without leaving a scar. A specific for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles. Sold by A. Reichert.

Tintoretto's Masterpiece.

Tintoretto's noorol picture is the "Paradise," in the Doge's palace, at Venice. It is 48 feet wide and 34 feet high.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured if Cole's Cough Cure is taken in time. It is wonderfully soothing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Children like it and its guaranteed by W. A. Schreiner's druggist.

Preacher Also a Physician.

The Rev. Charles A. Trotman, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, St. Louis, is also a practicing physician, having regular office hours during the week.

Made Young Again.

"One of Dr. King's New Life Pills each night for two weeks has put me in my young days," writes D. H. Turner of Dempsetown, Pa. They're the best in the world for live stomach and bowels. Purely vegetable. Never gripe. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiner's drug store.

Bodies of Chinamen Sent Home.

About $36,000 was paid one month recently for the shipment to China of some 600 Chinamen who had died in New Zealand.

Quick Arrest.

J. A. Gulledge of Verbena, Ala., was taken to the hospital found a severe case of piles causing 24 tumors. After doctors and all remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and kills pain. 25c at Schreiner's.

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale by Advertisement.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE the condition of a certain mortgage, executed and delivered by Wm. B. Dickey and Ellen Dickey, his wife, mortgagors, to J. D. Hagler, mortgagee, dated the 15th day of March, A. D. 1902, and duly recorded in the office of the register of mortgages in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake, in the state of Minnesota, on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1902, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, in Book "A" of mortgages, on page 180, which there is claimed to be due, and no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in said case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Red Lake Falls, in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, by the Sheriff of said County, at public vendue, on Saturday, the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, with the interest thereon, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption as provided by law. The premises described in said mortgage, and so to be sold, are the following described lands and premises, situate in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The north-east (1/4) of the north-west quarter (1/4) and the south-west quarter (1/4) of the north-west quarter (1/4) of section thirty-four (34), township one hundred and forty-four (144) range forty-five (45).

Dated March 24, 1903.

J. D. HAGLER, Mortgagee.

ALBERT JOHNSON, Attorney for Mortgagee.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and there's no go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes ✓ New Tobaccos ✓ New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Pros

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers

Give Us a Call.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Stearns guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and prices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. H. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF NOGGLE UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Hedgecock & Ketch drug store.
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attension given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, pre bating estates and insurance business. Offices over Bangs and Co.'s store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no paints to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerrnane's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper.

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the states of Muscesota and the world for $1 00

When They Met Again

(Original.)

"'Tis a hal night," said Antonio Garret as he listened to the rain falling in torrents on his roof and buttoned his coat about him to protect himself from the cold wind that forced its way through the loose windows.

"Yes," replied his wife, throwing more covering over her sleeping babe. "I should dread to be out in such a night."

"It will go hard with the revolutionists. I hope this winter will freeze them out entirely."

"If it doesn't, we will go back to Spain in the spring."

There was a quick rap at the door. Garret sprang up and opened it. There stood a woman, with the dark eyes, mulous hair and olive complexion of a Cuban, hanging in her arms a little child. Garret drew back.

"I am Senora Garret," said the woman. "For heaven's sake, give me shelter, at least for the night. The Spanish soldiers have burned our house and taken my husband to jail."

"I know you well, senora. You are one of the few rich Cuban revolutionists. You have lived in a great house in the midst of your sugar plantation. Now you have no home over your head and seek shelter under the lowly roof of a loyal Spaniard. Go on in the rain then and find one of your own kind to take you in." And he shut the door in her face.

With o moan the woman turned away. A dim light shone far away, and she made toward it, the rain beating down on her already drenched garments, the wind chilling her to the bone. Holding the child close to her to protect it from the storm, she thundered on till she at last reached a hut, through the window of which came the light of a candle, and fell exhausted against the door. In another moment a man lifted her and her child into the hut. His hair had board were white, but he had the erect bearing of one who had been a soldier.

"For heaven's sake, senora," said the man in broken Spanish, "what do you out on such a night?"

"I am the wife of Senor Garret. The Spanish soldiers have burned our house and taken my husband to jail."

"Garret!" said the man. "I served under a Major Garret in the States. We were Confederates. But he would be too old to be your husband."

"My husband is much older than I. He was in the Confederate army and came here when the southern people gave up the unequal contest."

"You are welcome, senora, to what I have, but it is not much. I was with your husband through many a campaign and loved and admired him for a brave man."

The old man helped her to a rude lounge before the fire, heated some liquor, which he induced her to drink, and warmed some milk for her child. Then he went out to a neighboring house and brought back dry clothing, after which he left her for the night.

Senora Garret spent months in the abode of Antonio Cavillac, a Louisiana creole who had drifted to Cuba, where he had been employed in a tobacco house. The old man was happy in ministering to her comfort. During the day he was busy securing food and other necessaries for his guests, and in the evening he would sit and tell the senora incidents of his campaign with her husband—how they had passed through the same battles, experienced the same hunger, faced the same wind and rain and at last suffered the same bereavement in having struggled so long in a cause that was lost. "I left the south on the day after the surrender," said Antonio, "and I have never since seen him. 'Goodby,' he said. 'If you ever see me again, it will be as a soldier in a foreign army.' At that time he expected to offer his services to the khedive of Egypt."

One afternoon Garret was found near the railroad which lay about a mile from the hut, and soon a number of Spanish soldiers came flying down the road. They were followed by troops wearing a uniform unfamiliar to both the senora and the ex-Confederate. They were the United States troops of 1898. Among them was an old man who, though weak and emaciated, kept pace with the rest, on his face a look of intense keenness, in his hands a Krag-Jorgensen rifle, from which he was pouring shots at the Spaniards.

"It is Senor Garret!" the woman called to Cavillac. "Call him."

"Major!" called Cavillac. "Stop! Here!"

"Who are you, and what do you want?" asked Garret.

"I am your former orderly, Antonio Cavillac, and I have your young wife and baby here in my house."

Garret flung down his rifle. In another moment he was locked in the arms of his wife.

"Major," said Cavillac, "when I parted with you in Virginia more than thirty years ago you told me that if I ever saw you again it would be in foreign service. The next time I see you you are chasing Spaniards and in company of the men you chased at Bull Run."

"Antonio has told me," said the senora to her husband, "of many a gallant deed of yours that makes me more proud of you than ever."

"Did he tell you that he once saved my life from a Yankee saber cut by substituting his own skull?"

"No."

"The metal ornament on his hat was all that saved him."

Senor Garret had been released from prison by the blossoms, and joined Cavillac in now his overseer.

F. A. MITCHEL.

A HAZARDOUS WORK

(Original.)

In the fourteenth century there foolished in northern Italy a duchy presided over by t'e Grand Duke Savenois. At that time assassination was the common method of getting rid of an enemy, and the duke had his own especial assassinator, who removed with poison any one obnoxious to his master. At state banquets the duke stood behind the duke's chair and now and again would be dispatched to one of the guests to pledge him by proxy for the sovereign. The royal rule was that the host should exchange glasses, it being the greater honor to drink from the duke's glass. The duchess thus came to be considered one which might better be declined, for it was quite likely to be followed by the death of one of the persons honored.

There was at the capital a woman, the Countess of Vincenza, of extraordinary character and virtue, something that usual in that profligate age. She was much respected by the duke and stood high in his confidence, even to being consulted by him in affairs of state. She had endeavored to instill into him a higher code of morals, but had failed. She at last determined to put a stop to his murders, even if it was necessary to sacrifice her own life. One day while she was visiting she met a man, evidently a stranger, whose likeness to the duke was astonishing. She sent a servant to the man bidding him call at her villa that evening.

"Who are you?" she asked when he appeared.

"Ricardo Mardi, the youngest son of a nobleman of southern Italy."

"What do you here?"

"I am in quest of some adventure to better my condition. I am searching."

"Would you like to be a grand duke?"

The man, thunderstruck, stammered that he would, whereupon the countess told him that it was possible, though to effect the object he must risk his life. Ricardo was much impressed with the striking individuality of the countess, falling every moment more under her influence.

"I shall ask for an invitation for you," she said, "to the next state banquet. We will attend it together, sitting side by side. As soon as the duke sees one so closely resembling him he will send to you a napkin who will ask you to drink with his master, exchanging glasses. The glass you receive will be poisoned. I will put into pouches one of several pious I have in mind, using the one which I think the wisest most practicable."

Ricardo impulsively resolved to place his life in the countess' keeping and consented to do her bidding. She at once wrote to the duke, asking for the invitation, and when the banquet came off she was there with Ricardo Mardi. His likeness to the duke caused a sensation. Indeed, he was several times mistaken for the ruler. The moment the host set eyes on Ricardo it was plain to the countess that he was much incensed. But he controlled himself and later in the evening sent his envoy to honor the stranger in the usual way. Ricardo rose and was about to take the glass offered him when the countess seized it and, holding it aloft, turned to the duke.

"I claim the honor of first pledging your highness," she said. Master, who had been instructed by her, protested, the two contending for the glass. The duke saw his intention liable to be turned awry, sat anxiously watching the scene. Presently he saw the countess drink. She had no sooner done so than, appearing to be ill, she retired to an anteroom. Before there she sent word to the duke that she was dying and asked him to come to her. Once since she would communicate to him a state secret of vital importance. The duke hurried to the chamber.

The countess in her efforts to get the glass from Ricardo had succeeded in drinking from her own glass, making the duke believe that it was the one offered by the poisoner. When the duke entered the anteroom, Ricardo closed the door, and while the former hurried to the countess Ricardo stabbed him in the back. Then, exchanging clothes with him, he hid the body under a divan and, returning to the banquet room, took the host's seat.

As soon as Ricardo had left the anteroom the countess called for one of her servants, who had been instructed, and, wrapping the duke's body in her mantle, he carried it out to the carriage and drove away with it. Then the countess slipped out unseen.

Ricardo Mardi remained but a few moments at the table, feigning to be grieved at the illness of the countess and withdrawing apparently much affected. In fact, it was plain to the guests, some of whom recognized a difference in his appearance from the real duke, that something extraordinary had happened. When he drove up to his palace, he at once went into seclusion, and the next day it was announced that he was very ill. He was accessible to no one for some weeks, except the countess, whose unexpected recovery was received by every one with delight. When the duke emerged from his retirement, he was much altered in appearance, but this was attributed either to remorse or illness. That there was a great change in him was indicated by his ordering his poisoner to be thrown into prison, where he was secretly executed.

The countess, who was a wife and the mother of several children, kept the secret of how she had saved future ducal guests from drinking the fatal draft. The grand duke afterward asked the hand of her daughter in marriage, but the countess would not consent. When the duke died, the government passed to the hands of one in the legitimate line of succession.

EMERY STONE TORRERT.

Hunting Alligators In Great Cypress Swamp

A sportsman who has been hunting the big alligators that infest the lagoons of the Great Cypress swamp recently related an exciting experience he had with a big saurian.

One afternoon in the Okeechobeetto ker river I harpooned a large alligator which towed me up and down the stream for an hour or two and then sulked in its deepest part. I pulled on the line until the boat was directly over him and stirred him up with the harpoon pole. He rolled himself up on the flier in the manner peculiar to sharks and alligators and hanged the boat suggestively. We vowed to the hawk and, making fast to some bushes, hauled on the line until we nearly had the beast to the surface and attacked us with open mouth. We repelled the attack with harpoon pole and rifle. The former was presently broken in three pieces, but the latter apparently finished him. It was a nearly dark that we decided to carry him in the skiff a mile down the river to where our sloop was anchored and to skin him the next morning.

It was growing very dark and the water around us was becoming alive with alligators. While we were refreshing upon our overloaded condition our alligator came to life and shifted halfcast until water poured over the gunwale. We quickly balanced the boat, only to see it again disturbed on the ship more water. A scramble for the shore followed, which we reached without capsizing, and where we left our victim for the night after again killing him. In the morning our learned friend from the Homosssa river, surrounded by his family, was slitting a shore him a tree, waiting for us to attend to our carving duties.

Poison Made Body Luminous.

At the inquest of a man who died at the London Hospital recently from swallowing rat poison it developed that the whole of his body was luminous in the dark. The rat poison contained phosphorus.

More people have been relieved and cured of pain by Cole's Carbolsalve than by any other remedy. There is nothing equal to it for burns, wounds and sores of all kinds. Try it and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Notice.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at San Jose, California, May 19 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 23 the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $30 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

J. M. BRAY.
FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES.
Slickest Place in Town to Drop in and Get ::

Fine Cigars
Wines and Liquors.
BREVORT RYE. :. K. O. R. WHISKEY

WHY?
The reason One Minute Cough Cure relieves a cough in one minute, is because it acts first on the mucous membranes and expels the cough from the throat or deep-seated on the lungs, destroying the disease germs and preventing pneumonia. One Minute Cough Cure not only destroys the disease germs, and clears out their poison, but it gives strength and elasticity to the membranes which protect the throat and lungs. Gives the appetite a healthy craving, and builds up the whole system. It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Asthma sufferers, those subject to hay fever, those having chronic coughs, bronchitis, la Grippe, Cold on the lungs and Pulmonary Complaints that are curable are quickly cured by the use of

ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE
Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO., Chicago.

HAY STACK COVERS
Save the Hay and Grain
Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas Goods
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
Makers this paper. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Pig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was supposed to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured inestimable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottles free.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

O. K. SALOON
Is the Place to Go for Choice
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.
J. E. BRAY

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Reminiscences, Repartee and Story, in ten handsome volumes, illustrated with fine Photogravures and color plates.

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS,
Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of the British Parliament
Rossiter Johnson
Author and Lecturer
Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Collaborator
Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man With-out a Country"
Jonathan P. Dolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa
John W. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Georgia
Nathan Haskell Dole
Associate Editor "International Library of Famous Literature"
James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureaus, Author of "Eccentricities of Genius"
George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University
Edwin A. Start
Former Editor Chicago Inter-Ocean
P. Camille Cwen
Member Editorial Staff of "The New York Tribune"
J. Walter Kennedy
Managing Editor "Edison Records" and Author of "Edison Records of Famous Voices"
Marcus Benjamin
Editor, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.
Truman A. DeWeese
Member Editorial Staff "Chicago Times-Herald"
Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri
Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, and by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has filled more eloquent words than any other man living. In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker; we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax. One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the homes—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

A FINE LIBRARY FOR ONLY $15 A MONTH

Cash Price $49.50
Half Morocco $60

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER. Mr. Reed's Library of MODERN ELOQUENCE is offered to Red Lake County Courier readers at a greatly reduced price. If interested in reduced price, if interested in this set, sample pages, illustrations and special introductory offer, address, publishers, Philadelphia, Penna.

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

Constipation

Does your head ache? Pain back of your eyes? Bad taste in your mouth? It's your liver! Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation, headache, dyspepsia.

Want your moustache or beard a beautiful brown? Use BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

Capital Stock, $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000

OFFICERS.

WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

I. I. Wyer, F. E. Hunt, Theo Garceau, Chas W. Bourdin. A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and West.

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BD.		STATIONS	EAST BD.
8:30 pm	Lv	St Paul	Ar 7:30 am
5:20 pm	Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 7:00 am
8:35 am	Lv	Crookston	Lv 4:15 pm
9:55 am	Lv	Fisher	Lv 2:55 pm
10:30 am	Lv	Grand Forks	Ar 2:15 pm
9:45 am	Lv	Ives	Ar 3:05 pm
10:00 am	Lv	Reynolds	Ar 2:50 pm
10:30 am	Ar	St Hilaire	Lv 2:15 pm
11:00 am	Lv	RED LAKE FALLS	Ar 1:45 pm
12:40 pm	Ar	Thief River Falls	Lv 12:00 pm
12:55 pm	Ar		Lv 1:00 pm

O. THOMAS Agent.

Warm Weather Apparel
At the BIG STORE

With the advent of warmer weather you will need many things to help you keep cool. You will find every department replete with all the newest summer goods.

Unlined Coats and Vests

We show a full line of the R. & W. unlined clothing; fine tailor-made goods, beautiful fit, padded shoulders, etc. From 65c for a drill coat up to $8 for serges.

White Vests

A big line of them, from $1.25 up. Come in early and get your size. This will be a white vest season.

Parasols

All kinds at all kinds of prices. Good steel rod, black serge, for 50c. Mercerized Pearl handle, steel rod $1.35, great value. Children's Parasols 15c. A fine line of Men's Umbrellas.

Opera Gloves

We show a fine line of opera gloves and mitts in lisle and silk in all colors.

Summer Corsets

A big line of them from 30c up. We wish to announce to announce to those who have been waiting for those new Princess hip corsets that we now have a full line of them in drab and white, in the $1 and $2 grades.

McKa Waists

For children and ladies — to introduce we offer a discount of 25 per cent. We feel confident that once introduced they will prove a great success. Ask to see them.

Collars and Ties

A new line of men's and ladies linen collars; see the newest things; exclusive styles. A fine new line of Midgets, Club and Ascot ties.

Ribbon Sale

A fine 4-in silk ribbon, 10c yd. while they last. Worth 15c

Sun Bonnets, 10c. while they last.

Home Made Wrappers

An immense new line just in. These wrappers are getting too well known to need any designation. They are made with a full flounce, sewed to stay and will fit. 20 dozens to select from.

See our Monarch Negligee Shirts. We have the largest line in the city by far. $1 and $1.25 for the Monarch, $1.50 for the Cluett. They fit, they wash, always look well.

Straw Hats from 10c to $3.00 for Panamas Misses' hats from 19c up.

Specials in Groceries

Oat Meal, 30 lbs for $1
Anchovies, 5c lb
Growler smoking 15c
Onion sets, 5c qt
5lb pkg oats with dish this week 22c.
Oranges Saturday, 25c dozen
Salmon 8c
Corn Starch 6c

THE BIG STORE
THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Satisfaction guaranteed at Bennett's shoe.

Work shoes only 10c and 25c, Monday, may 18.

K. O. Gigstad was down from St. Hilaire Saturday.

Drama, vaudeville, comedy, music Bennett's big show.

Douglass shoes in twelve styles at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Frank Jeffers was at Crookston a few days of this week.

W. P. O'Brien drove to Gentilly and Crookston Sunday.

Something to amuse, nothing to offend, in Bennett's show.

Deputy Auditor Johnson has been sick for the past few days.

Architect Strassburger of Crookston was in the city Monday.

See Lewis & Higinbotham before writing your hail insurance.

Harry Ives of the Spectator, was down from St. Hilaire Monday.

See Billy Bennett, the "cat song" man, Monday, May 18, at the tent.

Father Charles of Thief River was the guest of Father Ansgar Tuesday.

S. L. Lewis was at St. Hilaire over Friday night on a land mission.

Miss Etta Zaiser made her regular weekly trip to St. Hilaire Tuesday.

Sheriff Linahan was a business visitor to Thief River Falls last Friday.

C. J. Knox was down from Thief River Tuesday on a business mission.

"Little Belle," America's greatest contortionist, with Bennett's big show.

E. B. Hanson of Mcintosh was registered at the Grand View yesterday.

Draymen Ed. Bray made a trip to Grand Rapids and Cohasset over Sunday.

Postmaster Doucet of Lambert in the city yesterday on a business mission.

Sheriff Linahan was an official caller at Thief River Falls Tuesday afternoon.

Julius Pfetb, the St. Hilaire realty man, was down to the county seat Friday.

C. F. Johnson returned Saturday from a business trip up on the St. Vincent line.

Mrs. McDavitt left Monday for a visit of some time with friends at Barnesville.

P. B. Gauss is in Iowa this week organizing a colony of laudseekers for this section.

E. P. Johnson, the Grand Forks slot machine man, was a business caller here Tuesday.

Dan Cash to investigate the merits of the magazine library at A. L. Reichert's drug store.

Full line of ledgers, journals and blank books of all kinds at THE COURIER stationery stand.

Tip Taylor is teaching a two months term of school in the Swanson district north of town.

A big bargain—combination book case and writing desk, large size, for $11.75.

Protect your crops against hail in a company that has always paid its losses in full—Lewis & Higinbotham.

Exerie Chatel went to Crookston Tuesday on business connected with his Polk county clothing centruel.

L. L. Lawrence of Armstrong, Iowa, was among the crowd of landseekers to Red Lake Falls this week.

The following letters are uncalled for at the postoffice: Vina Brassene, Tilda Sten, Mabel Welsh, Axel Anderson.

The base ball boys have cleared their ground this week and will have them in fine shape for the game Sunday.

The Surprise store, as usual, has a new advertisement this week to enumerate some of the advantages to secure from buying clothing and furnishings at that popular store.

Adelard Lemieux had the misfortune to get quite badly hurt while playing ball Tuesday evening. A batted ball struck him in the eye and as a result he has been forced to keep to the house since that time.

The Big Store calls the attention of the reader to a list of specially attractive bargains in warm weather apparel. Our people will make no mistake in calling and looking over the mammoth stock carried at this store before making purchases.

L. A. Kaufer is contemplating extensive improvements to his residence property in the west part of town this summer. Among the first will to be erection of a commodious addition to his house, and several other things doue to beautify the place.

The Great Northern section men have been notified from the headquarters effective May 1st their pay will be advanced from $1.25 to $1.50 per day. The concession was to be expected at this season of the year, as men can scarely be obtained for the wages formerly paid.

The new lodge of Knights of Pythias at Thief River Falls will be instituted on Friday evening, June 22. The lodge here has been invited to confer the first and second ranks. Quite a large gathering of Pythians from the towns in this part of the state is expected.

Maud—Last night Jack told me that he wouldn't marry the best girl living unless —what—unless she took Rocky Mountain Tea. Sensible fellow! 35c. A. L. Reichert.

W. L. Scott, of Minneapolis, an experienced dry goods salesman, has accepted a position in the store of Theo. LaBissoniere, and entered upon his new work Monday. Mr. Scott comes highly recommended and will be a valuable addition to the working force of that popular institution.

The Red Lake Falls schools will have almost an entirely new corps of teachers next year, it being understood that only three of the present force have accepted a re-election, these being Prof. Whiteley and Misses Wetzel and Sharp. A meeting of the board will be held next Monday evening to select teachers to fill the vacancies.

Give the children Rocky Mountain Tea this month, makes them strong, makes them eat, sleep and grow. Good for the whole family. A spring tonic that makes sick people well. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. L. Healy went to Minneapolis Sunday to attend the debate between the Sophomores and Freshmen of the University of Minnesota, their son, Leland, being the leader of the latter. The debate was an interesting and instructive one, being decided in favor of the Sophmores. Mr. and Mrs. Healy returned yesterday morning.

For galls, wounds, sores and diseases of the skin or feet of horses and cattle there is no remedy equal to Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve. Flies will not bother a sore on which it is used and it positively heals without scars. Guaranteed satisfactory 50c and $1.00 by all druggists.

The Billy Bennett show has had its tents pitched on some Third street lots this week and the members are rehearsing for their summer's tour of the Northwest. Bennett has the reputation of being a clean showmnn and always makes friends wherever he stops. Last year he had extraordinary hard luck, first losing his tents by fire and shortly after his manager skipped with a large per cent of the funds, but during their stay here their tents were blown over and badly damaged in a heavy storm. He has a new outfit this season and will no doubt do a good bnsiness.

Health is a strong body nourished by pure blood. This will result from taking a few bottles of Cole's Bloodbuilder, the pure vegetable blood purifier and nerve tonic. It is in name implies and is guaranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

Reformed Spelling.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the National Educational association, held in Chicago, it was decided to ask the public press to join with the association in popularizing the adoption of the spelling given herewith of the twelve words named viz: "tho", "altho, "thoro', "thoro," "thru," and "thruout" dropping the useless and awkward "ugh" now used in these words. The other six words are "program" omitting the final "me" "catalog" "decalog" "pedagog" "prolog" and "demagog," omitting the unnecessary final "ue". This method is being adopted by some of the large dailies and will doubtless become universal in the course of time.

Spring laziness, legs ache, back aches, feel tired, no ambition, no appetite, all run down feeling. Rocky Mountain Tea puts new life into your body; you feel good all over. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Mr. Hill's Advice.

A story is told of a citizen in a small western town who wished to construct a tunnel under the Great Northern railway tracks in order to have a subway built to his property. After waiting a year for permission from the road, the resident called on Mr. Hill for advice. Mr. Hill replied, "I have found that the best plan in such cases is to go ahead and get permission afterwards." The subway was built and no protest has ever been filed by the road. If you want to have good health go ahead and drink golden grain belt beer regularly with your meals and don't talk about poor health. It tones up mind and body and should be in constant use in your home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Lost Hair

"My hair came out by the handful, and the gray hairs began to come in. I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, and it stopped the hair from coming out and restored the color."—Mrs. M. D. Gray, No. Salem, Mass.

There's a pleasure in offering such a preparation as Ayer's Hair Vigor. It gives to all who use it such satisfaction. The hair becomes thicker, longer, softer, and more glossy. And you feel so secure in using such an old and reliable preparation.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle, charges paid. Be sure and give name of your nearest express office. Address, J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Class of Sixteen to Graduate from High School on June 1.

The commencement exercises of the Red Lake Falls high school will be held at the Metropolitan opera house on Monday evening, June 1. The class this year comprises sixteen members, as follows: Etta Garceau, Della Teeple, Marjorie Rodgers, Lulu Fletcher, Beata Hage, Gilbert Westphal, Fred Richards, Abner Fletcher, Joseph Helm, Hugo Zaiser, Charles Brady, Frank Brady, Norman Schreiter, Anton Schusser, Thomas McNerthney and Ernest Fletcher. Gilbert Westphal has been selected as salutatorian, and Joseph Helm as valedictorian. The class is making preparations for a splendid program.

GENEROUS WITH HER SCHOOLS.

State Aid Increased By Last Session of Legislature.

The state of Minnesota is more generous in its financial encouragement of education than any other state in the union.

Over half a million dollars a year is appropriated for schools of the state, not including the university and normal schools.

The last legislature increased the state aid to schools $211,000, as follows:

	Old Appro'n's	New Appro'n's
High schools	$125,000	$237,000
Graded schools	15,000	75,000
Semi-graded schools	25,000	65,000
Rural schools	50,000	100,000

For teachers' institutes and examinations there is $10,000 a year; for training schools, $27,500 a year; for school libraries, $15,000 a year; and for normal instruction in high schools, $10,000. This makes a total of $825,500 a year.

In addition to this over one million dollars a year is paid to schools in the distribution of the current school fund.

Minnesota has a permanent school fund of $14,316,380.06, and a permanent university fund of $1,334,036.55.

For Sale.

My house and lot, household furniture and numerous other articles. For particulars call on Mrs. A. Sleft.

For Sale.

One team of young work horses. Inquire at Sleik's farm.—C. Dideu, owner. 2tr

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in tablets and papetries. Call and look over the line.

Out To-day

Five handsomely appointed trains from the Twin Cities to Chicago via the

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway

The route preferred by the United States Government.

Electric Lighted Trains.

No. 6—DAY EXPRESS—Leaves St. Paul 8.30 a. m., arrives Chicago 9.25 p. m.

No. 58—FAST MAIL—Leaves St. Paul 3.00 p. m., arrives Milwaukee 12.20 a. m.

No. 56—FAST MAIL—Leaves St. Paul 7.30 p. m., arrives Chicago 7.00 a. m.

No. 4—PIONEER LIMITED—Leaves St. Paul 8.35 p. m., arrives Chicago 9.30 a. m.

No. 2—NIGHT EXPRESS—Leaves St. Paul 11.00 p. m., arrives Chicago 11.55 a. m.

Inside two-door sleepers and baggage checks read via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. A postal card will bring complete information.

W. B. DIXON,
Northwestern Passenger Agent,
ST. PAUL, MINN.

MINNESOTA MEN BUY CANADIAN LAND GRANT

Twelve Million Dollar Transaction by Which Three Million Acres of Territory in the Northwest Comes Under Control of a Company Which Will Have Its Headquarters at St. Paul.

For $12,000,000 Minnesota capitalists yesterday purchased 3,000,000 acres of land in the Canadian northwest.

The transaction which is one of the largest land sales ever consummated in the United States or in the Canadas, includes the entire grant of the Canadian Northern Railway company. Not an acre is excepted.

Deal Made Yesterday.

The completion of the transfer, word of which was received by interested parties in St. Paul late last night, was accomplished in Toronto yesterday afternoon by Col. A. D. Davidson of Duluth. Associated with him in the purchase are A. D. McRae and George C Howe, also of Duluth, A. R. Davidson of Little Falls, Minn., D. H. McDonald of Fort Q'Appelle, and A. J. Adamson of N. W. T., and George F. Pipier, F. E. Kennston and W. D. Douglas, all of Minneapolis.

St. Paul to Be Headquarters.

St. Paul will be made the distributing point of this unprecedented transaction, and as soon as the required formalities can be completed a new company, with a paid up capital of $20,000,000, to be known as the Manitoba & Saskatchewan Valley Land company, limited, will be organized.

Offices will be maintained in England for the purpose of interesting colonization and settlement on the new lands.

The lands which Col. Davidson and his associates have secured are located in the choicest part of Canada, and include everything in that line owned by the Canadian Northern Railway, which is the Canadian extension of the Northern Pacific railroad. The road extends from the boundry line to Winnipeg, and its branches tap much of the Northwest territory. The only railroad land now owned in the Canadas are those controlled by the Canadian Pacific Railway company.

Mecca for Land Seekers.

Canada is just now the Mecca of the land seeker and immigrant; and the consummation of this immense deal puts Minnesota capital in direct control of the movement. Many thousands of strangers are pouring into the country, and the land purchased is directly in their path. As much of this influx is from England, it is for this reason that English offices have been decided upon. They will be controlled from the central offices in St. Paul, and will be as all the other agencies that are to be established.

The head offices are to be opened in St. Paul at once, and branches, with thousands of agents, will be established all over the United States. In land circles St. Paul is considered as receiving unusual prestige from the deal.

This is the second big Canadian deal in which St. Paul has figured, the first being when over 1,000,000 acres of land in the Saskatchewan valley was purchased and put on market.—St. Paul Dail Globe.

$10.00 to Boston and Return, $10.00

Tickets on membership fee of $2.00 which, account of annual meeting of National Educational association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 2nd to 5th, inclusive, good returning from July 5th to 11th inclusive, without having deposited with joint agent. Additional time to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing return portion of ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c. for execution. Superior train service and excellent dining-car meals, on American club plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. 9t30

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 22

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND Addition or subdivision	sec	twp	range	Year or years tax levied	Amt sold for	DATE SOLD Mo	Day	Yr	Amt sold for to purchaser	Amt req'd to redeem at date of sale
First National Bank of Crookston, Minnesota	Cooper's Addition to Nelson's 1st add to Hilaire	3	88	45	1900 1901 1902	$ 15	Feb	16	1903	$ 66	$ 2.22

To FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CROOKSTON; MINN:

OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minn.

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May A. D. 1903, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes for the year 1900, 1901 and 1902, judgment was entered, in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March A. D. 1903, the above described pieces or parcels of land in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were sold into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs for the above named sums; that the time of redemption from said sale will expire on the 16th day of February A. D. 1904.

That on the above named date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor at Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 111 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs of redemption) is the sum above stated, and that the penalty for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice by publication of the same, and that the time of redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice by publication of the same.

Witness my hand and official seal this 5th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

(SEAL)

m7-9t

Red Lake County Courier.

Historical Society Star

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 33. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 21, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 241.

CLEARWATER COUNTY HELD TO BE LEGAL

Supreme Court Decides in Favor of the Division of Beltrami County.

In a decision handed down Friday morning by Judge Lovely of the supreme court it is held that the new county of Clearwater, which was established last fall by a division of Beltrami county, has a perfect right to its individual existence. The establishment of Clearwater county has been contested by Attorney General Douglas, who held that the election by which the division was made was irregular. There were three petitions for division voted on in Beltrami county at the last election, the proposed new counties being Clearwater, Roosevelt and Blackduck.

Clearwater received 663 votes, and there were but forty-eight against the proposition; for Roosevelt there were 610 and against Roosevelt 691; for Blackduck there were 101 and against Blackduck 388.

The attorney general held that as the law gave a voter a chance to vote on only one proposition the voter did not have the right to vote upon the separate questions. The court held that where several propositions are submitted the affirmative vote of a majority and a plurality over any of its competitors is sufficient.

The decision is as follows:

State of Minnesota ex rel W. D. Douglas, attorney general, relator, vs. E. L. Falk et al., respondents.

1. The proviso in section 2, chapter 124, laws 1893, amending section 14, chapter 123, laws 1893, in its effective operation does not disfranchise electors having the right to vote upon the organization of a new county in this state in violation of section 2, article 1, state constitution, in that respect.

2. When several competing propositions for county division are submitted at the same election the electors are authorized to vote only upon one, which must be carried by an affirmative vote of a majority on that issue and a plurality over any of its competitors, following State ex rel vs. Board of Commissioners, Red Lake County, 67 Minn., 325.

3. The ballots prepared by the distributing officer were improperly separated so that the question of county division and district and county officers were upon different slips instead of upon one, as provided in sections 1 and 2, chapter 88, laws of 1891, held under the showing in this case to have been an irregularity that did not defeat the proposition by which Clearwater county was established at the last election.

Crop Outlook Favorable.

Warren Register: The crop outlook for this county and the valley is exceedingly favorable at this time. The farmers who have been particularly unfortunate by reason of the weather conditions that have ruled in their localities during the past two or three years are apparently assured of bountiful crops. The faith they have manifested in the future and the courageous spirit in which they have met the disasters with which flood and hail have visited them challenge admiration and compel the hope that fate has this year only good in store for them.

Douglass shoes in twelve styles at Garceau & Zalser's.

AN HISTORIC DAY.

Seven Years Ago the Opening of the Reservation Occurred.

It was seven years ago Friday at 12 o'clock, says the Crookston Times, that the Red Lake reservation was thrown open for homesteading. It was a day which will long be remembered in Crookston. People had been lined up for three days, and as the hour approached for opening the excitement became intense.

Wm. Anglim was receiver and T. A. Dunlava register, Jac Smith chief clerk and Maurice Malone clerk and Col. Andrews government inspector and John Kirsh guarded the door.

Ed Martin was watching the clock, and as it approached 12 he called to McCall, near the head of the line, who promptly jumped through the transum. McCall was No. 1, Mrs. Cunningham was No. 2. The former is still having contest, while the latter has just proved up on eighty acres of her quarter. Will Hoeh was the last man to file, and he is still fighting contests.

On that memorable day 188 entries were made from 12 until 5 o'clock. Of these eighty-two have been cancelled either by relinquishment or contest, fifty have proved up and six are pending.

To John Kirsh that day fell the arduous task of keeping the applicants out of the room. He only let in three at a time, and it was a continuous struggle between his authority and the enterprise of the would-be homesteaders.

White Plymouth Rocks.

I have 50 choice White Plymouth Rock chickens, which I brought from Illinois. Will sell eggs for hatching during the season. Henry Gonigam.

Death of Mrs. Rock.

At her home in Terrebonne township Monday occurred the death of Mrs. Ovila Rock, wife of one Terrebonne's prominent citizens, of a complication of diseases. The deceased was a woman of noble character and her loss is a severe blow to the family. She leaves a husband and five children to mourn her untimely death. The funeral was held from the Terrebonne church yesterday and the remains were interred in the cemetery of that town. The family has the sympathy of the community in their affliction.

Jarman Deputy Sheriff.

Thief River Press: Sheriff Dan Linnihan was up from the county seat Tuesday, and while here appointed George Jarman as deputy sheriff for this end of the county. It is very essential that Thief River have a deputy, and as Mr. Jarman is well qualified to fill the position every one is satisfied with the appointment. Bonds were furnished in the sum of $8,000 and the newly appointed officer immediately entered upon the discharge of his duties.

Mr. Jarman has filled this position before, having been deputy for several years under the late Sheriff Sampson. The first of the year a Red Lake Falls man was appointed.

Race Suicide is New Form.

Philadelphia Inquirer: A man worth millions leaves his all to his many nephews and neices, with the injunction to marry. If he had been married himself he would probably have had no millions to leave. There seems to be a fine chance for an argument here.

Protect your crops against hail in a company that has always paid its losses in full—Lewis & Higinbotham

MEEHANS LOSE THEIR SUIT.

Judge Watts Renders Decision in Favor of Red Lake County.

Judge Watt rendered a decision Monday in an action brought by County Attorney Grady to enforce collection of personal property taxes in the amount of $816.78 against P. & J. Meehan of Thief River Falls, based on the assessment of 1899.

The court finds that Patrick and James Meehan, co-partners as P. & J. Meehan, were regularly and properly assessed in the city of Thief River Falls in and for the year 1899 upon manufactured articles and materials to the amount of $16,500, the same being returned by the assessor and equalized by the county and state board at that amount, and directs that judgment be entered accordingly for $816.78.

The court's memorandum states that the written contract in evidence, made between P. & J. Meehan and O'Day, Daly & Winton, provides with regard to the saw logs that the Meehans agreed to deliver to said corporation, which was not yet formed, the logs, to be delivered during the sawing season of 1899 into the mill pond at Thief River Falls, to be scaled at mill and to be paid for after scaled. The court sees no good reason to believe that there was any other contract of sale than this written one, and if this is to govern it is very plain the title to the saw logs did not pass until they were delivered in the mill pond at Thief River Falls and scaled, and this was later than July 1, 1899. The fact that other property covered by the contract was delivered at time contract was made and that title to it then passed, does not affect the saw logs, the title to which manifestly did not pass from P. & J. Meehan. It is quite apparent they are acting in good faith in the matter and have always understood that the taxes upon these logs should be paid by the parties they made the written contract with or the corporation to be so formed, but until the title passed from them they were the persons to whom the assessment should be made.

Mahara's Minstrels.

Traveling in their own $30,000 car, carrying the latest creation of the famous scenic artists, Sosman and Landis of Chicago in the way of scenery, outranking costumes to aid the efforts of 30 of the foremost colored Stars, Mahara Bros. ought to be able to furnish two and a half hours of music, mirth and melody, odds and ends and oddities that would be acceptable to the gloomiest individual living. Mahara's minstrels will appear in the Metropolitan here Saturday night.

GARNES.

H. C. Manders opened the cheese factory Monday.

Our new neighbor, Thomas Torgerson, went to Erskine Monday.

Talk is cheap, but it takes money to buy a farm in the eastern part of Red Lake county now.

Lethard Haaven, who is engaged in blacksmithing, made a trip to McIntosh last Monday.

Rain has been plentiful and crop prospects were never better. Seeding is nearly completed.

Eric Iverson returned home last Monday from a trip to Grand Forks, accompanied by his daughter, Nora.

The Great Northern has surveyed as far as Clearwater River, and it is said land has increased $1,000 a quarter along the line.

Elling Halvorsen returned home last week from a six weeks stay at Arland, Wis. He reports a wet and cold spring there, and was surprised to find Red Lake county's grain crops ahead of the southern part of the state.

A Little Early Riser

now and then at bedtime will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the famous little pills that cure by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach and liver that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the complaint. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

The Leader Store is this week offering a combination book case and writing desk, large size, for $11.75.

LOVE AND GRATITUDE.

Governor Asks for General Observance of Memorial Day.

The Memorial day proclamation issued by Governor Van Sant is as follows:

"To the soldier—living and dead—our nation owes its life. To him we are indebted for all the blessings we enjoy in our modern republic; his unselfish sacrifices and devotion to the cause of liberty are unprecedented in the history of warfare.

"We cannot too highly honor the living, or too sincerely revere the memory of the dead. Realizing this, the state and the nation have by wise legislation designated an annual Memorial day. On this day let us show our love and gratitude to the American soldier. Let us deck with the choicest floral offerings the graves of our patriotic dead. Let us extend to the living heroes the nation's love, and let us renew our fealty to the cause of liberty and consecrate ourselves to the institutions of our country which those men fought and died to save. Let us, then, observe as a legal holiday Saturday, May 30.

"I would suggest that flags be placed at half mast, and all factories, mills, stores, mercantile houses and offices be closed and all business be suspended, that the day may be most sacredly observed in every city, village and hamlet in Minnesota.

Miss Brady Entertains.

Miss Ella Brady pleasantly entertained a party of friends at her home last Friday evening in honor of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Allard. Progressive cinch furnished the amusement. Mrs. W. P. O'Brien winning first prize while the booby honors went to Mrs. Frank Grady. Dainty refreshments were served and the evening was greatly enjoyed by those present.

The State Press.

Warren Register: "I am not much of a mathematician," said the cigarette, "but I can add to a man's nervous troubles, subtract from his physical energy; multiply his aches and pains, and divide his mental powers. I can take interest from his work, and discount his chances for success."

Fergus Falls Free-Press: Noah was a pioneer financier than J. Pierpont Morgan. He floated a stock company when all of his competitors had to take water.

Anoka Union: Don't believe every mean thing you here repeated about a man or woman. Ten chances to one they are not deserved or true. My experience compels me to admit that I have often been mistaken in my impressions of a man or woman, because of some mean thing I have heard said about them, and a close acquaintance has been the means of discovering how untrue they were. This old world is inhabited by lots of people who never speak a good word for anyone if they can help it, and many of them never try to help it, but they are mighty quick to say anything bad they can get hold of, so the safest way is not to believe anything you hear and only half of what you see.

Alexandria Post-News: If Bob Dunn is a candidate for governor no man or corporation will have a string on him. If you do not believe it watch the moves on the political chessboard.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Nickel Plate Road

is the short line to the east and the service equal to the best. You will save time and money by traveling over this line. It has three through daily express trains, with through vestibuled sleeping cars, and American club meals, ranging in price from 35 to $1.00, are served in Nickel Plate dining cars. Also a la carte service. Trip over the Nickel Plate road and you will find the service equal to any between Chicago and the east.

Chicago depot: Harrison St. and Fifth Ave., city ticket offices 111 Adams St. and Auditorium Annex. John Y. Calahan, General agent, 113 Adams St. Room 298, Chicago. Phone Central 2057. 1030

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

THE SURPRISE

Everything That is Good to Wear

Correct Dress From Head to Foot

We are the Leaders. The Only Up-to-date Clothing House in the County

Copyright 1903 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

Throw off the whole summer's worry of clothes in a single day—what a relief. It can be done right here at the Surprise. The store is ready for summer. You can be. We show in our illustration the HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX way of making such clothes. You see the style we put into them. Nothing better than that to be had of the most distinguished custom tailors. Notice the fit, also the way the collar, shoulders and front of the coat lie. The man's attitude is perfectly natural. The suit is a stock size on a living model, drawn to life. The clothes themselves are better than the illustration. You wont find such clothes anywhere else. You can look for 'em if you want to—its for you to decide whether you want to cooperate with us.

Copyright 1903 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

We are showing a complete line of outing suits in tweeds, homespuns, bannockburns, crash and linens. In coats and vests we are showing serges in blue, black and oxford; also in blue flannel. In single coats we are showing plain and twilled linen; also plain black alpacas, lusterine and worsted.

BOYS' CLOTHING

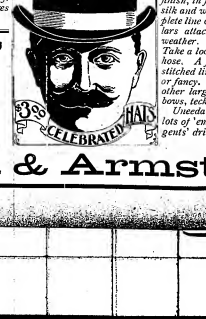
Base ball and bat or catcher's mitt given free with every boys' suit...

Special for this week—100 boys' 2-piece suits, ages 7 to 16, good value for $5, this week 1.75. 50 boys' 2-piece suits, a fine blue serge, ages 8 to 16, cheap at $5, this week 3.00.

Our Hattery

We are Sole Agents for the Celebrated HAWES HATS

We carry them inall shades, in soft and stiff. That we carry the best $3 Hats in the Northwest is conclusive by our enormous increase in sales.



Gents' Furnishings

HOT WEATHER UNDERWEAR

We have them in elastic ribbed, plain egyptian balbriggan, French balbriggan silk finish, in fancy merino, natural wool and silk and worsted mixed. We show a complete line of soft shirts without or with collars attached. The real thing for hot weather. In hosiery we put our foot in it. Take a look and ask to see our open-top hose. A full line of Wilson Bros.' hemstitched linen handkerchiefs in plain, white or fancy. We have received this week another large supply of swell neckwear in bows, tecks, four-in-hands and ascots. Unecda white or fancy vest. We have lots of 'em. Just received a full line of gents' driving gloves. We handle belts. THAT'S ALL.

Berthon & Armstrong...

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Just to be a good fellow America ought to allow Sir Thomas Lipton to win a yatch race once in awhile.

If the present rate of increase continues we will all be reformers and there will be no body left to reform.

There is apt to be a difference of opinion with regard to putting a large family plank in the next Republican platform.

Lots of newspaper editors, otherwise guarded in their utterances, have no hesitancy in jumping on the legislature with both feet.

The Duluth Herald declares that "smokeless powder is unsafe." This must be the kind that persists in getting on the young man's shoulders.

There is said to be no truth in the rumor that the special tax of $2 on automobiles by the legislature is a hit at country newspaper publishers.

The Albert Lea Standard tritely says that if we could only at once forget the mean things we hear about people everybody's lot would be a lot easier.

Since a new law provides that a quart of milk or beer must contain 70½ cubic inches, water and froth will continue to be important if not necessary constituents of these fluids.

The St. Peter Herald thus notes a popular affliction:

The trouble with some of us is in the fact that we start out to do ten days' work in ten minutes, and then get so tired that it takes the rest of the ten days to rest up.

The protective tariff is designated to keep down imports and prevent the competition of foreign goods, yet under the Dingley law our imports have increased 50 per cent. Some other excuse for protection will have to be devised.

"The Iowa idea" is troubling the administration considerably, and the managers of Teddy's boom would be interested in knowing if the thing has been consigned to the ash barrel or whether it is cocked and primed to go off at an inopportune moment.

Ex-Governor Taylor of Kentucky, who is safely stowed away somewhere in Indiana, declares that the testimony that he offered $2,500 and a pardon to a man to kill Goebel is a lie of whole cloth, but we notice that Mr. Taylor doesn't evince any desire to tell that tale to a Kentucky jury.

The press dispatches implicate Capt. Henry A. Castle, auditor for the postoffice department, in the postal scandals, but Minnesota people must be "shown" before believing that Mr. Castle would become a party to a conspiracy to rob the government. Capt. Castle's record has heretofore been clear of any suspicion of jobbery.

This is according to the Princeton Union:

"It is indeed wonderful when one stops to think that there are not more people in the 'bug houses' than there are; considering the incessant distortion of the truth and the mental monstrosities produced by the yellow journals of the present day, to say nothing of the babel of tongues and opinions on theological matters. This is an age of human freaks and dribbling dreamers. Truth in its grab of simplicity is the sweetest and fairest of all, but the world is not satisfied with it."

There is substance in Bob Dunn. What THE COURIER meant to convey is that he is big enough to cast a shadow over the aspirations of peanut politicians. Hence this criticism by Eb Huntington is hardly in order:

"The first thing Bob Dunn should do is to go after THE RED LAKE COUNTY COURIER with an axe. The idea of calling Bob a shadow."

These words of Booker T. Washington are to the point and will meet with general approval:

"I believe that the white people of the country have about begun to realize that they can't get rid of the negro. The negro is not going to colonize, he is not going to Africa, he is not going to die out and you can't bury him. You have got him here and the best thing you can do for him is to make him a decent, self-respecting, honest, American citizen."

Richard Henry Stoddard has died at the ripe old age of 77. He was a true poet, simple and direct in sentiment and correct in feeling. Some of his lines are well remembered, e'en though the author be forgotten. For instance:

There are gains for all our losses,
There are balms for all our pain,
But when youth, the dream, departs,
We take something from our hopes,
And it never comes again.

The Albert Lea Standard editor is slightly in error when he says: "The Red Lake indian reservation will not be opened this year as expected. The red men have refused to sign the government treaty, and will hold on to the land awhile longer. It is just as well, and it would be better yet if it could never be opened, and maintained instead as a forest reserve."

If there ever was any timber on that part of the reservation proposed to be opened the lumber interests long ago "sawed" it. Did you ever hear of an Indian reservation being opened until the lumber barons were through with it?

Mary McFadden's wit and satire is always of the quick, unassuming order, but none the less penetrating and revivifying;

The girl in the rainy day skirt is still in vogue.
Loyalty is the best and rarest of the social virtues.
About this time of the year the average woman is fully aware of how unbecoming her Easter hat has grown.
There is one county in Kentucky in worse repute than Hennepin was before some of the recent convictions.
No selfish individual ever had a clearly defined idea of justice.

The Alton (Iowa) Democrat tells how an Arizona newspaper man circumvented a combination of difficulties:

"Old Bill Bodwin, who works for Tony Hagg, was in town this week, and has a new story to tell about the days when he lived in Arizona. He says he had a friend out there who was trying to publish a paper. One day his office burned down and he only rescued his type from the flames. The presses and blank paper all burned up, but Bill put him on to a scheme. There was a circus in town and the rest was easy. They got nice rolls of wall paper and cut it up. They set up the type and laid it on the ground and spread a piece of paper over it. Then they backed the circus elephant up to the type and made him sit down on the paper laid over the inky type. In that way they printed 200 papers an hour for five hours and ran off a job of side bills.

Editor Cobb of the Park Rapids Enterprise notes the evolution of Minnesota during its forty-five years of existence as a state as follows:

The state of Minnesota was forty-five years old last Monday, May 11. Marvelous have been the changes since that date. The Indians were then in possession of a large portion of the state. Buffalo roamed over its prairies and dense forests covered great areas which now furnish wheat for millions. The transformation of the North Star state from a wilderness to one of the richest states in that union, with its beautiful farms, thriving villages and great cities, has been brought about so rapidly that there are still living many of the early pioneers, who entered it when boundaries when existence meant a daily struggle with wild beasts, treacherous red men and stubborn nature, to tell of the early day of the great state and the evolution which they have witnessed.

REED SMOOT, MORMON APOSTLE.

Hon. Reed Smoot, one of the prominent men of Utah, announced in a recent speech at Salt Lake City that he would be a candidate for United States senator, should the next legislature return a republican majority. He is a native of Salt Lake City, where he was born 37 years ago, but has lived since early youth in Provo, where he has extensive business interests. He is one of the apostles of the Mormon church. His candidacy will be vigorously opposed by the preachers of Utah, outside of the Church of Latter Day Saints, but he will have the support, so he says, of the regular "machine."

IN WAY OF PREPARATION.

"Tastus—Mammy, why does you call me Honey?

Mammy—'Cause, child, I wants you to realize that youse likely to get waxed any minute.—Philadelphia Press.

"Xo, Charles, dear, I shall never marry. I shall spend the rest of my life in a nunnery."

"Well, Aurelia, if you do that, I shall spend the rest of my miserable existence in a—in—a—a monkery."—Ally Sloper

THE THOUGHTFUL CHILD.

Little Neighbor — Want a mouse, Miss Sharp?

Miss Sharp—What do you mean, child?

Little Neighbor—Why, ma said you was an old rat.—Chicago Daily News.

Justice—Are you ready for the knot to be tied?

Bride—Um-m-m, yes. But make it a slipknot, judge. I doan want ter get tangled up in one ob dose high class'ed courts dat can't be unrabbled when de occasion arises.—N. Y. Sun.

THE JOY OF GIVING.

She—Tom, dear, before I get you your birthday present I want you to tell me how much you can afford to pay for it.—N. Y. Times.

"Why did Tom give up his study of genealogy?"

"You see he climbed so far up his family tree that he caught sight of an ape in the upper branches."—N. Y. Times.

LARGEST CRAB EVER DISCOVERED.

In the American museum of natural history, says the New York Herald, is a wonder of marine life in the shape of a gigantic Japanese crab, measuring 18 feet, making it the largest crustacean in the world. The specimen is a type of the spider crab, which inhabits the waters of the group of islands forming the empire of Japan. The size of the crab is strikingly shown in the picture in comparison with the man standing in the corner with the outstretched arms of the man holding the frame. The body portion is the size of a half bushel basket, while its two great arms could encircle the figure in the picture.

Marriages That Are Criminal

By DR. JOHN S. SCUDDER,
Pastor First Congregational Church, Jersey City, N. J.

The rights of unborn generations is a branch of ethics which has been largely ignored, but which ought to form a part of our moral philosophy. If a man has no right to poison his child with arsenic or strychnine, he certainly has no right to bring a child into the world with the poison of hereditary disease in his blood. In either case he is equally responsible and reprehensible. We call ourselves a civilized people, and yet what monumental ignorance exists in regard to life, what criminal indifference respecting the welfare of coming generations!

In the absence of suitable conscientiousness on the part of parents, the State should intervene and rigidly make an examination of all couples tending to marry, and give licenses only to those who are healthy and fit to be fathers and mothers. The State has a right to place restrictions on marriage. Drunkards, incorrigible criminals, insane and idiotic people, and such as are afflicted with consumption, scrofula and other diseases likely to injure the next generation, should be denied the privilege of wedlock, or certainty of reproducing their kind.

A BIRTH FORBIDDEN BY LAW SHOULD BE CONSIDERED AS A CRIMINAL OFFENCE, AND THE PARENTS SHOULD BE PUNISHED BY FINE OR IMPRISONMENT.

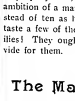
Science, not caprice, should be the arbiter of life, and domestic sentiment in some cases must be sacrificed in behalf of the general good.

The limitation of offspring when parents are competent to marry is as yet a question for the parents to determine themselves. Poor people in our overcrowded cities, who allow themselves the luxury of six or eight children when they know their income is not sufficient to properly feed, clothe and shelter them, are positively cruel. The ambition of a man of small means should be to rear two children, instead of ten as heretofore, and give his children an opportunity to taste a few of the good things of life. Let the rich have large families! They ought to have them, for they have the means to provide for them.

John L. Scudder

The Making of a Comic Opera

By GEORGE ADE,
Author of "Fables in Slang," "Pink Marsh," "The Sultan of Sulu," Etc.



S. Gilbert once said: "Comic operas are not written; they are rewritten." That is why the first-nights are to be dreaded. They hear lines and musical numbers which are denied the latecomers, who drop in after the performance has been "whipped into shape." Some day the seventh son of a seventh son will go in for writing librettos and make a tremendous success. He will find out the star under which a "musical number" was born and read its horoscope and know whether it is to be a "hit" or a "frost." In the meantime the ordinary manufacturers of musical plays will go ahead, filling their private cemeteries with favorite children and weeping softly above the graves. They become convinced that "the good die young." Conversely, the unpromising infants, reared in neglect, often live and thrive and grow into positive successes.

The writer has had a short but bewildering experience in trying to assist in the molding of musical plays. He does not pass as an expert, but no doubt he knows more now about the rules for pleasing the public than he will know after he has written one or two more "books." Believed theories have a way of evaporating in the fierce heat of actual experience.

When it is recalled that Mr. Gillette, Augustus Thomas, James A. Herne and others who knew all the tricks of stage craft and understood all the rules for working upon the emotions of the susceptible public, have produced plays that failed, what are the relative chances of the novice? Charles H. Hoyt was a keen student of the American play-going public. He knew how to humor it and tickle it and send it home grinning, and yet every one of his musical farces had to be almost entirely reconstructed after the first night.

The moral of all this is that one never can tell. The song that is the pride of the composer and is wisely approved by the manager and picked as a winner by the company may fizzle ignominiously at the first performance. Very often the author and composer, in order to test their wares, try the new songs on their friends who are merrily gathered around the piano after a good dinner. Result—a succession of terrific hits. But, oh, what a difference when those same gems of melody are tried on the people who pay for their seats and sit in cold judgment.

The author and composer, instead of submitting musical numbers to their friends, should have them tried on a convention of coffin-trimmers, or else give a special concert at some sanitarium for the cure of dyspepties. Then they might begin to get a true line on the value of their stuff.

George Ade

THE CHILD'S INDIVIDUALITY

By PROF. CHARLES McKENNY,
President Wisconsin State Normal school.

PARENTS should take heed before they attempt to make lawyers, doctors, or musicians out of their children. They make a big mistake often when they drive their children to the piano and compel them to practice two or three times a day. The child has an individuality which must be considered. We are not all constituted alike. The man who is a great literary genius may be woefully ignorant of the laws of higher mathematics.

Heredity lays down general laws which enter into the life of all. But they are general laws only. Any one of us might become a thief, might become a murderer. Mary Magdalenes would be more frequent if more women were born amid surroundings which produce such a condition. We can go into a forest. Upon one band we see a scraggly little tree which has but a few ragged limbs on one side. It is an eyesore and we feel like taking an ax and felling it to the ground. Right beside it is a stately oak, which rears its head far above us. Both trees have descended from the same oak. But one tree is supported by rich, loamy soil, while the other has its roots in rough, unnutritious earth. These types stand for human life.

The courses in the schools should be changed to provide for the conditions which are known to exist and which no one denies. All children do not do alike in every subject. We should not force them to become something for which they are entirely unfitted. The courses should be so arranged that each child can take what he most needs and be given credit for it as though it were in a regular course.

T.L. BLOOD, & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
DRIES WHILE YOU SLEEP
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 11:30 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 12:15 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 1:15 p. m.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. until 7:30 p. m.
Sunday hours from 10:00 a. until 12:00 m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train 25 and no other Sundays.
E. P. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate building a picnic you come and see me.

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DON'T BE FOOLED
Advertisments having appeared in various publications wherein Sears, Roebuck & Co., offer Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines, we wish to warn the public that they are not our authorized agents and that we do not sell our machines to them nor any other catalogue house or department store.
Their advertisements are not for the purpose of promoting the sale of our machines. They are using our reputation as makers of the highest grade machines only, in order to get the names of possible buyers and persuade them to purchase one of their cheap STENCILED MACHINES, the manufacturers of which they are, evidently, ashamed to make public.
If you want a genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, do not waste your time writing to anyone who is unable to furnish it. The genuine Wheeler & Wilson machine, made by us and backed by our warranty, is for sale by our authorized dealers only. When you buy a Wheeler & Wilson, you get a machine that is a machine, backed by a reputation of 60 years' unparalleled success.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133. I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING. VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Whitney, H. Hugo Jacob, Wm. Schwalm N. G. V. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA Made by Madison Medicine Co. Madison, Wis. Keeps you well. Our trade mark cut on each package. Pleasing agreeable words in pray. Counterfeits sell better to dealers. Don't be fooled. Accept no substitute. Ask your druggist.
INCORPORATED 1888

OUR THEY GO
NORTON COUNTY, Kansas, has a big black loam soil 18 feet bottomless, producing enormous crops of corn, wheat, alfalfa, potatoes, which in 1902 sold for $1,000,000. Pending absolute words in print. Counterfeits sell better to dealers. Don't be fooled. Accept no substitute. Ask your druggist.
INCORPORATED 1888
5,000 people now in county. Lands and town lots cheap. Write for maps and facts.
About Britain & Co
Mandan, N. Dak., or 121 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

No More Money Needed.

In a letter to Senator Thorpe, of Willmar, published in last week's Willmar Gazette, Bishop Skaar, of Trondhjem, Sweden, states that it will not be necessary for the people of this country to send any more money to Sweden for the relief of the famine sufferers this spring. After acknowledging receipts of a remittance the bishop says: "The great kindness and assistance given our needy people, together with the improved fishing, has alleviated the suffering, and grespiing your hand I say, thanks, a thousand thanks, to the people of Minnesota. Send us no more. I have published a full statement and ask the papers in Minnesota tlo republish it. The generosity shown by your people has doneme a great deal of good, and think of the thousands that have been helped. If the distance was not so great you would run the risk of hearing me kneeling at your door some fine day to express my gratitude in person."

This is certainly a unique letter, the Gazette comments, and only goes to show a genuine feeling of gratitude and a desire to help themselves on the part of the famine stricken people to which the hands of the whole world have been outstretched in charity. With the coming of the spring and the opening of fisheries they are desirous of making a renewed struggle for an existence and decline with many thanks the future charity which might be theirs.

The history of misery and suffering of the people of Northern Norway and Sweden is well known to us all and no enumeration of the hardships can be given here. In this state alone over $80,000 has been raised in a relief fund and distributed to the sufferers. The work of soliciting funds in this county is practically over. The records and vouchers of funds raised in the state will be looked after by the publication manner and given into the hands of Governor Vae Sant at an early date and the records died away. Much credit is due the charitable committee who had the matter in charge in this state and county.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The most careless thing a girl can do is to kiss a man without making him do it against her will.

It is as natural for a woman to ride horseback a straddle as for a man to sit down on the floor to put on his stockings.

The devil knew that if he could only get women started to wearing fine clothes he would never have to work any more.

Once a woman went shopping and did not spend all the money she started with, but it was because she lost her pocketbook.

The clever woman always interests a man by talking to him about himself, and the clever man always interests a woman by talking to her about the man he suspects she is in love with.—New York Press.

Mahara's Minstrels.

Thirty colored stars, a carload of scenery, magnificent costumes and every scenic accessory known to all the comical antics of a minstrel ranting an exceptionally good band and orchestra and innovations and novelties galore that go to make up an up-to-date performance of minstrelsy is what Mahara Brothers have to offer at the Metropolitan opera house next Saturday night. Mahara's famous challenge band and orchestra will give a parade on the day of the show.

The "James Boys" Were Novices.

Washington Post. The proposition to exhibit the old home of the James boys at the St. Louis fair has been abandoned. Recent legislative hold-ups have demonstrated that the James boys were cheap pikers unworthy the proposed commemoration.

EXCURSION RATES

Via Northern Pacific to Los Angeles and San Francisco.

On account of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, May 21 to June 2, and the convention of the national association of Master Plumbers at San Francisco, May 19 to 23, the Northern Pacific railway will sell, from May 3 and May 12 to May 18 inclusive, first-class round trip tickets from all points except east of Superior.

To San Francisco, going and returning via Portland, $50.

To Los Angeles, going and returning via Portland, $60.

To Los Angeles or San Francisco, going and returning via St. Paul and direct southern routes, via Missouri river points, $50.

Tickets limited to July 10. Same rates apply on regular nine-months' California tourist tickets. For further information address Chas. S. Fee, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., or F. A. Mixm, Agent, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

Ragina Picha to C. Wienea, lot in Knox' rearrangement, block 33, Red Lake Rapids..... 200
Joe Cr Brown et al. to James Envoldsen et al, nw qr 35-151-44. 2,000
James F. Stone to Oscar s hf se qr 21 and e hf ne qr 28-153-44..... 1,800
United States re Andrew J. Elsman, s hf ne qr 21 and n hf ne qr 28-153-44..... Patent
United States to James F. Carpenter, sw qr ne qr 23-151-42..... Patent
Wm. Tyselling to S. A. Swanson, sw qr 22-152-44..... 3,500
S. A. Swanson to Wm. Tyselling, sw qr 28-152-44..... 3,500
Wm. M. Stone to James F. Stone, s hf se qr 21 and n hf ne qr 28-153-44..... 1
Geo. A. Morison to Jennie Albers, lots 18 and 19, block 4 Ihm addition. Red Lake Falls..... 80
Frank H. Barnerd to O. J. Hubbard, sw qr n hf nw qr sw qr sw qr 13-151-45..... 5,600
Eugene Van Voorhis to J. K. Haman, nw qr sw qr 3, lot 1 and se qr ne qr and n hf s hf and ne qr se qr 5-151-42..... 1,600
Hattie Grover to N. E. Gass, nw qr 22-150-44..... 1
Ernest Buse et al. to Arthur E. Nauman, lot 1 block 2, Schreiber's addition, and lots 13 and 14, block 18, Railroad addition to Red Lake Falls..... 170
J. K. Hanny to Sarah Bourdon, nw qr sw qr 3, and n hf sw qr n hf se qr lot 4, and ne qr se qr 5-151-42..... 7,000
Joseph Lailey to Peter K. Olson, lots 5, 6, 7, 8, n and ne, 18-151-43.. 2,500
Louis Severson to Peter P. Hood, lot 1, block 1, Robertson & Town-site Co.'s addition to St. Hilaire
L. G. Dawson to Lars O. Flaga, ne qr 1-151-43..... 2,750
R. E. Barker to K. O. Glenist, se qr ne qr 1-151-43..... 1
Neil W. Watson et al. to Nellie Poirery, lot 12, block 4, Central addition, Red Lake Falls..... 50

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average sizes loses two pounds of warmest tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions the strength fails, health gives way and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not invest in soil home that is your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and well-graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A five investor can make a 50 thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,
BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 32

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt sold for in part	Amt paid for redemption	Date of redemption
	Addition or subdivision / Sec / Twp / Range / or lot or blk			Mo Day Yr
C. A. Rhinehart	Crocker, Cook & Schmitz's addition to the Village of Red Lake Falls	97	1	Feb 19 1900		56	1-03

To C. A. RHINEHART:

Office of County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 1st day of May 1903, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes thereon to that end entered in the district court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1903, the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of said Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, to the State of Minnesota, upon the judgment rendered in said proceedings, and that the above named state has become and now is the absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 101 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the taxes above stated; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum from date of this notice until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said lands and premises will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 30th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota

(SEAL)

4792-3t

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 24

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt sold for in part	Amt paid for redemption
	Addition or subdivision / Sec / Twp / Range / or lot or blk			Mo Day Yr
John C. Rube	Original Townsite of Thief River Falls	4	7	1902 29 1903		7.54

To JOHN C. RUBE:

Office of County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

You are hereby notified that on the 4th day of May, A. D. 1903, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes thereon to that extent real estate judgment, which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1903, the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of said Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amounts for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute Property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 101 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the taxes above stated; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum from date of this notice until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said lands and premises will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

4792-3t (SEAL)

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 4

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Year of sale	Amt paid for taxes	DATE SOLD TO PURCHASER	Amt sold for in part	Amt paid for redemption	Date of redemption
	Addition or subdivision / Sec / Twp / Range / or lot or blk			Mo Day Yr
H. A. McClatchie	Kentzebi 21 152 44	1902	35	1903		1.20	2.30
	Kentzebi 21 152 44	1902	35	1903		1.20	2.30
	Red Lake 1 151 44	1902	35	1903		1.20	2.30
	Red Lake 1 151 44	1902	35	1903		1.20	2.30
	14 151 44	1902	35	1903		1.20	2.30
Total						46.80

To H. A. McCLATCHIE:

Office of County Auditor, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

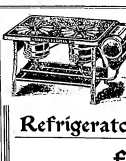
You are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of May A. D. 1903, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes thereon to that extent real estate which was entered in the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, in the State of Minnesota, on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1903, the above described pieces or parcels of land situated in Red Lake county, State of Minnesota, were bid into the state to satisfy the amount for which they were adjudged liable in said judgment, interests and costs, for the above named sums; that the above described real estate has become and now is the absolute property of the State.

That on the above stated date the above described real estate was sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 101 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1878, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the taxes above stated; that the amount required to redeem said pieces or parcels of land from such sale (exclusive of the costs to accrue on this notice) is the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum from date of this notice until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said lands and premises will expire sixty days after the service of this notice, and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 4th day of March A. D. 1903.

JAMES E. FORD,
County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

4792-3t (SEAL)



THE SEASON IS NEA R AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN;
Oil Stove,
Refrigerator or Ice Cream freezer
You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of
Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages
Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils
FRANK E. HUNT
HARDWARE DEALER.
No trouble to show goods.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.
What it Means
to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.
Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

Possibilities in Advertising.
The man who thinks satisfactory ads can be dashed off in a few minutes at any time thereby proves that he has no comprehension of the immense possibilities of good advertising—Advertising Experience.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papeteries
Tablets
Letter Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Galling Cards
Card Racks
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office . . . . . Supplies . . . . . .

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be Satisfactory

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

THE Journal of the Knights of Labor estimates John D. Rockefeller's fortune at $800,000,000, bringing him the smart little income of $48,000,000 a year. At the rate of increase of the last four years, it is estimated that it will amount to $8,270,800,000,000 in 1927.

CHRISTIAN Science has secured another severe blow in Pennsylvania, where the supreme court of the state has sustained the late Judge Arnold of the court of common pleas in refusing to grant a charter to a Christian Science church on the ground that it was contrary to public policy.

CONGRESSMAN STEENERSON has been notified by the department of pensions that his recommendation for the establishment of an examining board at Bemidji has been acted upon and that papers in the matter have been forwarded to Drs. W. E. Morrison, E. H. Smith and E. F. Ward of that place.

THE Eddy gubernatorial boom exists mainly in the office of the Minneapolis Times, and there is no indication that the Republican party intends to take it seriously. Eddy's political career ended when he began work for the Clergue syndicate while still under contract to look after the interests of his constituents in congress.

A BRIGHTER day seems to be dawning for Ireland, so long under the curse of British misgovernment. Steps are being taken to enable the tenants to buy the land, and with land ownership will surely come at least as large a measure of agricultural prosperity for the common people as prevails among the peasantry of France and Germany.

A LOGIC of a supreme court decision is sometimes incomprehensible to the average layman. On the broader ground of public policy Colombia county has as good a claim to existence as Clearwater. There is no question but that nine-tenths of the people living in the territory embraced in the ill-fated Columbia desired to be set off from the mother county.

THE intimation of the Thief River papers that no one outside of that burg has a right to comment on the failure to open the reservation series with it a sort of sheep conceit that doubtless ameliorates to some extent the disappointment of the dear fellows. It is only a matter of time until our Thief River friends will be accusing Minneapolis and Chicago of jealousy.

THE Rev. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, has announced that 203 of the 239 presbyteries of the Presbyterian church in America have voted on creed revision. Of the number 185 were in favor of all the overtures, thirteen were partly affirmative, two negative and three no action. This assures the two-thirds necessary for approval.

THE threatened strike on the Great Northern has been averted by the good sense of both parties to the controversy. The agreement was reached by compromise on both sides, and neither the railroad company nor the trainmen were wholly satisfied with the terms, but in a larger sense the adjustment is a victory all around, no less to the public than to the parties directly interested.

OF the 353 prisoners at Stillwater seventy-nine, or just one-seventh, are in for murder or manslaughter, and fifty-nine have life sentences. The average sentence of all convicts is four years, six months and thirteen days. The per capita expense for 1902, was $177.76, and the per capita earnings $348.38, an excess of $170.57. Hennepin county furnishes 21 per cent of the convicts and Ramsey county 12 per cent.

FORMER MAYOR AMES of Minneapolis was sentenced to six years confinement at Stillwater by Judge Elliott last Saturday afternoon. It is undoubtedly a severe sentence, taking into consideration the feeble health of the convicted magistrate, but the good name of the city, and the cause of municipal reform everywhere demanded a rigid enforcement of the letter of the law. This has been a bad year for "grafters."

SECRETARY OF STATE HANSON says that there was a mistake in the printing of the law relative to the legislation requiring red cans for gasoline. The law as printed makes the law a farce, but as passed by the legislature it is all right. It requires that when gasoline is sold in less quantity than six gallons the can shall be of a bright red color and plainly tagged or labeled with the contents and name of the dealer selling same. So after July 1st do not be surprised if the local dealer refuses to fill your gasoline can unless your can is painted red.

OUR local contemporary plumes itself unnecessarily, it seems to THE COURIER, as to the matter of circulation. If the statement that 1,500 copies of the Gazette are printed each week is true—and who would be rash enough to say that the Gazette editor juggles with the truth?—there is no reason to crow over THE COURIER in consequence. THE COURIER is in the same roll of honor of which the Gazette speaks. This paper is credited with an average of 1,350 copies weekly for 1902, and a regular average issue of more than 1,100 copies, exclusive of special editions. This may not be a remarkable showing, but nevertheless is an evidence of healthy growth, and had THE COURIER pursued the questionable methods of obtaining a circulation used by the Gazette there is little doubt but that we could make a much higher claim.

SOLACE IN BOOKS.

Josiah E. Lynn was at one time a millionaire—one of the richest men in the country in his palmiest days. He died in a poor house at Washington, N. J., a few days ago, and to his last was happy and a philosopher. Before passing to the great beyond he delivered himself of this humored philosophy:

"After all, there is nothing in the world that can happen to us that really ought to cause a moment's unhappiness. I have been a wealthy man in my days—a wealthy man with plenty of friends and a wife whom I loved devotedly. They have all passed away—wife, fortune and friends. Could I have forseen such an end when I was an ambitious young man, or even twenty years ago, I should have gone mad, I suppose. But instead of that I find myself not discontented, not unhappy—certainly very much happier than many so-called fortunate people.

"Right living and a well stored mind are essential factors to happiness. I have always made it a point of my life to read at least ten minutes every day from some good book, the bible or Shakespeare, or some other good old authors. I read one time the saying of some great man, I don't remember who the man was, but I never forgot the verse the man said he had never suffered a grief, a sorrow or a loss that one hour's reading from a good book did not make it easier to bear. Nobody every said anything truer than that, and it's a pity that more people couldn't be persuaded to profit by the advice. One of the surest foundation to happiness is the cultivation of a taste for the best literature.

"I do not think it is possible for the real lover of books to ever be hopelessly miserable. The greatest regret I have now—in fact my only regret—is that I am no longer able to read a word for something like fifteen years, and I miss my books as I do my old friends. Sometimes a caller drops in and reads to me, but it doesn't give me the same satisfaction that reading myself did. But then, I suppose, I ought to be thankful that I have ears to hear, if not eyes to see.

"These three old books and that old coat and hat hanging there in the corner are all I have left me in the world, but still, as I said before, I don't want to complain. I have a comfortable bed to sleep in, kind attendants and my memories, and best of all an infinite hope for life beyond the grave. Why should I be unhappy?"

We Need it Badly Enough.

Crookston Times: With four officials crowded into one room, it is evident that Red Lake county needs to build a court house. Surely, after all these years of separate existence Red Lake county should have saved enough to own a house of its own.

Carbon papers for sale at THE COURIER.

A. L. REICHERT, Red Lake Falls.
W. A. SCHREITER, Red Lake Falls.
IMPERIAL DRUG CO., St. Hilaire.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

How legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and brawnless comes to the soft hands.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Blind Shampooers of Japan.

Japan is the only country in the world that has given blind men and women a profession of their own. In other times the shampooers were a feature of every-day life and ether traveled through the country or had their own homes to which people went, just as they to go the doctor's house to-day for treatment. The true courtesy of the Japanese is never shown to better advantage than in their treatment of the blind, which is always kind and considerate. The courtesy and hospitality of a man who gives his guests golden grain belt beer will always be appreciated It refreshes both mind and body. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test, resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 12 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and kidney troubles. Try them; only 50c at Schreiter's.

For Sale at a Bargain.

If sold before the last of June, the person who buys the Ole Ellingson farm can have one-fourth the crop. For prices and terms apply to H. O. Gjerherg. 1mo

There is no remedy so generally useful as Cole's Carbolisalve, and thousands of mothers know it. It instantly stops the pain of burns and cuts and heals without scars. Insect bites, plant poisoning, catarrh, inflamed eyes, boils, ulcers and all itching and torturing diseases are quickly relieved and permanently cured by it. Your money back if it fails to satisfy. 25 and 50c by all druggists.

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in tablets and papetries. Call and look over the line.

For galls, wounds, sores and diseases of the skin of horses and cattle there is no remedy equal to Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve. Flies will not bother a sore on which it is used and it positively heals without scars. Guaranteed satisfactory 50c and $1 00 by all druggists.

For Sale.

One team of young work horses. Inquire at Neala's farm.—C. Dieden, owner. 2w

Health is a strong body nourished by pure blood. This will result from taking a few bottles of Cole's Bludbilder, the pure vegetable blood purifier and nerve tonic. It is all its name implies and it's guranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

For Sale.

My house and lot, household furniture and numerous other articles. For particulars call on Mrs. A. Sieff.

$19.00 to Boston and Return, $19.00 with membership fee of $2.00 added, account of annual meeting of National Educational Association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 2nd to 9th, inclusive, good returning from July 8th to 14th inclusive, without being deposited with joint agent. Additional limit to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing return portion of ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c, for execution. Superior train service and excellent dining car meals, on American club plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 111 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. m30

Australia's Only Beast of Prey.
The only beast of prey found in Australia is the dingo, or wild dog.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
County of Red Lake. }

In District Court, Fourteenth Judicial District.
Elmer Haney, plaintiff, vs. Edward Haney, defendant.

State of Minnesota to the above named defendant:

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the above entitled action, which complaint is filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the Fourteenth Judicial district, in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota, and to serve a copy of your answer to said complaint on the subscriber at his office in the city of Red Lake Falls, in the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota, within thirty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service, and if you fail to make the said complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint in this action.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., this 20th day of May, 1903. 5tw-3d

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA COUNTY OF Red Lake, } ss.

In District Court,
Special Term, May 4, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. M. Hemmer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Mathew Hemmer, praying to be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate from the administrator of said estate, setting forth that C. M. Hemmer deceased, was found by a contract in writing to convey said real estate to the said William Linderman, and that said deceased died before he had made a deed of conveyance of the said real estate, and the facts upon which such claim to conveyance is predicated, and praying that the Probate Court make a decree authorizing and directing the said administrator to convey said real estate to the said petitioner as the person entitled thereto.

It is Ordered, That all persons interested in said Red Lake Falls, in the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota, within thirty days after the service of this order upon them, or publication thereof, if such service be not made, show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the hearing of said petition be given by publication of this order in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 4th day of May 1903.

By the Court,
S. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

J. M. PRESTON,
Attorney for Petitioner.
(First Publication)

Mascot
"A Pure Flour"
Sweet, Pure and Wholesome

It's All the Wheat.

That's Fit to Eat....

That's why MASCOT flour is so hard to beat.
Don't take our word for it, but try a sample order and be convinced that it is the best flour on the market today. We have been testing flour for years and have never found a brand that came so near our idea of the best. The quality is always uniform and it is equally good for bread, pastry and cake. Try it and see.

RED LAKE FALLS MILLING CO.

Spring Millinery . . .

A MAGNIFICENT ARRAY of LADIES', MISSES' and CHILDREN'S HATS in newest Spring styles. Beautiful Veilings, Laces, Chiffons, &c. Prices always lowest.

FIRST DOOR NORTH OF POSTOFFICE
K. FORD

CITY BAKERY

A. TREMBLAY, Proprietor.
Next to Anderson's Jewelry Store, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Bread delivered to any part of the city Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Cakes and Pies Baked to Order.

Bread also on sale at Fortier's Restaurant.

To Cure a Cold in One Day
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets.
Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months.
E. W. Grove
Cures Grip in Two Days.
on every box. 25c.

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for furnitures.

Office supplies of allkinds at THE COURIER office.

Adelard Patnode, who lived here ten years ago, is visiting friends in town for a few weeks. He now resides at Winnipeg and is on his way to Massachusetts, where he will stay for several months.

The editor of the COURIER and Mrs. King leave tomorrow for St. Paul, where they will join the editorial excursion to Washington, D. C., and visit for a few days at their old home in Wabash county, Indiana.

August Bischel and Leo Steinert left Tuesday for a trip of several weeks to Washington, Oregon and other western states. They will look over that country for opportunities for business investmeats.

John B. Hebert was in from Poplar River yesterday buying supplies for his cheese factory and looking after private business affairs. Mr. Hebert says the cheese factory is doing a nice business this year.

We invite inspection of our fine assortment of ladies' and misses' summer Oxfords and sandals. Prices from $2.00 to $2.25, plain kid and patent leather. We have the finest dollar sandal on the market. Bangs & Co.

Arthur Patnode arrived last Tuesday from Fall River, Mass., and will visit with relatives here for several weeks. Mr. Patnode's folks own a fine farm in this county, and if he likes the country his family will move here this fall.

For summer iced teas you will wish for the finest flavored oolongs obtainable. The "Primrose" brand in sealed tinfoil packages insures to you purity, delicacy and all the rich aroma of newly fired teas. Bangs & Co., sole agents.

The Wylie M. W. A. will give a dance some evening next week, the dates to be announced later by bills. Tickets for supper and dance, $1. The Wylie people are well-known as hospitable entertainers and all who attend the dance may be assured of a royal good time.

Hon. W. I. Nolan entertained an audience at St. Hilaire Saturday evening, and drove to this city Sunday morning to spend the day with friends here. Monday evening Mr. Nolan gave an entertainment at Poston.

Nick Drees was in town Saturday and called on THE COURIER. He informs us that last Thursday a fowling well was secured on his farm on section 33, Lonisville township, which is one of the best in northern Minnesota.

C. M. Reese, formerly state weigh master, and now vice president of the Minnesota Grain company, was a business visitor to Red Lake Falls last Saturday and in company with G. G. Kindseth paid his respects at THE COURIER office.

D. D. Daly, state agent for the St. Paul Fire and Marine, was looking after business affairs for his company in Red Lake Falls Saturday. He is a brother of M. J. Daly, the Democratic candidate for congress in this district in 1900.

Berthon & Armstrong have installed a patient initial hat marker in their hat department, and hereafter will put the buyer's initials in every hat. If keeping strictly up to date brings success Messrs. Berthon & Armstrong are due to attain it.

Crookston Journal: Will Mirette went to Red Lake Falls today and said if conditions were favorable he would remain over Sunday. The peculiar conditions seemed to depend on the owner of a pair of bright eyes, and his friends are not expecting him back tonight.

Garceau & Zaiser occupy a large part of THE COURIER'S local page to day with an interesting array of special one week bargains. It will pay the buyer to read every item examinated in this advertisement for the prices quoted will probably not be given after this week.

Maguire Peplo and Fred Mathews, the youthful wrongdoers from Dorothy charged with stealing $15 from the money drawer in J. F. Mathews store, were found guilty in Judge Swanson's court last Thursday evening. They were each given 60 days in jail, and the sentence suspended during good behavior.

On Monday Auditor Ford received from the state auditor a draft for $702.26 in payment of thestate's portion of the wolf bounties for 1902. As the legislative appropriation for wolf bounties is now exhausted there will be no further refund to the county for this purpose until the next legislature passes a deficiency measure.

The new Presbyterian church building will dedicated at Thief River Falls May 31. Dr. Adams, of Minneapolis, Dr. R. McHenry, of Crookston, and other well known clergymen will assist at the dedication. A special song service will be given by the Red Lake Falls choir which will be assisted by members of the Thief River Falls choir.

THE COURIER was in error last week in stating that only three of the old teachers in the public school had accepted a re-election. Besides Misses Sharp and Wetzel and Prof. Whitely Mrs. Doc. Miss Ellen Brady and Fred Morin will remain, leaving but five new teachers to be elected. A meeting of the board will be held tonight to elect teachers to fill the vasancies.

A foot race was an attraction on Main street Sunday afternoon, and drew a goodly crowd of spectators. An un-river sprinter had an idea he could bent anything in Red Lake Falls and Charley Brady was matched against him. The race was for 100 yards and Brady crossed the line at least twenty feet ahead of the aforesaid sprinter. A purse was made up from the crowd and given to the winner.

About twenty members of the local lodge Knights of Pythias will go to Thief River Falls tomorrow (Friday) evening to assist in the work of instituting a new lodge of the order in that city. Grand Chancellor Robertson and Grand Keeper of Records and Seal Wheaton will be present, and a large number of members from neighboring towns will take part in the exercises. The new lodge will start out with about thirty members.

A reunion of the Van Hecke family was held at Stevens Point, Wis., last week in commemoration of the golden wedding anniversary of the parents. L. Van Hecke, formerly a Red Lake Falls business man, and now a wealthy mine owner at Sioux Falls, S. D., is a son of this couple. There are forty-three decendants, and there has never been a death in the family, although Mr. Van Hecke is 69 years of age and his wife 67. Both are in the enjoyment of excellent health.

The Thief River ball team and about half a hundred "rooters" drove here Sunday where they were to play with the locals. The high wind made it decidedly unfavorable for sport but about 2:30 the game was called despite the elements. A large crowd was present and while the score was up on both sides higher than it would have done under other circumstances there were some good plays made by both teams. The game resulted in a score of 18 to 10 in favor of the Red Lake Falls team.

The contract for the excavation of the Gareau ditch was let by Auditor Ford Saturday to J. W. Lynch, a well-known Equality, farmer, at 8c per cubic yard. The Garneau and Lambert ditch was let to John Carlson, of St. Hilaire at 9 cents. These are the lowest prices ever obtained in this county, and perhaps in this section of the state, and shows excellent ability on the part of Auditor Ford. It is a safe guess that the county will never pay extravagant prices for ditch work while Jim is at the helm.

Contractor James Brady was yesterday awarded the contract for the construction of an addition and other improvements to the Presbyterian church at $1,263. The contract calls for a 16-foot addition to the rear of the church and a frame basement nine feet high, containing a study, Sunday school room, kitchen and furnace room. The auditorium will be replastered and other repairs made. The Presbyterian people will have a coavenient and comfortable house of worship when these improvements are finished.

Billy Bennett and his troup of actors gave entertainments at their tent Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and played to packed houses on both occasions. Mr. Benaett has a capable crowd of people with him this season and will undoubtedly meet with the success he deserves. The next stop of the company will be at Pembina, after which they will show at Winnipeg for three weeks during the fair. The company made many friends here during their stay and will always receive a warm welcome when they come this way.

Fear is expressed in St. Paul, based on statements of the state health authorities aad the fact that the city has on its hands an alarming number of smallpox patients, that an epidemic of the disease is imminent in Minnesota. At present the St. Paul pesthouse shelters thirty-six patients and its books show a death roll of seven. Eight of the afflicted ones were carted to the detention hospital in one day—Saturday. Most of the cases are of the most malignant character, known as the confluent type of smallpox.

The city of Thief River Falls has asked for an injunction restraining John Hornung from foreclosing a mortgage of $7,000 on the Thief River Falls dam owned by Mrs. Carl Kretzschmar. It it alleged that the foreclosure proceedings are not bonafide, and are brought for the purpose of abrogating a contract entered into by the city with the late Mr. Kretzschmar, under the terms of which power was to be furnished for the city electric light plant at $60 per month. It is now up to the courts to settle the dispute.

Red Lake Falls people should certainly take advantage of the occasion to see the greatest minstrel troupe traveliag by atteading the Mahara company performance Saturday night. This company is playing all the large cities of the west, and through the enterprise and hard work of Messrs. Anderson & Healy they were secured for this city. They travel in their own car and carry the best people in their line to be secured. Everyone should make it a point to attend, thereby encouraging the Metropolitan managemeat in their effort to place good shows before the public.

A party of Great Northern railway officials, consisting of E. L. Brown, assistant general superintendent; C. H. Jenks, division superintendent; Edward Mills, master carpenter, and John Laughlin, roadmaster, were in Red Lake Falls yesterday, looking over the company's property and doubtless considering the contemplated improvements soon to be made on this branch. In conversation with a COURIER representative Mr. Jenks said that the crops prospects were never brighter in the Red Lake River valley, and unless all signs failed this year would produce a banner crop.

A big bargain—combination book cases and writing desk, sale price only $11.75.—Anderson & Healy.

Special!!

FOR ONE WEEK, BEGINNING MONDAY, MAY 25th, WE WILL SELL AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES . . . . . .

You cannot afford to miss this opportunity, for these prices will be for one week only, after which these goods will be sold at former prices.

Summer Dress Goods.
A good quality Challie, fast colors, in new designs, worth 8c; this week's special 6¼c
Good lawn, in pink and blue, excellent value for 12½c; special..... 8⅓c
Good lace striped lawn, in colors, good 20c values; special..... 15c
Special values in colored mercerized striped lawn, lace striped or plain, next week.
Excellent Foulaids, worth 50c; will go this week for only..... 23c

Farmers.
We have a large consignment of gauze and muslin fly nets, with neck attachments and leather bound, worth $1.50 per pair; this special..... 75c

Muslin Underwear.
Just the assortment that pleases all ladies.
Good muslin petticoats with flounce and dust ruffle, trimmed with lace, worth $1.00; special.. 69c
Ladies' corset covers, with lace trimming, worth 35c; special..... 19c
Ladies' umbrella cambric muslin drawers, good at 95c; special at..... 59c

Skirt Denims
The new weave skirt Denim Pique, in tan, blue, green and red, in the new patterns, just the thing for suits and skirts, worth 20c; special at..... 15c
The good Covert Denim, heavy weight, in colors; worth 16c; special at.. 13c

Straw Hats.
This is the season that you need them, so we have marked the prices down that nothing can approach them in value.

Women's Wash Waists.
The largest assortment in black sateens, mercerized percale, white lawn, cambric, lawns in all sizes and styles at special prices this week.
A large assortment of waists, some have been carried over from last year that sold as high as $2.50; also an assortment of new waists bought this spring, which will go at special price of..... 50c

Beds Spreads.
This assortment in quality in this sale cannot be equalled by our competitors.
Full size, good quality, new patterns... $1.00
Extra fine, good standard size, worth $2.50; special..... $1.75

Underwear.
Men's good Jersey knit underwear, in all sizes, worth 40c; special.... 25c
Men's French balbriggan, best quality ever shown anywhere..... 50c
Good ladies' vests..... 5c
Ladies' fancy knit, with draw ribbon, good 15c values; special..... 10c
Ladies' lace, deep stitch vests, in white, good 25c value..... 15c
Ladies' lysle finished vests, drop stitch knit; special..... 20c
Children's underwear in all sizes, kinds and quality at reasonable prices.

White Goods.
The largest assortment ever brought to town, in plain, checks, plaids, figures, drawn designs, mercerized and piques on which you can save money.
An excellent quality of India linen, worth 12½c; special price 7½c

Lace Curtains.
Get our prices and judge for yourself.

This Week's Shoe Bargains.
Remarkabe purchase of high grade Oxfords, correct styles at about half price. "The Julia Marlowe" style, pomp sole; special at..... $1.60
Gentlemen's patent kangaroo kid Oxfords, judge toe, the very uobbiest; at..... $3.00
Gentlemen's Valour Calf Blouchers, Philadelphia toe, excellent value at $3.50; this week special $3.00
Ladies' Bloucher style patent Oxford heavy sole, cool for spring and summer; special at..... $2.50
Boys' and Misses patent leather shoes, the only ones shown in Red Lake Falls, at very low prices.
The Red Shool House shoes for children is sold more tean ever before, also our drawing contest is still in progress every month. Boys and girls here's your chance.

We Save You Money

Grocery Department This Week.
Fine black California prunes, regular 10c value; special..8c
Large yellow peaches, regular 12½c; special 9c
The well-known Javanese coffee 12½c
Good tea 20c
Pie plant; special 3c
The "Big 4" soap, four large bars, good quality for...10c
"Town Talk," eight bars of good soap for 25c.

Toweling.
Good bird's eye weave toweling; special..... 5c
Gray crash toweling 5c
All linen crash unbleached toweling, 12½c value; special..... 8c
The finest pure linter huck toweling for napkins & cushion tops; special 25c

Towels.
A good fringed towel with colored border..... 5c
Same with fringe..... 5c
Good Turkish towel at..... 10c
Good linen towels at..... 15c
Good linen towels, large size..... 25c

GARCEAU & ZAISER

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing at Greene Bros. Are the agents for Waltham watch. Watches, clocks.

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:
A. P. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT. THEO. LABISSONIERE, VICE-PRESIDENT. J. A. DUFFY, CASHIER. F. F. FOUGHT. JAS. CLEMENT. DENNIS BOUDREAU. A. P. TOUPIN. CHRIS. S. BOUDREAU. A. RAUDER. A. DUFFY. JOSEPH FERRAULT. THEO. LABISSONIERE.

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL, $50,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

Pain

From Inflammatory Rheumatism

Would Have Killed Our Son.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills Saved Him.

"We began to use Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills six years ago. My wife had liver trouble and a neighbor gave her some of your liver pills to try, after which we bought a bottle of them and my wife used them until cured. Since then I have used them and I must say that I have never used any pills that gave me such immediate relief. We also use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with greatest satisfaction. Three years ago our son Harry had inflammatory rheumatism. He had suffered so much that I believe if we had not given him Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills which relieved him almost instantly he would have died. I am always glad of the opportunity for praising Dr. Miles' Remedies".—James Everit, Alton, Ills.

"I was afflicted with neuralgia for years and never found any permanent relief till I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They relieve my headache in from twenty to thirty minutes. Only for headache I recommended them to a friend with a severe headache and in a half hour he came into the store smiling. The headache was gone. We use them in the family and find them excellent for the women folks. This high altitude makes them very nervous. Grandma says I should tell Dr. Miles she could not live here were it not for the Anti-Pain Pills that she takes occasionally."—L. B. Morris, Helena, Montana.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERA MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults....

Hibbard & Richardson Bros. Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of warehouse safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES LIQUORS CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE. NO PAY.

Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS.

RED LAKE FALLS.

	WEST-BOUND.	Arrive	Depart
No. 13, Mixed, for Fertile to Grand Forks.....		7:45 a m	7:45 a m
No. 115, Passenger, Grand Forks to Fertile.....		5:15 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. MIZEN, Agent.

The Fatal Cradle

Otherwise, the Heartrending Story of Mr. Heavysides

By WILKIE COLLINS

COMPOSE your spirits to hear a pathetic story and kindly nature me in your mind as a baby five minutes old. Do I understand you to say that I am too big and too heavy to be pictured in anybody's mind as a baby? Perhaps I may be, but don't mention my weight again, if you please. My weight has been the grand misfortune of my life. It spoiled all my prospects, as you will presently hear, before I was two days old.

My story begins thirty-one years ago at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and starts with the great mistake of my first appearance in this world at sea on board the merchant ship Adventure, Captain Gillop, 500 tons burden, cogwood, and carrying an experienced surgeon.

In screening myself to you at that eventful period of my life when I was from five to ten minutes old I need not hesitate to admit that I speak on hearsay knowledge only. It is knowledge, however, that may be relied on for all that. My information comes from Captain Gillop, commander of the Adventure, who sent it to me in the form of a letter; from Mr. Jolly, cogwood surgeon of the Adventure, who wrote it for me—most unfeelingly, as I think—in the shape of a circumstantial narrative, and from Mrs. Drabble, stewardess of the Adventure, who told it me by word of mouth.

The Adventure was bound out from London to Australia. A ship of 500 tons, well loaded with cargo, doesn't offer first rate accommodation to a large number of passengers. Not that the gentlefolks in the cabin had any great reason to complain. There was passenger money, which was a good round sum, kept them what you call select. One or two berths in this part of the ship were even empty and going a-begging in consequence of there being only four cabin passengers. These were their names and descriptions:

Mr. Sims, a middle aged man, going out on a building speculation; Mr. Purling, a weakly young gentleman, sent on a long sea voyage for the benefit of his health, and Mr. and Mrs. Smallchild, a young married couple, with a little independence which Mr. Smallchild proposed to make a large one by steady farming.

This gentleman was reported to the captain as being very good company when on shore. But the sea altered him to a certain extent. When Mr. Smallchild was not sick, he was eating and drinking, and when he was not eating and drinking he was fast asleep. As for Mrs. Smallchild, she kept her cabin from first to last. But you will hear more of her presently.

These four cabin passengers, as I have already remarked, were well enough off for their accommodation. But the miserable people in the steerage were all huddled together, men and women and children, higgledy piggledy, like sheep in a pen, except that they hadn't got the same quantity of fine fresh air to blow over them. They were artisans and farm laborers who couldn't make it out in the old country.

There was only one family among them which need be mentioned—namely, the family of the Heavysides—Ivy Ann, Simon Heavysides, intelligent and well educated, a carpenter by trade; Susan Heavysides, his wife, and seven little Heavysides, their unfortunate offspring. My father and mother and brothers and sisters, did I understand you to say? Don't be a hurry. I recommend you to wait a little before you make quite sure of that circumstance.

Stormy weather came down on us from all points of the compass, with intervals of light, baffling winds or dead calms. By the time the Adventure had been three months out Captain Gillop's naturally sweet temper began to get sourish. I leave you to say whether it was likely to be much improved by a piece of news which reached him from the region of the cabin on the morning of the ninety-first day.

"I have got some news that will rather surprise you," said Mr. Jolly, smiling and rubbing his hands.

"If it's news of a fair wind coming," grumbled the captain, "that would surprise me on board this ship. I can promise you."

"It's not exactly a wind coming," said Mr. Jolly. "It's another cabin passenger."

The captain looked round at the empty sea, with the land thousands of miles away and with not a ship in sight, turned sharply on the experienced surgeon, eyed him hard, changed color suddenly, and asked what he meant.

"I mean there's a fifth cabin passenger coming on board," persisted Mr. Jolly, grinning from ear to ear, "introduced by Mrs. Smallchild; size, nothing to speak of; manners and customs, probably squally."

"Do you really mean it?" asked the captain, backing away and turning paler and paler.

"Yes; I do," answered Mr. Jolly, nodding hard at him.

"Then I'll tell you what," cried Captain Gillop, suddenly flying into a violent passion, "I won't have it. The infernal weather has worried me out of my life and soul already, and I won't have it. Tell her there isn't room enough for that sort of thing on board my vessel. What does she mean by taking us all in in this way? Shame, full Shameful!"

"No, no!" remonstrated Mr. Jolly. "Don't look at it in that light. It's her first child, poor thing. How should she know? Give her a little more experience, and I dare say—"

"Where's her husband?" broke in the captain, with a threatening look. "I'll speak my mind to her husband at any rate."

The steward's mate had approached the quarter deck while the doctor was speaking. Was it a curious coincidence? This man also was grinning from ear to ear exactly like Mr. Jolly.

"You're wanted in the steerage, sir," said the steward's mate to the doctor. "A woman taken bad, name of Heavysides."

"Nonsense!" cried Mr. Jolly. "Ha, ha, ha! You don't mean—eh?"

"That's it, sir, sure enough," said the steward's mate in the most positive manner.

"This ship is bewitched," said the captain wildly. "Stop!" he called out, recovering himself a little as the doctor hustled away to the steerage. "Stop! if it's true, Jolly, send her husband here aft to me. Dash me, I'll have it out with one of the husbands!" said the captain, stoking his fist viciously in the empty air.

Ten minutes passed, and then there came staggering toward the captain, tottering like way and that with the rolling of the becalmed vessel, a long, lean, melancholy, light haired man with a Roman nose, a watery blue eye and a complexion profusely spotted with large freckles. This was Mr. Simon Heavysides, the intelligent carpenter with the wife and the family of seven small children on board.

"You're the man, are you?" said the captain.

The ship lurched heavily, and Simon Heavysides staggered away with a run to the opposite side of the deck as if he were trying to run the starboard into the sea to answering the captain's question.

"You're the man, are you?" repeated the captain, following him, seizing him by the collar and planting him fiercely against the bulwark. "It's your fault, is it? You infernal rascal! You have committed an act of mutiny, or if it isn't mutiny, it's next door to it. You put a man on board for less. Five more than half a mind to put you in irons!"

"As for the punishment you mecklosed just now, sir," said Simon, "I wish to say, having seven children more than I know how to provide for as ought as regards me to make things worse, I respectfully wish to say, sir, that my mind is be boun already, and I don't know that it will make much difference if you put my body in irons along with it."

The captain mechanically let go of the carpenter's collar. The solid despair of the man melted him in spite of himself.

"Captain Gillop, this woman, Mrs. Heavysides, can't be left in your recorded steerage in her present condition," cried Mr. Jolly. "She must be moved aft into one of the empty berths, and the sooner the better, I can tell you."

The captain began to look savage again. A steerage passenger in one of his "staterooms" was a practical casualty subversive of all discipline. He eyed the carpenter once more as if he were mentally measuring him for a set of irons.

"I've very sorry, sir," Simon remarked politely—"very sorry that any handyvence of mine or Mrs. Heavysides'—"

"Take your long carcass and your long tongue forrard!" thundered the captain. "Give your own orders, Jolly," he went on contemptuously as Simon staggered off. "Turn the ship into a nursery as soon as you like."

Five minutes later Mrs. Heavysides was moved into a stateroom.

The sleeping berths below opened on either side out of the main cabin. On the left hand side, looking toward the ship's lee-yeart, was Mrs. Smallchild. On the right hand side, opposite to her, the doctor established Mrs. Heavysides. A partition of canvas was next run up entirely across the main cabin. As the clothes basket emptied, cleaned and comfortably lined with blankets to serve for a makeshift cradle, and bees in due course of time carried into the inner cabin and had been placed midway between the two sleeping berths, Mr. Jolly blew away an hour and a half exactly. At the end of that time Mrs. Drabble, the stewardess, appeared with a face of mystery and whispered nervously to the doctor:

"Please to step below directly, sir."

"Which of them is it?" asked Mr. Jolly.

"Both of them," answered Mrs. Drabble emphatically.

The doctor looked grave; the stewardess looked frightened. The two immediately disappeared together.

Ten o'clock came. The moon rose and shone superbly. The night grog made its appearance on the quarter deck. The captain gave the passengers the benefit of his company, and then at last Mr. Jolly was seen suddenly to ascend the cabin stairs.

To the amazement of a little group on the quarter deck, the doctor held Mrs. Drabble, the stewardess, fast by the arm and, without taking the slightest notice of the captain or the passengers, placed her on the nearest seat he could find. As he did this his face became visible in the companion and displayed to the startled spectators an expression of blank consternation.

"Compose yourself, Mrs. Drabble," said the doctor in tones of unmistakable alarm. "Keep quiet and let the air blow over you. Collect yourself, ma'am—for heaven's sake collect yourself!"

Mrs. Drabble made no answer. She beat her hands vacantly on her knees and stared straight before her like a woman panic stricken.

"What's wrong?" asked the captain, setting down his glass of grog in the mug.

"Mrs. Drabble and I are two innocent people, and we have got into the most dreadful scrape that ever you heard of," was Mr. Jolly's startling answer.

The captain, followed by Mr. Purling and Mr. Sims, approached the doctor with looks of horror. Even the man at the wheel stretched himself over it as far as he could to hear what was coming next. The only unintoxicated person present was Mr. Smallchild. His face had come round for going to sleep again, and he was snoring powerfully, with his biscuit and bacon close beside him.

"Let's hear the worst of it at once, Jolly," said the captain, a little impatiently.

The doctor paid no heed to his request. His whole attention was absorbed by Mrs. Drabble. "Are you better now, ma'am?" he asked anxiously.

"No better in my mind," answered Mrs. Drabble, keeping to her two knees again. "Worse if anything."

"Listen to me," said Mr. Jolly coaxingly. "I'll put the whole case over again to you in a few plain questions. You'll find it all come back to your memory if you only follow me attentively and if you take time to think and collect yourself before you attempt to answer."

Mrs. Drabble bowed her head in speechless submission to the inevitable. Everybody else on the quarter deck listened except the impenetrable Mr. Smallchild.

"Now, ma'am!" said the doctor. "Our two babies, born in Mrs. Heavysides' cabin, which is situated on the starboard side of cabin No. 1—"

"They did, sir," replied Mrs. Drabble.

"Good! We went backward and forward an infinite number of times between the cabin and the starboard, and Mrs. Smallchild (inboard), and you put the starboard baby, otherwise the inboard baby, in the clothes basket cradle in the main cabin. How was the cradle rocked?"

"Crosswise to the ship, sir," said Mrs. Drabble.

"Crosswise to the ship? That is to say, with one side longwise toward the stern and the other side longwise toward the bows. Bear that in mind, ma'am, and now a little further. No, no! Don't say you can't and your head's in a whirl. And you took the inboard baby, otherwise Smallchild, and made him comfortable in the cradle with the starboard baby, otherwise Heavysides. Now, what happened after that?"

"Don't ask me, sir!" exclaimed Mrs. Drabble, losing her self control and wringing her hands desperately.

"Steady, ma'am. I'll put it to you as plain as print. Steady and listen to me. Just as you had made the larboard baby comfortable I had occasion to send you into the starboard (or Heavysides) cabin to fetch something which I wanted in the inboard (or Smallchild) cabin. I kept you there a little while during which time I left you and went into the Heavysides cabin and called to you to bring me some thing I wanted out of the Smallchild cabin, but before you got half way across the main cabin I said, No; stop where you are, and I'll come to you, immediately after which Mrs. Smallchild shrieked you, and you came across to me of your own accord, and thereupon I returned you in the main cabin and said, 'Mrs. Drabble, your mind's getting confused; sit down and collect your scattered intellects,' and you sat down and tried to collect them—"

"And couldn't, sir," interposed Mrs. Drabble parenthetically. "Oh, my head, my head!"

"And the consequences was when I came out from the Smallchild cabin I found you with the clothes basket cradle hoisted up on the cabin table, standing down at the babies, with your mouth dropped open and both your hands twisted in your hair, and what I said, 'Anything wrong with either of those two fine boys, Mrs. Drabble?' you caught me by the coat collar and whispered in my right ear these words: 'Lord save us and help us, Mr. Jolly, I've confused the two babies in my mind, and I don't know to this hour which!'"

"And I don't know now!" cried Mrs. Drabble hysterically. "Oh, my head, my head! I don't know now!"

"Captain Gillop and gentlemen," said Mr. Jolly, wheeling round and addressing his audience with the composure of sheer despair, "that is the scrape, and if you ever heard of a worse one I'll trouble you to compose this miserable woman by mentioning it immediately."

Captain Gillop looked at Mr. Purling and Mr. Sims. Mr. Purling and Mr. Sims looked at Captain Gillop. They were all three thunderstruck, and no wonder.

"No marks on one or other of them that could serve to catch your eye?" asked Mr. Sims.

"They must have been straight marks to catch my eye in the light I had to work by," said the doctor, "I was in the dark straight, sir. They formed children, and that's all I saw."

"Something must be done," said the captain, "and before the weather shows any longer, and the moment I get below they will both ask for their bottles. If the two mothers below get the slightest suspicion of the case as it stands, the nervous shock of the discovery may do dreadful mischief. They must be kept deceived in the interests of their own health. We must choose a baby for each of them when tomorrow comes and then hold to the choice till the mothers are well and up again. The question is, Who's to take the responsibility? I don't usually stick at trifles, but I candidly admit that I'm afraid of it."

"I decline meddling in the matter on the ground that I am a perfect stranger," said Mr. Sims.

DOD DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS & CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed
Alx. Senna
Rochelle Salts
Anise Seed
Peppermint
Bicarbonate Soda
Worm Seed
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
NEW YORK.

At 6 months old.
35 DOSES—35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes ⌀ New Tobaccos ⌀ New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

We have for sale Seed Wheat, Seed Oats, Seed Barley and Timothy Seed

Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Pros

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class in Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers

Give Us a Call.

Spring is Now Here.....

Next will be House-Cleaning, Painting Calcimining.....

We have a large assortment of the colors of the Stearns guaranteed strictly pure paints, varnishes, hard oils and colors. Also the Star Calcimine in a variety of colors, a forty cent package of which will cover an ordinary room two weeks. Paint Brushes of finest Chinese bristle, scrubbing and whitewash brushes in all varities and pices.

O'BRIEN BROS.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND TINWARE.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M., M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN RESIDENCE THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. H. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Heidgerken & Roch drug store;

Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, prebating disputes and abstracts of titles.
Offices over Hugo's and Co.'s store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. Cite Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerman's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

closely similar motives," added Mr. Purling.

"Wait a minute, gentlemen," said Captain Gillop. "I've got this difficult matter, as I think, in my right hand lugs. We must make a clean breast of it to the husbands and let them take the responsibility."

Mr. Smallchild happened on this occasion to be "squaring his accounts" with the sea, and the first articulate words which escaped him in reply to the disclosure were an imperfect request that they would "pitch him overboard at once and die two inches shorter with him." Serious remonstrance was tried next, with no better effect. "Set like it how you like," said Mr. Smallchild faintly, "the you have it to me, sir, as commander of this vessel!" asked Captain Gillop. No answer. "Nod your head, sir, if you can't speak." Mr. Smallchild nodded his head resolutely on his pillow and fell asleep. "Does that count for leave to us to act?" asked Captain Gillop of the witnesses, and the witnesses answered decidedly, Yes.

The ceremony was then repented with Simon Henrysides, who responded, as became so intelligent a man, with a proposal of his own for solving the difficulty.

"Captain Gillop and gentlemen," said the carpenter, with fluent and melancholy politeness, "I should wish to consider Mr. Smallchild before myself in this matter. I am quite willing to part with my baby, whichever he is, and I respectfully propose that Mr. Smallchild should take both the children and so make quite sure that he has really got possession of his own son."

The only immediate objection to this ingenious proposition was started by the doctor, who sarcastically inquired of Simon what he thought Mrs. Henrysides would say to it. The carpenter confessed that this consideration had escaped him and that Mrs. Henrysides was only too likely to be an irremovable obstacle in the way of the proposed arrangement.

"Very well, gentlemen," said Captain Gillop. "As commander on board I reckon next after the husbands in this matter of responsibility. I have considered this difficulty in all its hearings, and I'm prepared to deal with it. Follow me below, gentlemen, to the steward's pantry."

The witnesses looked round on one another in the profoundest reconsidered and followed.

"Pickered," said the captain, addressing the steward, "bring out the swiles. Put a clean duster in the try, doctor." he continued, "shut the doors of the sleeping berths for fear of the women hearing anything and oblige me by bringing those two bobies in here."

"Oh, sir," exclaimed Mrs. Drabble, who had been peeping guiltily into the pantry—"oh, don't hurt the little dears! If anybody suffers, let it be me."

"Hold your tongue, if you please, ma'am," said the captain, "and keep the secret of these proceedings if you wish to keep your place. If the babies ask for their children, say they will have them in ten minutes' time."

The doctor came in and dorra the clothes basket cradle on the pantry floor. Captain Gillop immediately put on his spectacles and closely examined the two unconscious innocents who lay beneath him.

"Six of one and half a dozen of the other," said the captain. "I don't see any difference between them. Wait a bit, though. Yes, I do. One's a bald baby. Very good. We'll begin with that one. Doctor, strip the bald baby and put him in the scales."

The bald baby protested in his own language, but in vain. In two minutes he was flat on his back in the tin tray, with the clean duster under him to take the chill off.

"Weigh him accurately, Pickered," continued the captain. "We ought to be necessary to an eighth of an ounce, gentlemen, watch this proceeding closely. It's a very important one."

While the steward was weighing and the witnesses were watching Captain Gillop naked his first mate for the logbook of the ship and for pen and ink.

"How much, Pickered?" asked the captain, opening the book.

"Seven pounds one ounce and a quarter," answered the steward.

"Right, gentlemen?" pursued the captain.

"Quite right," said the witnesses.

"Bald child, distinguished as No. 1; weight, 7 pounds 1¼ ounces (avoirdupois)," repeated the captain, writing down the entry in the logbook. "Very good. We'll put the bald baby back now, doctor, and try the hairy one next."

The hairy one protested also in his own language and also in vain.

"How much, Pickered?" asked the captain.

"Six pounds fourteen ounces and three-quarters," replied the steward.

"Right, gentlemen?" inquired the captain.

"Quite right," answered the witnesses.

"Hairy child, distinguished as No. 2; weight, 6 pounds 14¾ ounces (avoirdupois)," repeated and wrote the captain. "Much obliged to you, Jolly. That will do. In the serious difficulty which now besets us, gentlemen, my decision is as follows: Let us give the hairy baby the two babies to the bosvieri of the two women and let the lightest then fall out a matter of course to the other. In a week's time, if this weather holds, we shall sit, please God, be in port, and if there's a better way out of this mess than my way the parsons and lawyers ashore may find it and welcome."

With those words the captain closed his oration, and the assembled council immediately sanctioned the proposal submitted to them with all the unanimity of men who had no idea of their own to set up in opposition.

Mr. Jolly was next requested as the only available authority, to settle the question of weight between Mrs. Smallchild and Mrs. Henrysides and decided it without a moment's hesitation in favor of the carpenter's wife as the indisputable ground that she was the taller and stouter woman of the two. Thereupon the bald baby, "distinguished as No. 1," was taken into Mrs. Henrysides' cabin, and the hairy baby, "distinguished as No. 2" was conducted to Mrs. Smallchild. Before 7 o'clock Mr. Jolly reported that the mothers and both husband and starboard, were no beppy and comfortable as any four people on board ship could possibly wish to be.

In ten days the ship was in port, and the news was broken to the two mothers. Each one of the two adored her baby after ten days' experience of it, and each one of the two sons was in Mrs. Drabble's condition of not knowing which was which.

Every test was tried—first, the test by the doctor, who only reported what he had told the captain; second, the test by personal resemblance, which failed in consequence of the light hair, blue eyes and Roman nose shared in common by the fathers and the light hair, blue eyes and no noses worth mentioning shared in common by the children; thirdly, the test of Mrs. Drabble, which began and ended in fierce talking on one side and floods of tears on the other; fourthly, the test by legal decision, which broke down through the total absence of any instructions for the two to act on; fifthly and lastly, the test by appeal to the husbands, which left it on the ground in consequence of the husbands knowing nothing about the matter in hand. The captain's barbarous test by weight remained the test still, and here am I, a man of the house-order, without a penny to bless myself with, in consequence.

Yes; I was the bald baby of that memorable period. My excess in weight settled my destiny in life. The fathers and mothers on either side kept the thing concerning the switching as completely distribution in despair of knowing what else to do. Mr. Smallchild, who was sharp enough when not seasick, made his fortune. Simon Henrysides retired in succeeding his family and died in the workhouse.

Judge for yourself, sir. Mr. Jolly might say, how the two boys born at sea fared in after life. I, the bald baby, have seen nothing of the hairy baby for years past. He may be short, like Mr. Smallchild, but I happen to know that he is wonderfully like Henrysides, deceased, in the face. I may be tall, like the carpenter, but I have the Smallchild eyes, hair and expression shamefully. Make what you can of that. You will find it some in the end to the same thing. Smallchild junior prospers in the world because he weighed 6 pounds 14¾ ounces. Henrysides junior fails in the world because he weighed 7 pounds 1¼ ounces. Such is destiny, and such is life. I'll never forgive my destiny as long as I live. There is my grievance. I wish you good morning.

Character of the Country at Greece.

No organic development in the history of the human mind has been perfect known or has been richer and at the same time more unlike than that of the Grecian genius. Notwithstanding the extent to which the Hellenic population was scattered and the distances which separated the various groups, the evolution, taken as a whole, was governed by the same laws and exhibited the same phases in life order and under like conditions in the the lands in which the Greek language was spoken.

The different stocks were like trees of the same species, doomed to produce the same fruits, the color and taste of which were liable, it is true, to be modified by local influences, but the variations were kept within narrow bounds. So these peoples were kept from greatly diverging by their constant communication with each other, which was aided by the forms and relations of their lands—promontories jutting out toward one another and frequent islands, so that the sailor between distant ports rarely ever lost out of sight of some Grecian headland.

Nowhere else does the Mediterranean offer such a disposition, and there was in this geographical feature a most preconditive of the spirit of adventure.

Sundials in China.

The Chinese have never accomplished anything in the way of making sundials. These devices were introduced to them by the Jobsuuuuuuuu.

There is one in the imperial observatory at Peking more than four feet in diameter. Smaller sundials are often met with in the public offices, all of them made under the direction of missionaries or their pupils.

From remote antiquity a family named Wang, residing to Hinuinghien, has had the exclusive manufacture of pocket compasses, with which sundials are often combined. In most of these a thread attached to the lid of the instrument serves to throw the shadow. They are used in all parts of the empire.

One kind employed by clockmakers for adjusting their escapements is marked with notches, one for each month in the year, to give the thread a different nagle for every month.

A Singular Iron Meteorite.

The University of Wisconsin has come into possession of a unique piece of meteoric iron. The date of its fall is not known, but it was plowed up near Algoma, Wis., in 1887 and during last March remained in the hands of the farmer who discovered it. It is shaped like a mibiol, 10 inches long by 8 broad and an inch thick in the center. The convex surface is smooth, while the concave side is rough and incrusted with oxide. It is believed that it moved broadside through the air, the convex surface in front. On this surface are strongly marked lines, radiating from a nearly flat elliptical boss in the center. The lines deepen as they approach the periphery.

A Sure Thing.

It is said nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. A. VanNeter of Shepardstown, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grippe, pneumonia and consumption. Try it; it's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber, druggist. Trial bottles free. Reg. sizes 50c and $1.

The Potomac River.

The Potomac river is only 200 miles long, and in its lower course rather an estuary than a stream.

The X-Rays.

Recent experiments, by practical tests and examination with the aid of the X-Rays, establish it as a fact that catarrh of the stomach is not a disease of itself, but that it results from repeated attacks of inflammation. How can I cure my indigestion?" Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is curing thousands. It will cure you of indigestion and dyspepsia, and prevent or cure catarrh of the stomach. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Many Pieces in a Shoe.

There are over a hundred distinct pieces in the ordinary shoe, including the 44 parts, the lasting tacks, the heel nails, threads and laces.

From a Cat Scratch!

on the eye, from a pet cat sent of a burn sore or boil, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a quick cure. In buying Witch Hazel Salve, be particular to get DeWitt's—that is the salve that heals without leaving a scar. A specific for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles. Sold by A. Reichert.

Remedy for Whooping Cough.

Baked onion is said to be highly considered a good remedy for whooping cough in some parts of Yorkshire, England.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured if Cole's Cough Cure is taken in time. It is wonderful in healing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Cures like it and its guaranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

Curiosity for Dublin Museum.

Dublin museum now possesses a large stuffed elephant, the first mounted specimen ever exhibited in Ireland.

Made Young Again.

"One of Dr. King's New Life Pills each night for two weeks has put me in my teens again," writes D. H. Turner of Dempsontown, Pa. They're the best in the world for liver, stomach and bowels. Purely vegetable. Never gripe. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiber's drug store.

More Bad Medicine.

A patent medicine trust is the latest thing in "merger" finance which the public is asked to swallow.

More people have been relieved and cured of Rheumatism by Chamberlain's than by any other remedy. There is nothing equal to it for burns, wounds and sores of all kinds. Try it and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 23 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $50 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

J. M. BRAY.
FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES.
Slickest Place in Town to Drop in and Get : : :
Fine Cigars and Wines and Liquors.
BREVORT RYE. :. K. O. R. WHISKEY

Easy Pill
Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe but move the bowels in a natural way. The ladies especially are delighted with them. They are sure to please. Sold by all druggists. Don't be disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, billiousness, jaundice, headache, sallow skin and all forms of pimples and fevers.

MESSAGE BY E. C. DEWITT & CO., CHICAGO
Don't Forget the Name.
EARLY RISERS

HAY STACK COVERS
Save the Hay and Grain
Write for prices on all sizes of Covers and Tents.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

A Fig Sensation.

There was a fig sensation in Leesville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottles free.

WELL - DIGGING

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on any job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE. MINN.

O. K. SALOON
Is the Place to Go for Choice
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.
J. E. BRAY

Constipation

Does your head ache? Pain back of your eyes? Bad taste in your mouth? It's your liver! Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation, headache, dyspepsia.

25c. All druggists.

Want your moustache or beard a beautiful brown or rich black? Then use
BUCKINGHAM'S DYE
R. P. HALL & CO., NASHUA, N. H.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Capital Stock,	$25,000
Authorized Stock,	$100,000.

OFFICERS.

I. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

I. I. Wyer, F. E. Hunt, Theo Garceau,
Chas. N. Bisodin. A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE. FAST TIME. TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL.

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

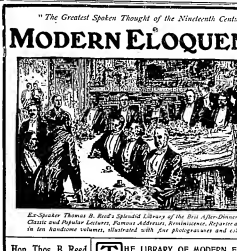
TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

8:30 p.m. Lv	St Paul	8:45 a.m. Ar
9:00 p.m. Lv	Minneapolis	8:15 a.m. Ar
6:01 p.m. Ar	Crookston	Lv 4:15 pm
6:15 p.m. Ar	Fisher	Lv 3:55 pm
6:35 p.m. Ar	Grafton	Lv 3:35 pm
6:54 p.m. Ar	Oakley	Lv 3:15 pm
10:05 a.m. Ar	Fargo	Lv 12:05 pm
10:30 a.m. Ar	St. Hilaire	Lv 11:40 am
11:00 a.m. Ar	Thief River Falls	Lv 11:10 am
1:05 p.m. Ar	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 9:05 am
12:45 p.m. Ar	Thief River Falls	Lv 9:40 a.m.

O. THOMAS Agent.

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE



Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Reminiscence, Repartee and Story, in ten handsome volumes, illustrated with fine photogravures and color plates

Hon. Thos. B. Reed Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS:

Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of English Parliament
Hon. Robert Marion La Follette
Former Editor "Boston Advertiser"
Hon. Champ Clark
Member Editorial Staff Chicago "Times-Herald"
P. Cunliffe Owen
Member Editorial Staff New York "Tribune"
J. Walter Fewkes
Managing Editor "Edgar Saltus's Works"
Hon. Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Museum Washington, D. C.
Truman A. DeVenne
Member Editorial Staff Chicago "Times-Herald"
William W. Matos
Member Editorial Staff Philadelphia Evening Telegraph
Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri
Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE is without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by some of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece which the world has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

THOMAS B. REED

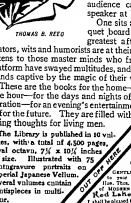
We see the speaker, when at the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights. Then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,000 pages, royal octavo, 7½ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multicolor.



Cut out and send

4 PM PRESS
1900
John D. Morris & Co.
[illegible] Street
Philadelphia, Pa.

Gentlemen:—Referring to your advertisement of The Thos. B. Reed Library of Modern Eloquence in the Red Lake County Courier, I shall be glad to receive full particulars regarding bindings, prices, etc.

Name.....
Business.....
Street.....
City and State.....

(To-day)

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

Warm Weather Apparel

At the BIG STORE

With the advent of warmer weather you will need many things to help you keep cool. You will find every department replete with all the newest summer goods.

Unlined Coats and Vests

We show a full line of the R. & W. unlined clothing: fine tailor-made goods, beautiful fit, padded shoulders, etc. From 6$c for a drill coat up to $8 for serges.

White Vests

A big line of them, from $1.25 up. Come in early and get your size. This will be a white vest season.

Parasols

All kinds atall kinds of prices. Good steel rod, black serge, for 50c. Mercerized Pearl handle, steel rod $1.35, great value. Children's Parasols 15c. A fine line of Men's Umbrellas.

Opera Gloves

We show a fine line of opera gloves and mitts in lisle and silk in all colors.

Summer Corsets

A big line of them from 20c up. We wish to announce to announce to those who have been waiting for those new Princess hip corsets that we now have a full line of them in drab and white, in the $1 and $2grades.

McKa' Waists

For children and ladies — to introduce we offer a discount of 25 per cent. We feel confident that once introduced they will prove a great success. Ask to see them.

Collars and Ties

A new line of men's and ladies linen collars; see the newest things; exclusive styles. A fine new line of Midgets, Club and Ascot ties.

Ribbon Sale

A fine 4-in silk ribbon, 10c yd. while they last. Worth 15c

Sun Bonnets, 10c. while they last.

Home Made Wrappers

An immense new line just in. These wrappers are getting too well known to need any designation. They are made with a full flounce, sewed to stay and will fit. 20 dozens to select from.

See our Monarch Negligee Shirts. We have the largest line in the city by far. $1 and $1.25 for the Monarch, $1.50 for the Cluett. They fit, they wash, always look well.

Straw Hats from 10c to $3.00 for Panamas Misses' hats from 19c up.

Specials in Groceries

Oat Meal, 30 lbs for $1
Anchovies, 5c lb
Growler smoking 15c
Onion sets, 5cqt
5lb pkg oats with dish this week 22c.
Oranges Saturday, 25c dozen
Salmon 8c
Corn Starch 6c

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

tn Zaiser visited St. Hilaire Friday.

Hannay was down from St. Hilaire Friday.

Will Pullen is now employed at O'Brien's hardware.

Ed. Trombley has entered into the employ of F. E. Hunt.

Bring your wool, butter, eggs and potatoes to Bangs & Co.'

C. F. Johnson was a business visitor to Fargo this week.

Attorney Keefe, of Pertile, was a business visitor here Monday.

W. A. McIntyre who is business caller at Crookston Tuesday.

The place to buy your summer underwear is at Bangs & Co.

Will Bernhardt is again in charge of the passenger on the T. line.

METROPOLITAN Opera House

ANDERSON & HEALY, Managers.

SATURDAY EVENING

May 23

Mahara's Mammoth Minstrel Carnival

30 = COLORED STARS = 30

Presenting the cleverest features of

Minstrelsy Opera Vaudeville

Watch for the big street parade of

Mahara's Challenge Band and Orchestra

Gentleman's valour calf, blucher, Philadelphia toe, $3. Gareau & Zaiser.

Ladies' Julia Marlowe style Oxfords, pomp sole, $1.60. Gareau & Zaiser's.

Gentleman's patent kangaroo kid Oxford, judge toe, $3. Gareau & Zaiser.

Sheriff Linnihan has appointed George Jarman of Thief River Falls as deputy.

Miss McCaffrey, of St. Hilaire, was the guest of her brother, Joseph, last Friday.

Boys' patent leather shoes, first one sold in the city. At Gareau & Zaiser's.

For Sale—Household goods; two base burners; two airtight stoves. F. B. Newton.

Miss Lydia Fletcher will be one of the instructors at the Crookston summer school.

The Surprise store has another interesting clothing talk to COURIER readers this week.

City Editor Latta, of the St. Hilaire Spectator, was a business caller here Saturday last.

F. J. Parker is up from Marshall this week with a party of landseekers for the Healy agency.

Henry Kellar is employed at Allard's confectionery during the absence of the proprietor.

One week from Saturday is Memorial day. Are we going to observe the day?

F. A. Mixen's child, who was seriously ill last week, is reported as recovered.

Mrs. Robert McGinn of Thief River Falls visited friends. in Red Lake Falls over Sunday.

J. B. Connor and children went to Crookston Thursday for a visit with relatives in that city.

James and Mike Connaughy, of Ortonville, have been looking lover the country this week.

School will close one week from tomorrow, and the small boy is again on "easy street."

Messrs. Swanson, Todd and Lepert were down from Wylie Sunday to attend the ball game.

Evening service at the Presbyterian church will hereafter be held at 8 o'clock instead of 7:30.

Miss Gertie Hohnwaelt, of Thief River Falls, visited over Sunday with Mrs. N. W. Tarrant.

Geo. J. Silk, the jolly representative of the Crookston Times, smiled upon his friends here yesterday.

Mrs. W. A. Schreiter visited over Sunday at Thief River Falls with her sister, Mrs. Carl Kretzschmar.

J. W. Lynch, one of the leading farmers of Equality township, was doing business in town Saturday.

J. C. Engerman visited over Sunday with his wife at Crookston. Mrs. Engerman is expected home Monday.

Prof. R. Watson Cooper, of Hamline university, will deliver the Memorial day address at Crookston.

Theo. Deforge has recovered from a six weeks confinement to the house from an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Albina Lemieux returned Monday evening from a several weeks' visit with friends at Argyle.

Cass Brunelle, who is employed at Blackduck, has been ill the past two weeks, but is reported as better.

Weak?

"I suffered terribly and was extremely weak for 12 years. The doctors said my blood was all turning to water. At last I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was soon feeling all right again."
Mrs. J. W. Fiala, Hadlyme, Ct.

No matter how long you have been ill, nor how poorly you may be today, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine you can take for purifying and enriching the blood.

Don't doubt it, put your whole trust in it, throw away everything else.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If he tells you to take it, do all he tells you. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied.

J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

Rev. H. M. Green, rector of the Episcopal church at Crookston, was a visitor to Red Lake Falls yesterday.

F. F. Freund went to Maple Lake Saturday to look after some prospective business in the painting line and incidentally to attend the celebration.

A bouncing boy baby came to the home of J. R. Fortier Friday morning. Mother and child are reported doing nicely.

Louis Sieff and R. Green left Monday for Sioux City, Iowa, where they will buy a carload of horses for market here.

Messrs. J. E. Ford, Frank Jeffers and S. A. Swanson attended the funeral of Mrs. Ovila Rock at Terrebonne Monday.

The soda fountains and ice cream stands are in full operation and indications point to a prosperous business in that line.

I have some some fine Duroc Jersey pigs for sale at a bargain if taken soon. T. H. Carver, Section 20, Gervais township. 2w

Owen Corno and family moved to Thief River Falls Saturday. Mr. Corno will be employed by the lumber company at that place.

P. F. Poullot, assistant cashier of the Merchants State Bank, went to Grand Forks Saturday on a business mission, returning Monday.

J. B. Armstrong expects to leave the latter part of the week on a business trip to Grand Rapids, Cass Lake, Bemidji and Blackduck.

Dr. Tupper and H. G. Dobner and the Misses McGrath and Brown drove down from the upper Falls Sunday to take in the ball game.

E. J. Druecker, Julius Pieth and Nels G. Otterness were a party of St. Hilaire business people who visited the county seat Monday.

Mrs. Maria Gervais returned to her home at Two Harbors Tuesday after spending a month here with her daughters and other relatives.

John Conner, Sr., arrived from Los Angeles, Cal., Sunday, and will visit for several weeks at the home of his son in Terrebonne township.

Rev. Andrew Walker will preach the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, May 31.

Mrs. L. A. Dautremont has been confined to her bed this week with a complication of ailments, but at this writing is reported as much improved.

Our imported kid glove, LaForce, is fully guaranteed and is the best $1.50 glove we can find. Comes in white, black and all colors. Bangs & Co.

Rev. Father Charles of Thief River will conduct the services at St. Mary next Sunday. Rev. Father Angsat goes to Thief River to hold services next Sunday.

Mrs. Elsie Hanry has commenced an action for divorce from Edward Hanry through her attorney, F. A. Grady. Desertion is alleged as the ground for action.

The Improved Order of Redmen will meet next Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows' hall. Business of importance demands the presence of every member.

The ladies aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet next Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Hourdon. A good attendance is requested.

While playing base ball Sunday Ernest Buse had the misfortune to wrench his ankle quite seriously, and as a result he has been using crutches this week.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the post office at Red Lake Falls for the week ending May 16, 1903: E. F. Wolfe, Harvey Wolfe, Frederick Warrington.

Joseph Allard and wife left Monday for Itasca county and will reside on their claim for the winter. Miss Mollie Allard will have charge of the confectionery during their absence.

Street Commissioner Buse has been doing effective work towards the cleaning and beautifying of the public highways this week, which is appreciated by the citizens.

Rev. T. A. Lillehei of St. Hilaire will hold Scandinavian services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All Scandinavians are invited to attend.

Fred M. du Lagnay and bride arrived from Louisville, Ky., Tuesday morning and will visit relatives here and at Terrebonne before proceeding on their way to Washington.

Attorney James McIntyre was in the city yesterday for a few hours. He was enroute to his home in Thief River from a business trip to Milwaukee and other points in Wisconsin.

Mr. Willetts, who has leased the Palace, is expected to arrive this week to take charge of the bostlery. He comes well recommended and will no doubt conduct a first-class hotel.

Spring laziness, legs ache, back aches, feel tired, no ambition, no appetite, all run down feeling. Rocky Mountain Tea puts new life into your body; you feel good all over. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Dr. Wilkinson, assisted by Dr. Geudron, performed a difficult operation on Mrs. Jas. Chambers last Friday morning, which resulted successfully. The patient has been ailing for the past two years and the operation was necessary to give relief.

Fred Larson of Madison, Minn., has been the guest of Buttermaker Whittemore this week. Mr. Larson is also an old schoolmate of R. E. Myer and his visit here is a pleasant one.

Give the children Rocky Mountain Tea this month, makes them strong, makes them eat, sleep and grow. Good for the whole family. A spring tonic that makes sick people well. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Theo. LaBissoniere has purchased the F. B. Newton residence property and expects to move his family there in a few weeks. This is one of the handsomest and most desirable houses in town.

Special Prices for Saturday

Swift's premium lard nothing finer	12½c	Olives, per bottle	9c
Preserves, in glass jar	12c	Pickles, the finest kind, put up in in malt vinegar; 16oz. worth 35c	25c
Baltimore peaches per can	16c	Toilet soap; pennine imported olive oil soap, 3 bars for	25c
Tomatoes, per can	10c	Lewis lye, 3 cans for	25c
Raisins, below present cost	8c	Horseshoe lye 3 for	25c
Prepared mustard, large tumbler, Bengal brand	9c	Shamrock lye 4 for	25c

ORANGES, LEMONS, BANANAS, STRAWBERRIES, ETC.

BANGS & CO.

A BIG Bargain

Combination Book Case and Writing Desk. Sale Price,

Only $11.75.

Anderson & Healy

Joseph Koke received his fine new clarinet this week, and is as proud as a boy with a new pair of boots. It is a Buffett, and when speaking of clarinets that name means the best made.

Maud—Last night Jack told me that he wouldn't marry the best girl living unless —what—unless she took Rocky Mountain Tea. Sensible fellow. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

H.S. Williams arrived from Estherville, Iowa, this week with his family and they are occupying the Busch residence at the corner of Third street and Washington avenue. Mr. Williams recently bought the Dautremont farm southwest of the city and will commence the erection of a set of buildings at once.

Girl Wanted

Good girl wanted for general housework. Good wages. Apply to L. A. Dautremont.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for Free Homesteads and and Free Coal lands. Low railroad rates. See our agent in your city and write for facts and maps. Wm. H. Brown & Co., 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, or Mandan, N.D.

Full line of ledgers, journals and blank books of all kinds at THE COURIER stationery stand.

Notice of Expiration of Redemption.

No. 22

IN WHOSE NAME ASSESSED	DESCRIPTION OF LAND	Addition or subdivision	Section or lot	Year of Years for which levied	Amt. of Taxes, Penalty, Interest and Costs	DATE SOLD	Amt. paid by purchaser at date of sale	Amt. paid for by State at date of sale	Amt. Penalty and Interest at date of redemption
First National Bank of Crookston, Minnesota	Crocker, Condy & Nelson's 1st add to Hilaire		3	32	1899 $ 1 00 1900 1 00 1901 1 00 1902 1 00	Feb 15 1903	.05	.00	2.12

To FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CROOKSTON, MINN: OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR, Red Lake County, Minn.

You are hereby notified that on the 2nd day of May A. D. 1903, in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes pursuant to Chapter 11 of the Laws of 1881, and the acts amendatory thereof, the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake in the Fourteenth Judicial District, entered in Minnesota, on the 21st day of March A. D. 1903, the above described pieces or parcels of land situated in Red Lake County, State of Minnesota, were bid into the State to satisfy the amount for which they were respectively assessed in said judgment, together with costs for the actions named sums, that the same were not redeemed from said sales, and that certificates of sale were issued to the State.

That all of the above stated parcels of land were sold by the County Auditor of Red Lake County, as directed by the State Auditor, in accordance with Section 121 of Chapter 11 of General Statutes of 1894, and the several acts amendatory thereto, for the sums above stated, that the time allowed by law for redemption from said sales has expired, and that the sale instrument of the State to secure on this notice) in the amount above stated, with interest at the rate of 25 per cent per annum from said above date, until such redemption is made, and that the time for redemption of said pieces or parcels of land from such sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the County Auditor of this County.

Witness my hand and official seal this 2nd day of March A. D. 1903. JAMES E. FORD, apr-21 (SEAL) County Auditor Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 34. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 28, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 242.

COUNTY DADS HOLD A BRIEF MAY MEET

Business of Importance Looked After and Bills Allowed—Will Meet Again Today.

The board of county commissioners met in special session last Friday, and in a two days' session looked after the affairs of their constituents.

H. J. Johnson's petition to sell intoxicating liquor at Wylie station was on motion granted.

A resolution appropriating $150 out of the road and bridge fund to Red Lake Falls township to be used in grading between section 3 and 4 and 9 and 10 was passed, a proviso that the township furnish an equal amount being included.

The bond of Treasurer Yandberg was re-approved. The former approval of the bond was not accepted by the attorney general, and was returned for correction and re-approval.

The petition of residents of Nordon and North townships for the creation of a new school district was taken up and July 14 set as the day of hearing on same.

Application of L. A. Dautremont for abatement of taxes on city property was rejected.

An auctioneer's license was granted to R. J. McKircher.

Engineer Rolfe's report on Red Lake county ditch No. 21, Rocksbury, was accepted, and Emil Larson of Bray, C. J. Knox of Thief River and Otto Zaiser of Red Lake Falls were appointed as viewers on the same.

Messrs. Johnson, Fahrdean and Demunn were appointed to inspect the bridge over the Clearwater at Terrebonne. This bridge is in poor condition, and it is thought the building of a new steel bridge will be recommended.

The usual grist of bills were audited and allowed.

The board will meet again today to pass the necessary resolution and take other steps to authorize the issue of $81,000 of ditch bonds by the county.

SCHOOL LAND SALES.

State Auditor Iverson Will Wait Until October.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson announces that no school land will be sold until next October. Mr. Iverson believes that the land is a good investment and should not be forced on the people. His plan is to offer it for sale only when actual settlements are contemplated.

The law makes the state auditor ex officio land commissioner and prohibits him from disposing of more than 100,000 acres a year. The state has about 1,250,000 acres of school land unsold, situated mainly in Itasca, Cass, Aitkin, Beltrami, Crow Wing, Mille Lacs, Hubbard and other northern counties.

Last year 100,000 acres was sold at an average price of $9.78 an acre, a $3.54 above the average price which had been obtained for the previous forty years.

Estray.

Bay filly three years old, weight about 900 pounds, star in forehead, white strip on nose and two white fetlocks. One brown filly two years old, weight about 700 pounds, white star on forehead and scar on left ear caused by bite of another horse. Finder please report to Louis Gonyea, Crookston, Minn., and receive $10 reward.

TALKED WATERWORKS TO CITIZENS' MEETING

W. D. Lovell, a Des Moines Capitalist and Engineer, Visits the City For That Purpose.

W. D. Lovell, of Des Moines, Iowa, was here yesterday to consult with the business men and give his opinion in regard to the putting in of a system of waterworks.

A meeting of the business men was called in the afternoon and the question was discussed at length. Mr. Lovell was of the opinion that not less than a $15,000 plant should be put as a starter, but the city was advised to find out just what they wanted and then he would make estimates of the cost. It is likely a committee of councilmen will be appointed to determine the kind and size of system wanted, after which Mr. Lovell will return and quote figures.

A system of waterworks is necessary to the growth and prosperity of any city, and if one can be secured on any reasonable terms it stands the city in hand to have it.

Death of John Connery.

John Connery, an old and respected citizen of Thief River, died last Saturday, death resulting from a complication of deseases with which he had been suffering for several months. The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Thief River Falls lodge of Odd Fellows. Mr. Connery was prominent in business and social circles of the up-river city for a long number of years and his death will be mourned by a large circle of friends.

WILL BUILD TO ROSEAU.

Great Northern Have Men at Work on New Survey.

E. L. Higgins and R. E. Taft, the engineer in charge of the Great Northern survey crew now working north from here to Roseau, came up from below Tuesday and immediately proceeded to move camp to a point about fifteen to twenty miles east of Thief River Falls, says the McIntosh Times.

The line now being run to the north is simply preliminary, and should it ever be built there will be some material changes made in the first nine miles north of here.

Speaking of the course taken, a gentleman thoroughly conversant with the lay of the country between the southwest corner of Chester and this city says: "No road will be built on the line of survey made, for the simple reason that a better grade can be much more cheaply and easily secured and constructed by going a short distance east."

The line has already been run to point on the Clearwater river near Terrebones. Leaving the west switchhere it runs through Osov Frolnk's place and then takes an northerly and easterly direction crossing the Lamhert rond on the Maadt place, ruaning from there a little east of north through the Lars Eugessester and Mrs. Ofstelos farms, the Wilson place and up through the town of Chester to the Lost river, where it takes a northerly direction.

For Sale at a Bargain.

If sold before the last of June, the person who buys the Ole Ellingson farm can have one-fourth the crop. For prices and terms apply to H. O. Gjerberg. 1mo

For Sale—Household goods; two base burners; two airtight stoves. F. B. Newton.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES NEXT MONDAY EVENING

Class of Sixteen to Be Graduated From Red Lake Falls High School.

The third annual commencement exercises of the Red Lake Falls high school will take place at the Metropolitan opera house next Monday evening, June 1, at which time sixteen bright young minds will step from the ranks of school life and take their place in the active business world. The class this year is an unusually large one, consisting of eleven boys and five girls, all of Red Lake Falls families.

The program at the opera house will be an extensive one, and will no doubt be witnessed by a large audience. It consists of eleven numbers, and is as follows:

Music.....Orchestra
Invocation.....Rev. Father Augge, O. S. B.
Educational Opportunities of the Present Day:
a. The Need of An Education—Salutatory.....Gilbert D. Westphal
b. The Common Schools.....Frank P. Braff
c. The State and High School...Anton Schuster
d. The School and Higher Education.....Lulu M. Fletcher
Music.....Orchestra
Character Building in the Public Schools:
a. Self-Control the First Law.....Fred Richards
b. Honesty and Truth.....Norman Schuster
c. Unselfishness and Democratic Spirit.....Grant Fletcher
d. To See and to Think.....Ella E. Garceau
Music.....Rev. F. Quetel
Messrs. Newman, Zaiser, Westphal, Whiteley.
What a High School Graduate Must Be:
a. In the the Mechanics and Industries.....Charles Brady
b. In the Professon of Teaching.....Theresa Waterman
c. In Field of Agriculture.....Hugo V. Zaiser
d. In the Business World.....Beatrice Hoge
Music.....Orchestra
Ideals of Life:
a. In Politics.....Abner Fletcher
b. In the Community.....Lelia M. Temple
c. In the Home.....Marjorie Rodgers
d. In Business—Valedictory.....Joseph Hehn
Music.....Orchestra
Presentation of Diplomas.....Supt. F. A. Whiteley

Junior Reception Saturday.

Invitations have been issued for the reception and banquet to be given by the Junior class of the Red Lake Falls high school at the Palace hotel Saturday evening of this week. Covers will be laid for fifty and the participants will include the classes of '01, '02 and '03, the teachers and several others, besides the Junior class—the hosts. The function will no doubt be one of enjoyment.

St. Hilaire, 3; Thief River, 2.

The St. Hilaire and Thief River base ball teams met on the diamond in the former city Sunday and an interesting contest resulted. Both teams were strictly on their mettle, and the run getting was limited. Many good plays were made by both sides and the spectators got their money's worth. Ittner and Roinde were the battery for St. Hilaire, while Murphy, Burg and Rush did the honors for Thief River. It is probable that Red Lake Falls will go against the winners in a week or so.

Only a few Days Left.

It is well to remember that all real estate taxes become due on the first Monday of January of each year. If not paid on or before the 31st day of May following, a penalty of 10 per cent is added and if not paid on or before the first Monday of the following January, an additional penalty of 5 per cent is added, and the land will be sold on the first Monday in May. But, if one half the taxes due on the first Monday in January in each year, shall be paid on or before the 31st day of May following then no penalty will be added to the remaining one half, if the said remaining one half shall be paid before the first day November. If not so paid a penalty of 10 per cent will be added and if still unpaid on the first Monday in January an additional penalty of 5 per cent of the original tax remaining until paid will be charged.

Expressmen Get Increase.

An increase in wages of 12½ per cent has been granted Great Northern express messengers, dating back to March 1. The advance was a surprise to the men who had made no claims. When the times were hard the messengers wages were reduced and by gradual advances had been brought nearly to the old schedule. The big advance just secured by their superintendent gives the men higher wages than they have ever received.

WILL OBSERVE THE EVENT.

Memorial Day to Be Fittingly Celebrated At Red Lake Falls.

The members of the G. A. R., school children, band, civic societies and citizens generally will observe next Saturday—Memorial day.

The parade will form about 10 o'clock the line of March being through the principal business streets, and ending at the city hall, where appropriate exercises will take place.

Speaking and music will be the features, and every citizen is asked to be present and assist in the speaking, etc.

The fact that the ranks of the "old guard" are fast thinning out should not make these Memorial day exercises any the less impressive, and the citizens should unite in making them a success.

K. of P.'s Institue at Thief River.

About twenty members of Red Lake Falls lodge, No. 169, K. of P., went to Thief River Falls last Friday night, returning they did the degree work in the institution of the new lodge at that place. Grand Chancellor Robertson and Grand Keeper of Records and Seal Winston were present and assisted in the ceremonies. The Thief River Falls ladies served a banquet to the members and visitors, and the Red Lake Falls boys are loud in their praise of the royal manner in which they were entertained. The Thief River lodge starts out with a membership of about twenty-five and the officers elected are ones who will insure a success of it from the start.

HOW TO GET STATE AID.

Board Issues New Rules As to the Requirements to Be Fulfilled.

After the current school year of the state department of public instruction, which will close July 31, state graded schools, in order to receive aid as such, under the law must pay their principals not less than $75 a month and their grade teachers not less than $40 a month.

By act of the last legislature, state aid to high schools has been increased to $1,500 for each of those accepted schools. This amount which will be decreased somewhat in the pro rata division, by reason of the addition of new schools to the list, will be available Aug. 1, 1904. By one of the provisions of this act, no school may receive aid in excess of the amount actually expended in carrying out the purposes of the act exclusive of the cost of buildings and repairs.

For its guidance in determining the amount of aid which shall be due each school under the law the state high school board has agreed upon the following rules.

All accepted schools employing not less than two teachers, exclusive of the superintendent, who give their time to high school work, shall be presumed to be entitled to the full amount. In case of smaller schools, the high school inspector is directed to submit a special report of the yearly expenditure of each school. This special report shall include:

(a) Such part of the superintendent's salary as is in excess of $500 provided that his entire salary shall not be less than $900 a year.

(b) Two salaries paid high school instructors giving part time to high school work, proportionate credit shall be given.

(c) The cost of library fixtures and library books; but no credit shall be given for expenditures already balanced by state aid to school libraries. Boards of education are at liberty, of course, to make any purchases they may desire; but no credit shall be given for the purchase of subscription books, or expensive sets, unless the inspector's approval shall have been secured prior to such purchase. Free texts for ordinary class use shall not receive credit.

(d) The cost of laboratory fixtures and apparatus. No credit shall be given for charts for unusual or expensive pieces of apparatus, for sets of apparatus, or for any devices sold by agents unless the approval of the inspector shall have been secured prior to such purchase.

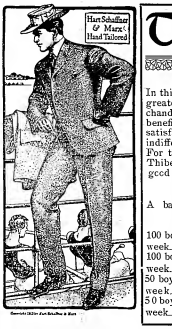
(e) The proportionate cost of heating and janitor's service. In cases of inadequate heating, poor ventilation or untidy quarters, corresponding credit may be withheld.

Everything That is Good to Wear

THE SURPRISE

Correct Dress From Head to Foot.....

We are the Leaders. The Only Up-to-date Clothing House in the County



The Best in the Land

None Like the Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothing for Style, Fit and Goodness

In this ever-growing community our success is constantly becoming greater and greater. The influence of our great store is felt. The consumers' idea of merchandise is directly advanced to highest standard. Hundreds upon hundreds are benefitted by our tremendous outlet and cash buying. Our liberal, progressive and satisfactory store methods are appreciated, and all stores of indifferent methods and indifferent merchandise must go.

For this week we offer 200 men's suits in Cheviots, Homespuns, Serges Thibets and Worsteds, in stripes and small neat effects. They are good values for 10.00. your chiece 7,00, 6.00 and..... $5

Boys' Clothing.

A base ball and bat or a catcher's mitt given away with every boy's suit.

Specials for this Week.

100 boys' suits, fancy stripes, ages 6 to 15, good values at 3.00, this week	$1.75
100 boys' suits, blue serge, ages 8 to 15, good values at 5.00; this week	3.00
50 boys' suits, 3-piece, a very neat check, good values at 5.00; this week	3.00
50 boys' suits, 3-piece; black clay worsted, good values at 7.50; this week	5.50

Men's Furnishings.

Prepare for hot weather. Athletic sweaters in maroon, black and navy; golf shirts, a splendid variety to select from; underwear, we are showing plain and fancy balbriggan, also natural and fancy wool; hosiery in plain and fancy effects; handkerchiefs in plain white and fancy border; we are showing the very latest creations in smart neckwear, strings, bows, shield tecks fore-in-hands and imperial Ascots.

Men's and Boys' Working Shirts,

Overall and Pants. This is the store that shows a complete line of shirts, overalls and working pants; we are sole agents for Sweet, Orr & Co.'s celebrated pants and overalls, the best on earth; we cardially invite your inspection

Hat Department.

This department is complete; great variety, correct styley.

Berthon & Armstrong...

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The devil is to pay in the Minnesota print shops this week, but there's no one at home to pay him.

The Itasca Record thinks a saw mill whistle is a pleasant sound—when it calls some one else to work.

There is something distinctively human about lawn tennis and ping pong. There is no love above forty.

It is warm in New York this month, but reports come that a large number of lambs were frozen on Wall street.

"Mistakes of the Commissioners of Columbia County" is the title of a new book to be published at McIntosh, says the Gully Sunbeam.

This is a copy of a notice on the beach at Asbury Park:

"In cases of ladies in danger of drowning they should be seized by the clothing, and not by the hair, which generally comes off.

President Roosevelt will propably feel aggrieved when he learns that the Minnesota editors took advantage of his absence to pounce down upon the city.

A woman has been made assistant attorney general of the Philippine islands, and the Duluth Herald observes that the Filipinos will now have to toe the mark.

J. F. Jacobsen is said to be a receptive candidate for railroad and warehouse commissioner to succeed Joe. Isn't it a little cheeky for an honest man to aspire to this office.

Mary McFadden observes that the boy who manicures his nails is not so generally despised by other boys as he used to be. In fact most of the others are taking on the habit.

The newspaper boys in Red Lake county seem to be rather peaceably disposed at present, but the Crookston fellows are making up for any apparent lack of strenuosity over this way.

A Philadelphia hotel man wants to know how many feet of gas it takes to kill a man. One of his guests blew it out the other night and the landlord wants to send in a proper bill to his executors.

Suicide is said to be increasing at a rapid rate. We fail to see anything particularly alarming about it, however. The person cowardly enough to attempt self-destruction is not of much value to the world, anyway.

Ralph Weelock is evidently losing faith in humanity, and asks:

When do you think of a Methodist preacher who asks us to believe that a carload of South Dakota chickens, shipped to New York by Jim Curtain of Mo theville, laid eggs enough en route to pay the freight?

Brother Schaffer of the Adrian Democrat sizes the world up as follows:

Fifteen hundred people are a good many, but in nature's great menegerie man is but a small figure. If all the people in the world were fed to the rest of the animal show, on the land and in the sea, they would make only one good square meal.

A Paris Journalist has fallen heir to $7,000,000 from a chance acquaintance, to whom he gave a nice personal one day, says Ralph Wheelock, and he is now in doubt as to whether to buy a yacht, join an automobile club or start a daily newspaper in a weekly town.

The Badger Herald evidently has wet feet. Listen to this howl sent up in its last issue:

A Chicago professor has solved the problem of transmitting messages through water. By all means let us have it. We want to talk to the state drainage comission.

The Nonpariel Man of the Minneapolis Journal appears to know something about the art of proposing, but he is no good as a class demonstrator:

Prof. Trueblood of Michigan university is teaching the psychology class how to make love. When the psychology class consists of one person "with her heart beating for an alone," is the time when we shine in fancy and implied pedagogics.

The Gully Sunbeam still takes an occasional fall out of Crookston over the recent Columbia county division case, and the latest "hot one" runs thusly:

Down in Georgia they distranchise the "niggers" by an enactment of the legislature. In Polk county, Minnesota, the saintly city of Crookston would distranchise the whites by a decision of the supreme court. The Georgia method would be preferable to the Crookston scheme, as it would save the farmer the time lost in going to an election to vote.

"Don't believe all you hear, and only half that you see," is an old adage, and the Minneapolis Times evidently sticks to it. Rockefeller's statements are not generally taken seriously, and the Times comments as follows on the latest one:

"I consult him daily on all affairs of my business and receive His help," said John D. Rockefeller, jr., in his address to his Sunday class last Sunday. Young Mr. Rockefeller may be sincere, but quite a number of good christians will refuse to believe that the Standard Oil trust is under divine guidance.

The Grand Forks Herald evidently has believed some of Scientist Tesla's "discoveries," but the latest one is taken like this:

Tesla has been seeing things again. He has in process of development schemes by which he will draw electricity from the air with out cost, and by means of this he will be able to furnish power for all the purposes desired by man. It is needless to say that when this system is completed the industries of the country will be revolutionized. In the meantime it will be well to hang onto what machinery we now in use until better is actually to be had. Mr. Tesla is an interesting man, and he is fond of telling us how greatly he is going to improve on the inventions of other men. But the other fellows keep investing things so fast that before Tesla has any of his schemes perfected he has to tackle a new one. Still, he dreams some interesting dreams.

The Minneapolis Times thus details some of the troubles of the hired girl question:

Our correspondent at Miller, S. D., advises us that the servant girl problem is growing interesting out that way. One worthy burgher just about used up a $250 team in the pursuit and capture of a likely maidservant. The wages demanded were something fearful to contemplate, but the man dragged her along. It was evening when he arrived at his happy home, and he felt that a great victory had been won. The next morning the family waited and wondered why there was nothing doing in the line of breakfast, and finally the burgher's wife went out to investigate. To cut a short story shorter, the new maidservant had eloped with the hired man, and the situation was an awful sight worse than it was before the girl was discovered. When the servant girl problem is mixed up with the hired man problem the patient householder might as well take to the woods.

The following item has been going the rounds, and new devotees to the waltz art can be looked for if this proves true:

All dancers will be surprised to learn that there is something in store for them that will relegate the mazy waltz to the back shelf, where the cobwebs of obscurity will soon weave its shroud around it; for in the heads of New York and Washington society have declared that "sitting out" a waltz will be more fashionable than dancing. The only difference is that you sit instead of dance. The man's right arm is around the girls waist while his left hand holds her right. Her left hand is placed upon his shoulder, while her head rests lovingly upon his bosom, and all they have to do is to sit and listen to the music. We have always regarded it a nuisance to have to gallop a mile or two to get a good hug. A room full of people sitting around on sofas hugging to music is more to our notion. This will give all the rheumatic brethren another chance to waltz. Most men dance not so much for the pleasure but for the position, and while a man may lose his appetite for doughnuts, it is not pretty odd before he loses his appetite for hugging a pretty girl. We are endeavoring to get life back to you on a "dance" of this kind, and if they do you can bet your last dollar that the hall will be crowded.

I think I'll withdraw! —New York World.

THE UNLUCKY NUMBER.

Jack—Congratulate me! Mabel has accepted me.

Edith—Really? I hope you're not superstitious.

Jack—No. Why?

Edith—Because you're the thirteenth she has accepted this season, I believe.—Detroit Free Press.

WISDOM IN BIRDLAND.

Young Bird—What an extraordinary development of legs it's got!

Old Bird—Of course—that's why they call it a spring chicken!—Ally Sloper.

FAR BE IT FROM NORA.

Mr. Timiduen—Nora, we're going to have the Johnsons for dinner tonight——

Nora—Faith, thin, ye'll have t' cook 'em yersilf. O'll have no part in such cannibal proceedin's.—N. Y. Sun.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Highlife—My dear, I'm going to turn over a new leaf!

Mrs. Highlife—That's right, James says when you came out of your club last night you turned over a couple of pages.—N. Y. Times.

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE

THE LAST STAND OF GEN. CUSTER.
Find Scout Curley.

Following the close of the civil war our army was engaged for a number of years in fighting the Indians. The most terrible of all the Indian campaigns was that against the Sioux in 1876. Gen. Custer, with five troops of the Seventh cavalry, attacked the main camp of the Sioux near the Little Big Horn on June 25. His command was outnumbered 12 to one, but without hesitation his command charged. But little has ever been known of the battle that followed, as no white man escaped, and but one of Custer's force, Curley, Custer's Indian scout, ever lived to tell of its horrors. The little force fought until their ammunition was exhausted, when those who had not been killed were massacred in cold blood by the Indians. The Seventh cavalry lost 261 officers and men in that battle.

Memorial Day

ITS INCEPTION, ITS EXPRESSION, ITS PROPHECY.

By THE "HIGHWAY AND BYWAY" PREACHER.

A NATION rent and torn by awful civil war, the strength of her young manhood marshaled on battlefield, the roar of cannon and musketry, the clouds of fire and smoke, the hail of shot and shell, the stillness of death, the heaps on heaps of dead. A nation bowed in grief at the graves of its defenders, mourning the awful price paid, but proud of the victory won. Rivers of blood to cleanse the nation of its sin of slavery, lives freely given that they might find new expression in the new life and possibilities of the Nation.

Silent cities of soldier dead reared their green mounds and marble shafts out of the smoke of battle. The Nation beheld with tear-dimmed eyes, and "lest we forget, lest we forget," found expression in the appointment of the annual Memorial day.

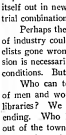
A quarter of a century and more has rolled around since then. The ranks of the old soldiers who fought side by side with those who fell in battle have been thinned as death has picked them off one by one and laid them in their graves. Those who still linger with reverent hands take out the suits of faded blue and wear them bravely to the graveyard, bearing their tokens of flags and flowers to lay on the quiet graves of sleeping comrades. The crowds look on with a half interest. They hear the martial music, they gaze on the grizzled ranks, they hear the words of tribute spoken and feel the pulses quicken at the sound of musketry over the graves, but the present is so far removed from the cause which planted the graves and gave birth to the Memorial day that there is but a hazy indefiniteness to the whole affair. Years and years ago before the Nation's wounds were healed and when everywhere the vacant chairs were still standing in mute testimony of what they had yielded to the Nation; when the family circles had not been entirely obliterated or formed anew, and fathers and sons, husbands and brothers, were still keenly missed, then did Memorial day throb with a meaning and interest which it must needs lack to-day because of the changes which Time has wrought.

But the Nation needs its Memorial day even more to-day than did the generation which is so rapidly sinking into the grave, and its expression needs to be more universal and full. IT MUST NOT FORGET ITS SOLDIER DEAD. It has established by law the annual Memorial day, but there its duty and its privilege does not end. THE PULSE BEAT OF THE NATION MUST BE FELT IN ITS EXPRESSION OF THE DAY. One of the most encouraging signs of the times is the care and thoughtfulness with which the school children of our land are being drilled and instructed in the purpose and spirit of the days which the Nation has marked off to remember its heroes and its heroic events. But Memorial day and its celebration must not be left to the last survivors of the generation which has just gone and the generation which is now growing up around our firesides. You and I have a responsibility and privilege which can alone be performed and realized as we give thoughtful expression to all that the day should mean to us and the Nation.

The ripple started upon the water to-day exerts its influence upon the shifting sands of the opposite shore to-morrow. And so it is with the expression of the life of the Nation. To-day's influences bear their molding impress upon the life of to-morrow. WHAT THE NATION WILL BE TO-MORROW IS DETERMINED BY WHAT THE NATION IS TO-DAY. The spirit and devotion with which the people of this Nation observe the annual Memorial day will find expression in the quality of patriotism of the future. Every day is in a sense a prophecy of the day just ahead. Every year is a gauge which may be used in measuring the years yet unrolled. MEMORIAL DAY THIS YEAR WILL BE PROPHETIC OF THE LIFE OF THE NATION DURING FUTURE YEARS. May it be a day on which gratitude will reach back and revive memories of the grand heritage our dead soldiers have given to us. May our gratitude link itself with patriotic devotion in the present. And may the impulses and influences given birth on that day bear the full fruit of a BETTER, STRONGER AND MORE ENDURING NATION.

Poets or Captains of Industry.

By WALTER H. PAGE
Editor of The World's Work



Some years ago a man came to New York, published a promising book, and then seemed lost in the maelstrom. Meeting this young author, dear old John Burroughs said to him:

"Why don't you come up into the Hudson river country? Get away from fads and money and trust to God Almighty to bring out what's in you. He'll do it."

"Can't afford it," said the young man.

"It wouldn't cost you anything," returned Burroughs. "You can build your own house and dig your own food and that suit of clothes you are wearing will last four years."

Months after, when I asked that man if he meant to take Burroughs' advice, he said he couldn't make up his mind.

Like Burroughs, many people tell us the city is unfavorable to literary production. How do they know? Shakespeare was born at Stratford, but he did his work after he went up to London.

They tell us that in the confusion of modern life, with new problems every hour presenting themselves for solution, amid the growth and the unrest of a changing civilization, nothing but ephemeral work is possible. They say that imagination is not dead, but that it works itself out in new machines, new schemes for transportation, new industrial combinations.

Perhaps these things are true. If they would, perhaps our captains of industry could be poets. Maybe our Wall street magnates are novelists gone wrong; but I do not think so. Perhaps our literary expression is necessarily experimental, forward-reaching, transitional, like our conditions. But who can tell?

Who can tell what may come of the unceasing literary struggle of men and women in their tenement house chambers and their fine libraries? We are sweating blood. The labor of the presses is unending. Who knows if God Almighty has not something to bring out of the town-dweller? Who knows how soon above the din of the streets there shall rise the very note of our wonderful American life —THE VOICE THAT SHALL HYMN THE STRESS OF OUR CITIES, THE EAGERNESS OF OUR STRIVING, THE JOY OF OUR SUCCESS? WHO KNOWS HOW SOON WE SHALL HAIL THE MAN WHO SHALL SING M'ANDREW'S SONG OF STEAM?

T.L. BLOOD & CO.'S
READY-MIXED
HOUSE, BARN, FLOOR, CARRIAGE AND WAGON.

WILL GIVE YOU SATISFACTION
SOLD BY DEALERS
ST. PAUL. MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 11:00 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 11:00 a. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 11:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terebonne arrives daily except Sundays at 10:30 a. m. and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 12:00 m until 1:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and delivered on train (6 and 8) at the Station.

E. P. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY COMPANY

Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

50 Years of Success

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the

Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 Sewing Machine

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.

The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch, whether sewing light or heavy goods.

With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.

Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133, I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING. VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Whitsler, H. Hoggestuen, Wm. Schaelen N. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. Other teas and imitations are sold on such package. Rocky Mountain Tea is sold only in 35 cent packages. Never sold in bulk or by the pound. Incorporated 1901. Ask your druggist.

OUT THEY GO
Northern Pacific Railway
NORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has rich black loam soil on clay foundation, producing heavy crops—corn, oats, potatoes. Good water at depth of 30 to 50 feet. Where Coal is Free. Flooring and lumber cheap. Some improved farms for sale on crop payments. Prices, terms, descriptive pamphlet and map free. Greatest bargains ever offered. Greatest chance to get Homestead adjoining. 6,000 people now in county. Healthful climate. Write for maps and facts.
Lyon, Brown & Co.
Mandan, N. Dak., or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

FARM AND GARDEN

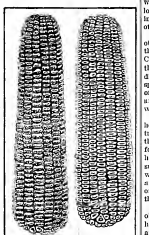
SEED CORN.

Home Grown Seed—How to Select It. Typical Ears.

From experiment and careful study the Iowa experiment station finds:

First.—That it is very important that we should depend upon home grown seed for the main part of the crop and not upon imported seed.

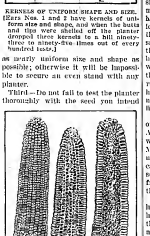
Second.—That we should select ears of corn for seed which have kernels of



KERNELS OF UNIFORM SHAPE AND SIZE. (Ears Nos. 1 and 2 have kernels of uniform size and shape, and when the husks and tips were shelled off the planter would drop the kernels in a hill absolutely free from—five times out of every hundred times.)

as nearly uniform size and shape as possible, otherwise it will be impossible to secure an even stand with any planter.

Third.—Do not fail to test the planter thoroughly with the seed you intend



DEPTH OF KERNELS.
(The kernels on ear No. 1 are nearly the same depth from tip to butt, while the kernels on ear No. 2 grow rapidly shorter toward the tip. The kernels on ear No. 3 are deep at the tip and short, while large kernels of good depth and shape run through the planter about the middle. When these ears were carefully shelled together and tested in the planter, there was a range of all the way from two to seven kernels per hill.) to use and star with it until it drops regularly the number of kernels required in each hill.

Fourth.—Test the vitality or germinating power of all corn intended for seed. This is especially important this year.

Fifth.—In case any seed corn is purchased from seedsmen insist on having it shipped to you in the ear, either in crates or in barrels.

Why Ben Davis Still Flourishes.

While people are condemning the Ben Davis and wondering why it is still planted in this country to the exclusion of other and better apples, we always remember what David Brothers said of it: "It is not an apple, although it may continue all the good qualities of a dozen of the best varieties, can hope to be popular if it is not real—the public will have none of it. It is large, fine looking and if brushed the spot turns corky instead of decaying. The tree comes into bearing early, is hardy and rarely fails to yield a good crop. A given number of Ben Davis trees in a certain period will give a much larger money return than any other variety. True, it sells for only about half what that queen of beauty, the Jonathan, brings, but then we have the Ben Davis to sell nearly every year, while the others are uncertain quantities. So long as the public demands it and ignores quality why should the fruit grower try to cultivate its taste at his own expense?"—Field and Farm.

Rape as a Secondary Crop.

When rape is grown as a secondary or catch crop, it will not often be possible to pay much attention to the preparation of the soil and the time and method of seeding, and the quantity of seed used may be varied to suit the circumstances. Often fine rape may be grown on land that has already produced a crop of some of the early maturing cereals, such as rye, oats or barley. As soon as the crop of grain is removed the land is plowed or disked and a crop seeded to rape. Field peas and other early maturing forage crops or rye or winter oats that have been pastured off in spring may also be followed by rape with profitable results. Each year finds the area in which rape is grown extended until now it includes much of the spring wheat region of the northwest, where it is grown chiefly as a catch crop after spring grain.

THE ORIGINAL HORSE.

Five Toed, Monkey Toothed and About the Size of a House Cat.

In a paper prepared by W. D. Matthews, associate curator of paleontology in the American Museum of Natural History at New York, an interesting account is given of the origin of the horse. Mr. Matthews says that the earliest known ancestors of the horse were small animals not larger than the domestic cat, with four complete toes on each forefoot and three on each hind foot. There is reason to believe that the still more ancient ancestors of this and all other mammals had five toes on each foot. The teeth were short crowned and covered with low, rounded knobs of enamel, suggesting those of monkeys and of pigs or other omnivorous animals.

The horse is distinguished from all other animals now living by the fact that it has but one toe on each foot. Comparison with other animals shows that this toe is the third or middle digit on the foot. The hoof corresponds to the nail of a man or the claw of a dog or cat and is broadened out to afford a strong support on which the whole weight of the animal rests.

"In the series of ancestors of the horse," writes Mr. Matthews, "we can trace every step in the evolution of these curious peculiarities of teeth and feet which distinguish the modern horse from an ancestor which so little suggests a horse that when its remains were first found forty years ago the animal was named by the great paleontologist Richard Owen the hyracotherium, or 'coneylike beast.'"

A picture shows a restoration of the oldest known ancestor of the modern horse. It was only sixteen inches high and had four toes on each foot. The skeleton is mounted in the American museum. All the remains of native horses that have been found in America have been petrified, showing that they had been buried for many thousands of years. Mr. Matthews states that all these horses became extinct both in North and South America. Why we do not know. The competition with the bison and the antelopes which had recently infested N America may have made it more difficult than formerly for the American horse to get a living.

The wild horse at present is found only on the desert plains of central Asia and Africa. There are no true wild horses in America or Australia. Mr. Matthews points out, because the mustangs and broncbos are domesticated animals run wild and are descended from the horses brought over from Europe by the early white settlers.

The great increase in the size of the horse, Mr. Matthews argues, would hand in hand with the evolution of the plains themselves. At the commencement of the age of mammals the western part of the North American continent was by no means as high above sea level as now. The climate at that time was probably very moist, warm and tropical, there was a dense forest growth, and to those conditions the animals of the beginning of the mammalian period must have been adapted.

During the tertiary the continent was steadily rising above the ocean level, and at the same time other influences were at work to make the climate continually colder and drier. The cooling on of a cold, dry climate reduced the rainfall and thinned the forests and caused the appearance and extension of open, grassy plains.

RESTORATION OF FOUR TOED HORSE.

The ancient forest inhabitants were forced either to retreat and disappear with the forests or to adapt themselves to the new conditions of life. The ancestors of the horse, following the latter course, changed with the changing conditions.

At the end of the age of mammals the continents stood at a higher elevation than at present, and there was a broad land connection between Asia and North America, as well as those now existing. At this time the horse became cosmopolitan and inhabited the plains of all the great continents except Australia.

A Practical Point.

Slightly moistten commercial fertilizers before using them on a windy day. This will prevent no inconsiderable loss as the finer particles of available plant food may be frequently blown long distances. This is a practical point of great importance, remarks American Agriculturist.

News and Notes.

A "corner in fruit" or monopoly of the currant trade of Greece by English capitalists is now projected.

Within the past few years there has been a remarkable increase in the production of lemons in Michigan.

The American contributions to the Finland famine fund, amounting to $125,000, are believed to have averted a large mortality.

The American Grocer estimates the annual consumption of coffee in the United States at 1,468,910,304 gallons valued at $140,851,020.

The extreme dependence of Great Britain on supplies of grain from over sea is becoming the subject of serious agitation, with a view to securing a food supply in case of war.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLAY WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save a agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and kept up. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit purchaser. A fine investment can make a "stake" of a thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every line of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,

BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of nutriment apiece. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions the result is to break down health given warning of some serious trouble. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and prevents the break down that strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Confusing.

The lecturers are always telling about the early bird getting the worm, as if it were a moral lesson. But they have nothing to say about the early worm, and how's a fellow to know whether he will be the early worm or the early bird? Pittsburg Dispatch.

For galls, wounds, sores and diseases of the skin or feet of horses and cattle there is no remedy equal to Cole's Veterinary Carbolatine. Flies will not bother it. Heals while it is used and it positively heals without leaving a scar. Sells factory 50c and $1.00 by all druggists.

Rain-Drops.

A rain-drop one twenty-fifth of an inch in diameter cannot fall at any greater speed than 12 feet in a second. Rain-drops rarely exceed one-eighth of an inch in diameter.

Health is a strong body nourished by pure blood. This will result from taking a few bottles of Cole's Bloodbitter, the pure vegetable blood purifier and nerve tonic. It is all its name implies and it's guaranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

Has Copy of Important Treaty.

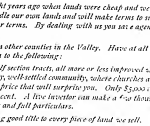
Durwood C. Cain of the United States army, and a son of Representative Cain of Ohio, has the official copy of the treaty between China and Japan after the war of 1894, which he secured in Pekin.

There is no remedy so generally useful as Coles Carbolatine, and thousands of mothers know it. It instantly stops the pain of burns and cuts and heals without scars. Insect bites, plant poisoning, catarrh, inflamed eyes, boils, ulcers and all itching and torturing diseases are quickly relieved and permanently cured by it. Your money back if it fails to satisfy. 25 and 50c by all druggists.

"White" Elephants.

A perfect white elephant is not white, but merely of a lighter hue than ordinary. His eyes are pink, with a yellow iris; his hide a light brown-ish red, and hair red.

Maud—Last night Jack told me that he wouldn't marry the best girl living unless —what—unless she took Rocky Mountain Tea. Sensible fellow. 35c. A. L. Reichert.



THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN
Oil Stove,
Refrigerator or Ice Cream
freezer
You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of
Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages
Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils
FRANK E. HUNT
No trouble to show goods. HARDWARE DEALER.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.

What it Means

to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and with the matchless facility of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.

Best terms and lowest rates on farm loans. List your farms with us.

Possibilities in Advertising.

The man who thinks satisfactory ads can be dashed off in a few minutes at any time thereby proves that he has no comprehension of the immense possibilities of good advertising—Advertising Experience.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

Jim Dumps had scarcely slept a wink
All night he'd toss about and think.
But that's all past—he'll no'er endure
Insomnia. He's found a cure!
'Tis "Force." At night, when tired to rest,
It smokes the nerves of "Sunny Jim."

"Force"

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal makes one chummy with good sleep.

Wouldn't Believe at First.
"I wouldn't believe it till I tried it, but 'Force' is a cure for insomnia. I used to stay awake night after night. Now I eat a saucerful of 'Force' just before going to bed, and sleep and I become chummy right off. Mrs. L. Evans."

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papeteries
Tablets
Letter Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Galling Cards
Card Racks
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office . . . . . Supplies . . . . . .

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be Satisfactory

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Evening at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

A PRESS band contest is to be one of the features of the Minneapolis carnival. Big money is up in six prizes, twin city bands not being permitted to compete.

THE Wadena Pioneer Journal says one cannot help but admire the nerve of the Prohibitionists. They have recently nominated a complete ticket down in Kentucky, a state which is famous for everything but its devotion to the prohibition cause.

PAUL BOURET, the French author, traveler, newspaperman and lecturer, who was better known by his pen name, Max O'Rell, died in Paris Sunday. Mr. Blouet was a good writer, and has contributed many articles to western newspapers of late years.

THE roosting that the Quay machine and Gov. Pennypacker is getting from the republican and democratic newspapers alike, proves to the Pennsylvania bosses that it is impossible to muzzle the independent press by any libel law their ingenuity can invent or their partisan malice execute.

IT is now stated that Dewey didn't say: "You can fire when you're ready, Gridley." Coming so soon after the discovery that the future father of his country did not chop down the cherry tree, and that William Tell did not shoot the apple it is difficult to see how the country can stand the shock.

THE "lily whites" have been defeated in Alabama, and the "black and tans" will be at the next republican national convention with the same old delagation for sale. Mr. Roosevelt's negro policy will avail him naught if some man is there who wants the nomination and has the coin in his pocket.

IF a merchant has five hundred customers it stands to reason that he can get more. Expansion comes by intelligent use of methods. Good newspaper advertising is the power that makes the merchant princes of the small retailers every year. The customers want to know what you

SHYLOCK

Shylock was the man who wanted a pound of human flesh. There are many Shylocks now, the convalescent, the consumptive, the sickly child, the pale young woman, all want human flesh and they can get it—take Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion is flesh and blood, bone and muscle. It feeds the nerves, strengthens the digestive organs and they feed the whole body.

For nearly thirty years Scott's Emulsion has been the great giver of human flesh.

We will send you a couple of ounces free.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

have to offer them, and it is up to you to give them what they desire. The wise merchant increases his business by a judicious use of advertising space, and the intelligent farmer saves money by watching that space.

UNCLE SAM has inaugurated a new kind of gift entreprise. He is giving away trees—young seedlings of improved varieties—and is starting in to distribute them broadcast all over the country. A building in the rear of the Department of Agriculture has been set aside for the purpose, with a force of men to pack the trees, some of which are simply tied up in small tin cylinders. Special attention is paid to nut trees, with a view to encouraging the cultivation of improved varieties of the pecan, the Persian walnut, and certain other kinds of walnuts from Japan.

OFFICIAL returns from 38 state conventions of Modern Woodmen show 355 of 420 delegates elected to the head camp are instructed in favor of the rate re-adjustment. The plan proposed and the most favored by the 355 delegates is to raise the lowest rate of assessment to 55 cents on each $1,000 and the highest rate to about $1.75 for each $1,000 of insurance carried, having twelve assessments a year, in order to create a reserve fund. If at any time the twelve assessments are needed to pay death claims, five cents is to be added to the assessment on each $1,000 to keep this reserve fund growing.

AN entomologist estimates that bugs cost this country about $250,000,000 a year. The grasshopper eats up $80,000,000 worth of vegetation if he is feeling well, the Hessian fly $90,000,000 chinch bugs $10,000,000 and the potato bug $8,000,000 worth. Tobacco worms, moth, squash bugs, beetles, etc., make up the rest. Entomologists have been studying the problem of bug destruction for many years but progress toward the desired end is not as rapid as it should be. Bugs have large families and become grandparents in a degree exceedingly short time. Even with the known and proved methods of destruction it is hard to keep up with them.

A GOOD many people had serious doubts about the wisdom of pardoning Cole Younger, and subsequent events have demonstrated that such doubts were well founded, says the Lakefield Standard. Not only has he violated his promise not to engage in show business, but he is now engaged in the publication of an autobiography, the prospectus of which has just been received at this office; and if we are to judge of the book by the advertisement it is certainly not one which law-abiding citizens will permit their boys to read. A book which exalts a criminal to a hero—especially when the writing is done by the criminal himself—cannot have a good effect on the youthful mind. The pardon of Cole Younger was serious mistake.

TROUBLE "FOLLOWS THE FLAG."

The smuggling scandals in Porto Rico furnish a disheartening comment upon the lofty purpose with which the American people entered upon the momentous experiment of insular expansion. Easily, carelessly, lighthartedly they "took up the white man's burden" of showing the darker man in the tropics how to live, says the New York World. He was to be regenerated by force of daily examples of right conduct and pure government furnished by a people which had not itself learned to do without its Quays and its Platts, its Crokers and its Murphys.

Five years have passed and a native Porto Rican—one of those who welcomed our troops to his island with cheers and garlands and waving banners—can point to our flag with the sneer: "It protects the man with a pull."

The poor Porto Rican smuggles at risk of a term in prison. The army or navy officer openly boasts that the wine on his mess table has paid no duty; it is landed in large quantities by the case. The pressure of Washington officialism is applied not to punish guilty men but to compel the local courts to let them off on pain of the withholding of the promised naval station for San Juan. An editor, an American, serves 18 months in jail for publishing news of the smuggling, is sent to jail for five days for criticising the administration of "justice." And the World's special correspondent's comment upon all this is:

"The ugliest feeling that has prevailed in Porto Rico since the American invasion has been aroused by the arbitrary measures taken by the Washington and insular governments to secure immunity for those smugglers, and this feeling has been intensified by the resigning of John S. Herd, chief of the Internal Revenue Bureau, who ordered the prosecution of Capt. Dunlap, Robert Giles and Capt. Mentz.

"With the postoffice department in such bad condition as it has not been since the star route frauds, with trouble following the flag across the seas to south and west, with department officials in Washington trying to "hush up" misdoing instead of punishing the guilty, it is high time for President Roosevelt to forego the pleasures of travel and speech making and trend himself to a few days of the duties of the "strenuous life" in the new executive offices of the White House—with axe and a broom!"

The State Press.

Windom Citizen: A town can get along without a fire engine, a street sprinkler, an opera house, electric lights and water works better than it can get along without public spirit. Give us a town made up with citizens with no public spirit whatsoever and we will trade off a graveyard for it and ask nothing to boot. Public spirit is to a town what blood is to the human body. Without it you have paralysis and atrophy to trade.

Adrian Guardian: Nearly one fourth of all the men who enlisted for the war with Spain have already put in applications for pensions and hundreds of claims are pouring in daily. The old saying "Three moves are equal to a fire" may be altered to read: "A starvation would better be licked once than saved thrice." Another war or two in this generation would mean almost national bankruptcy.

Lake City Republican: Samuel Pulleton has been reinstated as the executive agent of the game and fish commissioners and will continue to draw his salary while a large number of fishermen will continue to draw their nets.

St. Peter Free Press: Van Sant's vice-presidential boomlet, so elaborately set in motion a few months ago was broken all to pieces, so it is reported, because of an overzealous act on the part of President Roosevelt's head waiter to provide for a plate for the governor on the president's lunch counter. The waiter should be discharged instanter.

Encampment at Bemidji.

The eighteenth annual encampment of the Park Region association G. A. R., will be held at Bemidji July 21, 22, 23 and 24. H. W. Bailey is the department commander and has about completed the details.

There will be music by bands, drum corps, and vocal quartettes, parades, speeches, camp fires, athletic events, aquatic sports, excursion on the lake, blueberring parties and drives. The occasion will be graced by the presence of Governor Van Sant and members of his staff, Senators Nelson and Clapp, Congressmen-elect Halvor Steneson and Major Pickler, of South Dakota, and others.

A Little Early Riser

now and then at bedtime will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the famous little pills that cure by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach and liver that the cause of trouble is removed entirely, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the complaint. Sold by A. J. Reichert.

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

United States to Mati Patnode, se qr 17-157-43..... Patent

Geo. Purvis to Robt. Purvis, e hf nw qr, and lots 1 and 2, 11-157-43..$2,200

Kobt. H. Purvis to C. M. LaDue, same..... 3,318

O. I. Hubbard to B. B. Plummer, ne qr s hf nw qr sw qr nw qr 11-157-45..... 560

Isaac W. Smith et al. to J. M. Spossel, lot 18, block 13, original Thief River Falls..... 50

Agnes Peasmaier to Jacob Klousner, nw qr 9-152-42..... 3,200

Louis H. Brosemer et al to Rufus Romine et al., w hf 31-152-41.... 210

Vital Lapierre to Robert Carlisel, s 75 ft of lots 1, 3 and 5, block 3, C. & D.'s addition, and other lands..... 50

Jas. G. Brady to Ezzie V. Lawton, lots 20 and 21, block 83, Kretsch addition Red Lake Falls..... 75

Hans T. Grive to Nils T. Gisle, hf sw qr 11-152-46..... 1,120

Matt Barnes to C. A. Foller, lots 17 and 18, block 10, Knox's addition Red Lake Rapids..... 180

Christine Mattson to John LeLage, lots 11, 15 and 16, blk 9, Knox's addition, Red Lake Rapids..... 500

Celina Robillard to Ed L. Healy, s hf ne qr se qr nw qr and lot 2 18-150-45..... 3,800

Nels J. Werner to Merchants State bank, ne qr 13-151-41..... 155

Louis Alstadt to M. Z. Sortedahl, lots 18 and 20, block 20, Kretschmais' addition, Red Lake Falls..... 500

P. G. Cornell to Harvey Parrault, se hf sw qr 20-151-41..... 2,000

Harvey Parrault to N. E. Gauss, same..... 1

D. B. Johnson to C. H. Stephens, nw qr 23-152-44..... 375

Laura Bellefeuille to Henry J. Ebele, sw qr 31-153-43..... 2,200

Geo. L. Cheadle to H. P. Jacobson and Hermes Skrivseth, e hf sw qr and w hf se qr 1, and e hf nw qr, and w hf ne qr 12-151-41..... 6,720

John A. Duffy to H. H. Jacobson, nw qr 25-152..... 2,800

Anton Skog to C. E. Liden, lot 9, block 8, Meehan's addition, Thief River Falls..... 100

Anton Skog to H. C. Liden, lot 10, block 8, Meehan's addition, Thief River Falls..... 125

From a Cat Scratch

on the arm, to the worst sort of a burn, sore or boil, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a quick cure. In buying Witch Hazel Salve, be particular to get DeWitt's—this is the salve that has been without leaving a scar. A specific for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles. Sold by A. Reichert.

$10.00—From Cicego to Boston and Return—$19.00.

Via Nickel Plate road, account meeting of Christian Scientists, June 26th-July 1st. Tickets on sale June 24th, 26th and 27th, with open return limit of June 28th. By depositing ticket with joint agent in Boston on or before 2d, 3rd or 4th, and payment of fee of 50c, extended limit until August 1st can be obtained. Stop-over at Niagara Falls, in either direction, without extra fare. No excess fare charged on any of our trains. Three trains daily. Through vestibuled sleeping cars. American club meals in dining cars on Nickel Plate road, also meals a la carte. Address John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for reservation of sleeping car space and other information.

Lakes are Full of Bass.

The season of fishing for bass will open May 29, this year, instead of June 15, so as to accommodate those who wish to fish on Memorial day. The state game and fish commission announces that the water in the northwest is generally high, that they are well stocked with fish and that the season promises to furnish excellent fishing.

Minnesota has the best bass lakes in the Northwest. Otter Tail county alone has 115 lakes, many of which are well stocked with bass. Cruer Wing has ninety-three, Cass sixty-four, Stearns thirty-seven, Todd thirty-four, Meeker thirty and Douglas sixty.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt of No. Mahoopany, Pa., made a startling test, resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes "a patient was attacked with violent stomachroubles, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 12 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and kidney troubles. Try them; only 50c at Schreiter's.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $60 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

A Sure Thing.

It is said nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. H. VanMeter of Sheperdstown, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grip, pneumonia and consumption. Try it; it's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Trial bottles free. Reg. sizes 50c and $1.

Full line of ledgers, journals and blank books of all kinds at THE COURIER stationery stand.

Many Wolves Killed.

Claims for more than $50,000 in wolf bounties have been submitted to the state auditor since the passage of the law by the last legislature appropriating that amount for that purpose. A total of 3,288 wolves were killed by the persons making the claims.

The claims are for bounties under the old law which the state has not paid for lack of funds. Under the law each full grown female wolf killed between January 1 and June 1 brought $15, while the bounty for a male was $9 and a cub $8. The bounty now is $7.50 for full grown wolves, and $1 for cubs.

Marshall county heads the list with 351. Howe to, Otter Tail, Polk, Red Lake, Beltrami and Hubbard counties come next in order.

The X-Rays.

Recent experiments, by practical tests and examination with the aid of the X-Rays, establish it as a fact that catarrh of the stomach is not a disease of itself, but that it results from repeated attacks of indigestion. "How can I cure my indigestion?" Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is curing thousands. It will cure sour stomach, indigestion and dyspepsia, and prevent or cure catarrh of the stomach. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

Girl Wanted

Good girl wanted for general housework. Good wages. Apply to L. A. Dautremont.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
COUNTY OF RED LAKE. }

In District Court, Fourteenth Judicial District.
Elbor Haney, plaintiff, vs. Edward Haney, defendant.

State of Minnesota to the above named defendant:

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the above entitled action, which complaint is filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county and state aforesaid, and serve a copy thereof on the subscriber at his office in the city of Red Lake Falls, county of Red Lake, and state of Minnesota, within thirty days after the service of this summons upon you, and if you fail to answer said complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint herein.

Attorney for Plaintiff, Red Lake Falls, Minn. Dated May 19th, 1903. May 21

It's All the Weat..

That's Fit to Eat....

Mascot

"A Pure Flour"

Sweet, Pure and Wholesome

That's why MASCOT flour is so hard to beat.

Don't take our word for it, but try a sample order and be convinced that it is the best flour on the market today. We have been testing flour for years and have found a brand that came so near our idea of the best. The quality is always uniform and it is equally good for bread, pastry and cake. Try it and see.

RED LAKE FALLS MILLING CO.

To Cure a Cold in One Day
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets.
Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months.
This signature, E. W. Grove
Cures Grip in Two Days.
on every box. 25c.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete Line of Jewelry. Silverware. Watches. Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

Mrs. P. Olson was down from St. Hilaire on a shopping tour Tuesday.

A new sign adorns the entrance to the Bourdon Lean agency office.

Phil Zeh was down from Thief River Falls Monday between trains.

Full cream cheese, as long as it lasts, 10c per pound. At Fortier's.

Full cream cheese, as long as it lasts, 10c per pound. At Fortier's.

Saturday has its usual quota at Bargains in Bangs Co's. grocery depart.

Some of the younger generation gave a dance at the opera house Friday evening.

H. Martinson of Ralston, this state, was look over this part of the country Saturday.

Frank Jeffers talked insurance to the St. Hilaire people Tuesday and Wednesday.

Joseph Miller and family spent Sunday at the home of Joe's parents south of town.

James McIntyre, the Thief River legal light, was a professional caller here yesterday.

A representative of the Hitchcock & Keating music house was over Crookston Monday.

Ole Larson, a prominent farmer and politician was a visitor at the county seat Monday.

Frank E. Hunt went to the twin cities last evening for a business sojourn of several days.

S. A. Swanson is showing a party of southern Minnesota citizens over Red Lake county today.

Municipal Judge J. M. Bishop honored the county seat with a visit between trains Tuesday.

W. A. Schreiner and Attorney Boughton drove to Crookston Tuesday on a business mission.

County Surveyor W. C. Smiley was a professional visitor at this place Friday and Saturday.

Will Holberg was called to Grand Forks again by a telegram announcing that his mother was worse.

M. E. Sortedahl left again Monday for a trip to different parts of the sate looking for land buyers.

Deforest Bucklen, a well-known Crookston attorney, is very ill with pneumonia at his home in that city.

Arthur Heath of Marshall, Minn., is in the city this week a party of landseekers for the Swanson agency.

P. H. Gauss drove to Wylie yesterday and from there showed a party of landseekers over Red Lake county.

We have had our state chemist analyze Home Brand pure foods to the careful housekeeper.—Bangs & Co.

W. H. Reker, a Crookston real estate man, was the guest of his cousin, E. H. Dreveskracht, Monday.

Bandmaster Reagen was here again yesterday. The "P" line is getting considerable attention these day.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Nelson were down from St. Hilaire Monday on a shopping tour, guests at the Buse house.

Leslie C. Williams, of Welcome, this state, arrived today for a few days visit the home of the COURIER foreman.

A booming boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Davison Friday evening. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Herman Wolf, living north of the city, will shortly commence the erection of a commodious residence on his farm.

Hon. Marcus Johnson came up from the cities Monday to look after business matters and visit friends for a few days.

The Surprise Store has another interesting sermon on clothes values in this issue, and quote a list of attractive prices.

The office of Clerk of Court Perrault at the court house is being repapered and painted this week. Nick Eslin is the artist.

The public schools have been holding final examinations this week and will close tomorrow for the summer's vacation.

Ed L. Healy is the possessor of a brand new red running gear spring buggy. It was purchased from the Helm implement house.

D. Connally, a prominent farmer, who resides near Thief River Falls, was a guest of N. W. Tarrant Friday night.

J. B. Armstrong was absent from Friday to yesterday on a business trip to Cass Lake, Bemidji and several other eastern points.

John Peterson, district agent of the State Mutual Hail Insurance company of St. Paul, was over from Crookston on business Monday.

We are showing a full line of summer underwear, all of excellent values. New goods in this line received this week.—Bangs & Co.

We are still selling the best Teas and Coffees in the Northwest: Primrose package teas and Famous King coffees, we invite a trial.—Bangs & Co.

B. Sivigny, who has been at North Yakima, Washington, for the past three months is expected home some time the last of this week or first of next.

Harry Healy, W. A. McIntyre, H. N. Johnson and H. E. Wyer expect to drive to Crookston Saturday to see the Winnipeg-Crookston ball game.

City Clerk Toupin has been adding to the beauty of his residence property this week by building fences and making other improvements.

Contractor W. G. Brown came over from Crookston and spent Sunday with his family. He is engaged in building a large flouring mill at that place.

Messrs. and Mesdames Milberg and Swanson drove to St. Hilaire Sunday and spent the day with friends, incidentally attending the ball game.

Nels Christianson, a prominent farmer of Lambert township, was a caller at this office Monday. He reports crop prospects excellent in his locality.

E. N. Keser left Monday for Devils Lake, N. D., where he will work at his trade during the coming season. His family will remain here for the present at least.

Jens Nelson, the St. Hilaire druggist, passed through town this week on his way to Mentor. He is considering the advisability of putting in a drug stock at that place.

Clerk of Court Perrault has issued marriage licenses to Anton Stalwick and Ida Bjerg of St. Hilaire, and J. A. Walker and Minnie Short of Equality during the past week.

According to the usual custom the members of the G. A. R. attended church in a body Sunday—this year at St. Mary's, where Father Charles delivered an appropriate and pleasing address.

The teachers of the various grade schools will leave for their respective homes at the close of school, some leaving Saturday, while others will remain until after the commencement exercises.

Wm. Schwalm left Monday for a weeks or ten days' trip to points in central and southern Minnesota, where he will appoint agents and look after business for the Toupin & Schwalen Land company.

The following letters remain unclaimed in the Post office at Red Lake Falls for the week ending May 23: Christina Kelemenhaggen; Thomas Bailey, E. C. Burgess L. T. Clark, D. B. Kelley.

The family of George Stoll will leave Monday next for Missoula, Mont., where they will make their home in the future. Mr. Stoll went there some time since and has secured employment.

George McConnell came over from Crookston to spend Sunday with his family. Mr. McConnell spends considerable time at Crookston these days overseeing the construction of the new Johnson flouring mill.

The Crookston Times says that the Duluth Corrogating and Roofing company has recently received a contract for steel walls and ceiling for a Catholic cathedral to be built at Terrechouse, near Red Lake Falls.

Mrs. William Murphy spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kaufer. She returned to her Thief River home Monday, her mother accompanying her for a few days stay.

This section was favored with a bounteous downpour of rain last Saturday morning, probably the hardest so far this season. As a result crops are looking elegant throughout this part of the valley.

We have a number of broken lines of shoes; just one, two or three pairs of a kind; these we are closing out this week at a great reduction in price. If you can find your size we can assure you bargains.—Bangs & Co.

Landlord Wittles, of the new Palace has hess busy getting things in shape this week, and will open to the public Sunday. Mr. Wittles intends to conduct a first class hotel, and should receive his share of the trade.

Editor P. A. Kaufer and family expect to leave the first of next week for a three months' trip to the coast states. He has engaged a man from Wisconsin to take charge of his paper during his absence.

Rev. Father Charles of Thief River Falls occupied the pulpit at St. Mary's Sunday, and his discourses were listened to by large numbers. The reverend gentleman is a pleasing speaker and has many friends here.

The Northern Pacific railroad will sell excursion ticket at one and one-third fare to Park Rapids, on account of the Firemen's tournament and Woodmen picnic to be held June 23 to 26, inclusive. Apply to agents for particulars.

The first of the big Clearwater log drive reached the city yesterday morning, and from now on to the middle of July the river will be full of logs. The Red Lake river drive is generally about a month behind the Clearwater.

Carl and Anton Schusser, Fred Richards, M. T. Whittemore, Harry Healy and Adelard Lemieux formed a party of enthusiastic "fans" who attended the ball game between St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls at the former city Sunday.

Mrs. Jacob Brown and daughter left Monday for their home at New Bedford, Conn., after visiting here and at Thief River Falls for a couple of weeks. Mrs. Brown is an uncle of Adam Zeh and they were guests at his home while here.

The glorious fourth of July is on its way and the usual question, "Are we to celebrate?" is now in order. If Red Lake Falls intends to observe the nation's birthday this year isn't it about time some move was made in that direction?

The Red Lake Falls orchestra will furnish the music for the commencement exercises, which is a guarantee that it will be above the ordinary. This organization is by far the best the city ever had and should be given enthusiastic support.

Wm. Lennon came over from Crookston Friday and spent Sunday with his wife, who has been visiting at the home of her father, B. Schusser, for some time past. Mr. Leanon is well known here and was warmly greeted by his old-time friends.

Messrs. Belair & Cyr have purchased a merry-go-round outfit of Olson Bros., of Lambert township, and are setting it up on the vacant lot east of Thos. Germo's house on Third street. They expect to operate it at different points in the valley during the season.

Rev. Father Guillot of Marshall this state, arrived in the city Wednesday morning for a visit with Father Fayolle, L. P. Berthon and other friends in and about town. The reverend gentleman has visited the city on several former occasions and has many admirers here.

Treasurer Thadberg reports that real estate taxes have been coming in steadily during the past month, and are fairly well paid up. But two more days remain before a ten per cent penalty will be added, and if you haven't your tax receipt tucked away in your inside pocket you had better make a bee line for the treasurer's office.

Henry Kellar had the misfortune to receive a severe injury to one of his hands Saturday morning. He was winding up the peanut rooster at Allard's confectionery when the spring slipped and tore a large gash in the fleshy part of the hand near the thumb. Dr. Wilkinson dressed the wound and he is back at his old stand.

The new street sprinkler purchased by the city some time ago arrived Tuesday and will be set up and put in operation at once. The tank will hold about fifty barrels and is large enough to more than keep down of the dust on Main street. The outfit cost $70 and the council should be commended for making the purchase.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company expect to shut down their mill the 28th of June, at which time Mr. Eastman, the Litchfield contractor, will move it to its new site, directly east of where it now stands. Numerous improvements will be made in the interior of the mill and it is not definitely know how long a time will be required for the work.

Morton McKnight and H. H. Chandler were in from Poplar River Saturday on business at the court house, and found time to pay THE COURIER a pleasant visit. Both of these gentlemen are former Nobles county residents and are emphatic in their praise of this section of the country. They report crops in their neighborhood looking fine, and say prospects were never better for a bounteous yield.

Red Lake Falls had a distinguished visitor Monday in the person of Judge Ell Torrance of Minneapolis, who was commander-in-chief of the Grand Army during the year 1902. Mr. Torrance was here on private business, and expressed himself as pleased with our prosperous looking city. He was a guest at the home of Cashier J. A. Duffy during his stay here.

The street commissioner has had a crew of men and the grader at work on Main street, between Second and Third, this week. The low places have all been filled in and the grader has done excellent work in smoothing it down. Street Commissioner Buse is doing much to beautify the city these days, and his work should receive the warm approval of the citizens.

C. F. Elvidge was in for an hour or so Monday and took out more material for the elegant set of buildings he is erecting on his farm. He is one of the recent additions to Red Lake county's farming population, and is making extensive improvements on his farm. Besides a house he will build a barn and a complete set of out buildings, and when completed will have one of the finest places in the valley.

Chas. Boughton and W. A. Schreiner were at Crookston Tuesday attending to matters in the case of the City of Thief River Falls vs. John Hooring. The case is in regard to the foreclosing of mortgage on the dam at Thief River Falls, and the hearing was postponed until the 30th of June. Mr. Boughton represents Hooring, while Messrs. Miller and McIntyre are attorneys for the city.

Mrs. Elvidge and Mrs. John E. King left Friday for Minneapolis, and on Saturday joined the editorial association on its annual excursion. The trip this year takes them to Washington, D. C., and this week is spent there, the party visiting all the noted points in and around that city, and returning to Minneapolis Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. King will step off at their old home in Illinois and spend a week before returning.

Wm. Elvidge came up from Burt, Iowa, last Wednesday and remained until Monday, looking after business matters and visiting his brother, C. F. Mr. Elvidge purchased the west half of section 10, Red Lake Falls township, last fall of the Healy agency and says he could hardly be induced to part with it now. He will probably move up within the next year and become a permanent fixture in this hustling county.

Mrs. G. C. Engerman returned Monday from a visit with friends at Crookston, and the same afternoon received a telegram announcing the death of her mother, Mrs. Johnson, at Redwood Falls. Mrs. Engerman left on the evening train for that place to attend the funeral. She will have the sympathy of the community in her bereavement.

A. Tremblay, who has conducted the bakery in the room just south of Anderson's jewelry store for the past four months, packed up his stock Monday and shipped it to Argyle where he has purchased and will conduct a like institution. This is the second or third unsuccessful attempt to run a bakery here, and it is to be regretted that it cannot be made profitable investment.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company will commence the erection of their large new elevator next week, and will push it to completion as rapidly as possible. The site for the new building is just south of the mill and it is the intention of the company to make it large enough to cover their needs for a long time to come. The contract has not been let as yet, but will be awarded within a day or two.

Rev. C. Nauman's meetings at the K. of P. hall Sundays are very well attended each week. The congregational singing is inspiring, the male quartet being enthusiastically received by the large audience last Sunday. The congregation voted to organize a Sunday school and next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the first Sunday school will be held. Everyone is invited to attend. Preaching services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

County Surveyor Smiley this week surveyed a new road northeast of this city that will mean much to the residents of western Gervais and eastern Red Lake Falls. The new road will make the distance to market considerable shorter, the former road being a roundabout one in order to reach this city. Work on the newly surveyed highway will be commenced at once.

Mahara's ministrels gave an entertainment at the Motropolitan Saturday to probably the largest crowd that has ever assembled in that hall. The show came up to the fullest expectations and pleased the audience immensely. Mahara, like all minstrel shows, carries a first-class band and orchestra, and the concert by the band on their arrival was something above the average.

The store of Garemo & Zaiser has been an active place this week, people coming from miles around to take advantage of the special sale this firm advertised last week in THE COURIER. Red Lake Falls merchants give better values for the money invested than can be obtain elsewhere in the neighboring territory. The COURIER advertising columns always contain announcements of these sales and should be closely read by seekers after bargains.

Crookston Times: Dr. Dunlop returned yesterday morning from Pembroke, Ontario, where he was unexpectedly called by the death of his mother. On arrival at the old home he found his father in an unconscious condition from which it was impossible to revive him. His death followed within a short time after the doctor's arrival. Death in the latter case was produced by inability to withstand the terrible bereavement, as both the doctor's parents were very nearly 90 years old.

The advance man of the Gollmar Bros. circus and menagerie was here yesterday and made arrangements for dates for his show. The advertising car will be along tomorrow and the billing will be done, the show being hooked here for Saturday June 13. Gollmar Bros. have a reputation throughout Minnesota as one of the cleanest shows on the road, and Red Lake Falls people can rest assured that no grafters or other skin games are connected with them. Gollmar Bros. have pleased circus-goers for a long number of years and give the best of satisfaction wherever they go.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of warnout tissue. This waste cannot be replished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform its functions the strength lets down, brain, gives way and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

A Big Bargain

Combination Book Case and Writing Desk. Sale Price,

Only $11.75.

Anderson & Healy

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL FULLY PAID

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:

A. P. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT. THEO. LABISSONIERE, VICE-PRESIDENT. J. A. DUFFY, CASHIER. P. F. GOUDIET, ASST. CASHIER. DARIUS COLE, C. H. BOUGHTON, A. G. GILBERT, CHAS. H. BOUGHTON, J. A. DUFFY, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE

Fated

To Die of Paralysis Like Father.

Helpless Invalid For Three Years.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Made My Nerves Strong.

"For many years I suffered from terrible headaches and pains at the base of the brain, and finally got so bad that I was overcome with nervous prostration. I had frequent dizzy spells and was so weak and exhausted that I could not do my housework. The physicians told me I could not live; that I would die of paralysis, as my father and grandfather had. I remained a helpless invalid for three years, when I heard of Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies and began using it. That winter I felt better than I had before in many years, and I have not been troubled with those dreadful headachesince I first used Dr. Miles' Nervine and Nerve Tonic. My appetite is good and my nerves are strong." MRS. ANNA SCHMIDT, 2920 Oakland Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

"For many years I suffered from nervous prostration, and could not direct my hand to hold alfalfa, nor have any cares. My stomach was very weak, headaches very severe, and I was so nervous that there was not a night in years that I slept over one hour at a time. My great benefits of daily sleep and rest I owe entirely to Dr. Miles' Nervine." CHARLES SPERLING, Retired Merchant.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on this plan: If the first bottle benefits you, your druggist will supply you another on this condition; otherwise he need not trouble us at all. Usually, however, it takes two bottles to effect a cure. Dr. Miles' Nervine is a remedy that cures when all other remedies fail. Sold by druggists everywhere. Book on nerves sent free. Address DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. BRICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, La Grippe, Fever, Pleurisy, LaGrippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

SURE. - NO PAY.

Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.

RED LAKE FALLS.

No.	WEST BOUND	ARRIVE	DEPART
No. 15	Mixed for Fertile and Grand Forks.....	7:05 a m	7:45 a m
	EAST BOUND
No. 16	Mixed for Grand Forks to Fertile.....	5:45 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. MIZEN, Agent.

IN THE LAND of DREAMS

By LESTER GRAY

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

The setting sun turned through the river mists with lurid smoke. Its lingering splendor silhouetted the drooping figure of the girl on the park bench and revealed pitilessly every line of discouragement and weariness.

The lower river walk was quite deserted, and so she kept her sunset vigil alone.

The day had been stifling. In the busy office the whirring fans had brought no breath of coolness. The keys of her machine had felt hot to her fingers, and the lines of typewriting had danced unwaringly before her eyes. Somehow, with a strength born of the long ago days of childish freedom in field and wood, she had managed to drag through her work. And now the evening found her here, too weary in mind and body to realize that the river breeze was blowing fresh over the city noises were hushed by distance.

Her face was turned toward the western hills already shadowed by the approach of night. Her fevered glance seemed to pass beyond them and see the peaceful valleys where ripening grain murmured in the slight wind, where in the thickets by the splashing brook came the last faint calls of nesting birds and drowsy cattle lay in the lush bottom grass.

The girl saw clearly, for in just such a valley she had once lived. She had waded in that clear brook and laughed joyously at her image mirrored in its flower fringed pools. Hark! That was the note of the whippoorwill. Faint and still more faintly it sounded. The scent of the evening primrose was in the air. Its sweetness was overpowering. Her head fell forward on her breast. She had fainted.

She looked around her dizzily. Her face and hair were wet and her head lay back on a man's arm. Yet she felt neither fear nor surprise. The face of her dream was still upon her, and her lips half parted in a smile.

SHE LAID HER HAND IMPLORINGLY ON HIS ARM.

The head bent gazing down wonderingly.

"Don't be frightened," he said gently. "You were tired and fainted. I was close by and came to you. Rest quietly."

The girl lay back passively. Realities were still dim uncertainties to her; conventionalities but a part of the forgotten best and burden of the day. The moon had risen, and in its white light her small face looked very pure and childish.

After awhile the man spoke again, hesitatingly, apologetically: "I sat down some time ago, but you did not seem to notice me. You were too busy watching the sunset. Your face was transfigured. Where were you then?"

"I was in the land of dreams," she answered softly—"in the land of long ago. It is far away from the hurrying crowds, the noise and the heat of this great city, and there one never knows weariness and heart hunger. I know, for I was there once."

"Why do you not go back?" he asked. "I cannot. Those who loved me and whom I loved are all dead. There is no place for me there."

The light of peace had faded from her face, for a sickening sense of reality had come to her as she spoke. But she had caught the note of bitterness in the man's voice, and now she turned to him, eagerly, gratefully. The moonlight showed a handsome young face, worn and haggard, its beauty dimmed by the too plain marks of dissipation. In the dark eyes was the shadow of despair. But the girl's face only softened into pity.

"Where is your dream country?" she asked wistfully.

He shrank a little from her clear gaze. Then he shrugged his shoulders with reckless nonchalance. "Oh, I am not as lucky as you. I dare not even dream of my country, much less go back." And he laughed bitterly.

"Then you mean you are afraid to go back?"

"Afraid? No!" he cried passionately, as though stung by her words. "I do not wish to go back. What's the use? I have burned my bridges behind me."

She laid her hand imploringly on his arm. "Is there no one left there who loves you," she asked softly—"no one who wants you to come back?"

She almost thought he had not heard the question, he sat so silently looking at the water rippling in the moonlight. Or perhaps he was angry. If she could recall her words.

Suddenly he caught his breath thickly, as if to choke back a sob. "Yes, there is one," he half whispered—"my mother."

Again the silence fell. Then the girl spoke. She did not look at him. He almost had to bend to hear the low monotone of repressed feeling.

"My mother! She has been dead these three months, but I—I did not appreciate her when she was mine. I was dissatisfied with the calm of my quiet country home. I wanted the glitter and the glare of the city. I forgot that she needed me, and I came here. Of course I meant to make a home for her, but that did not come first—no, my own pleasure came first. And when I was gone she faded day by day. I was all she had, so there was no one to tell me. I wrote of gay times in the new city, and she was too loving to worry me with complaints. Then one day the word came she was very ill; I must go to her at once. She had been dead for several hours when I threw myself across her side for. It was too late—too late to hear her dear voice whisper that she had forgiven me."

Great tears were slowly rolling down her cheeks. There were tears in the man's eyes, too, but they shone with the light of new resolution.

"You have taught me your heart to night, little girl," he said huskily, "and I thank you. You have shown me what I must do. I will go back to-night—at once. I will face the shame and live it down for her sake."

The girl had forgotten her own pain in joy for another. His mother would have her own again. She stood up and held out her hand in goodby. She must not keep him a moment. His better self was waiting.

"You will go back and be a man for her sake," she said firmly.

"For her sake," he repeated, "and—for you."

And one day her load of dreams he came reality.

Thrice the Life of a Stag.

Is it true or not true—another curious and current belief—that the raven lives to an immense age, some say to a hundred or even to 200 years? Old Heslod is the father of the belief, and he is supported, more or less, by a host of ancient writers, the elder Pliny, Cicero, Aristophanes, Horace, Ovid and Ar sonius. Popular opinion in modern times quite agrees with them, as expressed in the highland proverb, somewhat modified from Heslod:

Thrice the life of a dog is the life of a horse.

Thrice the life of a horse is the life of a man.

Thrice the life of a man is the life of a stag.

Thrice the life of a stag is the life of a raven.

There cannot be so much smoke without some fire behind it, and I am inclined to think that a raven does live to a great age for a bird and that Lieander's credit for the raven, simonson and Tompson's "many wintered crow" are justified by facts. But the belief in its extreme age rests, I suspect, on one of its most touching characteristics, its intense hereditary attachment to the spot, a particular cliff, a particular grove, a particular tree, where its ancestors, where itself and where its young have been born and bred.—Ellsworth Smith in Nineteenth Century.

Local Critics.

"Local color" is an excellent adjunct to a good story, but it cannot supply the place of incident and character. A young author, now in possession of a promising reputation, has related how this fact was first painfully impressed upon his mind. He had spent the summer in an ancient seaport of New England and desired to introduce its atmosphere of quaint, old fashioned true quality in a story.

He worked hard over it. When the tale was done, it occurred to him to try its effect upon a native resident, a retired sea captain, multiterary, but intelligent.

"Does it seem natural? Is it like the place?"

"Yes, oh, yes," replied the old man promptly. "It's like the place. But seems to me places were made for things, and so I been kind o' wishin' all along for somethin' to be doin', and the first thing that happened was the earth."

Still more crushing was the comment of another local critic who read the story after it was published. Some one asked her if it were not well written.

"Land, yes!" said she. "It's written like real elegant and lifelike as natur', only whatever did he write it for?"

Boats With Glass Bottoms.

Are boats ever built with glass bottoms?

Boats with heavy and slightly magnifying glass bottoms are constantly used by tourists in the lovely Santa Catalina island to visit the famous "blue cavern." The passengers sit around the sides of the boat and can see as they pass or linger over them the brilliant seaweeds, glinting fish and natural wonders of the deep, a veritable fairyland of glow and color, in transparent waters beneath.

Some of the pleasure boats at Nassau, in the Bahamas, are built with similar glass bottoms—that is to say, large pieces of plate glass are let into the lower part of the framework. The water is beautifully transparent, and thus those who glide in them over the surface have full opportunity to enjoy a continuous and enchanting sight through the bottom of the boat of various kinds of coral, sea anemones and sea plants which grow and enrich the ocean floor.

THE FLAG IN BATTLE

WHEN OR WHERE IT WAS FIRST BORNE HISTORY RECORDS NOT.

Its Development From the First Inanimate Object Carried Aloft on a Staff—Dear to the Hearts of Fighters In All Ages and Nations.

Where in the whole world is another thing meaningless in itself that has signified so much and served so greatly in the drama of national life as the flag? asks the London Globe.

One tradition says the Saracens first carried an orthodox standard into battle and thus gave the idea, as they gave so many others, to the crusaders. But obviously the flag is far older than this, and it is interesting to note its development from the first inanimate object borne aloft on a staff so as to be generally visible down to the complicated blazonry of a royal banner in our own age. The Egyptians thus carried before their hosts the figure of a sacred animal on a spear, and the Assyrians, as their carvings tell us, inspired the hopes and centered the attentions of their soldiers in the same way. The royal standard of the Persians for many centuries was a blacksmith's apron, and it is said a local prince in passing a hermit's cell on the way to battle one morning asked the hermit for his blessing or something expressive to put on that artless countenance. The hermit, possibly a little roguish, as even saints will be when disturbed at breakfast time, threw the effective the flat, round cake he was eating, which was duly added to the spear; hence the Persian "aum." The Huns were no civilous afterthought. The Turks used a horse's tail, the rank of a pasha being known by the number of tails he carried, and probably this suggested the much bifurcated persons of early western chivalry, familiar to every one who has studied the Bayeux tapestry or early illuminated missals.

In the middle ages, devoted to display and military arrogance, the flag stood in relationship to the great captain's army as his personal armor stood to himself; it insured recognition in the melee and supplied a rallying point for the fighters such as nothing else could have done. This led to an etiquette of flags which apportioned slope and size to every rank of the peerage, from the royal standard itself down through a varied array of banners, gonfaloons, pennons, ensigns and other "bits of red rag," and kept the heralds' college busy, besides supplying the poets with admirable food for offering for their battle pieces. Does not Scott tell us in some famous lines:

Then first that spotless banner shone,
Lord Howard's ilon fell;
But still Lord Marmion's falcon flew
With wavering flight, while fiercer grew
Around the battle yell.

Here, it will be noted, the whole gist and point of the fight centers in the pennons of the leaders, and of the same vital importance of the flag there are innumerable instances in medieval literature. When the Douglas unfurled his standard at Otterburne—a fine, by the way, which is still in existence—he declared, and thought not without reason, that the mere sight of that famous cloth would put the English host to rout. And even in comparatively modern and prosaic times the belief that a dreaded captain was seen beneath a certain emblem has sufficed to turn the scales of battle.

Thus in the French war of 1797 the French Rear Admiral Sercy when cruising with six frigates in the bay of Ballance in sight of five or our indiamen, one of them the Woodford, Captain Lennox. They were homeward bound and all richly laden, and to all appearance had no chance of escape. When Captain Lennox rescued them by an act of great judgment and presence of mind. He first of all hoisted in his own ship a flag which the French admiral knew well, that of the British Admiral Rainier, blue, at the mizzen, and he made all the merchantmen in the convoy hoist pennants and ensigns to correspond. But he did more. He detached two of the indiamen to chase and reconnoiter the enemy, and on these also he caused to hoist the French reconnoitering frigate, the Cybele, the latter, completely deceived, made all sail to join her consorts, on which the French admiral, believing he was in the presence of a powerful British squadron, made off with his frigates under all sail, and Captain Lennox and his convoy completed their voyage in safety.

The flag indeed preserved its glamour long after the time when it was the exposure of conflict, the emblazoned posture of bravery, as Milton calls it. Napoleon's officers, retreating from Moscow, burned their standards and in the excess of their bitter affection mixed the ashes with wine and drank them as a "toast" to the same in Metz and Sedan, and even today there is probably no soldier in the world who would not die a little more for his colors than for anything else within his marching orders. Even the last generated into all ranks of society. To mill one's colors is the most in the last expression of desperate resolve. Just as to haul them down indicates the abyss of humiliation.

Generous Host.

Tommy—Ma, can I play makin' believe I'm entertainin' another little boy?

Mamma—Yes, dear, of course.

Tommy—Then I might. Gimme some cake for him.—Exchange.

Accomplished.

Ethel—Isn't Judy nervy?

Jayme—Isn't she, though? She tells so much I don't see how she gets time to hear anything.—Detroit Free Press.

Don't think that every sad eyed woman you meet has loved and lost. She may have loved and got him.—Lyre.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes. New Tobaccos. New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshang & Blake, Pres

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

J. M. BRAY.
FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES.
Silkeat Place in Town to Drop in and Get : : :
Fine Cigars
Wines and Liquors.

BREVORT RYE. K. O. R. WHISKEY

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

PREPARED BY
E. C. DEWITT & CO., CHICAGO

Don't Forget the Name,

EARLY RISERS

The Potomac River.

The Potomac river is only 500 miles long, and in its lower course rather an estuary than a stream.

Axle Grease

Guaranteed at

6 Boxes for..... 25c

... At ...

O'Brien Bros.

Popular Hardware Dealers

RED LAKE FALLS.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE AT RESIDENCE, THIRD STREET
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. M. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Office and residence over Holdsworth & Reich 10¢ store.

Telephone Kelcher's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Reprecents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, probating of estates and examination of titles. Offices over Bungs and Co's store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office over Merchants State Bank, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper——

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no points to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Barr's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerrimane's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper.

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

CONSPIRING WITH CUPID

By Epes W. Sargent

Copyright, 1901, by T. C. McClure

As all Branscombe had decided that Charles Schermerhorn was the fit and proper mate for Mabel Howard, that independent young woman properly decided to transfer her somewhat unsettled affections to Frank Caswell. Branscombe folks pointed out that Schermerhorn had been her girlhood's sweetheart, was now well to do, and their union would crown a very pretty little romance.

On the other hand, Caswell was practically a newcomer in the village, having made his advent two years before, when Branscombe arrived at the dignity of supporting a national bank. The directors had brought him up from the city to act as receiving teller and to touch the Branscombe boys how to conduct a bank. He had proceeded to make himself generally liked, and the only thing that could be urged against him was that his very evident fondness for Mabel Howard threatened to destroy a Branscombe romance.

Oddly enough, Caswell and Schermerhorn were the closest of friends. Despite dire predictions of personal encounters nothing marred the course of their friendship, and Schermerhorn seemed to find very satisfying consolation in the company of Grace Payne, Caswell's half sister, who kept house for him.

So matters stood when Anabel McPherson decided to give a Halloween party. Miss McPherson, known as Anabel to the entire village, was old Captain McPherson's daughter, and, inheriting her father's estate, she had become the richest woman in the village. Much given to novel reading, Miss Anabel had never married, fearful that such suitor was seeking her fortune rather than her hand. At forty-two she was still a maid and by no means unattractive woman, with a kindly heart and a head filled with romantic fancies. It was her delight to make the affairs of others her own, and the Halloween party was given for the express purpose of setting matters straight between Schermerhorn and Mabel Howard. Well versed in the superstitious lore of love, she decided that with a little assistance Cupid might get matters in order and send the pair together.

MISS ANABEL BUSIED TO CLOSE THE WINDOW.

Among the tests for the evening Miss Howard had decided upon that of making candles. Different nuances would be given several wax tapers; the last one left burning would indicate the name of each future husband. She used tiny wax tapers, homemade, and by giving one twice as thick a wick as the other she argued that one would burn twice as rapidly, and, thus prepared, in a fever of anticipation she awaited the coming of her guests.

There were the usual tests of suspended apples, dunting apples, popping chestnuts and mirrors. Finally, with great glee, Miss Anabel brought out the two tapers.

"Here's a test for Mabel Howard," she announced ingenuously, for, as mistress of ceremony, she had seen to it that Mabel had taken no prominent part in the earlier tests. "This," she said, as she placed the candle on the table, "I shall name Charles and this," producing the one with the quicker wick—"well, suppose we name it Frank."

Mabel blushed redly at this very pointed allusion, and half started up as though she would leave the room. Caswell laid a detaining hand gently upon her arm.

"Don't," he whispered. "She means well and to leave now would only serve to make a bad matter very much worse." Mabel sank back in her seat, but presently all were crowded around the table where the two candles were burning brightly. Caswell was not superstitious, but the spirit of the hour was upon him and he noted with some concern that his candle was burning away much faster than the other. Miss Anabel noted with pride the appreciating success of her expedient, and, her gentle heart throbbing, she hovered over the candles.

Caswell's candle was now within half an inch of the candlestick, while fully two inches of Schermerhorn's remained. Suddenly a gust of cold air blew in from a window that had just been raised and a moment later some one opened the door in the hall to admit a gust of icy air, and the flames flickered perilously. With a shriek Miss Anabel rushed to close the window, but, as the heavy sash dropped with a bang, an excited clamor arose at the table and she heard with sudden contraction of the heart some one laughingly announce "Caswell wins!"

She made her way to the table, and there, still bursting brightly, but almost consumed, was the candle she had named for Frank, while a smoking wick crowned a full inch of wax on the other.

In an instant a babel of talk arose, and under cover of the excitement poor Miss Anabel stole over to the window seat to get the better of her disappointment.

* * * * *

The quartet whose love affairs were shaking gossipy little Branscome to its very foundations walked home slowly in the crisp autumn moonlight. Caswell bent fondly above Mabel's drooping head.

"I have a confession to make," he said. "It may not have been quite fair, but when that draft came I shielded my candle."

Mabel laughed nervously, and her voice was low and uncertain.

"I—I guess I wasn't quite fair either, but I don't want dear Miss Anabel worrying me of according to her prize hacked novels, and—and I blew out Charley's candle."

A deep chuckle interrupted their mutual confessions. Schermerhorn's rich, wholesome tones announced:

"Let the good work go on. When I marry Grace Payne—going against you, Frank, I opened the window, hoping to blow out both candles and stop the contest entirely."

"And I," chimed in Grace Payne, laughingly—"well, I opened the door to help on the draft. It wouldn't do to let the fairies arrive too early in the decision of Branscome in pairing us off. Poor Miss Anabel! And I believe she did it on purpose!"

"Never mind," said Schermerhorn cheerily. "She shall be bridesmaid or maid of honor or anything you girls like when the weddings come off, for, really, she brought matters to a climax."

And he patted Grace's little hand, snuggling against his great arm, while Frank Caswell and Mabel disappeared within the portals of the Howard house.

Candy For the Theater.

Mrs. Smythe never eats candy, yet when she got ready to go to the theater she bought a box of mixed chocolates.

"Why are you taking that along?" asked her neighbor in the adjoining flat, who knew Mrs. Smythe's unnatural antipathy for sweetmeats.

"For Mr. Smythe to nibble at," was the reply. "He will eat half a hateful before the play is out."

"How funny!" said the neighbor. "I didn't know that men were given to eating candy in the theater."

"That just shows that you don't go very often yourself or else fail to make good use of your eyes while there," Mrs. Smythe retorted. "Since Mr. Smythe developed such an appetite for sweets I have been watching other men, and I find that of the couples who go to the theater provided with a box of candy the man eats three chocolates to the woman's one. There is a chance that that one sided arrangement is not due to the woman's fear of getting her gloves soiled by digging into the candy box, but I take it to mean that men eat more candy when in a theater than women do simply because they like it better."—New York Times.

Oodnitzer's Ready Wit.

On the day of Grover Cleveland's first inauguration in Washington Thomas P. Oodnitzer took a cab to go to the capital. The driver was drunk, and the horse ran away. Tom was thrown out and so severely injured that he was on crutches for more than a year. He sued the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which owned the cab, for $20,000 damages. His friends jocularly insisted that he would cling to those crutches until the suit was decided. Meanwhile he went to a Clover club dinner in Philadelphia, and, being called on to speak, arose in response, with his crutches in sight. As soon as he uttered the words "Mr. President," Mr. Postlethwaite of the Pennsylvania railroad, one of the brightest fellows in the club, said: "Colonel Oodnitzer, where are your crutches?" It was enough to floor most men, but Tom was equal to the emergency. Quick as a flash came this answer: "Under the table, sir, where you will be in a few minutes." Mr. Postlethwaite joined so heartily in the general laugh following this knockdown blow.

The Panacea of Nature.

Every great and commanding moment in the annals of the world is the triumph of some enthusiasm. The victories of the Arabs after Mohammed, who in a few years from a small and mean beginning established a larger empire than that of Rome, is an example. But there will dawn ere long on our politics, on our modes of living, a nobler morning than that Arabian faith in the sentiment of love.

This is the one remedy for all ills, the panacea of nature. We must be lovers, and of once the impossible becomes possible. Our age and liberty for three thousand years have not been the history of kindness, but of selfishness. Our distrust is very expensive. The money we spend for courts and prisons is very ill laid out. We make by distrust the thief and burglar and swindler; and by our court and jail we keep him so. An acceptance of the sentiment of love throughout Christendom for a season would bring the felon and the outcast to our side in tears, with the devotion of his remorse to our service.—Emerson.

Legal Blanks.

The COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contracts for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

Food for Typhoid Patients.

By using wheaten as food for typhoid patients instead of milk, a doctor has reduced the death rate in this disease from 20 to 2.7 per cent.

A Fig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, last when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottles free.

Manuscript Poems by Lamb.

Three manuscript poems in the handwriting of Charles Lamb were sold for $370 recently in London.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured if Cole's Cough Cure is taken in time. It is wonderfully soothing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Children like it and its guaranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

Legal Blanks.

THE AVERAGE BRAIN.

What it Weighs and the Number of Cells It Contains.

Whether it be the brain cell of a glowworm or one trembling with the harmonies of "Tristan und Isolde" the stuff it is made of is much the same. It is a difference of structure apparently rather than of material. And the chemical difference between a brain of nerve cell and that of the muscles or the skin seems appreciable mainly to a difference in the proportion of two substances—water and phosphorus. Lean beef, for example, is from 70 to 80 per cent water; the brain is from 90 to 95 per cent water. And a brain or nerve roll may contain five to ten times as much phosphorus as, let us say, the cells of the liver or the heart. The actual quantity is of course extremely small—by weight but a fraction of 1 per cent.

About three pounds avoirdupois of this very complex phosphorized stuff make up an average human brain. There is a lot more of it distributed down one's spinal column, and little plasmas all over the body wherever a group of muscles are to be moved, and others still, the sensory or feeling nerves, which are everywhere. It is hard to find a cubical half inch outside the bones and skin that is not.

All told, the nervous substance, which by the way of making its functions clear I have called the matter which thinks, forms a not inconsiderable portion of the body outside of the bony skeleton. It is made up of distinct and separated units, of the most part extremely minute, though some attain a length of two or three feet. These all form and long troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottles free.

All told, the nervous substance, which for the sake of making its functions clear I have called the matter which thinks, forms a not inconsiderable portion of the body outside of the bony skeleton. It is made up of distinct and separated units, of the most part extremely minute, though some attain a length of two or three feet. These all form and long troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottles free.

Those of the brain are mostly so small that they deserve the microscope. Their average length would be measured in thousandths of an inch. There have been many attempts to get at their actual number. It is certainly large. Computations for the brain alone range from 620,000,000 upward. One, dint, I think, by Wahlgren, sets the total number of brain cells (average) at 1,000,000,000,000. This would mean a fertile population in excess of the human population of the earth.—Carl Snyder in Harper's Magazine.

FACTS ABOUT FOLKS.

Boys grow more regularly than girls. The memory which acts quickest sets best.

Urban life decreases stature from five years of age on.

Fleshless children exceed later born in stature and weight.

Children born in summer are taller than those born in winter.

Red and yellow are visible at greater distances than green and blue.

Truant boys are inferior in weight, height and chest girth to boys in general.

Dull children are lighter and precocious children heavier than the average child.

Great men, though often absentminded, have strong memories on the lines of their interests.

Healthy men ought to weigh an additional five pounds for every inch in height beyond seventy-one inches, at which height they ought to weigh 120 pounds.

Dullness Caused by Fear.

Several scientific observers cases of falling hair from emotion have been recorded, but the following is probably one of the most curious: A normally bright, intelligent child, about 4 years of age, saw his child thrown out of a cart and trampled upon by a mule. He suppressed his feelings of emotion at the fright and tension a sensation of chilliness and tension in the head and face. The child escaped with a few bruises, but the father's hair, beard and eyebrows commenced to drop out the next day, and by the end of the week he was entirely bald. A new growth of hair appeared in time, but much finer.—London Answers.

Curing a Snake Bite.

This is how the Indians of Central America cure a snake bite: They pin the snake down to the ground with a wiral strang creepers above and below the bite until they cut into the flesh. Then they apply a live coal to the wound to counteize it and follow that up by rubbing in a mixture of chewed tobacco and crushed garlic. By this time the victim is nearly mad with pain and ready to kill everybody in sight, especially when he finds, as he often does, that the snake was not venomous.

Pleased Him.

"I think I'll subscribe to Bridget a dollar more a week," said the family man.

"What?" exclaimed his wife. "I set her to work cleaning the parlor today, and you should see the way she left it."

"I did. That's what influenced me. I noticed she had cut the piano with the keyboard close up against the wall."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Literalist.

Wealthy Citizen—But I said distinctly in my advertisement that I wanted "a healthy colored coachman," and you are a red faced Irishman.

Applicant—And sure, my nose is as reliable a color an black?—Baltimore American.

Dividing the Deck.

"Now, Johnny," said the teacher, who had been describing a war ship to the class, "here is the deck divided?"

"A deck is divided," replied the bright boy, "into spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs."—Philadelphia Press.

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

Your Tongue

If it's coated, your stomach is bad, your liver is out of order. Ayer's Pills will clean your tongue, cure your dyspepsia, make your liver right. Easy to take, easy to operate.

25c. All druggists.

Don't put your hair in a bundle! Brown or rich black? Then use

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers

It acts in a single application. Sold by druggists, or by R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

Capital Stock, $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.

WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

I. I. Wyer. F. E. Hunt, Theo Garceau,
Chas N. Bowles, A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE. FAST TIME. TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL.

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, Duluth and all points East and South

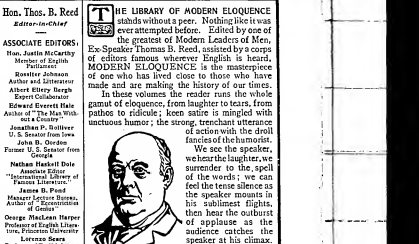
TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS

WEST BD		EAST BD
8.00 am Lv	St. Paul	Ar 7.10 pm
8.00 pm Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 5.00 pm
8.35 am Lv	Crookston	Ar 4.30 pm
9.15 am Lv	Crookston	Ar 3.45 pm
9.45 am Lv	Fisher	Ar 3.15 pm
9.54 am Lv	Reis	Ar 3.06 pm
10.30 am Lv	Wylie	Ar 2.30 pm
10.45 am Lv	St. Hilaire	Ar 2.15 pm
11.00 am Lv	RED LAKE FALLS	Ar 2.00 pm
12.25 pm Ar	Thief River Falls	Lv 12.30 pm

O. THOMAS Agent.

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE



Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Forensic Addresses, Humorous Stories and Stirring Arguments, in six handsome volumes, illustrated with fine photogravures and color plates.

Hon. Thos. B. Reed

Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS:

Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of English Parliament

Rossiter Johnson
Author and Litterateur

Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Collaborator

Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man With-out a Country"

Jonathan P. Rolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa

John B. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Georgia

Nathan Haskell Dole
Associate Editor "International Library of Famous Literature."

James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureau, Author of "Eccentricities of Genius"

George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University

Lorenzo Sears
Professor of English Literature, Brown University

Edwin A. Start
Former Editor "Boston Advertiser"

P. Castillo Owen
Member Editorial Staff "New York Tribune"

J. Walter McSpadden
Managing Editor "Edition de Luxe" of Dickens's Works

Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Museum, Washington, D. C.

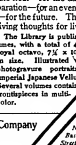
Thomas A. Bickerton
Member Editorial Staff "Chicago Times-Herald"

William W. Matos
Member Editorial Staff "Philadelphia Evening Telegraph"

Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri

Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Orators of Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by 9 corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times. In these volumes will be found the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist. We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the, spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

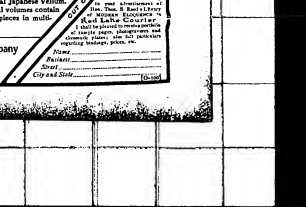


THOMAS B. REED

One size in the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of prolonged winter—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum, and 6 color plates. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi color.



Send for Free Booklet containing full particulars, sample pages, specimen illustrations, testimonials from well known people, prices, etc.

Name .....
Address .....
Street .....
City and State .....

Special Sales This Week
At the BIG STORE

The quickest way to make money is to save on purchases. We can save you between 20 to 30 per cent. on the goods mentioned below:

Special Sale of Bed Linens

Pillow cases, 42x36, hemstitched 12½c.

Same size, plain 10c. Sheets, plain, 72x90, 35c; 75c value.

Same, hemstitched, 45c; 65c value.

Shirting prints, 4c for 6c value

Handkerchief Sale

10c and 15c handkerchiefs for 5c

Ribbon Sale

4 in. silk ribbon, 10c Fancy hair ribbon, 5c per yard.

Moire Dress, best quality, lace trimmed, $1.40

Underskirt Sale

All fancy skirts at half price; worth $2.50

Ladies' Sailor Hats, 19c.

Pure linen table cloth, 65c; a burgain.

7 spools of thread for 25c.

Shoe Specials for this Week.

Misses' black slippers, one strap, stylish and good quality 75 cents.

Children's tan slippers, 5 to 8, 80-cent for 1.25 value.

Same, 8½ to 10, 1.50 value for 1.00

We have a swell assortment of ladies' Oxfords in plain and patent leather. No better to be found anywhere. We have just reason to feel proud of our Utz & Dunn shoes. If these goods were not backed by merit we would not receive the compliments about them that we do. For a cheap shoe we recommend our Goodman line. No cheap shoe in the country shows such quality. Our shoe department shows great values and it seems that the public appreciate it, for our trade in shoes is certainly increasing.

Home-Made Wrappers

20 dozen to select from; the best wrapper made. Will stay sewed; wide flounce; evenly gathered; best inner lining artistically trimmed; will fit perfectly; 75c, $1.00, 1.25, 1.50. See our line; our stock will merit your trade.

Gloves.

A splendid new line of opera gloves in all grades.

Fancy hose for ladies and mec.

Groceries

Good smoking tobacco 15 cent.

Maple syrup, monarch brand, the best for 1.00.

Rock candy syrup 1 gallon cans, for 50c worth 75c.

THE BIG STORE
THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Fosston will celebrate the glorious fourth.

Sam Lee was down from St. Hilaire Monday.

We want to buy butter, eggs and wool.—Bangs & Co.

Sheriff Linahan was a caller at Crookston Monday.

We are selling Banner Oats at 25c per package.—Fortier.

Wiley Tindolph was here from Thief River Falls today.

Engineer Geo. A. Ralph was over from Crookston Saturday.

C. P. Johnson was here from Grand Forks yesterday.

Mrs. Sinclair was down from St. Hilaire shopping Monday.

Mrs. A. Lachapelle returned today from a visit at Crookston.

Mrs. L. A. Dautremont has recovered from her recent illness.

We are still selling Banner Oats at 25c per package.—Fortier.

O'Brien Bros. have a change of ad in today's paper. Read it.

M. Hammer was down from St. Hilaire on business Tuesday.

A. G. Groshong was a business visitor at Grand Forks Tuesday.

Geo. McConnell has been at Crookston several days this week.

THE COURIER has just received an elegant line of fancy goods in tablets and papetries. Call and look over the line.

Vegetarians as Athletes.

A large amount of discussion has been carried on in Germany over the advisability of a strictly vegetable diet. In a recent walking contest Karl Mann broke all records and of thirteen-six men competing he was the only vegetarian in the number. His diet is nuts, fruit, bread and salads, but no meat. In this climate, however, one should add Golden Grain Belt beer to this diet, as it contains the strength of meat in liquid form easy to digest. It nourishes the body more perfectly than vegetables and puts the nerves in splendid condition. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Cupid is not so blind as those who cannot dodge his shots.

Some women would rather be divorced than never to be married.

The funny, fluffy things that a woman calls clothes a man calls mysteries.

Even if a man knew all the queer things women wear it would not help him to understand why they do.

Marrying for money is a very hazardous investment.

You could never make a woman believe that a hat cost $25 was not becoming to her.

When a man pays a personal loan it is a sign that he is trying to borrow more from you.

Whatever happens to be the good point of a woman's figure it is around that spot that she dresses the rest of herself.—New York Press.

Christian Scientists

Meeting in Boston, June 26th-July 1st. It will be to your advantage to obtain rates applying over the Nickel Plate road before purchasing elsewhere. No excess charged on any of our trains. Tickets on sale June 25th, 26th and 27. Final return limit August 1st. Call on or address John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for particulars as to stop-overs, train service, etc.

Bronchitis

"I have kept Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my house for a great many years. It is the best medicine in the world for coughs and colds."
J. C. Williams, Aniee, N. Y.

All serious lung troubles begin with a tickling in the throat. You can stop this at first in a single night with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Use it also for bronchitis, consumption, hard colds, and for coughs of all kinds.

Three sizes: 25c., 50c., $1. All druggists.

Consult your Doctor. If he says take it, then do as he says. If he says not to take it, then don't take it. He knows. Leave it entirely to him.
J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

To Contest His Will.

The Crookston Journal last week contained a local to the effect that John Connery, of Thief River, had been taken home from St. Vincent hospital where he was brought for treatment. It was known at the time, although not so stated, that Mr. Connery's lease of life was very brief, he being a sufferer from quick consumption. Mr. Connery had been in business in Thief River and formed the acquaintance of Mrs. Robinson, who a few months ago secured a divorce from a former husband. An attachment had been effected between the two and when it became evident Mr. Connery's death was near at hand, he wished to marry her in order that she might inherit his property.

They decided upon last Saturday for the wedding day but when an application was made for a license it developed that the lady had not been divorced long enough to be permitted to re-marry, and that the time limit would not expire until Monday. Mr. Connery died late Saturday night, and the wedding, of course, was never consummated. Now comes a brother, whose home is in southern Minnesota, who had been notified of Mr. Connery's severe illness. When he reached Thief River Falls he was surprised to find a will had been made by the deceased, disposing of his property to Mrs. Robinson. It is understood there will be trouble in carrying out the terms of the will as a contest is to be brought on the grounds that undue influence was used on Mr. Connery, and that he was incompetent at the late time the will was made and signed.

$19.00 to Boston and Return, $19.00 with membership fee of $200 added, account of annual meeting of National Educational association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 3rd to 5th, inclusive, good returning from July 8th to 12th inclusive, without being deposited with joint agent. Additional limit to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing return portion of ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c for execution. Superior train service and excellent dining-car meals, on American club plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 111 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. 1130

"Confounding a Doubter.

"This paper says that they have just discovered th' ree-mains of a twenty-foot saurian on th' banks of th' Penobscot river."

"What's a saurian?"

"I dunno. I guess mayby it's one of them misprints for a sardine."

"There ain't no twenty-foot sar dines."

"Well, there might be tho ree-mains of one."

"I don't believe it. Do you suppose anybody'd want to buy a box of sich sardines? I guess not."

"You've too darn critical. If there is th' ree-mains o' any twenty-foot sardines on th' Penobscot don't you suppose there might also be th' ree-mains o' men big enuff to by 'em by th' box. You're a atheeist, that's what you are. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucuous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Hell's Family Pills are the best.

I have some some fine Duroc Jersey pigs for sale at a bargain if taken soon. T. H. Carver, Section 20, Gervais township. 2w

Made Young Again.

"One of Dr. King's New Life Pills each night for two weeks has put me in my teens again," writes D. H. Turner of Dempseytown, Pa. They're the best in the world for liver, stomach and bowels. Purely vegetable. Never gripe. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiber's drug store.

Residence Property for Sale.

I will sell, or trade for stock, my residence and four lots in block 55, Koertzschmar's addition to Red Lake Falls. Great bargain. Write or see me. Louis Hetu, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

More people have been relieved and cured of piles by Cole's Carbolisalve than by any other remedy. There is nothing equal to it for burns, wounds and sores of all kinds. Try it and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Spring laziness, legs ache, back aches, feel tired, no ambition, no appetite, all run down feeling. Rocky Mountain Tea puts new life into your body; you feel like new. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

To Boston and Return at One Fare

For the round trip from Chicago via the Nickel Plate road, for Christian Scientists meeting in June. Tickets on sale June 23th, 26th, and 27th, with extended limit of August 1st. Stop-over at Niagara Falls, in either direction, without extra charge, and at New York returning on payment of fee of $1.00. No excess fare charged on any of our trains. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for detailed information.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for Free Homesteads and Free Coal lands. Low railroad rates. See our agent in your city and write for facts and maps. Wm. H. Brown & Co., 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, or Meadan, N. D.

A Close Observer.

Will not fail to notice that in each large section of our country some one particular railroad will be found always a little in advance of its competitors. In the great northwest this enviable position belongs to the Northwestern line.

For Sale.

My house and lot, household furniture and numerous other articles. For particulars call on Mrs. A. Sieff.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

White Race in Minaro.

Lieut. de Clairmont of the Philippine commission reports the existence of an old white race of people in the island of Mindoro.

Name Will Not Die Out.

Seven children, 68 grandchildren, 87 great-grandchildren and 3 great-great-grandchildren survive Johanna Gundel, a widow who has died at Chemnitz, Saxony, aged 93.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

HAY STACK COVERS
Save the Hay and Grain
Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The Outlook for Woman Suffrage

By CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT
President National American Woman Suffrage Association

Though the past season has seen no such great woman suffrage victory as that of a year ago, when Australia conferred full suffrage upon her women citizens, yet the winter's work has not been without encouraging features.

Australia is perhaps about to take another step in advance. There is on foot a movement to seat a woman, Miss Vida Goldstein, in the parliament of that great country. Miss Goldstein is known to many Americans through addresses delivered last winter in many cities.

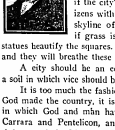
With restrictions in some provinces of Canada, women now possesses municipal suffrage throughout the British empire, except in South Africa; and here the premier has announced his intention of introducing in the provincial parliament a bill conferring it. In Holland, too, the social democratic party has just added municipal suffrage for women as a plank to its political platform.

In this country during the past year woman suffrage bills of different sorts have been introduced in the legislatures of 15 states and territories; and though no notable gains have been made, there have been indications of increased strength. In Arizona, for instance, a bill granting to women complete suffrage was passed by both houses of the legislature, though prevented by veto of the governor from becoming law.

In the United States we do not move any faster than is desired by the whole people. In the parliaments of the British provinces, which often seem to set us examples, the greater number of bills are introduced and passed as government measures. When the premier of South Africa is convinced of the wisdom of woman suffrage, the province is fairly likely to get it. Under our different system, which involves the personal interest and responsibility of the individual citizen, we move more cautiously than do countries esteemed conservative; BUT SLOWLY THOUGH THE ADVANCE, THE CAUSE OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE IS SURELY GAINING HEADWAY.

The Higher Civic Life.

By HAMILTON WRIGHT MABIE
Author and Editor of "The Outlook"



What an education in right living may be supplied by right government!

You will need to teach the boy fewer maxims of morality if he knows the city guards the water that he drinks, and that the fruit and meat and milk that come to its markets are above suspicion. You will need to preach to the boy less often about neatness if the city's streets are clean. You will bring up citizens with better notions of the true and good, if the skyline of the city's houses is right architecturally.

If grass is green in the parks, and if fountains and statues beautify the squares. Environ boys with uprightness and beauty, and they will breathe these things as their natural atmosphere.

A city should be an educative force. Its honesty should create a soil in which vice should be an exotic, virtue the normal flower.

It is too much the fashion to decry the town. If man made it, and God made the country, it is also true that the noblest works are those in which God and man have cooperated. God made the marbles of Carrara and Pentelicon, and man made from them the Acropolis at Athens and the Moses of Michael Angelo.

To get together is the natural impulse of humanity, and it is by rubbing against his fellows that man lights the brightest fires of his genius. The modern city is a natural and inevitable growth, the chief trouble with it is that it has too many residents who are not citizens.

The modern city wants citizens in the true sense, men who will guard its repute as they do their private honor; citizens who will give brain and their strength to promoting the highest civic life and fostering the civic virtues. A city, before it can appeal to the heart and the imagination, must be something more than a center of commerce. It must be the center of the best efforts of the best men of the age.

Solution for Industrial Difficulties

By GEORGE H. ANDERSON
Distinguished Member of the Massachusetts Bar

In the contest as it is now carried on between labor and capital it is obvious that there are at least two main desiderata: First, that the parties to the contest should become so nearly equal in real and apparent power that each may come to respect the other, to the end that an equitable adjustment approximating justice may result. The organization of labor is an absolutely necessary antecedent under present conditions to any sound social and industrial progress. To oppose that organization, to attempt to prevent it by legislation, or to denounce it is both futile and foolish.

The second desiderata is that there should be an increased respect for law and for justice on the part of both labor and capital. The final appeal must be to justice.

It is one of the present responsibilities of capitalistic organization to undo the evil it has wrought—to teach the voters that the powers of the ballot box and of the legislative hall are to be held and exercised as a sacred trust for the benefit of the community as a whole. IF CAPITAL FAILS TO RECOGNIZE THE NECESSITY OF JUST LAWS, RESPECTED AND OBEYED, IT MAY EXPECT LITTLE MERCY AT THE HANDS OF ITS ADVERSARIES WHEN THEY DISCOVER THEIR REAL POWER. IF SOCIALISM COMES, THE MAIN RESPONSIBILITY WILL REST UPON THE CAPITALISTIC ORGANIZATIONS.

The Modern Woman.

By PROF. BRANDER MATTHEWS

If the twentieth century woman has become a distinctive type, apart from her type in all ages, it is simply as a real thing slowly takes shape and form out of the half-limited features of an ideal.

What poets and painters have dreamed and sung about her, the woman herself has brought into living, breathing existence. She is neither better nor worse than of old. She is more developed, more rounded, more complete, but only because she knows more of the art of rightly putting herself together and of making a perfect and beautiful whole out of the parts of her nature which up to the present seem somehow to have eluded her grasp.

Newspaper Survey
MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 35. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 4, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 243.

MAJ. McLAUGHLIN WILL PROBABLY BE RECALLED

Red Lake Indians Seem to Have Changed Their Mind and Will Ask for Council in July.

The Thief River Falls Press last week stated that a letter recently received in that city from a reliable and well known Indian trader in the Red Lake country gives the following interesting and important information:

"I send a few lines to apprise you of the feeling of the Indians in regard to the sale of the eleven townships. It has been a matter of talk and consideration ever since the last meeting with Major McLaughlin. Now, it seems that they have made up their minds to recall Major McLaughlin, and there is no doubt but that the ratification of the treaty will be signed this time, for they see no money for them in the future if they do not accept the bill, and they begin to fear that Uncle Sam in the future may open the land to settlement regardless of their consent.

"I understan.l they are going to call a general council on or about July 1 to consider the recall of the major."

Will Attract Favorable Attention.

Ralph W. Wheelock, in his "Thoughts on Things" column in the Minneapolis Tribune, pays a feature of THE COURIER this appreciated compliment, which coming from so able a critic is doubly prized:

"The Red Lake County Courier runs a wide measure feature entitled 'Casual Observations,' which is bound to attract favorable attention from exchange editor at least. The latest issue contains flattering extracts from the brethren—and sistern—which will insure more than casual observation of that column hereafter.

Are you thin? Would you like to get plump? Tried "laughing," "wouldn't work—now take Rocky Mountain Tea —'will do the business. 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

COMMISSIONERS MEET AGAIN.

The Meeting of Last Week Brief But of Importance.

The commissioners met again last Thursday and finished up some business that come before them.

The object of the session was to pass the necessary resolutions authorizing the issue of $81,000 ditch bonds, and Commissioner Sutor was sent to Minneapolis to deliver the issue to Thorpe Bros., the purchasers.

The report of the committee instructed to view the bridge at Terrebonne was received and it was decided that the county would take charge of the work of repairing the same. Engineer Smiley will at once make an estimate of the cost of repairs and submit the same to the board sometime this month. Kankel & Zieglar, the enterprising Terrebonne millers, have agreed to give $100 towards the repairing and the town of Terrebonne will give another $100. It is expected that the contract will be let shortly after the surveyor's report.

C. M. Evenson of Thief River was granted an auctioneer's license.

The application of James Hanen for abatement of taxes was laid over and that of Jas. I. Wyer rejected.

The next meeting of the board will be July 14.

Pike for Maple Lake.

Crookston Journal: The efforts of those who have cottages at Maple Lake are being exerted to stock the water with game fish, and each year shipments from the state hatchery have been secured mainly through the local people. Through the efforts of Congressman Steenerson the government fish commission has been touched up for additional supplies and on Wednesday last a shipment of 900,000 pike fry reached Mentor and was planted in the lake. These should in a few years be showing up on the end of a line carefully manipulated by an expert. Many of them will of course fall victims to larger fish, but continued effort in stocking the lake will eventually make it an excellent fishing resort.

BRIGHT LAWYER DIES.

Defarest Bucklen Passed Away at his Crookston Home Saturday Last.

Crookston Journal: The death of Defarest Bucklen on Saturday afternoon has cast a general gloom over the city. During the preceding 24 hours his condition seemed to show improvement and his friends and family entertained some hope of his recovery, although he was in a most critical condition. Later in the day however, he began to sink, the heart's action which had been faulty from the first of his attack of pneumonia became feebler, gradually failed, and every effort to restore him to consciousness was futile. The funeral was conducted from the late residence of deceased at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Masonic bodies, of which Mr. Bucklen was a meamber. The Elks also attended in a body and paid their respects to the memory of an honored member of their order.

Deceased was 49 years old and was one of the leadiag members of the Polk county bar, as well as one of the brightest lawyers in Northern Minnesota. He came to Polk county from Rochester, Minn., and was located for a time at Fisher where he was married. He has been a resident of Crookston during the past eleven years and during that time had come to be considered one of the ablest of legal counsellors. He was prominently considered as a candidate for the judgeship when it became necessary to provide the district with an additional judge, his turn of mind making him a strong favorite with many of the lawyers. His political affiliations were with the Democrats however, although had the city not claimed Judge Watts as a resident, this would undoubtedly have been overlooked and Mr. Bucklen would have been named.

In Mr. Bucklen's death the bar association has in common with the citizens at large, suffered a loss that will be a seriously felt and sincerely lamented. Mr. Bucklen leaves a widow and four daughters, to whom the bereavement is a blow that not all the sympathy of a host of friends can lighten.

WILL HELP DRAINAGE

Board Has decided to Invest $300,000 of Permanent school Fund.

The state board of investment has practically decided to invest from $200,000 to $300,000 of the permanent school fund in county drainage bonds at 3 per cent, under the law passed by the recent legislature.

Applications will be received from Norman, Polk, Marshall and northern counties, aggregating fully $300,000. Marshall county has asked for loans amounting to $100,000 and Polk asked for $50,000.

The counties point out that hitherto they have had to pay as high as 6 per cent interest on the bonds held by eastern capitalists. The new law authorizes the state board of investment to loan money to counties at a rate not less than 3 per cent.

LAND OFFICERS ARE NAMED.

Long Prairie and Buffalo Men Recommended for Places.

Senator Nelson and Congressman Buckman have recommended the appointment of J. D. Jones of Long Prairie and Egbert S. Oakley of Buffalo to be register and receiver respectively of the new Cass Lake land office, and upon the return of President Roosevelt to Washington it is expected that their appointments will be formally announced.

A dispatch from Washington Friday last stated that while considerable surprise was manifested on the part of Minnesotans now at the nation capital that A. C. Bernard did not receive the recommendation in the place of Oakley, the latter's name seemed to meet with considerable favor. Until the announcement was made of the selections it was thought that Mr. Bernard would surely land the coveted position.

Don't tie a rag around it and let go at that. For burns, cuts or sores of any kind apply Cole's Carbolisave. It will stop the pain and heal quicker than anything on earth. There is no remedy known that equals it for piles, sores, tetter, eczema and all itching, torturing skin diseases. Get Cole's. It's guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

EGAN'S BODY FOUND.

Hilligoss Searching Party Successful in the Hunt.

The remains of B. F. Egan, the Great Northern superintendent who was lost in the woods and mountains last fall have been found two and one-half miles from Belcon, which is thirty miles east of Kalispel, Mont.

The expedition in search of the body was headed by W. F. Hilligoss, of St. Cloud, a cruiser for the Great Northern. The remains were in a very good shape, decomposition having evidently started in but a very short time ago. There were no marks of violence and death evidently came from sheer exhaustion. All the dead man's accoutrements were found on or near him, with the exception of his compass and gun. There is not even any suspicion of foul play and the theory is that Egan became lost and pushed forward till he fell from exhaustion. There was absolutely no evidences that he had been touched by any wild animals.

The Carnival A Success.

The business men's carnival presented under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church by the Johnson-Smith Amusement Bowers, this pleasant duty failing to the lot of the Junior class, and the class colors, scarlet and white, were everywhere in evidence. Besides the graduates Prof. F. A. Whitley, Miss Lulu Lusby, Rev. Father Ansgaar and the members of the school board occupied seats on the stage.

The following program was rendered, and each and every member of the class acquitted themselves with honor and glory:

Music.....Orchestra
Invocation.....Rev. Father Ansgar, O. S. B.
Educational Opportunities of the Present Day.
a. The Need of An Education—Salutatory.....
.....Miss Esther Bogen, '03
b. The Common Schools.....Frank P. Brady
c. The State and High School.....Antonia Schiesser
d. The School and Higher Education.....
.....Lulu M. Fletcher
Music.....Orchestra
Character Building in the Public Schools—
a. Self-Control the First Law.....Fred Richards
b. Honesty and Truth.....Norman Schiesser
c. Unselfishness and Democratic Spirit.....
.....Ernest Fletcher
d. To See and to Think.....Etta E. Garceau
Music.....K. of P. Quartet
Mesnrs. Norman, Zaiser, Westphal, Wheeler.
What a High School Graduate May Do:
a. In the the Mechanics and Industries.....
.....Charles Bruin
b. In the Profession of Teaching.....
.....Theresa McSweeney
c. In Field of Agriculture.....Hugo V. Zaiser
d. In the Business World.....Beatrice Hage
Music.....Orchestra
Ideals of Life:
a. In Politics.....Abner Fletcher
b. In the Community.....Della M. Tuscon
c. In the Home.....Marjorie Rodgers
d. In Business—Vindicatory.....Joseph Hintz
Music.....Orchestra
Presentation of Diplomas—Supt. F. A. Whitley

The local orchestra furnished four select numbers and pleased the audience with their excellent rendition of the difficult music. The K. of P. quartette—consisting of Messrs. Norman, Zaiser Westphal and White—was enthusiastically received and responded to several encores.

At the conclusion of the exercises Prof. Whiteley, in a neat address, presented the graduates with their diplomas, testifying that each member of the class had well earned the honors thus bestowed.

The class was the largest yet graduated from the local schools and it is the earnest wish of a host of admiring friends that their journey through life be as successful and productive of good as have been their school years.

Junior Banquet a Success.

The reception and banquet by the Juniors to the Seniors, teachers and alumni at the Palace hotel Saturday evening was pronouced a brilliant success by the fortunate participants. The menu was an elaborate one, and spicy toasts and speeches added pleasure to the event. The program included nearly twenty responses to the toastmaster, and the "wee sma'" hours were approaching when the party broke up. In the more serner years of life that confront these classmates such events as Saturday's reception will remain in cherished remembrance and make life's burdens easier to bear.

Miss Robbecke Wins.

The maid of honor contest, instituted by the Crookston Times several weeks ago, closed last Friday. Miss Linda Robbecke of Thief River Falls being chosen to represent Red Lake county. Three candidates were in the field from this county—Miss Robbecke of Thief River; and the Misses Lillian Rose and Ida Zaiser of this city, and the votes received were 8,744, 4,434 and 3,087, respectively. In this connection it might be said that neither Miss Rose nor Miss Zaiser made any effort to win, and the votes given were purely unsolicited. Miss Robbecke went to Minneapolis Monday and is spending the week at the carnival.

The Old, Old Story.

The high school base ball team of Thief River Falls came down Saturday to try conclusions with the boys representing the Red Lake Falls school. The game was called at 2 o'clock and a fine sized crowd was present to witness the contest. At the end of nine weary innings it was found that Thief River had again failed to cross the coveted plate, while the home players had succeeded in accumulating a total of 34 runs, and it wasn't an extraordinary day for competing either. It isn't probable that a third game will be played.

Mother's rely on Cole's Cough Cure and children like it. It quickly relieves, and cures in a way to stay cured. For it is a remedy that never disappoints. Honsand use Cole's Cough Cure. It is guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

SIXTEEN GRADUATE WITH HIGH HONORS

The Members of the Class of 1903 Finish Their Labors and Receive the Coveted "Sheepskins."

The Class of '03.

GILBERT D. WESTPHAL
FRANK P. BRADY.
ANTON SCHIESSER.
LULU M. FLETCHER.
FRED RICHARDS.
NORMAN SCHREITER.
ERNEST FLETCHER.
ETTA E. GARCEAU
CHARLES BRADY.
THOMAS MCNERTHNEY.
HUGO V. ZAISER.
BEATRICE HAGE.
ABNER FLETCHER.
DELLA M. TOUPIN.
MARJORIE RODGERS.
JOSEPH HELM.

The third annual commencement exercises of the Red Lake Falls high school were held at the Metropolitan Monday evening, and the large auditorium was packed to the limit with admiring friends of the bright young minds who were make their final step from school life to the business world.

The stage and hall were beautifully decorated with potted plants and flowers, this pleasant duty falling to the lot of the Junior class, and the class colors, scarlet and white, were everywhere in evidence. Besides the graduates Prof. F. A. Whitley, Miss Lulu Lusby, Rev. Father Ansgaar and the members of the school board occupied seats on the stage.

The following program was rendered, and each and every member of the class acquitted themselves with honor and glory:

Music.....Orchestra
Invocation.....Rev. Father Ansgar, O. S. B.
Educational Opportunities of the Present Day.
a. The Need of An Education—Salutatory.....
.....Miss Esther Bogen, '03
b. The Common Schools.....Frank P. Brady
c. The State and High School.....Antonia Schiesser
d. The School and Higher Education.....
.....Lulu M. Fletcher
Music.....Orchestra
Character Building in the Public Schools—
a. Self-Control the First Law.....Fred Richards
b. Honesty and Truth.....Norman Schreiter
c. Unselfishness and Democratic Spirit.....
.....Ernest Fletcher
d. To See and to Think.....Etta E. Garceau
Music.....K. of P. Quartet
Messrs. Norman, Zaiser, Westphal, Wheeler.
What a High School Graduate May Do:
a. In the the Mechanics and Industries.....
.....Charles Bruin
b. In the Profession of Teaching.....
.....Theresa McSweeney
c. In Field of Agriculture.....Hugo V. Zaiser
d. In the Business World.....Beatrice Hage
Music.....Orchestra
Ideals of Life:
a. In Politics.....Abner Fletcher
b. In the Community.....Della M. Tuscon
c. In the Home.....Marjorie Rodgers
d. In Business—Vindicatory.....Joseph Hintz
Music.....Orchestra
Presentation of Diplomas—Supt. F. A. Whitley

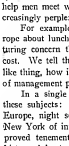
The local orchestra furnished four select numbers and pleased the audience with their excellent rendition of the difficult music. The K. of P. quartette—consisting of Messrs. Norman, Zaiser Westphal and White—

Helping the World Along.

By DR. WILLIAM H. TOLMAN

Director of American Institute of Social Service

(Dr. Tolman is about to visit Europe in search of information about organized effort for social betterment. The expense of the trip is paid by Miss Helen Gould.)



The American Institute of Social Service aims to gather facts bearing upon social progress.

Business men without number have failed, churches have died, strife has arisen between labor and capital, and the world has seen disastrous lockouts, discontent, riot, murder and suicide because of our slow, blind and unintelligent methods of readjustment to changed social and industrial conditions. It is to facilitate progress by collecting facts of experience along every line of human betterment and to place information at the service of the public that the institute has been founded.

Our trade-mark is the interrogation point. We hunt, sift and systematize facts, and try so to interpret and disseminate them as to help men meet with least cost of time, money and human life the increasingly perplexing problems of civilization.

For example, we gather everything in this country and in Europe about lunch rooms for employes. Then comes along a manufacturing concern that wants to provide for its workmen good food at cost. We tell the company who before has done the same thing or a like thing, how it was done, what it cost and what machinery and sort of management proved useful.

In a single day not long ago the institute was consulted about these subjects: School lunches, charitable relief of poor widows in Europe, night schools, school gardens, child labor, list of places in New York of interest to the sociologist, sweat shops, pawn shops, improved tenements, cooperative dairies, European labor colonies, city history clubs, training for citizenship.

As the Sabbath Should Be Kept.

By REV. J. ROSS STEVENSON

THE Sabbath was made for man. I do not believe the day should be observed in a puritanical spirit or in the spirit of continental Europe, but that the day should be devoted to rest and recreation of the body, mind and soul, or in the manner which Christ taught in His sermon.

Strange and ominous stories have been circulated of late of the profanation of the Sabbath by society in the capital of our country. We are told that Sunday is becoming the favorite day there for social functions. It is becoming the fashion to have card parties—bridge whist and other games—on that day and also to engage in automobiling.

This is not only true of Washington, but also obtains in other large cities. The people who reserve Sunday for games and sports are those who make religion secondary to their worldly affairs. No Christian can fight the battle of the week without allowing the guns to cool off on Sunday, if he wishes to make the fight successful. It is necessary to pass the day in peace, rest and moral recreation.

WHOLE NUMBER 243.

ley—was enthusiastically received and responded to several encores.

At the conclusion of the exercises Prof. Whiteley, in a neat address, presented the graduates with their diplomas, testifying that each member of the class had well earned the honors thus bestowed.

The class was the largest yet graduated from the local schools and it is the earnest wish of a host of admiring friends that their journey through life be as successful and productive of good as have been their school years.

Junior Banquet a Success.

The reception and banquet by the Juniors to the Seniors, teachers and alumni at the Palace hotel Saturday evening was pronouced a brilliant success by the fortunate participants. The menu was an elaborate one, and spicy toasts and speeches added pleasure to the event. The program included nearly twenty responses to the toastmaster, and the "wee sma'" hours were approaching when the party broke up. In the more serner years of life that confront these classmates such events as Saturday's reception will remain in cherished remembrance and make life's burdens easier to bear.

Miss Robbecke Wins.

The maid of honor contest, instituted by the Crookston Times several weeks ago, closed last Friday. Miss Linda Robbecke of Thief River Falls being chosen to represent Red Lake county. Three candidates were in the field from this county—Miss Robbecke of Thief River; and the Misses Lillian Rose and Ida Zaiser of this city, and the votes received were 8,744, 4,434 and 3,087, respectively. In this connection it might be said that neither Miss Rose nor Miss Zaiser made any effort to win, and the votes given were purely unsolicited. Miss Robbecke went to Minneapolis Monday and is spending the week at the carnival.

The Old, Old Story.

The high school base ball team of Thief River Falls came down Saturday to try conclusions with the boys representing the Red Lake Falls school. The game was called at 2 o'clock and a fine sized crowd was present to witness the contest. At the end of nine weary innings it was found that Thief River had again failed to cross the coveted plate, while the home players had succeeded in accumulating a total of 34 runs, and it wasn't an extraordinary day for competing either. It isn't probable that a third game will be played.

Mother's rely on Cole's Cough Cure and children like it. It quickly relieves, and cures in a way to stay cured. For it is a remedy that never disappoints. Honsand use Cole's Cough Cure. It is guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

Woman and the Trolley Car.

By MRS. DONALD McLEAN

Ex-President Daughters of American Revolution

The other night after a woman had watched the mad scramble to board a trolley car at the New York entrance to Brooklyn bridge—a scrimmage in which not a woman obtained a seat, every creature in skirts being thrust aside by brute strength and weight of men—she murmured to her companion in the words of the Arab to his horse:

"My beautiful, my beautiful, thou standest meekly by."

In every American city meekly we stand, clinging perchance to straps as the greatest blessings of Providence. There is hardly a thriving town that has not allowed its rush-hour transportation facilities to lag behind its increase of population; though no other city perhaps is in such a predicament as New York, where even our one-story streets, inadequate as they are to accommodate the outpourings of our two-story office buildings, are choked almost to uselessness by those mole-like burrowings that caused Gen. Horace Porter, when recently he returned from a five years' stay abroad, to exclaim:

"Is this the New York, or is it a mining town?"

Of course men are quick to suggest a remedy whose virtue is that it may be applied by women. "Go home early," they say; "until the underground railroads are completed, leave the cars at rush hours to tired men. Don't shop after five o'clock."

To this principle I have adopted this rule; but as the value of a principle is to make you feel virtuous, after which you do as you please; and as the number of working women who are obliged to cling to straps at the hours when wearied workingmen are at rest on the seats is constantly increasing; and as after all women are an integral part of the population with claims to be considered by transportation companies, it may in time occur to us to think of something more radical.

Cannot the American woman bring the trolley car to terms?

THE UNITED STATES AND THE MONROE DOCTRINE

By Captain ALFRED T. MAHAN, U. S. N. (Retired), the Famous Naval Authority

NOT to invade the rights of an American state is to the United States an obligation with the force of law. To permit no European state to influence them is a matter of policy.

THE UNITED STATES IS INEVITABLY THE PREPONDERANT AMERICAN POWER, BUT SHE DOES NOT ASPIRE TO BE PARAMOUNT. SHE DOES NOT FIND THE TRUE COMPLEMENT OF THE MONROE DOCTRINE IN AN UNDEFINED CONTROL OVER AMERICAN STATES EXERCISED BY HER AND DENIED TO EUROPE.

Its correlative, as forcibly urged by John Quincy Adams at the time of its formulation and since explicitly adopted by the national consciousness, is ABSTENTION FROM INTERFERENCE IN QUESTIONS TERRITORIALLY EUROPEAN.

In my apprehension, Europe, construed by the doctrine, would include Africa, with the Levant, India and the countries between them. It would not include Japan, China or the Pacific generally. The United States might, for very excellent reasons, abstain from action in any of these last named quarters in any particular instance, but the deterrent cause would not be the Monroe doctrine in the legitimate deduction.

CAPITALIZATION AND PUBLICITY

By MARTIN A. KNAPP, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission

I MAINTAIN that the stockholder, as such, is not benefited by corporate publicity and would be harmed rather than helped by its enforcement. It is one thing for the stockholder to have knowledge of the concern whose shares he holds; it is quite another thing to furnish the public the same information. I fail to see that publicity can be desirable or useful to the stockholder.

The justification for this proposal, therefore, must be found, if found at all, in the theory that the state is charged with the duty of safeguarding the investment of capital in corporate securities. To my mind this is a most serious proposition, and I think we should long hesitate before embarking upon such a paternal venture. Leaving out the speculator and taking into account only those seeking honest investment, ten times more money, to say the least, has been sunk in farm mortgages, suburban lots, patent rights, buying and selling grain, cotton and other commodities, where no corporate shares were dealt in or even existed, than was ever lost on account of the fictitious or excessive issue of corporate securities.

* * *

I CANNOT BUT REGARD CORPORATE PUBLICITY OF THE KIND AND TO THE EXTENT ADVOCATED BY MANY AS A CERTAIN AND SERIOUS HINDRANCE TO EFFECTIVE COMPETITION.

Just as the Sherman antitrust law, which is based upon an economic fallacy, has indirectly aided the very results it was designed to prevent, so THE COMPULSORY DISCLOSURE OF ALL CORPORATE TRANSACTIONS WOULD UNDERMINE THE COMPETITION IT WAS INTENDED TO SUPPORT.

Bearing in mind how rapidly all kinds of business are assuming the corporate form, that the competition of individuals is fast disappearing and that COMPETITION IN THE FUTURE WILL BE MAINLY BETWEEN CORPORATIONS, it seems plain to me that the enforcement of corporate publicity would be an added incentive to industrial combination.

WOMEN'S RIGHT TO VOTE

By JULIA WARD HOWE

IN Boston 18,500 women pay taxes every year on over $150,000,000 worth of property. They therefore bear an important part of the public expenses. They possess every characteristic which is deemed, in theory at least, essential in the male voter. They have reasonable education, reputable standing, adequate intelligence and taxable property. What hidden incompetence is it which unfits them for a share in the elections which decide the uses to which their public funds shall be applied? Women graduate with honor from our colleges. They adorn the professions—law, medicine, divinity. They occupy positions of trust and responsibility in the public service. Why should they be like "dumb, driven cattle," without choice, dissenting or dissenting, in matters which concern them as nearly and closely as they concern the men of the community?

How to Preserve Triumphant Democracy

By WILLIAM WINTER, Editor of the New York Tribune

WHEN the United States of America, the greatest republic in the world, save those so small that they are practically negligible, has existed for more than 125 years do not yet cover the whole continent, and have not yet reached the population of two human lives, while other republics, long since passed away, have existed as long as we and borne for their time the greatest glory in the world. Be not deceived.

OUR FORMS OF GOVERNMENT ARE GOOD, BUT NOT STRONG ENOUGH TO LAST FOREVER; AND WILL NEVER BE STRONG ENOUGH—TO LET EITHER LABOR OR CAPITAL SAY, OR THINK, THAT THE ONLY WAY OF LEARNING A TRADE OR CAPITAL SENSE IS BY GETTING OUT OF GOING INTO STRIKES.

[illegible] cannot preserve the triumphant democracy unless the American people [illegible] and [illegible] Americanism in his [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

T. L. BLOOD, & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 10:00 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 10:15 a. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:30 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 10:00 a. m. and departs at 1:30 p. m.
Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 10:00 to until 1:30 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on trains 25 and 30 only on Sundays.
E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

50 Years of Success
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of the quality and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, somechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133, I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING. VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Winkler, H. Hoppenrath, Wm. Schaules
N. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. It never fails to relieve. Nerve, Brain, Blood and Kidney Troubles. Prevents Fever. 35 cents. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitute. Ask your druggist.
OUT THEY GO.
NORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has 160 black farm land on clear foundation, producing 30 bushels per acre without irrigation. Raising stock is its true vocation. Good to feed, healthy roots the whole year. Crops never fail. Some at Eight prices. Farm loans at 6% per cent. Grazing lands at $5. Houses Free Homesteads adjoining. Write quick for map and facts. Booklet 50 cents. Write for my special rates.
Lyon & Brown
Mandan, N. Dak., or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

FARM AND GARDEN

FARM CONVENIENCES.

A Two Wheeled Barrow or Cart—A Handy Hauling Crate.

The wheelbarrow is one of the things no farmer who has much feeding or other heavy carrying to do can be without unless, of course, he has something better. For nearly everything a two wheeled cart is handier and easier to handle than a barrow, according to an Ohio Farmer correspondent, and he tells how to make this (and also a handy hauling crate) as follows: There is the material for the construction of one on nearly every farm, and the farmer himself can construct it on some rainy day or idle spell. For running gears a broken down or disused cultivator—most farmyards have two or three—furnishes the best of wheels. A handy width is from three to four feet, varying of course with the use the cart is to be put to. If to be used by the boys of the farm, it should not be large. The handles are bolted to the axle and a frame made of 2 by 4's bolted to the axle and handles. This frame should set so that about a third of its length will reach in front of the axle. This will give the proper balance when pushing a load. A platform of inch boards is nailed to the frame and an end put on by means of straps of iron to insure strength. Removable side boards are made of wide boards. Holes are bored three inches each side of the platform. Pins are driven into the bottom of the side boards to correspond and fit into the holes in the bottom of the platform. At the upper side, on the front end of the barrel, is a staple into which a hook, fastened to the front end of the box, slips when in place and holds it firm. There are many places about a farm where this cart will be found convenient. The figure shows the cart complete and one of the side boards.

FARM HAND CART.

It is often convenient to have a crate in which to haul a single hog, sheep or calf. It is not necessary to have it so large or so heavy but that it can be easily lifted into the wagon or even taken in the light wagon where the animal to be hauled is not too large and heavy. The frame should be made of 2 by 4, strengthened by rods and bolts. Four inch slats are nailed horizontal on the inside of the sides and perpendicular on the end. Three slats dropped from above and retained in position by the mortised end will retain the animal when inside.

The crate is about three feet wide, four and a half feet high and five feet long. The three frames are mortised at top and bottom and have a rod (A) at top, and at the bottom two 2 by 2's are bolted at B. The floor is spiked down to these. The slats are nailed on from the inside to prevent crowding off. To give strength substitute a 2 by 4 in place of slat (D), which should be bolted to the frames. The slats for retaining the animal are made of 2 by 4's. They are made to slip down between the rod and outside 2 by 4 brace across the top of the rear frame, the bottom of the slat (C) mortised to fit a square hole cut on the floor and the top held in position by a pin fitting into hole bored through the top of slat and braces of frame. The figure shows the crate complete.

LEGHT STOCK CRATE.

It Pays to Raise Pig Pork.

Those who have made a specialty of pig pork have done well at it. "Raising twice a year" is the way for us to do now. The way some of the old farmers who fatted pork can put their business was putting the last pound of fat on a 400 pound hog that was a year or more old.

Many years ago a little girl who was quite observing said about hogs. "They are funny animals, for they have to be killed every year." It must be owing a fear that hogs should be killed now. The pork is the thing, and it will pay to raise it.—New England Farmer.

Winter Wheat and Rye.

The April report of the statistician of the department of agriculture says of the average condition of winter wheat on April 1 "to have been 97.3 against 78.7 on April 1, 1902; 91.7 at the corresponding date in 1901 and 82.1 the mean of the April averages of the last ten years.

The average condition of winter rye on April 1 was 97.3 against 85.4 on April 1, 1902; 93.1 at the corresponding date in 1901 and 87.7 the mean of the April averages of the last ten years.

SUGAR BEETS.

Prompt Action in Thinning Saves Much Hand Labor.

Prompt action in thinning sugar beets will save many days' labor, and the blocking out with the hoe can be done faster before than after the first cultivation. While the beets are in the second and third leaf run the weeder across the rows and tear out half the beets.

In three days, if there is a good stand, use the weeder the second time and then cut out seven inch spaces with a hoe, leaving as small a space as possible in the block, which will contain from one to four beets. With a narrow hoe cut out all but the most vigorous plant in each block. The plants would then average eight inches or more apart.

In blocking out save vigorous plants, even if spaces are not regular, but be sure to give space for a large growth. With large beets the yield will be greater and more easily and cheaply handled.

By prompt action in thinning nearly if not all pulling out by hand can be avoided.

The seed required costs but little, and plenty should be used (especially with large drills, which may cover a portion too deep) to secure a continuous row. If the drill tooth is set to point back as far as the angle will let it, the neck yoke straps lengthened so as to drop the end of the tongue lower and the tooth chains are drawn up a few links and tied, there need be no trouble to sow at any depth desired.

Steels an inch wide can be purchased for 8 cents each and best low tooth for 25 cents. Either of these can be attached to any cultivator and are all the tools needed. Two or three cultivations following the thinning at intervals of a week should be sufficient, and work done on them after the sugar is usually adds nothing to the yield unless summer weeds or a crust comes on.—Edwin A Rural New Yorker correspondent.

Handy in Haying Time.

A Wisconsin correspondent sends the Farm Journal a model of a convenience for use in hay time. In wide mows or bays when the fork delivers the hay in the center in the usual manner it must be forked laboriously to the sides. To remedy this the correspondent has a board platform, 8, 6 by 9 feet, nailed to a 4 by 6 inch piece turned at the ends and pivoted at A, in blocks nailed to the plank, C. A rope is fastened to each end of the platform so that it can be tipped to either side as desired. Planks can be laid across each bent and sockets fastened on each one, so that the dumping platform and the attached roller can be moved easily in order to be effective the hay must drop every time near the center of platform. On a wooden track this can be effected by boring a hole in the track and putting an iron pin through it. On an iron track the same end can be secured by a clamp screwed on.

DUMPING PLATFORM.

Cotton Seed Meal on Black Soil.

Putting cotton seed meal on black land is like carrying coals to Newcastle. If the land is in good condition, I believe the cotton cultivator so much nitrogen would be practically lost, since the most of our black soils are well supplied with this material. If, on the other hand, barnyard manures give large returns with corn on black land then the cotton seed might be useful. In my opinion a fertilizer better adapted to these lands would be a phosphate and potash containing about 8 or 10 per cent of available phosphoric acid and 4 or 5 per cent of potash.—H. A. Huston. Indiana Experiment Station.

A Good Lawn Grass Mixture.

The following mixture of the very best reclaimed seed has been found to make the most satisfactory permanent lawn under nearly all conditions in the north as well as in the south and in California: Redtop, thirty pounds; blue grass, thirty pounds; white clover, sixteen pounds per acre. In the south and in California the Bermuda grass has more extended use, but while it makes an attractive cushion-like turf it is almost impossible to eradicate it from walks and beds, into which it spreads with the greatest facility.—Country Life in America.

Forest Fires.

In an account given of the severe forest fires which occurred last September in Washington and Oregon it is stated that in all more than 600,000 acres were swept by fire. In some regions not a single living tree remains to seed the burned areas. In a few places the Douglas spruce remains in sufficient abundance to secure the reproduction of the forest, but cedar, silver fir and hemlock, being less resinous and to fire, were invariably killed.

One Thing and Another.

The value of the bean crop in Michigan in 1901 is put at $9,300,000, only $700,000 short of the wheat crop of the state for the same year.

Statistics indicate a slight increase in the swine growing industry in twenty-six states.

A large increase in the sugar beet acreage around Santa Barbara is reported.

In tests made at the Pennsylvania experiment station with a number of farm seeds it was found that as a rule clover seeds were quite free from impurities. Crimson clover was especially clean.

Tomatoes should not be set till all danger of frost is over—say the latter part of May—for they will wilt when a chill than is sometimes thought.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. We will not sell until we have that in your own pocket.

We have a large list for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These lands will be sold at a price that will surprise you. Only 5000 can be sold at this price. Railroad can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a 5 to thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,
BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Some Remarkable Guns.

At the siege of Rhodes the Turks constructed mortars by hollowing out cavities in the solid rock at the proper angle, and in the arsenal at Malta is a copy of the long and glorious defense of Valetta, in a Turkish gun, about a six pounder, composed of a copper tube coiled over with strong rope and "jacketed" with rawhide. In the same collection are some antique "quick fires," breechloaders, with small bores and immensely long barrels, like great pistols. The Malay prizes put great trust in the long brass swivel guns called "lela," and in Borneo these lelas were used as a kind of currency, large sums being estimated in guns.

The Chinese cast excellent bronze guns (there is a fine specimen of them in Devonport dockyard, but no little girl has ever been found to ride on one), the so called "optam war" the forts of the Bocca Tigris, defending the Canton river, had the guns built immovably into the walls. The Sikh gunners opposed to us in the two Punjab wars, though they loaded with amazing recklessness, shoveling in the powder from open boxes, stuck to their guns to the last. The blood of the first man killed was smeared on the gun, and the whole detachment died beside it sooner than retreat.—Chambers' Journal.

His Pet Superstition.

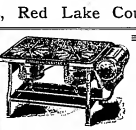
"Superstitious men are to be connected in the minds of most people with women, ladders, rabbits' feet and horseshoes," said the young girl at the piano. "As a matter of fact, however, I know that most are fully as superstitious as the women of my acquaintance, and sometimes more so. One young man of my acquaintance, for instance, who has literary yearnings and who feels sure he could astonish the public with his brilliant stories if he could only get some editor to accept them, spends his summers in the country gathering inspiration, local color and—four leaf clovers. When winter comes he returns to his bailroom in the city, writes stories by the wholesale and dispatches with each consignment to the editors a four leaf clover. Sometimes the scrip is not accepted, and then the writer ascribes his success to the talisman. More often, however, they are returned, with the mascot in a more or less crumpled condition, and he spends what leisure hours he has in trying to figure out why it is those clovers don't work every time. Never for a moment does he ascribe failure to any faults in his manuscripts. Isn't that the limit in the way of superstition?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Has Served Fifty-Five Years.

Albert von Kolliker has been professor of anatomy in the University of Wurzburg, Germany, for the last fifty-five years.

Australia's Only Beast of Prey.

The only beast of prey found in Australia is the dingo, or wild dog.



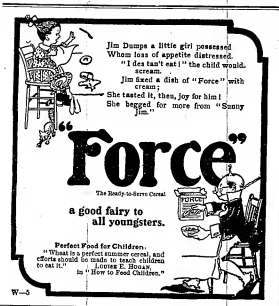
THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN
Oil Stove,
Refrigerator or Ice Cream freezer
You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of
Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages
Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils
FRANK E. HUNT
HARDWARE DEALER.
No trouble to show goods.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.
What it Means
to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.
Best terms and lowest rates on farm loans. List your farms with us.

Possibilities in Advertising.

The man who thinks satisfactory ads can be dashed off in a few minutes at any time thereby proves that he has no comprehension of the immense possibilities of good advertising.—Advertising Experience.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.



W—3

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papetries
Tablets
Letter Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Galling Cards
Card Racks
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office . . . . . Supplies . . . . . .

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be Satisfactory

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, In Advance.

R. C. BOWMAN, the cartoonist of the Minneapolis Tribune, died last Friday from asphyxiation at his Minneapolis home. "Doc" Bowman was without doubt the ablest cartoonist in the west, and his work was always loudly praised.

THE crop bulletins for the past week show crop conditions excellent throughout the valley at present; a little rain only being needed. Reports from other parts of Minnesota are not so encouraging, all the rains are reported as letting up. Northern Minnesota has been fortunate and will send forth a "bumper" crop in the fall.

WITH the southern part of Minnesota and northern Iowa flooded and crop prospects decidedly unfavorable, the elegant weather and promising outlook for this section will mean the immigration of a large number of homeseekers during the season. The signs were never more favorable for a bounteous yield and nothing daunting the farmers will reap a golden reward in the fall.

ANYONE who keeps a cream separator in the barn will do well by moving it out before the state inspector happens to come around, says the Ada Index. The new law (see Chap. 155, G. L. 1903) makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by ninety days imprisonment in the the county jail or $100 fine—or both. It is in the interest of better dairying.

THE case of the state of Minnesota against the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Northern Securities companies, another of the socalled merger cases, will be argued June 4 or 5, the exact date to be announced later. Argument will be before Judge Lochren in the United States circuit court. An attempt was made to take the case at once to the United States circuit court of appeals, as was done in the government suit against the same defendants, but agreement could not be reached on this point. It is hoped, however, that the state's case may get to the United States supreme court at the time that the appeal in the government suit is taken up—probably in October or November.

SO FAR as loss of life is concerned, the early accounts of flood at Topeka were exaggerated, representing the fears of those who sent them rather than definite acknoledge—for whil the flood swept its height there was no way of ascertaining who were drownedand who were saved. Multitudes who were missing have come out of the treetops and other providential retreats. Instead of hundreds, the fatality statistics will deal only with scores. The property loss, however, is likely to be very heavy, not only in Topeka and Kansas City, Lawrence and Salina, but at various points in Nebraska and Oklahoma. It is that the losses in Topeka alone will aggregate $3,000,000. Thousands of people throughout the flooded districts have been rendered homeless, and are also without clothing and food. In other parts of the country these are warm-hearted men and women, grateful for their own comforts, who will contribute to their relief.

JUSTICE TO ALL ALIKE.

Dr. Albert Alonzo Ames, ex-mayor of Minneapolis, is convicted by a jury of twelve true men of beia' a boodler and the idol of Minneapolis rabble has been iconoclasted. It's a pity that one so high must take so violent a tumble but it is better to have him get just punishment at last than to have a lot of shortsighted young men get the erroneous notion in their noddles that if you are big enough in rank and position and influence you can crime it all you please and you will never get your just deserts in the way of penalty, says "Farmer Ben" in the Austin Tanscript. It's a good lesson to boodlers in smaller places who have rakeoffs in a small way of all contacts and jobs that are let. You don't have to go far off to find officials who have robbed the tax payers by acceptin' higher bids than was fair so as to get a divide for the contract to favored parties and companies. Folks can't liv in luxury and do nothin', for a livin'. If they don't earn their bread by honest work they've got some dishonest way, and officials that can in a few years spread out and show up mosey by the ten thousands when a few years agone they have nothin' not even tick at a grocery can't get so much money by pickin' it off bushels and trees. I calkeriate that if ever honest men can be got to run all public affairs honestly and economically and without any rakeoff, our taxes will be cut rite in two parts and we'd have to pay the one half and the other will be saved.

Low Summer Tourist Rates.

Via Chicago Great Western Railway. Round trips to Colorado, Utah, Black Hills, New Mexico and Texas points. Tickets on sale daily June 1st to Sept. 30. Good to return Oct. 31st. For further information apply to any Great Western Agent, or J.P. Elmer, G. P. A., Chicago, Ill.

Fry for Red Lake Streams.

A number of the officers of the Duluth state fish hatchery brought a consignment of fry to this county last Friday. It was composed of 250,000 brook and rainbow trout and steelheads. They are to be placed in a stream near Thief River that was found suitable for both of the nature. The steelhead is a fish that is found altogether on the Pacific coast between Monterey, Cal., and Alaska, and through the experiments of the fish commission has been found to be a most suitable game fish for the waters of northern Minnesota.

"Business Is Business."

The above phrase probably serves to cover more meanness in the human race than any other excuse that was ever invented. You know, and everyone knows, a lot of men are thoroughly good fellows until you come to do business with them, and then they throw aside friendship, fairness and everything else, say "business is business," and proceed to cheat you out of house and home. "Business is not busi-

CONTINUE

Those who are gaining flesh and strength by regular treatment with

Scott's Emulsion

should continue the treatment in hot weather; a little less oil and a little cool milk with it (not in it) will help. There's no objection to taking Scott's Emulsion during the heated season.

Send for free sample.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

ness unless it is seasoned with sympathy and kindness." The man who uses Golden Grain Belt beer regularly is sound and healthy in mind and body. He feels right and acts right, which is impossible for a sick man. You will enjoy this delicious tonic at home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

A Moral Show.

Goldmer Bros.' big railroad show exibited in this city Monday and gave two very good performances to tremendous crowds. The menagerie was excellent and comprised a large collection of animals. The only hyppopotamus in captivity was of course the center of interest in that line. The street parade formed promptly on time and was greeded its entire length by crowds of spectators. The attractions indicated by show bills were strictly as advertised. The show was clean and orderly and met the approval of all attending. Goldmar Bros. will always draw good crowds and prosper because their is strictly moral in every sense of show the word.—Hartford Press. At Red Lake Falls Saturday, June 13.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

THE COURIER is several hours behind time this week—not because of a strike or a "jag" of the force—but on account of a contemptible "bucking" gasoline engine. From noon Thursday until 1 a. m. Friday the entire force used all the persuasion at its command to induce it to run, but to no avail.

Through the kind offer of Editor Kaufer, of the Gazette, and the willing hnnd extented by his foremnn, Joseph Koke, we were allowed the use of their machinery, for which they have the everlasting thanks of this office force. The engine could not be described in terms that would suit the most particular, but we will leave the task to other pens.

Hunting Alligators In Great Cypress Swamp

A sportsman who has been hunting the big alligators that infest the lagoons of the Great Cypress swamp relates an exciting experience he had with a big saurian:

One afternoon in the Cheesehowitska river I harpooned a large alligator which towed me up and down the stream for an hour or two and then I tied in to the deepest part. I pulled on the line until the boat was directly over him and stirred him up with the harpoon pole. He pulled himself up on the line in the manner peculiar to sharks and alligators and hanged the boat up so that I could not get it to the bank and, seeing fast to some bushes, landed on the island we occupied in worrying him nearly to the boat, when he rose to the surface and attacked us with open mouth. We repelled the attack with the boat pole and rifle. The struggle was promptly bitten in three pieces, but the latter apparently disliked him. It was so nearly dark that we decided to carry him in the skiff a mile down the river to where our camp was anchored and to skin him the next morning.

It was growing very dark and the water around us was becoming alive with alligators. While we were reflecting upon our overloaded condition our alligator came to life and shifted halfast until water poured over the gunwale. We quickly balanced the boat, only to see it again disturbed and to ship more water. A scramble for the shore followed, which we reached without capsizing, and where we left our victim for the night after again killing him. In the morning our bateaud friend from the Homosassa river, surrounded by his family, was sitting above him in a tree, waiting for us to attend to our carving duties.

Where He Slept.

HOSE—Sunday's such a slow day. Why, I was in bed and asleep by 9 o'clock last Sunday night. JOSE—Huh! I was asleep at 7:45. "Come off! You never went to bed that early." "Oh, no; but I was in church at that time."—Philadelphia Record.

Origin of "Grass Widow."

Grass widow is a term derived from the French word "gesse," meaning courtesy, and has nothing to do with the English word "grass."

Caribou in Newfoundland.

Thousands of caribou, or North American reindeer, are to be found in Newfoundland

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer $100 for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.—F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, Price 75c per bottle.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

$19.00—From Chicago to Boston and return.—$19.00.

Via Nickel Plate road, account meeting of Christian Scientists, June 26th-July 1st. Tickets on sale June 25th, 26th and 27th, with open return limit of June 28th. By depositing ticket with point agent in Boston on July 1st, 2d, 3rd or 4th, and payment of fee of 50c, extended limit until August 1st may be obtained. Stop over at Niagara Falls, in either direction, without extra fare. No excess fare charged on any of our trains. Three trains daily. Through vestibuled sleepers. American club meals in dining cars on Nickel Plate road, also meals a la carte. Address John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for reservation of sleeping car space and other information.

That Throbbing Headach.

Would quickly leave you if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousan.s of suffers have proved their matchless merit for sick and nervous headache. One trial convinces. Only 25c. Guaranteed by health. Only 25c, money back if not cured. Sold by W. A. Schrieter.

Estray.

Bay filly three years old, weight about 900 pounds, star in forehead, white strip on nose and two white fetlocks. One brown filly two years old, weight bhout 700 pounds, white star on forehead and scar on left ear caused by rope. Finder please report to Louis Gonyea, Crookston, Minn., and receive $10 reward.

Ladies and Children Invited.

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking effects of laxative syrups, carthartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not gripe in the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the easy pill. W. Hazell, Hemphill, Texas, says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, &c. Bob Moore, Lafayette, Ind., says all others gripe and sicken, but Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Full line of ledgers, journals and blank books of all kinds at THE COURIER stationery stand.

Kodol Gives Strength

By enabling the digestive organs to digest, assimilate and transform all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that nourishes the body and gives the tissues and hardens the muscles and recuperates the organs of digestion. Kodo Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, dyspesia, catarrh of the stomach and all stomach disorders. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Good in Artesian Wells.

The New South Wales government has sunk 82 artesian wells, 66 of which brought water quite to the surface. Only eight were total failures.

Leaves the South for Yale.

Andrew Fields, the young professor of Georgia, whose articles on the negro problem in a recent issue of the Atlantic raised such objection in the South that he was forced to resign his chair, has entered the Yale graduate school, taking a course in advance of classics.

Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

If you don't your food does not do you much good. Kodol Dyspepsia cure is the remedy that every one should take when their stomach is wrong with the stomach. There is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind and body except by nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet or the strength will let down and disease set in. No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headach, constipation, bad breath, sour stomach, belching, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $50 to the first mentioned and $60 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

Driven to Desperation.

Living at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident resulting in burns, cuts, wounds, ulcers, etc. Lay to a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth. Only 25c at W. A. Schrieter's.

The Only Way

To get at the superiority of one thing over another is by comparison, and after traveling over every line between Minneapolis and Chicago the traveler will admit that the Northwestern line represents the superlative degree of railway comfort and luxury in its elegant northwestern limited. This statement was made by a prominent man in an interview in the Minneapolis Times.

Furniture for Sale.

To close out the last of my household furniture I will sell very cheap for cash the following articles: 3-piece bedroom suit, one upholstered chair, four lamps, four dozen fruit jars and other small articles.—JOHN GRADY.

"Never too late to mend;" may apply to some things, but if your horse has a cough, cold or attack of any kind, the quicker you apply Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve the better. It cures quickly and never leaves a scar. Guaranteed. 50c and $1 cans. Sold by all druggists.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:
A. P. TOUPIN, PRESIDENT, THEO. LARIS, CASHIER, VICE PRESIDENT, A. DUPUY, CASHIER, F. P. DUPUY, A. C. DUPUY.
Directors—A. P. TOUPIN, ANDY GUSTAFSON, S. SCHERGEN, E. S. CAMPBELL, A. DUPUY, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEODORE LARISCHEVEQUE.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. I finally was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I am completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

Girl Wanted

Good girl wanted for general housework. Good wages. Apply to L. A. Dautremont.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
COUNTY OF RED LAKE.
In District Court, Fourteenth Judicial District.
Theo. Lavery, plaintiff, vs. Edward Mauzy, defendant.
State of Minnesota to the above named defendant:
You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the above entitled action, a copy of which is filed in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the Fourteenth Judicial District, in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota, and to serve a copy of your answer to the said complaint on the subscribers at their office in Red Lake Falls, in the county of Red Lake, and state of Minnesota, within thirty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer the said complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint. F. A. DARLING, Attorney for Plaintiff, Red Lake Falls, Minn. Dated May 19th, 1903. May-28-5

It's All the Wheat.

That's Fit to Eat....

Mascot

"A Pure Flour"

Sweet, Pure and Wholesome

That's why MASCOT flour is so hard to beat.

Don't take our word for it, but try a sample order and be convinced that it is the best flour on the market today. We have been testing flour for years and have never found a brand that came so near our idea of the best. The quality is always uniform and it is equally good for bread, pastry and cake. Try it and see.

RED LAKE FALLS MILLING CO.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets.

Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months.

This signature, E. W. Grove

Cures Grip in Two Days.

25c.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete Line of Jewelry, Silverware, Watches Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

The family of Geo. Stoll left on Tuesday evening's for their future home at Missoula, Mont.

Miss Francis Lesdle left Monday for her home at Moorhead, where she will spend her summer vacation.

Misses Kate Martin and Lillian Buse were at Thief River Falls a couple of days the fore part of the week.

Miss Alice Quesnell, of Badger, spent several days in town, the guest of her grandfather, P. La Bissoniere.

J. P. Harren and family left on Tuesday's N. P. train via Grand Forks for a visit with relatives at St. Cloud.

Messrs. C. E. Winslow and D. W. Winton, two Thief River Falls lumber magnates, were visitors at the county seat yesterday afternoon.

M. J. Ackerland, of Bray, was here Tuesday on business before Judge of Probate Tarrant in regard to the estate of his father.

Belair & Cyr have their merry-go-round up and in running order. They will probably stay here with the machine for several weeks.

Scandinavian Lutheran services will be held at the city hall Sunday morning at 10:30, Rev. I. T. Austad of Thief River, conducting the same.

Editor and banker H. M. Martinson, Emmous, Minn., is here this week with a bunch of seekers after Red Lake county realty investments.

United States Senator Clapp delivered the address to the graduating class of the Preston high school at their commencement exercises last week.

O. Robillard, D. Lachance and C. Noel left on the Northern Pacific Tuesday for a prospecting tour of several weeks in the great west, Portland, Oregon, being their objective point.

Wiley Trudolph, the hustling town-lot man of the up-river Falls, was a business visitor here Friday and found time to call at THE COURIER office.

We have a fine assortment of screens of good material and well made—and as usual our prices cannot be beaten.—SR. HILAIRE RETAIL LUMBER CO.

H. L. Langlois, who has spent the past two or three weeks at the residence of his sister, Mrs. August Krueger, returned to his Chicago home Monday.

August Krueger has taken the agency for the John Grund Brewing company of LaCrosse, and will put in a large storage refrigerator here within a few days.

Messrs. Howard and Clery Monley and Adelard Lemieuxand Misses Albina and Ida Lemieux formed a party who spent Sunday at Maple Lake and Mentor.

Tom Green was at Thief River Falls Sunday and purchased Mayor Krutka's team of fancy steppers. Mr. Green now has the swellest team in the county and they are worth a great deal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. O'Brien and daughters drove to Crookston Sunday and spent the day and part of Monday at the homes of Mr. O'Brien's brothers.

John O. Buan is rushing work on a 50-room hotel at Maple Lake and hopes to have it ready by the opening of the season at the popular resort. The hotel will be newly furnished throughout.

Several of the surrounding towns are already making arrangements to celebrate July 4, and the band has had one or two offers to furnish music on that occasion.

Mrs. Tubbs, mother of Mrs. C. F. Elvidge arrived from Marshall, this state, yesterday to spend several weeks at the home of her daughter in Louisville township.

N. A. Nelson, secretary of the St. Hilaire Creamery association, was a caller at the county seat yesterday. Mr. Nelson has engaged in hen raising quite extensively, and reports excellent success with them.

Dr. Iman Ed. Bray had his dray team fitted out with a brand new set of heavy harness this week. The harness was manufactured by T. G. Brindle, and is an elegant a piece of work as is usually seen.

The baccalaureate sermon delivered by Rev. Walker at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was largely attended and highly appreciated. The Senior class of the high school attended in a body.

D. D. Hanson of Mission, Wis., was a visitor to Red Lake Falls on Tuesday and paid this office a visit. He is an employe of the Mauston Star and was looking over the country with a view to locating.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church will serve supper at the home of Mrs. E. L. Healy on Wednesday, June 10, price 25c. During the evening ice cream and cake will be served. Price 15c.

August Reichel will return from his Washington trip the latter part of the week. It is understood that he has purchased land in the vicinity of Puyallup, Washington, and will move his family to that point.

A crew of North western telephone linemen were here over Sunday. They had been engaged in stringing an additional wire from Grand Forks to this city, increased business making this move necessary.

The band will give an open air concert somewhere on Main street Friday evening. It will consist of several choice selections and will probably last until dark. Our people should make it a point to turn out.

Miss Gertrude Colliton left Monday for Grand Forks for a few days stay with relatives, after which she will go to Moorhead for her summer vacation. Miss Colliton will teach in the Virginia City schools next year.

The Misses Ebbinhouser, Hilmen and Zalser of Crookston came over Monday to attend the commencement exercises at the Metropolitan that evening. They were guests at the home of Mrs. B. Zalser during their stay.

The street sprinkler was put in commission Tuesday and has been keeping the dust down on Main street during the week. Joseph Sally was given the contract to do the sprinkling at a price of $40 per month to start.

Crookston Journal: S. M. Sivertson, who is connected with the management of the new flouring mill enterprise, drove down from Red Lake Falls Friday to note the progress on the new building which is rapidly approaching completion.

The remains of Mrs. Nels Holberg reached the city on the noon train Saturday and were interred in the cemetery east of town, a large concourse of old friends following them to their last resting peace. The family has the sympathy of the community.

Geo. O. Bjornsby and wife of Grafton, N. D., arrived Tuesday and will remain until tomorrow guests at the home of A. G. Bjornsby. Mr. Bjornsby reports crop prospects in North Dakota and throughout the valley as being the best in a long number of years.

Sheriff Linnihan took young Schmitz, the youthful Thief River burglar, to Red Wing Friday last, where he will remain in the reform school until he learns more. Dan returned Monday and says that the southern part of the state has water enough to last several years.

Crookston Times (Friday): John A. Duffy, cashier of the Merchants' bank and W. A. McIntyre, drove down from Red Lake Falls today on business concerning the Paternoude bankruptcy case in which Mr. McIntyre appears as attorney. They will remain and take in the game today.

C. F. Johnson, S. A. Swanson, B. Puschinsky, O. Thomas and A. P. Toupin went to Bemidji Saturday on a fishing excursion of a day or two. They returned Monday morning with large strings of the finny members, and say that the fish never bit better than they are doing this year.

The creamery is now running practically six days in the week and a large amount of milk is received daily. A great deal of butter is being shipped each week, and the local demand consumes considerable. The founders of the creamery project are to be congratulated upon its success.

Miss Lydia Fletcher returned Saturday from Devils Lake, N. D., to spend her summer vacation. Miss Fletcher will be one of the instructors at the summer school to be held in Polk county this year, and in the fall will take charge of the primary department in the Washington school in this city.

Rev. Father Fayolle informs THE COURIER that the largest class in the history of St. Joseph's congregation will make their first communion some time the latter part of this month. It will consist of seventy-eight girls and fifty boys, and will be an important event in the lives of the little ones.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church wish to extend their sincere thanks to all those who assisted in making the carnival the success that it was. Especially are they grateful to the young ladies and little girls outside of the congregation, and also the orchestra, who aided them so much.

Clerk Perrault reports the usual amount of activity in the matrimonial market this week, and as a result two couples have been granted license to wed. They were Gilbert Olson and Marit Enseth, both of the town of Norden and Roderigue Jolly, of Terrehonne, and Miss Angeline Fournier, of this city.

At St. Joseph's church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock occurred the marriage of Roderigue Jolly of Terrehonne to Miss Angeline Fournier of this city, Rev. Father Fayolle officiating. The contracting parties are well known throughout this part of the county and are receiving the congratulations of their friends.

The Misses Cora Nelson, Nay Blasing and Olga Wetzel left on Saturday for their homes at Detroit City, Excelsior and Sauk Rapids respectively. Misses Nelson and Blasing will not return to Red Lake Falls, but will take up school duties elsewhere. They have many friends here who will wish them success in their chosen fields.

The Red Lake Falls ball team will go to St. Hilaire Sunday where they will play the team of that place. It is understood that the St. Hilaire aggregation has been strengthened considerably and will make an unusual effort to best the Red Lake Falls champions. It is likely that a large number of rooters will accompany the home team.

Prof. Chat O. Smith came up from Reynolds, N. D., Tuesday and will hereafter make his headquarters in Red Lake Falls. The band will hold rehersals on Tuesday and Friday evenings hereafter instead of Tuesday and Wednesday. Prof. Smith is an able instructor and a good citizen, and will be welcomed here by a host of admiring friends.

Crookston Journal: Mrs. Carl Kretschmar, of Thief River Falls, and sister, Mrs. W. A. Schreiter, of Red Lake Falls, drove over from the latter place yesterday and spent a few hours. The are interested in the case of the city of Thief River Falls versus the water power company of that place, Mrs. Kretschmar being the owner of the latter peice of property.

Aerial Guardian: Clarence Albert the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs Ole Olson, died, of diphtheria, at the home of the family in Red Lake county, May 8, 1903. He was born in Otney township, Nobles county, in 1898. The family moved to Red Lake county two years ago Clarence was a bright, loving little boy and will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

The Red Lake Falls base ball team went to Mentor Sunday and added another scalp to their belt. The game was entirely too one sided to be interesting, and our boys only endeavored to keep far enough ahead to win without having to exert themselves. The score stood 11 to 5 at the close of the game. A goodly number of spectators witnessed the game.

The St. Hilaire and Thief River ball team met on the latter diamond Sunday last, and the story of the week before was reversed with considerable firework attachements. The St. Hilaire players were taken into the Thief River camp to a tune of 9 to 19 and with comparative ease, it is reported. This means a game apeice for the two nines and the final contest will probably be unusually exiting.

Gollmar Bros. advertising car No. 1 was here Friday, and now every hill board and barn within a ten mile radius proclaims the fact that this "world renown railroad show" will exhibit at Red Lake Falls June 13. Gollmar Bros. are comparative strangers to this section of the country, but where they are known their coming is heralded with pleasure. Red Lake county people should prepare for a holiday on the date of their visit.

Miss. Lolu V. Lashy leaves tonight's Northern Pacific for her home at Ann Arbor, Michigan. Miss Lashy has been the principal of the Red Lake Falls high school for the past three years, and that she has decided not to return here again this fall has caused universal regret throughout the city. Miss Lashy was greatly admired both as a lady and a teacher and will have the best wishes of numerous friends for success wherever she may decide to make her home.

Memorial day was observed in Red Lake Falls by a large proportion of the citizens. The parade formed about 10:30, and headed by the band made a tour of the principal streets of the city, bringing up at the city hall, where the exercises were held. Appropriate addresses were delivered by Messrs. N. M. Watson, Thos. Germo and Rev. Nauman, and patriotic music was furnished by the band. The stores, banks and postoffice were closed and the day was made a holiday by the people.

The McIntosh Tribune says that the Crookston land office has been notified to look out for a number of school teachers who, it is said, are about to take up timber claims in the northern part of the state at the instigation of a man named Palmer, who is figuring on clearing $100 on each of 50 claims, while a lumber company is reported to be willing to pay the sum of $400 to the pedagogues for their trouble, all of which is directly contrary to the laws relating to the taking of government claims. The notification in the first intimation the local office had received of the proposed deal.

The office of Treasurer Tandberg has been a scene of great activity the past week, the last of May being the limit for the payment of the first half of real estate taxes. The treasurer reports that the taxes are well paid up, and to give an idea of the amount of work there is to handle, he stated that nearly $15,000 was received at that office the last day for payment. The fact that the taxes are so well paid up is evidence of unusual prosperity throughout the banner county of the state, and should be a source of gratification to its people.

The parochial school has been having state examinations during the past week, and the papers have been returned to the superintendent of public instruction. This school has gained in enrollment steadily since its start and now has about 200 pupils attending. The school will close the last of the present month for a vacation of two months, the fall term commencing September 1. It is a source of satisfaction to the citizens that the school has been so successful, and Father Fayolle is deserving of great praise for the able manner in which he has brought it to a solid footing.

At St. Josepa's church Sunday two new societies for children were organized—the Children of Mary, composed of eighty-five girls, and the Society of St. Aloysius, with a membership of thirty boys. An appropriate sermon was delivered by Father Fayolle and elegant badges were given the members. The officers of the societies are as follows: Children of Mary—Eugenia LaBissoniere, president; Eva Paradis, vice president; Rose Cyr, secretary. Boys' Sodality—Anthony Paradis, president; Napoleon Locourciers, vice president; August LaBissoniere, secretary. The new societies start out under auspicious circumstances and will no doubt prove pleasant and profitable to the members.

WILL BE HERE IN A FEW DAYS!

Gollmar Bros.'

Big New Railroad Shows

Tripple Circus, Elevated Stages, Romam Hippodrome, Free Horse Exhibit and Deep Sea Anuarium.

A GIGANTIC UNDERTAKING Head and shoulders Over So-Called Rivals.

20-Funny Old Clowns-20

A multitude of riders, leapers, aerialists, aeronauts, gymnasts, charioteers and everytning pertainins to the circus world, Big double menagerie of all the brute creation. Herd of big elephants.

Gollmar Bros.' $20,000 Feature—The Only

Real Living Hippoptamus

In captivity, a savage, blood sweating terror of the River Nile, the only one in the known world, on exhibition afternoon and evening in Gollmar Bros.' millionaire menageries.

Five Bands of Music, Three Circus Rings, Elevated Stages, 500 Men and Women Employed, 300 Ponies.

Every Morning at 10 o'clock a Grand Colossal

FREE STREET PARADE.

A mommoth free street show, seven open dens of wild beasts, ponderous marching elephants, an amazing wonderland, ten different kinds of music, a double procession of shinging armor, glittering dens, cages, band chariots, rich and rore costumes of silks and satins, tableaux, floats, comedy provokers, a perfect blaze of splendor mahestically moving upon the public highway at 10 oclock a. m.

Two Performances Daily, Afternoon and Evening. Doors Open at 1 and 7 O'clock.

RND LAKE FALLS, SATURDAY, JUNE 13TH,

A Big Bargain

Combination Book Case and Writing Desk. Sale Price,

Only $11.75.

Anderson & Healy

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL, $25,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

The Courier for Jobs.

Life

Renewed. Left Side Badly Affected.

Liable to Paralytic Stroke.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Gave Me New Life.

"This is to certify that I have used Dr. Miles' Remedies quite extensively, especially the Restorative Nervine, which has done wonders for me. Six years ago I had nervous prostration and again three years ago, at which time I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I was then in bed for six months and have taken an occasional dose during the last two years. I am practically a new man and feel that I have been given a new lease of life. I used to have very bad attacks of stomach trouble by times using the Nervine I can eat most anything I want with impunity. I was examined in Omaha by a noted German doctor three years ago, who told me that my left side was affected, also my heart, and was afraid if it did not was badly affected. That was just before I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. My work for two years and a half has been very trying on my nerves. I am a presiding elder, traveling my district at the rate of ten thousand miles a year, preaching on an average of five times a week, besides many business meetings, and the publishinghouse agent of my work in general. Thanks to Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, I have been doing it with despite this bad week until now I weigh a hundred and ninety-six pounds, nearly twenty pounds more than at all my life. I preach Nervine wherever I go to those afflicted with nerve, heart or stomach trouble."—Rev. M. D. Myers, Presiding Elder, Free Methodist Church, Greensburgh, Ind.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,
Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults.....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

Fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO PAY. Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.
RED LAKE FALLS.

No.		Arrive	Depart
No. 15.	Mixed train to Grand Forks	7:45 a m	7:45 a m
	EAST-BOUND.
No. 16.	Mixed train Grand Forks to Fertile....	5:45 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. MILLEN, Agent.

IN THE FALL of the CAMPANILE

By Clinton Dangerfield

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

"I tell thee," returned old Jacopo querulously and with the same impatient groan, "that often and often I see St. Mark pigeons when they grew too familiar—"I tell thee thou canst not have the girl"

"But I love her," urged Charlie Harkness, with the blind belief of lovers that this argument is sufficient.

"What if thou dost?" said the old guide sharply. "Thou art but an American seaman, speaking our fairest mother tongue most vilely, and who doubts but thou hast a light of love in every port thou hast touched on?"

"That is false," said the American quietly, "Any one of my shipmates would tell you so."

"To the devil with thy shipmates and thee!" answered Jacopo petulantly. "One thing I swear to thee—my Tessa shall no man have unless he dwell within sight of the campanile."

As he spoke he gleaned affectionately at the great bell tower crowning St. Mark's. Under the benign smile of the golden angel poised on its graceful height had Jacopo in his long gone youth pledged his troth.

To that deed Tessa had he first told the story of the campanile—how Doge Pietro Tribuno had begun it centuries ago, how it had been used as a hanging place for the haughty nobles of Venice. So well had he told it that she suggested to him the occupation of guide, and under her inspiration he had succeeded beyond his hopes. It pleased to be a great favorite among all tourists, and to people of many different kinds he repeated, never wearying, the history of the bell tower.

Though a man of no education, he was strongly tinged with the poetry of his passionate country and often comprehended far better than most of the slight crammed tourists who trotted after him the unparalleled beauty of the whole group of buildings on the famous piazza.

THE AMERICAN RAN FOR BOTH THEIR LIVES.

That an American should dare to think of carrying Tessa away forever filled him with dismay. Suddenly turning, he plunged into an alley and disappeared from view. Harkness was left to wander disconsolately through the piazza and to ponder on Tessa's gentle but firm assurance that she could not marry without her father's consent.

"As if our redwood trees and some of our canyons weren't worth a thousand bell towers!" he muttered wrathfully. Then suddenly he grasped the arm of a bystander and, pointing eagerly to the campanile, demanded to his usual cure Italian if "that" had always been there.

"That" proved to be a crack yawning in the campanile itself. In his surprise and horror the Venetian overlooked the slight to his dignity.

"Signore, no," he said anxiously. "The authorities must be informed."

The authorities were informed, and a careful inspection resulted in the discovery that the supreme treasure of Italy was in danger. So at least said the city magistrates, but old Jacopo refused to believe.

"When thy bones and mine have been a century decayed," he said scornfully to Harkness, "the campanile will stand there."

So thought most of those in the city, but yet they paid some heed to the warnings of the guards set by the city council and generally avoided the piazza. Not so old Jacopo. He felt as certain of the security of the tower as did the pigeons drifting to and fro beside it in the mellow Italian sunlight. The Monday following the discovery of the crack he was persistently lingering near the campanile, though much irritated by the presence of Tessa's lover, who continued to urge his suit.

That the American had found this flaw in the tower angered the guide bitterly, and he turned the fiercest of ears to all the young man's pleading, so deaf indeed that at first he took the ominous crackling sound rising abruptly from the tower for an apple slum elsewhere in the city. But at Harkness' cry he whirled around and faced the awful sight of the campanile crashing down toward them both.

In full reach of the sinking angel he stood gaping. Then two powerful arms lifted him like a feather, and the American ran for both their lives.

As Harkness put it, "I was a mighty brave sharer." When the dust from the fallen stones settled, the two found themselves standing, unharmed indeed, but not six feet from the crushed figure of the once mighty angel.

Jacopo suffered the young sailor in loyal love to come and to weep in silence over the fall of his beloved tower, but he was much for his double reason. Hourly Tessa saw him fading, but at last, with a flash of his old energy, he set up and called the girl and Harkness to him.

"I said you should marry no man who did not dwell in the shadow of the tower, Tessa mia," he said quietly, "but where may such a man be found now? Shadow indeed the campanile throws no longer, and the lowest building in the city is higher than the tops of the towers! Now again I shall thou and I, my daughter, let our heart drift in the same western bay, and watch the setting sun lay a crown of splendid rays on the bright angel-child under the campanile! years has watched the white smile of Tessa's flower-like face grow into a beauty again—but I grow confused! Well her, American, since she loves thee. To the old marvel—how a maid's heart is stronger than her native land!" His mind began to wander. "Oh, yes—the pigeons, signore. It is easy to feed them. They are always near! See how they wheel downward, signore. There sits one upon the bronze doors. Such doors you cannot find elsewhere, and when one enters through them"—

The old voice trailed off into a dying whisper, for other doors had opened, and through them Jacopo and passed.

Revenge and Suicide of a Camel.

Some years ago it chanced that a valuable camel working in an old mill in Africa was severely bested by its driver, who, perceiving that the camel had treasured up the injury and was only waiting a favorable opportunity for revenge, kept a strict watch upon the animal. Time passed away. The camel, perceiving that it was watched, was quiet and obedient, and the driver began to think that the beating was forgotten.

One night, after the lapse of several months, the man, who slept on a raised platform in the mill, while, as is customary, the camel was stalled in a corner, happening to remain awake, observed by the bright moonlight that when all was quiet the animal looked cautiously around, rose softly and, stealing over toward a spot where a bundle of clothes and a harnooze, thrown carelessly on the ground, resembled a sleeping figure, cast itself with violence upon them, rolling with all its weight and tearing them most vicously with its teeth.

Satisfied that its revenge was complete, the camel was returning to its corner when the driver set up and spoke. At the sound of his voice and perceiving the mistake it had made the animal was so mortified at the failure and discovery of its scheme that it dashed its head against the wall and died on the spot.—Sheffield Telegraph.

Frederick or Frederic.

Some names are so cosmopolitan that it makes no difference how they are spelled, but just let anybody ring a few unauthorized changes on the name of Frederick, and the man who owns it will have something to say. They will not be pleased unless it has an e either. As Frederick was christened, so does he insist upon being spelled, if at the baptismal font he was favored with the dignity of a "k." he staggers under its weight to the end of the chapter. The only person on earth whose indignation can equal Frederick's when somebody leaves off that "k" is Frederic when somebody else puts it on. Family ties have been severed and irreparable social eruptions have been brought about by the unfortunate omission or addition of that final letter. To untutored ears Frederick with or without the "k" sounds just as musical, but to Frederick himself that alphabetical error is worse than a whole orchestra out of tune, and it behooves the person who would keep on the good side of him to learn his preference in the matter.—New York Times.

Origin of Dominos.

The game of dominos is said to have originated through the ingenuity of two monks who had been condemned to a lengthy seclusion. They contrived to beguile the weary hours of their confinement without breaking the rule of silence by showing each other small, flat stones marked with black dots and by following a few simple conditions which ruled their game. By a preconcerted arrangement the winner would claim the victory by repeating in an undertone the first line of the vesper prayer.

In the course of time these two reconvened monks managed to complete the set of stones and to perfect this original pastime, and when their term of confinement expired the game taught on and was adopted as a new form of amusement by all the inmates of the monastery.

Spreading thence, it soon became popular throughout Italy, and a game was given to it which still retains its origin, by reducing the first line of the vespers to the word "domino."

TRUCK DRIVER AND HORSE.

How a Friendly Understanding Developed Between Them.

The friendly relations which often exist between truck drivers and their horses is shown in the story of Chieftain, one of the tales in "Horses Nine," by Sewell Ford. Tim Doyle, the driver, having been left alone in the world, takes up lodgings in the stable. The story runs thus: So for three years or more Chieftain had always had a good night out on the town when Tim, and in the morning, after the currying and combing, they had a little friendly banter in the way of love slaps from Tim and good natured wallops from Chieftain. Perhaps many of Tim's confidences were given half in jest, and perhaps Chieftain sometimes thought that Tim was a bit slow in perception; but, all in all, each understood the other even better than either realized.

Of course Chieftain could not tell Tim of all those vague feelings which had to do with new grass and springy turf, nor could he know that Tim had similar longings. Those thoughts each kept to himself. But if Chieftain was of Norman blood, a horse whose noble sires had ranged pasture and paddock free from pole or trace, Tim was a Dorje whose father and grandfather had lived close to the good green sod and had done their toll in the open, and the cool and calm of the country to soothe and restore them.

Of such delights as these both Chieftain and Tim had tasted scantily, hurriedly, in youth, and for them in the routine of the daily grind both yearned each after his own fashion.

And, each in his way, Tim and Chieftain developed symptoms. As the years had come and gone, toil filled and unremitting, the character of the man had ripened and mellowed, the disposition of the horse had settled and sweetened.

In his earlier days Tim had been ready to swear in a wheel or lose one, to demand right of way with profane unction and to back his word with whip, fist or fair hook. But he had learned to yield an inch on occasion and to use soft wood.

Chieftain, too, in his first years between the poles had sometimes been impatient with the restrained mates who from time to time joined the team. He had taken part in many biting and trace kicking, especially on days when the loads were heavy and the flies thick, exactions which try the best of horse tempers. But he had steadied down into a safe horse who could set an example that was worth more than all the six foot lashes ever tied to a lunjstock.

Dr. Holmes' Table Talk.

At table Dr. Holmes was unflaggingly vivacious, ready at repartee, as witty as Lowell without Lowell's audacity at punning and for the immediate moment as wise as Emerson. Underwood, in his monograph on "Lowell, the Poet and the Man," has by some lapse of memory misquoted a passage of words that took place between Emerson and Holmes at one of the early Atlantic dinners. The conversation was upon the orders of architecture. It was Emerson, not Holmes, who had been saying that the Egyptian was characterized by breadth of base, the Grecian by the adequate support and the Gothic by its skyward soaring. Then it was Holmes, not Emerson, who dashed out humanity. "One is for death, one is for life, and one is for immortality." I did not hear this, but it was repeated to me at the time by one who did.—J. T. Trowbridge in Atlantic.

Huge Stones From the Moon.

In a catalogue of Meteoric meteorites prepared by M. Arsandaux del Castillo one mass is mentioned which exploded in the air and fell in widely dispersed fragments, portions of it being found in three places at the angles of a triangle whose two longer sides were some fifty-five and thirty-five miles in length. In one of these places two pieces of stone were discovered, lying about 100 yards apart, which had evidently once formed one huge block. Measurements and estimations place the combined weight of the two blocks at eighty tons. In this one shower of "moon stones," according to M. del Castillo's paper, not less than 2,000 tons of rocks fell.

Opportunities.

However it came to gifted, whether for active enterprise of thought or charity, there lies around him a world of opportunity. To find out who we are socially, morally, intellectually, that one ought to be forgiven if he supposed the world were made but yesterday and these things had yet been done. Lack no ambition fire us to help the despairing, starving, sinking people around us? If a few more years be added to our life, would we not strive to put something right, to sweep out some little corner, to awaken some soul to see and rejoice in the growing light?—Good Words.

Bird Superstitions.

In many parts of England there are curious superstitions about birds. The stonechat, for instance, is believed to be continually chatting with the evil one, so it is held in bad repute, and as the raven commonly impersonates his satanic majesty it is ranked in the same category of evil birds. Sometimes, however, the raven's appearance, so it is held, foretells a death.

Natural Conclusions.

"Er dey's milk in paradise dey mus' have cows dar," said Brother Williams, "en of dey got honey dar dey sho mus' have bees, en whar bees is dey's blossoms, en whar blossoms is dey's always watermillions in season, bless de Lawd!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Self made pedestals are a good deal more dangerous than self made men.—Puck.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS & CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
NEW YORK.

At 6 months old
35 DOSES – 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes. New Tobaccos. New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Pros

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

J. M. BRAY.

FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES

Slickest Place in Town to Drop In and Get : :

Fine Cigars and Wines and Liquors.

BEYFORT-RYE. :. K. O. R. WHISKEY

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. For sick headache, constipation, billiousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

PREPARED BY
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO

Don't Forget the Name.

EARLY RISERS

The Potomac River.

The Potomac river is only 500 miles long, and in its lower course rather an estuary than a stream.

Axle Grease

Guaranteed at

6 Boxes for..... 25c

... At ...

O'Brien Bros.

Popular Hardware Dealers

RED LAKE FALLS.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
Office on corner of Main and Third streets.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. M. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
OFFICE OVER REICHERT'S DRUG STORE
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STENERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
At Lambert Monday, June 23.
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, prosecuting of estates and examination of titles. Office in Stenert and Co. store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office at Ed L. Healy's land office, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerrimee's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

WITH COLORS FLYING

By Louise J. Strong

Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure

The turmoil bewildered her. Weighed with the big old fashioned carpet-bag, hand satchel and lunch box, her progress through the crowd was slow, and she reached the steps only in time to be dragged by the arm past the conductor. As she entered the car the train started with a jerk, and she would have fallen but that a hand caught her and helped her to a seat.

She wiped away a few bitter tears. Charles might have waited and put her on the train. He might have spared her, that much time, considering she was to be gone so long. Three miles up the road the cars would pass the corners, and the house would be in sight. She leaned out, watching longingly. There it was! The windows of her room were open, the curtains gone. Already the girls were tearing things out! Her few old, cherished pieces of furniture were probably in the garret by this time. Herself and all her belongings were as effectually swept out of her old home as if she had never lived there. She lay back and closed her eyes tightly to keep the tears from streaming.

"SEEMIN' YOU AWAY, BE THEY?"

"Goin' far, ma'am?"

She looked up. The old gentleman who had given her a helping hand had taken the seat behind her. He asked obscrtly. She replied that it was quite a ways.

"Seein' you away, be they?"

She gave him a troubled glance. "Mebbe I'd ought to said pussin' you around. Livin' with your children, ain't you—an' it's some other cares you have—never mind whether you like it or not. I know how it is, you see. I'm glad I pussed too."

She examined him with interest. He did not seem so very old; but, then, neither did she.

"I've been to pussin' ever since mother died, eight years ago. Kind o' hard sometimes; seems like I don't more'n get settled an' feelin' a little bit like home 'fore I have to move on. Makes me feel like might be entered if I'd pass on to the graveyard. But, then, I dunno as I'd ought to say that. They have their reasons, likely reasonable enough, too," he sighed.

"I haven't been pussing," she smiled faintly. "I've lived all the while at the old home place. Charles, my youngest, and I carried on the farm together after the others married. We bought out the rest, and then Charles married"—

"Yes," he questioned gently as she paused.

"I don't hardly know how it came about—we don't keep account dealing with our children. Charles' family grew and took more, and I kept moving closer and giving more, till now, after twenty years of it, it seems as if I haven't any place that I can feel is mine. I gave up my old rooms downstairs long ago, and now the girls are going to have company this summer and want my room upstairs."

"Sent you away to some o' the rest, hey?"

A red spot burned in each cheek as she explained. "I couldn't go to Cy's. His wife wouldn't have me. I've started to a hotel sister's. It's like going to perfect strangers. I haven't seen her since I was married. I don't intend to stay there, though. I'm well and can work. I'll find a place housekeeping, where I can earn my board anyhow. I've always earned my keep."

She drew herself up suddenly and smoothed her shabby shawl and skirt. She had been admonished against talking with strangers. "I'm to go back home next year," she added after a bit.

"I'm on the way to Linda's. His wife an' me got on well enough, only she's the kind that's always worryin' about her work an' thinkin' how hard it is to have another one to do for. I help all I can, but what I do don't seem to count."

She nodded decisively. She knew how that was.

"I'd live by myself if they'd let me, but they row about that and just keep me a-goin' the rounds."

After these mutual confidences from long suffering hearts they exchanged names, told their ages and felt like old friends. He got her a cup of tea, and they lunched together. They had occupied the same seat for hours, and he waited on her with pleased alacrity. He had spells of meditative silence, and dimly he leaned toward her, n look of keen eagerness on his face.

"Mis' Smith, ma'am, way should we do any more pussin' around? I mean," he hastened to explain, "way shouldn't we have a home? I've got a little place back there. Robert's been tryin' to get me to let him have it; says I'm too old to be bothorin' with it, but I've kept it. There's pasture for a couple o' cows an' plenty o' range for chickens an' several acres handies. There's lots of work in me yet. Let's go back an' get married an' set up for ourselves. I ain't hard to get on with, an' I like you," he ended, with childish openness.

Her heart leaped. She liked him, too, but she offered objections: "We don't know a thing about each other!"

"We'd have plenty o' time to get acquainted an' lots o' interestin' things to tell each other about our lives. There's a little archard an' small fruit an' a stone milk cellar. We'd have Jersey cows an' make butter. I'd help. We'd have all the vegetables we want-ed. I'd fix it so's you'd always have a home if I went first." He was almost incoherent with eagerness.

"I've got some bedding and table linen and dishes and so on boxed, and a friend took them to keep for me," she supplemented as eagerly. Then the light faded from her eyes. "But what would they say?"

"We'd not tell 'em till after, neither mine nor yours. It's none o' their business where we stay so long as it ain't on them. Think of bovin' o' home again where we belong an' everything's ours: no cold looks nor hints o' being crowded. Seems to me I could live an mush in a home a' my own."

"So could I, or potatoes and salt. But we wouldn't have. We could make a good living. I'm first rate at butter making. I always get good prices. A home, not a place to stay! I'm a good housekeeper," she declared candidly, with a flash of pride.

"I knowed it." he laughed. "We'll change cars at Quinby an' go right back to my county seat—we're from the same state—an' get the license an' be married tonight at the squire's, an' when we're settled we'll invite 'em all to visit us. We'll come out with colors flyin'!" he crowed.

"But that'd be eloping. Running away at our time of life!" she fluttered, with smiles and tears.

"Think of a home an' you a-settin' the ten table on' the cat a-purrin' by the fire, a sunny s-slight' in the trundle down un' me s-bringin' in the foomin' buckets o' milk un' no more pussin' around!"

He held his open hand beside her on the seat, and after a moment's hesitation she slipped hers into it.

Told by a Drummer.

A drummer in a hotel lobby let this tale bore on a patient audience:

In the west the drummer was making a run on a train through a mountainous territory. At one point, between two elevations, there was a valley, steep on both sides and forming a well rounded hollow.

The drummer was riding on a train through this valley when the train broke its coupling, and the car in which he was seated got separated from the engine. This was the densest part of the first side. The engine could not stop on the down grade to await the rear car, for that would have caused a collision. Neither could it catch it on the up grade. The engine ran to the top of the hill and there stopped.

The story then continues that the detached car went down one hill and up the other, then before the car could get over the incline it would lose its speed and would start the same process again. Back and forth went the car for about an hour. Inclines on both sides were so even in steepness that the car just managed in running up one and down the other. They had to wreck the car to stop it.—Boston Journal.

Appropriate.

There was a great discussion in progress among the members of the faculty of a certain college. They wrangled long and raised their voices to too high a pitch, each eager to have the measure in question embody his particular variation of the idea.

Finally a professor of large mind and calm voice, who had been silent, rose and made a tactful, conciliatory speech.

As the effect of his words began to flow in the percepti ons that settled over the dignified members, another professor, who also took things calmly, turned to his neighbor and whispered the line from Kipling:

"The oil can soothes the worrying cranks."

When the speaker had finished, the more aggressive members took up the discussion again. Presently the professor who had Kipling in mind leaned over once more and quoted the line from "McAndrew's Hymn:"

"Now the main eccentrics stunt their quarrel."

A Justifiable Protest.

"What's that?" cried the convicted incendiary. "Five years? Well, if you people ain't the worst I ever run up against! Here I goes an' in the events an' sets fire to the toilest buildin' in town—the fire to it so that in less 'n a minute the thing's a shootin' blaze a hundred feet up into the sky. The whole population is there quickest I sent, all of you fickled to death at the sight! For four an' five hours you stood there watchin' the fire—home to solid enjoyment, too—an' it not costin' you a cent! Why, a circus or the theater or a scandal trial wouldn't have given you half as much fun, an' you know it! An' yet you sit there an' biting in a wordy givin' me five years in the penitentiary—my that's about you all a good time an' ought to be considered as a benefactor! Is there you any gratitude in the human boosum?" —Kansas City Independent.

CLOSE OBSERVERS.

Savages Note Things to Which Civilized Eyes Are Blind.

Savages are supposed to have keener senses, especially a keener sense of sight, than civilized races. The author of "Idle Days in Patagonia" does not accept this theory. He believes that savages have no keener senses, but that they pay closer attention to what comes within the range of their perception. As an instance of quick response to an impression he tells the following story:

On March 12, 1861, a company of hunters were camping beside a grove of willows in Patagonia. About 10 o'clock that evening, while they were seated round the fire roasting their ostrich meat, Sosa suddenly sprang to his feet and held his open hand high above his head for some moments.

"There is not a breath of wind blowing," he exclaimed, "yet the leaves of the trees are trembling. What can this portend?"

The others stared at the trees, but could see no motion, and they began to laugh at him. Presently he sat down again, remarking that the trembling had ceased, but during the rest of the evening he was very much disturbed in his mind. He remarked repeatedly that such a thing had never happened in his experience before, for, he said, he could feel a breeze for half an hour before the leaves felt it, and there had been no wind. He feared that it was a warning of some disaster about to overtake their party.

The disaster was not for them. On that evening occurred the earthquake which destroyed the distant city of Mendoza and crushed 12,000 people to death beneath the ruins. That the subterranean wave extended east to the Plata and southward into Patagonia was afterward known, for in the cities of Rosario and Buenos Ayres clocks stopped, and a slight shock was also experienced in the Cornoen on the Rio Negro.

PEOPLE WHO APPEAR OLD.

How They May Preserve the Semblance of Youth.

People who appear old must expect to be considered so, and, if they apply for positions with every appearance that sending has stretch them and that they have gone to seed, they cannot expect favorable consideration. If grey haired applicants for positions would only appreciate the value of appearances and would "brace up" when they seek situations—go "well groomed" and well dressed, with elastic steps, showing that they still possess fire, force and enthusiasm—they would stimulate an elasticity greater than their grey hairs.

We think ourselves into inexpocity by looking for signs of age and dwelling on them, and the body follows the thought. We should, therefore, avoid the appearance of age in every possible way—by dress, carriage, exercise, tho and especially by our attitude to world people and things. It is not difficult to preserve the buoyancy and freshness of youth, but it must be done by constant effort and practice. A mid sician who expects to make only one or two important appearances a year must keep up his practice. Youthful men cannot be put on for a day if old age has had a grip on you for months.

It is important to preserve the fire of youth as long as possible, to carry freshness and vigor into old age by keeping up a hearty interest in everything that interests youth. Many of us seem to think that youthful sports are unbecoming to old people before we know it we get entirely out of sympathy with the young life, and are consequently really old, wintercer our years. We must think youthful thoughts, associate with young people and interest them. When a person ceases to interest himself he may be sure that he is showing signs of old age.—Success.

A Shrewd Client.

An amusing story is told among lawyers of a Hungarian peasant who had gone to law with a neighbor. In a conversation with his lawyer he suggested sending the magistrate a couple of fine ducks.

"Not for your life," said his adviser. "If you do you'll lose the case."

The judgment was given in his favor, when he turned to his lawyer and said, "I sent the ducks." Astonishment on the lawyer's part turned to admiration when his client continued, "But I sent them to my neighbor's name."—London Express.

Simply Impossible.

"Have you got the plans for your new house completed yet?" some one asked him.

"Completed?" he replied. "There is a difference of opinion between my wife and me as to the interior arrangements. She says the pantry is too large and that there are too many closets."

William Watson won the medal for the biggest lie of the evening was awarded to him.—Chicago Tribune.

His Idea Capacity.

"I read somewhere the other day," said Mr. Henpeck, "that one of the big mercantile corporations pays a certain man $1,000 for each idea he furnishes. George, I'd like to have a chance of that kind!"

"Wretch!" exclaimed Mrs. Henpeck. "Would you want your own child to starve?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

So Smart.

Gerald—May I kiss you?

Geraldine—Mother is in the next room.

Gerald—That's all right. Your father was kiss her.—Illustrated Bits.

It is a sign you are growing old when you read the obituary before the marriage notices.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Form contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

Food for Typhoid Patients.

By using whey as food for typhoid patients instead of milk, a doctor has reduced the death-rate in this disease from 20 to 2.7 per cent.

A Big Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter druggists. Trial bottles free.

Manuscript Poems by Lamb.

Three manuscript poems in the handwriting of Charles Lamb were sold for $370 recently in London.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured by Cole's Cough Cure in taken in time. It is wonderfully soothing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Children like it and its guaranteed. $1.00 bs all druggists.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention in this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN

Dizzy ?

Then your liver isn't acting well. You suffer from biliousness, constipation. Ayer's Pills act directly on the liver. For 60 years they have been the Standard Family Pill. Small dose; cure sure. All druggists

Want your moustache or beard a beautiful brown or rich black? Then use BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Moustache & Beard

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Capital Stock, $25,000
Shareholders' Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.
I. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President
THOS GARCEAU, Cashier.
DIRECTORS
I. L. Wyer, F. E. Hunt, Vice-President
Chas. N. Bowden. A. P. Toupin

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST
TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS
LIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS

WEST BD.	STATIONS	EAST BD.
8.30 AM Lv	Red Paul	Ar 7.30 AM
8.45 AM Lv	Grandmarais	Ar 7.15 AM
9.05 AM Lv	Gully	Ar 6.55 AM
9.15 AM Lv	Fertile	Ar 6.45 AM
9.32 AM Lv	Nimrod	Ar 6.30 AM
9.45 AM Lv	Wolf Lake	Ar 6.15 AM
10.00 AM Lv	Mahnomen	Ar 6.00 AM
10.30 AM Ar	St. Hilaire	Lv 5.30 PM
10.45 AM Lv	RED LAKE FALLS	Ar 5.15 PM
11.05 AM Lv	Thief River Falls	Ar 4.55 PM
12.05 PM Ar		Lv 3.55 PM

O. THOMAS Agent

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE

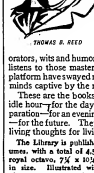
Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Inspirational Talks, in ten handsome volumes, illustrated with fine photogravures and color plates.

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS:
Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of English Parliament
Rossiter Johnson
Author and Literary Reviewer
Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Celebrationer
Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man Without a Country"
Jonathan P. Dolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa
John B. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Georgia
Nathan Haskell Dole
Associate Editor "International Library of Famous Literature"
James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureau, Author of "Eccentricities of Genius"
George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University
Lorenzo Sears
Professor of English Literature, Brown University
Edwin M. Bacon
Former Editor "Boston Advertiser"
P. Castelli Cocco
Member Editorial Staff "New York Tribune"
J. Walker McSpadden
Managing Editor "Thomas Crowle" of Balzac's Works
Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Museum, Washington, D. C.
Truman A. DeWeese
Member Editorial Staff Philadelphia "Evening Telegraph"
William Wood Gerhard
Member Editorial Staff Philadelphia "Evening Telegraph"
Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri
Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever published before. It contains the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the times of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to bathos, and there is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.



THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment —for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living people.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

CUT OUT AND MAIL

$100 Cash Prize

Send me free, postpaid, your advertisement of $100 Cash Prize Contest, and Red Lake Courier. I shall be pleased to receive portfolio of sample pages, photogravure and chromatic plates, also full particulars regarding liberal, prepaid, offer.

Name _____

Address _____

Street _____

City and State _____

(Courier)

Special Sales This Week
At the BIG STORE

The quickest way to make money is to save on purchases. We can save you between 20 to 30 per cent. on the goods mentioned below:

Special Sale of Bed Linens

Pillow cases, 45x36, hemstitched 12½c.

Same size, plain 10c.

Sheets, plain, 72x90, 55c; 75c value.

Same, hemstitched, 45c; 65c value.

Shirting prints, 4c for 6c value

Handkerchief Sale

10c and 15c handkerchiefs for 5c

Ribbon Sale

4 in. silk ribbon, 10c

Fancy hair ribbon, 5c per yard.

House Dress, best dimity, lace trimmed, $1.40

Underskirt Sale

All fancy skirts at half price; worth $2.50

Ladies' Sailor Hats, 19c.

Pure linen tablecloth, 65c; a bargain.

7 spools of thread for 25c.

Shoe Specials for this Week.

Misses' black slippers, one strap, stylish and good quality 75 cents.

Children's tan slippers, 5 to 8, 80-cent for 1.25 value.

Same, 8½ to 10, 1.50 value for 1.00

We have a swell assortment of ladies' Oxfords in plain and patent leather. No better to be found anywhere. We have just reason to feel proud of our Utz & Dunn shoes. If these goods were not backed by merit we would not receive the compliments about them that we do. For a cheap shoe we recommend our Goodnan line. No cheap shoe in the country shows such quality. Our shoe department shows great values and it seems that the public appreciate it, for our trade in shoes is certainly increasing.

Home-Made Wrappers

20 dozen to select from; the best wrapper made. Will stay sewed; wide flounce; evenly gathered; best inner lining artistically trimmed; will fit perfectly; 75c, $1.00, 1.25, 1.50. See our line; our 50c will merit your trade.

Gloves.

A splendid new line of opera gloves in all grades.

Fancy hose for ladies and mec.

Groceries

Good smoking tobacco 15 cent.

Maple syrup, monarch brand, the best for 1.00.

Rock candy syrup 1 gallon cans, for 50c worth 75c.

THE BIG STORE
THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

J. I. John on spent Sunday at St. Hilaire.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

A. Weight was here from Thief River Falls on Tuesday.

Sheriff Dan Lambert was a Thief River caller yesterday.

Attorney H. W. Lee was a county seat visitor Memorial day.

M. Hammer was here from St. Hilaire Friday and Saturday.

J. W. Bourdon was at Crookston Wednesday on a business visit.

Phil Zeh came down from Thief River Falls today on a business trip.

Miss Nellie Correin was a guest of Red Lake Falls friends Saturday.

Mrs. Albert Brunelle has spent a week with relatives in Terrebonne.

Full cream cheese, as long as it lasts, 10c per pound. At Fortier's.

Full cream cheese, as long as it lasts, 10c per pound. At Fortier's.

M. E. Harbin, the Crookston insurance talker, was a caller yesterday.

O. Roux, of Crookston, has visited friends here several days of this week.

Dr. J. E. Argus made his regular monthly visit to St. Hilaire over Sunday.

J. M. Bishop, Thief River's municipal judge, was a county seat caller Monday.

R. B. Vining, a pioneer of Thief River Falls, was a county seat caller yesterday.

Harry B. Healy made a business and pleasure trip to Grand Forks over Sunday.

Arthur Zaiser came down from the Itasca woods today for a brief sojourn at home.

P. B. Gaass left Saturday on a business trip of several days to Mason City, Iowa.

Miss Julia Sharp left Saturday to spend her summer vacation at her home in Moreheud.

James Egan, of Galesburg, N. D., arrived yesterday for a visit with friends and relatives.

Chas. Tschida, the progressive Fertile cigarmaker, was a business caller here yesterday.

F. F. Freund's residence on Third street is being beautified by the addition of a porch on the East side.

Miss Etta Zaiser spent Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning with her music class at St. Hilaire.

Mrs. Simon McCaffrey came down from St. Hilaire yesterday for an over night visit with her son, Joseph.

Mrs. Phil Zeh was here from Thief River from Monday until yesterday, a guest at the home of Adam Zeh.

C. P. Swenson, postmaster and prominent citizen of Bray, was a business caller at the county seat Tuesday.

Will Holberg returned home from Grand Forks Saturday where he was called by the death of his mother.

Miss Olive Vian of Grand Forks was the guest of her friend, Miss Della Toupin, this week, coming over Saturday.

Judge and Mrs. N. W. Tarrant were guests of Thief River Falls friends Sunday, driving back in the evening.

The Reichel building, occupied by Anderson's jewelry store, is receiving a fresh coat of paint this week Franz Freund is the artist.

The June sun shines on many a fair bride's mass doubly lovely by the use of Rocky Mountain Tea. The bride's best friend 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

Mrs. Fred. Holtzknecht and son spent several days the first part of the week visiting at the homes of relatives and friends in the city.

You feel mean, cross, ugly, down in the mouth, nothing goes right. Bad liver. Better take Rocky Mountain. Drives away the blues. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

Messrs. Howard and Clery Monley of Grand Forks arrived Friday and remained until Tuesday, guests at the home of Dr. I. Lemieux.

The following letters remain unclaimed in the postoffice at Red Lake Falls for the week eading May 30, 1903. Ida Carpenter, John Lester J. T. Hamrd, Paul Gareau.

As will be noticed by Dentist F. F. Fletcher's card elsewhere he will visit Lambert on Monday, June 22, for one day only. The doctor is an excellent workman and the people will do well to consult him.

Wm. Schwalen returned today from his week's trip to southern Minnesota points. He says that part of the state has had a cold wave the past few days and that over-coats were not uncomfortable during that time.

About twenty Red Lake Falls people droves to Maple Lake last Sunday and spent the day at that popular resort. This picturesque spot is becoming a favorite place for residents of northern Minnesota, and each year the crowds who frequent it become larger.

The "lumberjack" is again with us, the first drivers reaching here this week. Wages have been unusually high in the woods this winter, and the men are laying up a consequence. The coming of the drivers means much to a town, as a great number of them purchase new outfits of clothes and wearing apparel when they reach civilization. From now until the rear end of the drive reaches the city these happy fellows will be here most of the time.

A traveling man was writing his name on a hotel register in Crookston when a bedbug put in his appearance and slowly meandered across the page. The traveling man gazed at it a moment or two in surprise, and then express his disapproval in this manner: "I'm boat I have been bled by St. Louis greybacks and connected with southern spiders, but I'll be hanged if I ever slept in a hotel where the bedbugs came up and examined the register for the number of my room. I guess I'll go down and sleep on the railroad bridge."

The most elegant and artistic piece of work in the line of window decoration ever seen in this city was the Memorial day display of the Surprise store. On one side a grave and monument, with pictures and busts of our nation's heros, was displayed, while the other represented a camp of "the boys of '61," with all the accoutrements used by the "old guard." The window attracted widespread attention, and the sidewalk was crowed with interested spectators all day long. The trimming was the handiwork of Messrs. Armstrong and Wadelhamn, and their work has received unusual praise.

$19.00 to Boston and Return, $19.00 with membership fee of $2.00 added, account of annual meeting of National Educational association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July and to 5th, inclusive, good returning from July 6th to 12th inclusive, without being deposited with joint agent. Additional limit to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing return portion of ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c for execution. Superior train service and excellent dining car meals, on American club plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 111 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. m30

For Sale at a Bargain.

If sold before the last of June, the person who buys the Ole Ellingson farm can have one-fourth the crop. For prices and terms apply to H. O. Gjerberg. 1mo

For Sale—Household goods; two base burners; two airtight stoves. P. B. Newton.

Christian Scientists

Meeting in Boston, June 26th-July 1st. It will be to our advantage to obtain rates appling over the Nickel Plate road before purchasing elsewhere. No excess charged on any of our trains. Tickets on sale June 25th, 26th and 27th. Final return limit August 1st. Call on or address John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for particulars as to stop-overs, train service, etc.

I have some some fine Duroc Jersey pigs for sale at a bargain if taken soon. T. H. Carver, Section 20, Gervais township. 2w

Residence Property for Sale.

I will sell, or trade for stock, my residence and four lots in block 55, Kretzschmar's addition to Red Lake Falls. Great bargain. Write or see me. Louis Hetu, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

To Boston and Return at One Fare

For the round trip from Chicago via the Nickel Plate road, for Christian Scientist meeting of June. Tickets on sale June 25th, 26th, and 27th, with extended return limit of August 1st. Stop-over at Niagara Falls, in either direction, without extra charge, and at New York returning on payment of fee of $1.00. No excess fare charged on any of our trains. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for detailed information.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for Free Homesteads and and Free Coal lands. Low railroad rate. See our agent in your city and write for facts and maps. Wm. H. Brown & Co., 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, or Mandan, N. D.

A Close Observer.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

White Race in Minoro.

Lieut. de Clairmont of the Philippine commission reports the existence of an old white race of people in the island of Minoro.

Name Will Not Die Out.

Seven children, 68 grandchildren, 87 great-grandchildren and 2 great-great-grandchildren survive Johanna Gundel, a widow who has died at Chemnitz, Saxony, aged 92.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

HAY STACK COVERS
Save the Hay and Grain. Write for prices at once of Canvas Goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
Fargo, N. D. Duluth, Minn.

Gray Hair

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for over thirty years. It has kept my scalp free from dandruff and has prevented my hair from turning gray."—Mrs. F. A. Soule, Billings, Mont.

There is this peculiar thing about Ayer's Hair Vigor—it is a hair food, not a dye. Your hair does not suddenly turn black, look dead and lifeless. But gradually the old color comes back,—all the rich, dark color it used to have. The hair stops falling, too.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office. Address J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

WOMEN THE CAUSE OF WAR

By DR. ADOLF G. VOGELER,
Editor of the Western Druggist and Student of Anthropology.

Old Adam was right—it is the woman. The rape of the Sabine women is not an isolated historical fact; the "best" man of to-day is but the dim memory of the days when men, or tribes, went forth to woo by force their "helpmets." Or to procure sustenance, or help, or ornamentation for their mates, the men were, and are, willing to do battle for them. Practically all that man does beyond keeping himself alive, or for play, is for woman.

Hence, allowing some unimportant exceptions, woman is at the bottom of all warfare.

Next, woman is dependent upon man for protection for self and offspring. But the man who has proven his prowess in combat is the one chosen as a life partner. Knowing that the victorious warrior will have his choice among the maidens of his tribe, will not men face bloodshed and death in order to win the coveted prize? That women do prefer fighting men there is evidence in abundance, if one will but keep his eyes open.

But further, woman's heart is fond of tinsel and gew-gaws: What plain-dressed civilian stands any show in the presence of the epauletted and gold-braided son of Mars, who, in addition, is bedecked with the symbols of physical force, and, perchance, by the tailor's art made to look more imposing and stronger?

If woman—collective woman—is looking for a mission—here you have it; and it will keep her busy for generations to come. With this to engage their attention, women need not bother their dear little heads about equal rights and other frills. Let women educate the rising generations in the true spirit, and endeavor to regenerate mankind, including themselves. Let them DETERMINE that there shall be no more wars.

Women ALONE can make wars impossible; and that not through any organized process, such as woman's suffrage, or economic revolution, or some other quack remedy offered as a cure-all but by their will and determination. To this end women must realize that wars are destructive and act back the constructive processes of civilization, and that we cannot inflict injury upon others without harming ourselves. The race must be made conscious of this truism, and we must begin with the rising generation, our school children.

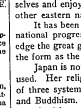
It is impossible to change abruptly human nature, but under civilization reason supplants the impulses born of instinct and passion, the latter being kept in a latent, undeveloped state. My premises being assumed to be true, then we must banish from our schools and homes all reminders of war and glorification of warriors; we must cease to make histories of nations a record of bloodshed and destruction, but, in its stead let us learn what has been accomplished in the field of human progress in the arts of peace; we must cease to erect monuments to war heroes, but instead remember those who by their labors have benefited their fellow men; we must cease to teach FALSE reverence for the flag, and no longer drum into our children's ears: "My country—right or WRONG—my country." And, withal, we must open our eyes to the fact that the recent and thoroughly surprising recrudescence of the war spirit in this country would not have been but for the years of "patriotic" drills in our schools and churches and in the forum; and also open our eyes to the further fact in this promulgation of the war spirit that the women teachers seem the most enthusiastic—a phenomenon not strange, however, in the light of the foregoing argument and the fact of woman's more emotional nature.

Woman must try to suppress her natural emotions and see things in the new light. She must learn to abhor war and to despise the warrior. Man, the weaker vessel, is as wax in the hand of woman and unable to resist, even as Samson was shorn of his power by Delilah. When collective woman folds her soft arm around collective man's rugged neck, and softly whispers into his ear: "You must not go out, my love, and kill, and maim, and destroy, for I shall grieve if you do; yea, I shall surely frown upon you if you do!" Then will he press a kiss upon her rosy lips and meekly return to his plowshare —and then there will be peace on earth; and gradually, in the course of eons, the human heart may grow better and better, and then, perhaps, wars will become impossible.

Adolf G. Vogeler.

THE PROGRESS OF JAPAN

By K. TAKAHIRA,
Japanese Minister to the United States.



ALTHOUGH Japan had been shut off from the world, knowledge from abroad had crept in by various channels and had permeated and influenced intelligent public opinion. And so, when Perry knocked at Japan's door, he found, as has been said by a distinguished Japanese, "a man on the inside to help him open it."

Japanese progress has really been a plant of slow growth. It has been tended and nourished at no small cost of labor and sacrifice. Now that it has borne fruit it is the earnest desire of the Japanese people that kindred nations, their neighbors, should undertake the same labor for themselves and enjoy like benefits. That sums up Japan's attitude toward other eastern nations.

It has been said that Christianity must be the basis of all genuine national progress. I admire and respect Christianity and acknowledge the great good it has accomplished, but I think it is not so much the form as the spirit that matters in this regard.

Japan is not a Christian nation in the sense in which the term is used. Her religion consists of what Dr. Griffis calls an "amalgam" of three systems of morality and religion—Shintoism, Confucianism and Buddhism. The moral lessons drawn from the three have been combined into a system of ethics peculiar to Japan.

Perhaps the most important result has been the inculcation of a spirit of loyalty and devotion to duty which has been taught for centuries, an adherence to which has enabled the Japanese people to adapt themselves to new circumstances with cheerfulness and to surmount difficulties that might otherwise have barred the way to all national progress.

It is her desire that peace and orderly development shall prevail. The maintenance of peace and of mutual interdependence among the eastern nations she regards as the only means by which prosperity can be assured to them. This does not mean that there should be a coalition, either offensive or defensive, among the eastern nations against the rest of the world.

A country to be truly prosperous must have prosperous and contented neighbors. Japan desires that her neighbors shall be prosperous and contented both for their own sakes and for hers.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Red Lake Cou :y Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 36‡ RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 11, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 244.

SLOT MACHINES ARE ORDERED REMOVED

County Attorney Grady Gives it Out That No Machines Will be Operated Henceforth.

At noon today County Attorney Frank A. Grady gave notice to the proprietor of one of the saloons that the slot machines must be removed within two hours or prosecution would be commenced at once.

Mr. Grady also informed Mayor Watson that unless the rest of the machines were removed within twenty-four hours every person having a machine in his possession would be prosecuted.

Mr. Grady says that no more slot machines will be allowed in the county while he holds the office of county attorney, and that hereafter all classes of offenders against the state law will be dealt with without fear or favor.

All good citizens believe in the enforcement of law, and there can be no just complaint from any quarter if public officers charged with enforcement of the statutes perform their duty. Rather should they be criticized if they fail in the duty they owe the public.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN NELSON.

Funeral Held From Family Residence Yesterday Forenoon.

Gini, wife of John Nelson, died Monday afternoon at her home on the north side, after an illness of ten days from paralysis of the stomach. The funeral was held yesterday forenoon from the residence, Rev. Andrew Walker officiating.

Mrs. Nelson was born in Norway fifty-two years ago, coming to Devils Lake, N. D., in 1887. She was married in 1892 to John Nelson at Grand Forks, N. D., and the couple came to Red Lake county about a year thereafter. She leaves a husband and one daughter, Bessie, aged ten years. A brother, Peter Rudser, of Devils Lake, attended the funeral. Another brother, Ole, lives at La Crosse, and three sisters reside in Norway.

An Island Raised Six Inches.

The news dispatches tell us that as a result of some recent earthquake shocks, the Island of Guam has been raised six inches above its former level. That's all right and proper. The Unites States took those islands to raise, and now nature is co-operating by giving Guam a boost. Nothing but an earthquake will elevate some of those people; no for you, we daily urge you to get a case of golden grain belt beer. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

NEW BANK ORGANIZED AT THIEF RIVER FALLS

Winona People Become Interested in Red Lake County Financial Affairs.

On Tuesday articles of incorporation of the Farmers and Merchants State bank of Thief River Falls were filed with Register Gibeau. The new bank will open for business July 15, and the incoporators are all Winona people. The capital stock is $15,000. John R. Mitchell owns 72 shares, Paul E. Baumgartner 25, D. E. Tawsay 25, Chas. A. Boalt 25 and W. J. Smith 3.

Where do You Gain?

An exchange supposes a case as follows: Suppose a local merchant makes $2,500 profit on a year's sales. Of this he will pay out for home, taxes and other necessary expenses at least one half. The same goods bought of the mail order houses at their price would give them a profit of at least $3,000, and what good would it do to the town or county in which you live? How much taxes do these houses pay in your county or state? How much poultry or vegetables do they buy from your farm? If these houses could sell all the goods in your country where would you go when you go to town? A town is no town without live and prosperous stores. A country is passed over by land buyers that has no live towns. Your towns bring you a reputation away from home. Your merchants make the reputation of your town.

NEW STATE DITCHES TO BE CONSTRUCTED

State Dainage Board Plans the Expenditure of $60,000 in Northwestern Counties.

The state drainage board Saturday decided to expend $14,800 in constructing seven state ditches which engineer George A. Ralph estimates will add $115,000 to the value of the adjoining lands. The ditches will drain 17,500 acres, of which 4,180 are state lands.

The money will be expended out of an appropriation of $50,000 made by the recent legislature, of which $25,000 is available this year. The sum of $7,000 has been set apart to enable the commission, which went out of office in, 1901, to complete ditches in the Red River Valley. The engineering expenses of the present commission for the year will aggregate $2,000. The proposed ditches are:

Ottertail county, towships 144 and 145, range 38, six miles north to Perham; total acres drained, 1360; cost, $800; benefit to state, $1200.

Hubbard county, townships 144 and 145, range 32: cost $1,000; acres drained, 1120; benefit to state lands, $11,200.

Ottertail county, township 131, ranges 36; acres drained 5,000; cost, $3,000: benefit $5,480.

Roseau county, township 160, ranges 43 and 44; cost $5,000; acres drained, 8,000; benefit, $11,200.

Clay county, township 141, range 46; cost, $2,000. This ditch will intercept the water flowing from several coulees and carry it to the Felton state ditch.

Norman county, Goodhope state ditch; cost $1,000. This is also an interceptiog ditch.

In Polk county a sufficient sum was appropriated to survey ditches in the Marais.

BIG SAVING TO THE FARMER.

Will Result From New Law Regarding Skim Milk.

W. W. P. McConnell, state dairy and food commissioner, estimates that the law passed by the recent legislature requiring all dairies to pasteurize skimmed milk returned to their patrons will save the farmers of the state many thousands of dollars a year.

"Experiments have proved that skim milk when allowed to sour is reduced in value at least 5 cents per hundred pounds. During 1901 at least 1,000,000,000 pounds of skimmed milked were returned to the patrons of Minnesota creameries, and if it had all been returned in bad condition it would have caused a loss of $500,000, not counting the calves and pigs killed by the feeding of impure milk.

"From the testswhich have been made of Minnesota cows it has been found that tuberculosis prevails almost everywhere, and we ask, is it not time for the farmers to protect their stock against this disease. The new law requires skim milk to be pasteurized to a temperature of 180 degrees Fahrenheit. The commission is willing to assist creameries and will send men to help install the necessary apparatus for heating skim milk.

"Denmark which is turning out so much fancy butter and is practically the United States' only European competitor, a few years ago found that the cows of the country were threatened with tuberculosis from the feeding of impure milk. As a result a law was passed requiring milk to be pasteurized at a temperature of 185 degrees. We are informed that the disease is being rapidly stamped out."

Music on Tap.

The extent to which the agricultural portions of the middle westare now supplied with modern conveniences may be inferred from the story which follows: There came a ring at the telephone in a farmhouse in northern Indiana one day last summer, and the farmer himself responded.

"Hello" he said.

"Hello!" said the voice at the other end of the wire. "Can you furnishime a bass singer for tomorrow night?"

"A bass singer? Why, yes, I reckon so," answered the farmer, laughing. "What do you want one for?"

"Because the one we've has been sick. What would be your terms?"

"Well, I usually furnish 'em by the dozen. I won't charge you anything for one. How do you want him sent?"

"What are you talking about?.

"Who do you think you're talking to?"

"Isn't this the Indianapolis opera house?"

"No. This is the Barnavia frog farm."—Youth's Companion.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co, Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer $100 for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.—F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, Price 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

For Sale at a Bargain.

If sold before the last of June, the person who buys the Ole Ellingson farm can have one-fourth the crop. For prices and terms apply to H. O. Gjerberg. 1mo

ST. HILAIRE SCALPED BY RED LAKE FALLS

The Local Team Scores Another Splendid Victory on the Base Ball Diamond Sunday.

The St. Hilaire base ball enthusiasts are sadder but wiser. Last Sunday they imported five or six members of the Warren team to assist the locals in the game with Red Lake Falls, and with all the confidence born of a "sure thing" backed the aggregation with all colors of coin.

The Red Lake Falls club had not met with a single defeat during the season, and is composed entirely of local men. The club is conceded to be one of the strongest in this part of the state outside of the league teams. The people are proud of the boys, and are willing to back them against almost any sort of a combination. As a result of this confidence on both sides about $400 was wagered on the game, and the backers of the St. Hilaire-Warren constellation didn't carry of it. The score by innings was as follows:

Red Lake Falls—3 2 2 3 0 2 2 2 0—16
St. Hilaire —0 2 0 0 0 0 3 1 4 0—12

Batteries—Schusser and Richards; Ittner, Roesch and Cardy, Albers and Roesch; umpire, Nason; earned runs—Red Lake Falls 10, St. Hilaire 2.

Ittner, the St. Hilaire twirler, who received his base ball training at Red Lake Falls, lasted only two innings, which was enough for ten hits. He was succeeded by Roesch, the Warren "phenom," who was not much of an improvement. As a matter of fact Red Lake Falls did the best all-around playing and was clearly outtilled to the victory. A return game will probably be played here on the 21st.

STATE PRISON TWINE.

Will Save Farmers of Minnesota About $150,000 This Year.

The state prison twine plant will this year save the farmers of Minnesota about $150,000. If it could supply the entire demand of the state it would save the farmers of the state over $300,000.

Warden Wolfer says that every pound of twine now on hand and every pound that can be manufactured, running at full capacity up to Aug. 1, has been sold direct to the farmers of the state.

The twine output from the prison will be a little more than 7,000,000 pounds.

The entire amount of twine used by the farmers of the state this year will be about 18,000,000 pounds.

The trust price is almost certain to go up. Owing to the jute strike the output has been restricted, and the manufacturerers will take advantage of the scarcity of twine, the heavy demand and the fact that the prison twine is all sold. Those farmers who were so unfortunate as not to get prison twine, will have to pay as high as 12 cents undoubtedly before the season is over.

The trust twine will be sent into the state in answer to the demands made after all the prison twine is used up. The price can be arbitrarily fixed, and the farmer must pay.

Next year the twine plant will manufacture 9,000,000 or 10,000,000 pounds, about one half the total amount needed by the state.

For Years and Years.

The North-Western Line has been the shortest line between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago. Its roadbed is incomparable, has the Block Signal System, and every improvement in the way of equipment has been adopted until today its trains are the most completely equipped out of Minneapolis and St. Paul—The Limbermann, Minneapolis.

OUT THEY GO
OUT THEY GO

To rich North Dakota where the big crowds are going for Free Homesteads and and Free Coal lands. Low Railroad rates. See our agent in your city and write for facts and maps. Wm. H. Brown & Co., 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, or Mandan, N. D.

We are the Leaders. Only Up-to-date Clothing House in the County

THE SURPRISE

Copyright 1903 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

WE know pretty well what sort of clothes you want, and we have got them right here ready for you to wear out of the store. The styles are right, late, exact, the quality of materials is of the best, the tailoring is extra good hand tailoring, the clothes will fit you. We make these positive statements about our clothes because they are true and because the goods bear the mark of the famous makers, Hart, Schaffner and Marx, who produce clothes which we consider the best in the world. We know these goods will satisfy the most particular dresser in town, and the prices are so reasonable as to be a strong argument in themselves. We are showing a fine assortment of these famous H. S. M. goods which will give you a chance to select from a big line. You will be sorry for yourself if you miss this chance.

Copyright 1903 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

BOYS' CLOTHING.....

A base ball and bat or a catcher's mit given free with every boy's suit.

We are showing a full line of boys' clothing in two- and three-piece suits, also a complete line of Norfolks and blouse suits, all skillfully made, tastefully trimmed. They come in cheviots, serges Thibets, clays, diagonal and tweeds. Drop in and look them over and get our prices.

Now come here for your HATS. There is none like the

DAWES

We have them in every shape and color.

Men's Furnishings

We have just received a full and complete line of the very latest things in negligee shirts. They are smart and natty. We are showing a very strong line of hot weather underwear in balbriggan, mercerized and natural wool in plain and fancy. Somemore of that swagger neckwear in bows, tecks, fore-in-hand and ascot imperial. Our stock of hosiery and gloves is complete. A full line of belts just received.

Berthon & Armstrong

THE SURPRISE

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Sign of the Four...

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

CHAPTER I.
THE SCIENCE OF DEDUCTION.

SHERLOCK HOLMES took his bottle from the corner of the mantelpiece and his hypodermic syringe from its neat morocco case. With his long, white, nervous fingers he adjusted the delicate needle, and rolled back his left shirt-cuff. For some little time his eyes rested thoughtfully upon the sinewy forearm and wrist all dotted and scarred with innumerable puncture marks. Finally he thrust the sharp point home, pressed down the tiny piston, and sank back into the velvet-lined armchair with a long sigh of satisfaction.

Three times a day for many months I had witnessed this performance, but custom had not reconciled my mind to it. On the contrary, from day to day I had become more irritable at the sight, and my conscience swelled mightily within me at the thought that I had lacked the courage to protest. Again and again I had resolved to say that what I should deliver my views on the subject, but there was that in the cool, unruffled air of my companion which made him the last man with whom one would care to take anything approaching to a liberty. His great powers, his masterly manner, and the experience which I had had of his many extraordinary qualities, all made me diffident and backward in offering him advice.

Yet upon that afternoon, whether it was the Beaune which I had taken with my lunch, or the additional exasperation produced by the extreme deliberation of his manner, I suddenly felt that I could hold out no longer.

"Which is it today?" I asked—"morphine or cocaine?"

He raised his eyes languidly from the old black-letter volume which he had opened. "It is cocaine," he said, "a seven per cent. solution. Would you care to try it?"

"No, indeed," I answered, brusquely. "My constitution has not got over the Afghan campaign yet. I cannot afford to throw any extra strain upon it."

He smiled at my vehemence. "Perhaps you are right, Watson," he said. "I suppose that its influence is physically bad. I find it, however, so transcendently stimulating and clarifying to the mind that its secondary action is a matter of small moment."

"But consider!" I said, earnestly. "Count the cost! Your brain may, as you say, be roused and excited, but it is a pathological and morbid process, which involves increased tissue-change and may at last leave a permanent weakness. You know, too, what a black reaction comes upon you. Surely the game is hardly worth the candle. Why should you, for a mere passing pleasure, risk the loss of those great powers with which you have been endowed? Remember that I speak not only as one who observes, but as a medical man to one for whose constitution he is to some extent answerable."

He did not seem offended. On the contrary, he put his fingertips together and leaned his elbows on the arms of his chair, like one who has a relish for conversation.

"My mind," he said, "rebels at stagnation. Give me problems, give me work, give me the most abstruse cryptogram or the most intricate analysis, and I am in my own proper atmosphere. I can dispense then with artificial stimulants. But I abhor the dull routine of existence. I crave for mental exaltation. That is why I have chosen my own particular profession—or rather created it, for I am the only one in the world."

"The only unofficial detective?" I said, raising my eyebrows.

"The only unofficial consulting detective," he answered. "I am the last and highest court of appeal in detection. When Gregson or Lestrade or Athelney Jones are out of their depths—which, by the way, is their normal state—the matter is laid before me. I examine the data, as an expert, and pronounce a specialist's opinion. I claim no credit in such cases. My name figures in no newspaper. The work itself, the pleasure of finding a field for my peculiar powers, is my highest reward. But you have yourself had some experience of my methods of work in the Jefferson Hope case."

"Yes, indeed," said I, cordially. "I was never so struck by anything in my life. I even embodied it in a small brochure with the somewhat fantastic title of 'A Study in Scarlet.'"

He shook his head sadly. "I glanced over it," said he. "Honestly, I cannot congratulate you upon it. Detection is, or ought to be, an exact science, and should be treated in the same cold and unemotional manner. You have attempted to tinge it with romanticism, which produces much the same effect as if you worked a love story or an elopement into the fifth proposition of Euclid."

"But the romance was there," I remonstrated. "I could not omit the facts."

"Some facts should be suppressed, or at least a just sense of proportion should be observed in treating them. The only point in the case which deserved mention was the curious analytical reasoning from effects to causes by which I succeeded in unravelling it."

I was annoyed at this criticism of a work which had been specially designed to please him. I confess, too, that I was irritated by the assertion which seemed to demand that every line of my pamphlet should be devoted to his own personal doings. More than once during the years that I had lived with him in Baker street I had observed that a small vanity underlay my companion's quiet and didactic manner. I made no remark, however, but sat nursing my wounded leg. I had had a Jezail bullet through it some time before, and though it did not prevent me from walking, it ached wearily at every change of the weather.

"My practice has extended recently to the continent," said Holmes, after awhile, filling up his old briar-root pipe. "I was consulted last week by Francois Le Villard, who, as you probably know, has come rather to the front lately in the French detective service. He has all the Celtic power of quick intuition, but he is deficient in the wide range of exact knowledge which is essential to the higher development of his art. The case was confessed virtue, well, and possessed some features of interest. I was able to refer him to two parallel cases, the one at Riga in 1857, and the other at St. Louis in 1871, which have suggested to him the true solution. Here is the letter which I had this morning, acknowledging my assistance." He tossed over as he spoke, a crumpled sheet of foreign notepaper. I glanced my eyes down it, catching a profusion of notes of admiration, with stray "mon Dieus" and "sacres" scattered through it.

"He speaks as a pupil to his master," said I.

"Oh, he rates my assistance too highly," said Sherlock Holmes, lightly. "He has considerable gifts himself. He possesses two out of the three qualities necessary for the ideal detective. He has the power of observation and that of deduction. He is only wanting in knowledge; and that may come in time. He is now translating my small works into French."

"Your works!"

"Oh, didn't you know?" he cried, laughing. "Yes, I have been guilty of several monographs. They are all upon technical subjects. Here, for example, is one 'Upon the Distinction Between the Ashes of the Various Tobaccos.' In it I enumerate a hundred and forty forms of cigar, cigarette and pipe tobacco, with colored plates illustrating the difference in the ash. It is a point which is continually turning up in criminal trials, and which is sometimes of supreme importance as a clew. If you can say definitely, for example, that some murder has been done by a man who was smoking an Indian lunkah, it obviously narrows your field of search. To the trained eye there is as much difference between the black ash of a Trichinopoly and the white ash of bird's-eye as there is between a cabbage and a potato."

"You have an extraordinary genius for minutiæ," I remarked.

"I appreciate their importance. Here is my monograph upon the tracing of footsteps, with some remarks upon the uses of plaster of Paris as a prescriver of impresses. Here, too, is a curious little work upon the influence of a trade upon the form of the hand, with the lithotypes of the hands of slaters, sailors, cork-cutters, compositors, weavers and diamond polishers. That is a matter of great practical interest to the scientific detective,—especially in cases of unclaimed bodies, or in discovering the antecedents of criminals. But I weary you with my hobby."

"Not at all," I answered, earnestly. "It is of the greatest interest to me, as I recently since I have had the opportunity of observing your practical application of it. But you spoke just now of observation and deduction. Surely the one to some extent implies the other."

"Why, hardly," he answered, leaning back luxuriously in his arm-chair, and sending up thick blue wreaths from his pipe. "For example, observation shows me that you have been to the Wigmore street post-office this morning, but deduction lets me know that when there you despatched a telegram."

"Right!" said I. "Right on both points! But I confess that I don't see how you arrived at it. It was a sudden impulse upon my part, and I have mentioned it to no one."

"It is simplicity itself," he remarked, chuckling at my surprise—"so absurdly simple that an explanation is superfluous; and yet it may serve to define the limits of observation and of deduction. Observation tells me that you have a little reddish mould adhering to your boots. Exactly opposite the Sorysou street office they have taken up the pavement and thrown up some earth which has in such a way that it is difficult to avoid treading in it in entering. The earth is of this peculiar reddish tint which is found, as far as I know, nowhere else in the neighborhood. So much is observation. The rest is deduction."

"How, then, did you deduce the telegram?"

"Why, of course I knew that you had not written a letter, since I sat opposite to you all morning. I see also in your open desk there that you have a sheet of stamps and a thick bundle of post-cards. What could you go to like the post office for, then, but to send a wire? Eliminate all other factors, and the one which remains must be the truth."

"In this case it certainly is so," I replied, after a little thought. "The thing, however, is, as you say, of the simplest. Would you think me impertinent if I were to put your theories to a more severe test?"

"On the contrary," he answered, "it would present me from taking a second dose of cocaine. I should be delighted to look into any problem which you might submit to me."

"I have heard you say that it is difficult for a man to have any object in daily use without leaving the impress of his individuality upon it in such a way that a trained observer might read it. Now, I have here a watch which has recently come into my possession. Would you have the kindness to let me have an opinion upon the character or habits of the late owner?"

I handed him over the watch, with some slight feeling of amusement in my heart, for the test was, as I thought, as impossible one, and I intended it as a lesson against the somewhat dogmatic tone which he occasionally assumed. He balanced the watch in his hand, gazed hard at the dial, opened the back, and examined the works, first with his naked eyes and then with a powerful convex lens. I could hardly keep from smiling at his expression when he finally snapped the case to and handed it back.

HE BALANCED THE WATCH IN HIS HAND.

"There are hardly any data," he remarked. "The watch has been recently cleaned, which robs me of my most suggestive facts."

"You are right," I answered. "It was cleaned before being sent to me." In my heart I reassured my companion that putting forward a most stale and impotent excuse to cover his failure. What data could be expected from an uncleaned watch?

"Though unsatisfactory my research has not been entirely barren," he observed, staring up at the ceiling with dreamy, far-away eyes. "Subject to your correction, I should judge that the watch belonged to your elder brother, who inherited it from you."

"That you gather, no doubt, from the H. W. upon the back?"

"Quite so. The W. suggests your own name. The date of the watch is nearly fifty years old, and the initials are as old as the watch; so it was made for the last generation. The marks are usually deseasons to the eldest son. And he is most likely to have the same name as the father. Your father has, I remember right, been dead many years. Then, though the watch has been in the hands of your eldest brother—"

"Right, so far," said I. "Anything else?"

"He was a man of untidy habits—very untidy and careless. He was left with good prospects, but he threw away his opportunities, and died poor in poverty, with occasional short intervals of prosperity, and drinking hard to drink, he died. That is all I can gather."

I sprang from my chair and limped impatiently about the room with exceedable bitterness in my heart.

"This is unworthy of you, Holmes," I said. "I could not have believed that you would have descended to this. You have made inquiries into the history of my unhappy brother, and you now pretend to deduce this knowledge in some way from the watch, for you cannot seriously believe that you have read all this from his old watch! It is unkind and not to speak plainly, has a touch of charlatanism in it."

"My dear doctor," said he, kindly, "pray accept my apologies. Viewing the matter as a mere abstract question, I had forgotten how personal and painful a thing it might be to you. I assure you, however, that I never even knew that you had a brother until you handed me the watch."

"Then how in the name of all that is wonderful did you arrive at your facts? They are absolutely correct in every particular."

"Ah, that is good luck. I could only say what was the balance of probability. I did not at all expect to be so accurate."

"But it was not mere guess work?"

"No, no; I never guess. It is a shocking habit—destructive to the logical faculty. What seems strange to you is only so because you do not follow my train of thought or observe the small facts upon which large inferences may depend. For example, I began by stating that your brother was careless. When you observe the lower part of that watch case you notice that it is not only dinted in two places, but it is cut and marked all over from the habit of keeping other hard objects, such as coins or keys, in the same pocket. Surely it is no great feat to assume that the man who treats a fifty-guinea watch so cavalierly must be a careless man. Neither is it a very far-fetched inference that a man who inherits one article of such value is pretty well provided for in other respects."

I nodded to show that I followed his reasoning.

"It is very customary for pawnbrokers in England, when they take a watch, to scratch the number of the ticket with a pin point upon the inside of the case. It is more handy than the label, as there is no risk of the number being lost or transposed. There are no less than four such numbers visible to my lens on the inside of this case. Inference—that your brother was often at low water. Secondary inference—that he had occasional bursts of prosperity, or he could not have redeemed the pledge. Finally, I ask you to look at the inner plate, which contains the key-hole. Look at the thousands of scratches all round the hole—marks where the key has slipped. What sober man's key could have scored those grooves? But you will never see a drunkard's watch without them. He winds it at night, and he leaves these traces of his unsteady hand. Where is the mystery in all this?"

"It is clear as daylight," I answered. "I regret the injustice which I did you. I should have had more faith in your marvelous faculty. May I ask whether you have any professional inquiry on foot at present?"

"None. Hence the cocaine. I cannot live without brain work. What else is there to live for? Stand at the window here. Was there ever such a dreary, dismal, unprofitable world? See how the yellow fog swirls down the street and drifts across dun-colored houses. What could be more hopelessly prosaic and material? What is the use of having powers, doctor, when one has no field upon which to exert them? Crime is commonplace and existence is commonplace and no qualities save those which are commonplace have any function upon earth."

I had opened my mouth to reply to this tirade, when, with a crisp knock, our landlady entered, bearing a card upon the brass salver.

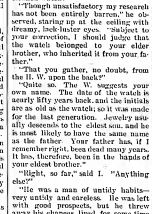
"A young lady for you, sir," she said, addressing my companion.

"Miss Mary Morstan," he read. "Hum! I have no recollection of the name. Ask the young lady to step up, Mrs. Hudson. Don't go, doctor. I shall prefer that you remain."

CHAPTER II.
THE STATEMENT OF THE CASE.

Miss Morstan entered the room with a firm step and an outward composure of manner. She was a tall, well-dressed lady, small, dainty, well gloved, and possessed of a pair of most penetrating eyes. There was, however, a plainness about her dress, and a general look of neatness and repair which are a suggestion of limited means. The dress was a sombre grey in tint, half mourning, and relieved only by a white lace collar and cuffs. She was slightly built, untrimmed and unbraided, and she wore a small turban of the same dull hue, relieved only by a simple bird of some brilliant plumage upon the side. Her face had neither regularity of feature nor beauty of complexion, but her expression was sweet and amiable, and her large blue eyes were singularly spiritual and sympathetic. In an experience of women which extended over many nations and three separate continents, I have never looked upon a face which gave a clearer promise of a refined and sensitive nature. I was not but observe that as she took the seat which Sherlock Holmes placed for her, her lip trembled, her hand quivered, and she showed every sign of intense nervous agitation.

"I have come to you, Mr. Holmes," she said, "because you once assisted my employer, Mrs. Cecil Forrester, to



"YOU WILL, I AM SURE, EXCUSE ME."

unravel a little domestic complication. She was much impressed by your kindness and skill."

"Mrs. Cecil Forrester," he repeated, thoughtfully. "I believe that I was of some slight service to her. I recall, however, as I remember it, was a very simple matter."

"She did not think so. But at least you cannot say the same of mine. I can hardly imagine anything more strange, more utterly inexplicable, than the situation in which I find myself."

Holmes rubbed his hands, and his eyes glistened. He leaned forward in his chair with an expression of extraordinary concentration upon his clear-cut, hawk-like features. "State your case," said he, in brisk, business tones.

I felt that my position was an exceedingly awkward one. "You will, I am sure, excuse me," I said, rising from my chair.

To my surprise the young lady held up her gloved hand to detain me. "If your friend," she said, "will be good enough to stop, he might be of inestimable service to me."

I relapsed into my chair.

"Briefly," she continued, "the facts are these: My father was an officer in an Indian regiment who sent me home when I was a child. My mother was dead, and I had no relative in England. I was placed, however, in a comfortable boarding establishment at Edinburgh, and there I remained until I was seventeen years of age. In the year 1878 my father, who was senior captain of his regiment, obtained twelve months' leave and came home. He telegraphed to me from London that he had arrived all safe, and directed me to engage a room and give him the Langham hotel as his address. His message concluded with a few words of kindness and love. On reaching London I drove to the Langham, and was informed that Capt. Morstan was staying there, but that he had gone out the night before and had not returned. I waited all day without news of him. That night, on the advice of the manager of the hotel, I communicated with the police, and next morning we advertised in all the papers. Our inquiries led to no result; and from that day to this no word has ever been heard of my unfortunate father. He came home with his heart full of hopes, and sent for me to join him. Then came the telegram, telling us that he was well, and stating that he had secured a treasure, and directing me to take a cab. Instead of obeying this message, I was simply overwhelmed with joy at the thought that my father was safe and at home, and I drove straight to the Langham. There I heard that Capt. Morstan had received a message from the hall porter, and had gone off at once with a single portmanteau, in the direction of the City. He has never returned, and we have never heard a word from him since. His message was the only sign that he was alive. Yet it was certainly very strange that, after leaving directions that he should be driven to a certain place, he should immediately afterward vanish away. The cabman who had driven the hansom was found, but he proved to be intoxicated, and could throw no light upon the matter. Our inquiries in the City have proved absolutely fruitless."

"Your statement is very clear and concise," said Holmes. "Pray what steps did you take then?"

"I communicated with Mrs. Forrester, with whom I was slightly acquainted, and she very kindly made some inquiries for me among her friends, but without success. Then I put an advertisement in the Times asking for the address of Miss Mary Morstan, and stating that I was now of age, and that I was entitled to my share of the property. Next day I received a letter from a firm of solicitors, Messrs. Roylott, Smith & Roylott, of Lincoln's Inn Fields, who informed me that they were instructed by a client to hand me a certain sum of money, and that they would be glad to see me at their office. Upon calling I found that there was a second letter awaiting me, containing a single pearl, without any clew as to the sender. They wrote to inform me that by an expert to be of a rare variety and of considerable value. You can see for yourselves that they are very handsome." She opened a flat box as she spoke, and showed me a most lustrous pearl. No word of writing was sent with it, but the box bore a Bombay postmark, and the size and weight were those of a pearl. Mr. Holmes examined the gem with a professional eye. "Have you any reason to believe that your father had any friends in India?" he asked.

"Yes. He was in command of a native regiment for many years, and he had numerous friends there."

"Was he a man who would be likely to make a friend of a native?"

"Yes, certainly. He was a man who liked to help others. If he had a friend who was in need, he would always do his best to assist him."

"Thank you. Your father's name, I presume, is the same as yours, Miss Morstan?"

"No, my name is Mary Morstan. My father's name was Arthur Morstan. He was a captain in the Third Buffs. He retired from the service on his return to England, and lived at Upper Norwood. We communicated with him, of course, but he did not even know that his brother of Roylott was in England."

"A singular case," remarked Holmes. "I have not yet described to you the most singular part. About six years ago—to be exact, upon the 4th of May, 1878—an advertisement appeared in the Times asking for the address of Miss Mary Morstan, and stating that it would be to her advantage to come forward. There was no name or address appended. I had at that time just entered the family of Mrs. Cecil Forrester in the capacity of governess. At her advice I published my address in the advertisement column. The same day there arrived through the post a small packet addressed to me, which proved to contain a very large and lustrous pearl. No word of writing was enclosed. Since then, every year, upon the same date, there has always appeared a similar packet containing a similar pearl, without any clew as to the sender. They have come to me regularly

T. L. BLOOD & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
DRIES WHILE YOU SLEEP
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

NATAL AND LENGTH OF STAGE OF THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE.

Mail arrives daily at 11:30 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 11:30 a. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 12:30 p. m.
Mail from Lockhart, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 12:30 p. m.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. until 7:30 p. m.
Sundays from 12:30 a. until 1:30 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train 10 and by stage Sundays.

E. P. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale call and see me

THE UNTIED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds..Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 25 F St., Washington, D. C.

50 Years of Success
NEW YORK WORLD
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 Sewing Machine
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, namecheasnal and unsatisfactory shuttle.
The Pristeliness ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews equally well all goods whether the shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133. I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING.
VISITING BRETHREN ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Whitney, H. Hoagland, Wm. Schweiten
N. G. V. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. It keeps you well. Our trade mark on the package. Price $1 00. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitute. 45 tablets. Ask your druggist.

QUEBEC
NORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has rich black loam soil on clay foundation; produces more wheat per acre than any other County; 1902 20 bushels. Good water; plenty of timber; fine climate. Improved farms and wild lands in tract. Counties, will locate at Lisbon prices. Farm lands $5 to $15 per acre. Grazing lands $1 to $3 per acre. Homestead adjoining. 6,000 acres near the county. Branch Railroad. Write for maps and facts.
W. E. Brown Co.
Mandan, N. Dak., or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

MICKEY WALTERS AND THE LADY

By WILLIAM H. OSBORNE.

Copyright, 1898, by F. C. McClure

Two hundred dollars reward for return of gold watch stolen from elderly lady between Clifton street and Parker avenue. No questions asked. Apply 102 Parker avenue, city.

"Now?" said Mr. Mickey Walters to himself as he read and reread the above advertisement in the Record, "this here super must be a prize for sale." Reaching into the depths of his trousers pocket, he brought forth a rich and much bejeweled timepiece and regarded it with reverential awe. "It's a beaut," continued Mr. Walters, with a sigh. "But if she ain't gone an' put her blamed initials in a dozen places, an' cut deep too. There ain't a fence in the place I'd handle the dadgasted thing." He once more perused the interesting offer. "Well," he went on, "it's the only thing eft to do, I reckon, an' I'll bet dollars to doughnuts it's genuine up mis. She's such an innocent old party, an' she never saw me do it either. Two hundred plunks ain't bad—more'n Schwarz 'd ever pay me."

He rose and carefully surveyed his features in a glass. Then he caught up a brush and soap and carefully lathered his upper lip. In five minutes he had transformed himself from a twenty-eight-year-old man to an eighteen-year-old boy. His real age was always a matter of conjecture, and his youthful appearance had invariably been his strongest card, one that he had always saved until the last and then played with telling effect.

All that day an aged lady sat in a window at 1032 Parker avenue. She had long white curls which shook with each movement of her head. Her face had become weasened with age, but there still shone a kindly light in her sparkling black eyes. The doorbell rang, and a man in livery appeared.

ALLOW ME TO PRESENT THE SMOKIEST PICKPOCKET IN THREE STATES.

He announced the presence of a man below. The old lady directed that he be shown up.

The old lady started slightly when a slender, fair haired youth entered—a youth with a frank and honest face. The youth himself was nervous. Just a bit, as he pulled from his pocket a magnificent piece of paper.

"Is this here straight goods, lady?" he inquired in a pleasant voice. "Cause I ain't done nothin' wrong myself, an' it wouldn't be right to mix me up in anything when I'm only tryin' to do you a favor. Is it straight goods?" She nodded.

"An'," he continued, "d'you mean that you'll give $200 for your watch, an' no questions asked? Is that right?"

Again she nodded. "That is right," she replied in a mild, quivering voice. "If my watch is returned, I will gladly pay the money." As she spoke she took from her purse a few crisp bills. Mickey Walters hesitated for a moment and then pulled out the watch.

"Is that yours, missis?" he asked. The old lady's eyes sparkled with delight as they beheld her treasured timepiece. She stretched forth both hands, one to deliver the money, the other to receive the watch. "I am glad to—to—to get it back!" she exclaimed gratefully. Mickey Walters stood on one foot and counted the money.

"Gee!" he said to himself as he did so. "Gee! But she's an easy old party!" Under ordinary circumstances at this function he would have discreetly retired, but his interested glance, roving around the room, had lighted upon several articles of vertu on the table at his side. These articles were marketable either in their present form or if melted up. Two hundred dollars is a good haul, but there's no use of throwing away good chances besides; at least so thought Mickey. So he executed a sort of flank movement which placed him squarely in front of the coveted objects.

"Well, ma'am," he said as his hand stole around and deposited a solid gold salver in his trousers pocket, "this here paper says no questions 'll be asked. That's right, too, but I want to say to you that I ain't got nothin' to do with this here thing. My old man took it often yes, an' I took it often him an' brought it here. I wouldn't take your two hundred only I want to live straight an' honest." His voice quivered as he went on, and he pocketed a gold pen. "P'raps 'tain't right f'r me to give the old man away. I don't want to get him into trouble, but you won't never find out who he is"—a fact which Mickey himself had never found out either.

The old lady nodded sympathetically. At that instant Mickey made away with a gold and jeweled paper knife. "Well, now, ma'am," he continued, a sudden idea striking him, "I must be goin', but I'd like to know one thing. Do you mind tellin' just how this watch was took often you?" The old lady explained how she thought it had been done. Mickey shook his head depressingly.

"The old man's a slick one, missis," he returned. Suddenly his glance became fixed upon some object across the way. The old lady, seeing this, also turned her head. At that instant Mickey Walters leaned forward. The next instant the treasured timepiece was nestling snugly in his vest pocket. "Gee, but this is easy!" repeated Mickey to himself as he started off, but the old lady placed a detaining hand upon his arm.

"I want to get you a book," she said kindly. "You will help you to live an honest life. Wait till I return." She hastened out, shutting the door behind her.

"Blame her," said Mickey, "she'll find that watch gone now." It was dangerous, but Mickey was prepared for it. He placed the watch on the window sill, where, if she missed it, she could easily find it, and if she did not he could easily get it again.

"There," exclaimed the old lady, handing him the tome, "is the small book of which I spoke." Mickey watched her smile. He saw that all was right, so he took possession of the watch once more. The old lady touched him on the arm. "Now, whatever you do, be honest always honest, Mickey Walters."

Mickey started at the sound of his own name, but the old lady kept on shaking her curls, and smiling. Somehow a funny thing happened—they came off—and they left behind only a round pate covered with short hair and the wizened features of—Mr. "Sneakers" Kelly, the chief detective of the Central office. He coughed. A lone coated figure appeared at the door.

"Captain," exclaimed Mr. "Sneakers" Kelly, "allow me to present the slickest pickpocket in three states. Captain Burke, Mr. Mickey Walters. Better scratch him right here, cap. You'll find a good card tray on him an' a paper cutter an' a pen an' a couple of chairs three small ink bottles an' a dozen of candlesticks from the mantel, an' he's got that there watch, too, an' what's more, he's got two hundred plunks that belongs to me. An', Mickey," he concluded, "it's more than I can afford an' that's what."

"Dad fetch the bach!" complained Mr. Walters severely, "an' I wanted to go fishin' tomorrow too!"

"Fishin'!" exclaimed the captain. "That's good. I'd like to go myself, but I don't know, Kelly, but that you may say we've been. By the way, Mickey," he inquired, "how much d'you weigh?"

"Bout a hundred an' thirty," replied Mickey.

The captain stepped forward. "Say," he inquired of the culprit, "would you mind our sayin' down there now that it's a hundred an' seventy-five? My sergeant's a fisherman, an' weight always counts with him."

When they reached the street, the detective suddenly halted. "Mickey," he exclaimed, "if you ain't gone an' forgot that there book I gave you after all!"

Rewards of Honesty.

"Yes," said the bald man with the shifty eye, "I tried honesty once, though you might not think it. I was naught but a kid at the time, when the thought of happiness to see an old woman drop a sixpence. Having been plumbed up short honesty, I picked it up and gave it back to him. He was a man of a appreciated virtue and told me I was a good boy and should grow up to be a millionaire if I washed me neck and combed me hair and kept me shirt and tie glumme a shilling.

"I thought I'd found a paying game and so a little while later I ran up to an old lady with the shilling and says, 'Please, mum, you dropped this,' says I, 'an a honest boy,' thinking, of course, that she would give me 2 shillings and a moral lesson, as she ought to have done by rights.

"But she didn't. Will you believe me, mates, she just put that shilling in her pocket and says: 'Thank you little boy. Here's a penny mint for your honesty.'"—London Answers.

Women and the Mouse.

Once upon a time a number of dignified women were holding an orderly meeting in the interest of universal peace and were listening to very interesting speeches on the matter.

The conclusion was reached that there was no sufficient reason why peace should not prevail throughout the world and war and rebellion be entirely unknown. To this end it was considered only necessary that governments should be just to their subjects and to each other and that under the guidance of high reason all undue excitement should be kept to naught should be avoided.

When this conclusion was reached, a frightened mouse ran across the floor, with the result that the women all jumped to their feet, screaming in a very high key and climbing on to chairs, clutching their skirts in a frantic manner.

Moral.—A very small thing may cause an uprising.—New York Herald.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not put us well here that to your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and in daily use. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3000 cash will handle this tract. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a big thousand on this bunch in a short time.

If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,

BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,

Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

A Woman's Bravery In a Fearful Situation

Many thrilling stories of escapes and rescues are told in connection with reports of the terrible tidal wave which swept over the islands of the Tahitian group in the south seas, devastating the islands and killing at least 1,000 inhabitants.

The most remarkable of these perhaps is the story of how a mother by rare courage and presence of mind saved her infant and herself from being washed out to sea. Carrying the baby with her, she climbed to the top of one of the tall cocoanut trees, which reach heights of 80 to 100 feet, putting out their unbelievable branches at the top.

The devoted mother climbed almost to the top of one of the trees and lashed her babe to the branches, which formed a sort of cradle. She herself clung to the body of the tree, before the infant, watching it to see that the swaying of the "treetop cradle" did not throw it out. Mother and child were in that position for two hours, the mother suffering torture until they were finally rescued.

The islands swept by the tidal wave are mere coral reefs, barely twenty feet above sea level, and only those natives were saved who climbed the cocoanut trees.

Possibilities in Advertising.

The man who thinks advertisers' ads can be dashed off in a few minutes at any time thereby proves that he has no comprehension of the immense possibilities of good advertising.—Exchange.

Has Served Fifty-Five Years.

Albert von Kolliker has been professor of anatomy in the University of Wurzburg, Germany, for the last fifty-five years.

Australia's Only Beast of Prey.

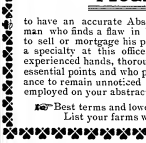
The only beast of prey found in Australia is the dingo, or wild dog.

Millions of Buttons Used.

The world uses about $16,200,000 worth of buttons yearly.

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN
Oil Stove,
Refrigerator or Ice Cream Freezer
You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of
Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages
Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils
FRANK E. HUNT
No trouble to show goods. HARDWARE DEALER.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.
What it Means
to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.
Best terms and lowest rates on farm loans. List your farms with us.



HAY STACK COVERS
Keep the Hay and Grain
Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder..
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

Jim Dumps' young wife while yet a bride
Some biscuits made with great est pride.
Jim looked with fear upon the food,
But to a bride one can't be rude.
"Let's eat 'Force' first, dear, 'tis my whim,"
It saved the life of "Sunny Jim."

"Force"

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal

when in doubt, eat it.

All "Sunny Jims" Now.

"In our household 'Force' is as familiar and welcomed as 'Sunny Jim,' and that's saying a good deal, for we are all 'Sunny Jims' now."—R. L. Stone.

W—6

The Courier.

By JOHN E. MING.

Issued Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance

MR. HANNA marched up the hill and then heroically marched down again.

MARK HANNA believes in letting well enough alone, especially so far as the Ohio senatorship is concerned.

Chicago's discovery that dead men have voted there puts the dead voters of that burgh on a level with those in other hot political centers.

THE ship subsidy proposition has been practically knocked out, because the American people are not in favor of giving something for nothing.

THE 800,000 divorces which are said to have been granted in the United States during the past twenty years represent double opportunities for the marrying persons.

IN the light of President Baer's refusal to bring the Reading coal contracts into court, the marriage of his daughter without the exaction of the promise to obey is characteristic of the family.

The exposure of another get-rich-quick concern in New York proves that nothing will save the people from being victimized by men who are themself bent on getting rich, by fair means or foul.

JUDGE GROSSCUP, of the federal court, has entered the final order in the beef trust case restraining the packers from combining the trade. This order covers all the points in the previous decision.

THE state lost a grand old man in the death of Chas. Betcher, of Red Wing. He has been prominent in public affairs for nearly half a century. Two years ago Mr. Betcher was president of the state board of equalization.

THERE is again a call for aid for flood sufferers. The property losses in Kansas and Missouri aggregate nearly $15,000,000, and hundreds of families are homeless. It is probable that a call for assistance from all the states will be issued.

A LOSS of one hundred lives by a collision off the French coast in broad daylight on a clear day gives the French courts an opportunity to discover how that can occur. Accidents of this kind have happened before, but nobody has yet been able to explain them clearly.

THE political pot is already warming up, and state politics is being quite generally discussed. The sentiment among the Republicans is strongly in favor of Bob Dunn for governor, and if Bob is nominated Van Sant's big majority will look insignificant. He is the most popular man in the state, and his friends are by no means confined to members of his own party.

IT is estimated by the Treasury department that the exports of the United States for the current year will reach the great total of $1,400,000,000. It is interesting to note the growth of our exports during the past four decades. In 1850, for the first time, the total reached the $500,000,000 mark; and it took twenty years longer for the figures to swell to $950,000,000. In 1897 they reached the grand total of one billion and a 50 per cent increase was recorded in the half dozen years that followed.

THE dome of the capital at Washington is being painted. Every five years its cost is renewed and 15,000 pounds of white lead are used in the process. The work is never done by eighteen men, under the direction of "Billy" Lewis and "Al" Ports. The latter has been employed for such work about the capital for thirty-nine years. Ports is the only man who ever climbed to the top of the statute of Liberty surmounting the dome. He did this on Labor Day, 1884, and fastened a garland of electric light bulbs around the neck of her majesty.

NEW YORK city officially commemorated the 250th anniversary of the establishment of the municipal government of New Amsterdam, as the city was first known, on May 26. In the public schools 300,000 children took part in the exercises. Mayor Low presided over the exercises held in the city hall, Gen. J. G. Wilson of the New York Historical society delivering the principal address of the day. Secretary of War Root also made an address, and was followed by Governor Odell, Bishop Potter and others.

THE St. Paul Daily News calls attention to the fact that the five big packing concerns that were recently fined for violating the Missouri anti-trust laws, have raised the price of beefs butchers from $5.50 to $7.00 per hundred pounds. This upon the the meat sold by the packers amounts to a great deal more than the fines. It only shows that a monopoly, as long as it is allowed to exist, can transfer to the people any burden placed upon it. The Commoner adds that the only kind of punishment that cannot be transferred is imprisonment. When we begin to put trust magnates in the penitentiary the trusts will break up, and not before.

THE "higher education" fad is being severely criticized by the leading papers of the state, and there is a strong demand all along the line for a more thorough study of the common branches in the state high schools. The average high school graduate will not take a university course, and it ought therefore to be incumbent upon the school authorities to teach the children how to read and write and figure. The lamentable neglect of the present system to prepare high school pupils for business is becoming apparent, and the people are justified in asking for a return to the days when good penmanship, a thorough understanding of the rules of English grammar, and mathematical ability were the standard of success.

Disease takes no summer vacation.

If you need flesh and strength use

Scott's Emulsion

summer as in winter.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

A COMMUNICATION.

Attention, Farmers of Minnesota and the Dakotas.

EDITOR COURIER: Some time ago we were informed by the Minneapolis Journal that Eugene Hay of Minneapolis was lobbying at Washington to have the tariff of 25c a bushel on Canadian wheat abolished. I have not heard a single protest against such an action. What would be the effect of abolishment of tariff on said Canadian wheat and admitting it free of charge in the United States? It would flood all the grain elevators of Minnesota and the Dakotas with Canadian wheat to the detriment of the American agriculturalist. It would only benefit the Minneapolis millers and grain dealers. The results would be a decline of at least ten cents per bushel in the American wheat market indefinitely. Will the people of Minnesota and the Dakotas stand idle and acquiesce to this Minneapolis millers' scheme at their own expense? Certainly they ought not. In comparison to to all other commercial articles wheat ought to bring from 80c to $1 per bushel. To admit Canadian wheat into the United States free of charge would be nothing short of a calamity to the interest of the American agriculturist and farmer.

I predict that at the present rate of increase of the population of the United States, within eight or ten years this country will raise only wheat enough to supply the demands of home consumption, and that there will not be a bushel of wheat for export. Notwithstanding James Hill's scheme of getting a line of steamers ready to haul wheat to the Orient to China, here in this country we have been advocating, for the past few years, better prices for labor of all kinds. In China a man does not earn more than twenty-five cents per day. Does James Hill suppose that the American farmer can compete with China labor by furnishing the Chinaman with food, raised by American labor and freight added. In short the China market for wheaten flour is comparatively small; it's only the white man in China who might buy and consume wheaten flour. There was a demand for flour at the time the armies of the European powers occupied China, but this demand has greatly decreased since, and supposing China being disrupted and acquired by European powers, its main population will be Chinese, and they will live on rice, and James Hill won't be able to change their desire for different diet, as the Chinaman does not believe in it. Free admittance of Canadian wheat into the United States means an increase in the value of land in Canada, and consequently a decrease in the value of American lands.

Farmers and agriculturalists of Minnesota and the Dakotas! You ought to use all means by your voting your representatives to vote against the abolishment of this tariff of Canadian wheat into the United States.—P. E. Finah, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

A Serious Mistake.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., is the name of the firm who make the genuine Witch Hazel Salve. DeWitt's is the Witch Hazel Salve that heals without leaving a scar. It is a serious mistake to use any other. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, burns, bruises, eczema and all skin diseases. Sold by A. L. Riechert.

Earth is Losing Speed.

The earth is gradually losing speed owing to the friction of the tides. The days are now half a second longer than they were in 1802.

Low Summer Tourist Rates.

Via Chicago Great Western Railway. Round trips to Colorado, Utah, Black Hills, New Mexico and Texas points. Tickets on sale daily June 1st to Sept. 30. Good to return Oct. 31st. For further information apply to any Great Western Agent, or J. P. Elmer, G. P. A., Chicago, Ill.

The Only Way

To get at the superiority of one thing over another is by comparison, and after traveling over every line between Minneapolis and Chicago the traveler will admit that the North western line represents the superlative degree of railway comfort and luxury in its elegant north western limited. This statement was made by a prominent man in an interview in the Minneapolis Times.

Residence Property for Sale.

I will sell, or trade for stock, my residence and four lots in block 55, Kretschmer's addition to Red Lake Falls. Great bargain. Write or see me. Louis Hetu, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papeteries
Tablets
Letter Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Galling Cards
Card Racks
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office . . . . . Supplies . . . . . .

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be Satisfactory

Will Put Life into Him.

John W. Gates says an auto is just the thing to put new life into a tired man. There is no doubt that a skillfully-guided machine will make many a weary pedestrian do some astonishing leaps to safety.—Denver Republican.

Mother's rely on Coe's Cough Cure and children like it. It quickly relieves and cures in a way to stay cured. For it is a remedy that never disappoints; thousand and endorse it. Try it, it's guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

Much Campaign Literature.

Postmaster Hubbard of Boston furnishes good evidence that the recent political campaign aroused considerable interest in Massachusetts. Nearly twice as much campaign literature was handled as was ever before known in his office.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption coughs and cold to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bensonville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I have had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Trial bottles free; regular sizes, 50c and $1.

Statue of Sheridan Completed.

Augustus St. Gaudens has completed his equestrian statue of Gen. Phil Sheridan at West Lebanon, N. H. It is ready for shipment to New York, where it will be erected.

Don't tie a rag around it and let go at that. For burns, cuts or sores of any kind apply Cole's Carbolisave. It will stop the pain and heal quicker than any thing on earth. There is no remedy known that equals it for piles, ulcers, tetter, eczema and all itching, torturing skin diseases. Get Cole's. It's guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

Their Deb.

An exchange says regarding trusts: "There are four things in the South with which we will deny the trusts and all the evil aesthetics of giant monopoly. They are branch water, percimmons, watermelons and chickens. —Headlight.

Will Attract Favorable Attention.

Are you thin? Would you like to get plump? Then stop laughing; "everybody work—now take Rocky Mountain Tea Co. "will do the business. 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

His Normal Condition.

He—You told your mother I was sorry for having made an idiot of myself at her dinner party last night? What did she say? She—O, she said she noticed nothing unusual.

To cure rheumatism take Cole's Blud-builder. It is the perfect vegetable blood purifier and nerve tonic. It makes new blood and imparts health and vigor to the system. Try it, it's guaranteed. $1 by all druggists.

Should Say No.

By the way, wouldn't it be a good idea to have innocent young girls who are invited out to have a drink and then get tanked drops out to accept the invitation? Or do out men have a drink?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every meal will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Benson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I am completely recovered." For liver, kidneys, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The Adrian Democrat hands us this story, which is good enough to be true:

When John E. King was postmaster here some years ago an Irishman came into the office one day and asked if there was a letter for him.

"There is,' says the postmaster, 'and it's a big fat letter, too. There's 11 cents due on it.'

"Well' said the Irishman, 'just open it and read it to me, will you? My education was neglected in my youth.'

"The letter was twenty pages long, but the postmaster read it all through out loud.

"'Just read it again,' says the Irishman, when he ended, and being obliging the postmaster did so.

"Then the Irishman scratched his head and said:

"'How much is due on her?'

"'Eleven cents.'

"'Well keep her; she's none of mine,' said the Irishman. 'She don,t belong to me.' And he walked off."

The loyal American can find more satisfaction in a trip to Washington than to any other city in the world. Washington is not only beautiful, but fit abounds with scenes of historic interest. One can learn more American history in a week's visit to the national capital than by a year's schooling. The sense of sight is the shortest avenue to knowledge. Whenever you can afford it, go to Washington. Don't wait until you are elected to congress—you may he too old to enjoy yourself.

Here is the way the Adrian Democrat sizes it up:

If you can outfind just what the corporations—such as the bankers' association the Standard Oil company and the U. S. steel corporation, are advocating in the way of legislation, you may be sure that the legislation is against the interest of the people. If you find out just what these trusts hate and fight most bitterly, you may be sure that is something in the interests of the people. Now there is nothing which the trusts hate more bitterly or fight more wickedly than what they called "Bryanism." Think about it.

An Albert Lea young lady offers to trade her bicycle for a cow. This is the kind of a woman that some young fellow will be lucky in securing for a bride.

The Albert Lea Standard notes that a leading dry goods merchant advertises "Call and see our beautiful things in shirt waists." If the chaps only knew which store it is they wouldn't need a hurry call on the phone to get them there.

Joshwise says there's two kinds of fools in this world. one tho'it waits fer some fellow t' come along with a skin game and another tho't runs 'round looking for him.

Editor C. L. McDonald of the St. Cloud Times says:

"Some world traveler, after a journey to the French capital wrote this sentence: 'Visit Paris and die,' implying that there was nothing else in the world worth seeing. To Americans we would say: Visit Washington, and ever after live in the consciousness that you are citizens of the world's grandest and greatest government, and that your National Capital, if not already, is soon distined to become the finest and most beautiful of all national capitals—far excelling Paris."

It's All the Wheat..

Mascot

"A Pure Flour"

Sweet, Pure and Wholesome

That's Fit to Eat....

That's why MASCOT flour is so hard to beat.

Don't take our word for it, but try a sample order and be convinced that it is the best flour on the market today. We have been testing flour for years and have never found a brand that came so near our idea of the best. The quality is always uniform and it is equally good for bread, pastry and cake. Try it and see.

RED LAKE FALLS MILLING CO.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. E. W. Grove

Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature, on every box. 25c.

Cures Grip in Two Days.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete Line of Jewelry, Silverware, Watches, Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

Rev. Fr. Ansgar was at Thief River Falls the first of the week.

W. A. McIntyre a made business trip to Minneapolis this week.

L. P. Berthon and family were visiting at Gentilly over Sunday.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Dreveskracht on Monday, a girl.

Alderman J. M. Bray was at Crookston on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Toupin visited friends at Terrebonne Sunday.

Miss Lulu Reichel is visiting friends at Grand Forks this week.

H. N. Johnson and Miss Delia Toupin visited at Crookston Sunday.

For the warm days shoe the little feet with light sandals.—Bangs & Co.

A girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Berry Wednesday of last week.

Ed. Moran was in Monday from Lambert, where he has a ditch contract.

Miss Emma Cyr went to Grand Forks Wednesday on a visit to friends.

Ed. L. Healy made a business visit to St. Paul from Saturday until Tuesday.

Deputy Sheriff Louis Gonyea was over from Crookston Friday on business.

J. M. Bray and Zotique Bray and wife were visiting friends at Dorothy yesterday.

John Cyr came down from Thief River Monday for a short visit with his family.

Berenetta Schusser is visiting friends and relatives at Crookston this week.

Mrs. J. P. Bergan and children of Cass Lake are visiting relatives in the city this week.

Mrs. Lewis Adams was down from St. Hilaire Tuesday for a visit with friends and relatives.

P. O. Haggelund and N. E. Burke of St. Hilaire, were in the city Wednesday on business.

H. H. Zaiser as left Friday for a fishing outing at Turtle Lake. He will be gone two weeks.

Attorney F. A. Grady was at Thief River Falls the first of the week on legal business.

Landlord Kreugar, of the Grand View, was on the sick list several days the first of the week.

Gust Peterson, of the Crookston bottling works, was a business visitor in the city Friday.

Napoleon Delarge left for Washington last week to look over the country with a view of locating.

W. C. Smiley was down from Thief River Falls the first of the week doing some surveying.

We have a bargain table of broken lots of shoes; real bargains if you can find your size.—Bangs & Co.

Emil Hennings returned from Minneapolis Tuesday where he had been working the post month.

W. A. McIntyre was absent from town from Thursday until Monday on legal business at Crookston.

Frank Jeffers is out visiting the country school this week, and incidentally selling some insurance.

Arthur Zaiser returned to his claim in Itasca county Saturday, after spending several day here.

Theo. LaBissonniere drove to Crookston Saturday night on business, returning Sunday morning.

C. J. Knox was down from Thief River Falls Tuesday on matters connected with the Rocksbury ditch.

W. A. Schreiter was at Thief River Falls on business the last part of last week. He returned Monday.

Mrs. S. M. Sivertson and daughter Helen, left Tuesday for a two weeks' visit at their former home in Atwater.

Ed. Garceau moved his family to his farm in Black River this week. Ed., however, will remain in town.

Miss Ada Harten entertained a party of friends this afternoon, the occasion being her twelfth birthday.

P. A. Kaufer and family left Monday on a trip to Washington. They expect to be gone until September.

Miss Nellie McKinney closed her term of school at Badger last Friday and returned to her home at Wylie.

Officers of Rebekah lodge will be installed at their meeting Tuesday evening. A full attendance is required.

Miss Bertha Pirath, of Mankato, arrived in the city Tuesday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Henry Veigel.

Ice cream and cake will be served by the ladies of the St. Mary's society Saturday in a tent near the circus ground.

Miss Olga Hoff, who has been visiting with family of J. L. Johnson, returned to her home at St. Hilaire Tuesday.

Arthur LaPlante was at St. Hilaire Monday placing some of his brands of cigars with the dealers there.

Anthony LaPreniere, of be Phena Record, came over Tuesday for a visit with friends. He returned yesterday.

Niek Helm returned yesterday from Crookston where he had been with Mrs. Helm who is reported as greatly improved.

Every available room in the city was called into service Sunday to take the large crowd to St. Hilaire to witness the ball game.

The most delicate flavored iced tea is made from the Primrose brand. Only air-tight packages retain the fine aroma.—Bangs & Co.

Dan Patterson and wife passed through the city Monday to their home in St. Hilaire from Maple Lake, where they had spent Sunday.

Jos. Belair went to Crookston yesterday on business in regard to the merry-go-round, which will be moved to that place next Monday.

St. Hilaire will be down in force to the circus Saturday. Red Lake Falls will probably entertain the largest crowd in her history on that day.

Wm. Demann's barn, two miles south of town, was struck by lightning during the storm Saturday afternoon, but not much damage resulted.

Once every few days the Swift people send us a few of their fine hams and breakfast bacon, right fresh from the curing house.—Bangs & Co.

Louis Sieff and Tom Green returned from Sioux City Sunday with fifty head of horses for the local market. They drove them overland from Crookston.

To the connoisseur of fine coffee we recommend our Famous King No. 1; a rare blend of Mocha and Java unsurpassed in any city at 40c.—Bangs & Co.

Mrs. C. S. Egan went to Gate burg, North Dakota, Friday last for a visit of part of summer with her son, James, who returned with her after a pleasant visit here.

S. S. Haislet, who has been foreman of the COURIER office for nearly two years, resigned Saturday to take editorial charge of the Gazette during the absence of the publisher.

St. Hilaire will celebrate the Fourth this year, and as neither Red Lake nor Thief River expect to jollify, the saintly city will be the rendezvous for a great many people of the county folks.

Francis Bergstrom, the Minneapolis attorney who has frequently visited Red Lake Falls, has moved his family to Crookston and will locate there in the practice of his profession.

Mrs. Niek Helm was taken to Crookston Friday, and another operation performed Saturday. She is doing very nicely, and it is thought she will soon be recovered.

A strawberry and ice cream social under the auspices of the Presbyterian ladies was held at the residence of E. L. Healy last evening, and a good attendance is reported.

The editor of THE COURIER returned Monday from his eastern trip. Mrs. King and the children are still visiting the home folks in Indiana, and expect to return to ce next week.

Unsolicited words of praise come to us from users of our Primrose package teas. We guarantee satisfaction and will refund whole purchase price if it fails to please. —Bangs & Co.

A picnic supper will be held at Healy's dam tomorrow (Friday) evening by the Knights of Pythias in honor of Mr. and Mrs. O. Thomas, who are to leave in a few days for their new home at Grand Forks.

Saturday promises to be a big day for Red Lake Falls. Gollmar Bros.' circus is billed for that day, and this show has the reputation of giving a performance equal to many of the more pretentious aggregations.

The popular Hood River strawberry is expected to be at its best and cheapest during next few days We shall be pleased to receive your orders two days ahead to insure you fresh stock. Don't delay.—Bangs & Co.

Dr. Chas. Germo, of Balnton, Lyon county, was the guest of his brother, Thomas, from Thursday until Monday. The Doctor owns a piece of Red Lake real estate, so that his visit was a combination of business and pleasure.

Aug. Reichel returned from Washington Tuesday where he had been looking over the country. He liked the country to such an extent that he invested $2500 in three acres of land. He will soon return with his family and make that country his home.

The Evangelical Methodists have effected a Sunday school organization, and hereafter Sunday school will be held every Sabbath at 10 a. m. at K. of P. hall. Regular service at 11 a. m. and 8 p.m. The attendance is very encouraging, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to meet with them.

When about two miles north of town while returning from St. Hilaire Sunday evening the team driven by Albert Brunelle became frightened and ran away. The buggy was slightly smashed and the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Brunelle, were thrown out. Albert reports walking as being very good.

For the picnic season we have a complete assortment of canned meats the very best obtainable; pickles of every style in small packages, dainty crackers and biscuits in small air-tight cartons and our well-known teas and coffees in sealed packages, impervious to air and mother.—Bangs & Co.

V. E. Melberg and wife left yesterday for Willmar, Minn., where Mr. Melberg has accepted a position as manager of the local telephone exchange. Although residents of Red Lake Falls only a few months Mr. and Mrs. Melberg have made many friends who will regret their departure from our city.

A fare of one and one-third for the round trip will be made on the Great Northern Saturday on account of the circus at Red Lake Falls. The northbound freight will have extra coaches and will not leave until 5.30 giving St. Hilaire and Thief River people plenty of time to get home after the afternoon performance.

A petition urging that the slot machines be removed and the saloons closed on Sunday has been circulated during the past week and will be presented to the mayor in a few days. The leaders of the movement say that prosecutions under the state law will be commenced if the petition does not have the desired effect.

The conductors' annual excursion from Grand Fork to Bimidji and Cass Lake will run next Sunday. The train will reach Tilden about 8.30 a.m., returning the same evening. The fare from Tilden will be $1.45, and Red Lake people who want a day's outing at the finest lakes in northern Minnesota should take advantage of this opportunity.

C. J. Knox, Otto Zaiser and Emil Larson, the board of viewers for Ditch No. 21 in Rockbury and Fredonia township 153-42, reported favorably. It is estimated that the benefits will [illegible] the cost of construction [illegible] about 40 per cent. of [illegible] bearings will be held [illegible] the ditch will most p[illegible] published.

The Com[illegible] ex[illegible] ree last week in st[illegible] rs. Kanker & Zeigler [illegible] one roller mills, off[illegible] toward the erection [illegible] bridge over the Clear[illegible] coune. The amount [illegible] correct, but Dupo[illegible] well-known [illegible] ny $30, and Messrs. Kanker [illegible] gler the other $10.

The families of Jerome Longtin Sam and Levi Miller, Sam Allard and Alex Patnode and Mrs. West over formed a picnic party up the Clearwater last Sunday. They report a general good time, and a dinner in which native strawberries were included on the bill of fare. This fruit is seldom ripe in this part of the world until the last days of June, but it seems that vegetation of all kinds is well advanced this year.

Big Fork Compass: J. M. Allard and his wife arrived Thursday evening from Red Lake Falls, where he has been conducting a confectionery store. They came down the river by boat, the trip taking a week. They got off the logging road at Bowstring Lake, the train service to Turtle Lake being uncertain at present, and were obliged to wait one day for the high water to subside. They saw a deer and a couple of moose and had enough experience to fill a book.

It is the custom of the little crickets to use the shocks of the grain for a "quick meal" place and chew up the twine for the meal. The state etomologist suggests that the balls of twine be soaked in a solution of two pounds of blue stone in twelve gallons of water for half an hour and then thoroughly dry. As blue stone is hard to dissolve it should be placed in the water some time before it is wanted for use. This would be a very cheap experiment and might prove to be a very welcome discovery.

Oscar Thomas, who has been agent for the Great Northern at this place for the past five years, has been transferred to Moorhead and will leave Saturday for that city. Moorhead is a city of about 5,000 and one of the most important railroad centers in this part of the state, and Oscar's promotion to the agency at that place is a deserved recognition of his ability. The Red Lake Falls people will be sorry to lose this estimable family. Mr. Thomas will be succeeded in the agency here by C. W. Williams, of Euclid.

Misses Etta Garceau, Majorie Rodgers, Alice Newton, Lulu Fletcher, Maud Pindeisen, Florence Dautremont, Ia Thibbets, Delia Toupin, Albina and Ida Lemieux and Doretta Mattbies, and Messrs. Lee Healy, Wm. Hunt, Drew Marshall, Hugo Zaiser, Abner Fletcher, Ned Taylor Norman Schreiter, Henry Keller, Verne Healy, Harry Garceau, and Gilbert Westphal formed a party that spent Tuesday at Maple Lake. In spite of the fact that the weather was cold and rainy they report a good day's outing. They also claim that the fish bite well. This does not prove that they caught any, how ever.

Willmar Tribune: Do you read the ads in the newspapers each week? Make it a habit. There is money in your pocket by keeping posted. Ads keep you posted and tell you what is going on in the business world about you. If your home merchant gets a snap from the wholesaler he likes you to know it and generally tells of it through the medium of the newspaper. He wants you to come to his store for he believes he can satisfy you on prices in his particular snap. If he can sell you goods cheaply you will become his customer. He knows it. He will talk interestingly to your pocket-book if you watch for his ads. They will post you when to buy.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:

A. P. TOUPIN, President. THEO. LABISSONIERE, Vice-President. J. A. DUPPY, Cashier. P. F. FOELLOT, Asst. Cashier. Directors—A. P. TOUPIN, EMIL GREAT BACH, C. MORTON, F. A. CAUFIELD, J. DUPPY, JOSEPH FOELLOT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

WILL BE HERE IN A FEW DAYS!

Gollmar Bros.'

Big New Railroad Shows

Tripple Circus, Elevated Stages, Romam Hippodrome, Free Horse Exhibit and Deep Sea Anuarium.

A GIGANTIC UNDERTAKING Head and shoulders Over So-Called Rivals.

20-Funny Old Clowns-20

A multitude of riders, leapers, acrialists, aeronauts, gymnasts, charioteers and everytning pertainins to the circus world. Big double menagerie of all the brute creation. Herd of big elephants.

Gollmar Bros.' $20,000 Feature—The Only

Real Living Hippoptamus

In captivity, a savage, blood sweating terror of the River Nile, the only one in the known world, on exhibition afternoon and evening in Gollmar Bros.' millionaire menageries.

Five Bands of Music, Three Circus Rings, Elevated Stages, 500 Men and Women Employed, 300 Ponies.

Every Morning at 10 o'clock a Grand Colossal

FREE STREET PARADE.

A mommoth free street show, seven open dens of wild beasts, ponderous marching elephants, an amazing wonderland, ten different kinds of music, a double procession of shinging armor, glittering dens, cages, band chariots, rich and rore costumes of silks and satins, tableaux, floats, comedy provokers, a perfect blaze of splendor mabestically moving upon the public highway at 10 oclock a. m.

Two Performances Daily, Afternoon and Evening. Doors Open at 1 and 7 O'clock.

RND LAKE FALLS, SATURDAY, JUNE 13TH.

A Big Bargain

Combination Book Case and Writing Desk. Sale Price,

Only $11.75.

Anderson & Healy

JOHNSON-VAN SANT LAND CO.

CAPITAL $100,000

E. H. DREVESKRACHT, Manager Red Lake Falls Office

Boughton Building, RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

25,000 acres of Red River Valley . . lands for sale . . If you have a farm to sell, see us. We buy and sell . . . . Farm Loans negotiated at lowest . . rates of interest . . . . . .

Honest and Fair Dealing is Our Motto.

The Courier for Jobs.

Seven

Diseases Caused by Measles.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic and Nervine Cured After Thirty-one Years.

"I was a perfectly healthy young man up to February 1876. When my regiment was in Camp Randall I was taken sick with the measles and was sent to the hospital. While on the third I used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Tonic in 1876. Doctors have told me it came from inactivity of the liver. I cannot say how many physicians did treat me but have had all kinds. Dieting has never helped me. Biliousness, attacks of headache, rheumatism, nasal catarrh, hay fever, asthma, and chronic diarrhea; have all taken their turn with me constantly for the last 31 years. I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with good results and I think that the Dr. Miles Remedies are perfect."—Rev. Hyram Bender, Sparta, Wis.

"I want to say a few good words for Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I have been troubled very much with insomnia since I made the change to the new paper and on account of this have tried various remedies without relief. Dr. Miles' Nervine was recommended to me by a personal friend of mine, to try Nervine. I can assure you it has done me a lot of good. I consulted it necessary to say it regularly now but occasionally when I find I am excessively nervous and restless I again take it up as I always keep a supply on hand. It has never failed to give me the desired relief."—A. Hoegen, Publisher Volks Zeitung, Milwaukee, Wis.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous Diseases. Address Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

N. SWANSON.

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

For Sale—Safes and Vaults.....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Safe Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

fred Borchers

CHOICE BRANDS OF

Wines, Liquors and Cigars

Your Patronage Solicited

The New Brick Block

CORNER MAIN AND FIRST STS.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S TRY NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE, NO PAY.
Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.

RED LAKE FALLS.

	WEST-BOUND	ARRIVE	DEPART
No. 25.	Mixed from Perlis to Grand Forks.....	7:45 a m	8:45 a m
	EAST-BOUND
No. 196.	Mixed from Grand Forks to Perlis	5:45 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. MIZEN, Agent.

CINDERELLA

By CALLY RYLAND

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

Mrs. Stanton was sitting on the white pillared piazza awaiting the arrival of her daily letter before she sought her room for her afternoon siesta.

The long line of windows above were open to catch the first faint breath from the mountains, the breath that collects its sweetness from deep lying beds of damp moss and fern fettered through the pine tops as it descends.

From the window in Ellinor Carey's room just overhead came a ripple of laughter. Ellinor herself, framed in its curtains, stood furbishing a dainty pair of bronze slippers to wear that evening to the cotillion. As she pevised one of them upon the window sill and stepped back to view the effect of her handiwork the lace of her dressing sack caught in its buckle and sent it whirling down upon the dark brown head of a young man who was standing in the piazza below.

A SMALL BRONZE SLIPPER FILLED WITH CIGARETTES.

Miss Stanton caught a horrified look, as poor Ellinor's face as she darted back and then turned her glasses on the young man who had been so unceremoniously taxated.

He had had the slipper on the palm of his hand and was examining it carefully.

"What Cinderella' dropped it, do you think?" asked one of the loungers, scanning the windows above.

"I don't know," said the young man slowly, "but only just arrived. "I don't know, but I am going to play the prince and find out."

"And marry the girl who can wear it?" they chaffed.

"Perhaps," he said. "Who knows?" And he dropped the slipper into his coat pocket and strolled away.

But the last laid plans of men, mice and even princes gang aft agley. Fate, in the uniform of a black buttons, was even then relentlessly pursuing the prince, and half an hour later, in response to an urgent telegram from his partner, he was throwing things into a suit case to catch the afternoon train to New York. As he exchanged his flannels for the homespun of travel something fell from the pocket.

"Cinderella's slipper!" he exclaimed, picking it up tenderly. "Ah, well, the search for its owner is but a pleasure postponed, so I'll just take it along." And he tucked it carefully under his cuffs.

* * * * * * *

"How do I look, dear Mrs. Stanton?" asked Ellinor, revolving slowly before the critical tongue-tied.

"As charming as Cinderella at the ball, my dear," said Mrs. Stanton, smiling. "And that reminds me to ask if you have ever heard anything of your prince of the slipper?"

"Not a word," laughed Ellinor. "I had almost forgotten that little episode of last summer. His name was—let me see?"

"Don't ask me," cried Mrs. Stanton, offering her shoulders to the maid for her wrap. "Are you quite ready, dear? Jack is most particular about his dinner parties. He likes every one to come on the stroke of the hour."

"I am glad I am to meet the eighth wonder of the world at last," said Ellinor, "Hilo prince of perfection, Jack Stanhope. But I know I shall detest him," she added viciously under her breath. "He is too handsome, too charming, too brilliant, too good, in fact, to be true. You have done nothing but sing his praises to me since I came to New York, my dear lady, and now that I am honored with one of his long hoped for, much coveted invitations to a dinner in his apartments I believe you think I have fulfilled my destiny."

"Wait till you meet him," murmured Mrs. Stanton, leading the way to the carriage.

Ellinor found her head humor vanishing before the charming welcome of her host, and she was ashamed of the little thrill of satisfaction which crept over her when she found she was to have the seat of honor on his right.

"His rooms are really in amazing taste," she admitted to herself as she drew off her gloves. "His table appointments are perfect," she commented a little later on, "and he himself is all Mrs. Stanton claims for him," she confessed reluctantly as she studied his cleverness at keeping the conversation at ball rolling and the ease with which he put each one at his or her best wit even shy little Amy Grey found herself confiding a timid anecdote to seven pairs of appreciative ears.

"I acknowledge that toasts have become a nuisance," Jack Stanhope said as they rose from the table, "but there is just one little one I would like you all to drink standing before we adjourn to the library for coffee and cigarettes. It is, 'To Cinderella.'"

"Have you gone back to your fairy tale days, Jack?" asked Jo Ellison, putting down his empty glass. "Let's have the story; come now, there's a good fellow."

"The story? Certainly, old man. I'll give it to you with an illustration," Jack answered as they followed the ladies into the library. "This is the illustration—have one?" And Ellinor's small nose quickened as her eyes grew wide with dismay as she watched him take from a little recess a small bronze slipper filled with Turkish cigarettes and hold it up in full view.

"I am going to tell you the story of the Cinderella who dropped this," he said, smiling, "and what I am through I expect to fit it on Miss Grey, Miss Stevens and Miss Carey in turn. Only Mrs. Stanton is exempt, because she was fitted long ago by a better man."

Ellinor grew pale and had to turn as the story spun itself out, and Jack wound up jubilantly with, "And I've vowed to marry the girl who can wear it—for she still lives—"

"It is silly to be embarrassed by so small a thing," she said to herself. But, try as she might and did, the hot blood rose guiltily to her cheeks when, after Miss Grey had ruefully put forth a short, fat foot, unresulting, "It's no use for me even to try it on," and Miss Stevens showed a slender foot a good two inches beyond the little bronze slipper, Jack Stanhope called out gayly, "Your turn now, Miss Cary."

"I—I really," she began hopelessly, turning to Mrs. Stanton. But that lady was obdurate. Perhaps this was what she had anticipated.

"Try it on," she said, smiling. "I, your chaperon, command it." And Ellinor obediently but blushingly drew her foot from her satin slipper and slipped it easily into the little bronze one.

For a moment there was a little embarrassed pause. Then they all began to talk at once, and Mrs. Stanton insisted that her carriage was waiting and swept Ellinor away before the girl was quite sure that she should not have resented Stanhope's unnecessary pressure of her hand or that she had heard his murmur under his breath as he accepted Mrs. Stanton's invitation to call. "I have really found her at last—my Cinderella."

* * * * * * *

It was in June that the good steamship Lucania cast off her chains of bondage and swung her nozzle slowly oceanward.

From the near side of her rolling a handsome pair strained their eyes to catch a glimpse of a figure on the pier.

"There she is, God bless her! Wave your handkerchief, Jack," cried the girl. "Why, what are you doing, you absurd boy?" For the man had fastened to the top of his stick a little bronze slipper and was looking it high above his head.

"Only saluting her with my talismanic dear little Cinderella," he answered tenderly as the pier swung out of sight.

Activity at a Musician's Brain.

In the course of a lecture at a conference of musicians in Dublin, Ireland, some interesting particulars and some astonishing statistics were given relatively to the amount of work accomplished by the brain and nerves in piano playing. A pianist, in view of the present state of pianoforte playing, has to cultivate the eye to see about 1,500 figures in one minute, the finger to make about 2,000 movements and the brain to receive and understand separately the 1,500 signs while it foresees 2,000 orders. In playing Weber's "Moto Perpetue" a pianist has to read 4,541 notes in a little under four minutes. This is about nineteen per second; the eye can receive only about ten consecutive impressions per second, so that it is evident that in very rapid music a player does not see every note singly, but in groups, producing a bar or more at one vision. In Chopin's "Etude in E Minor" (in the second) the speed of reading is still greater, since it is necessary to read 3,200 signs in two minutes and a half. It is impossible to allow twenty-six notes per second.—Scientific American.

Spiders as Aeronauts.

Spiders cannot actually fly, but the young of many species are expert aeronauts. When, on some autumn day, these little adventurers prepare to start, they stand on some high point of vantage, facing the wind. Then the tip of the tail is raised, and little spinnerets emit threads which are caught and carried by the breeze. These vary in length with the weight of the spiders and are buoyant enough to bear their owners aloft for a considerable distance.

The glittering filaments which are thus spun and ultimately settle on the ground and bushes are familiar to us all as "gossamer" and are produced by many species of these most interesting insects.

Some spiders again are expert leapers. A beautiful example of this sort has been found at Sydney, New South Wales. It has a curious flap on either side of its body, which can be extended like a fan or parachute. Aided by this, it can readily cover short distances, though we cannot speak of this method of motion as real flight.

A VALUABLE VOICE

[Original.]

The manager had made rapid strides in the profession. He was only thirty, yet was sole proprietor of a successful comic opera troupe. He was very businesslike with the members of his company, but they all liked him.

One morning he was receiving applications of candidates for the chorus. A girl with brown eyes and comely face and figure was admitted.

"You are"—he asked deferentially, looking admiringly at one unusually refined for a chorus singer.

"Constance Truver."

"You sing"—

"Soprano."

After a trial of her voice she was engaged.

Louanretta sang so well that she was soon cast for one of the inferior parts. At the first rehearsal after the assignment she astonished the manager by singing a deep contralto. Few women could reach the notes she struck.

"What's the matter with your voice?" asked the manager, astonished.

"Don't know, sir."

"You have been singing soprano for three weeks, and now you have become into a contralto."

"Sometimes my voice is much lower than at others."

"Your part hurt written for a contralto. I'll have to change it or change you. I don't want to do either."

"I may be able to sing soprano when I go on to costume."

The manager studied the matter, hoping the while at the girl curiously. It was a very strange case.

"Well," he said presently. "I'll have to make some change in the part and have it read as one you could sing with the audience with those profunda notes."

Louanretta sang contralto till the evening of the first performance, when she came to the theater looking pale and ill.

"By Jove," said the manager, "you look as if you'd been keelhauled! I hope there's no new voice to provide for."

"I've had a sick spell," replied the girl. "I think my natural voice has come back."

"What?"

"I shall sing soprano tonight."

The manager hurried off to attend to another matter, but his mind was on the girl and this remarkable change of voice. When Louanretta went on, she sang soprano like a bird and so delighted the audience that the manager was delighted also and cast her for a higher part at the next performance.

One morning Louanretta was in the manager's private office drawing her salary when he looked up at her and said:

"I'm going to put on a piece next week with a man's part in it that would just suit that contralto voice you took on very long ago. Now, if you could only call it up at will, I'd cast you for the part and pay you $50 a week."

"When is the first rehearsal?"

"On the 15th."

"I may sing contralto by that time."

"You may!"

"You."

"What makes you think so?"

"Well, I'm liable to a relapse at any time and haven't had one for a long while. It's due now."

"Nonsense."

He engaged a baritone for the part, who deserted three hours before the performance. Louanretta was with the manager when he received the unwelcome news.

"I'll take the part," she said.

"You? Has your voice relapsed?"

"Not yet, but I think it will before 8 o'clock this evening."

"Well, upon my word! Do you mean to say that"—

"I'll be here ready for the part, depend upon it." And she skipped out before the manager could recover from his astonishment.

At 8:40 o'clock she went on with one of the baritone voices that had been heard in that house during the season. She had been announced verbally as Signor Barilli to take the part of the man whose name was on the programmes. At the end of each act Signor Barilli was called before the curtain and at the end of the opera received a perfect ovation.

"Come again with us," she said, "and talk it over."

The manager consented, and when they reached Louanretta's lodgings she excused herself for a few moments. When she returned she found in waiting a young fellow, the very counterpart of herself, her twin brother.

"I am Leonard Traver," said the boy, "and this is my sister, Louanretta. When she fell ill some time ago, I took her part, though I couldn't sing soprano. Tonight I sang the baritone part and received your proposition of marriage. My sister would answer it, but does not know there would be two salaries and expenses to pay instead of one. I presume it is withdrawn."

"You bet it isn't," said the manager, clasping Leonaretta in his arms.

MARION RUBY BARCLAY.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes. New Tobaccos. New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Grashang & Blake, Pros

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

J. M. BRAY.
FINE BUILDING. ELEGANT FIXTURES
Slickest Place in Town to Drop in and Get ::

Fine Cigars and Wines and Liquors.

BREVORT RYE. :: K. C. R. WHISKEY

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they cause the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

PREPARED BY E. C. DEWITT & CO., CHICAGO

Don't Forget the Name.

EARLY RISERS

The Potomac River.

The Potomac river is only 500 miles long, and in its lower course rather an estuary than a stream.

Axle Grease

Guaranteed at

6 Boxes for..... 25c

... At ...

O'Brien Bros.

Popular Hardware Dealers

RED LAKE FALLS.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
Office on corner of Main and Third streets.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. H. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARAMIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
OFFICE OVER REICHERT'S DRUG STORE
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STUCKEY BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
At Lambert Monday, June 22.
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, protecting of estates and examination of titles.
Offices over Bangs and Co's store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Lots, platted and unplatted.
Red Lake Falls, - Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office at Ed L. Healy's land office, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerome's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

FARM AND GARDEN

REPAIRING A ROOF.

A Clever Job of Replacing and Resurfacing Hemlock Shingles.

Like many others who put on hemlock roofs ten years ago, I have had to renail. Owing to some cause the nails wasted away to nothing and permitted shingles to blow away, says L. B. Pierce in Ohio Farmer. The beginning of the job of scaffolding a half pitch barn roof caused it to be put off from time to time until a hundred shingles were blown away. There seemed no way but to bracket the roof in steps the same as in shingling.

The scaffold for reaching the eaves was the least of my troubles. A mov-

BRACKET FOR SCAFFOLD AND SPLICE FOR LADDER TO HANG OVER RIDGE OF BUILDING.

[A, B, 2 by 4 scantling, framed tenwise and further strengthened by narrow strips. C and D, nailed to each side; E, steel or gas pipe turned in hooks at rules and runwise.]

able scaffold twelve feet long, consisting of two brackets and four inch boards twelve feet long, would answer for the whole barn. Brackets like that shown can be taken down and moved in a very short time and require no nailing to the building, although a nail in the bottom helps a little in keeping it plumb and steady. Whatever is used to hold the bracket in place should be given base enough—say ten feet out from building—so there will be no danger of its pushing away. The bracket should extend about eighteen or twenty inches above the scaffold next the building, so it can be thrust up under the roof, and the bottom of the prop should be on solid ground and securely held from slipping by a stake outside. A sixteen foot 2 by 4 scantling with a few bits of sound fencing will make two brackets, and they can be kept for a lifetime, storing them between two tie girts in the upper part of the barn. The props of 2 by 4 must be fourteen feet and upward in length, according to the height of the eaves where the scaffold is to be used.

At the renailing job I commenced by getting up a scaffold on which, by stretching pretty well, I nailed twelve courses. In doing this it suddenly occurred to me that it was not necessary to work in horizontal lines as in shingling, but that I could work up and down. This simplified the matter at once, and then I could use a ladder. All that was wanted was some way of hooking the ladder to the ridge. Had the ladder been long enough I could have bolted on some brackets, but it was three feet short, so I made two pieces like the second figure, bolting one to each side of the ladder with three quarter-inch bolts, the hooks or brackets having two bolts each. With such an arrangement I could nail about two feet wide from each side of the barn, perched either on the ridge, could move the ladder over two feet and work down. A common market basket with a stout wire hook protruding from the bottom of one end made a good receptacle for what shingles I needed each trip, hooking the basket to a rung of the ladder just above me.

I found the hemlock shingles after ten years of service in pretty good condition and likely, if I could keep them from blowing away, good for perhaps seven or eight years more. When I used them, I was told that they would not last to exceed eleven years. In conclusion I might say that the job of renailing could be done when the shingles are soft and flattened by a long rain.

An Easy Swarm Catcher.

A swarm in May is worth a load of hay;
A swarm in June is worth a silver spoon;
A swarm in July, not worth a fly.

A swarm catcher which, it is claimed, will save a great deal of worry and annoyance during the swarming season is illustrated in Gleanings in Bee Culture. It consists of a small block of wood on the side of which is nailed a circular board which is suspended from small branches of vines or wires stretched from one point to another. After an occasion requires. The Mississippi has keeped who invented this says that the bees nearly always select these blocks to swarm on. They are easily taken down and the swarm hived.

SWARM CATCHER.

"The ladies' bees" is the latest name for the Carolinians, which are considered the greatest of their kind.

BUNCHING ASPARAGUS.

The Green and the White Kinds. How to Cut—Rubber Bands.

Some markets require the green asparagus, while in others the white is in good demand. It is usually a good plan to have both kinds, advises an Indiana grower in Rural New Yorker.

By throwing a ridge of earth over a row the asparagus will become well bleached before it reaches the top of the ground. The other rows will furnish the green sprouts. In cutting I use an inch chisel, and the shoots are cut off just under the ground to secure the green asparagus. In the part of the field that is ridged up the shoots are cut off, just as they appear above the soil, as deep in the ground as necessary to secure the proper length. As the stalks are cut they are placed in a basket with the tops all one way. When the basket is full, it is carried to a birdrack and the asparagus placed in a long row on a table and well washed. By keeping the stalks straight this work is greatly lessened, as the dirt can be washed from the stalks easier, quicker and with less water.

Forming the Bunches.

Any one who has ever bunched asparagus has observed that but few stalks are perfectly straight. In bunching, the stalks should be turned so each bend turns toward the center of the bunch. This will take time, but it will pay, as a much nearer bunch will be secured, and it will sell more readily. After the center is formed each succeeding row is slightly lowered so that the bunch when finished will be cone shaped and about what an ordinary hand can reach around. A rubber band is now slipped over the bunch while still in the left hand, and the work is done. The rubber bands are better than strings, as they hold the bunches neater and save much labor in using them, and labor is money in the market garden business. All bunches are made as near alike as possible. After being put up each bunch is cut off about six inches long and placed in a shallow pan containing water. Here it remains until the next morning, when it is placed in boxes containing wet moss, the boxes covered with wet sacks. The boxes are placed in the wagon and taken to market, where they sell for from 40 to 50 cents per dozen bunches.

A Marker From an Old Cultivator.

The illustration shows a corn marker without a fault. All cultivators are not alike, as some have straight tongues, and some have a neat attachment, but they can all be used by simply removing the wheels and shovel beams.

No. 1 A shows a hole where a clevis attaches the whiffletrees. This brings the draft on the sled instead of the frame. It shows a piece spliced on behind, making a place for the driver to stand, thus leaving a clear ration between his horses and straight ahead. C shows where the wheel spindles are secured to the marker plank with a yoke, secured on the underside of the plank by bars. A is a bar upright pin. This is to receive B of No. 2. This pole is just eight feet long, and D a runner made rounding at each end. This is 2 feet long, 8 inches wide and 1 inch thick. It is made of hard wood and is wedge shaped on the bottom. G is a brace, same as in No. 1. F is a ring or snap H on same ring, and your highest ideal of a perfect corn marker will be realized. I use E for handles when going in the end of the field.—Cor. Orange Judd Farmer.

HOMEMADE CORN MARKER.

The Wife's Horse.

An imposition that is often practiced on the woman—the farmer's wife especially—is if there is an old, ringboned, spavined, crippled horse that is steve up generally and good for no earthly use it is kept for the women to drive, while we argue that in these modern days a woman should demand a horse that when she wants for a given point or other she gets there.—Farm Journal.

Live Stock Conditions.

Of the total number of horses on farms and ranges on Jan. 1, 1903, 2 per cent are reported as having died from disease. Of cattle a mortality of 2.4 per cent from winter exposure and 2.4 per cent from disease is reported. The losses of sheep from exposure amounted to 5.4 per cent and those from disease to 2.8 per cent, the losses of swine aggregated 5.8 per cent.

In the Observatory.

Every one has a right to know what he eats, and no one has any moral right to prevent his knowing. The time is not far distant when there will be no legal right to deceive people as to what they are eating.

Every office building on earth is congested with hollow eyed prisoners who are planning to be gentlemen farmers, about next year or next after, away from the hurry hurry and nothing to do except raise chickens.

To be a good cattle feeder means that one must have an inborn love for the work, and combined with this must be a high form of intelligence.

One of the most unfortunate of mental habits is a persistent and chronic disposition to perceive only the disagreeable things of life.

Farmers will wake up some day and pull together.

Amazing Courage Displayed by a Boy

"The nerviest kid I ever knew," said an old ex-deputy marshal of southern Kansas in a reminiscent mood the other day, "was an eighteen-year-old consumptive medical student of the name of Finch, who came into the Pauline Ole in the spring of 1877 and worked as a grocery utility boy in one of the cattle camps of Driscoll Bros., then the cattle kings of northern Texas and Indian Territory.

"One day Finch was out with two of the Driscoll camp boys with a herd near Red Clark's ranch on the Cimarron, when they were set upon by half a dozen of Dutch Henry's gang of cattle thieves, who tried to cut out and run off a bunch of cows. A running fire took place, and one of Finch's companions was killed outright and the other wounded in the pistol area, but, however, until one of the thieves had fallen the other and another been rendered helpless with a bullet in the thigh.

FINCH DEMANDED JACK'S PISTOL.

"The remaining four, seeing no one to oppose them but a 'kid,' started to round up the entire herd. Here they reckoned without good judgment. Finch, who had been trying to stanch the blood of his wounded companion, raised his revolver when two of the men were within twenty feet of him, and as two quick reports rang out over the prairie both men dropped to their mounts, one shot through the heart, the other 'plum center' in the forehead.

"The firing had attracted the attention of the herders of another Driscoll camp some two miles away, who hurried up to the scene of action, and the two unhurt thieves fled, taking their wounded companion with them. The body of the kid was pronounced to be a full fledged cowboy.

"Along in the fall Finch, feeling that his health had been much benefited by his season on the range and fearing the effects of a winter on the prairie, decided to obtain employment in Dodge City instead, and did so and then returned to college.

"The Masterson brothers, Bat and Jim, were holding up the law and order end of Dodge City and Ford county —one as city marshal, the other as county sheriff. There never have been two officials both men dreaded in their vicinity more than for that matter, than these same Mastersons, and their reputation for being quick and straight shooters kept the lawless element fairly in bounds. Soon after arriving in Dodge City had churches and Sunday schools the Mastersons was city marshal of Tombstone, holding in check the tongue of the Arizona mines.

"The Masterson boys offered young Finch a place as office deputy. Not thinking he would have to perform any duty other than pertained to the books and records of the office, he gladly accepted it at $40 a month. One day Marshal Masterson came into the office and said in a jolly manner, 'Kid, go down to Ham Bell's saloon and arrest Texas Jack and lock him up until he gets sober.' Now 'Texas' was a half breed Mexican and one of the toughest characters known in and about Dodge and Hays cities and had a reputation as a 'killer' and when on a drunk always tried to decorate the town a bright boulevard vermilion hue by shooting out the street lights and in the saloons and dance halls. The marshal's order was given in a spirit of jest, for he had already warned Jack to behave himself or leave town and knew his order would be obeyed unless Jack got drunker than usual. But the kid accepted the order in earnest, pinned it into Ham Bell's saloon and stepping up to Texas Jack demanded the surrender of his shooting irons. Jack failed to understand the look in the mild gray eyes of the boy, but reached out his hands as though to execute the promised spanking, when a quick, sharp report of a six shooter and Texas Jack had crossed the divide. For this Finch was at once arraigned before the local judge and promptly acquitted without further ceremony."

Legal Blanks.

The Courier job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (six shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

Food for Typhoid Patients.

By using whey as food for typhoid patients instead of milk, a doctor has reduced the death-rate in this disease from 20 to 2.7 per cent.

A Big Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when Mr. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the great remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiner druggist. Trial bottles free.

Manuscript Poems by Lamb.

Three manuscript poems in the handwriting of Charles Lamb were sold for $570 recently in London.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured if Cole's Cough Cure is taken in time. It is wonderfully soothing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Children like it and its guaranteed. 25c by all druggists.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my whole time to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

Liver Pills

That's what you need; something to cure your biliousness and give you a good digestion. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation and biliousness. Gently laxative. 25c. All druggists.

Want to know why Ayer's Hair Vigor is the best hair dressing in the world? Then ask

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers

It's a Dressing, not a Dye. Sold by all Druggists, or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

Capital Stock, - $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.

J. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS.

J. WYER, F. E. HUNT, THEO GARCEAU,
CHAS. H. ROGERS, A. P. TOUPIN.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE. FAST TIME. TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

Connections with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BOUND	STATIONS	EAST BD
8.00 pm Lv	Minneapolis Ar	7.15 am
8.30 pm Lv	Minneapolis Lv	6.45 am
10.45 pm Ar	Crookston	Lv 4.45 pm
10.55 pm Lv	Crookston	Ar 4.30 pm
6.30 am Lv	Stephen	Ar 8.45 pm
6.50 am Lv	Mentor	Ar 8.25 pm
7.10 am Lv	Angus	Ar 8.05 pm
10.30 am Ar	St. Hilaire	Lv 5.00 pm
10.40 am Lv	RED LAKE FALLS	Ar 4.50 pm
12.05 pm Ar	Thief River Falls	Lv 3.45 pm
	Grand Forks	Ar 1.45 pm

O. THOMAS Agent

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Addresses, Stories, Repartee and Oratory, in ten handsome volumes, illustrated with fine photogravures and color plates.

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS,

Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of English Parliament

Hamlin Garland
Author and Litterateur

Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Collaborator

Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man Without a Country"

Joseph H. Choate
Former U. S. Minister from Great Britain

John R. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Michigan

Nathan Haskell Dole
Associate Editor "International Library of Famous Literature"

James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureau, Author of "Eccentricities of Genius"

George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University

Lorenzo Sears
Professor of English Literature, Boston University

Edwin M. Bacon
Former English Instructor Harvard

P. Cunliffe Owen
Member Editorial Staff New York Tribune

J. Walker McSpadden
Managing Editor "Edinburgh Review" of Baldwin's Works

Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Museum, Washington, D. C.

Truman A. DeWeese
Member Editorial Staff Chicago Times-Herald

William W. Hatch
Member Editorial Staff Philadelphia Evening Telegraph

Charles Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri

Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous on both sides of the Atlantic, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our time.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the delicate fancies of the humorist.

THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to these master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ × 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

4 PER CENT DISCOUNT SAVE 10%

JOHN D. MORRIS CO. 1701 Chestnut Street Philadelphia

Gentlemen: Please send me, free of charge, specimen pages containing full description of the Library of Modern Eloquence, also full particulars regarding bindings, prices, etc.

Name _____
Business _____
Address _____
City and State _____

(D-120)

Special Bargains This Week
At the BIG STORE

Underskirts

We have a few left-overs from our colored underskirt line that we wish to close out.
3.00 skirts for 1.69.
1.75 skirts for 89c.
All desirable patterns in fancy stripes solid red and lavenders with black edge on ruffles.

Big values in ladies mercerized underskirts. Made by the Home Made Co. Prices from 60c to $2.50. Nothing in their makeup to unravel or catch dust as all seams are taped. Look them over.

Lace Curtains

Special this week—
Our regular 50c center for 39c, full sized Nottingham.
Lace curtaining by the yard, 15c, worth 20c. Nottingham quality, pretty pattern.

CLOTHING SALE

From now until July 4 we will give a discount of 10 PER CENT on all sales of men's and boys' clothing and men's fine pants. As our prices are already very low this will be giving you exceptionally good values.

Remember that we are not offering you cheap stuff. We carry nothing but Kuppenheimer guaranteed clothing, the only clothing on the market with a real guarantee and Cappa's 100 per cent. pure wool clothing. Buy your clothing from us and save money.

Ladies' Wrappers

20 dozen of wrappers just received, all of the celebrated Home Made kind already well known to the lading of the city. all made in the best possible manner, sewed to stay and fit perfectly. Prices from 1.00 to 1.50.

Special this Week

4-in. ribbon, fancy, 10c.
1-in. hair ribbons, fancy, 5c
Fine handkerchiefs worth 15c, for 5c.
Ladies sailor hats worth 75c, for 39c.

Shoe Bargains

Misses' canvas shoes, will wear better than cheap leather shoes anytime, 59c and $1.00. Call quick only a few left.

Bargains in Misses' oxfords and slippers. Cleaning up old lines.

Specials in Groceries

Monarch maple syrup, very best, 1.00 per gallon worth 1.40.

Pilot smoking tobacco 15 cent.

We solicit a share of your trade.

THE BIG STORE
THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

Why Shouldn't There Be?

St. Peter Free Press: One of the hottest fights in the next Republican convention will be for the two railroad and warehouse commissioners, says the St. Paul Dispatch. The terms of Judge Mills and Joseph G. Miller will expire Jan. 1, 1905, and there is already evidence that a hard fight will be made to oust both members. And why shouldn't there be? Judge Mills was never popular with the people, in spite of his election, which was more attributable to party loyalty of the Democrats in the cities than to his personal strength. Furthermore, his peculiar ruling on wheat grading was one of the principal causes that led to John Lind's election to the governorship. Mr. Miller's election was partly an expediency and partly an accident, not to be further considered. Their successors should be men in whom the people at large have some confidence and all will be well.

Kodol Gives Strength

By enabling the digestive organs to digest, assimilate and transform all of the unwholesome food that may be eaten into rich, red blood that nourishes the nerves, feeds the tissues and hardens the muscles and recuperates the organs of the entire body. Kodo Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and all stomach disorders. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Not All So Excitable.

The Maryland man who fell dead when somebody told him he had inherited $60,000 left heirs who, it is to be hoped, are less excitable.

That Throbbing Headach

Would quickly leave you if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for sick and nervous headache. The make pure blood and build up your health. Only 25c, money back if not cured. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

To Boston and Return at One Fare

For the round trip from Chicago via the Nickel Plate road, for Christian Scientists meeting in Boston. Tickets on sale June 29th, 30th, and 29th, with extended return limit of August 1st. Stop-over at Niagara Falls, in either direction, without extra charge, and at New York returning on payment of fee of $1.00. No excess fare charged on any of our trains. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for detailed information.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

Girl Wanted

Good girl wanted for general housework. Good wages. Apply to L. A. Dautremont.

For Sale—Household goods; two base burners; two airtight stoves. P. B. Newton.

Black Hair

"I have used your Hair Vigor for five years and am greatly pleased with it. It certainly restores the original color to gray hair. It keeps my hair soft."—Mrs. Helen Kilkenny, New Portland, Me.

Ayer's Hair Vigor has been restoring color to gray hair for fifty years, and it never fails to do this work, either.

You can rely upon it for stopping your hair from falling, for keeping your scalp clean, and for making your hair grow.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office.
J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Red Lake, ss.

In Probate Court.
Special Term, June 8, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. St. Hamner, deceased.

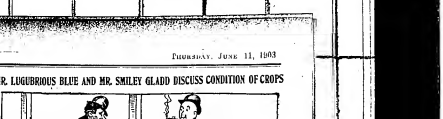
On reading and filing the petition of William Lindenberg, praying to be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate from the administrator of said estate, pursuant to the last C. St. Hamner deceased, was heard by a contract, in writing to convey said real estate executed by said C. St. Hamner deceased, and the heirs-at-law therein stated with a description of the land to be conveyed and the consideration to be paid, a copy of which is annexed to said petition and praying that the Probate Court make an order authorizing and directing the said administrator to convey such real estate to said petitioner as the person entitled thereto.

It is Therefore Ordered, That all persons interested in said estate may appear before this Court at a session thereof to be held at the Probate Office in the village of Red Lake Falls, in said County, and oppose said petition.

And it is Further Ordered, That this Order shall be published once in each week, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

By the Court,
[SEAL] N. W. FARRAND,
Judge of Probate.
J. M. FREEMAN,
Attorney for Petitioner.
Olivia, Minnesota. jun2-05

MR. LUGUBRIOUS BLUE AND MR. SMILEY GLADD DISCUSS CONDITION OF CROPS



Mr. Blue—We're going to have a late season. The frost wasn't out of the ground before April 25, and we won't cut our hay till a week this year.
Mr. Gladd—Oh, I don't know. The spring of '76 was very late, and I raised sixty bushels of oats and eighty-five bushels of corn to the acre that year.

Mr. Blue—Yes, but we need rain right now, and I'll bet when it does come it just drowns us out.
Mr. Gladd—Well, sir, I remember one year when my corn was dead at the bottom, along came a cloudburst that drowned all the old woman's geese and I gathered ninety bushels to the acre that year.

Mr. Blue—If we do have good prospects this year, it'll probably frost some time in September and spoil it all.
Mr. Gladd—I remember one year we had a killing frost in September, but I fed my soft corn to my hogs, and in that way I realized seventy cents a bushel for all of it.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Militia Reorganization

By BRIG. GEN. W. H. CARTER, United States Army.

Dissatisfaction with the old militia system caused the adoption of the French title of national guard for the organizations in many states. While the term may be a misnomer, military men generally sympathize with the splendid organizations of some states, whose esprit de corps caused them to desire not to be classed with the utterly useless and inefficient militia of other states.

The mere change of life, however, does not signify complete military efficiency. In view of the lessons of the war with Spain the National Guard cannot be regarded as up to the standard necessary for immediate and efficient work in conjunction with the regular army. While many States make liberal appropriations for the support of their militia organizations, the great majority do not. Out of considerably more than 100,000 men in organizations scattered through the length and breadth of the land less than 5,000 are armed with modern rifles; in other words the little training received by the men is with obsolete arms which would have to be replaced at the outbreak of war.

Past efforts to modify the absurd and obsolete militia laws have generally resulted only in awakening a vast amount of oratory. Warned by the distinct failure of the system at the outbreak of the war with Spain, reform was taken up seriously in nearly all the States. A committee of the National Guard Association was appointed to confer with the Secretary of War, with a view to the preparation of a measure which would materially enhance the value of the organized militia.

Notwithstanding all were working and conspiring to a common purpose, actual conditions were so different in various States that many compromises and adjustments were necessary. There is nothing so hard for man to surrender as an opinion formed after mature deliberation. Yet all finally agreed upon a measure which is a distinct advance and marks an era in the history of the organized militia to which in the future it will point as the beginning of its real efficiency as a State and national military force.

The measure now before Congress opens the way for much good in that it provides that the militia shall be organized, armed and equipped in the same as the regular army. As a simple business proposition this is a distinct advance. Those who enter militia organizations in future will do so with the full knowledge that they may be ordered into the service of the United States under certain conditions for a period of nine months.

If the new militia law falls short of the expectations of its advocates in furnishing a properly organized, trained and disciplined second line, it will at least furnish opportunities for a large number of earnest officers and men to acquaint themselves with drill and military customs, which will render them valuable in the organization of volunteers in time of war. The placing of the new measure upon the statute books will be one more honest acknowledgment of defects disclosed during our recent military activity and, unless all signs fail, the future historian must declare that the war with Spain was not in vain, since, though victorious, we are humble enough to mend our methods and perfect the weak points of our military system.

Public School a Cracker Factory

By DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS
Pastor Plymouth Church, Brooklyn

THE common school is increasing mediocrity in this country. While it is the very best thing America ever had, it is also the very worst thing we have ever had.

We do very little fundamental thinking for ourselves. We take 18,000,000 children and pour them like grist into the same mill of learning, like a cracker factory, and grind and grind until we have turned them out all alike, with no more individuality than grains of sand.

People don't make any effort nowadays to know the teacher that instructs their children; no, they would rather farm them out like intellectual orphans. It may be very good sometimes, but it's very bad sometimes.

"Be not wise overmuch," said Solomon, but we have taught our children to put too high value on intellectuality. Life is the great thing, not the knowledge of life. Knowledge is not worth much, and we're all the time over-emphasizing it. There are such fool men going through the world always analyzing their emotions, their friends, their knowledge, their creeds, till there is nothing left for them to enjoy.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Cutting and tennis shoes at Bauer & Co.

Henry Lefebvre went to St. Hilaire Tuesday.

Mrs. Conrad Lajambe was in from Lambert Monday.

Banker Hanney was down from St. Hilaire Monday.

Jack Lagassey drove to Terrebonne Tuesday on business.

Geo. Ralph was up from Crookston Tuesday on business.

Ed. Maloney was up from Crookston the first of the week.

Chas. E. Boughton and family spent Sunday at Maple Lake.

County Attorney Grady returned today from a business trip to Crookston.

Mrs. John Q. Adams, of Michigan City, N. D., is the guest of friends in town this week.

Prof. J. A. Wilson has resigned his position as superintendent of the Thief River schools.

"Never too late is mend," may apply to some things, but if your horse has a cut, a gall or a sore of any kind, the quickest you apply Cole's Veterinary Carbolsalve the better. It cures quickly and never leaves a scar. Guaranteed. 50c and $1 cans. Sold by all druggists.

J. T. Parker is here from Marshall this week with a party of landseekers, including P. P. Jacobson and wife, Watt Steele, Thos. Jacobson and Soren Jacobson.

The June sun shines as many a fair bride upon doubt's beside by the use of Rocky Mountain Tea. The bride's best friend 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

Harry Schlaat, of Fertile, was married to Miss Nellie Bourdan at St. Joseph's church yesterday at 10 o'clock, Rev. Father Fayolle officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Schlaat will live at Fertile, where the groom is employed by the Northern Pacific.

You feel mean, cross, ugly, down in the mouth, nothing goes right. Bad liver, better take Rocky Mountain. Drives away the blues. 35c. A. L. Reichert.

John L. Watson, manager of Rd. L. Healy's St. Paul office, is here today with a party of sixteen landseekers, most of whom will invest in real estate. Mr. Healy finds his St. Paul branch decidedly profitable, as nearly every week a bunch of buyers is sent up from there.

EMARDVILLE.

A good rain would not be bad.

Mrs. H. J. Pederson has been on the sick list the past week.

Gilbert Gilbertson is up from Norman county looking after his farm.

The roads are in good shape and the land men are in evidence again.

A. E. Sorenson will soon move to Lambers to take charge of the mail route.

The Garnes postoffice is soon to be changed from Ole Lee's to L. K. Moen's.

O. Jacobson and Harold Burgo will go to Canada to look over the country.

H. T. Gilbertson is laid up with a sore hand, having got several fingers smashed in a grindstone.

Carl Magnell has sold his farm to parties from Norman county and is thinking of going to Canada.

A. Swenson arrived from Northwood Iowa, last week for a visit with his brother, who resides in this township.

The Hammon family in Wyandotte lost a young son by drowning last week. He was playing on the logs in the Clearwater and fell in, and before he could be rescued life was extinct.

Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

If you don't your food does not do you much good. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the remedy that every one should take when there is any thing wrong with the stomach. There is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind nd body except by nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet or else stregth will be lower and disease set up. Loss of appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headach, constipation, bad breath, sour risings, rifting, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

For the meetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Los Angeles, California, May 21 to June 2, and the national association of master plumbers at San Francisco May 19 to 22, the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets at the rate of $50 to the first mentioned and $40 to the latter. Any information desired will be supplied by Northern Pacific agents.

Brain Leaks.

Only the agnostic takes pride in parading his ignorance.

The memory of youth is the staff upon which we lean in old age.

Marriage may be a lottery, but a capital wife is a prize worth drawing for.

Only the foolish seek temptation in order to try their power of resistance.

Those who see nothing wrong in a white lie are afflicted by moral color blindness.

Bad habits cannot be cured with ointments. They require a surgical operation.

The true Christian never does those things for which he must first seek an excuse for doing.

The happiest homes are those in which the company manners are on exhibition every day.

Science has not yet been able to tell where a boy gets all the things he carries in his pockets.

If the eyes were really "the windows of the soul" a great many people would be compelled to wear opaque glasses.—Commoner.

Driven to Desperation.

Living at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident resulting in burns, cuts, wounds, ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's.

Christian Scientists

Meeting in Boston, June 28th-July 1st. It will be to your advantage to obtain rates applying over the Nickel Plate road before purchasing elsewhere. No excess charged on any of our trains. Tickets on sale June 29th, 30th and 27. Limited return limit August 1st. Call on or address John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for particulars as to stop-overs, train service, etc.

$10.00 to Boston and Return, $10.00 with membership fee of $2.00 added, account of annual meeting of National Educational association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 2nd to 5th, inclusive, good returning from July 8th to 12th inclusive, without being deposited with joint agents. Additional limit to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing return portion of ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c. for execution. Superior train service and excellent dining-car meals, on American club plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. m30

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 37. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 18, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 245.

RED LAKE FALLS WINS BY A SCORE OF 2 TO 0

One of the Best Ball Games of the Season Played at Thief River Falls Last Sunday.

The ball game last Sunday between the Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls teams at the latter place was undoubtedly one of the best exhibitions of the national game ever given by amateur clubs. Eleven innings were required to decide the game, not a score being made by either side in the ten innings preceding the deciding one.

When Red Lake Falls went to bat in the eleventh inning they succeeded in getting men on third and second bases with no men out and the prospect of getting a score seemed remote. Dan Johnson went to bat and succeeded in putting a roller through the third baseman. It was not a "hot" one, but the Thief River third baseman didn't get it, and Richards and Healy managed to touch the home plate before their opponents got the ball back in the field. No scores were made by Thief River in the other half of the inning.

Everybody in attendance was enthusiastic in praise of the work done by both clubs. It was certainly a remarkable game in every respect. Schauser and Richards composed the Red Lake Falls battery, and Rausch and Murphy for the locals. Another game between the clubs will be played at Thief River Falls on the morning of July 4.

Not a Paradise.

Settlers in the Canadian northwest are becoming discouraged, as indicated in the following letter in the Commercial West:

"In almost every town in southern Alberta, little groups of discouraged men daily stand on the street corners, earnestly wishing that they were back in the United States. Hundreds of men who have gone to that country from the United States are coming back and after next fall's crops shall have been gathered many more will return to the Uncle Sam's domain. The return movement has already commenced in northern Alberta, and I have no doubt that within three years, 90 per cent of the people who have gone from the United States to the country more than 100 miles north of the boundary will have returned, while very few of those who have settled in southern Alberta, aside from the Mormons will remain there. A Mormon may live in southern Alberta. The Utah farmers have learned how to struggle against great disadvantages, and to suffer for the sake of their religion, but no other man can or will do it and the ordinary farmer can do better financially and live much happier on 80 acres of land in the United States than 320 acres of land in Alberta. For the last three years there have been utter failures of crops in all the district 100 miles or more north of the line, and in southern Alberta the crops have been poor.

At Twelve O'clock.

Every day all the telegraph offices cut their connection with the rest of the world for a few minutes just before noon and connect with Washington, D. C. Just when the sun crosses the meridian of that city, a signal is sent to all partsof the country by which the timepieces of the land are tested and corrected. It is a good thing to take at least a few minutes each day during which we set ourselves off from all worry and care and just rest. Golden belt beer will help to put you in the frame of mind for rest if you can't obtain it otherwise, it quiets the nerves and nourishes the entire body. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I am completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter.

THE GRIM REAPER.

Gerhard Deidrichson is Claimed by the Handof Death.

Gerhard Deidrichson, who has been employed at W. A. Schreiter's store for the past six years, died early Sunday morning after a brief illness. The funeral was held Monday afternoon lat the I. O. O. F. hall, the services being in charge of the lodge. Interment was made at the Protestant cemetery east of town.

Gerhard Cornelius Deidrichson was born March 3, 1874, in Norway. When eighteen years of age he came to Minnespolis, and six years ago accepted a position in Red Lake Falls, living here coontinously until his demise. On October 3, 1901, he was married to Miss Dora Hayden, of Grand Forks. Mr. Deidrichsoo was a kind-hearted, generous young man, and every body was his friend.

The entire community will sympathize with the widow in her great bereavement.

Good Ground for Criticism.

Fergus Falls Journal: There are good grounds for Congressman Tawney's criticism of the high schools of Minnesota. It is possible that the four young men whom he nominated for the cadetship at Annapolis were not up to the average, but out of four high school graduates, under the laws of chance, one at least ought to have passed. The reason why school graduates are so lacking in the essential things is that from the time they graduate from the eighth grade into the high school there is too much of the spectacular and too little that is necessary in order earn toa living. There are innumerable positions awaiting young men who can figure, spell and write fairly correct English in reasonably legible hand writing. In these things the graduates are notably deficient. When a boy graduates from a high school—in name—he is not going to study looger—he ought to be equipped to go out and earn bread and butter, and if he has forgotten or isdeficient in the knowledge which he is going to require at once, how can he spend his last days in school better than in perfecting himself in these things? While it is a little tough on the First districts, if Congressman Tawney's bad luck will help to restore "figgering and spelliug" to their proper places in a high school education and do away with the spectacular and the furbelows, he will have rendered the cause of education a great service.

Boy Went Wrong.

Crookston Journal: County United States Marshal Tufts is in the city today awaiting the return of Post. office Inspector Hennessy, who is out on one of the branch lines. Yesterday Mr. Tufts drove from Mc-Intosh to Brooks postoffice and caused the arrest of James Lussier, the 16-year son of Postmaster Lussier, postmaster at Brooks. The young man was taken to Red Lake Falls to appear before the United States commissioner, where he pleaded guilty to the charge of abstracting the sum of 30 cents from a letter. The inspector will accept bonds for the young man's appearance before the federal court at a later day.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer $100 for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.—F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists. Price 75c per bottle.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

For Sale at a Bargain.

If sold before the last of June, the person who buys the Ole Ellingson farm can have one-fourth the crop. For prices and terms apply to H. O. Gjerberg. Imo

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

THREE DAYS' SESSION FARMERS' CONVENTION

Dairying, Stock Raising and Drainage Experts to be at Crookston June 25, 26 and 27.

The Minnesota Farmers' Institute is holding a series of meetings in the Red River valley. The last meeting will be held in Crookston and will continue in session for three days, commencing June 25. At this convention topics of immediate interest to the farmers in the Red River valley will be discussed. Besides the regular institute corps there will be many members of the agricultural college faculties of Minnesota and North Dakota present. In addition to this array of expert engineers, who have made a special study of drainage, will be present and read papers. The first day will be devoted exclusively to drainage. State drainage Engineer Mr. Geo. Ralph, Prof. W. R. Hoag, Prof. C. J. Zintheo, Prof. Thomas Shaw, Hon. J. K. McKinnon and others have promised to be present. It will be of special interest to the friends of drainage to learn that the Hon. C. C. Elliott, who is now in charge of the drainage work in the department of agriculture at Washington, will be present. A letter from the chief of the bureau informs the Crookston people that they can depend on his presence. Not only will he be at the convention, but will be of such services as the national department of agriculture can render for the cause in the Red River valley. Mr. Elliott was in charge of the great survey that was conducted in the Red River valley in 1901. From this we know that he will speak not only from the standpoint of an engineer, but also as one who is thoroughly familiar with the local conditions.

While the Red River valley has done a great deal in the line of drainage, we have not yet more than fairly entered upon the field of work in this line. The subject of this drainage is demanding attention. This, will be given a great deal of attention at this present meeting. The latest improved drainage machinery will be on exhibition, and they will be taken in the field to demoostrate how they work. The agricultural department of agriculture and two states are combining their efforts to make this meeting a great success.

Besides this, there will be discussions by authorities on agriculture on the topics of crops on the farm, live stock raising, weeds, tillage, creameries and cheese factories, and such other subjects as the farmers may be interested in. Special rates are expected on both the G. N. and N. P. railroads. It is desirable that as large a number as can possibly spare the time be present. Every effort will be made to make this meeting so useful that the time and expense incurred in attending it will be amply repaid by the information received. It is of great value to the farmers and their wives to come together once a year and talk on subjects of mutual interest. This meeting is the first attempt along this line that has ever been made in the Red River valley, and it is hoped that the farmers and others will show their appreciation by a large attendance.

Kodol Gives Strength

By enabling the digestive organs to digest, assimilate and transform all of the unwholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that nourishes the nerves, feeds the tissues and hardens the muscles and recuperates the organs of the entire body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and all stomach disorders. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Pathos in the Silence.

Washington Post: The former congressman who achieved fame by coining the query, "Wheream I at?" is dead, and we cannot answer his question nor any more conclusively than when he first asked it.

Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

If you don't your food does not do you much good. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the remedy that every one should take when there is any thing wrong with the stomach. There is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind and body except by nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet or the strength will let down and disease set up. No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headach, constipation, bad breath, sour things, rising, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

TWINE SOLD CHEAP.

Prison Plant Sells Below Trust Prices. —Saving to Farmers.

It is announced that the stat prison twine plant will this year serve the farmers of Minnesota about $150,000. It is said supply the entire demand of the state it would save the farmers of the state over $300,000.

Warden Wolfer says that every pound of twine now on hand and every pound that can be manufactured by running at full capacity up to Aug. 1, has been sold direct to the farmers of the state.

The twine output from the prison will be a little more than 7,000,000 pounds.

The entire amount of twine used by the farmers of the state this year will beabout 18,000,000 pounds.

At the present time the state is selling standard twine for 8¼ cents a pound, while the trust trust price is 10½ cents a pound.

The trust price is almost certain to go up. Owing to the late strike the output has been restricted, and the manufacturers will take advantage of the scarcity of twine, the heavy demand and the fact that the prison twine is all sold. Those farmers who were so unfortunate as not to get prison twine, will have to pay as high as 12 cents before the season is over.

The trust twine will be sent into the state in accordance to the demands made after all the prison twine is used up. The price can be arbitrarily fixed and the farmer must pay.

Next year the twine plant will manufacture 10,000,000 or 10,000,000 pounds, about one-half the total amount needed by the state.

The June sun shines on many a fair bride made doubly lovely by the use of Rocky Mountain Tea. The bride's best friend 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

One Of Ezra Kendall's.

"We've had all kinds of trouble down at our creamery lately," said the meek looking boy. "You see father has a habit of going into the pantry each night and drinking up all of the milk. Mother thought it was the cat so she fixed up a lot of flour and water. Father didn't know the difference. He didn't leave any for the cat. However, he had terrible pains in the stomach. He tried to vomit and his lips were sealed. Every time he moved you could hear a crackiog noise. Mother got scared and sent for the doctor. The doctor came and looked at father and said 'stick out your tongue,' but father couldn't. It was "stuck in." Then the doctor laid father on the floor and mother got a hoe. I held him while the doctor took a poker and pried open father's mouth. He looked in and said: 'My! the man's been in the harness!' So the doctor made us carry father into the kitchen. The doctor then poked up the fire in the laid father on the stove. Father got awful hot and soon he began to eat hot biscuits, three bites and a loaf of home made bread. Father said to the doctor, 'How much do we owe you?' The doctor said, 'ten dollars.' Father still had some dough left in his stomach,so it up.

That Throbbing Headach

Would quickly leave you if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of suffers have proved their matchless merit for sick and nervous headache. The make you feel good in every way. Health. Only 25c, money back if not cured. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Penitence lies most heavily on an empty stomach.

Before she is married a girl's ambition is to own jewels; afterward bobbies.

A maid always worries for fear she won't have a good time; a matron for fear somebody else won't.

When a woman sets out to save a man usually the first thing she plans is to tie a stone around her own neck by marrying him.

It is impossible for a mother to convince herself that a child stealer in South Africa might not happen to walk into the front yard any minute.

Driven to Desperation.

Living at an out of the way place, remote from drug stores, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident resulting in burns, cuts, wounds, sores, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best up earth. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

For Sale—Household goods; two cook stoves; two airtight stoves. F. B. Newton.

CHANGE OF LOCATION.

Big Removal Sale Soon to be Made at Fortier's.

J. R. & R. Fortier have leased the Lemieux building in the brick block which is now occupied by Robillard's saloon, and will move their general store to the new location within a few weeks. Before removing, however, they will have a removal sale, and heavy reductions will be made on many lines of goods in order to reduce the stock as much as possible before moving. The new location will roomier and more central.

The Red Lake Falls Ratio.

Crookston Times: A speaker at the Minnesota Federation of Woman's clubs sees dangers in the conditions that give women superior opportunities for culture over men. Well, anyhow, up at Red Lake Falls, with eleven boys out of a graduating class of sixteen, they are doing their best to maintain the equilibrium between sexes.

The

Baltimore & Ohio R. R. offers very low round trip rates from Chicago to Boston. June 25, 26 and 27 account meeting First Church of Christ Scientists and July 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 account National Educational Association.

Chicago to Baltimore, Md., July 18 and account National meeting, Grand Lodge B. P. O. Elks. Ticket offices: 711 Clark St., Chicago. R. C. Haase, N. W. P. A. B. N. Austin, G. P. A. St Paul, Minn. Chicago.

BAND TO CELEBRATE ON ST. JOHN'S DAY

A Splendid Program is Prepared—Base Ball, Bicycle and Foot Races, and Plenty of Music.

The Red Lake Falls band is arranging to celebrate St. John's day —Wednesday, June 24—in magnificent style. At 11 a. m. there will be a grand parade to the picnic grounds on Clearwater Island at the foot of main street. Dinner will be served from noon until 2 o'clock by the ladies of St. Joseph's church, and during the afternoon a choice program of sports, such as foot races, bicycle races, etc., will be pulled off. A ball game at the park west of town is scheduled at 4 o'clock. The band will furnish music during the day, and a continuous concert from 12 to 2 p. m. will be rendered. A ball will be given at the Metropolitan opera house in the evening.

The management of the band promises a good time to everybody, and it is likely that a large crowd of people from the country and nearby towns will be in attendance. Watch for small bills for further particulars.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Political fame is uncertain and fleeting, and the numberless wrecks along the shores of the sea of politics give evidence that a man of ordinary ability can win more substantial results in professional or business life. The following from the Wadena Pioneer-Journal is an apt illustration:

"The fickleness of political fame is recalled by the announcement that a son of Mark Dunnell is being groomed for civil service commissioner, a place soon to be made vacant by the retirement of James R. Garfield. Twenty-two years ago one of the strong characters of the middle west in national life was Congressman Mark Dunnell, of the old First Minnesota district. He was a man of ability and influence, and his name was familiar to all. His political organization, which was strong for years, finally was defeated, and with that defeat Mark Dunnell disappeared from public view. He is now a clerk, we understand, in one of the departments at Washington."

The dear creature who has been telling about Italy and the Alps and settling all our political and social problems under the canopy of the graduating forum is still coming in for more than her share of "joshing." Here's a particularly good one from the Cincinnati Enquirer:

"This is the season when the sweet girl graduate blooms serenely. How can the government hust when she stands ready to pluck it from the edge of the chasm?"

Ruth Hanna married an editor and a millionaire. Of course they were one and the same person, strange as it may appear.

The Princeton Union notes another encroachment of the trust:

"Milwaukee brewers have raised the price of beer fifty cents and a dollar a barrel. The foam also comes a little higher."

The jury evidentally thought that six years in the penitentary is about the best cure for the kind of insanity with which Mayor Ames is afflicted.

A Baltimore paper tells of an applicant for a pension who does not propose to win through false pretenses. In support of his petition he recites this plain, unvarnished tale:

"The way I got my war injury was a ketchin of a hog. The Hog war a sow hog or capitin owned her by the name of Sal. She got out of the pen and she erawled threw a hoal in a nale fence. It war a big hoal, and I thot I war about the size of the hoal, and I tride to crawl threw. But I stuck and trie to wiggle out I trode the rales off and one bit me on my hed and nocked me senseless. I do not think Tecky nor pig had anything to do at my line of duty, for I did not ketch the hog. With she never war caut."

Harry Wheelock: The good trusts are those in which you hold stock. The bad trusts are those in which you hold none.

Typesetting machines are getting to be numerous about the country offices. During the past few weeks machines have been installed by the Fairmont Sentinel, Windom Citizen and Windom Reporter.

Here's one of Eb. Huntington's characteristic reflections:

"People ought to spend more time looking in front of them." What of the past, anyway? It is only a lamp to guide the future by, but too many fail to appreciate it.

Those who allow other people to do their thinking for them neither accomplish any good in the world nor win sincere friends. And a man has a dreary existance without these accomplishments.

Here is a revision of the old song, "Laugh and the world laughs with you; weep, and you weep alone," from the pen of Senator Johnson, of the St. Peter Herald:

"We can share our pleasures with many people, for they have many sides and aspects, and are more lovelig like, but our griefs are all our own. They have their imperfections and secrecies and are not always to be looked into. They are made up of remorse, of things done and undone, and so sympathy is impossible if we want it. It is one of the many things we must meet alone, and master, or be mastered, as we can."

The "wise and otherwise" column in the Albert Lea Standard is a misnomer. We have never found anything therein that is otherwise than wise. Here are a few extracts from a recent issue:

Barking dogs or those that chase and yelp at teams are a nuisance and vexation, and everybody but their owners saw bard things about them—the dogs.

For that spell of summer laughter take equal parts of extract of spunk and tincture of "gin" and alternate the dose with a good ducking—electric remedy—no failure.

The Standard expects soon to receive—but is yet waiting—for a nice letter in nice handwriting from a graduate—any graduate—which does not contain an error.

The sensible June bride will have a nicer honeymoon if she does not bother herself about what his past love affairs—the more she knows of them the more she wishes she didn't.

Sign of the Four

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

CHAPTER III.

IN QUEST OF A SOLUTION.

It was half-past four before Holmes returned. He was bright, eager and in excellent spirits—a mood which in his case alternated with fits of the blackest depression.

"There is no great mystery in this matter," he said, taking the cup of tea which I had poured out for him. "The facts appear to admit of only one explanation."

"What! you have solved it already?"

"Well, that will be too much to say. I have discovered a suggestive fact, that is all. It is, however, very suggestive. The details are still to be worked out. I have just found, on consulting the back files of the Times, that Major Sholto, of Upper Norwood, late of the Thirty-fourth Bombay infantry, died upon the 28th of April, 1882."

"I may be very obtuse, Holmes, but I fail to see what this suggests."

"No? You surprise me. Look at it in this way, then. Capt. Morstan dies apparently. The only person in London whom he could have visited is Mr. Sholto. Mr. Sholto makes a deathbed bequest to Miss Morstan. Now, why should Mr. Sholto have delayed so long? Why should he not have asked to see Miss Morstan on his own account? Again, the letter speaks of having been written in his last days. What connection could there be between the writing of that letter and the death, save that he was conscious of the approach of death? The letter was clearly written under the influence of a dying man, since no sane man would describe such a trifle as a matter of importance. Then, again, why should he write to Miss Morstan at all? Why should he not write to his own son, or to the trustees, if he desired to make some communication to the family? Above all, why should he describe himself as a man with a wooden leg? The only feasible explanation is that the letter was written under the influence of Jonathan Small, and that the desire to see Miss Morstan was prompted by a wish to set matters right before he died. Add to this that Small's letter shows that he was aware of Sholto's death, and that he dreaded lest the treasure should be taken by anyone else, and the whole thing is clear enough."

"But the treasure, Holmes?"

"Sholto got the treasure, no doubt. The letter mentions the agreement as to division, and I don't think that Small would have troubled merely for the sake of vengeance. Sholto has apparently refused to part, and Small has gone himself to search for it. Depend upon it, Watson, that Small's character is not a strong one, and that he is quite capable of murder if he thinks murder the shortest way to his object. Well, I fancy that I can build up a fairly consecutive narrative from what we have heard."

"Excellent!" I cried.

"There are difficulties, of course, which may upset the whole thing. Why, for example, did Small reveal himself to Miss Morstan? Why did he write her letters? Why, above all, did he go to the trouble of replacing the treasure in the box, after taking out what he needed? Sholto's scheme was, of course, to throw us upon the wrong scent. Small's game was to secure the treasure, but to secure it gradually, so as to escape suspicion. He laughed heartily over the scent which he had left in the hands of the police. Depend upon it, he is a cool hand. Look at the way in which he returned to the house to remove the pegleg, which might betray the secret of his wooden leg. Then, again, his cunning in the use of the Andaman Islanders, and his mastery of the art of climbing, are worthy of remark. Add to this that he is presumably an expert in the use of poisons, and you have a fairly complete case against him. I shall be surprised if we do not find that he is our man."

"But how can you trace him?"

"Ah, there comes the question. I should first try the influence of the Agra convict, Dost Akbar. Then I should—"

There was sometimes strangely incongruous in this oriental figure framed in the commonplace doorway of a third-rate suburban dwelling house.

"The ashib awaits you," said he, and even as he spoke there came a high piping voice from some inner room. "Show them in to me, khitmatgar," it cried. "Show them straight in to me."

CHAPTER IV.

THE STORY OF THE BALDHEADED MAN.

We followed the Indian down the sordid and common passage, lit it and worse furnished, until he came to a door upon the right, which he threw open. A blaze of yellow light streamed out upon us, and in the center of the glare there stood a small man with a very high head, a bristle of red hair all round the fringe of it, and a bald shining scalp, which shot out from among it like a mountain peak from fir trees. His enormous hands together as he stood, and his features were in a perpetual jerk, now smiling, now scowling, but never for an instant in repose. Nature had given him a pendulous lip, and a too visible set of teeth, long and irregular teeth, which he strove feebly to conceal by constantly passing his hand over the lower part of his face. In spite of his obtrusive baldness, he gave the impression of youth. In point of fact he had just turned his thirtieth year.

"Your servant, Miss Morstan," he kept repeating in a thin, high voice. "Your servant, gentlemen. Pray step into my little sanctum. A small place, miss, but furnished to my own liking. An oasis of art in the howling desert of South London."

We were all astonished by the appearance of the apartment into which he had ushered us. In that sorry house it looked as out of place as a diamond of the first water in a setting of brass. Rich curtains, choice specimens of curtains and tapestries draped the walls, looped back here and there to expose some richly mounted painting or Oriental vase. The carpet was of amber and black, so soft and so thick that the foot sank pleasantly into it, as into a bed of moss. A few choice flowers thrown athwart it increased the suggestion of eastern luxury, as did a huge hookah which stood upon a mat in the center. A lamp of dull silver, on a silver dose was hung from an almost invisible golden wire in the center of the room. Two candles burned in sconces with a subtle and aromatic odor.

"Mr. Thaddeus Sholto," said the little man, still jerking and smiling. "That and hearty welcome to Miss Morstan, of course. And these gentlemen—"

"This is Mr. Sherlock Holmes, and this Dr. Watson."

"A doctor, eh?" cried he, much excited. "Have you your stethoscope? Might I ask you—would you have the kindness to let me examine your chest? A mitral valve, if you would be so very good. The aortic I may rely upon, but I should value your opinion upon the mitral."

I listened to his heart as requested, but was unable to find anything amiss, beyond the fact that he was in a state of fear, for he shivered from head to foot. "It appears to be normal," I said. "You have no cause for uneasiness."

"You will excuse my anxiety, Miss Morstan," he remarked, airily. "I am a great sufferer. I have only a few more suspicions as to that valve. I am delighted to hear that they are unwarranted. Had your father, Miss Morstan, the same valve? I am sure that upon his heart he might have been alive now."

I could have struck the man across the face, so hot was I at this callous and off-hand reference to my father's death. Miss Morstan sat down with a pale face and compressed lips. "I knew in my heart that he was dead," said she.

"I can give you every information," said Thaddeus Sholto, "and you can go to-morrow to Jonathan and I will, too, where you have Bartholomew may say. I am so glad to have your friends here, and only as an escort to you, but also as witnesses to what I am about to do and say. The three of us can show a bold front to the world, whatever may befall us. It has never been my custom to make a mystery of my methods of life, and I am happy that it should be so, since it enables me to have you here to witness that I have right on my side. Shall I pour you out a little tea? No? Well, then, I trust that you have no objection to tobacco smoke, to the mild hashish odor of the Turkish tobacco. I am a little nervous, and I find that smoke is a sedative to my nerves." He applied a taper to the great bowl, and the smoke bubbled merrily through the rose water. We sat all three in a semicircle, with our hands advanced, and our chins upon our hands, while the strange, jerky little fellow, with his high, shining head, puffed steadily in the center.

"When I first determined to make this communication to you," said he, "I had intended to give you my address, but I feared that you might disregard my request and bring unpleasant people with you. I took the liberty, therefore, of making an appointment in such a way that my man Williams might be able to see you first. I have complete confidence in his discretion, and he had orders, if he were dissatisfied, to proceed no further in the matter. You will excuse these precautions, but I am a man of somewhat retiring, and I have enemies. My address, Isaacs, and there is nothing more unmethodic than a policeman. I have a natural shrinking from all forms of rough material law. I seldom come in contact with the rough crowd. I live, as you see, with some little atmosphere of elegance around me. I may call myself a patron of the arts. It is my weakness. The landscape is a genuine Corot, and, though a connoisseur might possibly throw a doubt upon that Salvator Rosa, there cannot be the least question about the Bouguereau. I am partial to the modern French school."

"You will excuse me, Mr. Sholto," said Miss Morstan, "but I am here at your request to learn something which you desire to tell me. It is very late, and I should desire the interview to be as short as possible."

"At the best it must take some time," he answered; "for we shall certainly have to go to Norwood and see Brother Bartholomew. We shall all go and try if we can get the better of Brother Bartholomew. He is very angry with me for taking the course which has resulted in your being here, and words with him last night. You cannot imagine what a terrible fellow he is when he is angry."

"If we are to go to Norwood it would perhaps be as well to start at once," I ventured to remark.

He laughed until his ears were quite red.

"That would hardly do," he cried. "I don't know what he would say if I brought you in without warning. No, I must prepare you by telling you somehow all that to each other. In the first place, I must tell you that there are several points in the story of which I am myself ignorant. I can only tell the facts before you as far as I know them myself.

"My father was, as you may have guessed, Maj. John Sholto, once of the Indian army. He retired some eleven years ago, and came to live at Pondicherry Lodge in Upper Norwood. He had prospered in India, and brought back with him a considerable sum of money, a large collection of valuable Indian curiosities, and a staff of native servants. With these advantages he bought himself a house and lived in great luxury. I very well remember Pondicherry Lodge and I were the only children.

"I very well remember the sensation which was caused by the disappearance of Capt. Morstan. We read the details in the papers, and, knowing that he had been a friend of our father's, we were aware of the case early in his presence. He used to join in our speculations as to what could have happened. Never for an instant did we suspect that he had the whole secret hidden in his own breast—that of all men he alone knew the fate of Arthur Morstan.

"We did know, however, that some mystery—some secret danger—existed during our father. He was very fearful of going out alone, and he always employed two prize fighters to act as porters at Pondicherry Lodge. Williams, who drove you to-night, was one of them. He was the light-weight champion of England. Our father would never tell us what it was that he feared. Early in 1882 my father received a letter from India which was a great shock to him. He had been hale and hearty at the breakfast table when he opened it, but from that day he sickened to his death. What was in the letter we could never discover, but I could see as he held it that it was written in a hurried scrawling hand. He had suffered for years from a severe heart lesion, but he now became rapidly worse, and towards the end of April we were informed that he was beyond all hope. He had then wished to make a last communication to us.

"When we entered his room he was propped up with pillows and breathing heavily. He beseeched us to lock the door and to come upon either side of the bed. Then, grasping our hands, he made a remarkable statement to us, in which he showed that he was fully alive to the situation. He said that he had practiced, and then continued between the puffs of his laborious breathing:

"'I have only one thing,' he said, 'which weighs upon my mind at this supreme moment. It is my treatment of poor Morstan's orphan. The cursed greed which has been the ruin of many has been the only thing which has withheld from her her treasure, half at least of which should have been hers. And yet I have not known it myself—so blind and foolish a thing is avarice. My only feeling of possession has been so dear that I could not bear to share it with another. See that shaplet tipped with pearls beside the quinine bottle? Even that I could not bear to part with, although I had got it out with the design of sending it to her. You, my sons, will give her a fair share of the treasure. But speak nothing of writing—not even the shaplet—until I am gone. After all, men have been as bad as this and have recovered.

"'I will tell you how Morstan died,' he continued. 'He had suffered for years from a weak heart, but he concealed it from everyone. I alone knew it. When in India, he and I, through a remarkable chain of circumstances, came into possession of a considerable treasure. I brought it over to England, and on the night of Morstan's arrival he came straight over here to claim his share. He walked over from the station, and was admitted by my faithful old Lal Chowdar, who is now dead. Morstan and I had a difference of opinion as to the division of the treasure, and we came to heated words. Morstan had sprung out of his chair in a paroxysm of anger, when he suddenly pressed his hand to his side, his face turned a dusky hue, and he fell backwards, cutting his head against the corner of the treasure-chest. When I stooped over him I found, to my horror, that he was dead.

"'For a long time I sat half dazed, considering what I should do. My first impulse was, of course, to call for assistance; but I could not but recognize that there was every chance that I would be accused of his murder. His death at the moment of a quarrel, and the gash in his head, would be black against me. Again, an official inquiry could not be made without bringing out some facts about the treasure, which I was particularly anxious to keep secret. He had told me that no one knew better than I that his life was insured.

"'For a long time I sat half distracted, wond

T.L. BLOOD & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
DRIES WHILE YOU SEE IT
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

RRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 11:00 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 12:15 p. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 12:00 m until 1:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train 69 and 69 under Sunday.

E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,

Licensed Auctioneer.

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNTIED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY

Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000

Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds..Contract Bonds

BALTIMORE, MD.

F. A. GHADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. COMMUNICATIONS strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

50 Years of Success

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machines with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.

The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with much less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of needle while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.

With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.

Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133, I. O. O. F.

MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING. VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
P. A. Whitney, H. Homemuth, Wm. Schwalen
N. G. V. G.
Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. Price 35 cents. Sold by druggists. Our trade mark cut on each package. Drug, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitute. INCORPORATED 1898. Ask your druggist.

OUT THE GO
MORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has rich black loam soil on clay foundation, producing wheat, oats, barley, flax, corn, potatoes, and all kinds of vegetables. Wheat yield in 1902, 30 bushels to acre, wheat six years in four. Creameries will locate on the reservation. Farm lands, 40 to 160 acres. Grazing lands, $1 to $5. Write to Free Homesteads Information Bureau, Mandan, N. Dak., for maps and literature. Headquarters office, Winona, Minn.
W. F. Brown & Co.
Mandan, N. Dak., or 121 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

WHOLE TOWN WIPED OUT.

Hundreds of People Are Reported Drowned by Great Flood at Heppner, Ore.

MANY BODIES OF VICTIMS RECOVERED.

Many Houses Wrecked and Damage Estimated at $1,000,000—Scores of Persons Still Unaccounted For—Clondburst Cause Damage at Other Places.

Spokane, Wash., June 16.—A mighty wall of water rushed down the valley of Willows creek about 6:30 p. m. Sunday and swept through the town of Heppner, Ore., dealing death and destruction in its path. The dead are estimated to number from 200 to 500. The property loss is reckoned at $1,000,000.

Heppner is situated in the narrow valley of Willows creek. Advices to the Chronicle state that a great storm was raging Sunday afternoon. About 5:30 o'clock a southwest occurred a short 66-minute above Heppner and a wall of water like the Columbia river rushed down the valley. The roar of the storm deafened the roar of the water and the people had no warning of the coming flood. Suddenly it rushed through the town, sweeping houses from their foundations and drowning the people in the wrecks of their own homes, dead bodies and wreckage being borne down the valley.

Scores are still unaccounted for. At last reports 103 bodies had been recovered, and it is feared that three or four times that number perished. The flood subsided quickly.

At Lexington, Ore., some houses were wrecked, but no one was drowned.

At Ione, Ore. one house was wrecked.

The railway, telegraph and telephone lines were badly damaged in the valley.

At Heppner the residences district suffered most, though the business section was flooded. Advices at noon state that the county authorities are taking care of the sufferers. Besides the dead, from 100 to 200 people are reported injured.

Heaviest Rain of Year.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 16.—This section has just been visited by the heaviest rain of the year, accompanied by what almost amounts to a cloudburst in the Jemez mountains, north of this city. A sudden rise comes in the Rio Grande, and Albuquerque is again in imminent danger of being submerged. Los Cerrilos, eight miles up the river, is completely under water, and the people have fled to the hills, taking such of their household goods as they could load into wagons. Algodones, where the lake that protects Albuquerque is located, is also under water, and the people have fled, leaving their homes to the mercy of the floods. A break 10 feet wide is reported in the levee near the tracks of the Santa Fe railroad and directly above the city, and a large force of men have been hurried there to stop the break, if possible.

If the attempt fails, it is hoped to stop the water at one of the several irrigation ditches that lie between the dike and the city.

It is reported here that the bridge at Galisteo, on the main line of the Santa Fe, has been washed away. This will again cut Albuquerque off from communication with the east, and will tie up the Santa Fe for several days.

Cloudburst in Montana.

Butte, Mont., June 16.—Traffic throughout eastern Montana on the Northern Pacific is almost at a standstill as a result of severe cloudbursts Sunday. Near Park City, a cloudburst sent a wall of water about 20 feet in height and about the same number of feet in width crashing down the valley. The Northern Pacific road spans the valley creek with a long wooden bridge over 100 feet high and one section with 20 feet of trackage was carried away.

Believe Report Is Exaggerated.

Portland, Ore., June 16.—Heppner is situated in a gulch and a cloudburst would cover a part of the town.

It is generally believed here that the reports of loss of life are exaggerated, as the entire population of the town is only 1,200. The message from Jone says that among the drowned are Dr. McSwards and the family of C. A. Roy. It is also reported that the village of Lexington has been swept away. The Oregon Railway and Navigation company has sent a relief train from The Dalles.

Baseball "Fan" Goes Insane.

New York, June 16.—Thomas Donahue, a native of Harrison, N. J., has become insane through excitement over a baseball game. Donahue was an inveterate "fan." The other day he witnessed a game between Newark and Buffalo teams, which resulted in a score of one to nothing. He became nearly excited and his friends, who say he has been acting strangely ever since, finally had him taken into custody by the authorities.

Four Drowned.

Montreal, June 16.—Pierre Suzy, a carter, took his wife and family of three children and a neighbor's child to Bout l' Isle for an outing Sunday. While rowing in a flat-bottomed boat the craft capsized. Suzy, his wife and two children were drowned. One of his children and the neighbor's child were saved.

Pioneer Dead.

Webster City, Ia., June 16.—Cyrus Smith, a pioneer resident of this city, died Monday morning, aged 69 years. He came here in 1855 and was Webster City's first postmaster under Franklin Pierce.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Climate and Crop Bulletin.

The temperature rose early in the week, and the 8th, 9th, and 7th were moderately warm days in all parts of the state. There was very little rain during the week, and when there was cause in scattered showers, the heaviest being reported in Wilkin, Polk, Nobles, and Douglas counties.

In the northern half of the state the week was favorable to the healthy and rapid growth of wheat, oats, barley and flax, though rain would be beneficial for the late seeded barley and flax and for gardens, especially on the higher lands. Flax and barley are being seeded.

In the southern portions of the state where the lowlands were flooded and level lands very wet, the dry weather allowed a rapid subsidence of the waters and drying of the soil, so the preparation of the wet lands for corn, millet, corn fodder and buckwheat has been going on rapidly. There is complaint that seed corn and seed potatoes have rotted in the wet soil causing an irregular stand. Some correspondents think that much of the seed corn this year was defective. On lands bordering the rivers the grass that was flooded is so covered with mud as to be unfit for hay. The small grains which were suffering from excessive moisture are improving. On the high lands the small grains are in good condition, and corn and potatoes are being cultivated. Rye is in bloom; timothy and winter wheat are heading.

More Royalties.

The state of Minnesota has another million dollars in sight in iron ore royalties. D. M. Philbin, assistant general manager of the Great Northern railway, who has an option for a transfer of the mineral lease to the east half of the southwest quarter of 6-57-20 will exercise it, and the papers are being signed.

The fee is owned by the state, and four million tons have been shown up, which means 20 cents a ton to the state. The owners of the lease, J. C. Ryan, Adolphe Chisholm of Duluth and Dr. D. C. Hood of Hibbing get a bonus of $40,000 and 10 cents increased royalty. The minimum is 100,000 tons a year, making at least $25,000 a year for the state, and $40,000 for the men who are transferring the lease to Philbin in increased royalties.

Forest Fires.

Forest fires have done considerable damage in the territory north of Duluth in the last few days. A fire started in one of the big shanties of Alger, Smith & Co. in town 54-10, five miles east of the Iron Range road in Lake county, and fifteen miles from Two Harbors. A high wind caused the fire to cover a large area and give promise of extensive destruction of property. Ten cars belonging to the Duluth & Northern Minnesota road were burned. One trestle was destroyed, and the Vaughn cedar camp was burned, together with some cedar.

A forest fire on the Western Mesabi destroyed two dwellings at the Larme mine. The damage to standing timber in the several fires is estimated at from $25,000 to $40,000.

Show Good Increase.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson is receiving abstracts of tax settlements from counties, and they show a 15 per cent increase in state taxes for 1903 over the preceding year, notwithstanding the fact that the revenue tax rate had been reduced from 1.4 to 1.3 mins.

The total state tax for 1902, which will be due June 20, is $1,837,961.06, an increase of $225,250.24 over 1901. Of this increase $38,499.93 is on revenue, soldiers' relief and funding tax funds and $197,400.31 on school and university taxes. If the revenue tax rate had not been reduced three-tenths of one mill, the total increase would have been $414,451.32.

Vigilant Motorman.

George Paine, a young man residing with his uncle in St. Paul employed by the Northern Pacific railway, owe seriously injured by falling off a bicycle in front of a street car. When picked up his neck was within a few inches of one of the front wheels of the car and his whole body under the car fender. Motorman Anderson been vigilant and prompt to set the car would have been killed instantly. His nose was broken and his face and head badly cut. As soon as he regained consciousness he complained of a pain in his abdomen and he is feared that he was injured internally.

Dies While Asleep.

Ella N Flint of Dows, Iowa, was found dead in a room at the Palace hotel Black Duck. He had just returned from a 150-mile trip though the forest north of here, and retired to his room, apparently in his usual health, early in the evening. At midnight heavy breathing aroused his traveling companion, who at once made an investigation, and summoned a physician. Before the latter's arrival, a few minutes later only, Flint was dead. He is supposed to have died from heart disease.

News in Brief.

L. C. Easton, formerly agent for the Great Northern at Wolverton, who entered a plea of guilty to embezzling the funds of the company, was sentenced to serve eighteen months in the penitentiary at Stillwater.

William Gibbs of St. Paul, a colored convict, employed by Warden Wolfer on a runner, lost his balance while carrying a box on the prison wall yesterday, and fell to the yard. He was severely bruised, but no bones were broken.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some good tracts to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are handy and roads good. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit any first class party. Any investor can make a "stake" on this bunch in a short time, if interested, write for description and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,

BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,
Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

VERY LIMITED, INDEED.

Hiram Haysced—All the trains on this here line are limited.
Summer—Limited?
Hiram Haysced—Yes; limited to eight miles an hour.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HOW SHE FROZE HIM.

"Hear me, Miss Agnes," pleaded the sighing swain. "I am intoxicated with my love for you. I assure you—"

"How can you be intoxicated," asked Miss Agnes, in calm, doubting tones, "if you haven't got a stake on?"—Chicago Tribune.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption coughs and cold to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all throat and lung troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Trial bottles free; regular sizes, 50c and $1.

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN

Oil Stove,

Refrigerator or Ice Cream freezer

You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of

Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages

Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils

FRANK E. HUNT

No trouble to show goods. HARDWARE DEALER.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.

What it Means

to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.

Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

HAY STACK COVERS
Size 24x24 and Upwards
Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas Goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder...
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

Jim Dumps found Mrs. Dumps distressed
About an unexpected guest.
"There's nothing in the house to eat!"
"There's something better far than meat."
The guest endorsed Jim's view with vim
When helped to "Force" by "Sunny Jim."

"Force"

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal

ready for any emergency.

Farmers are Eating "Force."

"Thanks for 'Force.' I eat it three times a day. Folks call me 'Sunny Jim.' Took some to the country with me on a visit and the farmers out there are eating 'Force' now. — "WELL HOPE."

W—7

Auction.

The undersigned will sell at public sale at his farm on section 6, Equity township, three miles northeast of Garnes on Saturday, June 27, commencing at 10 a. m., the following property to-wit: Stock: One team of work horses, seven and nine years old; twenty-three milch cows; one full-blooded Durham bull; seven three-year-old steers; twelve two-year-old heifers and steers; twenty yearling heifers and steers; seven calves. Farm machinery: One mower; one hay rake; one lumber wagon. Some household goods. Terms: All sums of $5 or under, cash; on all sums over $5 time will be given until November 1, 1903, on bankable notes bearing usual rate of interest.

EMIEL IVERSON.

Mother's rely on Cole's Cough Cure and children like it. It quickly relieves and cures in a way to stay cured. For it is a remedy that never disappoints thousand use and endorse it. Try it, it's guaranteed, 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

We Will Some Day.

John E. King, publisher of the Red Lake Courier, of Red Lake Falls Minnesota, was in town yesterday a short time. He had been to Washington, D. C. on a pleasure trip, and stopped off here to go through the Ator Printing plant.—Whitley county News. Bro. King ought to come to Albion and see his many friends and inspect the office where he was formerly "devil."—Albion, Indiana, Democrat.

To cure rheumatism take Cole's Blood builder. It is the perfect vegetable blood purifier and nerve tonic. It makes new blood and imparts health and vigor to the system. Try it, it's guaranteed. $1 by all druggists.

To Boston and Return at One Fare

For the round trip from Chicago via the Nickel Plate road, for Christian Endeavor meeting in June. Tickets on sale June 25th, 26th, and 27th, with extended return limit of August 1st. Stop-over at Niagara Falls, in either direction, without extra charge, and at New York on returning on payment of fee of $1.00. No excess fare charged on any of our trains. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 298, Chicago, for detailed information.

Boston Excursions

Via the Nickle Plate Road, June 25 to 27 inclusive; also July 1 to 5, inclusive, at popular rates. Write City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St. and Union Ticket Office, Auditorium Annex, Chicago.

Excursions to Boston

June 25 to 27, inclusive; also July 1 to 5, inclusive, via Nickle Plate Road. Especially low rates. Liberal return limits. Particulars at City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St. and Auditorium Annex, Chicago.

$19.00 to Boston and Return, $10.00

with membership fee of $2.00 added, account of annual meeting of National Editorial Association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 2nd to 5th, inclusive, good returning from July 8th to 12th inclusive, when being deposited with joint agent. Additional limits or return by later date may be had on payment of $0.50, for execution. Superior train service and excellent dining car meals, on American club plan, range in price from 35c to $1.00 a meal a la carte service. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 111 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago. Full information, etc.

Coal! Coal!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. We keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. T. Spillane, manager.

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papetries
Tablets
Better Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Galling Cards
Card Racks
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office ..... Supplies .....

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be Satisfactory

The Courier.

By JOHN E. KING.

Printed Every Thursday Evening at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance

FORMER First Assistant Postmaster-General Heath's reply to Mr. Tulloch's charges does not satisfy the public. Even the most loyal party newspapers point out that while Mr. Tulloch was very specific in his instances of malfeasance under Mr. Heath, the latter's answer is very vague, consisting mainly of striking an heroic pose of injured innocence. "I proudly hold myself responsible for all they did," declaims Mr. Heath, seeming to think that this leaves nothing more to be said. Ex-Postmaster-General Smith has also replied to Mr. Tulloch, the latter being one of the most answered men in the country, but all without eliciting any facts which show that his charges were unjustified.

The threat of another coal-miners' strike is received with incredulity based not so much upon the facts of the situation as upon the inability of people to believe that either miners or operators will be guilty of the folly of entering upon another struggle before the smoke of the last battle has cleared away. The question now in dispute concerns the recognition by the operators of the miners' representatives on the boards of conciliation provided for by the coal strike commission's award. The operators take the position that the men who present themselves for these positions do not represent the miners, being merely union officers. But as they seem to be accepted by the miners, the operators will either be obliged to recede from the position they have taken or incur the risk of another strike.

The threatened strike of all the employes on the St. Louis exposition grounds on September 1, creates a cold shiver among the directors. Every workman wants a dollar a day additional, and as there are at least 5000 employes, it looks like another deficit before March 1 in the treasury of the fair. The exposition is necessarily a huge undertaking, and its completion is so dependent upon the caprices of the workingmen that the St. Louisians are now fully realizing what a mighty job they have on their hands. Fortunately the Chicago exposition was carried on when low-priced labor prevailed. Now labor is at its topmost round of demand, and therefore the future looks very ugly for the enterprising men who have undertaken the mighty job of bossing an exposition which they say shall be the greatest the world has ever seen.

CLARENCE S. DARROW, the eminent consul of the miners, has the right view between capitalism and the labor unions. In a recent letter he says: "If the trades unions shall be contented with simply raising wages they must fail to accomplish any permanent result. To raise wages alone is only to compete with the trusts in increasing the cost of commodities, to the detriment of the great mass of men, who are directly interested neither in the trusts nor in the trades unions. The public will not long consent to be victimized by high prices charged by the trusts and the high wages of the trades-unionists upon the other. Neither can the trades unions succeed in this way, for the workingman has no power to put up wages as fast as the industrial baron can put up prices: one is accomplished with endless pain and difficulties, the other is almost automatic."

A Serious Mistake.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., is the name of the firm who make the genuine Witch Hazel Salve. DeWitt's is the Witch Hazel Salve that heals without leaving a scar. It is a serious mistake to use any other. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, burns, bruises, eczema and all skin diseases. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

The Poker Rubaiyat.

Kirke La Shelle has produced a book of verse called the Poker Rubaiyat, a clever parody on the immortal quatrains of Oma Khayyam. Mr. La Shelle spent several thousand dollars and much valuable time in securing a knowledge of poker that would enable him to make his parody a success. Below are a few sample stanzas which proves that he an apt pupil:

Come to the center, for the game is on:
Close for a Pot is never but till soon;
Separate cheerfully and if you lose,
Smile; for another's sad behind this one.

The yellow chips men set their hearts upon
Grow numerous or doubtful, and soon,
Like feather upon a Shifter's foolish face
Giving the lie to Promises are gone.

Lately I dreamed I held four hearts and stayed
And stood three raises, not at all dismayed,
And then an Angel Shape slipped me a Card
And Said-it; and when I looked it was a spade.

Ah, Pond, could you and I like my some packs
So we could tell the fools to mine the bucks!

Don't tire a rag around it and let go at that. For burns, cuts or sores of any kind apply Coles Carbolisave. It will stop the pain and heal quicker than any thing in the earth. There is no remedy known that equals it for piles, ulcers, tetter, eczema and all itching, torturing skin diseases. Get Cole's. It's guaranteed, 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

Low Summer Tourist Rates.

Via Chicago Great Western Railway. Round trips to Colorado, Utah, Black Hills, New Mexico and Texas points. Tickets on sale daily June 1st to Sept. 30. Good to return Oct. 31st. For further information apply to any Great Western Agent, or J. P. Elmer, G. P. A., Chicago, Ill.

The Only Way

To get at the superiority of one thing over another is by comparison, and after traveling over every line between Minneapolis and Chicago the traveller will admit that the Northwestern line represents the superlative degree of railway comfort and luxury in its elegant northwestern limited. This statement was made by a prominent man in an interview in the Minneapolis Times.

Residence Property for Sale.

I will sell, or trade for stock, my residence and four lots in block 55, Kretzschmar's addition to Red Lake Falls. Great bargain. Write or see me. Louis Hetu, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Mother's Ear

A WOMAN IN MOTHER'S EAR; WHEN NURSING AN INFANT, AND IN THE MONTHS THAT COME BEFORE THAT TIME.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

SUPPLIES THE EXTRA STRENGTH AND NOURISHMENT NECESSARY FOR THE HEALTH OF BOTH MOTHER AND CHILD.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409-415 Pearl Street, New York. 50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

You feel mean, cross, ugly, down in th mouth, nothing goes right. Had liver Ketter take Rocky Mountai n. Drive way the blues. 35c. A. L. Reichert

Bank Statement.

Statement of the condition of Merchants State Bank at Red Lake Falls, at close of business on June 9, 1903. Date of call by Superintendent, June 6, 1903. Date of report by Bank, June 18, 1903.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$58,604.63
Overdrafts	2,495.82
Other Bonds, Stocks and Securities	19,668.49
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures	4,079.71
Due from Banks	31,634.88
Cash Items	1,067.27
Currency	6,000.00
Gold	1,265.00
Silver	50.00
Fractional	1.37
Total available assets	$124,556.39
Total	$124,556.39

LIABILITIES

Capital stock	$15,000.00
Surplus fund	1,000.00
Undivided profits	252.39
Dividends unpaid	1,100.00
Deposits subject to check	79,674.41
Time certificates	27,529.59
Total immediate liabilities	123,553.65
Time certificates	3,002.74
Total deposits	$82,532.60
Total	$124,556.39

State of Minnesota, County of Red Lake, ss:

I, A. L. Reichert, Cashier of the above named Bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is correct to the best of my knowledge and belief. A. L. REICHERT, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 18th day of June, 1903.

P. F. FOULIOT, Notary Public.

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage executed by Israel Rinne and Hilma Rinne, husband and wife, to the Security Investment Company, mortgagee, dated March 20th, 1902 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the county of Polk, State of Minnesota, March 28th, 1902, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 78 of Mortgages on page 535, and is now owned by the undersigned assignee of Deeds within and for said Red Lake County, Minnesota, in the office of the Register of Deeds within and for said Red Lake County, Minnesota, in Book 2 of Mortgages on page 630, which said mortgage was again assigned by Security Investment Company, mortgagee, to Thomas Hutchinson, Louis Hetu and Charles Hetu, by Investment Company, by assignment dated February 19th, 1903, and recorded in office of the said Register of Deeds of Polk County April 11th, 1903, at 9 o'clock a. m., in Book 87 of Mortgages on page 179, and also in Book 2 of Mortgages in the office of the Register of Deeds within and for said Red Lake County, Minnesota, in Book 2 of Mortgages on page 631, which said mortgage was again assigned by said Thomas Hutchinson, Louis Hetu and Charles Hetu, by assignment dated June 4th, 1903, and recorded May 29th, 1903, at 9:00 o'clock A. M., in Book 87 of Mortgages on page 560 in the office of the Register of Deeds for said Polk County, and also in Book 2 of Mortgages on page 632 in the office of the Register of Deeds for said Red Lake County, Minnesota, which said mortgage was executed and delivered by said mortgagors to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, and interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum, and whereas, no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale at public auction of the premises described, namely—The east half (e. ½) of the Northwest quarter (NE. ¼) and the Southwest quarter (SW. ¼) of Section Thirty-three (33), in Township One hundred and Twenty-two (122) North of Range Forty-one (41) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, by the Sheriff of said Red Lake County at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said Red Lake Falls, in the 2nd day of July, A. D., 1903, at 2 o'clock P. M. to pay the amount due on said mortgage, together with the costs of such foreclosure, including $25 attorney's fees, stipulated in said mortgage, and the disbursements allowed by law and required to be paid by law.

Dated June 18th, A. D. 1903.

WHITE
Assignee of Mortgage

ELI TORRANCE,
Attorney for Assignee.
Minneapolis, Minn. Jn18Jl30

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
County of Red Lake. }

In District Court, Fourteenth Judicial District.

Ida Bell Hall, plaintiff, vs. Edward Hall, defendant.

State of Minnesota to the above named defendant:

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the above entitled action, which complaint is filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the Fourteenth judicial district, in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota, and to serve a copy of your answer to the said complaint on the subscribers at their office in Red Lake Falls, in the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota, within thirty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer the complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint. F. A. DUNN,

Attorney for Plaintiff, Red Lake Falls, Minn.
Dated May 9th, 1903. May12

Will Attract Favorable Attention.

Are you thin? Would you like to get pump? Tried "laughing," "wouldn't work—now take Rocky Mountain Tea —"will do the business. 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

Not All So Excitable.

The Maryland man who fell dead when somebody told him he had inherited $60,000 left heirs who, it is to be hoped, are less excitable.

Order for Hearing Petition for Conveyance.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Red Lake, ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, June 6, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of C. M. Hammer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William Lindskog and Clemmus to be entitled to a conveyance of certain real estate from the administrator of said estate; petitioner from that C. M. Hammer, deceased, was in his lifetime, a resident in addition to the village of Red Lake Falls, Minn., and that said petition is based upon the notes and conditions thereof, and also upon a description of the real estate and upon the facts upon which such claim is consistent; it is ordered that the hearing of said petition be had to make a decree authorizing and directing the said administrator to convey such real estate to said petitioner on the payment of said notes.

It is Therefore Ordered. That all persons interested in said estate appear before this Court at the county seat of said county, in said Red Lake Falls, on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1903, at one o'clock in the afternoon at the Private Office of the Court House in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said county, and show cause, if any there be.

And it is Further Ordered, that this Order shall be published once in each week, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 6th day of June 1903.

By the Court,
O. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

J. M. FRENCH,
Attorney for Petitioner. Jn18-25

Order for Hearing Proof of Will.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE, ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, June 13, 1903.

In the Matter of the Estate of John P. Bloom, deceased.

Whereas, An instrument in writing, purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of John Bloom, late of the county of Red Lake, has been delivered to this Court.

And Whereas, Reuben Bissell has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things that said John P. Bloom died in said County, on the 2nd day of June, 1903, and that said instrument is the last will and testament executed in said State and County, and praying that the probate thereof may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to her issued thereon:

It Is Ordered, That the proofs of said instrument, and of said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Court House in Red Lake Falls, on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1903, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all persons interested may appear for, or contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is Further Ordered, That notice of the time and hearing of said petition be given to all persons interested by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls this 13th day of June, 1903.

By the Court,
O. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

[SEAL]

Jn18

For Sale—Safes and Vaults.....

Hibbard & Richardson Co., Gen'l Agts. Cary Salt Co., constantly carry at 471 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis. the largest stock of new safes and vaults in the Northwest. Second hand safes of different makes always on hand.

JOS. PARADIS

DEALER IN

WINES
LIQUORS
CIGARS

Finest Appointed Bar Room in the City.

PARADIS BLOCK, MAIN ST.

LOUIS E. ERICKSON

...Merchant Tailor

The best workmanship, best goods and right prices. All work guaranteed. Office over Merchants State Bank

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR THAT COLD. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Cures Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia, Hay Fever, Pleurisy, La Grippe, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup and Whooping Cough.

NO CURE, NO PAY. Price 50c. and $1. TRIAL BOTTLES FREE.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.
RED LAKE FALLS.

WEST-BOUND.	ARRIVE	DEPART
No. 155, Mixed, from Duluth to Grand Forks	7:15 a m	7:45 a m
EAST-BOUND.
No. 156, Mixed, from Grand Forks to Duluth	6:40 p m	6:05 p m

F. A. MILES, Agent.

Grip

Brought On Sciatic Rheumatism.

Nervous Prostration Followed.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Gave Back Health.

"I was laid up during the winter of 94-95 with sciatic rheumatism and nervous prostration brought on by a severe attack of Grippe. The rheumatic pains were so severe at times that it was impossible for me to turn in bed. I was unable to sleep. I had two of our best physicians in attendance, took all the advertised remedies for rheumatism of this kind but gotno help whatever until I got Dr. Miles' Nervine. Nervine, Six bottles restored me to health; I am better than I ever was and am entirely relieved. I cannot with a clear conscience that it was Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine that restored me to health. When the pains of sciatic and rheumatism were most severest I secured almost immediate relief by the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I have recommended Dr. Miles' Remedies to many people."—Fred Myers, Redfield, S. D.

"I was taken with pain in my heart and under the left shoulder, with such heavy oppressive feeling at my chest that I could hardly breathe. Had palpitation so bad that I could hold my hand on my heart and shake my whole body. Also had a weak, allgone feeling in the region of the heart. No doctor treated me for liver, but stomach trouble but I failed to receive any benefit until a friend recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine. I used both and one bottle of the Anti-Pain Pills. I believe I am completely and permanently cured."—Mrs. J. W. Golding, Sidnesville, Ind.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Book for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases, address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

It's All the Wheat..

That's Fit to Eat....

That's why MASCOT flour is so hard to beat.

Don't take our word for it, but try a sample order and be convinced that it is the best flour on the market today. We have been testing flour for years and have never found a brand that came so near our idea of the best. The quality is always uniform and it is equally good for bread, pastry and cake. Try it and see.

RED LAKE FALLS MILLING CO.

Mascot

"A Pure Flour"

Sweet, Pure and Wholesome

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Cures Grip in Two Days.

Seven Million boxes sold in past 12 months. This signature, E. W. Grove on every box. 25c.

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing done in the best manner. Line of Jewelry, Silverware, Watches Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

Prof. F. A. Whitney has rented the LaChapelle houseon Champagne avenue, and moved his household effects Monday. The family is expected from Big Lake about August 10, when they will go to housekeeping.

H. P. Benson, overseer in district 2, Gervais township, reports his work about finished. Mr. Benson is a hustler, and other roadmasters would do well to emulate him in the matter of pushing the road work.

P. B. Gauss and family leave this evening for Pella, Iowa, their former home. Mr. Gauss goes for the purpose of closing a land deal, while Mrs. Gauss and the children will visit friends for a couple of months.

W. B. Fuller, John Morgan, Rev. Chas. H. Flesher, W. J. Kelly, William Durbin, W. C. Smiley, Mike Molan and Frank Richter represented the Thief River lodge of Odd Fellows at the Didrickson funeral Monday.

Napoleon Constant returned last week from an extended visit with old friends at Ottawa, Canada. He reports a splendid time among his former acquaintances, but thinks Red Lake county is a better place to live after all.

J. A. Walker and wife and Mrs. Con. Short were in from Equality on circus day and remained over Sunday. Mr. Walker reports crops good in his section and that the farmers are feeling very hopeful over the outlook.

H. N. Johnson, George Hennings, and P. F. and J. R. Foster went on the excursion to Bemidji Sunday. A ball game between the Duluth and Crookston league teams was one of the features of the day. Duluth won by a score of 3 to 2.

There are rumors of another great anthracite coal strike, and if any of our readers expect to use hard coal this winter it would be well to put in orders early. If there is another strike prices will be prohibitive by the time cold weather comes.

Attorney W. R. Flemming and Banker T. W. Doughty, of Armstrong, Iowa, were in the city Friday and Saturday visiting their old friend, P. B. Gauss. Mr. Doughty owns a farm in this vicinity, and he was up to look it over for the first time.

The farmers of the Red River valley have reason for congratulation at the prospect for a "bumper" crop this year. All kinds of grain are looking fine, and barring unforseen calamities the biggest yield in the history of the valley will be harvested.

H. M. Martinson, the Emmons banker, was a business visitor to Red Lake Falls Friday and Saturday. Mr. Martinson is the owner of a number of farms in this vicinity, and is acquiring more of them right along, as he has unlimited faith in this section of the world.

C. W. Williams, the new agent at the Great Northern, has rented the Doe residence and is moving his household goods there. Mr. Williams assumed chargeof his work last Tuesday. He was formerly agent at Euclid, and is regarded as a competent railroad man.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:

A. F. TOUPIN, V. PRESIDENT, THEO. LABB, SOMERS, W. COUTLEE, CASHIER, F. F. COUTLEE, ASST. CASHIER, DIRECTORS—A. F. TOUPIN, ASST. CASHIER, CHAS. H. ROBERTSON, J. A. SAUERS, P. GRIGNON, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

William Gallagher,of Clay county, was married to Miss Pearl Brower at the residence of the groom's parents in Polk Centre township Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Andrew Walker officiating. The young couple left at once for Clay county, where the groom is engaged in farming.

Tom Green and Louis Sieff left Tuesday for North Dakota, where the will buy and sell horses at various points for the next couple of months. They took about seventy head of horses with them, and expect to get rid of a good share of them at Grand Forks, their first stop.

Auditor Furd is in receipt of advices from Thorpe Bros., the Minneapolis brokers who bought $81,000 worth of Red Lake county ditch bonds, that everything is now in shape to close the deal, and it is probable that a draft for the amount of the bonds will be here in a few days.

Thief River Falls is to have two new banks. Besides the Farmers and Merchants State, I mention of which, was made last week, the Citizens Bank, a private institution, capitalized at $10,000, will open for business early in July. D. H. B. Bakke will be cashier of the new bank.

The clubtennis courts are crowded every evening, and just now this form of amusement seems to take precedence with young people. A series of matched games among the locals will soon be arranged, and later a tournament with Thief River and perhaps other towns will take place.

Mrs. Calloway, wife of the Methodist pastor at Fosston, held services at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon. The Methodist people have concluded to establish a charge at Red Lake Falls, and for the present at least services will be held twice a month at the Presbyterian church.

The city council will meet next Monday at the city hall as a board of equalization to revise and correct assessments for 1903. All persons considering themselves aggrieved or who believe other parties have been wrongly assessed are invited to bet present and make their complaints known.

Gilbert Gross and Peter Walker, of Marshall, are being shown about the country this week by the Healy land agency. If this keeps up much longer Ed Healy will have the whole of Lyon county up here, and as they seem to raise good people down that way the Red Lake county people will not object a bit.

The Toupin & Schwalen Land company reports numerous inquiries with regard to Red Lake county lands, and say prospects for many new settlers this summer and fall are exceedingly bright. This firm has recently sent out a large number of descriptive circulars to farmers in Iowa and southern Minnesota.

Among the people who went to Thief River Falls Sunday to attend the ball game were Register Gibeau and wife, Auditor Ford and wife, Clerk Perreault, P. F. Freund, T. G. Brunelle, William Holberg, Judge Tarraut, Dan Latendresse, Telesphore Robillard, William Belair, Ed. Beerly, Milt Converse and Ernest Buse.

A new fraud is being perpetrated throughout the country. A man wearing a government badge and claiming to be in the secret service and looking for counterfeit money, enters a country store and looks over the cash drawer. He invariably finds several "counterfeit" dollars which he confiscates and gets rich that way.

Dr. J. C. Wilkinson and A. L. Reichert and families drove to Maple Lake Sunday. When starting they they came near being injured in a runaway. One of the lines broke, and the buggy was overturned, dumping the occupants unbeknownst loudly on the ground. Fortunately no one was injured, although the buggy was badly damaged.

For the first time since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary the saloons were closed all day last Sunday, and it is stated that this is to be the order of things hereafter. Those of our people who are wont to accumulate a thirst that must be appeased on the Sabbath day still have the privilege of laying in a supply on Saturday evening.

F. J. Parker, president, and James Mulvey, secretary and treasurer of the Clearwater Logging company, both of Stillwater, have been in the city this week looking after the drive and paying off their men. The Clearwater has low a stage of water at present,and it is antilikely that the logs can be taken further than to this point until some heavy rains come.

L. Jensen, an old resident of Red Lake Falls, was over from Fosston on Saturday, visiting friends and looking after business matters. Mr. Jensen promptly denied that he came over for the circus, but nevertheless we doubt not that he enjoyed it, for Mr. Jensen is one of the good fellows who never grows old notwithstanding the advance of years.

Deputy Auditor J. L. Johnson went to Thief River Falls Tuesday to testify in a suit tried to determine the residence of Miss Ragnell Ronning, a pauper. Norden and Numedal townships are each quite certain that the unfortunate girl does not live in their towns, and it is up to the courts to determine which one should bear the burden of her support.

Oscar Thomas left for Moorhead Monday evening to enter upon his work as agent for the Great Northern at that place. Mrs. Thomas and the little girl will remain here for a week or ten days. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have many friends in this city and their departure will occasion general regret. We are all glad to know, however, that Oscar's new position pays a better salary and is more desirable from every point of view.

H. H. Finrow was here from Plummer's Dam yesterday to have bills printed for the Fourth of July celebration at the Dam. They will have horse races, bicycle races, etc. and liberal prizes will be offered. A bowery dance will be held during the afternoon and evening. This is a most delightful place to visit, and those of our people who want a country resort with plenty of shade will be royally entertained by the Plummer's Dam folks.

Farmers should remember that buckwheat can generally be nurtured if sown before July 1. It is a rapid growing plant and chokes out or smothers most weeds. It can be drilled or sowed broadcast using one-third to one-half a bushel to the acre. As a catch crop it is a success and the seed usually brings a good price on the market, or it can be ground and used as feed for stock. Mixed with other feeds, it is quite palatable and nutritious.

A freeman on the Great Northern by the name of Niemus was killed in Bemidji on Saturday afternoon by being thrown from the engine onto a trestle bridge which the train was crossing. It is supposed that his head came in contact with the timbers and that the concussion stunned him to such an extent that he made no effort to save himself from falling into the river. At any rate the body was found in the river and the idea is that he was drowned.

The local lodge of Knights of Pythias held a picnic at the Healy dam Friday evening in honor of Miss Mrs. Oscar Thomas. About forty people were in attendance, and an elegant lunch was spread at about 8 o'clock. A committee consisting of George Hennings, Ernest Buse and Gilbert Westphal perfected all arrangements, and the splendid manner in which the affair was conducted is a good advertisement for their ability as picnic managers.

Frank E. Hunt and wife and three children, Mrs. E. F. Marshall and son Marcus, Mrs. C. E. Boughton and son Charles, and Dr. N. M. Watson attended the celebration at White Earth Monday and were guests at the Ledeboer home. The celebration was quite an important affair. Governor Van Sant and Lieutenant Governor Jones were among the speakers on this occasion, and a large crowd of people from all parts of the state were in attendance.

R. H. Green, of Equality, came to town Saturday to attend the circus and found time to call on THE COURIER. Mr. Green reports that real estate has taken a decided jump in his vicinity of late. He was recently offered $3,000 for his quarter, but he refused it because he did not know where he could buy a better farm for the money. If a railroad happens to go through the eastern part of the county land values may be expected to double within the next thirty days.

Hearing on the proposed Rocksbury ditch will be held at a meeting of the board of county commissioners on July 14. Another important matter to come before the board at this meeting is a hearing on the petition to carve another school district out of districts, 2, 19, and 135, Norden and North townships. Strenuous objection is made on the part of a large number of these districts. As part of the new district will be in Marshall county action must also be taken by the commissioners of that county.

The festive lumber jack has been considerably in evidence this week. The Clearwater Logging company paid off its men at this point this week, and a good many thousand dollars were put into circulation immediately. The clothing dealers report very large sales during the week and other business houses were liberally patronized. The lumber jack earns good wages, but as a general proposition he doesn't believe in bank books or certificates of deposit. He likes to "eat, drink and be merry," caring little for the morrow.

Saturday was circus day, and all day long the streets presented an animated appearance. The weather was bright and warm and the red lemonade venders did a thriving business. It is estimated that fully 2,500 people were in town and it would seem that nearly all of them were in the tent in the afternoon, as every seat was occupied. Gollmar Bros. give a good show, and no fakirs are allowed on the grounds. They are first-class to the last. Rings, the veteran circus men, and are building up a great show. From here they went to Grand Forks.

During the past week a committee consisting of A. P. Toupin, Fred Borchers and Chas. E. Boughton, has canvassed the business men to find out how many of them would use city water in case n waterworks plant was put in. It is expected that an estimate from W. D. Lovell, the Des Moines contractor who is figuring on building the plant, will be received shortly and the feasibility of putting in waterworks will then be determined. It is understood the business men promised a liberal support, and prospects of getting a plant are decidedly bright.

Real estate has been decidedly active during the past few weeks. The Union Land and Investment company reports recent sales of five quarters, Sortedahl & Bjornsby have done nearly as well, and the Healy company has recently closed up deals for about two sections. Owing to the unfavorable money market in Iowa and Southern Minnesota there is not the usual heavy demand for real estate this year, and the fact that Red Lake Falls is doing a larger business in this line than any other town in the Red River valley certainly proves that Red Lake county lands are the cheapest and best on the market.

During the past week a new five-horse power Kansas City gasoline engine has been installed in THE COURIER office by the Joseph Helm agency. For some weeks the old engine has been giving considerable trouble, and the purchase of a machine guaranteed to run seemed to be the only way out of the dilemma. This new engine adds to our office the one thing needed to make it the most convenient and best equipped office in the county, and one of the best country print shops in the state. The new machine was just up and started off by Joseph Helm jr., who knows as much about machinery as many experienced men of twice his age.

Thief River Falls has concluded to celebrate the glorious Fourth after all, and large bills proclaiming the fact have been issued. Among other things it is stated that "Chief Relly will keep the peace," "Mayor Gratia will read the glad hand," and "the world-famed orator, Hon. Wayne E. Richardson," will thrill the vast audience by again recounting the heroism and privations of the Continental soldiery at Bunker Hill and Lexington. In fact if the bills tell the truth the tall feathers will all be pulled from the American eagle by evening. Anyway, the Thief River people are royal entertainers and undoubtedly they will have an opportunity to practice on a good-sized crowd of county-seat people.

TWO BIG DAYS!

NEXT Monday and Tuesday will be two big days. We will give you bargains such as were never given before in Red Lake Falls. Among them will be:—

ALL Shirt Waists in white or colors we will give 33⅓ per cent. discount; that is we will give you 33⅓c on every dollar you invest at our present low prices in waists.

ALL Summer Dress Good which we now offer at low prices we will give a discount of 10 per cent. extra.

240 of the Genuine Puritan Corsets sold everywhere for $1, we will now sacrifice for 43c.

Men's working socks worth 8c pair will go at.....	4½c	Ladies' hose worth 15c pair will go at.....	8½c
Men's dress socks worth 15c pair will go at.....	9c	Children's good black ribbed hose worth 15c will go at.	8½c

There are many more bargains like these which you will find on these two days.

Remember the dates Monday and Tesday, June 22, and 23 on which these prices can be had.

Garceau & Zaiser.

COMING---THE BIG SHOW!!

ONE DAY ONLY.

Thursday, July 2

RED LAKE FALLS

GREAT CONSOLIDATED CAMPBELL BROS. SHOWS

EUROPE'S GREATEST CONTRIBUTION

FOR THE AMUSEMENT OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

UNQUESTIONABLY

THE GRANDEST ARENIC FEATURE

EVER INTRODUCED IN AMERICA.

NOW DOUBLED IN SIZE TWICE AS BIG AS BEFORE THROUGHOUT

3 RINGS 2 STAGES

CIRCUS MUSEUM AQUARIUM $1,000,000 MENAGERIE

½ MILE HIPPODROME TRACK

REAL ROMAN HIPPODROME

The Foremost Show of the World.

YOU CAN NEVER AFFORD TO MISS THE MONSTER MAJESTIC SPECTACULAR FREE STREET PARADE UNPRECEDENTED IN WEALTH AND GRANDEUR

IN THE FORENOON WELL WORTH A JOURNEY OF 100 MILES TO INSPECT.

TWO SHOWS DAILY AT 1 AND 7 P. M.

An Hour given to Witness the Animal and Museum Curios before the Commencement of the Circus and Hippodrome Performance.

KILLED IN THEIR PALACE.

King Alexander and Queen Draga of Servia, Murdered by Soldiers of the Army.

MEMBERS OF MINISTRY ARE ALSO SHOT

Peter Karageorgevitch of the Rival Dynasty is Proclaimed King—The Royal Couple's Personal Unpopularity and Recent Suspension of Constitution Cause of Murders.

Belgrade, Servia, June 12.—King Alexander and Queen Draga of Servia, the premier, the ministers of war and the interior, a former minister of war, the queen's two sisters and brother, Nikodem, the chief of adjutant and 12 soldiers of the royal guard were murdered by military conspirators between midnight and two o'clock yesterday morning. Immediately after the assassination a proclamation was issued announcing the accession of Peter Karageorgevitch to the throne.

Stain in the Palace.

King Alexander and Queen Draga were slain in the royal palace and murdered king. The chief conspirators were all men of high rank, who acted in concert with the army. The participation of the latter in the assassination of last night, which blotted out the Obrenovitch dynasty, which has ruled Servia, with a short intermission, for nearly a century, is mainly due to the attitude of King Alexander and his constant towards the officers of the army, whom he always treated with scant courtesy.

QUEEN DRAGA.

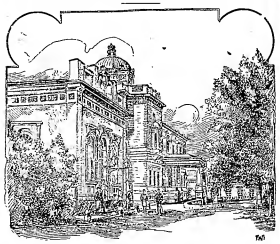
Views of Other Powers.

European powers hold conflicting views of the result of the assassination. Austria will not interfere save

ROYAL PALACE AT BELGRADE, SERVIA.



In this building, famed in history for sensational happenings, King Alexander and Queen Draga were slain by the emissaries of the revolutionary party.

the ministers at their respective homes. The first fire killed King Alexander and Queen Draga. As they fell to the floor he still clasped her in his arms. Even then the regicides were not content. They fired half a dozen shots at the queen as she was lying there dead, and then slashed her with their swords and thrust her body through and through.

Fatal Signal Given.

The signal for the attack was given by the firing of cannons, and at the same time that the palace was surrounded an assault was made on the residences of the doomed ministers. With the assistance of Col. Naumovics, the aid-de-camp in charge of the guard at the palace, who had been won over by the conspirators, there was little difficulty in reaching the bedchambers of king and queen.

KING ALEXANDER.

Resisters Shot Down.

Those who resisted the entrance of the attacking party were quickly shot down. Several doors leading to the royal apartments were blown open with dynamite, Col. Naumovics himself bursting in the one leading to the bedchamber with a bomb. The officers called to the king to open, but he had early refused. As the door fell the king rushed to the window and appealed for assistance, but no answer came.

Hit Together.

Realizing the situation he returned to the queen, holding her in his arms to protect her, and awaited the conspirators. As the officers entered the room, Naumovics presented to the king a form of abdication for his signature. The document contained the statement that by marrying a "public prostitute" the king had degraded Servia and that he must abdicate.

The king's answer was to draw a revolver and kill Naumovics on the spot. Col. Michics picked up the document and presented it again. King Alexander waved it from him. The officers then, with their drawn revolvers, fired a hail of bullets, and the royal couple fell together to the ground.

No Opposition.

The revolution was executed without opposition on the part of the Servian people, a majority of whom evidently approved both the assassination and the choice of Prince Karageorgevitch as successor to the in the event of civil war, Germany is not friendly to the new dynasty. Great Britain does not fear civil war, France is awaiting developments and Italy has a strong friend in the new king.

BOAT CAPSIZED.

Five Persons Plunged into the Des Moines River at Fraser, Ia., and Drowned.

Fraser, Ia., June 9.—Five persons lost their lives here yesterday in the Des Moines river. The victims were: Thomas Coleman, Andrew Marchesa, Steve Cormadine, Carrin Magatin and Nicholas Grementine. All but Coleman are Italians and were employed in the Fraser coal mines. Shortly before the noon hour Monday they crowded into a small boat to row across to Fraser. The boat reached the middle of the stream safely, but there it was caught in the current, whirled around and capsized. The men struggled in the water for a few seconds and then all disappeared.

Wheat Not So Badly Injured.

Topeka, Kan., June 12.—Official reports received by State Employment Agent Gerow from Kansas counties show that the injury done the Kansas wheat crop by the flood is not nearly so serious as at first reported. Some counties report that the conditions have improved and that they will need a large number of men to assist in the harvest. The total number of men needed from outside the state is small, but Kansas will not be able to harvest this year's crop unaided.

Struck by a Train.

Montgomery, Minn., June 15.—John Zezelinka and wife, an aged couple, were instantly killed by being struck by the North Star limited on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad. They were returning from a wedding celebration and their buggy was struck as they attempted to cross the tracks.

Ruth Hanna a Bride.

Cleveland, O., June 11.—Miss Ruth Hanna, daughter of Senator M. A. Hanna, was married at the senator's home in this city yesterday to Joseph Medill McCormick, of Chicago. President Roosevelt and daughter were among the guests.

Bank Wrecked.

Birmingham, Ala., June 11.—With, President T. J. Cornwall in parts unknown and short nearly $200,000, the Bessemer savings bank, one of the strongest institutions in the district, has closed its doors and asked for a receiver.

Governor Weds.

Kansas City, Mo., June 10.—Gov. Willis J. Bailey, of Kansas, and Mrs. Ida B. Weede were married in the First Congregational church of this city at six o'clock last evening.

Elevator Burned.

Kansas City, June 13.—The Exchange grain elevator in the East Bottoms was burned Friday night, destroying 40,000 bushels of wheat and entailing a loss of $70,000.

INQUIRY TO BE IMPARTIAL

President Roosevelt Orders Fullest Investigation of the Post Office Scandal.

IS MOST ANXIOUS TO FIX THE BLAME.

Determined That No Guilty Person, No Matter How High His Position, Shall Escape Penalty for Wrong Doing—Public Will Be Given the Facts When Proper.

Washington, June 15.—There appears to be a lull in the investigation of the post office scandals just at present, but it is only temporary, and due to the fact that evidence is being prepared on which to arrest and punish the next of the ring. It can be stated on the highest authority that the crisis of the investigation will come within a few days, perhaps this week, and that it will be foreshadowed by the arrest of a former official of the department, who has for several weeks been under surveillance at his home.

President in Earnest.

President Roosevelt is in dead earnest in demanding that the investigations shall go to the bottom and take in everybody who has been guilty of wrongdoing in any branch of the postal service. By means business, and he has, moreover, given his assurance that at the proper time the public shall be made acquainted with every fact developed, no matter who is the victim.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow has been told to make the investigation thorough without fear or favor, and he will do it or President Roosevelt will demand the reason why. Bristow's reply to the Tulloch charges will soon be completed and made public, and it will show clearly what basis there was for the Tulloch charges, which, however true they may be, are not in themselves very serious as compared with the accusations against Machen, Beavers and the rest.

Gossip About Heath.

There has been much irresponsible talk about the alleged maladministration of former Postmaster General Perry S. Heath, secretary of the republican national committee, based on the somewhat intangible charges of Seymour W. Tulloch, former cashier of the Washington post office, which Heath, Charles Emory Smith, Postmaster General Payne, and all others directly concerned have pronounced to be false.

Now that they have started in, the president and Postmaster General Payne will not rest until every guilty person has been exposed and punished. The storm will, it is thought, have reached its full height before the president goes to Oyster Bay for the summer time during the present month.

Pulled to Identify.

Belleville, Ill., June 8.—At the inquest yesterday over the remains of Dave Wyatt, the negro lynched here Saturday night, no testimony which would lead to implicate anyone in the lynching could be elicited from the ten witnesses examined. The coroner's jury declined to wait for the arrival of all witnesses, and after hearing two men, including Mayor Kern, a verdict that Wyatt met his death at the hands of parties unknown was returned.

Congressman Dies.

Piqua, O., June 18.—Hon. John F. McKinney, a prominent lawyer and one time democratic state leader, died here of paralysis, aged 76 years. He served two terms in congress. He was elected to the Thirty-eighth congress in 1862 from the Fourth district, and was again elected to the Forty-second in 1870. He was chairman of the democratic state committee for several years.

Begins Her Term.

Lansing, Kan., June 17.—Jessie Morrison arrived at the state penitentiary here Wednesday and began serving her 21 years' sentence for killing Frank Olin Castle. She was assigned to the housekeeping department, but will be permitted to do fancy work until she has recovered her health. Miss Morrison was weak and nervous, but showed no signs of breaking down.

Declared of Unsound Mind.

Powder, Ind., June 17.—The jury hearing the Fowler case returned a verdict that Moses Fowler Chase was a person of unsound mind and a resident of Tippecanoe (Lafayette), Ind. The court announced that guardians for the young millionaire would be appointed. The verdict is a victory for Frederick Chase, the father.

Lightning Kills Four.

Wooster, O., June 16.—Jesse Winkler, John Shook, S. E. Beham and Clark Fisher were killed by lightning near Sterling, Wayne county. They were framing a barn and were carrying a heavy timber on their shoulders when lightning struck the beam and tore it to splinters, killing the four men instantly.

Two Hanged.

Michigan City, Ind., June 12.—Ora Copenhaver (white) and William Jackson (colored) were hanged in the state prison here this morning before one o'clock. Copenhaver murdered his wife in Indianapolis and Jackson killed a woman near Evansville for the purpose of robbery.

Chinese Statesman Dead.

Shanghai, June 13.—Lo Peng Luh, the former Chinese minister in London, is dead at Foo Chow.

FINED FOR CONSPIRACY.

Chicago Judge Upholds Anti-Trust Law and Punishes Coal Retailers' Association.

Chicago, June 13.—Members of the Retail Coal Dealers' Association of Illinois and Wisconsin and of the Northern Soft Coal Dealers' association, who were indicted last winter by a special grand jury summoned during the coal strike to investigate the charges of conspiracy lodged against them, were found guilty Friday by Judge Horton. The 18 defendant companies and corporations represented in the Northern Illinois Soft Coal Dealers' association were each fined $500. An appeal was taken at once on writs of error. In the case of the retail dealers' association Judge Horton accepted a pro forma plea of guilty in each case several months ago and instructed the jury to return a verdict of guilty to conform with the pro forma plea and fined the defendants—nine officials of the association—$100 each.

His opinion, read Friday, was to the effect that it overruled the defendants' motions for new trials. The officials, including the president and board of directors of the Retail Dealers' Association of Illinois and Wisconsin, who were fined $100 each, are as follows: W. M. Sanford, C. S. Lusk, F. E. Lukens, Geo. Ament, E. H. Keiser, F. M. McEwen, F. M. Durkee, S. S. Masten and J. S. Brown. In the Northern Illinois Soft Coal Dealers' association the 18 defendant coal companies and corporations take in almost every large coal mining company in the coal producing counties in the northern part of the state. The indictments charge the defendants with conspiracy to do an illegal act injurious to public trade, to regulate and fix prices, to suppress, prevent and destroy competition and to prevent the shipment and sale of coal by jobbers to consumers.

GEN. M'COOK DEAD.

Well-Known Officer Suffers Stroke of Paralysis at Dayton, O., and Soon Passes Away.

Dayton, O., June 13.—Gen. Alexander McDowall McCook, U. S. A., retired, suffered a third stroke of paralysis at six o'clock Friday morning, and died a half hour later at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Craighead, on West Monument avenue. Gen. McCook came west from Washington a few weeks ago, and shortly afterward suffered a mild stroke of paralysis. He rallied from the first few days later with a second stroke more serious than the first, but despite this fact it was believed that the general would recover. He appeared to be steadily improving until Saturday morning, when the end came suddenly.

GEN. A. M. M'COOK.

ADMITS HER GUILT.

Mrs. Mary McKnight Confesses to the Murder of Three Relatives at Kalkaska, Mich.

Kalkaska, Mich., June 11.—Prosecutor Smith announced yesterday that Mrs. Mary McKnight has confessed to the poisoning of her brother, John Murphy, and his wife and baby. The prosecutor said Mrs. McKnight confessed voluntarily to him that she administered strychnine to baby Murphy, Gertrude Murphy and John Murphy.

Eight other persons, besides the three to whom somewhere Mrs. McKnight confessed, investigation shows, have died in the past 13 years under circumstances that in view of the woman's confession are now thought to be very suspicious. All of the eight were either relatives or intimate friends who died while living with Mrs. McKnight, or while she was at their house. All are said to have shown symptoms that have led to indicate strychnine poisoning.

Reprimanded.

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—The supreme court of Illinois on Thursday took an action unprecedented by a similar court in the United States when they entered an order reprimanding Attorney Edgar Mayer, of Chicago, one of their own body, and who was at one time chief justice, for filing a dissenting opinion during vacation and before the majority opinion of the court had been filed.

Defiance Wins Again.

New York, June 12.—The yachts Columbia and Columbia were again defeated by the Reliance. The former was first to the finish by five minutes and 32 seconds over a 30-mile course. The latter by 12 minutes and 34 seconds.

Legislature Ends.

Lansing, Mich., June 11.—Both houses of the legislature brought business to a close shortly after noon Wednesday. The senate before adjourning passed the house bill increasing the membership of the state supreme court from five to eight.

War Is Threatened.

Washington, June 16.—Civil war is threatened in Columbia unless the Panama canal treaty is ratified by congress, which meets June 20. A secession of two states, where the treaty is favored, is likely.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes. New Tobaccos. New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Props

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers Give Us a Call.

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, are the favorite pill for the lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

PREPARED BY E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO

Don't Forget the Name.

EARLY RISERS

The Potomac River.

The Potomac river is only 500 miles long, and in its lower course rather an estuary than a stream.

Axle Grease

Guaranteed at

6 Boxes for..... 25C

... At ...

O'Brien Bros.

Popular Hardware Dealers

RED LAKE FALLS.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. T. M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon

Office on corner of Main and Third streets.

Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. T. WATSON, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon

GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.

Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,

Physician and Surgeon

OFFICE IN PARADIS BLOCK.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,

Physician and Surgeon

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

OFFICE OVER REICHERT'S DRUG STORE

Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,

DENTIST

At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.

OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER

DENTIST

At Lambert Monday, June 22.

Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,

Real Estate, Loans, Insurance

Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.

Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,

Attorney at Law

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

Special attention given to collections, probating of estates and examination of titles. Offices over Bangs and Co.'s store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,

Attorney at Law

Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.

Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO

Attorney at Law

Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance

Office at Ed L. Healy's land office, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI...

DRAY LINE

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and get it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Jerrinan's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper.

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months said a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

KILLED TWO IN A HURRY.

Only Quick Shooting Saved "Big Jim" From Sudden Death.

"Talking of duels which occurred during the early days in California just after gold had been discovered and the only law was the rapid fire derringer," said an old timer, "reminds me of the story told me by my father, who was a forty-niner, of how 'Big Jim' Robinson, a terror of the mining camps, one time killed two men without rising from a card table and while one man was standing behind him. He did it, too, without turning around.

"It appears that Robinson and three other men were playing cards. Although a tough proposition and a man killer by nature, Robinson was by no means a card sharp and lasted one worse even than in Indian, which he preferred killing to eating breakfast. Now, the three other men at the gaming table were sharpers of the first water. At first Robinson was considerably, and the others pretended to complain of their own ill luck. Finally, however, luck seemed to turn, and the game went strong against Robinson.

"Robinson began to suspect that he was being duped and finally caught the man opposite to him receiving a sign from a fifth party standing directly behind his chair and where he could see his hand. Without saying anything Robinson slipped his hand down into his back pocket and managed without attracting attention to draw his gun and lay it across his knees.

"A little later in the game his chance came. He held four kings and staked high on it. His opponent, sitting directly opposite, however, was out with four aces. That was all right; but, unluckily for the sharpers, one of them accidentally dropped on the table a fifth ace. That showed Robinson clearly that extra cards were being run in on him, and without rising he accused his partners of cheating. One hand went immediately to the hip pockets, and a minute later a lively fight would have probably ensued. Suddenly Robinson's derringer rang out with two shots. The man opposite slid down under the table without a groan, and the man behind Robinson dropped to the floor. Quick as a flash Robinson had shot them both, one of them unseen and both without aiming. The suddenness of the move took the fight all out of the other two players, and at Robinson's command they dropped their guns and put up their hands.

"The curious part of the shooting was this: Robinson realized that if he shot the man in front, who had his revolver partially drawn, his pal behind would shoot him in the back; so without aiming Robinson fired at the one in front and by a quick backhand movement fired over his arm over shoulder without looking at the man behind. As though to prove his suspicions, a loaded weapon was found in the hands of both the dead gamblers. You can imagine how quickly Robinson's mind must have taken in the situation but how well he acted in his own defense."—Washington Post.

In Yorndocs.

Those living in portions of our country exposed to tornadoes will be glad to know that scientists tell us there is always warning of the approach of a tornado to those who are observant. Clouds may be seen carrying together in the southwest and west, a low, dull roar of the wind in those clouds may be perceived, while there is a great stillness and sultry heat in the air, all of which signs are sufficient to bid people look for safety.

This safety they will never find in any easterly direction. One who faces the cloud as it comes should seek safety to the right. The only absolute safety, however, is to be found underground, in the cellar of the house, if it is a wooden house, as the storm will whirl all the beams and boards of the structure. But if it is a brick or stone house the shattered walls will only tumble in. The brick or stone house, moreover, will fall sooner than the wooden one, which yields and gives.

In the tornado countries, especially in the more open portions, there should be an underground place provided for refuge, with its roof arched and strengthened by masonry and beams, so that it cannot be broken in by anything falling upon it.—Exchange.

Paths in Africa.

It may be a surprise to the unenlightened to learn that probably no explorer, in forcing his passage through Africa, has ever for more than a few days at a time been off some beaten track. Every village is connected with some other village, every tribe with the next tribe, every state with its neighbor and therefore with all the rest. The explorer's business is simply to select from this network of tracks, keep a general direction and hold on his way. They are veritable foot paths, never over a foot in breadth, beaten hard and netted beneath the level of the forest bed of centuries of native traffic.

Like the roads of the old Romans, these footpaths run straight on through everything, ridge and mounting hill, valley, never shying at obstacles, nor anywhere making a angle to breathe. Yet within this general straightforwardness are a singular eccentricity and an indecreasure of detail. And the reason is not far to seek. If a stone be encountered, no native will ever think of removing it; he simply walks around it. It would never occur to him that that stone was a displeasable object and that for the general weal he might displace it.

Exchange of Compliments.

Maud—My mamma says she can remember when your mamma kept a grocer's shop.

Marie—My mamma says she can remember how much your mamma owes her for groceries.

Caroline-Durnn's Revenge on Sargent.

When John S. Sargent, the famous portrait painter, studied in the atelier of Carolus-Duran in Paris, his teacher showed his fondness for his pupil during in his head in the great ceiling of the Luxembourg palace. Even after he branched out for himself his master often sent for him to come over to the palace and pose, his hands having especially won the admiration of Carolus-Duran. The time came, however, when Sargent could no longer answer the beck and call of his teacher, for he was getting work of his own to do, which would not allow him to leave his studio at a moment's notice. One day it is related, Carolus-Duran sent a hurry call for him, and when he received a note saying that Sargent was compelled to decline his request owing to pressing work he was furious. A few days later a friend, to whom he had confided his anger at his nonchalant pupil, asked him: "Well, how is it with Sargent? Have you made up? How is he?" "Ah, oh," said the painter, and he looked sad and his shoulders went up. "How is it with Sargent? C'est fini!" Another shrug. "C'est fini! It's all over! I have been to the Luxembourg. I went and I got a ladder, and I painted out his head!"

A Ghost Test.

When you think you see a ghost, how can you tell whether it really is a ghost or not? A recent writer gives the following scientific method: We assume that a person sees an apparition. It may be objective—i. e., having existence outside the observer's mind—or merely a creature of a disordered brain, subjective. Let some white being at the vision with both his eyes, gently depressing one eyeball with his forefinger from outside the top eyelid. Do not say a squint. If objective, however, he will suppose, not that he sees two objects, but one, of course, if it be outside of him. One may prove this by trial any time with any object, near or far. I mention this because of the many nervous and brain disordered people who see ghosts and to whom it would be better for them not should know that the trouble is within themselves and not with a capital doctor thus continue to be haunted, as they believe, by the supernatural."

The Rocking of Lake Erie.

The 250 mile trough of Lake Erie lies approximately in the direction of the prevailing southwest winds which prevail in that part of the country. Thus the lake offers an excellent opportunity for studying the effects of the wind upon a large body of inclosed water, and very interesting data have been sometimes prove. Rhythmic gusts produce rhythmic motion and great waves from the west or southwest sweep the liquid body of the lake eastward and somelimes cause a rise of eight feet or more at Buffalo in the course of a few hours. As soon as the maximum force of the gale has passed the water swings back. Continued rockings are observed on days when the strength of the wind fluctuates.—Youth's Companion.

Fabric of Dotty Life.

It is not of lofty or heroic deeds that the enduring pattern of character is woven, but rather of the seemingly small things of life. Little unheralded acts of helpfulness, slight self denials for the sake of others' happiness, unconscious attention to trifling details of duty, standing firm to the right in spite of banter and contempt (really the most difficult thing for young or old to withstand), abhorrence to anything unmanly in word and deed even in what others consider a matter of sport, sticking to principle though one may be called "old fashioned," "unprogressive" or "puritanical"—these are the golden strands which, woven into the fabric of daily living, make men and women invincible.—Success.

Mistake In the Locality.

That keen rivalry which western towns feel is probably responsible for the story about Seattle, which may well have been said of some other place at some other time. It concerns a Seattle man who died and went to the hereafter.

"I don't see," he remarked, after a casual survey of his new quarters, "that heaven is so much better than Seattle."

"But this isn't heaven," explained a bystander.—New York Tribune.

How the Ancients Regarded Iron.

The ancient Egyptians believed that iron was the bone of Typhon, the enemy of Osiris, and for this reason it was considered impure. No one could make use of it even for the most ordinary requirements of life without polluting his soul in a way that would cause him to be hated both on earth and in the other world.

Reading.

Were I to pray for a taste which should stand me in stead under every variety of circumstance and be a source of innocent and cheerfulness to me during life and a shield against ills, however things might go amiss and the times run much out of joint, I would ask a taste for reading.—Sir John Herschel.

He Had.

"Have you ever written anything," said the young author, "which you would hesitate to destroy?"

"Rather," quoth the insurance agent who sometimes dabbled in verse. "I have written $400,000 worth of life insurance within the last year."

What Did He Hear?

He—What lovely flowers! Do you know, they remind me of you.

She—Why, they are artificial.

He—Yes, I know, but it requires close examination to detect it.

Talking your enthusiasm to some people is like holding it under the pump.—Atchison Globe.

Sleeping on a Kang.

China is a land without mattresses or counterpanes. A bed, or kang, is simply a broad wall of brick built across the side of the room. On first acquaintance it seems absolutely impossible for an Anglo-Saxon, but a man in the interior of China must either sleep on a kang or not sleep at all. I determined that if the bricks would not yield to my weight I could kang, and, as a means of yielding gracefully, I studied the sleeping methods of my Chinese companions. I found that their practice was to climb inside of quilted sacks, called pookas, which they tied and folded around themselves until a row of men on a kang looked not unlike sealed envelopes. Whenever they rolled or turned over in their sleep their pookas rolled with them. In whatever position they happened to lie on the brick pile they could rest secure the unalleviating effect of their pookas. Obviously I, too, must have a pooka. From a dealer in leather in a town through which we passed I bought two pookas. "And then several people left with the hair side in. I devised a system of strings by which I could tie myself in my appliance, and in this way I succeeded in sleeping in China.—Outing.

Rapid Work For Fingers.

The deaf and dumb, as every one knows, "speak" by means of their fingers. How many words, then, can a good hand speaker form in a minute? The average number of letters per word in the English language is five. Now, a quick hand speaker can make the English alphabet ten times in a minute—that is to say, 200 letters—as is usual for him to pause for the space of one letter after each word to show that the word is complete. In this form, we subtract from the total just given about one-fifth for these stops. pages, the total will be reduced to 215 letters.

Let this be divided by five, the average number of letters per word, and we shall find that a fairly expert deaf and dumb person will speak forty-three words per minute. A person in possession of speech will generally utter 150 words in the same space of time.

Substitutes For Tobacco.

Dried holly leaves, the bark of the willow and lime tree, the leaves of the sumac are among the substitutes for tobacco used by the Austrian Landsturm in Switzerland a weed called mountain tobacco is smoked in great quantities. It is powdered before using and causes the smoker to become a mental and physical wreck. The British soldiers in Africa are peculiarly affected by smoking the dried leaves of the cannabis plant. The smoker trembles with fright at nothing, weeps bitterly and when all sorts of words which do not be the least express his meaning. The wild dream, another British African plant, poisons slowly any one using it.

Selling Elephants by Measure.

The Moors, who drive a trade in elephants through the Indies, have a fixed price for the ordinary type according to their size. For example their two value they measure from the nail of the fore foot to the top of the shoulder, and every inch under that they charge $300. An African elephant of the largest size measures about nine cubits, or thirteen and one-half feet, in height and is worth about $4,500. For huge Ceylon elephants $20,000 is sometimes paid.

Reply of a "Heardless Boy."

When Keppel, a commodore at twenty-four, was sent to demand an apology from the Dey of Algiers for an insult to the British flag, the Dey made a note that the dey exclaimed against "the heardless boy" who had the cheek in charging a "heardless boy" with such a message to him. Replied the heardless boy, "Were my master present to take hough of beard for a test of wisdom he'd have sent your beyship a he goat."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms of legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgage deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgages foreclosure sale,
Garnishee summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

Food for Typhoid Patients.

By using whey as food for typhoid patients instead of milk, a doctor has reduced the death-rate in this disease from 32 to 1.7 per cent.

A Fig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and three bottles have effected a complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. R. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottles free.

Manuscript Poems by Lamb.

Three manuscript poems in the handwriting of Charles Lamb were sold for $725 recently in London.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured if Cole's Cough Cure is used. Children like it and its healing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Children like it and its guaranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

Liver Pills

That's what you need; something to cure your biliousness and give you a good digestion. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation and biliousness. Gently laxative. 25c. All druggists.

Send postpaid illustrated booklet on Scalp & beautiful brown or black hair. The best is

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the Whiskers

Write for free sample of Buckingham's Dye for the Mustache.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Capital Stock, $25,000
Authorized Stock, $100,000.

OFFICERS.

I. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice President.
THEO GARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS.

I. I. Wyer, F. E. Hunt, Theo Garceau,
Chas. M. Bowden, A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Loan Money to Loan on Improved Farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPO-LIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South.

TIME TABLE LOCAL TRAINS.

WEST BD.	STATIONS.	EAST BD.
8.30 am Lv	St. Paul	Ar 7.30 am
8.30 am Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 7.30 am
8.55 am Lv	Cookston	Ar 6.55 pm
9.30 am Lv	Crookston	Ar 6.15 pm
9.50 am Lv	Fleming	Ar 5.50 pm
9.31 am Lv	Brea	Ar 5.30 pm
10.00 am Lv	Gentilly	Ar 5.00 pm
10.10 am Lv	St. Hilaire	Ar 4.50 pm
10.40 am Ar	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 4.20 pm
12.25 pm Ar	Third River Falls	Lv 1.40 pm

O. THOMAS Agent

" The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

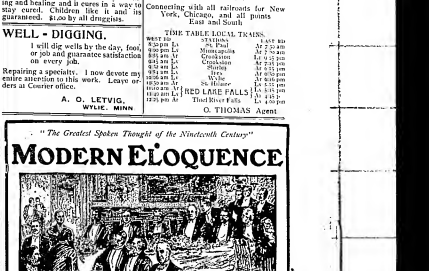
MODERN ELOQUENCE



Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best After-Dinner Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Reminiscence, Repartee and Story, in Ten Handsome Volumes, Illustrated with Fine Photogravures and Color Plate.

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS:

Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of British Parliament

Rossiter Johnson
Author and Literateur
Albert Bigelow Paine
Expert Collaborator
Howard Everett Hale
Author of "The Man With-out a Country"
Jonathan P. Dolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa
John B. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Georgia
Nathan Haskell Dole
Associate Editor "International Library of Famous Literature."
James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureaus, Princess University
George Maclean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University
Lorenzo Sears
Professor of English Literature, Brown University
Edwin M. Bacon
Former Editor "Boston Advertiser"
P. Caroliffe Owen
Member Editorial Staff "New York Tribune"
J. Walker McSpadden
Managing Editor "Editor-Publisher" Syndicate
Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Museum, Washington, D. C.
Thomas A. Reese
Member Editorial Staff "Chicago Times-Herald"
William W. Matos
Member Editorial Staff "Philadelphia Evening Telegraph"
Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri
Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of the orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

THOMAS B. REED

These are the books for the busy man—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment —for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 vol. tomes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 72 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

FIVE PATTERNS SENT FREE

Send for Mr. Mabie's Special Offer, Terms, Etc.

Mail Coupon Today

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

Gentlemen—Kindly send to your advertisement of Modern Eloquence, also full particulars of sample pages, photogravure and chromatic prints, also full particulars regarding bindings, prices, etc.

Name.....
Postoffice.....
State.....
City and State.....

(To-day)

Special Bargains This Week
At the BIG STORE

Underskirts

We have a few left-overs from our colored underskirt line that we wish to close out.

3.00 skirts for 1.69.
1.75 skirts for 89c.
All desirable patterns in fancy stripes solid red and lavenders with black edge on ruffles.

Big values in ladies mercerized underskirts. Made by the Home Made Co. Prices from 60c to $2.50. Nothing in their makeup to unravel or catch dust as all seams are taped. Look them over.

Lace Curtains

Special this week—

Our regular 50c center for 39c, full sized Nottingham.

Lace curtaining by the yard, 15c, worth 20c. Nottingham quality, pretty pattern.

CLOTHING SALE

From now until July 4 we will give a discount of 10 PER CENT on all sales of men's and boys' clothing and men's fine pants. As our prices are already very low this will be giving you exceptionally good values.

Remember that we are not offering you cheap stuff. We carry nothing but Kuppenheimer guaranteed clothing, the only clothing on the market with a real guarantee and Capps' 100 per cent. pure wool clothing. Buy your clothing from us and save money.

Ladies' Wrappers

20 dozen of wrappers just received, all of the celebrated Home Made kind already well known to the ladies of the city. all made in the best possible manner, sewed to stay and fit perfectly. Prices from 1.00 to 1.50.

Special this Week

4-in. ribbon, fancy, 10c.
1-in. hair ribbons, fancy, 5c
Fine handkerchiefs worth 15c, for 5c.
Ladies sailor hats worth 75c, for 39c.

Shoe Bargains

Misses' canvas shoes, will wear better than cheap leather shoes anytime, 59c and $1,00. Call quick only a few left.

Bargains in Misses' oxfords and slippers. Cleaning up old lines.

Specials in Groceries

Monarch maple syrup, very best, 1.00 per gallon worth 1.40.

Pilot smoking tobacco 15 cent.

We solicit a share of your trade.

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

P. B. Gaass and family drove to Maple Lake Sunday.

Fay Draper was down from Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Ed. L. Healy was a business visitor to Warren yesterday.

Mrs. J. P. Dargan is at Wylie this week on a visit to friends.

H. H. Saiser made a business trip to Grand Forks yesterday.

Eli Lusha and wife were excursionists to Bemidji last Sunday.

H. Korf, of Freeport, Ill., is a guest of the Naumans this week.

George McConnell returned from a business trip to Crookston yesterday.

S. E. Hunt and R. E. Wyer drove to Maple Lake Sunday to spend the day.

Miss Ida Teal, of Euclid, is the guest of Miss Alvina Lemieux this week.

Mrs. N. J. St. Aubin is visiting friends and relatives in Gentilly this week.

Sumner Orr, of Marshall, is visiting with the family of his brother, George.

The Mentor Woodmen are making arrangements to build a hall in the near future.

L. C. Simons is having a lawn tennis court built at his residence west of town.

Miss Almeda Gonigam returned Monday from an over-Sunday visit at Crookston.

Attorney Chas. Boughton made a business trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis this week.

Rev. Father Charles of Thief River Falls was the guest of Father Ansgar Tuesday.

Mrs. Sortedahl, of Goodhue county, is visiting at the home of her son, Mr. O., this week.

The John Gund Brewing company is building a storage house at the Grest Northern tracks.

E. E. Fletcher left Tuesday for Cohasset, where he expects to remain for several months.

Mrs. J. J. Padden and little son went to Thief River Falls Tuesday for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Lewis Adams came down from St. Hilaire yesterday for a visit at the home of her parents.

O'Brien Bros. have a shapter on washing machines this week. Look up their new advertisement.

The ladies of St. Mary's society cleared $26 at their ice cream and lemonade stand on circus day.

Miss Emma Allard entertained a number of girl friends at an ice cream party Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. H. McPeak is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Breyette, near Ada, this week.

Sec Duffy for hail insurance. St. Paul Fire & Marine, old reliable stock company. Rates reasonable.

Judge McGeehan will hold the first term of court in the new county of Clearwater at Bagley June 25.

Sheriff Linnehan and County Attorney Grant drove to Crookston this afternoon on a business mission.

Haley Schwalen, of Hudson, Wis., arrived in the city yesterday for a visit at the home of his son, William.

C. D. Reid, of Sauk Center, representing the Champion Harvester company, is in Red Lake Falls this week.

A. M. Robillard's saloon will be moved in the room occupied by J. R. Fortier's general store in a few weeks.

The Wilkin county grand jury roasts the village officials of Breckenridge for permitting slot machines to run.

Prof. F. A. Whiteley left Monday evening for Itasca county, where he will look after his claims for several weeks.

"Governor" Paquin, one of the leading citizens of Lambert township, was doing business in the city Tuesday.

The press dispatches state that fifty Minneapolis schoolma'ams will take up claims in Itasca county this summer.

Messrs. Krogh and Gerlach drove to Crookston Sunday afternoon to visit at the home of Mr. Krogh's parents.

Rev. M. F. Howie, of Crookston, who owns a number of fine farms in this vicinity, was a business visitor here Monday.

Deputy Sheriff George Jarman was among the crowd of Thief Rivertites in attendance at the circus last Saturday.

James I. Wyer, president of the First State Bank, is expected up from Excelsior in a few days on a short business trip.

County Attorney Grady was engaged in a lawsuit at St. Hilaire Monday and in another at Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Mrs. Josie Kaus returned home Saturday from Moorhead, where she has been attending the state normal during the past year.

Miss Mary Eppers, of Adrian, Minn., arrived yesterday for a visit with her friends, Misses Rose and Florence Dautremont.

Mrs. J. M. Schaffer and sons, Chester and Frank, of Stillwater, are guests of Mrs. Schaffer's sister, Mrs. William Schwalen.

Emil Helm and Misses Lizzie Heim and Mary Schuesser drove to Crookston yesterday to visit Mrs. Nick Helm at the hospital.

Wm. Krueger and wife and W. A. Riechel and family went to Bemidji on the excursion Sunday for a visit with Jas. Haynes and family.

Leon Laurent's new brick residence on Champagne avenue is about enclosed. It will be one of the most substantial houses in the city.

Mrs. John E. King and children, Homer and Florence, returned yesterday morning from their visit with the home folks at Lakeston, Indiana.

The ladies' aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. William Pindeisen next Wednesday afternoon, June 24.

The following letters are uncalled for the Red Lake Falls postoffice: Irene Schultz, D. H. McGough, Chas. Swedenburg, Joseph Terrien, (2).

Oscar Bergland, the genial representative of the John Leslie Paper company, of Minneapolis, was a caller at the Courier office yesterday.

At an auction sale of Mrs. Didrickson's household furniture will be held on the platform just south of Healy's last office Saturday afternoon.

H. W. Peterson and P. G. Paradis, of St. Hilaire, represented the I. O. O. F. lodge of that place at the Diedrichson funeral Monday afternoon.

The sureties on the Patneaude bond have relet the contract for the Red Lake Falls ditch to Napoleon Marleau, and work will be pushed at once.

Campbell Bros.' circus, which exhibited here last year, is to be here early in July. The advertising car will probably be along in a few days.

There will undoubtedly be a large crowd of people in town next Wednesday to attend the celebration of St. John's day by the Red Lake Falls band.

The machinery is being placed in the new flour mill at Crookston, and Secretary Sivertson tells us that they will commence to grind wheat about July 10.

The ladies of St. Mary's society will meet with Mrs. Thos. Schmitz next Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Every member is requested to attend.

Misses Kate Martin, Lillian and Alice Boise, Henrietta Zaiser and Della Tougas attended a lawn party given by Mrs. Nelson at St. Hilaire yesterday evening.

Proprietor Gibeau has purchased the gasoline engine formerly used in The Courier office. Mr. Gibeau will have it placed to run the machinery in his workshop.

Peter Lachapelle, who was sent to the reform school about eighteen months ago, was released last week and accompanied the family to Washington Monday evening.

The grand lodge meeting of the Odd Fellows of the state will be held at St. Paul next Tuesday. S. A. Swanson is the delegate from Clearwater lodge of this city.

E. R. Nesse and wife, of Crookston, visited over Sunday with Chas. N. Bourdon's family. Messrs. Nesse and Bourdon are jointowners of the Crookston marble works.

Jeneva Leblanc will hold an auction sale of farm machinery and stock on her farm in Terrebonne township next Tuesday June 23. A free lunch will be served at noon.

Work on the Steinhammer ditch in Gervais township is progressing nicely. About twenty teams are now employed, and the contractor is rushing the work as rapidly as possible.

S. L. Lewis left Monday for his old home at Forest City, Iowa, where he will visit relatives and interest investors in Red Lake county real estate during the next couple of weeks.

Henry Hennemuth and W. G. Brown, who are working on the new mill at Crookston, spent Sunday at home. They remained over Monday to attend the Deidrichson funeral.

Mrs. A. G. Groshong and children returned home Tuesday from an extended visit with friends and relatives at Arlington, Minneapolis and other points in the southern part of the state.

A. G. Tracy, of Eyota, Minn., was a guest a guest in the city yesterday with a party of landseekers. He is an old friend of H. N. Johnson, manager of the Robertson Lumber company.

The merry-go-round is being packed up and will be shipped to Bemidji, where it will be operated for several weeks. The proprietors have done a good business in Red Lake Falls.

Postmaster Louis Doucet, of Lambert, made a business visit to Red Lake Falls Monday. Mr. Doucet reports business good in his town and that prospects for a crop were never better.

Garceau & Zaiser, the enterprising general merchants, quote a list of special bargains in their store this week. It will pay our readers to watch the advertising columns of THE COURIER.

Work on the additions to the Presbyterian church is progressing nicely, and it is expected that the job will be completed by August 1. The congregation will have a splendidly equipped edifice.

The dates of the Red Lake county fair at Thief River Falls are Aug. 5, 6 and 7. Good premiums are offered in all exhibits, and a large attendance is expected from Red Lake and Marshall counties.

Regular services will be held by the Evangelical Methodists at the K of P. hall Sunday at 11 a.m. and 8 p. m. Sunday school will be held at 10 a. m. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to all.

A convention of the Pythian lodges of this district will be held at Crookston next Thursday afternoon and evening, and quite a number of the members of the Red Lake Falls lodge will be in attendance.

The First State Bank has recently installed a Burroughs adding machine. These devices save considerable wear and tear on the brain, and can perform a vast amount of work in a small space of time.

Marriage licenses were issued this week to William Gallagher of Clay county and Pearl Brown of Red Lake Falls, and to Victor A. Tuuman of Marshall county and Annie Weid of Thief River Falls.

B. G. Wattles, landlord of the Palace, has been sick several days of this week, but is now able to attend to his work again. Mr. Wattles reports that his trade is increasing right along and is encouraged over the outlook.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schlast returned yesterday from their wedding trip and will visit relatives in Red Lake Falls for a few days before going to Fertile, where Mr. Schlast is employed as operator for the Northern Pacific.

Mrs. F. A. Lowe, sister of W. A. and August Reichel, arrived yesterday morning from Taftville, Minn., for a visit with relatives and friends here. Mrs. Lowe has been in Arizona during the past winter and spring on account of poor health.

The report of the First State Bank is published in this issue, in accordance with the call of the superintendent of banks. As usual this bank shows a healthy business, the total resources being $232,000. This is the oldest and strongest bank in the county.

Matt Siala shipped a carload of hogs to St. Paul last Saturday. He had had luck with one wagonload of porkers. It seems his hired men put seventeen hogs on one wagon, and before they got to the depot all of them were dead. The loss is estimated at over $50.

Lewis Albers will leave Friday night for St. Paul, where he will attend a meeting of the state boiler inspectors. Mr. Albers has recently been reappointed inspector for the sixty-first senatorial district, comprising Red Lake, Beltrami and Norman counties. While away Mr. Albers will make a visit at his old home near Northfield.

The St. Hilaire ball club will be down Sunday to cross bats with the local team. The Saintly city club has been considerably strengthened since the game two weeks ago and no doubt the contest Sunday will be exceedingly close. However, the Red Lake Falls boys have not lost a game so far this season, and they will try hard enough to sustain their reputation.

It is reported that a crowd of grocery peddlers are heading this way, and our farmers will do well to steer clear of the outfit. The average grocery peddler does not scruple to take advantage of the customers at every opportunity. The merchants of Red Lake Falls are quoting low prices on groceries and the people can be assured of receiving good goods.

The statement of the Merchants State Bank is published in this issue. The report shows total resources of over $106,000, which is exceptionally good for this season of the year, and only a few thousand short of the high water mark in the bank's history. The steady growth and stability of our banking houses ought to be a matter of gratification to the people of this county.

H. A. Kiner arrived from Ida Grove, Iowa, yesterday to accept a position as foreman at the COURIER office. Mr. Kiner is a printer of twenty years' experience and has recommendations from a number of the best newspaper men of northern Iowa. As he is also a cornetist of more than local reputation Mr. Kiner will be able to give needed assistance to the band.

In the action brought before the municipal court of Thief River Tuesday between Numedal and Norden townships to determine the residence of a pauper, Judge Bishop discharged the case for lack of jurisdiction. The Judge holds that application should be made to the board of county commissioners, and if any of the parties feel aggrieved at their decision appeal can be made in regular form to the district court.

The base ball boys speak very highly of the manner in which they were entertained at Thief River Falls last Sunday. The "fans" and citizens generally of that city did everything in their power to make the boys feel at home, and there were no sore spots over the result of the game. W. A. Wright officiated as umpire, and his decisions were invariably fair and showed a thorough knowledge of the rules of the game.

John and Miss Isabel Dempsey, formerly residents of Garnes township, were drowned about ten days ago by a cloudburst in the Nazparco valley, Idaho. The cloudburst took place during the night, and the unfortunate victims were given no warning of its approach. Mr. Dempsey and his sister moved to that country a little more than a year ago. They have many friends in Red Lake county who will regret to hear of their untimely death.

Frank Brouillette has decided that shoe clerks are often misunderstood. Yesterday a charming young lady called at the Big Store and announced the fact that she was in the market for a new pair of shoes. Frank naturally inquired: "Do you wish kid shoes, ma'am?" Quick as lightning came the retort, "No, sir. I want shoes that a young lady can wear!"

Attorney J. H. Maybury has purchased the library of the late De Forest Bucklen and will succeed to the practice of the deceased Crookston lawyer. The firm of Stoneerson & Maybury has been dissolved and Mr. Maybury will hereafter be found in the apartments recently occupied by Mr. Bucklen. Mr. Maybury is one the promising young attorneys of the northern part of the state, and his many friends will wish him continued success in the practice of his profession.

Crookston Times: Chas. Williams who has been the Great Northern agent at Euclid for a number of years, has been ordered to report for duty at Red Lake Falls where he will take the place of the present agent at that point. Chas. has made a host of friends around Euclid who regret to see him go, but who, nevertheless, rejoice at his good fortune in securing a larger station. Mr. Williams went to Red Lake Falls this morning and Mrs. Williams is visiting with friends in this city.

Eugene Dempsey was in from Garnes township yesterday, and has made arrangements to go to Idaho shortly to bring his brother's six children to Red Lake county. As stated elsewhere John and Isabel Dempsey were drowned by a cloudburst two weeks ago. They were given warning of the approach of the storm and took the children to a safe retreat on high land. Mr. Dempsey and his sister then went down the valley again to attempt to save some of their household effects and were caught by the flood.

Houses for sale—Two houses on Third street, cisterns, well, nice yard, barn, and woodshed. Good shade trees. Enquire of H. Sivigny Red Lake Falls.

Bank Statement.

Statement of the condition of First State Bank of Red Lake Falls at the close of business on the 4th day of June 1903, as called for by the Superintendent of Banks.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$ 144,536 42
Overdrafts	1,197 18
Other Bonds, Stocks and Securities	25,013 57
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures	6,000 00
Due from Banks	$ 24,626 54
Checks and Cash Items	3,474 64
Exchanges for Clearing House
Bills Receivable	3,548 00
Currency	1,000 00
Specie	1,000 00
Total available assets	$33,653 54
TOTAL	$ 232,745 69

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	$ 25,000 00
Surplus Fund	5,000 00
Undivided Profits, Net	834 76
Individual deposits subject to check	77,559 75
Demand certificates of deposit	27,210 70
Total immediate liabilities	99,013 74
Time certificates	101,907 99
Total deposits	212,681 19
Total	$ 232,745 69

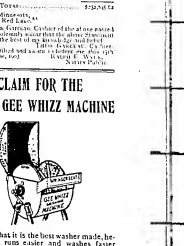
State of Minnesota, } ss.
County of Red Lake, }

I, Thos. Graham, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

THOS. GRAHAM, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 5th day of June, 1903. RALPH E. WATTS, Notary Public.

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE



1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and therefore is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by water and the motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect machines to run as correct to this statement.

4. Or we will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes cleaner. When dusting clothing machine must be dry Adjust sliding wheel just right enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while dusting.

O'BRIEN BROS.

Popular Hardware Dealers,
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

No Hair?

"My hair was falling out very fast and I was greatly alarmed. I then tried Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair stopped falling at once."—Mrs. C. A. McVay, Alexandria, O.

The trouble is your hair does not have life enough. Act promptly. Save your hair. Feed it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. If the gray hairs are beginning to show, Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore color every time. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office.
J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 38. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 25, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 246.

ST. JOHN'S BIRTHDAY FITTINGLY OBSERVED

Red Lake Falls Band Gives a Celebration in Honor of the Occasion—Large Crowd.

The St. John's Day celebration by the Red Lake Falls band attracted a large number of visitors yesterday, and everybody voted the affair a success. At 11 o'clock the band led the crowd to Clearwater island, where dinner was served and a concert given by the band. At 4 o'clock a ball game between the high school club and the "J. B.'s" was played at the ball park west of town, re sulting in a victory for the latter club by a score of 9 to 7. In the evening a ball took place at the Metropolitan opera house.

The celebration was in charge of the band boys, and they are to be congratulated on the fact that they cleared a nice little sum, which will be applied toward the purchase of uniforms.

St. John is the patron saint of the Canadian French, and his birthday is always celebrated in communities where people of this nationality reside.

The Only Way

To get at the superiority of one thing over another is by comparison, and after traveling over every line between Minneapolis and Chicago the traveler will admit that the Northwestern line represents the superlative degree of railway comfort and luxury in its elegant northwestern limited. This statement was made by a prominent man in an interview in the Minneapolis Times.

A GREAT SHOW.

Campbell Bros. Greeted by Large Crowd and Give Good Show.

North Platte Telegram: The Campbell Brothers arrived in this city Sunday morning with their circus consisting of twenty-two large cars and unloaded their animals and tents on the show grounds north of the tracks. Hundreds of people were there to see them unload. The mammoth new canvas tents are the largest ever seen in this city. The parade left the grounds about 10 o'clock and was one of the finest and most up-to-date we have ever witnessed. At the afternoon performance the big tent was packed to full capacity and judging from the hearty applause which greeted all the high class acts in the rings and mid air we must say that the Campbell Bros. are strictly in it this year. No gambling, grafting or games of chance are allowed upon the show grounds and the circus is conducted upon high moral and business principles. The help of this circus seem to be perfect gentlemen and have conducted themselves as such while in the city. At Red Lake Falls, July 2.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer $100 for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.—F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, Price 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

CONTRACTOR LOVELL SUBMITS AN OFFER

Waterworks Plant Can Be Constructed and Rented to the City at $1,200 Per Year.

City Clerk Toupin is in receipt of a letter from W. D. Lovell, the contractor who is figuring on putting in a system of waterworks in Red Lake Falls that a plant such as the city council has talked of could be put in and rented to the city for about $1,200 per year. The matter will be referred to the council at the regular meeting tonight, and it is likely that action will be taken in the near future. It is generally considered that Mr. Lovell's offer is a fair one. If the council is disposed to consider the offer Mr. Lovell says that complete plans and specifications will be submitted within a few weeks.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The average man saves money one place so as to be able to put it where he is squandering it somewhere else.

It takes a woman to convince herself that what is a scandal for other women to do is only indiscretion when she does it.

The man who couldn't guess to save his life what kind of stockings his wife wears can always tell what kind any woman has on that he sees get on a street car.

A girl has such will power about some things that she will let a man go on making love to her when a mosquito is biting her knee without ever letting him know it.

PROPOSAL TO DIVERT CLEARWATER RIVER

Bemidji Men Talk of Changing Flow Into the Mississippi—Red Lake County Interested.

It appears that the Bemidji people have designs on one of Red Lake county's rivers. They propose to divert the flow of the Clearwater into the Mississippi. Their object is to increase the water power of the upper Mississippi and at the same time convert thousands ar acres of swamp land in the north section of Beltrami county into valuable farms. However, the people over east are reckoning without their host. There is bound to be strenuous objection to a movement of this kind, as a large number of water powers would be made absolutely worthless.

A dispatch from Bemidji to the Minneapolis Tribune says: "By changing the course of the Clearwater the swamp lands would be relieved of a great amount of water and the drains from seven counties would be diverted into the Mississippi. It is claimed that the additional power thus obtained would bring the horse power at the site of the proposed paper and pulp mill seven miles from Bemidji from three to four thousand and increase the power all the way to Minneapolis. The proposition will be brought up before the annual meeting of the Farmers' institute at Crookston on June 25, where the drainage of the swamps in northern Beltrami county will be the chief topic up for discussion. The Clearwater river is a third the size of the Mississippi at Bemidji. It runs through a level section and a dam 16 feet in height in section 30, township 148, range 35, across the Clearwater just below where Grant creek empties into the will, it is claimed, be sufficient to change the course of the river."

Old Saws Reset.

A bird in the bush is worth a whole flock on the hat.

A new broom has gathered no dust.

People who live in glass houses should pull down the blinds.

Fine feathers do not make healthy bedding.

Procrastination is not a habit with the tax collector.

The early worm feeds the birds.

A fool and his money keep the bar-tender busy.

Do not count your garden until the chickens are fried.

There are better fish in the sea than ever were caught, because the big ones always get away.

A stitch in time side is good for the doctor's purse.—Commoner.

That Throbbing Headach

Would quickly leave you if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for sick and nervous headache. The make pure blood and build up your health. Only 25c, money back if not cured. Sold by W. A. Schrieter.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Penitence lies most heavily on an empty stomach.

Before she is married a girl's ambition is to own jewels; afterward babies.

A maid always worries for fear she won't have a good time; a matron for fear somebody else won't.

When a woman sets out to save a man usually the first thing she plans is to tie a stone around her own neck by marrying him.

It is impossible for a mother to own up to herself that a child stealer is South Africa might not happen to walk into the front yard any minute.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death was inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I am completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by W. A Schreier.

For Sale at a Bargain.

If sold before the last of June, the person who buys the Ole Ellingson farm can have one-fourth the crop. For prices and terms apply to H. O. Gjerberg. Imo

DRIVE HUNG UP.

Lack of Water to Float Crookston Lumber Company's Logs.

Crookston Journal: The drive is hung up. This is unwelcome news to most Crookston people, and particularly so to the management of the Crookston Lumber company. It seems that something over twenty million feet of logs that are being brought out of the Clearwater logging district and were to be sawed at the Crookston mill will not arrive on schedule time as expected.

When the drive reached Red Lake Falls the stage of water was so low that it was found impracticle to continue to Crookston, and Superintendent John Parker who was in charge of the work of the Clearwater Logging company decided to discharge the crew. A portion of the men came down on last night's train and the ramainder will follow tonight.

The company has a considerable quantity of logs in the boom and is getting them from Bemidji at the rate of a train load a day to keep the mill running. It is expected that the usual summer rains will raise the water in the river and enable the company to get the logs down in the near future.

A NEW TWO CENTER.

New Two Cent Postage Stamp Will Soon Make Its Appearance.

It is said that the new two-cent postage stamp which will be the old envelope long, as the postoffice department is nearly ready to supplant it with another. There has been much speculation as to the portrait of Washington on the present stamp. Some of the carpers content themselves with observing that it smirks, while others say that it looks more like Mr. Dooley than like the Father of His Country.

The experts of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing declare that there is nothing the matter with the plate from which the stamp is printed, and that the mark is due to the fact that the red ink "runs," blurring the fine lines. Printed in any other color, they say, it would have a different appearance; but the Universal Postal Union has decided upon red as the color for all postage stamps of the value of ten centimes or their equivalent, and in American money ten centimes equal two cents. The remedy is the re-engraving of the plate in stronger lines. The design is also to be somewhat changed. People who prize curios will do well to save the "Dooley" stamp, as it is evidently designed to become rare, having had an unusually brief run—briefer even than that of the oblong stamps of the issue of 1869, in which portraits were discarded and the two-cent stamp bore a device of a postboy on horseback blowing a horn.

DEALS IN DIRT.

Changes in the Ownership of Red Lake County Real Estate.

James A. Johnson to Lars O. Pederson, ne qr 22-151-45..... $1,500

Lars O. Pederson to C. G. Borgen and H. E. Albue, ne qr 22 151-45..... 3,200

Louis N. Dion to Ed L. Healy, lot 11 36-151-45..... 325

Lars Backe to Henry Olson, lots 6, 7, 8, 9, blk 24, Porter's addition to Thief River Falls..... 125

M. O. Sortedahl to J. A. Leegemo, se qr 32-151-42..... 2,000

United States to Kornelius Syverson, e hf sw qr, lot 1 and 2 19-154-44..... Patent

H. N. Douglas to Burchard-Hulbert Investment Co., s hf sw qr n hf sw qr 18 sw qr 23 se qr 35-150-42 se qr 19 sw qr 27 se qr 30 nw qr 31-150-45 nw qr 24-149-43. 30,210

Samuel Gibson to Louis Doucet, part of ne qr sw qr 15-150-41.... 1,397

United States to Peter S. Medhus, se qr 15-151-42..... Patent

K. D. Chase to J. K. Hanney, lots 5 and 8, sec 20, and nw qr sw qr 21-152-43..... 1,600

Fred Kruse to Merchants State Bank, ne qr 31-151-45..... 300

To cure rheumatism take Cole's Bloodbuilder. It is the perfect vegetable blood purifier and nerve tonic. It makes new blood and imparts health and vigor to the system. Try it, it's guaranteed. $1 by all druggists.

CONNERY WILL CASE IN PROBATE COURT

Action Brought to Contest Will of the Late Thief River Merchant—Will Be Appealed.

What promises to be a long drawn out and hard fought will contest case received its first airing before Judge of Probate Tarrant Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

A few weeks ago John Connery, a prominent Thief River business man, died, leaving his property, valued at from $8,000 to $10,000, by will to his sweetheart, Miss Anna Robinson. When Mr. Connery was taken seriously ill and the prospect of his recovery seemed remote it was the desire of the deceased to marry Miss Robinson and thus settle the disposition of his property, but there were legal objections to the granting of a license, as Miss Robinson had not had a divorce from her former husband the required six months to entitle her to the privileges of contracting another matrimonial alliance. Application for a license was made, but Clerk Perrault could not issue the all-important document. Mr. Connery then made a will, leaving his entire estate to Miss Robinson, appointing W. W. Prichard executor.

Two brothers and a sister of the deceased—Thomas and Luke Connery and Mrs. Mary Burns, all living in the southern part of the state—at once commenced legal proceedings to prevent the carrying out of the provisions of the will, alleging fraud and undue influence on the part of the beneficiary named in the will. They engaged Attorneys A. A. Miller of Crookston and Ira C. Richardson of Thief River to bring an action, and the proceedings before Judge Tarrant this week is the first step to get the case before the courts.

The witnesses to the will, J. M. Bishop and H. E. Munson, and the executor, Mr. Prichard, were on the stand during most of the time Tuesday and Wednesday, and no matter what the decision of Judge Tarrant may be the case will be appealed to the district court, and as a considerable amount of property is involved, it is likely the case will go to the supreme court.

Attorney Chas. E. Boughton of this city is in charge of Miss Robinson's interests.

Effigy of a Famous Eagle.

The navy annex building in Washington is surrounded by one of the most elaborate eagles to be seen on any government flag staff. It is an effigy in copper and aluminum of the famous bald-headed eagle, "Old Abe," which the Eighth Wisconsin Volunteers carried with them through the civil war and for years maintained in princely quarters at the capital at Madison. Speaking of princely quarters reminds one of golden prairie belt beer, the beverage that makes any home fit for a prince. It's good for the appetite and good for the health; no more can be said for any food or drink. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

The
Baltimore & Ohio R. R. offers very low round trip rates from Chicago to Boston, June 25, 26 and 27 account meeting First Church of Christ Scientists and July 1, 2, 3 and 4 account National Educational Association.
Chicago to Baltimore, Md.,
July 18 and 19 account National meeting, Grand Lodge B. P. O. Elks.
Ticket Office, 211 Clark St., Chicago.
R. C. Haase, H. N. Austin,
N. W. P. A. G. P. A.
St Paul, Minn. Chicago.

Low Summer Tourist Rates.

Via Chicago Great Western Railway. Round trips to Colorado, Utah, Black Hills, New Mexico and Texas points. Tickets on sale daily June 1st to Sept. 30. Good to return Oct. 31st. For further information apply to any Great Western Agent, or J. P. Elmer, G. P. A., Chicago, Ill.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

We are the Leaders. The only up to date Clothiers in Red Lake Co.

The Surprise

for Well Dressed Men.

Here's a lot of good clothes gathered together to supply the needs of every man within traveling distance of this store, who is well dressed or who wants to be.

That means we have got enough to go round among all the careful about clothes men; no matter how particular you are we shall satisfy you; no matter how careless you are, we shall put some new clothes ideas into your head.

We shall accomplish it all when we try on you one of these fine suits, made for us by Hart, Schaffner & Marx, makers of the best clothing for men we can find. If we knew of any better goods we would sell them. These are superior in quality, in styles, in tailoring. We can fit you perfectly. You will look in Hart, Schaffner & Marx's clothes as you ought to look, and want to look. Don't miss them.

Special Offering in Boys Clothing.

The quality, quantity, style and values never equaled. We have striven to surpass all former attempts. If you fail to come here you will regret it.

Confirmation Suits for Boys.

We have just received 100 suits for boys in black and blues.

Boys Clothing.

A Base Ball and Bat or Catcher's Mit given free with every Boy's Suit.

Men's furnishings.

Our Hat Department is Complete. We are Sole Agents for HAWES HAT

IN UNDERWEAR we have a complete line of Balbriggan, Lisle and Natural Wool.

FANCY and Plain Hosiery in all shades. We can suit the most conservative man.

SHIRTS, our line of negligees is the talk of the town, and they have been selected with great care.

NECKWEAR, all the season's latest offerings in the line of bows, fore-in-hand strings and ascots.

A full line of handkerchiefs, suspenders, gloves, belts, etc., can always be found here.

Berthon & Armstrong,

Red Lake Falls.

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Giving 55 tips ought not be considered a suspicious circumstance in Washington.

The tattooed girl has gone out of style since the open-work stocking came in vogue.

The Lakefield Standard observes that no man is always wrong; a clock that doesn't run is right twice a day.

If the Standard Oil company has really decided upon entering the Russian field the autocratic czar might as well get ready for his finish.

Since the steel trust netted only $25,000,000 during April and May the featherlightness of modifying the tariff is apparent to every thoughtful patriot.

An exchange says every doctor has two favorite jokes: No. 1—Tells patient to try different climate. No. 2—Tells patient to quit thinking about his ailment. Price of either joke, $2.

In commenting on an attempted lynching in the west, a Billville exchange says: "It easily demonstrates the fact that the sections are getting together. Brethren, we are all in the Union!"

The Chicago Tribune finds it "little short of profanation" that Boston common should be planted in rye. We shall expect Henri Watterson and other distinguished Kentucky colonels to add notes of disapproval of the project.

Here is one of Mary McFadden's comments: Don't wait for happiness to come to you. Do kindly things for others, shrug your shoulders over occasional miscalculations of character—and philosophy will take the place of happiness.

A Wisconsin tramp was arrested because he could not satisfactorily account for a few pieces of gold in his pocket. If Rockefeller or some of the other trust magnates were held up on the same charge would they be able to satisfy the police?

The Lake Shetek Courier has been squeezed by the telephone octopus and vents its feelings in the matter as follows:

> An exchange comes out with a scare head article reading "Robbery by Telephone." There is no use in making an ado about such trifles as there isn't a line in the country that doesn't shell out 50 per from ten cents to a dollar every three minutes you try to talk over their lines.

The Walker Pilot observes: "It is the man who can get things that is considered a success, and this condition of things is becoming more and more pronounced every day. The making of laws that will stand the test of the courts has become a secondary consideration.

William Allen White says President Roosevelt personally paid all the expenses of the Pacific junket. But does this settle it? When it is taken in consideration that the expenses aggregated more than a year's salary, it may well be doubted that Teddy preferred to pay for something the railroads are always eager to donate.

Here is an advertisement which the Portland Argus published just as it was sent into the office. It is so much out of the usual order of such advertisements that we gladly reproduce it, and hope "Joe" will not fail to recover his dog:

> Stole or rund away—been loose him bout tree weeks, hees almost black and white dog him tail cut off pretty close to my body somebody find her keep it I be long to him.—Joe Bordeam.

The Adrian Democrat gets after the ministers occasionally, and here is a particularly good hit:

> "A baby was born to a certain minister last Saturday morning. That evening the officers waited on him with $50 in cash. The next morning, when the audience assembled, two wags stood by the church door and one bet the minister would thank the Lord for the money first, and the other bet he would thank him for the baby first. When the reverend gentleman arose to pray he said: 'Lord, we desire, also, to thank Thee for this timely succor,' and the boys are still undecided as to who is the winner."

An Oskaloosa swain, who had been writing to a girl in Kansas for three years, the other day received a letter and a picture from her. The letter said she had been married for two years and the picture was of baby. "My husband and I have enjoyed reading your letters very much, but I believe we had better quit now as we have to look after the baby." The words the young man used would shock a field of oats.

The taxation problem presents many aspects, and it is a little short of impossible to devise a scheme that will do exact justice to every citizen. The Fairmont Sentinel easily explodes the "direct benefit" theory:

> If this theory of no taxes only in case of direct benefits was carried out the childless man would pay no school tax, the blind man would pay no tax for street lights, the rich man would pay no poor tax, the dead man's property would pay no tax at all, etc., etc.—a most ridiculous and pernicious doctrine.

The Princeton Union adds a note of protest against the "fads" of the high school course:

> We seem to be drifting away from the common sense of things in many ways. This is noticed among many of the college graduates who come forth from the class rooms and graduating halls with a head fancy theories, but who have drifted far from the elementary things that go with an education. It is pretty much the same with others, and it is often the case that men and women have to go back to first principles and get a new start after they have decided to mingle with the exacting world. The college education is all right but it's not the whole barrel by a good many hoops and staves.

The fact that country newspapers are not as a general rule as prosperous as they were ten years ago is no doubt accounted for in a measure by the conditions noted in the following item from the Crookston Press:

> There is only about one industry on earth that has not advanced its prices, and that is the country newspaper. It pays more for office help, paper, ink, etc.—the editor pays more for his living expenses and the clothes he wears—and yet the price of the paper remains ever the same. He is the only man on earth whose pay has been not rise with prosperity of the times.

The new medical theories bring us to a contemplation of the hardships involved in keeping alive, according to an exchange:

> Drink water and get typhoid. Drink milk and get tuberculosis. Drink whiskey and you get the jimjams. Eat white flour and get appendicitis. Eat soup and get Bright's disease. Eat beef and encourage apoplexy. Eat oysters and acquire anaemia. Eat meat of any kind and get indigestion or some kind of germ disease. Eat vegetables and weaken the system. Eat desserts and take on paresis. Smoke cigarettes and die early. Smoke cigars and secure a nice catarrh. Drink coffee and tea and obtain nervous prostration. Drink wine and get the gout. In order to be entirely healthy one must eat nothing, drink nothing, smoke nothing nd before breathing one should see that the air is properly sterilized.

MANY KILLED IN WRECKS.

Fatal Railway Accidents Reported from Several States in the West.

FOUR MEN ARE KILLED IN MISSOURI.

Four More Suffer Same Fate in Collision in Wyoming—Passenger Coach Goes Over Embankment in California, Killing Two—Four Meet Death in Washington.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 23.—In a wreck of two Missouri Pacific freight trains which occurred at Cole Junction, five miles west of this city, Sunday night, four men were killed and one dangerously injured. The dead are:

Fireman Mike Duvall, Brakeman William Atkinson and two unknown men supposed to be tramps.

Dangerously injured and will probably die: Engineer Michael Finnegan, of Jefferson City.

All the trains were laden with live stock as well as general merchandise, and quite a number of cattle, horses and hogs were killed.

Four Killed in Wyoming.

Rawlins, Wyo., June 23.—Four men were killed in a freight wreck which occured four miles east of this city early Monday. The dead are:

Brakeman McGrath, Laramie.
Engineer Edward Baker, Laramie.
Fireman Charles Frezell, Laramie.
Unknown tramp.

Eight freight cars broke loose in the Rawlins yards and ran down Greenville hill, four miles, where they crashed into a western bound freight. The three trainmen killed were on the engine of the regular train. The track was considerably damaged and traffic was thus delayed.

Coach Goes Over Embankment.

San Francisco, June 22.—A serious disaster occurred on the North Shore railroad Sunday afternoon in which three persons were killed and a score more or less severely hurt.

The dead are:

Anton Roman, founder of Overland Monthly.
M. M. Kirk, of 1816 Steiner street, San Francisco.
Seriously injured:
Thomas Donnesu, ex-county clerk of Marine county.
James Tunstead, sheriff of Marine county.

All of the victims were returning from the funeral of Warren Dutton, president of the State Dairymen's association and president of the Bank of Marine County at Tomales. An extra special, consisting of an engine and a passenger coach, was used to bring back the friends of the deceased banker to this city.

About one mile south of Point Reyes the passenger coaches jumped the track. The coach, which was well filled with people, rolled down an embankment of 12 feet and was badly shattered.

Runaway Train in Washington.

Spokane, Wash., June 23.—On the Spokane & Northern railroad, a part of the Great Northern system, early Monday, a short distance from the center of the city, a runaway train of 60 loaded coal cars, without an engine, rushed four miles down grade through the town, demolishing a dwelling house, wrecking the Crystal bakery, killing a boat four people and injuring eight others and piling up a wreck which is more than 50 feet high. The dead:

William Thomas, a workingman.
Elmer Sles, aged nine.
Two unidentified men.

Panic on Trolley Car.

New York, June 23.—Three persons have been severely hurt and a score more or less bruised in a panic aboard an Amsterdam avenue trolley car. The fuses in the controller box blew out and jets of blue fire frightened those sitting near by almost out of their wits. A woman leaped off and struck head first against an iron pillar. She was badly cut. Her husband jumped with their little girl and also was badly cut. The child was uninjured. Another man broke one of his legs. By this time the excitement aboard the crowded car had become intense. Several women fainted and their fellow passengers trampled them under foot in the rush for the exits.

Two Men Drowned.

San Francisco, June 23.—While the Spreckels, with a number of excursionists on board, was entering her wharf here Sunday night J. D. Faulkner, a bookkeeper for an electrical company, aged 35 years, and Edward Sellinger, a bartender, aged 21 years, began to scuffle in a friendly way and both fell into the bay. Life-preservers were thrown out to them, but instead of utilizing the buoys the unfortunate men engaged in a desperate struggle with each other and before assistance reached them were drowned.

To Investigate Charges.

Frankfort, Ky., June 23.—Judge Redwine, of the Breathitt circuit court, has agreed with Gov. Beckham that a special term of that court be held to investigate the charges of Henson and bribery made by Capt. Ewen and others. The term will be called for about July 20. In the meantime 40 soldiers will be kept on duty at Jackson. The governor insists that a special judge from outside the district shall be appointed.

Bank Robbed.

Oakley, Kan., June 23.—The state bank of Oakley was robbed early Saturday. The safe was blown and is a complete wreck. The robbers got between $4,000 and $5,000.

CONVICTS BREAK JAIL.

One Killed and Another Fatally Wounded in the Attempt at Canyon City, Col.

Canyon City, Col., June 23.—One convict was shot and killed and another was fatally wounded by guards at the state penitentiary Monday morning in an attempt to escape.

At eight o'clock a number of convicts overpowered the overseers and guards at the wash house, securing their keys. On the way to the front gate the convicts captured Mrs. Cleghorn, wife of the warden, and placed her in front of them. Reaching the front gate, they dynamited it and got outside, taking Mrs. Cleghorn with them. The warden instructed the guards to pick convicts off, taking care not to shoot his wife. When 50 yards from the prison Mrs. Cleghorn fainted and the convicts released her. In the shooting, which was general from the guard, Convict Kaylesendall, No. 5,385, was instantly killed. Wm. Armstrong, the ringleader, was shot by Night Captain Clark and will die. Tom Fallon was captured on the bank of the big ditch. Two other men are reported captured at some little distance from the prison, and two others are known to be gone, one of them wounded. They are on horseback, having stopped wagons, cutting the horses loose and escaping.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Highly Respected Citizen of Chattanooga, Tenn., Suspected of Serious Crime.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 23.—William Hallett, a highly respected citizen, has had a warrant taken out for the arrest of Walter W. Henning, charging him with the murder of Mrs. Henning. Henning married Mr. Hallett's daughter at Sodsby, Tenn., on April 18 last. Shortly afterwards Henning deserted ostensibly for the west. Hallett received a letter from Henning, dated from a point in California, informing him that Mrs. Henning had died suddenly. Hallett notified the police, with the result that a few days ago the body of Mrs. Henning was found to have been buried secretly. An autopsy was held, and it was stated by the examining physician that the woman had been killed by a criminal operation. Henning was heard from last at Los Angeles, Cal. Sheriff Duncan has wired the Los Angeles authorities to arrest him.

MORE TROUBLE FOR ENGLAND.

Former Sultan of Sokoto Successfully Leads Force Against British Troops in Africa.

London, June 22.—The former sultan of Sokoto is causing the British considerable trouble in Nigeria. A force of 120 West African troops in the middle of May unsuccessfully attacked the former sultan, who was in command of a large force in the walled town of Durmi, about 200 miles from Kano. The British were obliged to retire after losing four men killed and 60 wounded. The enemy's losses were estimated at 300 men killed or wounded. Reenforcements are being sent the British. A British gunboat has been ordered to Carrowray, on the Liberian coast, in consequence of the refusal of natives to assist British steamers which have run ashore there.

Reports Declared Untrue.

St. Petersburg, June 22.—Officials of both the court and the ministry of the interior say the reports that an attempt was recently made on the life of the czar are untrue. A story was circulated a month ago that the czar had been fired upon while driving in the park of Tzarkoe-Selo, but it was explained that it originated in the accidental discharge of a revolver which was carelessly dropped by a detective as the czar's carriage passed.

Must Remove Fences.

Portland, Ore., June 23.—Edward Dixon, a special agent of the interior department, is now in eastern Oregon warning cattlemen and others who have fenced in government lands to tear down the obstructions. Those who fail to obey Mr. Dixon's orders will be prosecuted by civil and criminal proceedings being instituted. Over 500,000 acres of government land will be thrown open to entry by this action of federal officials.

Badly Burned in Explosion.

Tamaqua, Pa., June 23.—By an explosion of gas in the No. 4 mine of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company here early last night 14 men were so badly burned that it is thought six of them will die. Daniel Lewis, a miner, succumbed to his injuries Monday. Two English-speaking miners and three foreigners are in a critical condition and their recovery is doubtful. The explosion is believed was due to a defective safety lamp.

Accident Proves Fatal.

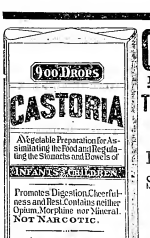
Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—Will Zimmerman, the young man who fell while attempting to loop the loop on a roller skate before an audience in the Cyclorama building last Thursday afternoon died Monday. Zimmerman's skull was fractured and there was no hope at any time that he would survive. The coroner will investigate.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Boise, Idaho, June 23.—Fire Sunday in the business section caused a loss of $140,000. The principal losers: Northrup Hardware company, $60,000; Armour & Co., $15,000; John L. Day & Co., grocers, $28,000.

Glass Plant Burned.

Gas City, Ind., June 22.—The plant of the American Flint Glass company at Summitville, Ind., was destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The loss is $75,000. The concern employed 150 workmen.



EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes ⌀ New Tobaccos ⌀ New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Gresbeng & Blake, Pros

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class in Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,

Headquarters for Everything in the line of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Riser. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

PREPARED BY
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO

Don't Forget the Name.

EARLY RISERS

The Potomac River.

The Potomac river is only 600 miles long, and in its lower course rather an estuary than a stream.

T.L. BLOOD & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
DRIES WHILE YOU SLEEP
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
ST. PAUL, MINN.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

REVISED ADD DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 11:00 a. m.
Outgoing mail for Third River Falls closes at 12:30 p. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves Clearbrook at 1:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 12:00 m until 1:30 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on train Daily and by stage Sundays.

E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

50 Years of Success

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the

Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 Sewing Machine

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, nomeclatured and troublesome shuttle.

The Tri-motion bar, insuring no perfect mechanical construction unless it be operated with one third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch, either with fine, light or heavy goods.

With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.

Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133, I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING.
VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
P. A. Whitney, H. Hemmesch, Wm. Schoeles
N. G. V. G. Sec'y.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCK MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Stallman Medicine Co., Stallman, Wis. It keeps you well. Our trade mark on every can, each package, price, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Refuse substitutes. Ask your druggist.

OIL THE GO
NORTON COUNTY, North Dakota, has rich black loam soil on our Missouri slope, producing crops—where corn grows, a good variety in all kinds of small grain. Good water, free, and plenty all within 10 feet. Crops all insured against Hail prices. Prime lands $5 to $10 per acre. Crop Payments. Write for Illustrated Pamphlet containing full details and how to secure. Mention this paper. Write for terms and facts.
Norton Land Co.
Manson, N. Dak. or 131 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

CHIEF METCALF REMOVED.

Head of the Money Order Division of the Post Office Department Loses His Job.

HE IS CHARGED WITH INDISCRETION,

Mr. Metcalf Denies That He Has Done Anything Wrong—Another Indictment Will Probably Be Found Against August W. Machen on a Charge of Forgery.

Washington, June 18.—As a result of alleged indiscretion in matters pertaining to the award of contracts for printing the money order forms of the government, James T. Metcalf, for many years superintendent of the money order system of the post office department, was yesterday removed from office by the postmaster general. A full investigation of the case will be made later. The dismissal is the result of acts of Mr. Metcalf in opposition to the bid of Paul Herman, of Rutherford, N. J., the lowest bidder by $45,000 and in favor of the next highest bidder, the Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Crawford company, of New York, of which Mr. Metcalf's son is an employe.

Not Amenable to Law.

Postmaster General Payne, in announcing his action, stated that there was no charge that Mr. Metcalf had done anything that is amenable to the law, but said that his conduct was of serious indiscretion that could not be overlooked. Mr. Metcalf, he said, always has been considered a faithful, efficient, painstaking and honest employe.

Long In Service.

Mr. Metcalf originally was appointed from Iowa and has been in the classified service since 1888. During his administration of the office the money order service has been widely extended by mutual arrangements with a large number of foreign governments throughout the world and Mr. Metcalf has had overlaid personal relations with many foreign postal officials. His salary was $3,000 a year.

Denies Wrongdoing.

Mr. Metcalf, when seen, said that he has done nothing wrong, and has nothing to conceal, that his son's employe in the bidding firm could have no effect on the award, that he suggested Herman's return to his old company to handle the government work there because he (Metcalf) knew that Herman's means were limited, and that a stoppage of supplies in the midst of a contract term would have proved serious.

Accused of Forgery.

It is believed that the grand jury will shortly be asked by the post office authorities to find another indictment against A. W. Machen, the former superintendent of the free delivery system. The charge is to be, it will be forgery, based upon the ensdorsement of Lorenz, of Toledo, O. It is claimed that the money was to have been sent to Mr. Lorenz in care of Mr. Machen. The check was endorsed in this city, being indorsed by Frank E. Raymond, who says he had the check cashed from Mr. Machen. Mr. Lorenz has declared that the signatures both on the check and voucher accompanying it are forgeries. He declares that he has not received a cent of the money and has no knowledge of the transaction.

Inquiry Extended.

Washington, June 19.—President Roosevelt's decision to order that the investigation of the postal scandal should be pressed to the bitter end has put new life into the inquiry. Charges of irregularities, arrests and indictments have been heard hitherto upon the results of investigations in Washington, New York and Brooklyn. The scope has now extended to the post offices in Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Mo., and New Orleans.

Returns Verdict of Manslaughter.

Peoria, Ill., June 19.—After being out about eight hours, the jury in the Leary murder trial Thursday returned a verdict finding Henry Leary guilty of manslaughter and acquitting Edmund Monk. The men on trial are Belgians, and while celebrating New Year's eve got into a fight with James Leary, of Omaha, who was so badly beaten over the head with some blunt instrument that he died the next day.

Great Labor Demonstration.

Philadelphia, June 18.—Probably the greatest labor demonstration ever witnessed in this city took place Wednesday. Thousands of striking textile workers marched from Independence hall to the city hall, where a mass meeting was held. The feature of the parade was the army of children who are employed in the textile mills. Each youthful parader carried a small American flag.

Fourteen Men Killed.

London, June 18.—Fourteen men were killed and 13 injured by an explosion in the lyddite factory at the Woolwich arsenal. Several of the victims were literally blown to pieces. The building was completely wrecked.

Thousands Locked Out.

New York, June 18.—Ten thousand employes of the George A. Fuller Construction company have been thrown out of work in this city by order of the company, thus making the lockout in the building trades complete.

Going to Oyster Bay.

Washington, June 18.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt have arranged to leave the white house for Oyster Bay on June 27, where they will spend the remainder of the summer.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Prehistoric.

What appears to be a rare specimen of prehistoric remains was unearthed near here when the skeleton of a human being and some earthen and stone vessels were found and brought to the city by S. S. Stadsvold, proprietor of the Fountain flour mill, and Levis Lohn, cashier of the Bank of Fosston.

Messrs. Stadvold and Lohn were visiting at Mr. Lohn's farm, near Beaulieu, on the border of the White Earth Indian reservation, and were watching some workmen who were making a cellar for a new building. The men had gone some depth into the side of the hill, the intention being to make a large root cellar, when the shovel of one of them came in contact with a hard substance which gave forth a metallic sound.

The workmen stooped to examine what the obstacle was and found it to be an iron ring fastened to something further in the side of the hill. Pulling on the ring disclosed the fact that it was attached to an iron door, which swung outward, disclosing a large opening. Looking into the opening, it was found that it led to a large cave, which was strewn with pieces of broken stones of granite slopes, and in one corner was a stone box, in which, on being opened, was found the perfect skeleton of a human being.

Some stone implements, representing hammers, arrow darts and other peculiar implements, were also in the box. The skeleton was at least seven feet in length. Mr. Lohn has placed the skeleton and other articles in a sealed glass receptacle and put them with a rare collection of Indian relics which he possesses. It is believed that the cave was once the resting of mound-builders, or of the Indians in the very long ago, as the implements found are of very ancient pattern.

Climate and Crop Bulletin.

Light rains fell in nearly all parts of the state on the 8th and 9th and at scattered points in the southern part on the 10th. The early half of the week was cool, with light frosts, pretty widely distributed on the mornings of the 10th and 11th, and farther east and south on the morning of the 12th; the frosts slightly touched potatoes, corn and gardens in exposed places, but without lasting injury. In the latter part of the week there was a return of warmer weather. The need of rain was beginning to be felt on the spring plowed lands of northern counties, which the rains of the week will not supply; rain was also needed on the recently flooded lowlands, and the wet level lands of the South, as the receding waters have left them hard and baked. There are a few complaints that oats are not very good, but generally in all parts of the state the wheat, oats, barley and flax are in splendid condition where they have not been affected by an excess of moisture. In the recently flooded lands of the South there has been a great improvement in the condition of all crops. Winter wheat and rye are in bloom. Small areas of clover were winter killed, but where it survived the winter it is very rank and ready to cut. June grass and red top are being mailed into hay. The new timothy fields will yield well, but on old fields there is a thin stand. Corn generally has been held in check by the cold weather.

Seventeenth Wrenzthal.

The annual meeting of the state normal school board, held at the capitol developed some interesting educational dissensation. The presidents of the five schools pressed reports, all of which were full of meat. The last one, by President Millspaugh of Winona, called attention to the state law which discriminates against graduates of the normal schools. It provides that principals of graded and semi-graded schools must be graduates of the advanced course in the normal schools, or must hold a professional or first grade certificate. The high school graduate who goes right to teaching can get a first grade certificate in a year, but the graduate of an elementary course in a normal school, which takes much longer, must pass a rigid examination and take a year of teaching before being eligible.

A Panic.

Fifteen persons in the audience attending the performance in the Lyceum theatre at Duluth of "Zig Zag Zeke" were panic stricken by the explosion in a scuttle of coal of a blank cartridge, used in the second act of the comedy to simulate the blowing up of a safe.

As others in the audience saw the cut and bleeding faces and forms at those hurt a panic seized them and a general stampede for the doors was narrowly averted by the presence of mind of a few.

News Notes.

Representative John Taylor died at Lo Sueur of tuberculosis. He was elected representative for the twenty-seventh district in 1902 on a democratic ticket. He was engaged in the real estate and insurance business.

It looks as if Little Falls will soon have free delivery. Inspector Nolte stated he would recommend larger quarters for the postoffice, as the present building is too small to accommodate the additional employes and the fixtures required in a free delivery office. The earnings of the office entitle Little Falls to free delivery.

E. A. Polleys, who has been connected with the legal department of the Chicago Great Western railway for several years, will become tax commissioner of the Omaha system July 1.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great trade to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold at "Dead Cheap" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a "pile" thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby,

BANK OF RED LAKE FALLS,

Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Ornamental Jade.

The Chinese have cut jade for ages, but never ornamented it except by sculpture. When it was introduced to India, the native jewelers, with their quaint eye for color, at once saw what a perfect ground it afforded for mounting precious stones, and they were the first to incrust them on jade. The India museum in London possesses the choicest specimens of this work known of the best mogul period.

Knew What He Wanted.

"Can I show you anything?" asked the young man behind the counter at the hat store.

"I guess so," said the young man who had dropped in. "I want one of those disappearing hats you wear when you go to the opera. Got any?"—Chicago Tribune.

His Hair Not Gray.

"Young man," said the Rev. Goodman, "some day you'll bring your father's gray hairs in sorrow to the grave."

"No danger," replied young Bakely. "He hasn't any. Worrying about me's made him bald."—Catholic Standard and Times.

What She Didn't Say.

Mamma (to Flossie, who has been imagining with a little friend)—I hope you were very polite, Flossie, at the table and said "Yes, please," and "No, thank you."

Flossie—Well, I didn't say "No, thank you."

Mistress Seeks a Cook.

"How many ways can you serve meat?"

"Three, mum."

"What are they?"

"Well done, rare and raw."—Chicago Chronicle.

Painful Exposure.

Richard—Unedneated people often have a lot of insight.

Robert—That is so. Our new maid knows that she is better now than we've been used to.—Detroit Free Press.

Starting Evidence.

Young Humorist's great quality is constantly coming in declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption coughs and cold to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Hemorville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time. Your sample benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Trial bottles free; regular sizes, 50c and $1.

Boston Excursions

Via the Nickle Plate Road, June 25 to 27 inclusive; also July 1 to 5, inclusive, at popular rates. Write City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St. and Union Ticket Office, Auditorium Annex, Chicago.

THE SEASON IS NEAR AT HAND WHEN YOU WILL WANT AN

Oil Stove,

Refrigerator or Ice Cream Freezer

You can find a good assortment of them at honest values. Will be pleased to show you my new line of

Wall Paper, Window Shades and Baby Carriages

Mixed Paints, Kalsomine and Linseed Oils

FRANK E. HUNT

HARDWARE DEALER.

S. A. SWANSON LAND & LOAN CO.

What it Means

to have an accurate Abstract is realized by the man who finds a flaw in his title when he wants to sell or mortgage his property. Abstracting is a specialty at this office. The work is done by experienced hands, thoroughly familiar with all the essential points and who permit nothing of importance to remain unnoticed. Only experts should be employed on your abstracting.

Best terms and lowest ratest on farm loans. List your farms with us.

HAY STACK COVERS
Save Hay and Grain
Write for prices on all kinds of Canvas goods.
AMERICAN TENT & AWNING CO.
Mention this paper. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

W. G. BROWN,
Contractor and Builder..
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota
Estimates cheerfully furnished and satisfactory work guaranteed.

"Force"

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal

the A-B-C of good health.

Boy Big and Healthy.

"My little boy was very sick and would not take any nourishment. I got a package of 'Force' and fed him on it, and am pleased to say he is thriving. I will now put him aside any box of his age, as he is big and healthy. All I feed him on is 'Force.'"
MRS. J. LINDLEY KEESE."

W—8

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papetries
Tablets
letter Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Galling Cards
Card Racks
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office . . . . . Supplies . . . . . .

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be ⅁ Satisfactory ⅁⅁⅁⅁⅁⅁

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Evening at Red Lake Falls, Minn.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, much to his dissatisfaction, now tips the scales at nearly 200 pounds. His long transcontinental journey resulted in his taking on a good deal of flesh, despite the fact that the monotony of the trip was frequently broken by long and hard horseback rides and extended tramps through the mountains.

The postoffice department has directed that on and after Oct. 1, 1903, United States postage stamps overprinted "Philippines" shall not be accepted for postage on matter mailed within the United States and United States postage stamps without Philippine overprint shall not be accepted for postage in the Philippine Islands.

MANY years ago the statisticians of the pension office made careful calculations to show the number of survivors of the Civil War for a series of years. They used as the basis of their calculations the mortality tables of the insurance companies, but were far out of the way. The old soldiers are dying off more rapidly than was expected. According to the estimate the total number of the survivors in 1962 should have been 930,380, while pension rolls show only 725,100.

A DISPATCH from Washington states President Roosevelt has agreed on the appointment of Peter Oakley and J. D. Jones as register and receiver in the new Minnesota land district, but these commissions have not been signed because the question of the location of the office has not been decided. Land Commissioner Richards will return in a few days when it will be decided whether the office is to remain at Cass Lake, as fixed in the original order, or be removed to Bemidji.

A PANAMA canal will be constructed and operated by the United States. This decision has been reached by the President after conferences with those leaders who have been prominent in canal legislation. There is no intention of abandoning the Panama project even though the canal treaty is rejected by the Colombian congress. Hope is entertained in official circles that the treaty will be ratified. No information has yet been received which convinces the President and his advisers that the treaty will be defeated. That there will be strong opposition and an attempts to levy blackmail is conceded. President Roosevelt is reported to have made a statement to William Nelson Cromwell, American representative of the French Panama Canal company, which was in effect that the United States regards Colombia's obligations as more binding than those of an ordinary treaty and cannot admit the right of the Colombian government to recede from them.

Hump Back

SCOTT'S EMULSION won't make a hump back straight, neither will it make a short leg long, but it feeds soft bone and heals diseased bone and is among the few genuine means of recovery in rickets and bone consumption.

Send for free booklet.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

THE DUTY OF THE RICH.

Gen. Geo. Angell, the noted philanthrorist and editor of that unique and meritorious periodical, Dumb Animals, makes this suggestion to capitalists who really desire to lessen conflicts between capital and labor:

1 Avoid all public display of wealth which tend to make the poor more dissatisfied with their condition.

2 Spend what you can in public charities, and when possible, make your employees interested in your business by giving them annually a share of your net profits.

3 Do to the deserving poor whenever and wherever you meet precisely what you would like to have them do to you if they were rich and you were poor.

THE TARIFF ON WHEAT.

Almost every day brings evidence of the benefit of a protective tariff, and often from unexpected sources. Last week's Red Lake Falls Courier, the most pronounced Democratic, tariff-for-revenue-only paper in the state, contains a lengthy article opposing any attempt to repeal the duty on Canadian wheat. The writer of the article in question says that Canada would be a material reduction on the price received by Minnesota wheat growers.—Lakefield Standard.

The Standard is hardly fair in imputing authorship of the article in question to the editor of the Courier. It was a signed communication, and it has always been the policy of this paper to give space to the views of its readers, whether or not they are in harmony with the convictions of the editor.

We are not prepared to believe that the removal of the tariff on wheat would accomplish the dire result predicted by our correspondent. The surplus wheat of both Canada and the United States finds a common market, and it could not affect the price one way or another, if a greater or lesser proportion of this surplus was shipped through United States ports. The price of wheat is dictated at Liverpool, and it is folly to contend that a tariff can affect the foreign market.

DIVERTING THE CLEARWATER.

Red Lake Falls is so much interested in the Clearwater river as the towns on the west of us, and therefore the following editorial from the Crookston Journal will apply with equal force as to the possibility of danger to the welfare of this city:

"The Journal is not an alarmist, but is alive to the interests of Crookston. One of the principal news items in today's issue is a telegram from Bemidji in which is outlined a plan for diverting the course of the Clearwater river in a manner that would results in its water's being turned into the Mississippi, thus cutting off from the city a large proportion of the flow of water that makes Crookston's water power available.

"This plan is merely broached as a possibility, and the Journal does not for a moment think that it will ever carry to completion, but the possibility is a dangerous one and it is important that those who have the city's interests at heart not only use the soul of their disapproval upon it, but do so in such an effectual manner as shall put the scheme of the Bemidji people to sleep for good and all.

"The matter will be brought up at the drainage convention to be held here this week, and it should be so presented that the rights of the city will be acknowledged and action taken that would insure against the diverting of the stream in the manner proposed.

"The water works company of this city is the party that is directly interested in the matter, but through it the entire city has interests at stake. The drainage of the Lost river country should be done through the Clearwater river, flowing down its natural course to the junction of the Red Lake river.

"The lumbering interests of the city would also be affected by the proposed move, and in many other ways the city is affected. A vigorous protest should be entered at once and made effective against any such contingency as that proposed."

Will Attract Favorable Attention.

Are you thin? Would you like to get pump? Tried "laughing," "wouldn't work—now take Rocky Mountain Tea —"will do the business. 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

Auction.

The undersigned will sell at public sale at his farm on section 6, Equality township, three miles northeast of Garnes on Saturday, June 27, commencing at 10 a. m., the following property to-wit: Stock: One team of work horses, seven and nine years old; twenty-three milch cows; one full-blooded Durham bull; seven three-year-old steers; twelve two-year-old heifers and steers; twenty yearling heifers and steers; seven calves. Farm machinery: One mower; one hay rake; one lumber wagon. Some household goods. Terms: All sums of $5 or under, cash; on all sums over $5 time will be given until November 1, 1903, on bankable notes bearing usual rate of interest.

ERICK IVERSON.

Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

If you don't your food does not do you much good. Kodol Dyspepsia cure is the remedy that every one should take when there is any thing wrong with the stomach. There is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind and body except by nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet or its strength will let down and disease set up. No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headach, constipation, bad breath, sour stomach, rolling, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Excursions to Boston

June 25 to 27, inclusive; also July 1 to 5, inclusive, via Nickel Plate Road. Especially low rates. Liberal return limits.

Particulars at City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St. and Auditorium Annex, Chicago.

$19.00 to Boston and Return, $19.00 with membership fee of $2.00 added, account of annual meeting of National Educational association. Tickets will be on sale via the Nickel Plate road July 2nd to 5th, inclusive, with final return limit to 12th inclusive, without being deposited with joint agent. Additional limit to return not later than September 1st can be obtained by depositing extra portion of ticket with joint agent and payment of 50c. for extension. Superior train service and excellent dining cars, via the Nickel Plate road. Everything in price from 35c to $1.00 per meal. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 111 Adams St., room 298, Chicago, for the time of departure of trains from Chicago and other detailed information. m30

Coal! Coal!!

We are ready to fill all orders for hard, soft and blacksmith coal. Keep a supply on hand at our elevator.—Thorpe Elevator Co., W. F. Spillane, manager.

Lost

The Use of Arm, Heart Trouble.

Could Not Eat, Sleep or Walk.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Entirely.

"If it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Remedies I would not be here to write this letter. Two years ago I had just what the use of my left arm was taken away, I could not sleep nights for smothering spells. I was out of work all the time and could eat nothing. I was so weak that I could not walk without support. I was a drunken man and my home doctor said he could do nothing for me. I was in so much pain I was almost wild. I could not take morphine nor opium as they made me worse. So I got to thinking about Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and the more I thought about it the more I wanted to try them. I wrote to the Dr. Miles Medical Co. for advice which I followed and I write this letter. I can say today that I am glad I did so I am a well man now; can work and eat and sleep and my arm again as well as ever. You do not know how thankful I am for these great medicines Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Nervine. I think Dr. Miles' Remedies are the best in the world, and if I should get sick again I should take the same course. The remedies also helped my daughter Vida so much that I should have written you before to thank you, but I wanted to be sure that the cure was permanent, which it now is in her case.—Mrs. Frank Loomis, Allen, Mich.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Book for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Driven to Desperation.

Living at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident resulting in burns, cuts, wounds, ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, it's the best on earth. Only 25c at W. A. Schrieter's.

Order for Hearing Proof of Will.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF RED LAKE, ss.

In Probate Court,
Special Term, June 24, 1903.

In the Matter of the Estate of John P. Benoit, deceased.

On reading and filing an instrument in writing, purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of John P. Benoit deceased, late of said County, and now filed and lodged in this Court.

And Whereas, Rosanna Car (formerly Rosanna Benoit) has petitioned this Court for the probate of said writing and for letters of administration with the said will annexed, on the ground that the said deceased died without the State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the executrix named in said last Will and Testament, and the proper person to be appointed administratrix with said will annexed, and that letters testamentary is to be issued thereon.

Now, Therefore, It is Ordered, That the proofs of said instrument and of said petition, be heard before this Court, on the 28th day of July, A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock a. m. of said day, at the probate office in the forenoon, when all persons interested may appear here, in person or by attorney of said instrument and petition.

And it is Further Ordered, That notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested by publishing this order once in each week, for three successive weeks, prior to said time of hearing, in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., the 24th day of June, A. D. 1903.

By the court,
N. W. TARRANT,
Judge of Probate.

(SEAL)
1038

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of payment of a certain mortgage dated and Tillamook Rafting Co. mortgagor, to Thomas Lowe, mortgagee, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Red Lake County, Minnesota, on the 23rd day of March A. D. 1903, at 9 o'clock A. M. and duly registered as Document No. 19,000 and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said mortgagee to Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 139, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 140, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 141, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 142, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 143, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 144, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 145, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 146, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 147, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 148, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 149, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 150, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 151, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 152, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 153, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 154, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 155, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 156, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 157, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 158, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 159, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 160, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 161, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 162, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 163, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 164, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 165, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 166, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 167, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 168, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 169, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 170, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 171, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 172, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 173, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 174, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 175, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 176, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 177, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 178, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 179, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 180, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 181, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 182, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 183, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 184, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 185, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 186, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 187, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 188, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 189, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 190, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 191, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 192, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 193, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 194, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 195, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 196, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 197, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 198, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 199, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 200, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 201, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 202, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 203, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 204, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 205, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 206, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 207, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 208, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 209, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 210, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 211, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 212, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Debenture Corporation of Scotland, Limited, by assignment dated March 20th, 1903, and recorded March 23rd, 1903, at 10 o'clock A. M. in the office of said Register of Deeds in Book "Z" of Mortgages on page 213, in the office of said Register of Deeds, and

Whereas, the said mortgage was assigned by said Thomas Lowe, Trustee for the Creditors and Deben

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN

Your eyes tested scientifically by a State Graduate Optician

Don't Neglect Your Eyes

EYES TESTED FREE

All kinds of watch repairing & Complete Line of Jewelry, Silverware, Watches, Clocks

Henry W. Anderson

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

The merry-go-round was shipped to Bemidji Monday.

Erskine will be in line with a Fourth of July celebration.

M. A. Hatten make a business trip to Grand Rapids, Minn., this week.

Will the party who borrowed my side saddle please return it?—Mrs. E. P. Marshall. 2w

T. P. Ryan, of Mapleton, Minn., was a business visitor to the city last Thursday.

Dr. N. M. Watson was a professional visitor to Crookston the fore part of the week.

Mrs. O. Mikkelson and son, Cecil, were guests of relatives at Crookston over Sunday.

W.H. Reker and family, of Crookston, visited at the home of E. H. Drevescracht Sunday.

Nels Oslet, the Erskine livery man, drove over with a bunch of traveling men Monday.

Miss Albina Lemieux went to Grand Forks this morning for a short visit with friends.

Mesdames Bressan of Crookston, are visitors at the homes of J. M. and Ed. Bray this week.

Andrew Holland, a prosperous farmer of Hill River, was doing business in the city Tuesday.

S. M. Sivertson has been at Crookston during most of the week to look after his milling interests.

Mrs. Archie McKinnon, of Crookston, is the guest of Mrs. W. P. O'Brien a few days of this week.

Mrs. Moss, of Lockhart, Minn., is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ed Enright, this week.

Rev. H. M. Green, Episcopal rector at Crookston, visited at Red Lake Falls a few hours Tuesday.

Evangelical Methodist services at the usual hours Sunday at the K. of P. hall. Sunday school at 10 a. m.

Miss Mary Erb was an over-Sunday visitor at Crookston, the guest of her friend, Miss Jessie Mullin.

C. R. Winslow, credit man of the Finch-Smith company of Crookston, was a visitor to the city Tuesday.

J. H. Paradis and wife drove to Lambert Tuesday to attend the marriage of Mr. Paradis' brother, Peter.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be held at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, July 5.

Mrs. J. E. Bray and children left this morning for Grand Forks to visit with relatives for several days.

John L. Watson, St. Paul agent for the Ed L. Healy company, is up this week with a party of landseekers.

Mrs. E. L. Healy and daughter Hazel, left Friday for a visit with friends and relatives at Marshall, Minn.

Greehough & Blake, the enterprising meat market proprietors, have purchased a handsome new delivery wagon.

Dr. H. R. Robertson and wife were over from Crookston yesterday attending the celebration and visiting friends.

Rosa Holm returned Saturday from Collegeville, where she has been attending school during the winter and spring.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

GENERAL BANKING

Does a safe and careful banking business in all branches. Pays interest on time deposits. Loans money on good security, and is prepared to give customers every accommodation consistent with good banking.

Directors:

A. F. TOUPIN, President. THEO. LABISSONIERE, Vice-President. J. A. DUPUIS, Cashier. F. J. TOUPIN, Asst. Cashier. DIRECTORS—F. J. TOUPIN, SAM. GERALD, CHAS. S. SOURDON, J. B. PAUPER, A. DUPUIS, JOSEPH PERRAULT, THEO. LABISSONIERE.

A number of the local Pythians will attend the district convention of the order to be held at Crookston this evening.

O. R. Pederson, the Thief River cigar man, was selling goods and visiting old friends here last Friday and Saturday.

Clyde J. Pryor, representing the Crookston Times, was doing business with our merchants the fore part of the week.

Ernest Purath is hauling lumber from the St. Hilaire company's sheds for a big barn to be built on his near Pearsall station.

Miss Laura Williams, of Osage, Iowa, is visiting at the home of her brother, H. P. Beuson, in Gervais township, this week.

Rev. Andrew Walker goes to Key West tomorrow to deliver an address at the Presbyterian picnic to be held at Buchanan's grove.

J. M. Iannell and Peter Kinzinger, of Washington, Ill., were shown about the country by the Gonigam Land agency this week.

The county commissioners meet July 13 in regular semi-annual session. On July 20 they meet as a county board of review.

Peter Williams who has been visiting at the Benson home in Gervais for several weeks, left Tuesday for his home at Osage, Iowa.

The following letters are advertised at the Red Lake Falls postoffice: Mrs. J. Choyke, W. C. Warren, Louis M. Nermo.

W. W. Prichard, cashier of the First National Bank at Thief River, was down Tuesday as a witness in the Connerty will contest case.

S. A. Swanson is at St. Paul this week attending the I. O. O. F. grand lodge session as a delegate of Clearwater lodge of this city.

Dr. F. F. Fletcher made a professional visit to Lambert Monday. He expects to made visits to that village every month in the future.

J. A. McDonald, general manager of the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company, was over from Crookston Tuesday to confer with Agent Tenney.

Mrs. B. P. Tubbs, who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. F. Elvidge, for several weeks past, left Tuesday for her home at Marshall, Minn.

Nels G. Otteraess and the Misses Huldah and Josie Gjestad were among St. Hilaire people who drove down to attend the ball game Sunday.

The outgoing Great Northern passenger train which formerly left this station at 3:25 now goes at 3:15, the change going into effect Monday morning.

The Crookston fire department is at outs with the city council and the members decided to disband. Just at present the city is without a fire organization of any kind.

The advertising car for Campbell Bros.' circus was in town Thursday and the billboards and windows about town show the handiwork of the gentlemen in charge.

The Surprise clothing store has a new advertisement this week telling about the new summer goods. This firm is just now offering unusual bargains in summer goods.

O. L. Holman, of Grand Forks, division surveyor for the Great Northern was in the city this week locating another sidetrack at the Red Lake Falls Milling company's plant.

Erick Iverson, of Garnes, was in the city yesterday getting supplies for his auction sale, which is to be held at his farm Saturday. Mr. Iverson is advertising a big sale of live stock.

J. P. Harren and wife returned Friday from a two weeks' visit with friends at St. Cloud, Minneapolis, and other points. Their daughter, Miss Rose, remains in St. Cloud for a longer visit.

The city board of equalization has been in session this week to review the work of Assessor Moran. Quite a number of the business men are experiencing the delights of a raise in their assessments.

Chas. N. Bourdon will hold sales of state hay lands as follows: Saturday, June 27, at Red Lake Falls; Monday, June 29, at Thief River Falls; Tuesday, June 30, at Wylie; Wednesday, July 1, at Garnes.

J. W. Lynch was in from Garnes Tuesday as a witness in the Nelson larceny case. Mr. Lynch has the contract for the Garnes ditch and says if the weather remains favorable he will have the work completed this fall.

H. E. Mussey was down from Thief River Saturday, having been subpoenaed on the Connerty will contest case. Mr. Mussey has accepted a position as foreman of the Warren Sheaf office, and leaves this week for that place.

The auction of Mrs. Deidrichson's household goods was well attended Saturday and most of the articles brought a fair price. Mrs. Deidrichson expects to leave in the near future for Grand Forks, where her mother resides.

Small grain is looking very well, in fact it has been many years since it looked better. Hay will also be a big crop. With favorable weather the balance of the season the farmers of northern Minnesota have reason to expect a "bumper" crop.

E. R. Gjernes, the Garnes merchant, was in the city yesterday looking after business matters. Mr. Gjernes left an order for job printing with THE COURIER, and says the farmers of his community are well satisfied with the crop outlook.

The premium list of the Thief River Fair association was issued this week from the office of the Thief River Press. It is an excellent job of printing, and a casual perusal of the book indicates that the fair managers will have a lot of first-class attractions.

John Clennan, of St. Croix county, Wis., is visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, J. W. Lynch, in Garnes. Mr. Clennan is a farmer, and thinks seriously of selling out and coming to this country, where he figures there are larger opportunities for the agriculturist.

Red Lake Falls will be nearly deserted on the Fourth. The larger proportion of the population will go to Thief River and St. Hilaire, while smaller parties will go to Maple Lake or to the country celebrations. Every available team in town has been engaged for the Fourth.

The report comes from Terrebonne that Rev. Fournier, of Bemidji, and formerly of Crookston, will soon be assigned the pastorate of the Terrebonne Catholic church. Father Fournier has many friends in Red Lake county who will be glad to learn that he is coming here to live.

The sun, having traveled to the highest point which he reaches upon the north of the equator, will now begin his journey to the winter side of the line. Yet summer weather is yet to come to this locality. Perhaps there is a lot of it in storage somewhere, to be released during July and August.

H.P. King and wife, of McIntosh, were guests at the home of the Courier editor Tuesday. Mr. King is editor of the Tribune at McIntosh, but expects shortly to lease his paper and start a new journal at the town of Funkley, a new town on the M. & I. extension from Blackduck.

The farmers in Minnesota this year who have planted a fair amount of potatoes will probably find themselves in luck. In the east the weather has been extremely dry and in the south floods have greatly damaged the crop. Some authorities are already predicting the dollar mark for potatoes.

O. L. Gilbers, a new settler from Iowa near Dugdale, was in the city this week after lumber to build a granary on his farm. The Red Lake Falls lumber concerns are selling lots of goods in territory belonging to other towns, which indicates that prices must be considerably lower at this place.

J. R. & R. Fortier announce a big clearance sale for the next ten days. Messrs. Fortier have rented the Lemieux building in the brick block and expect to commence moving their stock immediately after the Fourth. In the meantime goods in every line will be sold at a sacrifice in order to dispose of as much as possible before the work of removal commences.

Big Removal Sale at FORTIER'S.

About July 6, we will commence moving our stock to the Lemieux building, just north of Merchants State Bank, and in order to reduce stock as much as possible before then we are offering for the next ten days big discounts in all lines.

Everything goes at a sacrifice. We quote a few of our bargains. Haven't room for a tenth part of them. Compare these prices with those offered by other dealers and see how you can save money by buying of us while this sale is in progress.

Dry Goods.

All 20c Summer Dress Goods reduced to..... 14c

All 12½c Summer Dress Goods reduced to..... 9c

Ladies Summer Hosiery, all grades, 20 per cent off

Lace, 3 inches wide, regular price 8c, now..... 3½c

Men's Clothing.

Men's Working Hose, regular price 5c, going at.. 3½c

Men's Summer Dress Hose, 25 per cent off

Men's 69c Working Shirt.. 49c

Men's $1 Dress Shirts..... 75c

Men's 75c Dress Shirt..... 58c

Grocery Bargains.

Regular 10c Package Coffee..... 11c

Big Reductions on all other grades of Coffee.

Regular 45c Teas..... 36c

Regular 30c Teas..... 27c

Pie Peaches, regular price, 20c, now..... 14c

Dried Peaches, regular price, 10c, now..... 7c

Canned Pears, regular price, 20c, now..... 17c

Swift's Laundry Soap, regular 5 bars for 25c now... 8 for 25c

Several good grades Laundry Soap..... 10 bars for 25c

Remnants of the Shagnon grocery stock will be closed out at discounts ranging from 25 to 50 per cent.

Now is the time to get bargains, while this sale is in progress. This opportunity may not come again. We shall keep a much larger stock in the new place, and everybody is invited to call and look over our goods. Prices are always right at our place.

J.R.&R. FORTIER

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

George Lang and Bert Kelly, of Cotton wood, Lyon county, are looking over the country this week. Mr. Lang purchased a farm in Louisville last winter and expects to move on the place in September. A large number of Lyon county farmers are moving up here through the medium of the Healy agency.

John Powers, chairman of the town of Black River, was a pleasant caller at this office while in town on business Tuesday. Mr. Powers states that the crops in his vicinity are looking fine, and that the farmers have not had a finer prospect since 1899. A fine rain fell in that part of the county Saturday.

A. J. Miller of Crookston and Ira C. Richardson, J. M. Bishop, W. B. Fuller, S. Keanison and W. W. Prichard were down from Thief River Saturday in connection with the Connerty will contest case. As the train was several hours late the case was postponed until Tuesday when all of them made another trip to this city.

Mike Ringdahl, a Garnes township ditcher, was arrested Monday on the charge of stealing a pocketbook containing about $15 from Nels Nelson, the Garnes blacksmith. Mr. Ringdahl plead guilty in Squire Toupin's court and was given a nominal fine. The trouble seems to have originated entirely from the use of too much firewater.

Marriage licenses have been issued by Clerk Perrault as follows during the past week: Chas. J. Alexander and Elizabeth Patenick, both of Thief River Falls; Pierre G. Paradis of St. Hilaire and Marie Lea Plante of Lambert; Arthur Mason and Eugenia Genereux, both of Terrebonne; Joseph Lacourciere and Marie Dullaire, both of Lambert.

A. Onstad, formerly leader of the St. Olaf's college band at Northfield, arrived yesterday to accept a position as leader of the Red Lake Falls band. Mr. Onstad is vouched for as being a thorough musician and an experienced and competent teacher. Under his tuteluge the band may be expected to continue the good work accomplished under Prof. Smith.

The Emardville creamery made a shipment of butter to New York Tuesday. From returns of former shipments it appears that the product of this creamery is given the top of the market, and the farmers are getting good pay for their milk. The last shipment sold at 23 cents, and on this basis the patrons net about 18 cents per pound on the butter manufactured.

The assessors have been bringing in their returns to the county auditor's office this week. In nearly every case the assessments are considerably increased over last year. The assessment of Thief River Falls is $712,246, which is not changed in a single particular by the city board of review. The assessment of that city last year after the various boards of review finished their work was $125,140.

HERE'S HEALTH FOR YOU.

A. L. REICHERT, Red Lake Falls; W. A. SCHREITER, Red Lake Falls; IMPERIAL DRUG CO., St. Hilaire.

Harry Whetchurch, adjuster and assistant state agent of the Continental Insurance company, was in the city this week to adjust the Luxenberger loss in Lake Pleasant township. While here Mr. Whetchurch appointed Lewis & Higbotham farm agents here for his company and as it is one of the oldest and most reliable farm agencies in the country it will doubtless secure a good business from Red Lake county.

The invincible Red Lake Falls baseballists again took the St. Hilaire boys in tow last Sunday to the tune of 5 to 3. Not one of the scores made by St. Hilaire was earned. The local team is certainly one of the best in this part of the state outside of the professionals. During the season they have played seven or eight games and have not lost a single one of them. The next game will be with St. Hilaire at that place on the afternoon of July 4.

Peter G. Paradis, a well known citizen of St. Hilaire, was married Tuesday morning to Miss Marie L. Plant, at the Lambert Catholic church, Rev. Father Roy officiating. Breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents in Lambert township, and the happy couple started at once for St. Hilaire, where they will go to housekeeping. Both the bride and groom are popular young people and they will have the well wishes of a host of friends.

An incident occurred in one of our country schools that goes to show that the averago youth knows no such word as impossible. An arithmetic class was wrestling with subtraction and the teacher was explaining that the thing subtracted must be of the same kind or denomination as the thing subtracted from. She said you cannot take five peaches from six apples; five lemons from six oranges, etc., when up went a hand from a boy in the class. "What is it, Johnnie?" said the teacher. "Please, can't you take five quarts of milk from six cows?" The teacher collapsed.

Lewis Alstead has just completed a new residence on the north side of town.

Prof. Clint O. Smith made his last visit to Red Lake Falls this week in his capacity as leader of the band. Mr. Smith has demonstrated his ability as a teacher, for there are few country bands that have made more rapid progress than the one in our city, and a large share of the progress belongs to the instructor. He has made many friends here who will always welcome his return.

The Moorhead Independent gives this good advice: "Farmers should think twice before contracting potatoes for fall delivery to the fellows who are swarming through the country buying the spuds. They are only offering 25 cents per bushel, and if the price falls Mr. Potato Buyer will be an unknown quantity. On the other hand he will be very much in evidence if the price advances. It is a better plan for the farmer to take the chances himself and be well on hand when the buying begins. Better wait until your potatoes are dug before you sell them."

Willmar Tribune: Campbell Bros. exhibited in Willmar Thursday to a large patronage. The big tents were pitched near the stockyards, in the west part of the city, and the crowd kept streaming to the grounds throughout the day to see the sights. To the credit of the Campbell Bros, it can be stated that they allowed no fakirs to follow them and consequently people were not bored in that line. The day passed off very nicely, and the chief of police reports that no trouble was experienced by any of the officers of the law during that day. The performance by the circus people was very satisfactory. Although Campbell Bros. do not claim to have the biggest circus in the world, yet their exhibit here was fully as good as some of those who make this claim. The morning parade included two good bands and among the many interesting features was a steam calliope.

Sign of the Four...

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

CHAPTER V.

THE TRAGEDY OF PONDICHERRY LODGE.

It was nearly eleven o'clock when we reached this final stage of our night's adventures. We had left the damp fog of the great city behind us, and the night was fairly fine. A warm wind blew from the westward, and heavy clouds moved slowly across the sky, with half a moon peering occasionally through the rifts. It was clear enough to see for some distance, but Thaddeus Sholto took down one of the side-lamps from the carriage to give us a better light upon our way.

Pondicherry lodge stood in its own grounds, and was girt round with a very high stone wall topped with broken glass. A single narrow iron-clamped door formed the only means of entrance. On this our guide knocked with a peculiar postman-like rat-tat.

"Who is there?" cried a gruff voice from within.

"It is I, McMurdo. You surely know my knock by this time."

There was a grumbling sound and a clanking and jarring of keys. The door swung heavily back, and a short, deep-chested man stood in the opening with the yellow light of the lantern shining upon his protruded face and twinkling, distrustful eyes.

"That you, Mr. Thaddeus? But who are the others? I had no orders about them from my master."

"No, McMurdo? You surprise me! I told my brother last night that I should bring some friends."

"He hasn't been out o' his room to-day, Mr. Thaddeus, and I have no orders. You know very well that I must stick to regulations. I can let you in, but your friends they'll have to stop where they are."

This was an unexpected obstacle. Thaddeus Sholto looked about him in a perplexed and helpless manner. "This is too bad of you, McMurdo!" he said. "If I guarantee them, that is enough for you. They are my friends, you know, and—"

"Very sorry, Mr. Thaddeus," said the porter, inexorably, "but my first duty is my master's orders. You know very well that I must stick to regulations. If you let you in, but your friends they can just stop where they are."

This was an unexpected obstacle. Thaddeus Sholto looked about him in a perplexed and helpless manner. "This is too bad of you, McMurdo!" he said. "If I guarantee them, that is enough for you. They are my friends, you know, and—"

"Very sorry, Mr. Thaddeus," said the porter, inexorably, "but my first duty is my master's orders. You know very well that I must stick to regulations. If you let you in, but your friends they can just stop where they are."

"Oh, yes, you do, McMurdo," cried Sherlock Holmes, genially. "I don't think you can have forgotten me. Don't you remember the amateur who fought three rounds with you at Alison's rooms on the night of your benefit four years back?"

"Not Mr. Sherlock Holmes!" roared the prize fighter. "God's truth! how could I have mistook you? If instead o' standin' there so quiet you had just stepped up and given me that cross left o' yours under the jaw, I'd he'known you without a question. Ah, you're one that has wasted your gifts, you have! You might have aimed high, if you had joined the Ring."

"You see, Watson, if all else fails me I have still one of the scientific professions open to me," said Holmes, laughing. "Our friend won't keep us out in the cold now, I am sure."

"In you come, sir, in you come—you and your friends," he answered. "Very sorry, Mr. Thaddeus, but orders are very strict. Had to be certain of your friends before I let them in."

Inside, a gravel path wound through desolate grounds to a huge clump of a house, square and prosaic, all plunged in shadow save where a moonbeam struck one corner and glimmered in a pearly window. The vast size of the building, with its gloom and its deathly silence, struck a chill to the heart. Even Thaddeus Sholto seemed ill at ease, and the lantern quivered and rattled in his clasp.

"I cannot understand it," he said. "There must be some mistake. I distinctly told Bartholomew that we should be back, and yet there is no light in his window. I do not know what to make of it."

"Does he always guard the premises in this way?" asked Holmes.

"Yes; he has followed my father's custom. He was the favorite son, you know, and I sometimes think that my father may have told him more than he ever told me. That is Bartholomew's window up there where the moonshine strikes. It is quite bright, but there is no light from within, I declare."

"None," said Holmes. "But I see the glint of a light in that little window beside the door."

"Ah, that is the housekeeper's room. That is where old Mrs. Bernstone sits. She can tell us all about it. But perhaps you would not mind waiting here for a minute or two, for if we all go in together, and she has no word of our coming, she may be alarmed. But hush! What is that?"

He held up the lantern, and his hand shook until the circles of light flickered and wavered all round us. Miss Morstan seized my wrist, and we all stood with thumping hearts, straining our ears. From the great black house there sounded through the silent night the saddest and most mournful of sounds, the shrill, broken whimpering of a frightened woman.

"It is Mrs. Bernstone," said Sholto. "She is the only woman in the house. Wait here. I shall be back in a moment." He hurried for the door, and knocked in his peculiar way. We could see a tall old woman admit him and sway with pleasure at the very sight of him.

"Oh, Mr. Thaddeus, sir, I am so glad you have come! I am so glad you have come. Mr. Thaddeus, sir!" We heard her reiterated rejoicings until the door was closed and her voice died away into a muffled monotone.

Our guide had left us the lantern. Holmes swung it slowly round, and peered keenly at the house, and at the great rubbish heaps which cumbered the grounds. Miss Morstan and I stood together, and her hand was in mine. A wondrous subtle thing is love, for here were we two who had never seen each other before that day, between whom no word or even look of affection had ever passed, and yet now in hour of trouble our hands instinctively sought for comfort. I have marveled at it since, but at the time it seemed the most natural thing that I should put out to her so, and, as she has often told me, there was in her also the instinct to turn to me for comfort and protection. So we stood hand in hand, like two children, and there was peace in our hearts for all the dark things that surrounded us.

HE HELD UP THE LANTERN.

"What a strange place!" she said, looking around.

"It looks as though all the moles in England had been let loose in it. I have seen something of the sort on the side of a hill near Ballarat, where the prospectors had been at work."

"And from the same cause," said Holmes. "These are the traces of treasure-seekers. You must remember that they were six years looking for it. No wonder that the ground looks like a graveplot."

At that moment the door burst open, and Thaddeus Sholto came running out, with his hands thrown forward and terror in his eyes.

"There is something amiss with Bartholomew," he cried. "I am frightened! My nerves cannot stand it." He was, indeed, half distracted with fear, and his twitching, feeble face, peeping out from the great rabbinic collar, had the helpless, appealing expression of a terrified child.

"Come into the house," said Holmes, in his crisp, firm way.

"Yes, do!" pleaded Thaddeus Sholto. "I really do not feel equal to giving directions."

We all followed him into the housekeeper's room, which stood upon the left-hand side of the passage. The old woman was pacing up and down with a scared look and restless, picking fingers, but the sight of Miss Morstan appeared to have a soothing effect upon her.

"God bless your sweet calm face!" she cried, with a hysterical sob. "It does me good to see you. Oh, but I have been sorely put this night!"

Our companion patted her thin, workworn hand, and murmured some few words of kindly womanly comfort which brought the color back into the housekeeper's bloodless cheeks.

"Master has locked himself in and will not answer me," she explained. "All day I have waited to hear from him, for he often likes to be alone; but an hour ago I feared that something was amiss, so I went up and peeped through the keyhole. I must go up, Mr. Thaddeus—you must go up and look for yourself. I have seen Mr. Bartholomew angry and I have seen him cruel, but never saw him like this before. I'll not stay in the house another hour. I'll leave my things and go down to my sister's, Mrs. Cox, at Norwood."

Sherlock Holmes took the lamp and led the way, for Thaddeus Sholto's teeth were chattering in his head. So hysterical was he that I had to pass my hand under his arm as we went up the stairs, for his knees were trembling under him. Twice as we ascended Holmes whipped his knife out of his pocket and carefully examined marks which appeared to me to be mere shapeless smudges of dust upon the cocoa-nut matting which served as a carpet. He walked slowly from step to step, holding the lamp low, and shooting keen glances to right and left. Miss Morstan had remained below with the frightened housekeeper.

The third flight of stairs ended in a straight passage of some length, with a great picture in Indian tapestry upon the right of it and three doors upon the left. Holmes advanced along it in the same slow and methodical way, while we kept close at his heels, with our long black shadows stretching before us. The second door was the one we wanted. Holmes knocked without receiving any answer, and then tried to turn the handle and force it open. It was locked on the inside, however, and by a broad and powerful bolt, as we could see when we set our lamp up against it. The key being turned, however, the hole was not entirely closed. Sherlock Holmes bent down to it, and in a stantly rose again with a sharp intaking of the breath.

"There is something devilish in this, Watson," said he, more moved than I had ever before seen him. "What do you make of it?"

I stooped to the hole, and recoiled in horror. Moonlight was streaming into the room, and it was bright with a vague and shifty radiance. Looking straight at me, and suspended, as it were, in the air, for all beneath was in shadow, there hung a face—the very face of our companion Thaddeus. There was the same high, shining head, the same circular bristle of red hair, the same bloodless countenance. The features were set, however, in a horrible smile, a fixed and unnatural grin, which in that still and moonlit room was more jarring to the nerves than any scowl or contortion. So like was the face to that of our little friend that I looked round at him to make sure that he was indeed with us. Then I recalled to mind that he had mentioned to us that his brother and he were twins.

"This is terrible!" I said to Holmes. "What is to be done?"

"The door must come down," he answered, and, springing against it, he cast all his weight upon the lock. It creaked and groaned, but did not yield. Together we flung ourselves upon it once more, and this time it gave way with a sudden snap, and we found ourselves within Bartholomew Sholto's slumber.

It appeared to have been fitted up as a chemical laboratory. A double line of glass-stoppered bottles was drawn up upon the wall opposite the door, and the table was littered over with Bunsen burners, test tubes and retorts. In the corners stood carboys of acid in wicker baskets. One of these appeared to leak or to have been broken, for a stream of discolored liquid had trickled out from it, and the air was heavy with a peculiarly pungent acrid smell. A set of steps stood at one side of the room, in the midst of a litter of bath and plaster, and above them there was an opening in the ceiling large enough for a man to pass through. At the foot of the steps a long coil of rope was thrown carelessly together.

By the table, in a wooden arm-chair, the master of the house was seated all in a heap, with his head sunk upon his knees, stretched out in front of him. His posture was so strange, and suggested so much that was horrible, that I stood gazing at him in a paralysis of terror. Then I saw that his head was sunk so low that his forehead rested upon the table. His right arm hung down by his side, and his fingers had come to rest in a pool of water. His left was thrown straight out behind him, and in it he clutched a torn piece of paper. Over his left shoulder a pair of pince-nez hung sideways from their cord. Without touching him it was clear that he was dead, and that he had been for some time.

Sherlock Holmes walked slowly round the room, raising his lamp high and casting his keen eyes upon the floor, the table, the chemicals, and finally upon the dead man. He had taken out his lens and was using it rapidly and systematically in every direction.

"Footmarks there are none," said he, "but there are certainly abundant traces of some one having been here. Why, bless me if there isn't a cigar-end actually smouldering on the floor! Ah, I might have known it! Watson, you remember that I said that there was only one man who could have done it, and that he has left his mark. Here it is, between the door and the body. Have you your tobacco pouch still?"

I took it from my pocket and handed it to him.

"It is an Arcadia mixture, is it not? Well, we have certainly got valuable traces. Have you finished your examination of the paper which you found in the dead man's hand?"

"I have merely glanced at it. It is some document connected with business, apparently. Here it is."

He spread it out upon the table before him, and bent over it, while I looked across his shoulder. It was headed "Agra Treasure," and contained a long series of figures, which appeared to refer to some calculations as to the division of property.

"Nothing more than that?" he asked, as he refolded it.

"Nothing of importance. Only that the Agra treasure was divided in the proportion of three to Major Sholto, two to Mrs. Morstan, and one each to the four Indians who had charge of the treasure. Why, what is the matter?"

He had started violently, and his face had assumed a very perturbed expression. "Surely the Agra treasure which we have heard so much of is not the property of Mrs. Morstan?"

"Certainly. She is the daughter of one of the officers, and as good a claim to it as the others."

"Then we have been working very hard all day and half the night for the benefit of a young woman who will marry a penniless man. Is that not so?"

"Exactly. But as she is the only woman in England who is entitled to a share, I don't see that we could have done otherwise."

Sherlock Holmes shook his head like a man who is in doubt. "Well, well," said he, at last, "it is too late to alter it now. Your explanation is as good as any other. But I am much mistaken if there is not a good deal more behind."

He had picked up the paper, and was looking at it with the utmost attention. Suddenly he sprang to his feet, and thrust it into his pocket.

"Come, Watson," said he, "I have a little investigation to make. Just ask Miss Morstan to step this way. Sit down, madam, and try to tell us what you can remember."

I went out and delivered your message. Then I rejoined Holmes, who was down on his knees in front of the door, with a candle and a powerful magnifying lens which formed part of his professional outfit.

"I have found out all that can be found out," said he, as I entered, "and now we must leave the matter in the hands of the police. I have written to Scotland Yard, and I expect that Jones will be here before long. I should like to have a few words with you, madam, before we give information of our discovery. Can you tell me anything which will assist us to find the murderer of your father?"

"I can tell you everything," she answered, "for I have nothing to conceal. Poor father's one fear was lest he should be charged with the murder of Arthur Morstan, and he would have been had it not been for Thaddeus Sholto. Then he was terribly afraid of assassination. He always thought that he was being followed. He used to start at shadows. Twice I remember he made me change the blinds because he thought he saw a face looking in at the window. He was greatly troubled at the arrival of the Indians from Pondicherry, and the letter which you have there disturbed him even more. I cannot tell you anything more than that, but I shall be most happy to do so if I can be of assistance."

"Thank you," said Holmes, bowing. "Your statement is very clear and concise. Now, Watson, I am sure that you would like some refreshment before we start upon our journey."

"Our journey!"

"Yes; we must follow up the clue. Miss Morstan, you will be of the greatest assistance to us in the matter. Would you mind sitting in the corner of the cab, for Watson is a heavy weight? Now, Watson, I am ready at any time."

I was not sorry to find myself in the open air once more. The sight of poor Bartholomew Sholto's distorted face had given me a shock which I was long in recovering from. I remembered that I had once thought that I should like to see a little more of the terrible and mysterious side of life. Well, my wish was certainly gratified. I relapsed into a state of intense depression as I reflected upon the strange things which had happened. Even the most callous criminal might have relented at the sight of the helpless, inoffensive creature whom we had just seen. I was silent as we drove along, while Holmes was absorbed in the study of the paper which he had taken from the dead man's hand.

The night was fairly fine, but it grew colder as we advanced. Soon we passed the last straggling villas and made our way through dreary regions of sordid brick and mortar, where the lamps glimmered upon long lines of dripping causeways. Not a soul nor a wheel did we meet in all that dismal stretch. Gradually, however, as we continued our journey, the air grew fresher, and the houses more scattered. Long symmetrical lines of villas gave place to irregular cottages, and these in turn to small detached farmhouses, with occasional barns and wayside public houses. Finally, as the last gleam of the setting sun faded away in the west, we found ourselves in the middle of the country, with hedges on either side of us and fields stretching away into misty distances.

Holmes had been consulting a map of London which he had taken from the pocket of the cab, and he threw it down with a sigh of impatience as the last houses vanished behind us.

"Watson," said he, "I have been cursing my own blindness. I ought to have known that the only place for disposing of a body in such a case as this would be the river. Every other point is commanded and practically impossible. Of course, the current would be the very way that I should have chosen myself. We have certainly lost a valuable clue through my stupidity."

"I am sure that you will not blame yourself," said Miss Morstan, warmly.

"I should think not, indeed. Why, the blame is as much mine as yours. But we have certainly lost a good deal through my failing to grasp the importance of the fact that the wooden-legged man had a companion. Had we known that, we should have had two parties of people to look for instead of one. Now, I am afraid that it is too late. Too late!"

"Here is a constable," I said, as a burly form loomed up in the misty distance.

"Shall I call him?"

"By all means. Ah, constable, have you seen anyone pass this way?"

"Not a soul, sir, except the doctor's gig."

"Who is the doctor?"

"Dr. Kemp, of Upper Norwood."

"Thank you. Good-night. Now, Watson, we will see what we can do. Two people have passed since the affair occurred, and they may have noticed something. Let us try the road side."

He walked his horse slowly along the left-hand pathway, and I followed on the right, while the constable kept in the middle. We had gone about a quarter of a mile in this way when Holmes gave a cry of satisfaction. Something black lay in a heap upon the white surface of the road, and we all three hurried up to see what it might be. To my surprise it proved to be a horse, and, to my still greater surprise, as we approached it we could hear the sound of a dog howling somewhere close at hand. Holmes dropped on his knees and struck a match, by the light of which we saw that the animal had been harnessed. A few yards off, in the direction of London, a wheel was broken short off, and lay in the road before it. The dog howled and howled from the shadows.

"Why, it's Toby!" cried Holmes. "Whose cart was he in? Why, I do believe—"

He ran to the head of the horse, and held the match to the bit. The creature was certainly well known to us. It was the property of our friend the Baker Street irregular.

"Here's a business!" said Holmes. "Our own little friend bolted with the treasure. Here's the cart, sure enough, broken short off where the driver was thrown out. Where is he, I wonder? At any rate, we owe it to the dog to see what we can do for him. Whoa, there, whoa! Steady, then! Now, if he has gone lame we'll be justified in—Ah, I thought so! Down on your knees, Watson, and look at the near fore-leg. Gently, now! Why, it's our friend, sure enough!"

Sure enough it was. The little man lay senseless in the middle of the road, and it was only after some minutes of determined efforts that we succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. He proved to have received a severe concussion of the brain, besides a broken collar-bone, and it was clear that he could throw no light upon the cause of the accident. All he could tell us was that he had been driving in a horse and cart which had been given him at a livery stable, when a man had come out from a side street and had driven off with the cart, calling to him that he was driving without a light. He had thought little of this at the time, but had naturally done so more when he found himself overturned in the road. He was clearly unable to remember what sort of man this was who had robbed him of his property.

There was no sign of the driver, so Holmes and I had no alternative but to take the little man home in the cart with us, while the constable led the horse. We had to lift the poor creature very carefully, for he groaned with pain when we touched his left side. Indeed, it was evident that he had suffered severely. Holmes's face was very grim as he drove along, and he relapsed frequently into the most profound reverie. Miss Morstan had taken refuge in the cab, and I walked at the horse's head, so that we were able to converse.

"Well, we have certainly had one piece of luck," said Holmes. "I mean, of course, that we have managed to secure Toby. Apart from that, I cannot congratulate myself upon the results of the evening. Our friend with the wooden leg is a clever fellow, and he has got clear away from us. Then, besides, there is a confederate at large, who is probably a good deal more dangerous than the man we have just arrested. I am bound to say that I have had a very unsatisfactory night's work."

"You have certainly had a great deal of trouble," she answered, with a smile.

"Oh, that is part of the game. I am only too glad to have had your company. Even if we have failed it is some consolation to have shared our adventures. And now I am afraid that we must leave you to your fate, for this is your station, if I am not mistaken."

By this time we had arrived at the little country station, and had aroused the sleepy station-master and his men. Holmes and I carried the wounded man into the waiting-room, and sent off a telegram on his behalf. Then we waited on the platform until the London train arrived.

"I shall have to remain over to look after this unfortunate man," said Holmes, "for I have no doubt that the people here will be glad to communicate with his friends. I shall be back by midday, if you can manage to look after Toby. Then we shall drive round to Baker Street and see if we can't hit upon some clue as to the whereabouts of our friend with the wooden leg."

We were as good as our word, for Miss Morstan was anxious to get back to her pupils, and Holmes was as anxious to be back to his chemical researches. We found Toby sitting very mournfully in the waiting-room, and the little man was progressing favorably. Holmes left a message that inquiries were to be made about the cart, and we were about to depart when the station-master begged to have a word with us.

"We have had a telegram from Upper Norwood," said he, "asking us to detain any one who answered to the description of the man we have here. As he seems to be alone in the world, I don't see what charge we can make, but the description tallies in every way with the man himself."

"Very much to the point," said Holmes, with a wink to me. "Well, I am sorry to leave you in such a difficulty, but you see that it is impossible for us to remain."

"Only one word, Mr. Holmes," said the station-master, as we walked away. "The man is an old rascal, if ever there was one, and has been in jail before now. His name is Jonathan Small."

Holmes whistled. "Thank you for the information," said he. "Come, Watson, we have no further business here."

"What a snuffy, red-headed, commonplace little chap he is!" I remarked, as we drove off.

"Ah, you think so?" said Holmes, with a chuckle. "Well, I am glad of it."

"Why?"

"Because I have a theory of my own about him."

"And that is—?"

"That he is the very man we are looking for."

"But the description?"

"Oh, confound the description! Here are we, three men, with a thoroughly good working hypothesis, and yet we are groping about in the dark for want of a little data. Now, I am convinced that we shall find that we have got the right man."

"But the man with the wooden leg?"

"Is a fiction. There was no wooden leg."

"But the tracks in the clay?"

"He used it to give a false clue, of course. Why, you don't suppose that a wooden leg could have kicked a hole like that? Why, it would have snapped off short. Then, again, there was only one man in it, and I should be inclined to think that he was a sailor. I noticed a good deal of tattoo work upon his chest, and I have a fancy for reading the hands of seamen. Then, again, he had a piece of sticking-plaster behind his ear, and there was a smell of strong tincture of benzoin in the room. All these point in one direction."

"You are certainly very clever at piecing facts together," I said, admiringly.

"Well, it is my profession," he answered, laughing. "Like the conjurer, I don't like to show all the machinery. Just sit down in that chair, and try if you can amuse yourself for a few hours. Have a cigar, and don't disturb me unless you have a new fact to work upon."

I knew that when he was in one of his reticent moods it was best to leave him alone, for his clear, incisive mind was past all praise when it was engaged upon a problem. I therefore sat down in the window-seat and opened the morning paper. My eyes fell upon a heading which was of sufficient interest to make me read it through twice. It was as follows:

"A CURIOUS STORY.—Some excitement has been caused in Streatham by the discovery of a skeleton in the house on the corner of Vine Lane and the Upper Road. The house, which is a large detached building, has been untenanted for some months, and the tenants have been expected from day to day. Yesterday, however, the charwoman, who comes in every morning to make things tidy, found that the place had been entered during the night, and that a considerable amount of rubbish had been thrown into the front garden. The police were at once communicated with, and on examining the premises they found a human skeleton in a state of extreme decomposition. As the body has apparently been there for some months, however, the officials do not anticipate that any further discoveries will be made. The deceased was probably a victim of the medical student who at one time occupied the house, and who has since left the country. He is supposed to have taken away the body of a patient, and to have buried it in the garden. The matter is being investigated by the police, and it is probable that some arrests will be made before evening."

"Hullo!" I cried, as I finished this remarkable paragraph, "this is a bad business!"

"Yes," said Holmes, from behind his paper, "it would have been better if the man had been left alone."

"I was not thinking of the man. I was thinking of the unfortunate medical student who has lost his skeleton."

"Oh, I don't know that he is to be pitied. He has managed to secure a very handsome one. I should be glad to have as good myself."

"But the man with the wooden leg?"

"Well, he is certainly in a fix. Any one who helps him to escape will find himself in a queer predicament. Hullo, Watson, what's the matter?"

I had sprung up in my chair, and every particle of color had, I dare say, left my face. A horrible idea had flashed into my mind. Suppose that this were the end of the famous Agra treasure, and that Jonathan Small was the man who had entered the house! The details of the affair were exactly what might be expected. He would have known where to look for the treasure, and would have every facility for finding it. Then, possibly, he had quarreled with his companion, and had murdered him. Nothing could be more likely. And the body—what a ghastly corroboration of my theory—the body was exactly what I should have expected to find. I was so absorbed in my new discovery that I hardly noticed that Holmes had risen from his chair, and was standing beside me until he spoke.

"Well, you are certainly very much excited about it," he said, with a smile. "What is the matter?"

"Everything," I cried, jumping up from my chair and pacing up and down in my agitation. "Pray don't interrupt me. You have worked it out so admirably that I should be sorry to have you disturbed."

"Then you will not mind my reading the paper?" he asked, with a sarcastic smile.

I could only groan in reply. He picked it up from the floor, where I had thrown it, and settled himself down to it.

"Hullo!" he cried, suddenly, in a most animated voice. "This is very important. Why did you not tell me that you had read it?"

"I could not bring myself to do it," I answered, reproachfully. "I am sure that you have work enough on hand without troubling yourself about my little affairs."

"Little affairs!" said he. "Why, my dear Watson, you have actually hit upon the very point which has escaped me. I should be sorry indeed to miss your little affairs. Ah, here is a cab coming down the road. Is it yours?"

"Yes, I suppose it is. It is my brother's cab."

"Then you had better put on your hat and come out. I fancy that we shall have to go for a drive. Here, I'll write the address for you. Don't look so scared. It will be time enough to be anxious when we find that we cannot get on without you. Ah, there is the window open. Put on your hat, and come down."

I was completely puzzled by the new development, but I knew that it was useless to ask questions. Holmes was too much absorbed in his own thoughts to pay any attention to mine. I therefore hastened to my room, and prepared for the journey. When I came down Holmes was pacing impatiently up and down the pavement, with his hands thrust into his pockets, and his head sunk upon his chest. He had already called the cab, which was standing before the door.

"The case assumes a more serious aspect," he said, as I appeared. "Upon reflection I have come to the conclusion that I cannot undertake to go alone. I have decided that you are the most fitted for my companion, as you have shown an interest in the matter. Should we find that we have a tough customer to deal with, I should be in a queer fix if you were not there to back me up. Have you your pistol?"

I tapped my hip pocket.

"Then we had best be off. Just tell the cabman to stop at a telegraph office as we pass, and I will send a wire to Scotland Yard."

We stopped at the office which we had passed in the fog upon our way to Pondicherry lodge, and Holmes sent off his telegram. Then he relapsed into a state of profound depression, from which he did not emerge during the long drive which followed. He had sunk his head upon his chest, and I had no means of knowing what his thoughts were, save that he frequently muttered to himself and shook his head. I was myself very curious as to the meaning of the visit which we were about to make to the unknown Baker Street irregular, but I knew that it was best to leave him undisturbed.

We had driven for nearly two hours, and were entering into a network of streets which lay to the south of the river, when Holmes suddenly roused himself from his reverie.

"Have you your pistol?" he asked.

"I have it in my hip pocket."

"Then we had best be ready for action. We are about to play our last card, and I am afraid that it will be a desperate game. Ah, I thought so!" he added, as I drew out the weapon. "Your revolver is at full cock. Put it back in your pocket, and do not draw it unless I give the word. Now, cabman, that will do. Pull up at the next lamp."

We had reached a part of London which was as strange to me as it was unsavory to my companion. Long lines of dull brick houses, interspersed with gin palaces and brilliantly lighted corner public houses, extended in every direction. Then came rows of two-storied villas, each with a fronting of miniature garden, and then again interminable lines of new shops and gaudy gin palaces. Finally we drew up at the end of a row of particularly dismal houses, where a single lamp projected over the door of a corner public house. Holmes sprang out, and I followed his example.

"Number three, Pondicherry Lodge, is down this side street, is it not?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," said the driver.

"You can wait. Here is your fare. Now, Watson, if you will kindly follow me."

He walked swiftly down the side street, and then halted before a large, dilapidated house, the windows of which were all closed. Holmes peered keenly at the door, and then, stepping back, threw the light of the lantern upon it.

"Look at that!" he said.

Two dark stains upon the well-whitened surface of the door were clearly visible in the center of the light thrown by the lantern.

"What are they?" I asked, in a husky voice.

"Footmarks there are none," said Holmes, "but there are certainly abundant traces of some one having been here. Why, bless me if there isn't a cigar-end actually smouldering on the floor! Ah, I might have known it! Watson, you remember that I said that there was only one man who could have done it, and that he has left his mark. Here it is, between the door and the body. Have you your tobacco pouch still?"

I took it from my pocket and handed it to him.

"It is an Arcadia mixture, is it not? Well, we have certainly got valuable traces. Have you finished your examination of the paper which you found in the dead man's hand?"

"I have merely glanced at it. It is some document connected with business, apparently. Here it is."

He spread it out upon the table before him, and bent over it, while I looked across his shoulder. It was headed "Agra Treasure," and contained a long series of figures, which appeared to refer to some calculations as to the division of property.

"Nothing more than that?" he asked, as he refolded it.

"Nothing of importance. Only that the Agra treasure was divided in the proportion of three to Major Sholto, two to Mrs. Morstan, and one each to the four Indians who had charge of the treasure. Why, what is the matter?"

He had started violently, and his face had assumed a very perturbed expression. "Surely the Agra treasure which we have heard so much of is not the property of Mrs. Morstan?"

"Certainly. She is the daughter of one of the officers, and as good a claim to it as the others."

"Then we have been working very hard all day and half the night for the benefit of a young woman who will marry a penniless man. Is that not so?"

"Exactly. But as she is the only woman in England who is entitled to a share, I don't see that we could have done otherwise."

Sherlock Holmes shook his head like a man who is in doubt. "Well, well," said he, at last, "it is too late to alter it now. Your explanation is as good as any other. But I am much mistaken if there is not a good deal more behind."

He had picked up the paper, and was looking at it with the utmost attention. Suddenly he sprang to his feet, and thrust it into his pocket.

"Come, Watson," said he, "I have a little investigation to make. Just ask Miss Morstan to step this way. Sit down, madam, and try to tell us what you can remember."

I went out and delivered your message. Then I rejoined Holmes, who was down on his knees in front of the door, with a candle and a powerful magnifying lens which formed part of his professional outfit.

"I have found out all that can be found out," said he, as I entered, "and now we must leave the matter in the hands of the police. I have written to Scotland Yard, and I expect that Jones will be here before long. I should like to have a few words with you, madam, before we give information of our discovery. Can you tell me anything which will assist us to find the murderer of your father?"

"I can tell you everything," she answered, "for I have nothing to conceal. Poor father's one fear was lest he should be charged with the murder of Arthur Morstan, and he would have been had it not been for Thaddeus Sholto. Then he was terribly afraid of assassination. He always thought that he was being followed. He used to start at shadows. Twice I remember he made me change the blinds because he thought he saw a face looking in at the window. He was greatly troubled at the arrival of the Indians from Pondicherry, and the letter which you have there disturbed him even more. I cannot tell you anything more than that, but I shall be most happy to do so if I can be of assistance."

"Thank you," said Holmes, bowing. "Your statement is very clear and concise. Now, Watson, I am sure that you would like some refreshment before we start upon our journey."

"Our journey!"

"Yes; we must follow up the clue. Miss Morstan, you will be of the greatest assistance to us in the matter. Would you mind sitting in the corner of the cab, for Watson is a heavy weight? Now, Watson, I am ready at any time."

I was not sorry to find myself in the open air once more. The sight of poor Bartholomew Sholto's distorted face had given me a shock which I was long in recovering from. I remembered that I had once thought that I should like to see a little more of the terrible and mysterious side of life. Well, my wish was certainly gratified. I relapsed into a state of intense depression as I reflected upon the strange things which had happened. Even the most callous criminal might have relented at the sight of the helpless, inoffensive creature whom we had just seen. I was silent as we drove along, while Holmes was absorbed in the study of the paper which he had taken from the pocket of the dead man's hand.

The night was fairly fine, but it grew colder as we advanced. Soon we passed the last straggling villas and made our way through dreary regions of sordid brick and mortar, where the lamps glimmered upon long lines of dripping causeways. Not a soul nor a wheel did we meet in all that dismal stretch. Gradually, however, as we continued our journey, the air grew fresher, and the houses more scattered. Long symmetrical lines of villas gave place to irregular cottages, and these in turn to small detached farmhouses, with occasional barns and wayside public houses. Finally, as the last gleam of the setting sun faded away in the west, we found ourselves in the middle of the country, with hedges on either side of us and fields stretching away into misty distances.

Holmes had been consulting a map of London which he had taken from the pocket of the cab, and he threw it down with a sigh of impatience as the last houses vanished behind us.

"Watson," said he, "I have been cursing my own blindness. I ought to have known that the only place for disposing of a body in such a case as this would be the river. Every other point is commanded and practically impossible. Of course, the current would be the very way that I should have chosen myself. We have certainly lost a valuable clue through my stupidity."

"I am sure that you will not blame yourself," said Miss Morstan, warmly.

"I should think not, indeed. Why, the blame is as much mine as yours. But we have certainly lost a good deal through my failing to grasp the importance of the fact that the wooden-legged man had a companion. Had we known that, we should have had two parties of people to look for instead of one. Now, I am afraid that it is too late. Too late!"

"Here is a constable," I said, as a burly form loomed up in the misty distance.

"Shall I call him?"

"By all means. Ah, constable, have you seen anyone pass this way?"

"Not a soul, sir, except the doctor's gig."

"Who is the doctor?"

"Dr. Kemp, of Upper Norwood."

"Thank you. Good-night. Now, Watson, we will see what we can do. Two people have passed since the affair occurred, and they may have noticed something. Let us try the road side."

He walked his horse slowly along the left-hand pathway, and I followed on the right, while the constable kept in the middle. We had gone about a quarter of a mile in this way when Holmes gave a cry of satisfaction. Something black lay in a heap upon the white surface of the road, and we all three hurried up to see what it might be. To my surprise it proved to be a horse, and, to my still greater surprise, as we approached it we could hear the sound of a dog howling somewhere close at hand. Holmes dropped on his knees and struck a match, by the light of which we saw that the animal had been harnessed. A few yards off, in the direction of London, a wheel was broken short off, and lay in the road before it. The dog howled and howled from the shadows.

"Why, it's Toby!" cried Holmes. "Whose cart was he in? Why, I do believe—"

He ran to the head of the horse, and held the match to the bit. The creature was certainly well known to us. It was the property of our friend the Baker Street irregular.

"Here's a business!" said Holmes. "Our own little friend bolted with the treasure. Here's the cart, sure enough, broken short off where the driver was thrown out. Where is he, I wonder? At any rate, we owe it to the dog to see what we can do for him. Whoa, there, whoa! Steady, then! Now, if he has gone lame we'll be justified in—Ah, I thought so! Down on your knees, Watson, and look at the near fore-leg. Gently, now! Why, it's our friend, sure enough!"

Sure enough it was. The little man lay senseless in the middle of the road, and it was only after some minutes of determined efforts that we succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. He proved to have received a severe concussion of the brain, besides a broken collar-bone, and it was clear that he could throw no light upon the cause of the accident. All he could tell us was that he had been driving in a horse and cart which had been given him at a livery stable, when a man had come out from a side street and had driven off with the cart, calling to him that he was driving without a light. He had thought little of this at the time, but had naturally done so more when he found himself overturned in the road. He was clearly unable to remember what sort of man this was who had robbed him of his property.

There was no sign of the driver, so Holmes and I had no alternative but to take the little man home in the cart with us, while the constable led the horse. We had to lift the poor creature very carefully, for he groaned with pain when we touched his left side. Indeed, it was evident that he had suffered severely. Holmes's face was very grim as he drove along, and he relapsed frequently into the most profound reverie. Miss Morstan had taken refuge in the cab, and I walked at the horse's head, so that we were able to converse.

"Well, we have certainly had one piece of luck," said Holmes. "I mean, of course, that we have managed to secure Toby. Apart from that, I cannot congratulate myself upon the results of the evening. Our friend with the wooden leg is a clever fellow, and he has got clear away from us. Then, besides, there is a confederate at large, who is probably a good deal more dangerous than the man we have just arrested. I am bound to say that I have had a very unsatisfactory night's work."

"You have certainly had a great deal of trouble," she answered, with a smile.

"Oh, that is part of the game. I am only too glad to have had your company. Even if we have failed it is some consolation to have shared our adventures. And now I am afraid that we must leave you to your fate, for this is your station, if I am not mistaken."

By this time we had arrived at the little country station, and had aroused the sleepy station-master and his men. Holmes and I carried the wounded man into the waiting-room, and sent off a telegram on his behalf. Then we waited on the platform until the London train arrived.

"I shall have to remain over to look after this unfortunate man," said Holmes, "for I have no doubt that the people here will be glad to communicate with his friends. I shall be back by midday, if you can manage to look after Toby. Then we shall drive round to Baker Street and see if we can't hit upon some clue as to the whereabouts of our friend with the wooden leg."

We were as good as our word, for Miss Morstan was anxious to get back to her pupils, and Holmes was as anxious to be back to his chemical researches. We found Toby sitting very mournfully in the waiting-room, and the little man was progressing favorably. Holmes left a message that inquiries were to be made about the cart, and we were about to depart when the station-master begged to have a word with us.

"We have had a telegram from Upper Norwood," said he, "asking us to detain any one who answered to the description of the man we have here. As he seems to be alone in the world, I don't see what charge we can make, but the description tallies in every way with the man himself."

"Very much to the point," said Holmes, with a wink to me. "Well, I am sorry to leave you in such a difficulty, but you see that it is impossible for us to remain."

"Only one word, Mr. Holmes," said the station-master, as we walked away. "The man is an old rascal, if ever there was one, and has been in jail before now. His name is Jonathan Small."

Holmes whistled. "Thank you for the information," said he. "Come, Watson, we have no further business here."

"What a snuffy, red-headed, commonplace little chap he is!" I remarked, as we drove off.

"Ah, you think so?" said Holmes, with a chuckle. "Well, I am glad of it."

"Why?"

"Because I have a theory of my own about him."

"And that is—?"

"That he is the very man we are looking for."

"But the description?"

"Oh, confound the description! Here are we, three men, with a thoroughly good working hypothesis, and yet we are groping about in the dark for want of a little data. Now, I am convinced that we shall find that we have got the right man."

"But the man with the wooden leg?"

"Is a fiction. There was no wooden leg."

"But the tracks in the clay?"

"He used it to give a false clue, of course. Why, you don't suppose that a wooden leg could have kicked a hole like that? Why, it would have snapped off short. Then, again, there was only one man in it, and I should be inclined to think that he was a sailor. I noticed a good deal of tattoo work upon his chest, and I have a fancy for reading the hands of seamen. Then, again, he had a piece of sticking-plaster behind his ear, and there was a smell of strong tincture of benzoin in the room. All these point in one direction."

"You are certainly very clever at piecing facts together," I said, admiringly.

"Well, it is my profession," he answered, laughing. "Like the conjurer, I don't like to show all the machinery. Just sit down in that chair, and try if you can amuse yourself for a few hours. Have a cigar, and don't disturb me unless you have a new fact to work upon."

I knew that when he was in one of his reticent moods it was best to leave him alone, for his clear, incisive mind was past all praise when

Axle Grease

Guaranteed at

6 Boxes for..... 25C

... At ...

O'Brien Bros.

Popular Hardware Dealers

RED LAKE FALLS.

Business Cards.

I. LEMIEUX, C. M. M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
Office on corner of Main and Third streets.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

N. T. WATSON, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon
GRADUATE OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY MONTREAL, CANADA.
Office over First State Bank.

J. GENDRON,
Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN PARAGIS BLOCK.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

J. C. WILKINSON,
Physician and Surgeon
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
OFFICE OVER REICHERT'S DRUG STORE.
Telephone Reichert's Drug Store.

DR. J. E. ARGUE,
DENTIST
At St. Hilaire on the 3rd and 4th of every month.
OFFICE IN STEINERT BLOCK.

DR. F. F. FLETCHER
DENTIST
At Lambert Monday, June 22.
Office over O'Brien's Hardware Store.
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

A. P. TOUPIN,
Real Estate, Loans, Insurance
Special attention given to collections. Represents the best lines of insurance companies.
Office Second Floor, Hunt Block.

WM. A. McINTYRE,
Attorney at Law
RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.
Special attention given to collections, probating of estates and abstracting of titles.
Offices over Bruggers and Co.'s store.

CHAS. E. BOUGHTON,
Attorney at law
Oldest established lawyer in the city. Collections, real estate, loans and insurance. City Attorney.
Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

THOS. GERMO
Attorney at Law
Law, Loans, Collections, Insurance
Office at Ed L. Healy's land office, Red Lake Falls.

ALFONSE ROI..
DRAY LINE
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
All kinds of Draying promptly done. Your patronage solicited.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper——

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no paints to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Barr's cartoons, the journal junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Bernard's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,

There is only one thing fo you to do and that is to subscribe for

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

The Journal for three months and a splendid map of the state of Minnesota and the world for $1 00

ASSASSINS MUST SUFFER

An Official Note Issued by Russia Says Regicides Will Have to Be Punished.

SAYS ESCAPE WOULD BE DANGEROUS.

New Ruler Warned That the Powers Will Expect Him to Act with Severity—Conspirators Not Alarmed—Assertion Made That Nore Were Killed Than Reported.

St. Petersburg, June 19.—Russia has joined Austria in demanding the punishment of the assassins of the king and queen of Servia. An official note published in the Gazette, after explaining the czar's policy in recognizing Peter Karageorgevitch as the legally elected king of Servia, continues:

"The imperial government, while hailing the election of the new monarch to the supreme head of the Servian people, which is allied to Russia by ties of religion can nevertheless not refrain from expressing the confident hope that King Peter will be able to give evidence of his sense of justice and firmness of will by adopting measures at the outset to investigate the abominable misdeed which has been committed and to mete out rigorous punishment to those traitorous criminals who have stained themselves with the infamy attaching to regicides.

Minneapolis Journal.

NOT THE ONLY PEBBLE ON THE BEACH.

"Of course, the entire Servian nation or army cannot be held responsible for the crime which revolts public conscience, yet it would be dangerous to Servia's internal peace not to exact expiation for the revolution carried out with violence by the military.

"Such neglect would inevitably result in an unfavorable manner on the relations of all the states with Servia and would create for Servia serious difficulties at the commencement of the reign of King Peter I."

Assassins Not Alarmed.

Belgrade, June 19.—The telegram of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria to King Peter in reply to a message from the latter announcing his election to the Servian throne was at first suppressed here, owing to the reflections it contained on the recent tragedy. Later in the day, however, a leaflet giving the text of the telegram was circulated, but the strictures were so slurred in the translation that they were almost incomprehensible.

It appears that immediately after the assassinations the conspirators sounded the students at St. Petersburg and Vienna and received assurances of their approval of the election of Prince Peter.

Says They Were French.

Vienna, June 19. — A Bohemian named Josef Kraus, who was for several years the leader of Queen Draga's ruin, has returned to Pilsen from Belgrade. He told with the other royal servants during the assassinations in the palace and thus escaped. He asserts that many more were killed than have been reported and says the assassins were drunk.

Berlin, June 20.—The Geneva correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung interviewed King Peter on the subject of the Russian note calling for the punishment of the murderers of King Alexander and Queen Draga. The new king said that concerned an international matter and it should not be forgotten that the slaughter had sanctioned the deed committed by the army.

No Recognition.

Washington, June 22.—The United States government has adopted an attitude similar to that of England toward the new Servian dynasty. It will be in no haste to recognize a government created by assassination in the absence of some exhibition of a disposition to punish the guilty.

Strike Ended.

Lowell, Mass., June 22.—The textile council Sunday afternoon declared the great strike in the Lowell mills at an end. The strike began on March 30 and involved about 17,000 operatives.

MANY CASES DECIDED.

Illinois Supreme Court Sustains Judicial Reapportionment Act—One Dissenting Opinion.

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—The supreme court handed down 76 opinions Tuesday. Their opinion sustaining the reapportionment of the Fourth supreme judicial district was the most important. The majority opinion, signed by all the judges except Magruder, holds that the constitution provides that but one district can be changed at a time, and that there is an intent that, by changes of population in the state, the old Fourth district was 100,000 short on population as compared with other districts, that the reapportionment equalized the population of the districts, and that the new district was contiguous. They also held that the change must be made at the session of the legislature preceding the election for judges. Judges Magruder handed down a dissenting opinion.

WILL BE NO STRIKE.

Miners and Operators Come to an Agreement at Scranton and Peace Prevails.

Scranton, Pa., June 17.—There will be no strike in the anthracite region growing out of the refusal of the operators to recognize the credentials of District Presidents Nicholls, Fahy and Dettrey, instructed by the joint executive board of the United Mine Workers as the miners' representatives on the board of conciliation. The convention of the United Mine Workers yesterday elected the three district presidents by districts as their representatives and the operators, through President George F. Baer, of the Reading company, announced that this action was satisfactory.

Regicides Are Secure.

Belgrade, June 20.—The position of the regicides under the new king is freely discussed, and it is generally expected that they will be promoted and pensioned and then gradually removed. Any slight of them, however, would be hotly resented by the army, which is master of the situation. The newspaper correspondents who came here from Sofia have been recalled. They say there are indications of serious trouble in Bulgaria.

Lieut. Gov. Northcott Robbed.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 19.—Lieut. Gov. Northcott, of Illinois, was robbed by a hotel thief Tuesday night of his gold watch, chain and charm, valued at $300, $25 in money and some money and jewelry belonging to his daughter. The charm was of masonic design and was presented to him by the general assembly of Illinois. The authorities have no clew.

Dynamite Explodes.

Cambridge, O., June 22.—Lightning struck 3,000 pounds of dynamite stored at the Sommers coal shaft at Hiram Tuesday night, killing one of here. Hiram Wilson, Sam Hartup, Russell Hartup, Hays Rushinson, Albert Wright and "Will" Mahoney were instantly killed, 15 others were fatally injured and a large number seriously injured.

Failed to Agree.

Jackson, Ky., June 20.—When the jury in the Jett-White trial for the murder of Lawyer Marcum came into court a third time and reported that it was unable to agree, Judge Redwine dismissed the jurors. This was followed by the announcement that the case would be transferred to Cynthiana, Harrison county, for the second trial.

Murdered in Oregon.

Ashland, Ore., June 18.—The body of H. W. Iddings, of Madison, Wis., was found in Wagner hill Tuesday night. He had evidently been murdered, as there was evidence of a hard struggle. Wagner had been a student at Rush Medical college, Chicago, and came here about two months ago.

Won the Derby.

Chicago, June 22. — The Pickett steward by Middleton & Jungbluth, won the great American Derby at Washington park track Saturday afternoon. Claude was second and Barneys finished third. The time was 2:33.

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS.

They Are Oftentimes the Cause of Collisions at Sea.

Speaking of optical illusions at sea, a sea captain recently said:

"I think I can explain the cause of many collisions which otherwise seem to be mysterious. They arise from the fact that green and red are complementary colors. Every ship under way carries at night a red light burning on her port side and a green light burning on her right or starboard side. Yet vessels go crashing into each other upon nights when these lights must be plainly visible from their decks. And when the one comes up in court and an effort is made to establish the blame of the accident honest men swear directly opposite to each other and believe they are telling the truth.

"The captain of one ship, for instance, will swear that he saw a red light on his port bow and held his course. A little later he saw a green light there, misunderstood his being, and the collision followed. The men on the other ship swear that where the captain says he saw a green light a red light was burning.

"Now, how does this happen? It happens this way: The captain looks for the green intently and the red light on the other vessel. Then for some reason he changes his line of vision, probably due to a bulging salt sheen on the light, and, lo, he sees at once a green light, shifts his helm, and crash, he goes into her! He really does not see any light at all when he looks at the red, but an optical illusion makes him think he does.

"Try it yourself. Just gaze intently at a bright red, round object for awhile and then suddenly cast it upon a white wall. A green spot will appear to you. Winding the eyes will hasten its appearance."—New York Press.

PLANTS THAT CLIMB.

Peculiarities of Their Leaves and Their Modes of Movement.

It is in the twining plants, such as bryony and hop, and the tendril bearers, like vetches, that we find the highest development of the climbing habit. These plants live under unusual conditions. In order to gain the light they must seek rather their aerial or enduring foliage, and so we find the vetches, instead of forming every frond the shield ow toward the light, like most of their neighbors, busily pushing on into the center of a bush to force into blossom amid its upper branches far above their less daring neighbors.

But it is in the leaves of these plants that we find the most remarkable modifications adopting them to a climbing habit. The leaves of the vetches and vetchlings are pinnate—they bear a number of opposite ovate leaflets. The tip of the leaf shih bind the uppermost pair of pinnae are in the climbing species changed into tendrils—sensitive, twining, whiplike structures—which exhibit remarkable features. If the slightest curved, extended tendril of a young leaf of pea or vetch be watched carefully it will be found that it is slowly but incessantly moving round and round in a circle. If the tendril comes into contact with a twig it bends toward it and eventually takes several turns around it. Even a slight temporary irritation is sufficient to cause a bending toward any side.

Finally the tendril becomes woody and strong and forms a secure anchor cable for the plant. Not only does the young tendril rotate, but the whole leaf on which it is borne is in constant motion. The stout to which the leaf belongs is rotating also, so that the tendril describes a cone with a more or less cutol motion, in the course of which it is almost sure to strike against some part of one of the surrounding vegetation.—Knowledge.

Open Coffins In Greece.

The American tourist in Greece is often shocked by the sight of a funeral procession passing through the streets with the dead borne in an open coffin. This custom originated in a remote age, when the Greeks and other masters of Greece they discovered that Greek revolutionists carried arms about their persons in defiance of the edict that all coffins must be carried open. After the Greeks had won their freedom they continued the custom from force of habit.

A Real Bargain.

"In time," said the struggling artist, "that painting will be of great value. All you have to do is to tuck it away in an attic somewhere and keep it for abent 200 years, by which time I will have become one of the old masters. Then you can sell it easily for $10,000. You see, I know the rules, but unfortunately I am not in a financial position to carry them out. So, if you want a real bargain, I'll let you have this little gem for $1.50."—Chicago Post.

No Help For It.

Dissatisfied Guest—If your cook doesn't put less red pepper in his dishes I shall have to quit coming here. I can't stand it.

Proprietor of Restaurant—Good heavens! I pay over $5,000 a year, and he'd leave me in a minute if I found fault with his cooking. Try and learn to like red pepper, can't you?—Chicago Tribune.

Infamous.

Parent—Is hlerring a French horn likely to result in injury to my boy?

Tutor—You can be sure it is, sir, if he blows it near my house and I catch him.—Chuss.

Stuck Up.

"Stick to me," said the wall paper to the paste, "and we'll bang together."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Justice discards party, friendship and kindred, and is therefore represented as blind.—Addison.

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS.

They Are Oftentimes the Cause of Collisions at Sea.

Speaking of optical illusions at sea, a sea captain recently said:

"I think I can explain the cause of many collisions which otherwise seem to be mysterious. They arise from the fact that green and red are complementary colors. Every ship under way carries at night a red light burning on her port side and a green light burning on her right or starboard side. Yet vessels go crashing into each other upon nights when these lights must be plainly visible from their decks. And when the one comes up in court and an effort is made to establish the blame of the accident honest men swear directly opposite to each other and believe they are telling the truth.

"The captain of one ship, for instance, will swear that he saw a red light on his port bow and held his course. A little later he saw a green light there, misunderstood his being, and the collision followed. The men on the other ship swear that where the captain says he saw a green light a red light was burning.

"Now, how does this happen? It happens this way: The captain looks for the green intently and the red light on the other vessel. Then for some reason he changes his line of vision, probably due to a bulging salt sheen on the light, and, lo, he sees at once a green light, shifts his helm, and crash, he goes into her! He really does not see any light at all when he looks at the red, but an optical illusion makes him think he does.

"Try it yourself. Just gaze intently at a bright red, round object for awhile and then suddenly cast it upon a white wall. A green spot will appear to you. Winding the eyes will hasten its appearance."—New York Press.

Legal Blanks.

THE COURIER job department is printing a complete line of the standard forms in legal blanks, and has now in stock the following:

Warranty deeds,
Contract for deed,
Mortgages deed,
Quit-claim deed,
Tenement lease,
Chattel mortgage,
Chattel mortgage, (crop clause),
Satisfaction of real estate mortgage,
Farm contract, (on shares),
Chattel mortgage foreclosure sale,
Garnisher summons, (with notice to defendant),
Bill of sale,
Transcript of judgment,
Justice summons,
Certificate of judgment,
Notice of protest,
Notes, receipts, etc.

Any form not in stock will be printed to order, provided a reasonable number are taken.

Food for Typhoid Patients.

By using whey as food for typhoid patients instead of milk, a doctor has reduced the death-rate in this disease from 20 to 2.7 per cent.

A Fig Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Lacesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter gave me complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00 Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber druggist. Trial bottle free.

Manuscript Poems by Lamb.

Three manuscript poems in the handwriting of Charles Lamb were sold for $270 recently in London.

Coughs and lung and throat diseases can be cured if Cole's Cough Cure is taken in time. It is wonderfully soothing and healing and it cures in a way to stay cured. Children like it and its guaranteed. $1.00 by all druggists.

WELL - DIGGING.

I will dig wells by the day, foot, or job and guarantee satisfaction on every job.

Repairing a specialty. I now devote my entire attention to this work. Leave orders at Courier office.

A. O. LETVIG,
WYLIE, MINN.

Sick Headache?

Food doesn't digest well? Appetite poor? Bowels constipated? Tongue coated? It's your liver! Ayer's Pills are liver pills; they cure dyspepsia, biliousness.

25c. All druggists.

Want your money's worth in a laxative? Ask for a bottle of Brown's Herb Tablets.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for the whiskers. Colors Brown or Black.

FIRST STATE BANK

OF RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

Capital Stock,	$25,000
Authorized Stock,	$100,000.

OFFICERS.

I. WYER, President.
F. E. HUNT, Vice-President.
THEO CARCEAU, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

I. I. Wyer, F. E. Hunt, Theo Carceau,
Chas N. Bowden, A. P. Toupin.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Money to Loan on Improved farms.

Great Northern Railway

SHORT ROUTE FAST TIME TO MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

Connecting with all railroads for New York, Chicago, and all points East and South

TIME TABLE RED LAKE FALLS.

WEST BD	STATIONS	EAST BD
8.30 pm Lv	St. Paul	Ar 7.30 am
9.30 pm Lv	Minneapolis	Ar 7.00 am
6.30 am Lv	Crookston	Ar 9.55 pm
8.05 am Lv	Climax	Ar 8.25 pm
9.30 am Lv	Fisher	Ar 6.55 pm
10.05 am Lv	Ada	Ar 6.20 pm
10.45 am Lv	Wylie	Ar 6.00 pm
12.30 pm Ar	RED LAKE FALLS	Lv 4.15 pm

C. W. WILLIAMS, Agent.

"The Greatest Spoken Thought of the Nineteenth Century"

MODERN ELOQUENCE

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed's Splendid Library of the Best Famous Speeches, Classic and Popular Lectures, Famous Addresses, Reminiscence, Repartee and Story, in an handsome volumes, illustrated with fine photogravures and color plates.

Hon. Thos. B. Reed
Editor-in-Chief

ASSOCIATE EDITORS:

Hon. Justin McCarthy
Member of House of Commons, Parliament

Rossiter Johnson
Author and Lecturer

Albert Ellery Bergh
Expert Collaborator

Edward Everett Hale
Author of "The Man With-out a Country"

Jonathan P. Dolliver
U. S. Senator from Iowa

John B. Gordon
Former U. S. Senator from Georgia

Nathan Haskell Dole
American Editor

Hamilton W. Mabie
Famous Lecturer

James B. Pond
Manager Lecture Bureau; Author of "Eccentricities of Genius"

George MacLean Harper
Professor of English Literature, Princeton University

Lorenz Sears
Professor of English Literature, Boston University

Edwin M. Bacon
Former Editor "Boston Advertiser"

P. Castillo Owen
Member Editorial Staff "New York Tribune"

J. Walter McSpadden
Managing Editor "Library Digest" of Baine's Works

Marcus Benjamin
Editor, National Magazine, Washington, D. C.

Truman A. DeWeese
Member Editorial Staff "Chicago Times Herald"

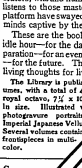
William W. Matos
Member Editorial Staff "Philadelphia Evening Telegraph"

Champ Clark
Member House of Representatives from Missouri

Clark Howell
Editor "Atlanta Constitution"

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of statesmen with the droll fancies of the humorist.



THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the silent touch of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the busy man—for the idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7½ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

SPECIAL OFFER

THIS COUPON and $1.98 NOW

10 Handsome Volumes

Only $1.98 Now

Only $1.00 Monthly

Thereafter

Total Price $12.00

Introductory Offer

To introduce this work into new homes, we will for a limited time only, accept subscriptions at the introductory price of $1.98 cash, and $1.00 per month thereafter, until the total price of $12.00 is paid. Send for our handsome prospectus containing a full description of the work, a complete table of contents, a number of sample pages, illustrations and a Portrait Page of Ex-Speaker Reed's Library of Modern Eloquence, together with full particulars regarding bindings, prices, etc.

Send for Prospectus—Free

Name.....

Address.....

Street and No.....

City and State.....

Send this Coupon to

John D. Morris and Company
Publishers
Philadelphia, Penna.

Special Bargains This Week
At the BIG STORE

Underskirts

We have a few left-overs from our colored underskirt line that we wish to close out.

3.00 skirts for 1.69.
1.75 skirts for 89c.

All desirable patterns in fancy stripes solid red and lavenders with black edge on ruffles.

Big values in ladies mercerized underskirts. Made by the Home Made Co. Prices from 60c to $2.50. Nothing in their makeup to unravel or catch dust as all seams are taped. Look them over.

Lace Curtains

Special this week—

Our regular 50c center for 39c, full sized Nottingham.

Lace curtaining by the yard, 15c, worth 20c. Nottingham quality, pretty pattern.

CLOTHING SALE

From now until July 1 we will give a discount of 10 PER CENT on all sales of men's and boys' clothing and men's fine pants. As our prices are already very low this will be giving you exceptionally good values.

Remember that we are not offering you cheap stuff. We carry nothing but Kuppenheimer guaranteed clothing, the only clothing on the market with a real guarantee and Cahn's 100 per cent. pure wool clothing. Buy your clothing from us and save money.

Ladies' Wrappers

20 dozen of wrappers just received, all of the celebrated Home Made Kind already well known to the ladies of the city, all made in the best possible manner, sewed to stay and fit perfectly. Prices from 1.00 to 1.50.

Special this Week

4-in. ribbon, fancy, 10c.

1-in. hair ribbons, fancy, 5c

Fine handkerchiefs worth 15c, for 5c.

Ladies sailor hats worth 75c, for 39c.

Shoe Bargains

Misses' canvas shoes, will wear better than cheap leather shoes anytime. 59c and $1.00. Call quickly a few left.

Bargains in Misses' oxfords and slippers. Cleaning up old lines.

Specials in Groceries

Monarch maple syrup, very best, 1.00 per gallon worth 1.40.

Pilot smoking tobacco 15 cent.

We solicit a share of your trade.

THE BIG STORE

THEO. La BISSONIERE, Prop.

WAR ON POOR WHISKY.

State Food Commission Begins Crusade on Adulterated Liquor.

The state dairy and food commission has prosecuted a man in the northern part of the state for selling whisky adulterated with fusil oil, said to contain many of the properties of "knockout drops." This is the first prosecution of the kind that has been made this year.

Fusil oil is found generally in poor whisky made from a low grade of corn or potatoes. It is especially noticeable in new whisky manufactured from these substances. As the liquor grows older the poisonous ingredients lose their effect.

Fusil oil is a compound of amyl alcohol, and whisky highly tinctured with it produces a peculiar effect upon the consumer. It benumbs and paralyzes the nerves like a deadly poison.

The commission is hampered in the prosecution of cases of this kind by the failure of the law to prescribe a definite standard of whisky. This prosecution was made under a law providing that "no person or corporation shall brew any fermented or malt liquors which contain any drug or ingredient not normal or healthful or which may be deleterious or detrimental when used as a beverage.

Horses With Glanders Must be Killed.

S. H. Ward, executive agent of our new live stock sanitary board, has issued circulars to local township boards, farmers and dealers in horses, giving instructions for the enforcement of the new law requiring the killing of glandered horses.

All horses, mules and donkeys, suspected of glanders or glanders-farcy, must be quarantined and examined by some competent veterinarian. If all animals that have worked as mates with diseased animals must be treated likewise. The legal test for glanders is an injection of mallein and all animals that show a glanders reaction must be destroyed without delay. Animals not showing such reaction must be under a sort of quarantine for six months, during which time they must not be sold or given away or allowed to drink at public fountains. In case an animal is killed the carcass must be burned or buried four feet under ground.

In ordinary cases, a board of three appraisers shall determine the value of the animal destroyed and the state shall pay three-fourths of that amount to the owner. But the owner may appeal within twenty days of the killing, and if another board of three shall decide the animal to have been free from glanders the state shall pay the whole value.

Any violation of law is punishable by a fine of from $25 to $100 or imprisonment from thirty to ninety days.

Competitive Examination.

There will be a competitive examination held at Crookston, Minn., Wednesday, July 8, 1903, for candidates for appointment as cadet to the United States Military academy at West Point.

Candidates must be single between 17 and 22 years of age and bona fide residents of the Ninth congressional district. The candidate passing the best examination physically and mentally will be chosen.

The board of examining physicians are Drs. A. W. Smith, J. S. Hultlund and Geo. A. Morley. The mental examination will be conducted by Prof. R. W. Hitchcock, Crookston; E. A. Nelson, Thief River Falls and Prof. Frank A. Weld, of Moorhead. Candidates will be examined in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, algebra, plane geometry, English grammar, English literature, geography, history, physiology and hygene.

The successful candidate will have to appear at West Point, July 26, for final examination. Further details as to character of examination will be furnished on application.
—H. Steenerson, M. C., Crookston, Minn.

The June sun shines on many a fair bride made doubly lovely by the use of Rocky Mountain Tea. The bride's best friend 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

COMING---THE BIG SHOW!!

ONE DAY ONLY.

Thursday, July 2

RED LAKE FALLS

CAMPBELL BROS. GREAT CONSOLIDATED SHOWS

EUROPE'S GREATEST CONTRIBUTION

FOR THE AMUSEMENT OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. UNQUESTIONABLY

THE GRANDEST ARENIC FEATURE

EVER INTRODUCED IN AMERICA.

NOW DOUBLED IN SIZE TWICE AS BIG AS BEFORE THROUGHOUT

3 RINGS 2 STAGES — CIRCUS MUSEUM AQUARIUM $1,000,000 MENAGERIE — ½ MILE HIPPODROME TRACK

REAL ROMAN HIPPODROME

The Foremost Show of the World.

YOU CAN NEVER AFFORD TO MISS THE

MONSTER MAJESTIC SPECTACULAR FREE STREET PARADE ELECTRICALLY ILLUMINATED WEIRD AND GRANDEUR

IN THE FORENOON WELL WORTH A JOURNEY OF 100 MILES TO INSPECT.

TWO SHOWS DAILY AT 1 AND 7 P. M.

An Hour given to Witness the Animal and Museum Curios before the Commencement of the Circus and Hippodrome Performance.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Fred. Behn is building a new granary on his farm west of town.

For Sale—Household goods; two base burners; two airtight stoves. F. B. Newton.

For sale—A dinning table, couch and a cook stove for sale at a bargain. Call on J. B. Armstrong.

Mrs. C. S. Egan returned Tuesday from Galesburg, N. D., where she has been visiting her son, James.

Miss Augusta Burkhard of Burkhard, Wis., arrived today for a visit with her friend, Mrs. William Schwalen.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company calls attention to their famous "Mascott" flour in a new advertisement this week.

Rev. Mrs. R. K. Calloway will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. Subject; "A Grand experiences."

Rev. C. Nauman is hauling lumber for a fine dwelling on his farm just west of town. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy sometime in August.

The price of wheat is advanced several points this week because of a prospective shortage in the winter wheat belt. Flour is also up ten cents over last week's prices.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company will shut down July 4 for a period of about sixty days in order to make necessary repairs and enlargements to the plant. Persons having feed they wished ground are requested to bring it in before that date. 2w

J. M. Allard's confectionery was closed last evening by creditors and the stock and books are now in the hands of F. A. Grady attorney for the creditors. Mr. Allard will have the sympathy of the public in his financial troubles, and it is hoped that he will soon be able to resume business again.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

THE COURIER is in receipt of an announcement of the marriage of Henry C. Schroeder to Miss Nellie M. Gibson, at Chaska, Minn., on June 20. Miss Gibson was teacher at the grammar department of the public schools two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder will be at home after July 10 at Shakopee, Minn.

County Depositories.

Proposals will be received by the Board of Auditors of Red Lake county, Minn., until July 8, 1903, stating the rate of interest which will be paid on monthly averages of daily balance of county funds subject to draft at all times and also the rate of interest which will be paid on such funds if deposited for any certain length of time, and the security which will be given therefor. Address, Board of Auditors, Red Lake Falls, Minn. 2w

Excursions to California.

On account of the national meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, to be held at Denver Colo., July 9-12, 1903, the Northern Pacific railway will sell excursion tickets to San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, Cal., as follows:

From all point to San Francisco, going and returning via N. P. railway Portland and Southern Pacific or O. R. N. steamers.....$57.00
From all points to Los Angeles, going and returning via N. P. railway, Portland and Southern Pacific.....$67.50

Dates of sale are from July 1 to 10 inclusive, and the final return limit is August 31. Stopovers will be allowed in accordance with usual rules.

For further information apply to any agent of the Northern Pacific railway company.

Kodol Gives Strength

By enabling the digestive organs to digest, assimilate and transform all of the unwholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that nourishes the nerves, feeds the tissues and hardens the muscles and recuperates the organs of the entire body. Kodo Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and all stomach disorders. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Mother's rely on Cole's Cough Cure and children like it; it quickly relieves and cures in a way to stay cured. For it is a remedy that never disappoints; thousand use and endorse it. Try it, it's guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

The Perils of "Butting In."

Chicago Tribune: "He butted in," said the policeman of the man who interfered in behalf of the prisoner, "and I had to arrest him."

"He butted in," said the husband who was having a somewhat spirited domestic debate with his wife, "and I threw him out of the window."

"He butted in," said the Nineteenth ward society gent, who was out at Ogden's grove with his steady company, "and I had to knock the block off him."

It will thus be seen that the individual who butts in stands an excellent chance to be boosted out with more celerity than consideration. He is a persona non grata everywhere. He is the successor of the person who used to "stick his nose into other people's business," the man who was "too fresh," the individual who "talks too much with his mouth." He now butts in.

Unfortunately, the rebuffs which he receives do not in the least discourage him. He escapes the foul killer with a facility which almost justifies the belief that he is under the protection of a special providence. He continues to "butt in" everywhere, giving unsought advice, administering impertinent reproof, obtruding his opinions and wishes where they are not wanted, making a nuisance of himself from early morn to dewy eve.

He has a black eye most of the time, his nose is sore from continual hammering, and his trousers are torn and dirty as the result of being thrown down stairs several times a day. Still he "butts in," and will continue to "butt in" until the end of time, for God hath made him so.

To Boston and Return at One Fare

For the round trip from Chicago via the Nickel Plate road, for Christian Science meeting in June. Tickets on sale June 20th, 21st, 22th, with extended return limit of August 1st. Stop-over at Niagara Falls, in either direction, without extra charge, and at New York returning on payment of fee of $1.00. No excess fare charged on any of our trains. Write John Y. Calahan, general agent, 113 Adams street, room 208, Chicago, for detailed information.

You feel mean, cross, ugly, down in the mouth, nothing goes right. Bad luck. Better take Rocky Mountain Tea. Drive way the blues. 35c. A. L. Reichert

Gray?

"My hair was falling out and turning gray very fast. But your Hair Vigor stopped the falling and restored the natural color."—Mrs. E. Z. Benonme, Cohoes, N. Y.

It's impossible for you not to look old, with the color of seventy years in your hair! Perhaps you are seventy, and you like your gray hair! If not, use Ayer's Hair Vigor. In less than a month your gray hair will have all the dark, rich color of youth.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office. Address, J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

Residence Property for Sale.

I will sell, or trade for stock, my residence and four lots in block 55, Kretzschmar's addition to Red Lake Falls. Great bargain. Write or see me. Louis Hetu, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

A Serious Mistake.

E. C. DeWitt & Co. is the name of the firm who make the genuine Witch Hazel Salve. DeWitt's is the Witch Hazel Salve that heals without leaving a scar. It is a serious mistake to use any other. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, burns, bruises, eczema and all skin diseases. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Houses for sale—Two houses on Third street, cisterns, well, nice yard, barn, and woodshed. Good small trees. Enquire of B. Sivigny Red Lake Falls.

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect anyother, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Owee will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes duster. When dusting clothing machine must be dry. Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while dusting.

O'BRIEN BROS.

Popular Hardware Dealers,

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

GOING TOO FAR.

She—How did your engagement with the London heiress get broken off?

He—Well, you see, it's like this. She made me give up football, give up smoking, and give up drinking—in fact, I got so used to giving up things that at last I gave her up.—Ally Sloper.

INGENUITY.

Mamma—Why, Mabel, you are putting your stockings on wrong side out!

Mabel—Well, mamma, I has to. They's a hole on the ozer side!—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Red Lake County Courier.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 39. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 2, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 247.

CLEARWATER CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTIM

Robert Gray, Ten Years of Age, Drowned While Bathing Last Monday Afternoon.

Robert, the ten-year-old son of Joseph Gray, was drowned in the Clearwater river, just back of P. W. Bourdon's house, about four o'clock Monday afternoon. Robert had been in bathing in company with several other small boys. He got in deep water and being unable to swim could not get out. As soon as the alarm was given rescuers came to his assistance, but as he had been under water for nearly half an hour all attempts at resuscitation were futile. The father was working at Fisher and a message was sent informing him of the sad affair. He caught the evening train for Crookston and drove over from there, arriving at home about 11 o'clock that night.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon in the K. of P. hall, Rev. C. Nannan officiating, and the remains interred in the cemetery east of town. The many friends of the family will extend sympathy in the sad bereavement.

Speaks From Experience.

Breckenridge Telegram: The Red Lake County Courier has installed a new five-horse power gasoline engine. The old one became so unruly that Editor King felt that he could not let it remain in the office and hold his position as a deacon in the church. A "bucking" gasoline engine is the greatest incentive to sulphurous profanity to be found anywhere.

DROWNING IN EQUALITY.

Osmon Legwald Loses His Life in the Clearwater River.

Osmon Legwald, an old resident of Equality township, was drowned in the Clearwater river last Thursday. No one was near at hand when the accident occurred, so that is is not known just how it happened. The supposition, however, is that Mr. Legwald had gone in the river to bathe and was probably taken with cramps.

The deceased was about 50 years of age and leaves a large family. The funeral took place from the family residence Sunday afternoon.

CLOTHING CAUGHT FIRE.

An Aged Lady at Fertile Was Burned to Death.

Mrs. Martlett, an aged lady living at Fertile was burned so seriously Sunday night that she died in a few hours. She was 70 years of age and was living with a crippled brother for whom she kept house, caring for the children of her daughter, who is employed in a hotel at Crookston.

While lighting the fire in an oil stove to prepare supper Mrs. Martlett's clothing caught fire. She ran out of the house and rolled on the ground in an ineffectual attempt to extinguish the flames, and when assistance reached her her clothing was almost burned from her body, and the flesh was hanging in shreds in many places.

People You Like to Meet.

Refined, cultivated, substantial people are always to be met on the famous North-Western Limited between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago. An air of refinement and comfort is noticed throughout the entire train, which furnishes a decided relief from the ordinary travel. It also has electric lighted features possessed by no other train.

GENEROUS DOWNPOUR INSURES BIG CROPS

Heavy Rains This Morning General Throughout the Red River Valley Region.

The welcome rain is here!

This morning shortly before five o'clock, a heavy shower commenced, continuing until 9:30. This after noon the skies are still overcast, and local weather prophets say we are to have more of the needed moisture.

The crops have been suffering during the past week because of the dry weather, but it is not thought that material injury has been done. Most of the grain stood the drouth splendidly, and no doubt the recent downpour will revive some of the crop that looked rather sickly.

The last month was the dryest June in the history [of the Red River Valley. The rainfall for the entire month has been but .75 inches, while the normal precipitation is more than four inches. This means that vegetation lacked 3.25 inches of water to the square foot which is of normal growth. When this is considered, the crops are looking remarkably well.

A Surgical Operation

is always dangerous—do not submit to the surgeon's knife until you have tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. It will cure when everything else fails—it has done this in thousands of cases. Here is one of them: I suffered from bleeding and protruding piles for 20 years. Was treated by different specialists and used many remedies, but obtained no relief until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. Two boxes of this salve cured me in 2 months ago and I have not had a touch of the piles since.—H. A. Tisdale, Sumnerton, S. C. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

TWO LUMBER YARDS ARE CONSOLIDATED

Thief River Falls Lumber Company Buys the Land Yard of the St. Hilaire Company.

A business change of considerable magnitude was consummated this week by the sale of the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company's yards in this city to the Thief River Falls Lumber company. Manager McDonald, of the St. Hilaire company, and Manager Winton, on the Thief River company, arrived in town yesterday to assist in taking stock and completing the transfer.

The Thief River Falls people will move their stock to the St. Hilaire yards and give up their present quarters on the east side of Main street. Jon J. Jones, who has been the efficient local manager for a num of years, will remain in charge. T. E. Touney, who has successfully managed the St. Hilaire yard for several months past, will remain in Red Lake Falls for several months to finish the collections, after which he will be assigned the agency of some other yard.

By this consolidation the Thief River Falls company will have a larger stock of lumber than is usually carried by a local yard in a town of this size. Both yards were well stocked, and the St. Hilaire company has in stock a large amount of the material sawed by the local mill last year.

DEATH OF MRS. MULLARKY.

Former Resident of Red Lake County Dies in New Mexico.

Thief River Press: Mrs. W. T. Mullarky died at her home near Flora Vista, New Mexico, Wednesday, June 24, of consumption. The funeral was held Tuesday. She remains being interred in the cemetery at Flora Vista.

The deceased has been a sufferer with tuberculosis for several years and it was for this reason that the family removed from this city two years ago last winter. For a time the climate of the southwest was beheficial but the disease could not be shaken off and was finally the cause of death.

Caroline Hansen was born at St. Ansgar, Iowa, 29 years ago. She removed to this city in 1892 and was for a time principal of the west side schools. In 1894 she was married to Mr. W. T. Mullarky at the home of her parents at St. Ansgar. Of this union one child was born, a boy, some seven years ago. The husband and child survive, as do N. J. Hansen, of this city, a brother, and Mrs. O. P. Johnson, of McIntosh, a sister. There are also other members of the family living.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers at this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able in cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cooney & Co. Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Halls' family pills are the best.

Is This Jealousy?

Fergus Falls Free Press: There is considerable excitement in Crookston. Most of the leading citizens have been indicted and the few honest residents are breathing easier. The last grand jury returned 125 indictements, the largest batch ever turned out in the state. Slot machines and whisky seem to be at the bottom of the charges. The unclean, who wrote about Sodom, would have substituted Crookston if it had been in the ring during his day and generation. Oh Crookston! wake up and take a bath. Our nostrils tell us daily of thy location.

JUDICIAL DITCH KNOCKED OUT.

Judge Watts Decides the Route Petitioned For Not Feasible.

M. O. Sortedahl, F. A. Grady and E. K. Gjernes were at Crookston Monday to protest against the establishment of the judicial ditch in the eastern part of the county on the lines indicated by the survey. After the proposed ditch would enter Gurnes it would run diagonally across several sections that are already drained by county ditches, and the farmers along the survey did not relish the idea of double taxation.

County Surveyor Smiley testified that the ditch would be of little benefit to the land, and after a review of the situation Judge Watts decided that the representations of the contestants were sufficient to warrant rejection of the petition. It is probable that a new petition will be circulated to have the ditch follow the range line between the towns of Equality and Gurnes southward to the Clearwater river.

MARKS TO BE RELEASED.

How Mr. Steenerson's Good Work Saved a Soldier Boy.

A Washington dishatch says Representative Steenerson and L. H. Bailey of Benidji started for Minneapolis Monday night having accomplished all they came to Washington for. Monday morning Mr. Steeuerson secured a commutation of the sentence of Private S. Marks, whose home is at Fosston, Minn.

Marks is serving in the Philippines, and was last year sentenced to three years at hard labor by a court-martial for loitering around a cigar store in Manila.

Mr. Steenerson convinced General Corbin and the judge advocate general that the sentence was excessive and that Marks had already served more than enough time to atone for his offense. The sentence was therefore commuted and Marks will be liberated and restored to his duty until the expiration of his enlistment when he will return home.

SHOULD BUY IN THE STATE.

Farmers and Dealers Need Not Buy Adulterated Food.

W. P. McConnell, state dairy and food commissioner, is of the opinion that one of the best way to get rid of adulterated food is for farmers and dealers to buy their supplies in the state.

"The box car grocer who brings in adulterated food from other state," said Mr. McConnell, "approaches the farmer with flattering propositions. He says he will sell better goods than the local merchant at half the price, and after he goes away the farmer finds he has been duped.

"Farmers should buy goods from the local merchant, who has a reputation at stake and the good of the community at heart. Then if there is any trouble he can appeal to the state dairy and food commission and get redress. If he buys of the box car merchant he cannot get redress unless we are fortunate enough to catch the agent. He has absolutely no way to prosecute the dealer who lives in another state.

"The same is true of the dealer, he should buy his groceries as far as possible from Minnesota firms. If he finds that the goods are not what they should be he can send us samples, and if we find that they are adulterated the firm will be brought to time.

"Dairymen should also stand by the local creameries. The local creameries are the institutions that have made the dairy business in Minnesota what it is today."

Low Summer Tourist Rates.

Via Chicago Great Western Railway. Round trips to Colorado, Utah, Black Hills, New Mexico and Texas points. Tickets on sale daily June 1st to Sept. 30. Good to return Oct. 31st. For further information apply to any Great Western Agent, or J. P. Elmer, G. P. A., Chicago, Ill.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

For Sale at a Bargain.

If sold before the last of June, the person who buys the Ole Ellingson farm can have one-fourth the crop. For prices and terms apply to H. O. Gjerberg. 1mo

WATERWORKS SEEM ALMOST A CERTAINTY

First Reading of an Ordinance Passed by City Council at Last Regular Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the city council last Thursday night the first reading of the waterworks ordinance was passed, and it is altogether probable that a contract for the plant will be entered into during the present month. W. D. Lovell, of Des Moines, Iowa, has offered to put in a complete system and lease the same to the city for a period of thirty years at an annual rental of $1,200. This includes a power house and water tower large enough to supply the anticipated demands of the city for many years, and a water main on Main street extending from Fourth street to the Metropolitan opera house, with ample fire hydrants to properly protect the business section of the city. The mains can be extended at any time as the city might desire. The proposition is considered as favorable to the city as could reasonably be expected, and as the public generally is in favor of waterworks because of the fire and sanitary protection afforded there is little probability of adverse action on Mr. Lovell's offer.

BOSSY MUST YIELD PROFIT.

More Milk at Less Expense is Farmers' Problem.

The state dairy and food department, in co-operation with the farmers' institute, is holding a series of conventions throughout the state for the purpose of ascertaining more economic methods of producing milk and butter. A score or more conventions have been held already in the "creamery centers" of the state and W. W. P. McConnell, dairy and food commissioner estimates that the number will reach 100 before the season.

"More economical production of milk and butter will be the principal subject discussed at these conventions. The conventions will discuss ways and means of securing better cows," said Commissioner McConnell. "One of the ways of doing this is to cull out the good animals. There are many cows in the state which consume large quantities of fodder but make no real return to the owner. The idea is to have these butchered and sold for beef and feed the fodder to the animals which produce lots of good milk.

"After we have good cows the question arises 'How can we feed them as to produce the best results with the least money? One way is for the farmer to raise more clover and alfalfa. In the last few years the price of bran has risen from $5 to $15 a ton. Bran contains large quantities of protein which is indispensible to the production of milk. Farmers have learned, however, clover and alfalfa contain protein, and these crops are very profitable. A ton of alfalfa contains as much protein as a ton of bran. An acre of good land will produce five tons of alfalfa which at the present price of bran would mean $75 an acre for the farmer.

"But the problem is not solved when the farmer gets the milk. He must know how to take care of it. It should be aerated and cooled before being sent to the creamery. Fresh milk is heated at a temperature of from 98 to 100 degrees, the temperature of the animal. If the milk at this temperature is poured immediately into a can and covered up, it decomposes unusually and is not fit for butter or anything else.

The Baltimore & Ohio R. R. offers very low round trip rates from Chicago to Boston, June 25, 26 and 27 account meeting First Church of Christ Scientists and July 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 account National Educational Association.

Chicago to Baltimore, Md., July 18 and 19 account National meeting, Grand Lodge B. P. O. Elks. Ticket Office, 214 Clark St., Chicago.

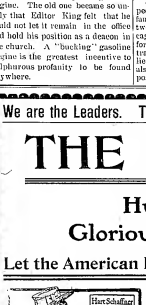
R. C. Haase, N. W. P. A. B. N. Austin, G. P. A. St Paul, Minn. Chicago.

We are the Leaders. The only up to date Clothiers in Red Lake Co.

THE SURPRISE

Hurrah for the Glorious Fourth of July

Let the American Eagle Flap her Wings and Scream



Of course you are going to celebrate? But you cannot celebrate unless you have one of those fine suits made by Hart, Schaffner and Marx, makers of fine clothes. They are superior to any clothing that is on the market. They are handmade with patent shoulders and lapels, always retain their shape, and are absolutely made better than the average custom made garment.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS

WE have just received a new and complete line of gent's furnishings for the holiday trade, including all the very latest novelties in ties, hosiery, gloves, suspenders, handkerchiefs, negilgee shirts in all shades and patterns, in fact we are showing everything that is necessary for the comfort of a gentleman.

OUR HAT DEPARTMENT

WE are showing the celebrated Hawes Hat in all the different shapes and colors. Wear a Hawes Hat and you will always be in line and up-to-date.

BOYS' CLOTHING

COMPLETE is our boys' and childrens' department in two- and three-piece suits, blouses and Norfolk, sAnd in fact anything that is usually found in an up-to-date store.

Berthon & Armstrong

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

Red Lake County Courier

JOHN E. KING, Editor and Proprietor.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Just now the fireworks man is not complaining of poor business.

If this keeps up the bonding companies will insert the query: "Were you ever in the postal service?"

Eb Huntington remarks that some people are out of business because they can't find something new to fret about.

Herr Most is now advising anarchists to uphold the flag and constitution of the United States. Is it possible that the millenium is here?

The star routers might as well acknowledge the corn. As grafters they do not stand diecce-high with those modern disciples of Perry Heath.

A Chicago man was fined recently for calling a woman a "rubber-neck." Are we getting back to the chivalrous days when knights were bold?

Windstorms and cyclones have not wrought the usual havoc this year, but this deficiency in the number of killed and maimed is made up by the automobile race.

According to the Albert Lea Standard some men like to see all their neighbors go to church—so they can do odd jobs about the place without being caught at it.

A New York woman, whose corset steel deflected a bullet and saved her life, will not be convinced that corsets are unhealthful, no matter what the doctors may say.

The announcement recently made that the average fashionable June wedding costs $1,400 will go a long way towards accounting for the present trend toward "race suicide."

Charles Emory Smith ought to edit the protection rot for the Republican party in the next campaign. He is a pastmaster in the art of making explanations that do not explain.

While President Roosevelt is cleaning house he might as well investigate some of the other departments. It is scarcely tenable that all the corruption is confined to a single bureau of the public service.

According to the Crookston Times Carrie Nation intimates that, when she was in Crookston last some one swiped her pocket book—in a saloon. Carrie should have some one rush the growler for her next time she comes to Crookston.

Some of our gray-beards, notably Eb. Huntington and H. G. Day seem to be greatly interested in the cheese cloth shirtwaist. If these fellows don't quit poking fun the dear girls may take them off and "the good old summer time" will be shy another attraction.

Mary McFadden observes that "the lynching of negroes is no longer a matter of locality. Neither, alas, is the devilish crime which is usually followed by a lynching. Strong trials, alert officers and speedy and terrible justice for the guilty fiend, might serve to discourage both crimes."

Political parties have a habit of changing front once in a while. Seven years ago no one could have accused the Republican party of maintaining an unfriendly attitude toward the trusts, nor charged that the money power had a voice in the Democratic councils. How fast today, my brother?

Shaver, of the Kasson Republican, is just back from Washington, and the editorial mind has been following unusual channels ever since. Just listen to this:

When every girl pins a flower on a young man's coat she always tilts her chin and looks at it sideways, and the fellow who doesn't take a tumble then had best stay indoors when a funeral is passing for fear of being run over by the hearse.

Here are some definitions from an unknown source that will be quite generally appreciated:

Bear—Better than a bore.
Ball—A mother's auction room.
Blush—Decidedly out of fashion.
Brute—Pet name for a husband.
Bachelor—Far safer than a married man.
Business—Intolerable when one's own.

If the heinous crimes for which Judge Lynch usually metes out punishment would be as prevalent in the North as they are in the South there would probably be as many illegal necktie parties and stake-burnings here as there. If the lynching habit has heretofore been confined to the country south of Mason and Dixon's line, it must also be admitted that the vast majority of outrages have been committed there. So there is not much geography in the question, after all.

The Adrian Democrat man pays its compliments to the "knocker" in the following language:

The "knocker" is worse than the pestilence, famine, fire or flood. He kills enthusiasm, obstructs enterprise, paralyzes efforts and withers confidence. He is an excrescence on the body politic, a foul, eating, cancerous tumor, which absorbs the vitality of the community and gives nothing in return. His mission is to sit and sneer and discredit, and discourage, to croak and predict failure and disaster, to thwart endeavor and impugn the motives of men. Yet he is the first to jump in and enjoy the fruits of the work of others. He should be stung out of the hives of industry by the workers and given to understand that he is a cumberer on the face of the earth.

The country editor is prone to "slop over" occasionally in writing a marriage notice. Here is an example from the Waubay Clipper:

Would that our pen had been plucked from some beautiful bird of paradise and dipped in the eye of a rainbow, that we might fittingly describe the beautiful marriage scene enacted at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Davis of Strand at o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, June 10, 1903. Just as the day god, clothed in magesty sublime, had started on its downward course toward the western sea, shedding his galaxy of quivering, golden beams o'er the rejoicing earth—it was then that the chords of confidence, hope and love, binding the hearts of Ell[illegible]ick Guernsey and Beatrice Davis were indelibly traced upon the scroll [illegible] and the sacred seal of holy matrimony placed thereon.

THREE NEGROES LYNCHED

A Mob Overpowers a Jailer at Newton, Ga., Takes Victims Out, and Strings Them Up.

KILLED FOR MURDERING WHITE MAN.

Race Riot in Delaware Growing Out of the Burning to Death of a Colored Man Who Assaulted and Murdered a Young Girl—Many Shots Are Fired and Several Wounded.

Albany, Ga., June 27.—Three negroes, Garfield McCoy, Geo. McKinney and Wm. Wiley were taken from jail at Newton, Baker county, and hanged to a tree and riddled with bullets. The three men were in jail for killing F. S. Bullard, a white man, who was called to quell a row at a negro dance near his house one night last week. When the mob went to the jail and took him they had another prisoner to lodge in jail. When the jailer reached the jail door with his keys the mob rushed upon him and overpowered him.

Race Riot.

Wilmington, Del., June 28.—A race riot growing out of the lynching of George White negro here shortly after nine o'clock yesterday. About 400 negroes participated and hundreds of shots were fired. It is now probable that the national guard will be called out to preserve order. About 200 shots were fired between white and blacks, resulting in two officers and a negro being wounded.

Quiet Restored.

Wilmington, Del., June 29. — This city is in its normal condition, the excitement over the lynching of George White and the events following the burning having disappeared. The closing of the saloons had a good effect. There were no drunken brawls and the police were not called upon to quell any disturbances. The liquor dealers have heartily acquiesced in the closing movement, and they are being commended generally by the citizens for sacrificing business for the protection and order of the city. The precautionary plans adopted by the police a few days ago will be kept in force until all danger of further lawlessness is past.

ANOTHER FEUD VICTIM.

Fight in Breathitt County, Ky., in Which One Man Is Killed and Two Wounded.

Jackson, Ky., June 29.—In a feud fight Saturday night near Daisy Dell, Breathitt county, Hiram Barnett was killed and John Henry Hecker and Joseph Hecker were seriously wounded. The men with Samuel and Silas Barnett met at the home of Miss Lelia Barns, niece of Burns Fitzpatrick, who was the only juror against the conviction of Curtis Jett. While discussing the course of Juror Fitzpatrick, John Henry Hecker, the friend of Miss Barns, resented what was said and all soon began shooting. There have been no arrests and no one can tell who fired the shots taking effect.

Died in the Poorhouse.

Stamford, Conn., June 28.—David L. Vanderheyden, 73 years of age, who claimed to have been a personal friend of Roscoe Conkling, died at the town farm Sunday of heart disease. A number of years ago Vanderheyden was a prominent citizen of Utica, N. Y., and was considered quite wealthy. He says here four years ago and his fortune was disposed of so rapidly that he has been living on the town farm for some time.

Two Drowned.

Stone City, Ia., June 29.—While John Sneve and his sister Dora and Mike Lee and Miss Thena Waldum were boating on the Stone river Sunday afternoon they got in the wake of the excursion steamer Zaria and their boat was overturned. Sneve and his sister were rescued, but Lee and Miss Waldum were drowned. The bodies have not been recovered.

Killed by the Cars.

Springfield, O., June 28.—A buggy in which two men were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania express near St. Paris shortly before midnight and both the occupants instantly killed. The train was on a down grade and was running at a high rate of speed. The bodies, frightfully mangled, were taken to Urbana and could not be identified.

Suicide of Aged Couple.

Chicago, June 25.—Albert Sontags and his wife took poison in their home in Steger, a southern suburb, Tuesday afternoon. It is believed that they made an agreement to end their lives because they could not live without quarreling. Their condition was discovered late Tuesday night, and both died in a short time.

Saloon Smasher Fined.

Topeka, Kan., June 25.—Miss Rhinnie Boles, previously convicted of smashing saloon windows in Topeka on February 14 last, was Wednesday fined by District Judge Hazen for 30 days in the county jail and to pay a fine of $100. Miss Boles is a follower of Carrie Nation.

Spent Millions.

St. Louis, June 26.—The World's Fair company has expended in actual cash $8,150,000 up to the first of the present month, as shown by the report of the auditing committee of the national commission at work here.

Broke All Records.

New London, Conn., June 28.—For the first time on record Yale yesterday triumphed over Harvard in all three of their boat races in the annual regatta on the Thames.

TURNERS AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Many People Witness Gymnastic Tournament—Societies from Many States Present.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 30.—Five thousand people witnessed the gymnastic tournament of the North American Turnerbund and Gymnastic association Sunday afternoon and night. Tournament continued Monday when the prizes were awarded. Two thousand Turners were here from Chicago, Fort Wayne, South Bend, Evansville and Terre Haute. Participating in the spectacular staff drill were ten societies including the Chicago South Side Turnverein, Central Turners of Calmgo, Fort Wayne, Evansville, Terre Haute and South Bend. In the gymnastic contests the entries and number of men were:

Chicago Turners, 28; Central Turners of Chicago, 20; South Side Turners, of Chicago, 20; Fort Wayne, 12; Terre Haute, 10; Evansville, 10; Louisville, 12; Social Turners and South Side Turners, of the city, 36.

The winners of the field events were: Broad jump—Otto Kaeia, South Side Chicago Turners, first, 20 feet 7 inches; Max Emmerich, Indianapolis Turners, second, 20 feet 4 inches. One hundred yard dash—Won by Max Emmerich, Indianapolis. Time 10 2-5 seconds.

CELEBRATION IS BEGUN.

Two Hundredth Anniversary of Birth of Wesley Commemorated by New England Methodists.

Boston, June 30.—A two days' celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Wesley by the Methodists of the New England conference was begun Monday. In preparing for the event the conference committee planned to make the meetings significant by bringing together representatives of the three branches of the Methodist church in North America, including those of the Methodist-Episcopal church, south, and the Methodist church in Canada. The efforts of the committee were successful, and Bishop Charles H. Fowler, of Buffalo, of the north; Bishop Eugene R. Hendrix, of Kansas City, from the south and Rev. A. Carman, from Canada, were among the leading speakers. The general programme of the days included tributes to Wesley from representatives of other denominations at the opening session, and at other meetings addresses by Rev. Mr. Carman, of Canada; Bishop Hendrix, Rev. George Jackson, of Edinburgh, Scotland; Rev. W. F. Hallsilleux, resident bishop of New England, and Bishop Fowler.

FIRES INTO A CAR.

Six Persons Injured in Pennsylvania by Negro Believed to Be Semi-Lunatic.

Media, Pa., June 30.—Six persons have been shot and severely wounded in a trolley car between Media and Chester. A negro, believed to have been seeking revenge because the conductor of the car recently had him discharged both barrels of a shotgun at the car as it passed a lonely spot in the country.

The car was crowded and the shots, coming from the dark roadside, caused a wild fright among the passengers, most of whom were women. Four of the shots were among the wounded. They received shots about the arms and chest. The negro fled from a clump of bushes and in the excitement which ensued made his escape.

PRESIDENT AT HOME.

Henry Rain Keeps Him Indoors—Secretaries Getting Summer Offices Ready.

Oyster Bay, N. H., June 30.—Rain in a heavy continuous downpour kept the president indoors at Sagamore Hill Monday. Early in the day Secretary Loeb went to the Roosevelt house and the president and he spent nearly three hours in the handling of mail and the transaction of executive business.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, took luncheon with the president and Mrs. Roosevelt. His call was purely social.

The executive offices in the Moore block were opened for business Monday and Secretaries Loeb and Barnes were busily engaged in getting them into shape for their summer's work.

Heavy Storm in New York.

New York, June 30.—One of the heaviest rainstorms of the season prevailed here Monday and much damage was done to buildings along the water front on South and West streets. Merchants and metchants improvised dams to keep the flood out of cellars. In many streets the car tracks were submerged. In the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn street car traffic for a time was impeded and at Wallabout street and Harrison avenue the water was five feet deep. Police reserves were called to protect the few school children that ventured out. Lightning struck Tammany hall, but the damage to the building was trifling.

Loss by Fire.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 30.—Fire of unknown origin visited Willkinsburg, a suburb of Pittsburg, early Monday and destroyed W. F. Younck's planing mill, Firmin's ink factory, William Murdoch's dwelling, R. B. Gunsette's blacksmith shop and R. Swisehelm's stable. The loss was $75,000.

Jury Is Secured.

Hamilton, O., June 30.—A jury was secured in the Alfred A. Knapp murder trial at 11:30 o'clock, and the opening statements of counsel were made. The theory which the defense denied that Knapp admits his guilt, which shows that Knapp's confession to the sheriff and others will be repudiated.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

We Give You a Pipe

for your money that is a better value by far than you can obtain elsewhere. Our new line of pipes, and tobaccos to go with them, are pleasing to see and nicer to possess.

New Pipes New Tobaccos New Novelties

J. B. Cigar Co., Wholesalers and Retailers

THE FALLS MEAT MARKET

Opposite Grand View Hotel. Groshong & Blake, Props

Fresh and Salt Meats.

Strictly First-Class In Every Respect

Telephone Your Order to Number 19.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable

JOS. NORMANDIN, Prop.

Nobby Turnouts - - Good Drivers
Give Us a Call.

O. K. SALOON

Is the Place to Go for Choice
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS.

J. E. BRAY

N. SWANSON,

LAMBERT, MINN.,
Headquarters for Everything in the line of
GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Your Patronage Solicited.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they unite the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

PREPARED BY
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO
Don't Forget the Name.

EARLY RISERS

The World's Largest Docks.

The Liverpool docks will hold 20,000 vessels of ordinary dimensions; those of London about 12,000.

T. L. BLOOD & CO.'S
VINDEX
FLOOR PAINT
DRIES WHILE YOU GAZE
(SOLD BY DEALERS)
St. Paul, Minn.

SOLD BY W. A. SCHREITER.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS AT THE RED LAKE FALLS POSTOFFICE

Mail arrives daily at 12:30 p. m.
Outgoing mail for Thief River Falls closes at 11:25 a. m.
Outgoing mail for all other points closes at 4:30 p. m.
Mail leaves office Sundays at 1:00 p. m.
Mail from Lambert, Brooks and Terrebonne arrives daily except Sunday at 12:00 m and departs at 1:00 p. m.
Office hours from 8:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m.
Sundays from 12:00 to until 1:00 p. m.
Mail will be received and dispatched on trains Daily and by stage Sundays.

E. F. MARSHALL, P. M.

JOSEPH BELAIR,
Licensed Auctioneer.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.
If you contemplate holding a public sale come and see me

THE UNITED STATES
FIDELITY & GUARANTY
COMPANY
Total Cash Resources Over $2,500,000
Fidelity Bonds,
Court Bonds, Contract Bonds
BALTIMORE, MD.
F. A. GRADY, Agent, Red Lake Falls.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

50 Years of Success
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY W&W SEWING MACHINE
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Particolous ball heat regulated perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.
Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.
FRANK E. HUNT, Agent.

Clearwater Lodge No. 133. I. O. O. F.
MEETS EVERY SATURDAY EVENING.
VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
F. A. Whitney, H. Hugo-smith, Wm. Schwaler
N. G. V. G. Secy.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madam Moffatt
Moffatt Co., Madison, Wis. It makes you well. Cures your ills. Makes you strong. Makes you happy. Cures Sick Headache, Nervousness, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Impure Blood, Female Weakness, Pimples, Boils, Debility, Dizziness, Kidney Troubles, Backache, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Malaria, Fever and Ague, Liver Complaint

W—D

Ledgers
Journals
Day Books
Legal Blanks
Notes and Receipts
Papetries
Tablets
Ibetter Files
Copying Books
Paper Fasteners
Pencils and Pens
Rubber Bands
Envelopes
Photo Mailers
Pen Racks
Rubber Stamp Pads
Dating Pads
Portfolios
Playing Cards
Typewriter Oils
Typewriter Papers
Erasers
Rulers
Galling Cards
Card Racles
Office Pins
Memorandum Books

Everything in the Line of Stationery and Office . . . Supplies . . . . . .

COURIER . . . STATIONERY STAND . . .

Prices Guaranteed to be Satisfactory

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Evening at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance

NEARLY a billion dollars in water has been squeezed out of American stocks during the past month, but the Red River valley hasn't got much of it.

KENTUCKY reports the death of a centenarian. A man must necessarily be a good shot to reach such a ripe old age down where the blue grass grows.

MARCONI might find a sale for one of his wireless telegraph outfits in Servia. It is not unlikely that the new King Peter would prefer to do his reigning in that way.

NOT until a Democratic congress took hold of the matter was there a successful prosecution of the "star route" frauds and the Commoner wonders if this isn't a hint to the people concerning the present postal frauds.

JOHN P. COUGHLIN, formerly editor of the Faribault Pilot, has purchased the Perham Enterprise of Senator M. J. Daly. Mr. Coughlin is an able newspaper man and can be depended upon to make a success of his new venture.

We like best to call
SCOTT'S EMULSION
a food because it stands so emphatically for perfect nutrition. And yet in the matter of restoring appetite, of giving new strength to the tissues, especially to the nerves, its action is that of a medicine.

Send for free sample.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl St., New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE

WALL STREET, NEW YORK, ON BLACK FRIDAY.

THE most remarkable financial panic this country has ever known occurred on what is called "Black Friday," Friday, September 24, 1869. Gould and Fisk had cornered a scheme for controlling the gold of the country, and Gould had bought about $5,000,000 worth of the yellow metal, representing more than one-half of all there was in the country outside of the national treasury. They then convinced President Grant that the government should hold on to what gold it had. The scarcity this created forced gold up until on the above date it had reached 164 and hundreds of men had been ruined by the advance. At this point the government threw $4,000,000 of gold onto the market and the price dropped at once to 133. While hundreds of men were reduced to beggary the perpetrators of the scheme made a profit of about $13,000,000.

IN MINNESOTA 110 postmasters will have their salaries increased, and only three will draw less than they do the current year. Of those increased 95 will draw $100 more and fifteen $200 more; the three reductions will be for $100 each.

PAGE MORRIS is boosting Frank Eddy for the governorship, and the Princeton Union sarcastically remarks that it was owing to Mr. Eddy's herculean efforts that Mr. Morris contested the old Sixth district three terms in congress.

PAGE MORRIS, of Duluth, will assume his duties as a federal judge for the Minnesota district in St. Paul July 1, where he will qualify and immediately enter upon his new duties by assisting Judge Lochren with the cases on the June calendar.

IT may not be generally known that under the late law the judge of probate is made the custodian of wills for safe keeping, and is required by law to enter them in a book to be provided for that purpose and to give to the party depositing the same a certificate that the same has been deposited in his office. .

FROM the best figures obtainable, the loss of life occasioned by the recent floods and cloud bursts in the U. S. amounts to 845. These are distributed as follows: Topeka, 80; Kansas City, 40; East St. Louis, 20; Iowa, 35; Gainsville Ga., 110; Spartanburg, S. C., 60; Heppner, Ore., 500. Fully 60,000 people have been made homeless, and the property destroyed is estimated at $36,000,000! This is a fearful record to have been made in less than one month.

SOCIALISM, while good in theory is impossible of realization in a thousand years, observes the Albert Lea Standard. It is successfully applied in respect to government, state and municipal ownership or control of public utilities is the administration of other benefits, but to undertake to wholly abolish individual ownership is impracticable, and at the present stage of human progress would be unwise and demoralizing. But the socialist movement is educational and in its way and in a large degree is reformatory, and thus in the mighty scheme of evolution is doing a great work and conferring manifold benefits upon mankind.

NO ONE seems to be aware that a joint American-Mexican monetary commission is now in London and will also call upon the governments of Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg, and The Hague for the purpose of urging the adoption of the international measures to raise silver-using countries to a gold exchange standard giving thereby stability to commerces. The aim, as we understand it, is to do away with the present trade risks and uncertainties due to the fluctuations of silver. There is no politics and no "bimetallism" in this—merely a business arrangement in the interest of merchants who have business with silver-using countries.

THE innocent looking sore is undoubtedly one of the most important factors in the late state of Minnesota, says the Anoka Free Press. Her mills and timber products during the present year alone will aggregate from seventeen and a half to eighteen million dollars—more than the entire tax collections of Minnesota for the past eight years, and more than enough to pay the wages of every school teacher in the state for a period of of five years. Considering the limited cost of her keep the year around the value in dollars and cents of her annual product, she constitutes the most profitable feature of agricultural life, and consequently the chief corner stone under general prosperity.

THIS week's installment of postal scandals is, unfortunately, not the last one. Besides the rumors of further and more astonishing disclosures, it is officially announced that the report of the postmaster-general on existing conditions will be ready for public use in time for the president, with appropriate comment. This should be an interesting document. The Bristow report on the Tulloch charges, it should be remembered, is ancient history concerning a previous administration. What the public is now interested in is the truth or falsity of the charge that there was a regularly organized syndicate which has been robbing the government of a fixed percentage on all postal contracts.

A CLEVELAND interview appeared in the newspapers last Friday which represented the ex-president as nutting from himself all idea of another candidacy for the presidency. While there was nothing particularly new in the interview, Mr. Cleveland promptly announced that "in some respects it is grossly inaccurate," thus restoring the status quo ante. If Mr. Cleveland's character and temperament did not militate against the idea, we should hold to the opinion that while he knew and desired himself to be out of the race, he was unwilling to give his enemies the satisfaction that a positive announcement to that effect would carry with it. His present position is simply that he is not seeking and does not expect another nomination. But he has not said that he would not take it.

FEW things have a more depressing influence than a constant cough. It is a constant reminder of that dread disease, consumption. Cole's cough cure stops the cough by curing the cause. Guaranteed. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

The Largest Office Building.

